A HEARTY WELCOME TO RETURNED SOLDIER

Citizens Turn Out En Masse to Express Their Joy at Home-coming of Sergeant Chas. A. Gibson—Laden Autos Fill Street in Front of Victoria Avenue Residence, from Where Procession Starts—Ladies Present Beautiful Bouquet of Flowers

The demonstration last night accorded to Sergt. Charles A. Gibson of this city, a returned hero from the front, was of such a nature as to exceed the sanguine expectation of his numerous friends in the city. The popular Sergeant who arrived home on Sunday in a rather unexpectedly manner, will remain here on furlough for a few weeks.

When it became generally known that Sergt. Gibson had arrived home it was decided that he should be tendered an ovation, and last night he was certainly given one. Friends including Mayor Ketcheson yesterday got busy and the fruits of their labor was apparent.

At a few minutes after 7 o'clock the I.O.O.F. band, the members of which gratitiously rendered their services, left the armouries and was followed by a number of automobiles, one of which was decorated with a union jack. The parade grew in length as it proceeded on its way to Sergt. Gibson's residence on Victoria avenue. The popular sergeant as he came out of the house, was loudly cheered, and at once escorted by Mayor Ketcheson to an automobile. Seated in a rear seat of the auto with him was his father, Mr. Robt. Gibson, and father-in-law, Mr. James Marshall. The car was driven by Mr. Blaylock, who is also a returned soldier, and beside him sat Capt. Eddie O'Flynn, who came home a few days ago.

A procession was then formed, headed by the band, and it proceded down Victoria avenue to Front street, up Front street to the upper bridge, where it was joined by the two hose carts and ladder truck of the fire department with Chief Brown in command. The hose carts and truck were tastefully decorated with flags and bunting. The parade then proceeded down Front street, up Bridge street east to Charles street, and thence down Victoria avenue to the point of starting. On the line of march the streets were crowded with citizens, who cheered and cheered as the auto bearing the brave sergeant passed by. It was an inspiring scene, and one that will linger long in the memory of those who were privileged to participate in it.

Arriving at the Sergeant's home, Mayor Ketcheson spoke briefly, referring to the pleasure it gave the citizens to welcome home again Charles Gibson, who had done his bit for King and Country. It was owing to such heroes that our Canadian homes were free from the invasion of the enemy.

Mr. E. G. Porter K.C., M.P., and Sir Mackenzie Bowell were called upon, and both speakers spoke eulogistically of Sergt. Gibson and the valuable services he had rendered for his country.

Sergt. Gibson in a few well chosen remarks, returned his heartfelt thanks for the demonstration accorded him. He had only done what he considered was his duty in going to fight for King and Country. (Loud cheering.)

The rendering of the National Anthem by the band brought the pleasing function to a close, and all returned to their respective home conscious of the fact that they had done what was right and fitting.

A pleasing incident of the event was the present by ladies of the Rainbow Patriotic Association of a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

Canada Asked For More Army Lumbermen

Two More Forestry Units Will Fulfil Britain's Present Needs --Bring Strength to 3,600

OTTAWA, July 31.—It is expected that the two forestry battalions now being raised in Canada, the 238th and 246th, will provide all the lumbermen that will be needed for operations in the Old Country, in addition to the 1,550 men already there—members of the 224th Battalion. The three battalions will have a total strength of over 3,600 men, who will be able to cut a lot of wood.

The 224th is doing most of its work in the north of Scotland cutting Scotch pine. There is a company at work in the park at Windsor Castle, cutting trees there, and a third company at New Forest. There is a party in a camp near Dover and some men still at Bramshott.

The new battalions will likely be sent to France. Lieut.-Col. White was over the ground there and found a great deal of timber suitable for lumbering, so that it is likely, if not all, at least the majority of the men now joining will soon be laying low the trees in France.

Eight sawmills have been sent from Canada to England, six for the 224th Forestry Battalion and two for the Forestry Committee in England, which has supervision over the lumbering operations there during the war. They are mills typical of the Canadian lumbering industry and are generally known in Canada as portable mills, although they cannot be transported with the facility of most mills which carry the name "portable." They are entirely new to the British Isles and their wonderful efficiency is said to be causing much interest. They each have a capacity of from 15,000 to 20,00 feet a day and include the edgar, slash saw, saws for making railway ties, etc., in addition to their big 56-inch circular saw. They have 40 horsepower locomotive boilers.

Twelve Dead in Jersey Fire

Explosion Destroys Munitions Valued at Five Million Dollars--Two Men in Custody

NEW YORK, July 31—Two men are under arrest to-day on warrants charging them with manslaughter in indirectly causing the death of one of the victims of terriffic explosion of ammunition on Black Tom pier early yesterday. Estimates of the casualty early today placed the number of dead at three, with three others mortally injured, thirty-five suffering from less serious injuries and eleven to twenty missing. Estimates of the property loss range from $25,000,000 to $45,000,000.

Many persons who were on board barges moored at the burned piers are missing and it is feared that they have perished. In some quarters it was believed that total number of dead would reach twelve.

Those under arrest were Albert M. Dickman, agent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, stationed at Black Tom pier; and Alexander Davidson, superintendent of the warehouses of the National Storage Co., thirteen of which were destroyed by the fire which followed the explosions.

Allies Have Set The Pace

Germans and Austrians Are at Present on Defensive on all Fronts--Counting Cost of War

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Special—A war correspondent who has had to make a short vacation, tells me that we get a much better perspective of the war here than in France. He has had some never-to-be-forgotten experiences that have made every nerve in his body pulsate, but these sensations have touched narrow sections of the field. In London the different features can be grouped and the action and reaction of military and economic circumstances in Europe can be roughly gauged. Two facts make the military outlook for the allies highly encouraging. At last we have got the initiative. With a single exception of the conflict at Verdun, the allies are setting the pace; Germans and Austrians alike are on the defensive. Secondly, by the concurrent assaults on all fronts we are making it practically impossible for the enemy to transfer large bodies of men from one theatre to another. It is true that the heaviest weight is put against the British. This is a compliment we appreciate and hope duly to recognize. The greater the demand made upon us the greater the eventual triumphs. The long line of Red Cross and Waterloo stations tells how arduous is the conflict. But we know from the German prisoners that our blows have not only been smashing, but absolutely awe-inspiring. They say that Verdun is not in it with the tornado which we create.

THIRD YEAR TO SEE VICTORY FOR ALLIES

Great Obstacles Have Been Overcome—Enemy Prevented From Gaining Decision Until Britain Became Prepared to Take Her Place in Great Co-operative Allied Move

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, Aug. 1.—Special—At the close of two years of war and of the first month of the British offensive, Sir Douglas Haig, Commander-in-chief of the group of British armies in France, speaking of the situation, laid particular emphasis on the fact that the beginning of the third year of war saw the initiative entirely with the Allies on all fronts, while Britain for the first time was exerting something like the power worthy of her numbers and resources on land.

"The tide has turned," he said, "Time has been with the Allies from the first. It is only a question of more time till we win a decisive victory, which is the one sure way to bring peace in this as in other wars. Until this victory is won it ill becomes a British soldier in France to think of peace."

Those who have had freedom along the battle lines during the last four weeks have had glimpses of the youthful and scholarly features of Sir Douglas in passing his automobile on dusty roads, in the thick of the moving troops and transports, and again of his athletic figure alighting from his car at the headquarters of one of the army commanders for a conference.

But mostly his time is spent in a quiet room in the small chateau which forms his personal headquarters. In the centre of this room, where he had a talk with the correspondent, was a raised map of the region of the present offensive, with every detail; roads, woods, villages, trenches, ridges and valleys and all contours revealed at a glance.

COERCION NOT TO BE APPLIED

Neither Ulster Nor Rest of Ireland To Suffer Compulsion --To Delay Home Rule

LONDON, August 1.—Special—After a discussion of the attitude of the British Government towards Ireland during the remainder of the war, the House of Commons last night allowed a resolution of John Dillon asking a disclosure of ministerial intentions in regard to that island to pass without a division.

As both sides agreed that Ulster was not to be coerced, the discussion was inclined to be tame. The Premier said that home rule was on the statute book and it would there remain.

The Premier also explained that a new Irish secretary was being appointed to take up his residence in Ireland but that no new Irish lieutenant had been named, and that for the time being there woudl be none appointed.

In introducing his motion John Dillon said he had entered into negotiations with David Lloyd George for a solution of the Irish question most unwillingly, knowing the enormous difficulties they had before them in getting their own supporters to agree to any terms for a compromise. Besides this, there was the enormous opportunity it would give various factions in Ireland that had been assailing the power of the Nationalist leader to make the government of Ireland hopelessly impossible if he could not secure the support of the Irish people for the settlement.

Hostile Airships Over England

Fly at Great Height—No Casualties From Bombs Known So Far

Canadian Press Special.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—An official report says last night between ten and midnight, our eastern and south-eastern counties were attacked by several hostile airships. The raiders flew to a great height, and owing to this and to patches of mist, their movements gave rise to much uncertainty, and their number was difficult to determine. At least six ships could be reckoned by observers, and it is probable one more flew over the country without dropping bombs. The majority of bombs fell in a thinly inhabited district. About sixty have been found. There were no casualties whatever.

THE NORTHERN ONTARIO DEATH LIST GROWS

Many Stories of Heroism Told By Refugees—Men Milk Cows To Keep Babies Alive—Nine-Year-Old Girl Saves Two Babies--Injured Conveyed To Liskeard Hospital

COBALT, Aug. 1.—It will be many days before a complete list of the dead in the Northern Ontario fires can be obtained. A few of the people known to be dead around Matheson are: Mrs. McKnight, Mrs. Bannerman, Mrs. Small, Mrs. Robinson, J. Schmidt, Tom Little, Ray Wildman, sen., B. Carey, J. Stack, J. and Mrs. Elvin and two daughters, the little daughter of Mrs. Whittier, and Miss Della Labelle of Wahtaybeg.

The list cannot but be long and dreadful. The fire pounced on Matheson like a tiger. One woman went to a store to do some shopping and she was caught there with two children, away from the rest of her people, who were only at the other end of the street. But the worst shambles are at Nushka. Ties in the Wahtaybeg bridge were burnt out and trains got through for the first time only last night, but the section foreman said his crew counted fifty-seven bodies lying dead on the right of way, and they had to push the dead out of the way to get the hand-car through. Out of a population of 300, only eight can be accounted for.

Outside Matheson in one root-house there were sixteen people suffocated to death as they stood. On Fromm's farm, which is sandy and well cleared, survivors say twenty-five people took refuge. In an ordinary fire this farm would have escaped, but the wall of flames did not spare them, and they lie in heaps.

Bill Fairburn, a stalwart prospector, who undoubtedly saved many ilves on that awful Saturday, gives a most vivid description of the fire.

"It came," he said, "sped by a howling tornado, a living wave of flame, travelling at sixty miles an hour, and nothing lived in its wake. Matheson was in flames in a few minutes. I rushed all the women and children I could find to a freight train on a siding and sent them out as fast as I could. Others went down to Black River and stayed there. In Matheson itself no one was lost, but the slaughter was terrible in outside districts. The stone station did not escape, and the freight sheds went up when boxes of dynamite took fire. Crops are burned, and what stock are left have nothing to eat."

Fairburn, with his helpers, rounded up all the cows they could find, and, unaccustomed as they were, milked them to keep the babies alive.

One of the search parties, just outside Matheson, found brave little Ettie McCallum, only nine years of age, still guarding two babies she had saved out of the fire. She was badly burned around the legs, but did not complain. She was brought down to New Liskeard Hospital and will probably recover. Half a dozen men, badly burned and almost blind, are now in New Liskeard Hospital.

Officers Elected By Orange Lodge

Toward the close of the Grand Orange Lodge convention, which terminated at Tornto on Saturday afternoon, the following officers were elected:

Grand Master, M. W. Bro. Dr. D. D. Ellis, Fleming, Sask., (re-elected by acclamation.)

Grand Secretary, M. W. Bro. William Lee, Toronto, (re-elected by acclamation).

Deputy Grand Treasurer, H. C. Hocken, Toronto.

Grand Chaplain, M. W. Bro. Rev. Ward Waite, Charlottetown, P.E.I.

Grand Lecturer of British America, Brig.-Gen. Guthrie, Fredericton, N B.

All Installed

These officers were installed immediately after the election by Past Grand Master Judge Scott and the re-elected grand officers.

The report of the correspondence committee, which was introduced by Rev. H. A. Fish of Owen Sound, was adopted in the morning. In regard to bilingualism, the committee heartily approved the speech made by Grand Master Ellis in this connection.

"The happy solution of the many difficulties that faced the Manitoba Government in the settlement of the prevailing conditions has been widely recommended by the grand master and your committee heartily concur in the same," was the first paragraph of the report.

They were of the opinion that the phrase, "the three falsehoods," adopted by the grand master in his reference to the alleged bilingualism issue in Ontario, as set forth by the Bourassa school, was destined to "stick."

History's Sad Story

In connection with the war, the committee said: "In this war of righteousness for freedom, the rulers and the peoples of the empires stand together and display an honesty, an unselfishness without precedent. The Canadian Government is doing its best and doing it exceedingly well. That there are breaks in the almost unbroken fronts of Canadian service is regrettable, but history tells a sad story of disloyalty and shame in recording Britain's struggle in bygone days, which makes the shortcomings of to-day seem as nothing."

"The existence of our order and its great work is an aid in the promotion of love and loyalty. The cost of the war is fearful. But righteousness is the supreme good for any nation. No cost is too great to secure and retain it"

A committee was appointed to compile a history of the Orange Order from its first introduction into Canada.

It was unanimously decided that the convention next year should be held in Charlottetown, P.E.I., and in all probability the lodge will go to Alberta in 1918.

Resolutions of thanks to the mayor and controllers and the citizens of Toronto for the excellent entertainment given the officers and delegates were carried.

FRENCH MARKSMAN BRINGS DOWN HIS FIFTH GERMAN AIRSHIP

Canadian Press Special.

PARIS, August 1.—Afternoon statement—Aviation-Aviator Lenoir brought down an enemy areoplane, which fell within its own lines north of Verdun. It was the fifth machine brought down by Lenoir.

Another German aeroplane was attacked by our machines near Etain and fell shattered to the ground. North of Somme the enemy did not resume his attacks during the night. North of the Avre, after a violent bombardment, the Germans attempted to carry out two coup-de-mains on our positions in the region of Lihons, which failed under our fire. On the right bank of the Meuse Verdun sector an artillery duel became extremely violent during the night in the region of Thiaumont work. A bombardment with shells of heavy calibre took place at Fumin wood and La Laufee. West of Pont a Moussen, in Fleury sector, the enemy exploded three mines. We occupied the southern edge of three craters in front of our trenches. The night was comparatively quiet on the rest of the front.

Two Drown in Otonabee River

Week-End Visit to Camp Ends in Sad Tragedy—Canoe Upset

(Peterboro' Review)

The Otonabee River at Peterboro', is certainly claiming its toll of victims this year. Two more young men met death in the deep water in front of Crawford's Grove yesterday morning and while the two victims were in the water only a short time, both refused to respond to the artificial respiration which was at once applied, and later the pulmotor was used without success.

It was about five o'clock Sunday morning that the two young men, Oliver Wilder and Russell Mahood, left their camp at the Grove to go for a canoe ride on the river. Both had bathing suits on and were no doubt seeking relief from the excessive heat that prevailed generally on Saturday night and Sunday morning.

Upset Not Seen.

Geo. Paxman, who is in charge of the Government dredge a short distance from the scene of the accident, noticed the young men get into the canoe and paddle out towards the white buoy in the channel. While his attention was drawn away from them an upset occurred. Whether they had collided with the buoy or got careless, will never be known, but both men disappeared in the swift current. Paxman got busy at once and quickly reached Wilder with a pike pole and pulled him to the surface. The young man was taken to shore, where W. D. Fryer, who lives at 296 Frederick Avenue, did his best to revive him by artificial respiration.

Slight traces of life were found, but as the young man had only recently undergone a very serious operation, the weakened condition of the body may have been the reason why the best of efforts were in vain. The pulmotor, in charge of Chief Howard and P. C. Blade, arrived as soon as it was possible to reach the spot, but its efforts were likewise useless.

Mahood's Body Found

In the meantime, Paxman succeeded in recovering the body of Mahood but not the slightest trace of life was to be found.

Oliver W. Wilder was teller in the Bank of Toronto and was very popular with all the officials of the bank, as well as with the business men, who had dealings with him. He lived with is mother and sister at 484 Chamberlain Street.

Russel Mahood was the son of Alexander Mahood, who resides a short distance from Omemee. He was 19 years of age, and always took a great interest in the working of his father's farm.

GERMANY BEATEN

The Nation Knows It, War Prisoners Tell Sir E. Norris

LONDON, July 31.—On his return here from a visit to the British front, Sir Edward Morris, Premier of Newfoundland, said that the German prisoners whom he saw, admitted that their nation had been beaten, but they added that it was impossible to cease fighting, as that would cause a revolution.

Questioned regarding the effect of the heavy casualties in the Newfoundland contingent, Sir Edward replied, that more than double the number lost up to July 1st, had arrived in England from the colony, and they would be followed by an equal number later. The contingent at the front was in excellent condition.

Sir Edward visited numerous hospitals, and stated that some of the Canadian hospitals were the last word in equipment and efficiency of the staffs. He also bore testimony to the courage and fitness of the Canadian troops he had encountered.

Sir Edward Norris was received in Paris by President Poincare and Premier Briand, who expressed their appreciation of the part Newfoundland was playing in the war. Their co-operation, it is felt, will undoubtedly exercise some influence in the ultimate settlement of the fisheries difficulties.

DEUTSCHLAND CREW ASHORE LEAVE AGAIN

BALTIMORE, July 31.—The German submarine Deutschland was still barricaded at her pier late to-night, and the indications are that she will be there for a few more farewell services and banquets.

This morning Captain Koenig went motring with Mr. Paul G. L. Hilken, and had not returned this evening. Captain Hinsch, of the interned North German Lloyd liner Neckar, left the pier in his automobile shortly before noon, and did not return. The officers of the submarine left the ship at various times during the afternoon, and did not return until late at night. Practically all of the crew of the undersea merchantman left the vessel before dusk.

The revenue cutter Apache, anchored off the Baltimore Yacht Club this morning, and this caused much speculation as to the purpose.

The only excitement of the day was the appearance of two big tugs, the Chicago and the Britannia, which, however, carried sightseers. The tugs manoeuvred in and out, but those abroad got not a glimpse of the Deutschland.

Leaves Camp To Attend Funeral of Mrs. Emerson

REGINA, Sask., July 30.—Mrs. W. J. Emmerson was burned to death in the destruction early in the morning, on July 24th, of her farm home, two and one-half miles from Creelman. Her husband was feeding horses in the stable at the time when he heard a sudden scream, and on rushing to the house was unable to enter owing to the flames. He was burned on the arms and face. A gas explosion is thought to be the cause of the fire.

Mrs. W. J. Emmerson, who was burned to death early in the morning of July 24, when her home near Creelman, Sask., was destroyed by fire, following an explosion of a gasoline stove, is a sister of Pte. Arthur K. Lazier, of the One Hundredth Grenadiers, formerly well-known insurance man and connected with the Great West Life insurance Co., in Winnipeg for many years. Pte. Lazier left Sewell this morning for Creelman.

Nicholas Lazier, uncle to Mrs. Emmerson, and his daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Peake, who reside in Transcona, also have gone to Creelman.

Mrs. Minaker, proprietor and editor of the Gladstone (Man.) Age, is Mrs. Emmerson's sister. The balance of the Lazier family resides in California. Mrs. Emmerson was a niece of Col Lazier of Belleville.

WILL NOW WRITE TO TURKISH SULTAN

Wilson Will Call Ottoman Gov't Sharply to Time

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(Special.) —It was stated in official circles today that President Wilson is going to call Turkey sharply to task for her mistreatment of the Christian population of Syria and for the cruelties practised upon the Armenians.

Turkey has not replied to the United States note of July 5. Turkey was warned that continued failure to meet the request of this Government would put a severe strain on her friendly relations with the United States.

Some officials believe President Wilson in the next note to Turkey will insist that provision be made for the relief of the persecuted Christian population of the Turkish Empire or that the United States will sever diplomatic intercourse with that Government.

KILLED IN AUTO SMASH

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

A Nigerian's Aspiration.

An advertisement by an English firm recently appeared in a London daily newspaper for an experienced youth for their office in London. Among the replies received was one from northern Nigeria as follows:

"Having seen your name and address I am more than please to ask for a berth in your office. And also as you state in the paper that you want a good and experienced youth in your office which I beg to office myself in the post. I learn typewriter, but have not yet completed it. Shorthand I have learn, and I can write, but not so fast as a man who can write 100 words in a minute.

"If you want me kindly let me know, and if not let me know same.

"I am a Gold Coast youth of sixteen years.

"I hope you will not fail to do the same.

"Expectantly awaiting to hear from you as timous as ever."—London Spectator.

Desperate Diet.

It is amazing what people will eat at a pinch.

A recent arctic explorer seriously advised the wearing of skin clothing in preference to woolen simply and solely because, if the worst came to the worst, one's outfit could be stewed for a meal or at any rate given to the dogs!

Well, when a man finds enjoyment and a sort of inward satisfaction in a stew made of his vest, his shoelaces and his sledge gear, he must be pretty "peekish," and when he gets back to civilization he will make a model husband, never likely to turn up his nose at cold mutton on washing days.

The bishop of Yukon thinks nothing of eating his boots. He had probably declared he was ready for that operation many a time when he was a boy, but he has actually done it since he came to man's estate—in his case the great gold field of arctic Alaska.—London Answers.

Mere Appetizers.

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the Labrador physician, tells the following amusing story about one of his trips on a komatik, or dog sled.

He and his guide were on the way to a distant village, where a small boy was reported to have "found himself in his stomach," which means in the semi-Chaucerian dialect of Labrador that he was afflicted with indigestion. The guide "cleft the split" (split the wood) and prepared the luncheon of steaming tea and pork buns, one of the few natural foods that really does not freeze.

"Where," inquired Dr. Grenfell, "are the compressed food tablets? I gave you a month's supply this morning."

"Oh," answered the guide impassively, "I ate them after breakfast," and he hungrily bit into his pork bun.

Shaving on One Side.

The shaving on one side only of the heads and beards of prisoners of war was obviously done to prevent any attempt at escape. But there have been other motives for such half shaving, which occurs at all sorts of points in history. Sometimes the act has been pure insult, as when Hanun, king of the children of Ammon, shaved off half of the beards of David's servants. In these days the victims would have mended matters by shaving the other half. But Jewish reverence for the beard forbade that, and David told the men to "tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown." Demosthenes, when he shut himself up for months in a subterranean chamber to practice oratory, shaved half of his head to cut off all temptation to go abroad.—London Chronicle.

The Only Kind.

"Lead me to him at once."

"Can't; this isn't visiting day at his asylum."

True.

"Life is a good deal like baseball."

"In what way?"

"It's the man who can make the hits that gets the money."

The mind that is anxious about the future is miserable.—Seneca.

THIS IS THE 651ST DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

SAFEGUARDING THE NICKEL INDUSTRY.

The intimation, circulated for a purpose all its own, that the International Nickel Company is controlled in Germany, is as nonsensical a statement as could be imagined. Reliable figures show that for two years previous to the war a shipment of the nickel of this company to Germany of almost ten million pounds per year—between two and three millions more than to Great Britain. For the two years since the war, the total of the shipments to Great Britain has doubled and the shipments to Austria and Germany have absolutely ceased. The figures for shipments to the Allies of Great Britain show also a tremendous advance since the war: Russia, for example, receiving now about six million tons per annum, whereas before she got practically nothing. The increase in the United States has been almost proportionate to the increase in Great Britain, due to the use being made of nickel in the United States for munition purposes. Of this use the Allies get the whole benefit by reason of the predominance of the British fleet. That a company controlled in Germany would be permitted to so utilize its plant to aid the Allies is an idea too fantastic to get lodgment in any sane mind. If German stock holders controlled the company directly or indirectly or in any other way, they would shut it down instantly, and thus deliver the Allies a very serious blow. Many months would be required before the refining of Canadian nickel could be reestablished. In fact less than one-half of one per cent. of the stock of the International Nickel Company is owned in enemy countries.

During the last session of Parliament, paperss were laid on the table of the House, showing the steps taken by the Prime Minister to procure the establishment in Canada of a refining plant capable of taking care of the entire British Empire's nickel requirements. The International Nickel Company, though they do most of the work at the mines in Ontario, and employ the great bulk of labor there, have found it more profitable to refine in the United States. That they should have been permitted to have established their refinery there is a matter involving many considerations, but one thing is certain—if any government was to blame, it was a Liberal Government, as a Liberal Government was in power both in Canada and in Ontario at that time. Notwithstanding the economical advantages of refining in the United States, the pressure brought by the Prime Minister has secured definite promises of a refinery in Canada.

Ever since that date the matter has been followed carefully. It was impossible to make a complete investigation with a view to reaching a reliable conclusion as to the location of the site until the summer months. It was not a question merely of convenience of shipments, but also of economic freight shipments, and more important still, of the practicability of getting rid of wastage at an inland point. Much progress has been made. Indeed within the past month the incorporation of the Canadian Refining Company has been proceeding, with a capitaliation of five million dollars and it is expected that an announcement of the site will be made within three weeks. Contracts will then be let, and the company have promised construction to be under way in August or September. The plant will be put down in units, and the first construction will provide for a production of twelve to fifteen million pounds per annum. This is sufficient for the uses of the Empire and units will be added as required. In this way it will be seen that without stopping the uses of our nickel, pending the construction of a refinery in Canada, involving a delay of many months, the Government has remedied the mistakes of its predecessors and made substantial progress notwithstanding war conditions, in adding to the volume of Canadian industries. The correspondence will show that the Prime Minister has been constantly and effectively at work months before his superwise critics had opened their eyes to the subject at all.

SHOP-LIFTING.

Shop-lifting or, in other words, stealing is, unfortunately, too common. The Toronto papers contain almost daily cases of shop-lifting in that city. Toronto is not alone in that respect, cases are occasionally reported in this city, but merchants seldom prosecute. In Montreal the same crime prevails. The Gazette says:

> Upon a charge of shop-lifting, Barry Bassley, Margaret Bassley and Blanche Stasle, all giving an address in Selby Street, were arrested by Detective Betts, of the Betts Detective Agency. The trio had a bag containing goods to the value of $36 which they are alleged to have picked off the counters of an uptown department store. The man was lodged at the Chenneville Street Police Station, and the two women were taken to headquarters.

A little more severe punishment than is usually given this kind of thief might have a salutary effect.

Montreal Gazette: Mr Lawrence Ginnell, M.P., who was suspended from Thursday's sitting of the Brittish House of Commons, was fined £100 in Bow Street Police Court yesterday for attempting to communicate with rebellion prisoners under an assumed name. The evidence showed that he had on a previous occasion been responsible for considerable disorder among the captives. Mr Ginnel should by now be convinced that his methods are as unprofitable to him personally as to the cause he is seeking to advance at an unfortunate time.

The Kaiser, in a recent appeal to his people, is reported as saying that, "whatever inward worth the British army has, it has an abundance of artillery." This surely is a compliment and an acknowledgment of efficiency. The big guns do the big work in destroying enemy defences and prepare the way for the advance of the infantry. And as there is a sufficiency of the latter also, the outlook is more promising now that hitherto, though not from the Teuton point of view.

It must have given some of our Liberals adherents a jolt to read of Sir Sam Hughes being heralded abroad as "The Kitchener of Canada."

The net result of the investigation secured by the Kytes and Carvells is that under conditions which did not exist there "might have been' 'a loss to the British Treasury of $1,666,666.—Toronto News.

We make no protest against the arrest of the alien priest at Fish Creek, Sask., for having tried to dissuade men from enlisting; but why make fish of this priest and flesh of the Bourassas, who dissuade thousands of men from joining the colors?—Hamilton Herald.

The state department at Washington is a very busy department. But one wonders whether its activities are as much concerned with the honor of the great American nation as with the outcome of an election which is to take place three or four months hence.

Mayor Martin of Montreal, has restated his intention of being a candidate for the mayoralty in 1918. This is certainly ample notice to the citizens. It is a long way to election day, however, and what may happen in the municipal field between now and then may not add to the number of His Worship's supporters.

Canada's total war expenditure at home and in Europe is now slightly under a million dollars a day. Another year of war at this rate will increase the national debt to over a billion of dollars, enough to finance all the social reform projects before the Canadian people. War is the great destroyer. [illegible] talks as though Canada was destitute of resources.

It is intimated that the appointment of Mr. F. B. McCurdy to the position of Parliamentary Secretary of the Militia Department was made so that Sir Sam Hughes might be dropped later on without attracting so much critical attention from the public.—St. Johns Telegraph. (Liberal). The Toronto Globe must have been corrupting the morals of The Telegraph, else it would never have conceived such a plot.

The Ottawa Free Press described the utterances of The Toronto Star in regard to bilingualism as "domineering." We denied the harsh impeachment, and our contemporary came back at us with the dictionary synonyms for "domineering." These are "Haughty, overbearing, lordly." Now we put it to you and ask an honest answer. Are the utterances of this paper haughty, overbearing, and lordly in standing up for Provincial autonomy? Is that attitude inconsistent with friendship?—Toronto Star. We refuse to interfere.

THE Oshawa Reformer tells of the "startling statement" recently made by the manager of a big Toronto Mail Order House. He said: We have a bureau whose duty it is to read the country paper. There is not a paper of any consequence in our territory we do not get. The bureau looks over these papers and when we find a town where the merchants do not advertise in the local papers, or where advertisers do not change their advertisements regularly, we immediately flood that Section with our catalogues and literature. It always brings results far in excess of the same effort put forth in territory WHERE THE LOCAL MERCHANTS USE THE LOCAL PAPERS."

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE
BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

"I'll keep them mystified," Nick replied, "unless I should see some advantage to be derived from showing my hand."

"I see."

"I arranged with both Henderson and Judge Stevens that my name should not be disclosed in connection with these matters. If I see anything to be gained by an opposite course, however, I shall take it."

"Certainly."

"Now, Chick, what have you learned since morning?" Nick quietly asked.

It was to obtain a brief report from his assistant, before making another move, that Nick had arranged to meet him, and their conversation was carried on in tones too low to reach the ears of others.

"It can be told in a breath," Chick replied. "First, concerning Mrs. Selkirk: Her maiden name was Nora Radcliffe. Her father was Amos Radcliff, a West Side druggist, who died seven years ago, leaving her something like fifty thousand dollars, in trust until she should marry. The trustee, Nick, was Judge Packard."

"H'm! Is that so?"

"He was trustee of a good many estates, I'm told, hers among them," said Chick. "I got this from Hayman, the coroner, who is one of Packard's old cronies."

"The woman has been married only about a year, I was told," said Nick. "Do you know whether she has obtained a settlement with Packard?"

"I don't. I haven't got that far."

"What about her and Fenno?"

"I've landed that on good authority. They were very friendly about two years ago—so friendly that it was generally thought they would marry. They fell out, for some reason, however, and Fenno quit calling on her. He may have thought her a bit too swift, for it's said she had no liking for the simple life, and that she went through money much faster than Packard would dish it out to her."

"A spendthrift, eh?"

"Rather!"

"Fast?"

"Well, not too fast, yet fast enough to cause general comment," said Chick. "She was deeply in debt two years ago, and it's said she married Pat Selkirk only for that reason. He had money to set her right and keep her going; but I hear that's his only redeeming quality. He owns a small brewery up near Harlem, and is a fellow with but little education and less culture."

"It may be that something has come of all this," Nick remarked.

"It strikes me so."

"Anything more?"

"Since dropping this woman, Fenno has been calling frequently on a girl in Fifth Avenue, named Addie Elmore," Chick proceeded. "Her father dabbles in real estate and has money. They are high-strung people. I'm told, and this girl is a chip of the old block, and very handsome. I have had a notion to call and see if she was out yesterday afternoon, and whether she has a suit of navy blue, but I decided to wait till I'd seen you."

"There'll be time enough for that, Chick," said Nick, thoughtfully sizing up this information. "Instead, I'll go up and put Mrs. Selkirk through the third degree. Meantime, you phone to Fenno, who's now at our office, that he may go about his business without further concealment. Tell him I'll communicate with him later."

CHAPTER XIII
A Counter Move

It was not alone the information he had received from Chick that impelled Nick Carter to seek an interview with Mrs. Pat Selkirk. This had been his intention since morning, deferred only in order to accomplish the work he had been doing, and he had arranged to meet Chick at the hotel only that he might call upon this woman imemdiately after hearing his report concerning her.

Passing through the billiard room, to avoid the increasing throng in the main office, Nick stepped into the lavatory and quickly adjusted the disguise he had worn the previous day when investigating the circumstances involving the murder. In this character, that of Mr. Artemus Mouser, he presently arrived in the corridor adjoining the room in which the crime had been committed.

In this room, however, which was now closed and locked by order of the police, Nick had no special interest. Yet he wanted to see precisely how the Selkirk suit was located in relation to it. The door of the suite was about twenty feet beyond the other, and about a yard from a narrow passage leading to a lofty balcony window, an unbroken wall forming a partition between the passage and Mrs. Selkirk's apartments.

"H'm! about what I thought! Nick said to himself, while he glanced toward the window mentioned. "No sounds from the rooms beyond this passage could have been heard by persons in the woman's apartments. If a noise was heard there could be no doubt that it came from the only room adjoining the suite. Fenno stated that he was passing through the corridor when he heard Packard's groans, which led him to enter the room and rush to his assistance. If he had told the truth, however, I reckon he would have said he was in this woman's apartments when he heard the groans. That she also heard them appeared in that she, too, came into the corridor immediately after the murder. I'll see what she has to say for herself."

After listening briefly at the door, and hearing no sound from within, Nick rapped smartly on the panel. Half a minute passed before the summons was answered, and the door was then opened by the woman he sought.

"Mrs, Selkirk, I believe," he said, bowing. "Allow me to introduce myself— Mr. Mouser, of the Central Office, who begs a brief interview with you. There are a few questions I wish to ask you bearing upon that dreadful affair of yesterday."

"Dear me—another!" Mrs. Selkirk drew up haughtily, frowning. "You are the fourth officer who has called to question me since morning. What on earth can I tell you? I know nothing about the affair."

"The other officers were probably performing their customary duties as members of the police," Nick blandly replied, again bowing and smiling. "I have the honor, however, to be in the service of Mr. Fenno, who was arrested upon suspicion. Being an old friend of his, Mrs. Selkirk, you no doubt will speak less reservedly to me than to the officers mentioned."

"But I have nothing to say which ——"

"You had better invite me in," Nick interposed pointedly, with lowered voice and a significant glance over his shoulder. "It may not be well if we are overheard."

The woman hesitated for a moment. By slow degrees the color had faded from her darkly handsome face, leaving her cheeks quite pale; but the light in her eyes was, on the contrary, becoming brighter and more intense. She drew back without speaking, yet with a curl of her lip, and allowed the detective to enter.

A narrow reception hall, leading into a handsomely furnished parlor, with two sleeping rooms adjoining it, the doors of which were closed—Nick took in these surroundingse with a glance. The fact that the doors of both bedrooms were closed led him to ask, as he took the chair to which Nora Selkirk waved him:

"Are we alone?"

The woman eyed him sharply while she replied, taking a chair near the table:

"Yes, entirely alone, Mr.—— What name did you say?"

"Mouser."

"Mr. Mouser—thank you."

"Now, Mrs. Selkirk, if you please ——"

"Now what?"

"I will be glad to receive any information which you can give me."

"You are deluded, Mr. Mouser, if you think I can give you any information," Nora frowningly insisted, plainly resenting Nick's air of bland assurance. "What has put such an idea into your head? I know absolutely nothing about the crime committed yesterday."

"Were you in the corridor when it was discovered?"

"No; I was in this room. I heard a disturbance in the corridor and went out there."

"What kind of a disturbance, Mrs. Selkirk?"

"Sounds as if two men were running."

"In which direction?"

"I could not tell. I thought nothing about it."

"How long was it, if you please, before you went into the hall?"

"I arose at once and went out there."

"Did you see the two men?"

"No."

"Did you see anybody?"

The woman hesitated again, as one might who feared being led into a trap. Her paleness was now dispelled by a resentful flush, a glow that had steadily deepened in her cheeks, enhancing her beauty and the richness of her dark, velvety complexion. There was a gleam in her eyes, however, evincing a vicious streak in her nature, a spirit capable of going to desperate extremes. Not for a moment had they left the inscrutable yet insistent face of the detective.

Instead of replying to his questions, Nora shifted uneasily in her chair and demanded, rather snappishly:

"Why do you question me in this way, Mr. Mouser? I have already told you that I know nothing about the crime. I don't like the attitude you are taking, and I have a mind not to answer you."

"Mr. Fenno is a friend of yours, isn't he?" inquired Nick, in the same quiet way.

"Yes, of course."

Now that the warm days are here leave the heavy, overheating foods for something lighter and easily digested. Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes supply plenty of nourishment to the body to enable it to do its morning's work in comfort. The thin, brown flakes are palatable as well as being quite digestible.

Electric Current.

One of the simplest electrical devices known to the average person is the incandescent electric lamp. According to the Electrical Experimenter, if we could obtain a sufficient number of these lamps of the twenty watt size and string them along a wire line from the earth to the moon, the lamps being fifteen inches apart, the amount of current necessary to light them would then represent the amount of power generated by all the dynamos in the United States, which in their entirety have an output of about 20,350,000,000 watts per hour.

For another illustration we might stretch a line of two conductors fifteen times around the earth and place on this 1,000 watt lamps, 100 feet apart. The power required to light this gigantic line would also represent the electrical energy produced by these ever humming dynamos.

Ways of the Burman.

The Burmese are a fascinating people. Unlike the native of India, a Burman can laugh and enjoy a joke. I have seen a native of India smile. I have never seen one laugh, whereas the whole idea of the Burmese, as a race, would appear to be to enjoy themselves and make the best of a short life and try to make it a happy one. The men are sportsmen, and if they are lucky enough to make money they spend it. Their chief amusements are horse, or, rather, pony, racing, cockfighting and gambling, and they will back their fancy with their last coin. On the other hand, they are lazy and indolent and as soldiers or policemen utterly untrustworthy, but brave and fearless of death.—From "And That Reminds Me."

Mimics Among Birds.

Birds, from the ostrich down, are imitative. The ostrich, where he lives alone, is silent, but in a country where lions abound he roars. Why? Because for centuries, admiring the lion's roar, he gradually learned to roar himself. Among small birds, buntings imitate pipits, and greenfinches imitate yellowhammers. They seek their food in the winter together and they gradually steal each other's calls. The jay is an insatiable imitator. Some jays will include in their repertory not only the cries of songs of other birds, but also the bleat of the lamb and the neigh of a horse. Even the nightingale imitates. In a nightingale's song it is sometimes quite easy to detect phrases he has borrowed from other birds.

Grunt Who Will Tower.

Anne, the duchess in wooden shoes, who brought Brittany in the pocket of her wedding gown to her husband, the king of France, kept the government for herself, and when the bishop of St. Malo protested against the stronghold which she built to cow the too independent Maloons she carved on her tower the irreverent inscription, which may still be read there, "Grunt who will, so shall it be; 'tis my pleasure." And the tower "Grunt Who Will" (Quicquen Grogne) it remains to this day.

Masking the Guns.

Against air craft observation one of the first precautions taken is to splash guns, limbers and ammunition wagons with different neutral tints so that they will blend with the ground about them. Any earthworks, pits, etc., that are erected or dug are strewn with leaves and branches and the earth disturbed generally, so that from above nothing unusual shall be spotted by keen eyed air men.

A battery of guns is seldom placed along the sky line, for there it is an easy mark. Generally the guns are concealed some distance down the incline in front of the sky line, unless the guns are howitzers, in which case they can be best served from behind the ridge. The idea of placing the guns in front of the ridge is that the rising ground behind them serves as an effectual screen, as the guns themselves are painted to represent earth and foliage.—London Standard.

He Wanted to Know.

The late E. H. Harriman, says the Wall Street Journal, was a stickler for facts. He cared little for an approximate statement. When he asked his employees for information he wanted it definite.

While traveling through Nevada one day with a number of the officials of the Union Pacific the train passed a little station with much platform, a bleak background of sagebrush and junipers and no habitation within sight.

"What is that station there for?" asked Mr. Harriman of one of the railway officials with the party.

"They ship a few cattle and two or three cars of wool."

"Which is it, two or three?" snapped Mr. Harriman. "Which is it? There is a difference of 33 1-3 per cent."

Birds as Lamps.

The natives of Trinidad make use of the young guacharo in an unusual manner. The young are very fat and are frequently found to weigh more than the full grown birds. Their fat is used by the natives to produce an oil which is a substitute for butter. Also it is frequently the custom of the natives to draw a wick through the body of a young guacharo and use it as a lamp or candle. Thus the guacharo is sometimes called the oil bird.

A Great Secret.

Charlie—Oh, I want to be rich.

"Rich! Why so?"

"Because I want to be petted. Ma says you are an old fool, but must be petted because you are rich. But it's a great secret, and I mustn't tell it."

The Aftermath.

Mrs. DuPuy—I was so surprised to hear that Edith and Mr. Sissingham were married. You know they always used to claim their attachment was merely platonic. Mrs. Kolkremes—Yes, I remember. But now, I fear, they wouldn't claim it was even that.

Spitzbergen's Minerals.

A little of almost every precious mineral has been found in Spitzbergen, but there are no signs, according to geologists, that precious minerals exist in paying quantities.

Bit of Advice.

"One of your eyebrows is a trifle awry."

"Ah, a bit of misplaced color."

"Just so. Hue to the line, my dear."—Exchange.

The more virtuous any man is the less easily does he suspect others to be vicious.—Cicero.

The Same.

Nellie, aged nine, was learning to crochet. One day she saw a large crocheted quilt, which was to be raffled off, hanging in a store window. She read the announcement and looked at the quilt with amazement. What an endless amount of work it seemed!

"Mother," she cried on entering her home, "there's a crocheted quilt in Mack's window with a big card on it that says it is to be raveled out at 10 cents a chance—all that work for nothing!"

The Thing to Do.

The youngster had just been told the story of Daniel in the lions' den, and the question had been put to him:

"What do you think Daniel did the very first thing when he found he was saved from the lions?"

The child reflected a moment and then replied, "I suppose he telephoned home to his wife to tell her he was all right."

Hotel Insurance Against Robbery.

At a well known hostelry in Venice it is the practice to charge guests 25 centimes per diem for insurance against fire and robbery, the amount covered for this premium being 1,500 francs. This is a very convenient arrangement, as robbery is far from uncommon in Italy.—London Truth.

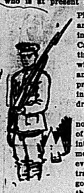
MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

BAYONET FIGHTING COURSE

Trenches at Each Battalion For Instruction of Soldiers.



Lieut. James Bews, formerly physical director of Queen's University, who is at present looking after the Physical Training and Bayonet Fighting at Barriefield Camp, has a busy time. He is busy with every unit and watching their progress and work in this beneficial drill hour.

One particularly noticeable feature of the work is the interest that the men show in it, and even though the training has been going on now since the camp opened, it is as popular as ever. The men look forward to this part of syllabus and thoroughly enjoy playing what amounts almost to a game.

Each battalion has had trenches constructed which will be used for bayonet fighting. Old discarded uniforms are stuffed with straw and resembling the figure of a man in a small degree they furnish a means of training the soldiers in the use of the bayonet. They are taught to leap out of the trenches and lunge at these objects, in this way giving the men instruction which will be valuable after they reach the firing line.

On Monday the various courses which have been conducted in each battalion were brought to completion.

SCOTCH CONCERT

Next Tuesday evening there will be a Scotch concert in the big tent of the 154th Battalion, and some of the best talent from the city will be present to give the program. There will be Scotch song, recitation, bagpipes, Highland dances, and everything but haggis, and it may be that there will be some haggis after all.

ARMY AND NAVY.

Tommy Atkins, meeting a full-bearded Irish tar in the street, said:

"Pat, when are you going to place your whiskers on the reserve list?"

"When you place your tongue on the civil list," was the Irish sailor's reply.

NEW CAMP ENGINEER

Captain Palmer who succeeds Lieut. Col. Burritt as camp engineer is one of the old school of "Sappers and Miners," and has had many years of experience in Military Engineering. For 22 years Captain Palmer was stationed at Halifax and during that time superintended the construction of some of the most important military works in that city. Captain Palmer was the first instructor at the school of architects, Chatham, England, and has the reputation of being a most careful and thorough officer.

WILL REMAIN A WEEK

Rev. Thomas Shields, pastor of the Jarvis Street Baptist church, Toronto, arrived in camp on Monday and will remain the week for the Y.M.C.A. He will speak every evening in camp. Mr. Shields is a pleasant speaker, and knows how to talk to an audience in a way to get results.

NOTES

The examinations of the School of Signalling started Monday.

The pedestals for the new 30,000 gallon tank for camp are nearly completed, and as soon as finished the tank will be erected. The new tank will help materially to equalize the pressure of water all over camp.

A new class in wireless telegraphy will open on Monday, August 7.

A new class in signalling will open on Tuesday, August 15. The class will be a large one.

There are 86 probationers in the infantry School of Instruction.

It is published for the information of all concerned, that furloughs for harvesting are not to be granted to members of units which have been warned for overseas.

Tenders are being called for, for the erection of a modern sterilizing plant for Barriefield camp. The sterilizer will be used for the treatment of military clothing, and is very much needed here.

The men of No. 5 F.C.C.E., have increased the road lighting without waiting for the city to do this, and road and camp are now very well lighted.

STORM AND WEATHER FORECASTS FOR AUGUST 1916

(By Irl R. Hicks.)

A regular Storm Period is central on the 1st, extending from July 30th. to August the 4th. Disturbing causes and things to expect.

This Vulcan period is reinforced by the Venus disturbance, near its center, and the Moon passes over the celestial equator on the 2nd, passing to south declination. August will come in with general indications of coming storms over central to eastern parts of the country. In western parts, the barometer will be low, and threatening clouds, rain, wind and thunder will already be organized and starting on their eastward sweep across the country. These storms will reach a general crisis on and touching the 2nd to 4th, more precisely on the 2nd in central, and on the 3rd to 4th in eastern states. Meantime the barometer will rise and cooler, clearing weather will be advancing from western sections. By the 5th to 6th, these clearing, cooler conditions will have passed the central, and on into the eastern parts of the country. If you want to plow, or sow, or reap, or entertain, or go on an outing, before the storm reaches your locality, make your arrangements according. If it best suits your interests and convenience to have the storms pass your locality first, and then act in the changed weather conditions, just watch your barometer, the temperature, the wind currents and the clouds—and wait. We are writing these forecasts, and they are going into cold type on the 29th day of April, 1915, and we venture at this time to say that many, and some very violent storms, with more than an average of general rainfall for August, are reasonably to be expected during this month. For the most part, the rainfalls and storms will come in regular cycles at the storm periods; but under stress of the Venus, Mercury, Vulcan and Earth disturbances, storms of rain, wind and thunder will overlap the normal limits of the regular storm periods, giving prolonged spells, unusual for the midsummer season.

A Reactionary Storm Period is central on the 6th, 7th and 8th. The storm diagram for this month shows that this period is at the center of the Venus equinox. The Moon is at first quarter and at its extreme south point The opposition of the planet Uranus on the 10th, will also extend its disturbing power over this period. The barometer will naturally fall—beginning in the west and passing eastward across the country—on and touching the 6th, 7th and 8th. This falling barometer will be the forerunner of higher temperature, cloudiness and a return of decided rain, wind and thunder storms. The atmospheric tides will naturally follow the Moon toward the south, and the cooler currents from the north, especially in the upper atmosphere, will conspire with the Venus influence to precipitate hail storms of very violent type. Those who "live in glass houses" should "take notice and govern themselves accordingly." These storms may not result in freezing, after the "electric fire of Venus" has passed, but posted students of our Almanac Magazine will not be wholly unprepared for an inrush of unseasonably cool air, with the high barometer after the storm—say from about the 7th to the 10th, progressively from the northwest toward the southeast.

A Regular Storm Period is central on the 12th, embracing Thursday, the 10th, to Tuesday the 15th. Disturbing causes and things to expect.

The Vulcan, Mercury and Venus influences, with probably the oncoming autumnal equinox of Earth, all "lock horns" at this period. The Moon is in perigee on the 12th, is in opposition with Sun and Earth on the 13th, and most important of all, is on the celestial equator, coming up from her south declination on the 15th. All these astronomic causes combine to make this period an opportunity for a conflict between the perturbing and opposing "storm gods." In all western parts of the country, as early as the 10th and 11th, marked changes in weather conditions will appear. Increasing southerly winds will blow, the barometer will indicate fall in atmospheric pressure, the thermometer will rise, humidity will increase, and cloudiness, with rain and wind storms will rapidly ensue. From about Saturday, the 12th, to Tuesday, the 15th, these changing conditions, followed promptly by storms of widening scope and increasing energy, will pass over most parts of the country, from west to east. A series of rains, thunder and hail storms for two or three days in succession, may reasonably be expected, leading up to, and culminating on the 15th. The conditions at this period are such as to excite apprehension of destructive hail storms in many sections, more especially in the northwestern grain belt. Many localities may expect downpours of rain, amounting to "cloudbursts and waterspouts," with scattering tornadoes over wide stretches of northwestern and central regions. To experienced and intelligent observers of weather changes and storm indications, many such admonitory signs will not be lacking, as this period develops; but amid all the means of foretelling with scientific certainty, the actual approach of violent storms, there is nothing on Earth comparable to a good, truthful Barometer. When a good Barometer is placed in the home, and in every other place where men, women and children are congregated, and where the infallible warnings of these peerless machines are habitually and intelligently heeded, there will be little possibility of the fatal surprises we sometimes read about, by destructive storms and weather changes We do not attempt to dictate to our readers what they should do; at the same time, after forty years of friendship and confidence, we do feel that words of admonition are not wholly presumptuous, or out of place on our part—we do insist that every family should have a good Barometer—that our storm and weather warnings should be kept at hand, and that the indications on the open face of nature should be carefully scanned at the approach of every such storm period as the one now pending—August the 10th to the 15th. After the culmination of rain, wind, hail and thunder storms on and touching the 13th to 15th, look for sudden revulsions to high barometer, westerly winds, and much cooler weather. The Mercury influence will cause prolonged cloudiness, and reinforced by the Venus equinox, will excite the elements to a spell of stormy, threatening weather beyond the normal limits of this storm period.

A Reactionary Storm Period in central on the 17th, 18th and 19th. The Mercury, Venus and Earth braces in the storm diagram show that these astronomic perturbers are united in their disturbing force at this time. Conditions are such that very threatening storms should be no surprise to any of our readers on and about Thursday the 17th to Sunday the 20th. West India and equatorial gales, hurricanes and tornadoes in the extreme south, are among the things to expect, at this and other August storm periods. The reaction from phenomenal heat, to unseasonably cool, under the Venusian breeder of extremes in temperature, should be expected after all these August periods of rain, thunder and wind. In high, northern latitudes, these sudden and extreme changes to very cool will bring frosts of more or less intensity to many localities before the end of August.

A Regular Storm Period is central on the 24th, holding under its influence Tuesday the 22nd, to Sunday the 27th. Disturbing causes and things to expect.

The warring forces of Mercury and Venus, and the increasing force of Earth's autumnal equinox, with the Moon at extreme north on the 22nd, in apogee on the 24th, will all conspire in the disturbances of this Period, in conjunction of the Moon with Saturn on the 24th, and with Neptune on the 25th, will also be possible factors in these disturbances. People who live in western extremes may expect falling barometer and other indications of brewing storms as early as the 22nd and 23rd, and by the 24th, storms of rain, wind and thunder will assume aggressive force, moving through central to eastern parts of the continent from the 25th to the 27th. Look for your part of the marching weather Caravan—warm and threatening, or the storm area itself, or the change to clearer and cooler following, accordingly as you live eastward, centrally, or westward. Don't be foolish, or piggish enough to expect any one of the these conditions at your door throughout the whole storm period, but expect them to glide from one into another as the whole movement of change and storm and change pass by you from west to east. Do the work most needed, during the warm, weather-breeding days that go before the storm; do things best suited, during the passage of the actual storm; do things commonsense dictates, in the cooler, clearing area that follows after the storms and winds up the period. The better you comprehend what we are trying to explain, the more you will see that it is not bladerdash, and the more pleasure and commercial value you will derive from it. In understanding and appreciating these great facts of nature, you will indeed, be hitching "your wagon to a star"—God will be your ally, and creation will become your carrier and servant.

A Reactionary Storm Period is central on the last four days of August. The Moon is in conjunction with Sun and Earth on 28th, and on the celestial equator on 28th. Disturbances of the preceding storm period may last into this period; at any rate, storms of renewed and quickened activity will return on and about the 28th and 29th. Watch your barometer—watch the clouds—watch for reports. Change to very cool nights should be expected, with frosts to the northward, within seventy hours of the dividing line between August and September.

IN And ABOUT THE CITY

NO PAPER TO-MORROW

Tomorrow being Belleville's Civic Holiday The Intelligencer will not be published.

RAN AWAY FROM HOME

Mrs. Sellyeh, who resides on McAnnany Street, in this city, reports to the police that Teressa, her fourteen year old daughter, last night ran away from home, and her whereabouts are unknown.

BROKE HIS WRIST

Arnold Kerr, 11 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kerr of Belleville, yesterday had the misfortune to break his left wrist. The family are camping at Jones' Creek, and the little fellow while playing, fell, with the above result. He was brought to the city, where a physician reduced the fracture.

WOUNDED AT FRONT

Mrs. Annie Ward, a widow, of 114 Canifton Road, has received a letter from her son, Frank Ward, to the effect that he is now lying in the base hospital in France, suffering from a broken ankle. He enlisted with the 34th Battery in August, 1914, and has been in France since April, 1915.

ABSENTEES APPREHENDED

Three members of the 155th Battalion were last evening apprehended in this city, having absented themselves from camp without leave. The men were to-day taken back to Barriefield.

ANSWERED A CALL

At 10.45 last night the police answered a call to the corner of Bridge Street and Foster Avenue, it being alleged a drunk was wandering about. The officer responding to the call was unable to find any trace of the man.

BIG PRICE FOR HOGS

A large consignment of live hogs was today shipped from Belleville to Montreal. The price paid was $11.75 per hundred weight. A buyer stated to a representative of The Intelligencer that this was the highest price he had paid for live hogs during the thirty years he had been engaged in the business.

REMAINS BROUGHT HERE

The remains of the late Mrs. James Hogg, a former well-known resident of Belleville, arrived here to-day from Chicago, and were taken to Belleville cemetery for interment. Deceased was about 80 years of age, and had been living in the windy city for some time. The remains were accompanied by some relatives. Rev. A. S. Kerr, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, conducted the burial service at the grave.

Please tell all my friends that I am well and happy, and send them my best wishes I think the war will be over by September. I haven't much time to write this time, but I will write more later on. Well, I am sending you my photo it is me and my friends, Mr. Barnes and Mr. Davison. I hope you will like them.

HISTORY

When Sir Robert Walpole told his son not to read history to him, for he knew it could not be true, he was speaking from a large experience in the making if not in the writing of it. Credit where no credit was due—blame where no blame was deserved—success where the end was failure; these were the common characteristics of history as Walpole had seen it acted and written. No chapter of at least English history within his life or his memory, could be read to him without being interrupted by his contradictions, or interpreted in a new sense, from his own stores of private knowledge.

THE WORD "LOVE."

In the Orient It Means to Like or is Used to Express Good Will.

The word "love" has been more highly specialized in the west than in the east. In its proper English use it means only that ardent, amorous feeling which cannot be created by will and design. In the west the word "love" has been relieved of the function of expressing the less ardent desires, such as the terms "to like," "to have good will toward" and "to be well disposed toward" simply.

Not so in the east. The word "like," meaning "to be favorably inclined toward," is not found either in the Bible or in the Arabic tongue. In the English version of the Bible it is used in two places, but the translation is incorrect. In the twenty-fifth chapter of Deuteronomy and the seventh verse, "If the man like not to take his brother's wife," should be rendered "If the man 'consent' not," and in the fourth chapter of Amos, the fifth verse, "For this liketh you, O ye children of Israel," is in the original, "For this ye 'loved,' O ye children of Israel." In any standard concordance of the Bible the Hebrew verb aheb—to love—precedes these quotations.

So to us orientals the only word which can express any cordial inclination of approval is "love." One loves his wife and children and loves grapes and figs and meat, if he likes these things. An employer says to an employee, "If you 'love' to work for me according to this agreement you can."

It is nothing uncommon for one to say to a casual acquaintance whom he likes, "I must say, sahib (friend), that I love you!" I know of no equivalent in the Arabic for the phrase, "I am interested in you." "Love" and "hate" are the usual terms by which to express approval and disapproval, as well as real love and hatred.

From all this it may be seen that when the Great Oriental Teacher said to his countrymen, who considered all other clans than their own as their enemies, "Love your enemies," he did not mean that they should be enamored of them, but that they should have good will toward them. We cannot love by will and design, but we certainly can will to be well disposed even toward those who, we believe, have ill will toward us.—Abraham Mitrie Rihbony in Atlantic Monthly.

SAINTS OF ILLS AND TRADES.

Holy Friendships Consoled Pious People in the Middle Ages.

The trustful and childlike piety of the middle ages believed that the citizens of heaven were interested in every phase of men's lives, and there was not a single trade, profession or occupation that did not boast a special patron, while certain diseases were thought to be cured and certain visitations warded off through the intercession and agency of particular saints.

Thus St. Andrew was the patron of fishermen, St. Isidore of husbandmen, St. Christopher of porters, St. Mark of lawyers, SS. Cosmas and Damian of doctors, St. Joseph of carpenters, St. Crispin of shoemakers, St. Vitus of actors, St. Gregory of singers, St. Dismas (supposed name of the good thief) of criminals condemned to death, St. Apollonia was believed to cure toothache, St. Blaise sore throat, SS. Clare and Lucy sore eyes, while St. Benedict preserved his clients from poison and St. Hubert from the bite of mad dogs.

"Men," says Montalembert, "lived in a tender and intimate familiarity with those forefathers whom God had evidently called to himself and whose sanctity the church has proclaimed. From the king and the pontiff to the poorest workman each had a special protector in heaven, and in the battles, dangers and sorrows of life these holy friendships exercised a most consoling and strengthening influence."—Irish World.

That Old, Old Table.

It is impossible to know who was the author of the multiplication table, but it is known to have been in existence in the days of the builders of the ruined cities of Mesopotamia, whose records are now being patiently deciphered by archaeologists. Tablets are found which tell us of their system of education, banking, accounting, business correspondence, etc., and among others are multiplication tables. So the multiplication table is probably not less than 6,000 years old.—Christian Herald.

Reform.

A small tailor shop on the Bowery burned out, and the tailor moved to the next block. The morning after the fire the following sign appeared in the window of the wrecked store:

"Will be open for business at 2 —— street next week and will be your honest friend when alterations are completed."

Quick Changes.

Wife—Darling, I want a new gown. Husband—But you had a new one only a short time ago. Wife—Yes, but my friend Ellen is to be married, and I can't wear the same dress that I wore at her last wedding.

Forced Into It.

"I hope you are habitually truthful, Norah."

"I am on me own account, mum. I only tell lies to the callers for the family."

His Job.

"What position has that amateur astronomer on your paper?"

"He? Oh, he's a star reporter."—Baltimore American.

A Cargo Hard to Handle.

Asphalt is said to be the most difficult cargo for a vessel to unload. The asphalt is taken out of the asphalt lakes in Trinidad in a semifluid state and by the time the vessel reaches a northern port has hardened, so that to unload it it is necessary for the men to go into the hold and dig it out with pick and shovel. This takes time, and a vessel carrying such cargo always has to arrange for a considerable stay in port.

As Many Know.

"Can I sell you any thermometers today?"

"No, nor any other day. There is a little person in the kitchen who attends to all that sort of thing. She makes it hot or cold as it suits her."

Had His Preference.

Hospitable Farmer—Now, stranger, sit right down to the table. You are welcome to your dinner, but you'll have to eat what the rest of us do. Stranger—Thanks, but I—er—if it's all the same to you I'll eat what the rest of you don't.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS.

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territories, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Applications for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections or legal sub-divisions of sections and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

Mourning Friday.

It was not always called Good Friday. Years ago in Germany it was frequently referred to as Mourning Friday. Our early ancestors in England did not call it Good Friday, either, but Long Friday. Such is the term in an ancient ecclesiastical law about 1,000 years old. The Danes used the same name, Long, instead of Good Friday.

The reason for using the word "long" was doubtless found in the seeming endless and severe fast practiced that day. At one time the Spaniards emphasized the solemnity of Good Friday by closing all the churches.

Nowhere else that I have happened to be on a Good Friday was the day so solemnly observed as in Rome. The city seemed to be in mourning, making all the more inspiring the matchless services and singing in St. Peter's cathedral on Easter.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Settling the Score.

Was it envy that caused the elderly spinster to criticise so severely the home and furniture of her newly married friend?

Whatever it was, the young wife was getting tired of it.

"Well, anyway," she said presently as she pointed to a pretty little china clock, "if you don't like my furniture you must surely like that?"

"Yes; it is rather nice," said the visitor grudgingly. "Who gave it to you?"

"Oh, it wasn't a present!" explained the bride. "I won it in a raffle."

"A raffle!" The spinster drew her angular figure rigidly up. "I never lend my face to such things!"

"Perhaps that's just as well," retorted the younger woman as she gazed meaningly at the other's sour features, "because if you did I'm afraid nobody would buy the tickets!"—London Globe.

Man.

A man will cheat himself on his score at golf, when he knows that failing to set down the full number of strokes does not make him a better golfer.

If he is a fat man and is dieting to reduce he will shove the weight back a pound or two on the scales when he knows in his heart he is heavier than that.

Then he will tell his friends about "going around yesterday in 92" and "taking off a pound and a half in three days" by his diet.

With these two exceptions almost every man is honest. Therefore all you need to do is to discount what he says about golf or reducing.—Judge.

Not a Question of Etiquette.

Mrs. Hendricks (the landlady)—Can I help you to some more soup, Mr. Dumley?

Mr. Dumley—No, thanks.

Mrs. Hendricks (engagingly)—Don't refuse, Mr. Dumley, because it isn't considered good form to be helped twice to soup. We're not particular people here.

Mr. Dumley—Oh, etiquette has nothing to do with it, madam; it's the soup.

He Explains.

"What did you call your silver mine?"

"The American Boy."

"Any particular reason for calling it by that name?"

"Well, it had plenty of pockets, but nothing in them except rubbish."—Kansas City Journal.

By Degrees.

"My dear, isn't that dress a trifle extreme?"

"Extreme! Why, I put this on in order that you may become accustomed to the one I am having made."—Judge.

Their Kind.

"I understand this locality is considered a very aristocratic one."

He Wasn't First.

She (just kissed by him)—How dare you? Papa said he would kill the first man who kissed me. He—How interesting. And did he do it?—Judge.

A Forecast.

Jones—What do you think will be the end of the woman question? Brown—There won't be any end. They'll always be asking 'em.

If you will be governed by reason and be true to the best of yourself, standing boldly to the truth, you will be happy.—Marcus Aurelius.

SECRETS OF A GUN

The Famous French 75 and Its Wonderful Mechanism.

IT HAS TWO HIDDEN DEVICES.

These Are the Fuse Setter and the Recoil Absorber, and They Make This Monster Weapon a Most Fearful Engine of Death and Destruction.

What is a 75? By this is conversationally understood a French field gun, the caliber, or interior diameter of the bore, of which is seventy-five millimeters. Incidentally it is the finest man killing machine the world has yet known.

In 1898 France surprised the armies of the world by the introduction of an artillery weapon which till then had only existed in the dreams of experts.

Till this period the slowness of artillery fire was due to the fact that after the gun was laid and fired the shock of discharge so upset the aim that the gun had to be relaid for a second shot. The rapidity of fire thereupon became a matter of how quickly and accurately a gun could be laid by the personal skill of the layer. The French, seeking artillery progress and confronted with the inexorable shortness of their conscripts' period of training, sought to improve in mechanism what they could not improve in personal skill.

Briefly, the new French field gun of 1898 ceased to be attached to its axletree, but was attached instead to a buffer in a cradle, which not only absorbed the shock of recoil, but ran back the gun so exactly into its former position that no second laying was necessary.

The primary trouble of laying having been got over, rapidity of fire appeared to have been attained. Experiments then proved that, though a rapid rate of fire was possible, this rate was only as fast as that at which the gunners could adjust the fuses of the shells.

How now improve the rate of fuse setting? This task was and is a matter of meticulous accuracy, needing careful training to be done correctly. Moreover, it could not be hurried, since a shell badly fused by ever so little was not only innocuous to the enemy, but was a danger to one's own side. Once more the French put aside any idea of brisking up the personnel and invented a machine to set the fuse. The details of this fuse setter are still a secret. Let it suffice that it is simple, accurate and very rapid in its work. Thanks to it and to the steadiness of the gun after each discharge, the French field gun is easily capable of twenty-five aimed rounds a minute.

One more word about the recoil absorber and the secret thereof. The recoil is taken up by a cylinder beneath the gun, which contains a combination of glycerin, compressed air and springs. It is this combination and the exact proportions thereof which make the secret of the gun. It is not even ascertainable from a captured gun, since if you take a cold chisel to it and try to examine the works by opening the buffer the compressed air escapes, and the secret which lies in its density evaporates with it.

Having solved the question of the rate of fire you would have thought that the French would have been content. Not they! Range and accuracy were successively taken in hand. Muzzle velocity, which, after all, means range, was increased not by increasing the charge and with it the thickness of the gun that withstood it, but by lengthening the gun to a hitherto unheard of extent and giving it a slow burning propellant.

The temptation to put in a lighter shell and so get it farther on the same bang was successfully resisted. The designers never lost sight of the fact that the primary object of the gun was to deliver death to its enemies at the greatest speed, range and effectiveness possible. So they concentrated their energies on a man killing shrapnel which in the end weighed sixteen pounds and left the gun on its long journey at the unprecedented pace of 1,739 foot-seconds.

And there you have the present shrapnel.

Tactics here began to get mixed up with mechanics and ballistics. It was pointed out that troops would not always remain in the open to be whiffed out of existence by shrapnel. Rather would they get under cover at what speed they might. So a shell to deal with entrenchments, buildings and fortifications was indicated. Here again careful thought showed the need of accurate gunnery and a still higher velocity in the shell which, being more local in its effects, could not be allowed the same latitude in its action as its shrapnel confrere.

So a high explosive shell weighing only 11.08 pounds was introduced. Thanks to the chemists this time, its contents were of such a startling nature that its weight became a secondary consideration. It raced away on its mission at a velocity at that time unequaled even by the latest small bore rifle, and when it exploded its melinite charge blew great holes in the scenery. — Pousse Cailloux in Blackwood's Magazine.

The Last Word.

Hubby (with irritation)—Why is it that you women insist upon having the last word? Wife (calmly)—We don't. The only reason we get it is because we always have a dozen arguments left when you stupid men are all run out.

Her Good Point.

"Your laundress seems to be a timid sort of woman."

"Yes, but she always manages to put up a stiff front."

Waltzing Ostriches.

One of the oddest sights of the sandy stretches of plain in southern Africa is a party of waltzing ostriches. A writer on the subject thus describes their queer antics:

"When there are a number of them they will start off and after running a few hundred yards will stop and, with raised wings, will whirl rapidly round till they are stupefied or perhaps break a leg. The males pose also before fighting. They kneel on their ankles, opening their wings and balancing themselves alternately forward and backward or to one side or the other, while the neck is stretched on a level with the back, and the head strikes the sides, now on the right, now on the left, while the feathers are bristling. The bird appears at this time so absorbed in its occupation as to forget all that is going on around him and can be approached and caught. The male alone utters a cry, which sounds much like an effort to speak with the mouth shut tight."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Events That Pass Us By.

We can be but partially acquainted even with the events which actually influence our course through life and our final destiny. There are innumerable other events, if such they may be called, which come close upon us, yet pass away without actual results or even betraying their near approach by the reflection of any light or shadow across our minds. Could we know all the vicissitudes of our fortune life would be too full of hope and fear, exultation or disappointment to afford us a single hour of true serenity.—Hawthorne.

Limbs.

Limbs come on trees and people. They are seen on trees, in courtrooms, on the stage and at the seashore. They may be covered with bark, plasters or silk, as the case may be.

Limbs are useful in many ways. Pelicans, who are very economical and therefore never get into deep water, use only one at a time. Soldiers use them for various purposes, sometimes standing upon them and sometimes running away.

Limbs are made of cork, wood or bone. Cork limbs are useful as life preservers. Wooden limbs can be taken off and used for purposes of defense. Bone limbs often enable one to get on one's feet

Driving It In.

The bright newspaper wit who is on the job twenty-four hours a day recently heard a lady remark on the stability of posts in a public building which had but one nail driven in each.

"That's nothing," he cut in. "Look at the magnificent physical organization which we call a human body, and yet it is all put together with only twenty nails."

The lady's expression showed it was not a point which needed to be hammered in.

Favorite Son.

"Are you a favorite son of your state?"

"No," explained Senator Sorghum. "I don't believe I care to be. A favorite son is too liable to be regarded by outside observers as a pampered pet who might be all the better with an occasional licking."

Train Saved By Brakesman

Endangered His Life to Give Warning—Twenty-Two Refugees Arrive From Stricken Area—Over 400 Bodies Recovered.

TORONTO, Aug. 2.—Twenty-two refugees from the Northern Ontario fire zone arrived to-day, bearing the scars of the great conflagration and carrying similar stories of heavy losses, in life and property destruction as told in the fire stories from the north.

Brakeman's Heroism.

A story of great heroism is that of the heroic work done by Brakeman W. L. Lewis of Englehart who dashed back along the burning railway line through the suffocating smoke to flag the on coming train.

His action prevented a railway wreck from being added to the horrors. The latest reports indicate the great necessity of clothing.

Commissioner Dane of the Ontario government has sent out a province-wide appeal for clothing to be sent to him at North Bay.

400 Bodies Recovered.

Great fear is held for the safety of large numbers of prospectors unheard of since the fire. No additional list of casualties has been compiled but it is reported that over four hundred bodies have been recovered.

Two aeroplanes were seen flying over Chesapeake Bay at Hampton Roads shortly after daybreak this morning. They were from the Atlantic Coast aeronautical station here. It is believed they came from the armored cruiser North Carolina on neutrality patrol off the Virginia Capes. The machines manoeuvred back and forth over the water at a moderate altitude.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN BELLEVILLE G. T. R. YARDS

Brakesman George W. Mason Struck By Fast Express and Instantly Killed--Inquest Being Held to Investigate Circumstances of Accident

At a few minutes before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon a distressing accident occurred on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway in the Township of Thurlow, a short distance east of the city limits, which proved to be fatal in its results. It appears that the manifest freight train No. 495 was being made up to proceed to Toronto after the International Limited, No. 1 train had proceeded on its journey, and it was in waiting at what is known as the east end yard that the accident occurred. Amongst the members of the crew of the freight train was Geo W. Mason, who was designated as a main line brakeman and attached to the manifest train. Mason it appears went around the cabose of the train he was attached to and he made an effort to cross the main line of the track as the International Limited express was approaching Belleville Station. Mason evidently did not notice the approaching train and was struck by the engine and hurled for some distance. The impact was such that Mason received injuries of so serious a nature that death took place shortly after he was conveyed to the baggage room at the depot. The cause of death was internal injuries, as a number of ribs were broken and the lungs were no doubt punctured.

The victim of the unfortunate affair was a man about 37 years of ago, who resided on Baldwin Street, in this city. Deceased had been for 6 years an employee of the G.T.R. and was in every respect a capable and sober man. He was a son of Mr and Mrs Myles Mason, who at present are residing in the Province of Saskatchewan, but who formerly resided at Springbrook Rawdon Township, where he was born.

Mr Mason was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, a member of the A.O.U.W. and the Oranemen societies, and identified with the Methodist Church. As soon as possible after the accident medical aid was summoned, but the injuries received by the victim were of such a nature that death soon resulted.

The body was conveyed to Thompson's Company's undertaking establishment, where in the evening an inquest was opened before Coroner Dr Boyce. The jurymen selected were Messrs J. Fenn, W. G. Bell, H. E. Fairfield, E. T. Thompson, J. Lapperty, B. J. Black, F. Walsh, Robt Orr, W. C. Mayo and P. Harrison. Mr Fenn was chosen as foreman of the jury. After being sworn in the jurymen viewed the body and evidence as to identification was taken, after which the enquiry was adjourned until Monday evening next at the police court room. Mr Wm. Carnew, County Attorney, was present and conducted the examination of the witnesses called.

The deceased is survived by a widow and family of four children, whose ages range from 1 to 9 years. Mr Mason was an estimable man and highly respected by all the employees at the railway, and his untimely death is deeply regretted.

DEDICATORY SERVICES BY BELLEVILLE ODDFELLOWS

New Hall Put Into Commission For the Order—Welcome to Returned Soldier-Member—Order of Exercises—Those Who Took Prominent Parts in the Event

The members of the I.O.O.F. Society of Belleville consisting of Belleville Lodge No. 81, and Mizpah Lodge No. 127 have united with the result that the Alberta Block on the east side of Front street in Belleville, has been purchased and what was known as Alberta Hall has been converted into a magnificent lodge room. On Tuesday evening, the new lodge room was formerly dedicated by Bro. L. B. Cooper of this city, who is Grand Master for the jurisdiction of Ontario. It was a memorable occasion and one that will long be remembered by those who attended the function. Not only were members of the two lodges of the city out in large numbers to participate in the event, but the Sisters of Quintetta Lodge of Rebekah were largely represented, and to them is due to a large measure the success of the affair. In addition to Grand Master Cooper, Deputy Grand Master Bro. Chas. Parks of Toronto, Grand Warden, C. Mann of Hamilton, and Grand Chaplain Rev. Mr. Cox, of Gananoque, were present to assist in the ceremony of the dedication of the lodge room.

The lodge room has been tastefully decorated, and it presents a most attractive appearance. The walls are of a water color in light brown, and the ceiling is artistically frescoed. This work was done under the supervision of Mr. Scantlebury of this city, and it certainly reflects great credit upon the firm.

The dedicatory ceremony was to a great extent under the supervision of Grand Warden Mann, who is certainly the right officer in the right place.

After the Grand Lodge officers had taken their place a pleasing part of the programme followed. Escorted by Chief Patriarch Bro. R. H. Ketcheson, Bro. Sergt. Chas. A. Gibson, who has just returned home from being on leave, owing to being wounded was escorted into the lodge room and the returned hero and Bro was then and there accorded a reception After being formally introduced Bro. Gibson was requested to take a seat of honor at the left of Grand Master Cooper.

The ceremony of dedicating the lodge room was then proceeded with. The proceedings were opened by prayer by the Grand Chaplain, after which Heralds, appropriately clothed, brought in by sections the altar which represented Friendship, Love and Truth and Faith, Hope and Charity which represents the Rebekah branch. After the altar had been completed Grand Master Cooper dedicated same. The Heralds were Bros. F. H. Chesher, E. T. Thompson, Geo. Kerr and H. Ransome. After the Grand Master had formally performed the dedication service in a few well chosen remarks, he handed the key of the lodge room to Bro. Ald. Duckworth, intimating that the hall was to be used for lodge purposes and for the pomulgation of Oddfellowship.

The ceremony throughout was interesting, and inspiring and the large number present were impressed with the significance of the occasion. The Grand Master complimented the members of the Order in Belleville on the beautiful quarters secured for the purpose of lodge work.

Grand Chaplain Cox was called upon and gave the final prayer of the dedicatory service.

HUNS MURDER IRISH PRISONERS

Two Men Shot to Death—Both Refused to Join Roger Casement

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Special—Baron Newton, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, replying to a question in the House of Lords yesterday, as to whether the Government had any information concerning the shooting of two Irish soldiers while prisoners of war in Germany, said:

"The American Embassy in Berlin notified the Government on July 7 that Patrick Moran of the Connaught Rangers had been shot by a guard at the working camp near Limburg on May 28. The Commandant of the camp told the American representative that Moran while intoxicated attacked a guard, who shot him dead in self-defence.

"On July 10 the American Embassy informed the Government that another Irish prisoner, William Devlin, Munster Fusiliers, had been shot at the Limburg working camp. When Ambassador Gerard visited the camp in connection with the death of Moran the shooting of Devlin was concealed.

"It is important to note that, according to our information, both soldiers had refused to join with Roger Casement in his proposed expedition to Ireland."

PRISONERS ACCUMULATING ON HANDS OF ALLIES

Eleven Hundred Taken By British and French Since Tuesday—Attack of Germans Repulsed at Every Point—Notable Progress Made In Vicinity of Fleury

Canadian Press Special.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Official statement. North of the Somme we repulsed last night several German assaults upon Monacu farm and organized our new positins between there and Hemwood. It has been confirmed that German units had to be relieved as the result of heavy losses they sustained since Sunday. North of the Somme counter attacks on our positions south of Estrees failed. On the right bank of the Meuse the Germans delivered several violent counter attacks upon trenches which we captured yesterday but they were everywhere repulsed with heavy losses. Our troops have made notable progress to the south of Fleury. They have reached the immediate surroundings of this village, and even gone beyond the railway station. We made over seven hundred prisoners yesterday in the region of Fleury, and altogther since Tuesday have taken over eleven hundred on the right bank of the Meuse. Elsewhere there has been only artillery fighting. Sergeant Chainat yesterday brought down two German aeroplanes, making his record eight. A third German machine was wrecked near Chauny.

Sir Wilfred May Retire

French Newspaper Says He Will Step Out After Election—Mr. N. W. Rowell Probable Successor

MONTREAL, Aug. 2.—La Patrie says: "The choice of a successor for Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been discussed in Ottawa since the Liberal Convention held recently in Ottawa. It is well knwon that the situation will remain as it is during the war and that the general election will not take place until after the definite victory of the Allies. It may be that the Liberals will make their fight with Sir Wilfrid as leader, but that on the morrow of the election the septuagenarian chieftain will abandon for ever the reins of leadership. Mention has been made of Mr. N. W. Rowell, of Ontario, as his successor."

CONCRETE EXCHANGED FOR STOCK BEER

HAVERHILL, Aug. 1.—The concrete mixers employed in the city yards here went on strike yesterday because, Superintendent of Streets Jesse Prescott, could not see why the city should exchange valuable concrete for beer to lighten the labors of the mixers.

The superintendent, puzzled at the extraordinary requests which he received from members of other city departments who asked to be transferred to the concrete-mixing corps, decided to investigate. He found that the employes were in the habit of disappearing every once in a while into the basement of a nearby brewery with pails full of soft concrete. Shortly afterward they would appear with pails full of beer. He also found that the brewery had recently been supplied with a concrete basement floor. It turned out that the men had made a practice of exchanging a pail of concrete for a pail of beer, and that the exchanging had been going on for some time.

The strike followed Superintendent Prescott's order that the practice must stop.

Plan Nickel Plant at Port Colborne, Ont.

International Company Chooses Lake Erie Site For Refinery—Work Will Begin Soon

OTTAWA, Aug. 2.—The International Nickel Co. will build its new Canadian refinery at Port Colborne on Lake Erie.

Port Colborne has good harbor facilities and the Government is spending considerable money in developing the port. It is believed that the officials of the International Company selected a lake site owing to its proximity to the coal fields of Pennsylvania. The coal will be brought across the lake from southern ports..

Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Customs, who represented the Dominion Government in the negotiations in Toronto, has returned to Ottawa and expressed himself as well satisfied with the close of the long negotiations.

It is understood the site has already been secured and that work on the plant will begin within the next three weeks.

The British-American Nickel Company which will also commence operations at once will build its refinery near Sudbury. It is controlled by Canadians, but financed in the Old Country. It will sell its products for the present entirely to the British Government. It also will begin work in its plant immediately. It is supposed to be controlled by the Mackenzie & Mann interests.

Northern Fire Area Spreading

Matheson Reports 450 Bodies Found and Identified—Further Outbreaks

COBALT, Aug. 3.—Special.—A Conservative estimate of dead in the forest fire is now 400, although one report form Matheson states that 450 bodies have been found and identified. The more serious part of the situation is that with the return of hot weather other bush settlements in the north not already devasted are likely to be swept away. The smoke is very thick at Boston Creek, Kirkland Lake and down the Elk Lake district. To the west of Elk Lake there is fear of an outbreak, only less severe than the great fire of May 29.

Twelve men, women and children lost their lives at Croesus Mine, near Matheson, it has been established. The first estimate here, as at most other points, was far too low.

The loss around Iroquois Falls district is growing terribly with more intimate knowledge of the ground. Alexo Mine is safe, but prospectors and settlers in the Nellie Lake district are given up for lost.

The fire has broken through into the mining district south of the burnt lands.

FRENCH RECAPTURE GROUND AROUND VERDUN FRONT

Make Notable Gains on Right Bank of Meuse—Capture 600 Prisoners—Ten Machine Guns Also Taken With Several German Trenches—Enemy Counter-attack in Region of Vacherauville Repulsed

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Special—Both on the Somme and on the Meuse the French have inflicted large defeats on the Germans in extensive battles.

In the former sector a strong field work between the Hem Wood and Monacu Farm, north of the river, was carried by storm, while south of the stream a trench system northwest of Dencourt was captured and held against two violent counter-attacks.

At Verdun terrific fighting continued on the northeastern sectors of the front throughout the night and today. It reached the climax of jury when the French launched a tremendous attack on a front of three miles from the river as far as Fleury. In great waves, or echelons, the French infantry swept forward across the shell-swept wood east of Vacherauville, west and south of the Thiaumont work and in the ravine of Fleury. The advance carried several German trench works and resulted in the capture of 600 prisoners, a very large number for fighting of this character. Ten machine guns were brought in.

The Verdun fighting, which was violently renewed by a German attack yesterday afternoon, continued throughout the night. The Germans attacked incessantly and realized some gains in the Chapitre Wood and at Chenois. They claim to have captured a hill sailent at the northeastern approaches to the shattered fort Souville, but this is not admitted by the French. Prisoners to the number of 942 were captured, the German report states.

It was to offset these gains and halt this offensive that the French yesterday drove forward on the other end of the front. The fighting is now raging from the Meuse as far as Damloup, well to the northeast of Verdun. The fighting is almost incessant on a front of six miles, with the artillery carrying on a terrific duel in several sectors, notably around Vaux-le-Chapitre and Chenois.

BELLEVILLE BRANCH—J. G. MOFFAT, MANAGER

SUCCESSFUL PICNIC BY GRAND TRUNK EMPLOYEES

A Fine Day Brings Together a Vast Crowd—Interesting Sports at Massassaga Park—List of Those Who Won Prizes—A Noticeable Absence of Accidents

An event which is anticipated with pleasure by many Bellevillians is the annual outing of the Grand Trunk Railway employees, or more properly speaking held under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. For a number of years it has taken place at Massassaga Park, and this year was no exception to the rule. It was held yesterday under most auspicious circumstances. Owing to the fact that it was Belleville's civic holiday, an excellent opportunity was afforded to all classes of citizens to participate in the event, and they certainly availed themselves of the opportunity to do so. The day was all that could have been desired, and the attendance was most gratifying. Commencing at 9 o'clock in the morning the steamers Brockville and Paridie, which had been chartered, commenced to make trips to the park, with the result that hundreds were conveyed to this famous summer resort. It was a good-natured crowd, and all appeared to be enjoying themselves. The committee in charge left nothing undone to make everyone present feel that the day's outing was for their especial pleasure. Shortly after 1 a.m. a programme of sports was carried out on the spacious lawn which attracted the attention of many. The events and the successful competitors were as follows:

Boys 8 years and under—A. Miles, B. LaBarr, S. Whitney.

Girls, 8 years and under—L. Sprague, Flora Tugnett, Evelyn Prest.

Boys, 12 years and under—Ralph Huffman, Willie Asselstine, Gerald O'Brien.

Ladies' and Gents' needle race—Mrs. Ethier, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. M. Kelley.

Married Ladies' race, G.T.R. employees' wives—Mrs. H. Flagler, Mrs. M. Kelley, Mrs. W. R. Wensley.

Married Men's race, G.T.R. employees—W. Schreder, R. L. Easton, P. Frechette.

Smoking race—P. Frechette, R. L. Easton, J. Boyle.

Fat Mans' race—W. Schreder, W. Matheson, P. Frechette.

Three prizes were offered for a knock about motor race, but as there was only one entry the event did not take place.

BABY SHOW

A beautiful silver mug donated by Mr. Wm. Carnew, was offered as first prize for the finest 8 months' old baby upon the ground, and a pearl-handled knife, fork and spoon was the second prize donated by Mr. Allen McFee. There were nine babies entered for the event, and it would be most difficult to find anywhere a more healthier and beautiful lot of babies than those who were entered in the competition. Messrs. G. L. Sills and J. Lightstone, who were selected as judges, had no easy task in selecting the winners. After consultation of some time they awarded Mrs. LaPalm first prize, and Mrs. Miner second prize.

BASEBALL MATCH

As usual the baseball match was the centre of attraction, and it was certainly a game full of interest from start to finish. The G.T.R. team from Brockville was brought here to battle against the Ontario team of Belleville. It proved to a close and exciting game, as the teams were an even match. The visitors were a heavier team, but did not have anything over the Ontarios in either fielding or batting. The score at the end of the 9th innings was 8 to 7 in favor of Ontarios, and the win was certainly pleasing to the great majority of those who witnessed the game. Mr. George Munro, a stranger umpired the game, and he was certainly a capable official, none of the points of the game escaping his notice. Smith and Fagg were the battery for the Ontarios, and they did good work and were well supported by the fielders. The visiting team had no less than four of the Simon brothers playing, including William who played hockey here last winter on the Intermediate team. They are truly a good quartette and enter heartily into the game. The line up of the teams was as follows:—

Ontarios—Symons, L. field; O'Brien, short stop; Fagg, catcher; Mitchell, center field; Kelleher, right field; Lavoie, 3rd base; Gerow, 1st base; Smith pitcher; Morrison 2nd base.

G. T. R.—Lang, center field; M. Simmons, 3rd base; Briggs, 1st base; Crookson, left field; W. Simons, short stop; D. Simons, 2nd base; Frego, right field; W. Simons, catcher; Lightford, pitcher.

WALTZING CONTEST

There were a number of contestants for this event, and the judges were Mayor Ketcheson, and Messrs. Anderson and Armstrong. The result of their deliberations were that Miss Helen Hokan and Mr. Harry Scantlebury won 1st prize, and Miss Swart and Mr. McConnell, were awarded the second prize.

GUESSING CONTEST

At the G. T. R. picnic yesterday Mrs. A. Miles won the prize of the guessing contest for the number of beans in a jar. There were 4,993 beans in the jar and her guess was 4,993. Several guessed 5,000, and the second prize was awarded to Mrs. Miner, whose name was down by the committee in charge of the contest.

NOTES

During the whole day and the transferring of the large crowd to and from the Park, nothing whatever occurrdo to mar the day's outing.

The committees in charge of the various branches of the day's event were as follows:—A. Boyes, chairman; H. Diment, vice-chairman, and N. M. Kerr, secretary-treasurer.

Sports Committee:—W. Rogers, chairman; W. R. T. Wensley and Thos McCarbe.

Ticket Committee:—N. M. Kerr, chairman and H. Diment.

It was after 10 o'clock at night before all were safely conveyed home from the park.

After being ill for some months, Mr. Philip Flagler, a well known G. T. R. engineer residing in Belleville, passed away this morning at his late residence, Bleecker Avenue. Deceased, who was 58 years of age, was born at Consecon, Prince Edward County, being a son of the late Mr. Solomon Flagler. In early life the deceased came to Belleville an entered the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway. For upwards of 34 years he was a trustworthy engineer, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. Mr. Flagler a few years ago cansented to be a candidate for municipal honors, and for three years was a representative of Bleecker Ward, filling that position with honor to himself and the city. He was thoroughly conscientious in his dealing, and as a result made a host of friends. Mr. Flagler was a member of St. Michael's church and was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. A widow, six sons and three daughters survive. The sons are Harold, Stephen, Stanford, James, Bernard and Wilfred. The daughters are Aileen, Marguerite and Carmaletta, all of whom reside in Belleville. The heart-felt sympathy of all citizens will be extended to those called upon to mourn the loss of a beloved husband and a loving father.

QUEBEC COLLEGE GUTTED

QUEBEC, Aug. 2.—Volunteer firemen at noon were engaged in a strenuous battle with the fire which threatened the village of Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere.

The flames, after destroying the furnace rooms, the convent and a new wing of the college under construction, are attacking the old college structure, but are being fought with good prospect of success by hundreds of volunteers.

La Pocatiere has no organized fire brigade and there are only three small hydrants near the fire. Water pressure is nil and the only way the flames are kept from eating their way into the old college is by chemicals, and by the battering down of walls.

Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere College is one of the largest in the Province and embraces both a girls' and a boys' instituiton.

During the ceremony odes used in the service were most acceptably rendered by a choir which had been secured for the occasion and the rendering of the selections were all that could have been desired. At the conclusion of the dedicatory ceremony speech making was in order.

Bro. Sergt. Charles A. Gibson was called upon, and in rising to speak was accorded a hearty reception. He expressed his heartfelt thanks for the many acts of kindness which had been extended to him whilst at the front by members of the Order and also for kindnesses to his wife and family by the sisters of Rebekah. He had only done what he considered was his duty for King and Country.

Grand Master Bro. L. B. Cooper being called upon to speak said it was a great pleasure for him to be present on this occasion, and dedicate this temple for the assemblage of Oddfellows for the performing of principles of the Order. It has been a rather strenuous task to provide this new hall. When it was thought advisable to provide a home for the Oddfellows of Belleville the members of both the subordinate Lodges and members of the Rebekah branch were called together with the result that the property in which the hall is situated was purchased. The Grand Master spoke eulogistically of the Deputy Grand Master Bro. Parks of Toronto, who would in a few days be the Grand Master. He had proved to be a worthy assistant to the Grand master on every occasion.' During his terms of office of Grand Master he had dedicated three new halls. Whilst in office he had done the best for the Order. The past year had been a pleasant one and he had covered the district of Ontario. The sisters of Rebekah, had given much aid to the Order and their services were appreciated. He would hand the gavel over to a worthy successor. A quartette composed of Mrs. James Grant, Mrs. C. H. Nicholson, Mrs. Duff and Mrs. Laidman of Barrie, rendered very acceptable a selection.

Deputy Grand Master Bro. Parks of Toronto, spoke briefly in reference to the principle of the Order. The speaker referred to the daughters of the Rebekah and the good work they were accomplishing. In the smaller communities the principles of Oddfellowships are often more truly exemplified than in the larger centres. Let us learn the lesson of sacrifice, the lesson of sacrifice that the boys at the front have emulated for us at home. The speaker complimented the Oddfellows of Belleville upon the beautiful hall which had been dedicated by the Grand Master. He wished the lodges success also the lodge of the Daughters of Rebekah.

Grand Warden Bro. Mann of Hamilton, was called upon, and in his opening remarks referred to the pleasure it gave him to present at Belleville and take part in the dedication of the new hall. The speaker spoke at some length upon the principles of the Order, and the necessity there was of the members living up to the principles. He also spoke pleasingly of the Sisters of Rebekah and the good work they were accomplishing. Before closing the Grand Warden complimented Grand Master Cooper whom he characterized as one of the best Grand Masters the I.O.O.F. Society ever had to preside over it.

Rev. Bro. Cox of Gananoque, was the last speaker and his address was much appreciated. He spoke generally of the Order and the good it was accomplishing.

At the conclusion of the speeches, refreshments were served, the same being provided by the Sisters of Rebekah.

NOTES

The lighting of the lodge room is superb. There are six semi-indirect lamps which are supplied by 130 electric lamps of 130 power. The bowls are of porcelain of the latest design, and are suspended by three chains. Bro. J. Carter supplied the lamps and placed them in position.

Whilst the ceremony was in progress and between the speeches vocal selections were rendered. A female quartette composed of Mrs. James Grant, Mrs. Duff, Mrs. C. H. Nicholson of Belleville and Mrs. Laidman of Barrie, rendered selections which were of a high order and much appreciated by all in attendance.

Be Careful in Using Soap on Your Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it drives the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

JUSTICE FOR THE COATLESS MAN

(From the New York Sun)

Coroner Hoffman of Cook county, Illinois, has risen in his might as the champion of the rights of men. Chicago, restaurants refuse to entertain the coatless man, while permitting women to dine in thin low necked waists.

The issue is nationwide in its application. In the good old summer time the average man suggests by his custom that he belongs to the more conservative and reactionary, and therefore to the weaker sex. He refuses to adopt his attire to the weather, a reasonable step taken long ago by American ladies. Years before the men of this country had abandoned braces in hot weather in favor of belts, and women had discarded high necked, long sleeved upper garments for summer wear. On the hottest day last month of more than one hundred men in a subway car 80 per cent. wore waistcoats and at least 20 per cent. were dressed in black. Every woman in that same car was dressed, without sacrifice of modesty, in a fashion that assured the greatest possible coolness and comfort.

Why should a coatless man in a becoming shirt and using a belt instead of braces be persona non grata to the most exclusive restaurant in Chicago? Is his life less precious to the nation than that of the coolly garbed woman who dines with him? All hail to Corner Hoffman of Chicago! He has started a crusade in behalf of masculine comfort that will draw millions of becoated, overheated, men to his banner. Equality between the sexes in all places and under all circumstances is all that they demand.

THIS IS THE 653RD DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

A MURDEROUS DIVINITY.

We have read much, since the beginning of European hostilities, of the German Emperor's ardent belief in the divine appointment of kings—particularly German kings. Without doubting his sincerity as the divinely appointed military leader of the present age, the world has the right to question the spirit manifested by one of so exalted a calling.

Like the Pennsylvania coal baron, who a few years ago was divinely appointed to crush the miners, even in defiance of interference by the United States Government, with the result that coal soared to ten and twelve dollars per ton, creating untold suffering, the Emperor of Germany has sought, at the expense of weaker nations, to grasp the reins of power to the filling of his own coffers. But while the suffering entailed has been unlimited, and the expense of operations far up in the billions, the aspiration of Germany's war lord is as yet leagues short of its consummation.

Most of the western world had centuries ago outgrown the ambition for an existence so exalted. The Kaiser seemed to be the solitary remaining monarch possessing this degree of importance. With his natural intelligence and the progressive trend of his country, the enlightenment of the present-day Germany should have turned his mind to more modern thought, but it would seem that underlying all the show of enlightenment has been the pernicious idea of earthly power responsible only to divine authority, a divine authority created by the German imagination for German use, an idea tolerated by the few, blindly accepted by the many. In its name Belgium was laid waste, France was invaded, helpless women and children have been brutally slaughtered. For this idea of a German right and wrong, peculiar only to Germany, the empire is at war to-day with the other great Powers, and the current of sympathy in the countries not drawn into the war is strongly against her. It is the idea that must be crushed out of existence before this terrible war is finished.

When there is talk of crushing Germany, that is what is meant—the destruction of the vain belief which seems in the last two years to have obsessed the German dynasty, that it is fulfilling its destiny under a divine will that knows no compassion, a belief which leads it to discard all treaty obligations, while it tramples upon the rights of neighbors in its effort to extend upon the earth's surface a kind of power so repugnant to the rest of humanity. The Kaiser's delusion must be dispelled.

A NEW LIBERAL PLANK.

A new Liberal plank has been adopted by the "advisory committee," which met at Ottawa. It is designed, clearly enough, to appeal to the masses, providing, as it does, for old age pensions, nonemployment insurance, and the like. All of these questions have been discussed in the Federal Parliament within the past few years, and the attitude of the Government has been clearly expressed. Finance Minister White has said that such innovations are desirable, but that in his opinion the country is not yet ready for them.

The time is not opportune, thinks the Peterborough Review, with a war in progress, to make the radical changes which the Liberals suggest in their new platform. Pensioning the soldiers, who in this crisis are doing so much for the Empire, is now a question which transcends anything else. To provide for the disabled heroes, from the present outlook, will entail upon Canada a yearly burden of ten million dollars, and the chances are that this will be doubled before the end is reached. In view of this fact, there would appear very little room for a propoganda which would bring new financial responsibilities to the people.

TRUE LIBERALISM.

The Liberal Association of Toronto refused the other day to allow a reporter from a Conservative newspaper to be present at their political gathering, and ordered the reporter for the Mail and Empire to leave the room. Dark indeed must be their scheming when the public is not allowed to know what they do except through the varnished column of a Liberal journal.

Toronto Mail and Empire: The Ontario Government has shown praiseworthy promptness in dealing with the forest fire situation. It has hastened to the relief of the distressed survivors of the ravaged area. It undertakes to minister to their wants. Whatever the cost of the remedial measures that are necessary to be taken, however large the outlay required for giving a new start in life to those whom the fire has ruined, the Government has full warrant from the people of Ontario to make the expenditure. In taking upon itself the task of dealing with the situation the Government acts upon a right sense of responsibility. It might have encouraged an appeal for subscriptions by the public, but, having regard to the fact that new settlements are the care of the Land Department, and that for the demands on war account the purses of the people are kept open, it very properly took the matter wholly into its own hands. The Settlers' Loan Law it placed on the statute book in the last session of the Legislature comes into timely operation for the benefit of men whose property has been swallowed up in the fire.

As the New York Evening Post points out, with all the wonderful display in arms which the Germans have made, what is the story of the past two years but one long record of German plans miscarried and German hopes shrivelled in the blast of war? It is plain now that those hard-headed realists of war were capable of enormous miscalculations and in many ways acted like dreamers. They made a fatal omission in their reckonings. They card-indexed all the information to be had from all lands. Their spy system was world-wide, and believed to be perfect. They could tell you the quantity of copper ore in Newfoundland, the capacity of the nickel mines in Ontario, the location and staff of every pier in Montreal. They had pigeon holes for knowledge of all kinds. There was one thing that they omitted. They forgot the soul of man!

Nelson, B.C., Daily News: All indications in the prairie provinces point to another season of exceptional prosperity for the farmers of Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Prosperity for the farmers brings prosperity to the rest of the community and will mean millions of dollars in lumber and fruit sales to British Columbia. A big crop in the prairies brings no flash in the pan improvement in industrial and commercial conditions. British Columbia and its sister provinces on the plains are to-day continuing to make money out of the fine harvest of 1915. The benefits of the 1916 crop can be expected to continue over another lengthy period. With the prevailing activity, also, in mining industries, the optimism which at this time is so noticeable throughout the west is founded upon a solid basis!

"On the first of June, 1915," said David Lloyd George, the British Secretary for War, in conversation with Maurice Barres, the French academican and novelist, "the British army had one week's supply of munitions and only 75,000 shots in the reserve stock at the rear. It had nothing more. If there had been a great attack what would have become of us? If the Germans had turned upon our soldiers the forces they then hurled on the Russians I don't see how we could have saved ourselves."

Current Comment

Mr Fred Dane, who is in charge of the Northern Ontario relief work for the Government, said yesterday that from all available reports he fears that the loss of life may go as high as 400 or 500

Pierre L. Bark, Russian Minister of Finance, in an interview with the London Morning Post's financial editor, estimates Russia's present war expenditure at about £100,000,000 monthly.

The wisdom of refusing help from the business men of Old Ontario for the burned-out settlers of the North is doubtful. Unexercised powers of benevolence become atrophied.—Toronto Globe.

"Utter rot," was the comment of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson on the report in an evening paper that Premier Hearst was going to resign and that he would succeed to the rank of First Minister. "I am a follower, not a leader," he said.

Telegraphers employed by the New York Central and "Nickel Plate" Railroads are granted an eight per cent. increase in pay on lines west of Buffalo and ten per cent. on lines east of Buffalo in the award filed yesterday by the Federal Arbitration Board. Double pay on Sundays and annual vacations with pay are also granted.

Criticism of W. H. Hearst is not commendation of N. W. Rowell or Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Hearst Government is an ideal and enlightened body of statesmen compared to the Laurier governments and Ross governments that the South-west Toronto patriots have followed without a murmur of discontent.—Toronto Telegram.

The complete reestablishment of the independence of Belgium and Poland and a democratic federal union of the Balkan States, were points unanimously agreed upon at the opening of the International Socialist Conference at The Hague yesterday, according to a detailed account of the session received in London.

So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and with a stone, and smote the Philistine and slew him.—Toronto World. That is what will happen to "Billy" MacLean if he don't switch from his criticism on the nickel question. The public is becoming wearied of his continuous mud-throwing.

The operations on the Russian front continue to surpass those in the west in dramatic interest. The military critics express great admiration for the Russian tactics, one of the important objects of which, in their opinion, has been to isolate the Austrians from the German armies on the Russian front. This, it is now claimed, has been virtually accomplished by the Russians driving a wedge into the Austro-German positions along the front of Kovel-Vladimir-Volynski.

An incident of the great Northern Ontario fire was that of Mrs W. S. Imber of Cochrane, who with her year-old baby, saw her home swept up in an instant, and only managed to reach the railway station and safety in the nick of time. "We heard the fire bell first at 12.30," she said, "and by four in afternoon the whole place seemed to be in flames. Our own home went up, and the other houses on Sixth Avenue, all in about five minutes."

Things were doing yesterday in regard to nickel. The German undersea commerce boat Deutschland left Baltimore with a cargo of much-needed necessities for the enemy, including several hundred tons of refined nickel said to be valued at $600,000, so far as The World can gather, made absolutely in the United States by the International Nickel Trust, notwithstanding the assertions to the contrary so freely circulated in Canadian papers by the parties interested. — Toronto World. The World must have obtained a stock of "inside" information.

THE Oshawa Reformer tells of the "startling statement" recently made by the manager of a big Toronto Mail Order House. He said: We have a bureau whose duty it is to read the country paper. There is not a paper of any consequence in our territory we do not get. The bureau looks over these papers and when we find a town where the merchants do not advertise in the local papers, or where advertisers do not change their advertisements regularly, we immediately flood that Section with our catalogues and literature. It always brings results far in excess of the same effort put forth in territory WHERE THE LOCAL MERCHANTS USE THE LOCAL PAPERS."

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE

BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XIII.—Continued.

"And you are willing to aid Justice in her efforts to solve this mystery and place the guilt where it belongs?"

"Such a question is needless, sir."

"Surely, then, Mrs. Selkirk, you will not refuse to give ~~me what~~ information you can impart," said Nick, more pointedly. "Did you see anybody in the corridor immediately after leaving this room?"

The woman bit her lip when Nick repeated his question; then abruptly answered:

"Yes; I saw several persons. I saw you and the house detective coming from the elevator, also the man who runs it. I saw a young lady in blue, who fainted a moment later. You saw them also, and saw me, Mr. Mouser, so what need is there of your plying me with these questions? You know as much of the circumstances at that time as I know."

"Very true," Nick blandly admitted. "It is about what occurred just before that time, Mrs. Selkirk, that I wish to be informed."

"What do you mean by that, sir?"

"I will explain," said Nick. "I was in the hotel office when the crime was discovered by two men passing through the corridor, who at once shouted for help so loudly that they were heard by the man in the elevator. It took me at least two minutes to reach the adjoining hall, and probably longer than that for Foley, the elevator man, to go down to the lower floor and send word to the office. At least four or five minutes must have passed, Mrs. Selkirk, from the time two men shouted until I arrived in the corridor. What I wish to learn is this: Whom and what did you see out there immediately after hearing the shouts of the two men?"

Mrs. Selkirk's frown had become a scowl. She glared at Nick for a moment, cornered by his logical argument; then answered with sudden, sharp asperity:

"You are assuming too much. I cannot inform you what occurred out there, nor who was in the corridor. I did not hear any shouts."

"Yet they were uttered in the adjoining room," said Nick suggestively.

"I don't care if they were," snapped Nora. "I did not hear them. I only heard persons running through the hall. This may have been you and the house detective, for all I know. Both of you were running when I saw you."

"And when I saw you, Mrs. Selkirk, immediately after arriving in the corridor, you were several yards from the door of this suite, and nearly to that of the room in which Judge Packard was murdered. Obviously, then, you came into the corridor several seconds before either of the men you have mentioned came here, and it could not have been the sounds of their steps which drew you into the hall."

Cornered again, Mrs. Selkirk once more dodged for safety, taking a new direction. She drew herself up in her chair, clasped her jeweled hands to prevent their trembling, and curtly replied, with a scornful toss of her head:

"Have it your own way, Mr. Mouser, if you like. I haven't the gift of combating such arguments as you detectives are capable of making. I know only this, sir: I heard a disturbance, sounds as if men were running and I stepped into the corridor. I saw there what I have stated, nothing more nor less, and that's all there is to it."

"Well, that settles these few minor points which had occurred to me," Nick dryly rejoined. "Now, we'll go a step further. Do you know the young lady who fainted?"

"She was veiled. I did not see her face."

"Yet you may know who she was?"

"I do not."

"Did you not see her face when efforts were being made to revive her?"

"No; I merely glanced into the room in which Judge Packard was lying, and then returned to my own."

"Ah, I see," nodded Nick. "She departed a little later."

"So I have heard."

Mrs. Selkirk spoke coldly, haughtily, with the air of one who felt that she had established herself in a position from which she could not be shaken; but Nick saw plainly that this was entirely assumed, that only the remarkable nerve of the woman enabled her to maintain this outward composure. Having worried her into this state, in which he thought a slip of the tongue might very likely betray her, he began the more threatening attack for which he really had come there.

"According to your statements, Mrs. Selkirk, you did not leave this room for several minutes after the crime was committed?" he said, with subtly sinister intonation.

"Possibly not," Nora curtly retorted. "I have no means of knowing at just what moment it was committed."

"But you can tell me one thing?"

"What is that?"

"Why you remained so long after Mr. Fenno left?"

"Left where?"

"Here—Mr. Fenno!" cried Nora scharply. "What do you mean by that? Are you mad, Mr. Mouser?"

"Not at all," declared Nick, with aggravating assurance. "You understand, of course, that I am trying to establish Fenno's innocence. Being a friend of his, you are naturally anxious to aid me, and anything you confide to me may be to his interest. You need not tell me why he was here, unless you are willing; nor why he visited you. I do want to know, however, why he left here before you, and reached the scene of the crime several moments before you appeared in the corridor."

Nick was making this bluff only on the strength of what Fenno had told him, judging that the woman, in case he had hit the nail on the head, would infer that Fenno had broken some promise made to her, and that she would be led into admitting that he was calling on her just before the crime.

Nora Selkirk did not interrupt him, though her flush had quickly vanished, leaving her cheeks as gray as dead ashes. She listened with lips twitching, with her eyes glowing darkly under her knit brows; yet, when he had concluded, she startled Nick somewhat by breaking into a derisive laugh and crying sharply:

"Indeed, Mr. Mouser, you would be amusing if you were not so insolent. How dare you, sir, even intimate that Mr. Fenno was in my apartments, to say nothing of his having come here in disguise? You will find, sir, that——"

"That you are a very clever woman, Mrs. Selkirk, and very loyal to your friends," Nick interrupted, with a deprecatory wave of his hand. "What you say would sound very convincing to some, but the equivocation is entirely needless. You seem to forget that I, also, am Fenno's friend, and at work in his behalf. There is no occasion for subterfuge. I know, of course, that you bound him with a promise not to disclose, under any circumstances, his visit to your apartments, and that——"

"Mr. Mouser!"

"Oh, there is no occasion for resentment or alarm," Nick quickly went on, when Nora started angrily to her fleet. "There is none to hear us. Fenno will keep his word, and I am the last in the world to betray you. It is true, in the excitement immediately after his arrest, he forgot the promise he had made, and came very near breaking it. I saw, of course, that you checked him with a look when you appeared at the door, and that——"

"Stop right there, Mr. Mouser!"

White with indignation, trembling with suppressed passion, Nora Selkirk swept across the room and laid her hand on the knob of the door.

"If my husband were at home," she cried, turning with flaming eyes upon the detective, "he should eject you from my rooms. As it is, I have no alterative but to order you out myself. Go at once, sir! Go at once, or I'll ring for the servants."

Nick Carter arose from his chair, but he did not go. Instead, pausing near the table, he thrust his hands into his pockets and said coolly, yet with a look that caused the woman to shrink slightly and grasp the edge of the open door.

"You'll not ring, Mrs. Selkirk. Take a tip from me too, and close the door. It may be fully as well if we are not overheard, for I have something to add to what I have said. I shall remain, too, till I have said it."

The woman hesitated for a moment, still ghastly pale, yet as rigid as if every nerve in her body was strained to its utmost tension. Then she closed the door, placing her shoulders against it, and replied, with vicious asperity:

"Say it, then! Yet, I may say, your insolence is intolerable."

"It's not much," Nick returned, with ominous impressiveness. "You may deny, of course, that you know anything about this crime. You may declare, if you will, that Percival Fenno was not in this room when the murder was committed. But I, Mrs. Selkirk, do not believe either assertion. For some reason, you are bent upon hiding the truth."

"That is false!" exclaimed Nora, with bitter intensity. "I have told you only the truth."

Handsome Is That Handsome Doesn't.

The idea that handsome is that handsome does has caused so much trouble ever since it was first sprung upon an unsuspecting world that it is high time it is disposed of. In the first place, if you are really handsome, especially if you happen to be a girl, you don't have to do anything else. As a matter of fact, no beautiful girl ever does anything else. It isn't necessary for her to cook or sew or even talk. All she has to do is to sit still and be loved, and the line usually forms on the right.

If you do a thing, on the other hand, the mere fact that you have done it is supposed to insure your being handsome. What nonsense! If you do the handsome thing it will never be regarded as handsome by the only people whose opinion is worth while, because with them doing the handsome is so usual that it becomes commonplace. If you are homely nothing you do will be handsome.

To do a handsome thing, therefore, always start by being handsome. Then you won't have to do it.—Life.

A Grand Rout.

It is not always the largest foe who can make the greatest disturbance and cause the most confusion. In his "Hunting Grounds of the Great West" Richard Irving Dodge tells of a little incident of the Mexican war which proves that it is quality, not quantity, which is most effective.

While General Taylor's little army was marching from Corpus Christi to Matamoras a soldier on the flank of the column fired at a bull. The animal charged, and the soldier, taking to his heels, ran into the column. The bull, undaunted by the number of the enemy, followed him headlong, scattering several regiments like chaff, and finally escaped unhurt, having demoralized and put to flight an army which a few days after covered itself with glory by victoriously encountering five times its number of human enemies.

Popular Jokes.

The most popular joke which has been published in any language in the history of the world is stated to be that which appeared in an obscure corner of the Punch almanac for 1845. It read, "Advice to persons about to marry—Don't!" It would be interesting to know who was its author. Another, founded on a similar subject, was the "Advice to persons who have 'fallen in love'—Fall out!" One of the most brilliant things that ever appeared in our contemporary was the brief dialogue between an inquiring child and his impatient parent: "What is mind?" "No matter." "What is matter?" "Never mind."—Westminster Gazette.

Ecarlate

A Man's Dream Materialized.

By CLARISSA MACKIE

When Dacre married his friends said of him that any woman who allied herself to him would not be able to hold him. He was a man about town, a clubman, a man who was always welcome behind the scenes at the theaters and was very often found there, especially when the chorus and ballet girls were pretty. Some declared that the girl he married was one of a thousand; just the woman, in fact, to hold such a man as Dacre. One who was familiar with his makeup replied that if she did hold him she would have to do it in gauze and tights.

Dacre before the wedding made all sorts of promises to his fiancee. He would eschew theaters—that is, he would never go behind the scenes. He would cut all his old friends who were "fast." In short, he would make a model husband, devoted to his wife alone. That he loved her she did not doubt. What she feared was that some one would steal him away from her through his senses.

To every one's surprise, Dacre kept his promises. For a year he never went to the theater except with his wife. Then when the baby came and she had a new being to look after he was left occasionally alone of an evening. One night to pass the time he sought amusement in what for him was a dangerous place. The queen of the ballet captured him, and from that time forward he was devoted to a succession of dancers. At last the predictions of those who knew him best had come true. His wife's life was changed from happiness to misery.

Then came the peerless Ecarlate. Shortly before her coming Mrs. Dacre had exacted a promise from her husband that he would abstain from an acquaintance with any more women of the stage. He kept his promise, but every night that Ecarlate danced he was in his accustomed seat in the theater. He had been captivated by the poetry of motion and could not look upon the dancer except with a mad temptation to break his word to the woman he really loved.

One night when Dacre was at the theater just before the dancer came on the stage the lights were lowered and the orchestra softly played a dream waltz. Then came a change.

The violins suddenly swept into a legato movement, and as if treading lightly on the delicate measure a small scarlet clad form swayed on to the darkened stage and fluttered there until the cold circle of the spot light searched and found her.

It held her there, a quivering creature of tantalizing mystery, a baffling airy thing of midnight hair, glorious eyes and unknown features, for Ecarlate was always masked.

Dacre leaned with his elbows on the railing of the box, and quite oblivious to significant glances he watched the dancer. He stared at her until his heart ached with longing that the mask might be lifted so that he could feast his eyes on the loveliness which he had never yet seen.

His eyes never left her while she danced. Occasionally she flashed a melting glance toward the box where he always sat when she danced, and then her head was turned aside so that he might see that she wore his nightly offering, a scarlet cactus flower tucked in the duskiness of her wonderful hair.

"My scarlet beauty!" he muttered restlessly as she swayed in the dizzy mazes of her famous butterfly dance.

Scarlet she was from the flower in her hair to the tips of her tiny satin slippers.

With snowy arms she lifted the scarlet chiffon wings of her filmy skirts, her head fell back, and she melted into the rhythm of one of her character dances.

When it was over she withdrew, her arms loaded with flowers, her eyes smiling at Dacre's frowning face.

For an hour he sat on the lounge of his club, drinking a little, thinking all the time of the strange woman whom he madly loved, although her face was unknown to him. Even her home was an impenetrable mystery. She came and went like a bright meteor flashing across the midnight sky. Her managers were dumb on the subject. It was whispered that she was of royal birth.

It was nearly midnight when Dacre let himself into his own house and gave his hat and overcoat to a sleepy servant.

"Is Mrs. Dacre out this evening?" he asked, with a foot on the stair.

Dacre went on up the stairs and turned into his own room. For a moment he hesitated; then he crossed to the door of his wife's dressing room and laid his hand on the glass knob. Would it respond to his pressure? His hand gripped the knob. It turned, and he entered his wife's apartments.

Eve Dacre sat in her boudoir under the glow of pink shaded lamps. She wore a negligee of rose colored silk, and her dark, piquant face seemed to reflect the tender glow.

She looked up as he entered, and a cold little smile curved her lips and drifted away.

"Ah, you are home!" she said. "Did you enjoy the play?"

"I went to the Venus," he said frigidly.

Now Mrs. Dacre laughed softly. "The Venus, of course! I, too, was there."

"You?" he stammered.

"Yes. It was all rather stupid, was it not? Always excepting Ecarlate!"

He was silent. His mouth was white, and his gray eyes looked cold and impenetrable.

Eve arose and crossed to the phonograph. She slipped in a record, set it in motion and returned to lean over the back of her chair, looking at her husband with grave, dark eyes, while the tender strains of Ecarlate's dance rose and fell.

"What are you doing that for?" he demanded fiercely.

"Jack," she said in a voice suddenly weary, "let us be frank with each other. You want your freedom. Am I right?"

"You are dead wrong!" he retorted doggedly.

"But Ecarlate?" Her voice dropped to a whisper.

"We will not talk of her."

"And those that came before Ecarlate," she went on, while the haunting music made a background for her passionate words. "I have overlooked. I have forgiven, and now it is Ecarlate. You love her. You dare not deny it!"

Again he was silent. He looked at her, noting, with a shock of surprise, that there were silver threads in Eve's dark hair and lines about her mouth and eyes—lines that he had graven there. Eve was only twenty-five, and he was killing her youth.

Suddenly she drew a long breath.

"What is it about these women that attracts you? What charm do they possess that is not mine?"

Still he did not answer.

She swayed a little and turned away.

"Ecarlate is here! I am sending her to you!"

"Ecarlate here? You are mad!" he exclaimed. But the gentle closing of the door sent him quivering to a chair.

The music played steadily on—that eternal butterfly dance. He began to hate it. What was Ecarlate doing here—in his house? It was like a jealous woman to take revenge, but he had believed Eve above such trickery.

Ecarlate!

The repetition of her name, the familiar music, and again the old enchantment fell upon him. He watched the door for her appearance. What would she look like? Beautiful, of course! He forgot that Eve would accompany the dancer.

He jumped up when the door slowly opened to admit Ecarlate's scarlet clad form. She was alone.

The door closed and left her leaning against the white paneled surface, panting a little, as if afraid.

He made one step toward her, but in that instant she left the door and swayed like a butterfly in the mazes of her dance. Delicately she poised before him, and then, before his outstretched hand could touch her, she had melted away beyond his reach.

Her tiny scarlet shoes seemed to barely touch the floor; she floated; her chiffon wings beat the air; the jeweled band above her forehead blazed with myriad lights; the cactus flower flamed like a burning heart.

Suddenly the music ceased, and the dancer was once more leaning against the white door of Eve's dressing room. Through her black mask her eyes gleamed strangely.

Dacre clinched his hands. Ecarlate, standing there with outstretched scarlet winged arms, appeared like a scarlet angel barring him from his wife's room.

He stared at her smiling lips, at the alluring sparkle of her eyes peering oddly at him through the mask, at her black hair with its dazzling band of brilliants.

Suddenly he remembered that his wife's hair was black, but it was threaded with silver. He had placed the silver threads there.

"Allow me to pass," he said.

She laughed, a merry, trickling, mocking laugh that ended suddenly in a sob of pain.

His hand had closed on her tender flesh.

"Will you let me pass?" he asked through clinched teeth.

"You love me!" she whispered tensely.

He was silent.

"Say you love me!" she repeated.

He lifted his hand and deliberately tore aside the mask.

For several minutes he stared at Ecarlate's face. How many times had he yearned to tear away the mask and feast his eyes on her unknown loveliness!

It was a face such as he had never imagined in his wildest dreams of her.

Suddenly she covered it with little jeweled hands.

Then he spoke.

"I love you!" he cried vehemently. "I have always loved you! It was because you were behind the mask that I loved you, and you alone!"

She melted into his arms, and he held her there.

Ecarlate no longer barred the door to his wife's room. She was in his arms. His wife was in his arms.

"She froze him with a glance."

The man read this aloud from a novel.

"Try that on the ice cream, my dear," he suggested.

Quick Wit On the Stage.

Richard Mansfield created the role of Beau Brummel. W. J. Ferguson acted the valet in the original production. In the character of the valet it was Ferguson's place to hand the Beau his gloves, his stick and finally his hat. Upon the opening night he proffered the hat to Mansfield, turned the wrong way around. Had the Beau put on the hat in the way it was handed to him and strolled down Piccadilly or Bond street the faux pas might have created a scandal. When Ferguson discovered his error he turned pale under his makeup.

Mansfield was quick to grasp the situation and with one of his most courtly bows gave the hat back to the valet so that he might turn it around, which Ferguson did with pantomimic apology.

As Mansfield put on the hat and passed out of the door he whispered to Ferguson: "That's a good piece of business. Keep it in."

Enough Said.

A railroad lawyer who has had much to do with human nature says, "Never cross question an Irishman from the old sod." And he gave an illustration from his own experience:

A section hand had been killed by an express train, and his widow was suing for damages. The main witness swore positively that the locomotive whistle had not sounded until after the whole train had passed over his departed friend.

"See here, McGinnis," said I. "You admit that the whistle blew?"

"Yis, sor, it blew, sor."

"Now if that whistle sounded in time to give Michael warning the fact would be in favor of the company, wouldn't it?"

"Yis, sor, and Mike would be testifying here this day."

The jury giggled.—Case and Comment.

Shakespeare Censored.

The dramatic censorship in England today, much as it is abused, is very mild compared to what has been known in former periods when many of Shakespeare's plays have been censored. Colley Cibber in his autobiography tells us of one master of the revels, who was responsible for the licensing of plays in his days, expunging the whole first act of Cibber's adaptation of "Richard III." on the ground that the distresses of Henry VI. would remind weak people of King James, then living in France. On another occasion "King Lear" was inhibited during the illness of George III. George Colman when reader of plays banned the use of such words as "angel" and "heaven."—London Mail.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

CONCERT FOR 154TH BATTALION

Tuesday night the 154th Battalion were given a most delightful concert program by the ladies who have done so much towards making Barriefield camp pleasant for the men in khaki. The large recreation tent of the 154th has been well lighted and seated and in spite of the fact that so many of the battalion are away on farm furloughs, the tent was nicely filled by a most appreciative and responsive audience. Those who believe that a Scotch audience cannot be easily moved to demonstration, should have been at the concert last night to have their minds disabused of any such thought. Most of the selections were Scotch, and every number was encored. Those who took part in the program were: Mrs. Captain Dodds, Miss Phyllis Devlin, Miss Frances Devlin, Miss Haggarty, Miss Anita Sutherland, Mr. Wendley Shaw, Sergt. Morrison, Private Hill, Captain Wrightmeyer, Captain Robinson, Sergt. Lou Marchand. It would be impossible to do justice to each participant in a brief notice such as a crowded military news column affords, but it should be said that every officer and soldier voted it the most delightful time the battalion has had in camp, and pressed all to come again, Dr. J. G. Evans acted as chairman. At the close Lt.-Col. Macdonald thanked all for the fine service they had rendered the 154th, and expressed the hope that another such program would be given shortly. Cheers for the King and the singing of the national anthem brought the program to a close. Those who took part in the program, with a large number of ladies who attended the concert were entertained in the officers mess afterwards by Col. Macdonald and his staff.

HE GOT "THANK YOU"

A launch was stalled on the St. Lawrence river for over an hour on Monday at noon, directly opposite the summer camp of Lt.-Col. Macdonald. It was one of the expensive kind with six ladies and two gentlemen on board. One of the pioneers of the 154th battalion rowed out a distance of a mile from the shore, located the difficulty, started the engines going, and came back to shore with just the bare "thank you" of the owner and occupants of the boat. It was the opinion of all who saw the act that such generosity deserved a longer wait on the river with no help from shore.

NO MEDALS OR RIBBONS

It is again published for the information and guidance of all concerned, that no issue of a commemorative medal or ribbon for service in any campaign in connection with the present war has yet been sanctioned.

Commanding officers will take steps to ensure that those under their command do not wear unauthorized ribbons or any medal ribbons to which they are not entitled.

LETTERS FROM OVERSEAS

FROM EUGENE DOYLE

Bramshott Camp, July 12.

Dear Mother:—Just a few lines in answering your kind and welcome letter, and I was very glad to hear from you, and to learn you were all well. Well, mother dear, I received the five dollars all right, and God bless you for sending it, for I was broke and we only draw £1 a month over here, that is $4.98, and it only lasts a few days. Well, Mother, I am getting along fine and in the best of health. I was at the dentist's and got my teeth fixed to-day. I haven't seen Charlie or Johnny yet, but I have written to them. I haven't received any answer yet, but as soon as I hear from them I will let you know.

Well, Mother, you asked me if I wanted anything that you could send. If you could I would like to have some socks and some cigarettes, for the ones we get over here are not much good, and I would like to have some from Canada. I am sending you a little I made up while on guard one night, and you can put it in the paper if you want to.

I haven't much more to say for I can't get away to find out anything, but I will write real often and that will be just as good. Don't forget to send me what I asked for, and remember me to all the boys and give my best love to Leo and all the rest of the family. I will will say God bless you all keep you safe.

Your loving son,
EUGENE.

The following verses are the ones spoken of in the above letter, composed by the writer, Pte. Eugene Doyle, to his mother, Mrs. James Doyle, of 37 Cedar Street, Belleville:

MY BEST PAL, MY MOTHER

May God watch forever between me and thee,
When we are absent from one another.
Are the words that I send with a heart full of love,
To the best of dear pals—my mother.

For King, Queen and Country we're fighting.
Honor and right is our watchward true.
Though might at first seemed to hold the sway.
Nothing shall conquer the Red, White and Blue.

'Twas some time since I left my loved home,
To answer old England's cry.
The parting was hard, but she tried to be brave.
There was a tear in my dear mother's eye.

God bless you, said she; God bless you said I.
For of mothers no man had a better.
And while I'm in camp here, or out at the front.
She knows I shall never forget her.

So cheer up, dear Mother, my truest of pals.
Though at parting your heart may feel sore.
We will all look forward with hearts full of hope,
To true happiness when peace comes once more.

The Frankford Overseas Club

On the Public School Grounds, on Friday evening last, a public reception was tendered by the Club and citizens to Pte. E. E. Ketcheson, who has recently returned from the front incapacitated for further active service. The following address was read by the President, Miss A. L. Carroll:—

Dear Pte. Ketcheson,—

It is with feelings of greatest happiness that we, the members of the Frankford Overseas Club, assemble here this evening to greet and extend to you a thousand welcomes to this your boyhood home.

Three months ago, the sad tidings, "Ed. Ketchesen is wounded," flashed over the wires. The deepest sorrow prevailed for yourself and your dear ones at home. Day by day we thought of you and prayed for your speedy recovery. Little did we think that so soon we would have you with us again, here in this paradise of rest, far away from the battle-scarred fields of Europe. And, while we regret your sufferings, we trust you will wear your wounds and scars with less pain than pleasure until your final recovery.

This indeed is an unique event. It is the first opportunity we have had to welcome home a Frankford hero. You answered the first call of King and Country, and by your manly courage and noble heroism you have helped to make the name "Canada" a household word throughout the civilized world, and helped the Allied nations realize that Canada is indeed a nation.

And now, Pte. Ketcheson, permit me to repeat it affords us the greatest pleasure to welcome you among us again.

(Signed)
ALICE L. CARROLL, President.
EDITH FRASER, Vice-President
GLADYS CLARK, Treasurer.

With Rev. B. F. Byers as chairman, many of the townsmen were called on for a few remarks. Later Dr J. U. Simmons read an address and presented Pte. Ketcheson with a gold watch-chain and locket from the citizens, after which lunch was served.

Facts are stubborn things. Even theories won't always do as they are told.

The Canadian Patent Office

---Recognizing Something New

Has Granted a Patent, Both on the Form of Flake and Process of Manufacture of

New Post Toasties

This remarkable recognition—no other corn flake on the market has achieved it—marks this new food as something distinctly different from "corn flakes" of the past.

What is This Difference?

Compare New Post Toasties with the average corn flake—observe the tiny "bubbles" which cover their surface—These bubbles are caused by a new method of cooking, rolling and toasting under quick, intense heat.

By this process the true corn flavour is developed in all its sweetness. Eaten dry they are a delicious morsel. With cream or milk they are a revelation to the taste. Note the "substance" of New Post Toasties. Unlike old-style "corn flakes" they do not crumble or "chaff" in the package, and do not mush down under milk or cream. They are wonderfully delicious.

New Post Toasties come to you direct from the giant ovens of our great factories, untouched by human hand and triply sealed in a moisture-proof container which preserves their fresh Golden Goodness for your table.

Hildegarde

How She Decided Between Two Unruly Suitors.

By F. A. MITCHEL

The modern traveler steaming up the river Rhine will pass not far from its junction with the Moselle in quick succession the ruins of three castles, each perched on an eminence.

There is nothing so inviting to a dreamer as to picture in its prime what has belonged to a distant past. In gazing up at one of these piles of stone he sees its towers rising above the battlements, its ensign floating from the highest point. A drawbridge is lowered, and out pour a troop of armed men. Some merchant traveler has been seen in the valley, and these horsemen are going to extract from him the wherewithal for their suzerain to support this proud establishment, or perhaps a company of a different kind will emerge—

A glimmering, glittering cavalcade of knights and ladies, and every one
In princely sheen arrayed.

On what mission are they bent? Is it merely for exercise and pleasure, or do they carry some important message to a neighbor or the emperor?

This may now be fancy, but there was a time when it was not. That heap of stones was once what the imagination recalls. Time and again men at arms rode down upon the luckless merchant. As for the knights and ladies—

* * * They rode and rode, and the steeds they neighed
And pranced, and the sun on their glossy hides
Flickered and lightened and glanced and played
Like the moon on rippling tides.

These three castles were once occupied, one by Baron Hugemont, another by Count Herbert Ballenstein and the third by Baron Carl Steigler. Hugemont was an old man; the other two were young. Hugemont, having passed an age where a man is ready to fight for what concerns him, was in an unpleasant position. He possessed a daughter that each of his two neighbors wanted to wed. If he gave her to Ballenstein he feared to offend Steigler; if he gave her to Steigler he would incur the enmity of Ballenstein. And this is the burden of my story.

Hildegarde was kept at school in Cologne till she was seventeen years old. Till then she had seen neither Ballenstein nor Steigler, nor had they seen her. When she had finished her education her father, in order that she should make her debut in the social world of the region in which she lived, gave for her a hunting party, to which the neighboring nobles were invited. One bright morning a company of knights and ladies were gathered in the courtyards of the castle, each with a falcon on the wrist; the drawbridge was lowered, and the cavalcade emerged.

From the moment Count Herbert and Baron Carl saw Hildegarde each was attracted to her. As the company rode out from the castle it was led by her with one of these young men [illegible] hand. When they rode back again she was still thus flanked, for neither would give way to the other.

On the face of each man was a scowl flashed now and again at his rival, while between them, like an angel between two devils, rode the smiling maiden.

When her father heard of this rivalry he was sore distressed. He was a shrewd old man and foresaw that since he had the disposition of his daughter's hand the burden of a decision would fall upon him, and him alone. It would avail nothing for the rivals to fight each other for Hildegarde, because the victor could not claim the prize. The baron that same evening called her into his cabinet and said:

"My daughter, this rivalry that has sprung up between Count Herbert Ballenstein and Baron Carl Steigler may result disastrously for us. If I give you to the count the baron, incensed, will pick a quarrel with me, and I shall not be able to protect myself against him. If I give you to the baron I shall have the same to fear from the count. I am thinking of solving the problem by sending you away."

"Calm your fears, father. If these young men apply to you for my hand tell them that I alone will decide which I will take for a husband; that you have nothing to do with the matter. I will manage it so that neither will have cause to be wroth with you or even with me, and yet I will marry the one I want."

"Then you have a preference?"

"I have."

"Is it the baron or the count?"

"To tell you that, dear father, would not be wise. In fact, you must reveal to no one that I have already chosen."

"Very well, my daughter. I sincerely hope that you may succeed in averting a catastrophe."

With that he kissed his daughter and she returned to her apartments.

The very next morning Count Herbert rode into the castle courtyard and asked to see the baron. He was admitted to the old man's presence and made a formal application for Hildegarde's hand. He was evidently aware that his rival would make the same demand and showed a certain irritation. He did not say that he would not be refused, but his manner conveyed that impression. When he was informed that Hildegarde would choose for herself in the matter of a husband he was surprised, for in those days girls were not consulted as to whom they would marry. However, he made a virtue of necessity and accepted the situation. Indeed, he could not very well do anything else.

As he rode over the drawbridge he met Baron Carl Steigler entering the castle. Steigler knew the reason for the count's having been there, and the count knew the reason of Steigler's coming. They saluted each other formally as they passed, Ballenstein riding homeward and Steigler passing into the courtyard. The latter made the same application as the former and received the same reply. Since his suit was left with the lady alone, there was nothing to do but accept the situation and leave his fate in her hands.

Both suitors were informed that Hildegarde would need some time in which to make up her mind, and in the interval she would treat them both as friends. A message was sent to them that they would be received on alternate weeks, and since Baron Herbert Ballenstein had been the first to offer himself he would be received first. He called at the castle nearly every day during the period and offered presents. But Hildegarde, though she received him affably, declined to accept gifts from him or his rival. Steigler was also received kindly, but neither of them was given any reason to believe that he was the favorite suitor.

To social gatherings which took place at the castle both men were invited, and Hildegarde met them at other affairs given by her neighbors. At these meetings she was careful to show no mark of favor to the one that she did not grant the other. Her father, whom she had told she had made choice between them, watched her often when she was with one or both of the rivals in order to discover which she would choose, but he was not able to detect the slightest difference.

Meanwhile the suitors, being held in suspense, were growing impatient, each averring that the condition was becoming unendurable and if the lady did not soon come to a decision he would vent his wrath on his rival. To this she responded that if they killed each other she would be relieved of the necessity of making a choice. This quieted them for a time, but not for long.

When Hildegarde was ready to give the advantage to the one or the other she informed them that they were equally attractive, equally wealthy, both noble, and it would be impossible for any maiden to choose between them; the matter must be left to chance. If they would agree to abide by fortune's decision instead of her own she would provide the means. They must pledge themselves to hold only fate accountable for the result and take no revenge upon any one.

Had not the suitors been worn out with waiting they could not have been brought to accept this method of decision. As it was, one of them gave in, which compelled the other to do the same. They were summoned to the castle on the same day and hour, where they found Hildegarde in an apartment in the center of which was a table, and on it stood two candlesticks. A servant brought in a candle mold and some melted tallow. Pouring the tallow into the mold, he permitted it to cool, then removed two candles, which he handed to his mistress.

"You see," she said to her suitors, "that these candles, having been made in the same mold, are exactly the same size. They should burn an equal length of time. Nevertheless there will be some difference, if only a few seconds."

She directed the servant to turn his back to her and handed him one of the candles, and he was to give it to either the baron or the count, as he liked. He handed it to the count. The other candle remained for the baron. Each man was asked to place his candle in one of the holders. Then Hildegarde put the wicks together and lighted them at the same time by the same flame.

"Gentlemen," she said, "my reply to the honor you have done me is in these candles. I will marry him whose candle burns the longer."

Every provision had apparently been made to leave the decision in the hands of fate. It did not seem possible that either suitor could be favored above the other. The candles were of such length that they would burn about an hour. While they were burning the suitors were in an agony of suspense. They were free to go from the room and return to it at will. The baron walked back and forth most of the time in the courtyard, the count doing the same elsewhere. To them the life of the candles seemed interminable, but they burned so evenly that no eye could detect any difference. When only a quarter of an inch remained to each Baron Steigler's candle seemed to indicate that its combustion was a trifle less than Count Ballenstein's.

From this point the difference grew more and more perceptible, and when Ballenstein's candle was flaring in the socket the wick of Steigler's was still in its original position. Both men were now bending over the candles, Ballenstein's face white as marble. Presently, without waiting for his candle's last flicker, he rushed from the room and, mounting his horse, left the castle.

Then the baron advanced, took Hildegarde in his arms, and, looking up, she gave him the first expression of love he had ever seen in her eyes.

When her father congratulated her he said to her: "It is fortunate, my child, that, though you left the decision to chance, you are to marry the man of your choice. That is evident."

"Tush, papa! It is now safe to tell you another secret. Will you keep it?"

"Of course."

"I put salt on the wick of Carl's candle. That made it burn more slowly."

Allies Waive Right and Help Neutral Nations

Will Release Some International Securities So as Not to Cause Inconvenience

LONDON, August 3—Without waiving the right it claims to seize international securities as contraband, the Government has decided to release a number of such consignments and permit them to be forwarded to their neutral destinations. The Foreign Office has given out the following explanation of this action: "In recent cases His Majesty's Government have detained and placed in the prize courts a large number of consignments of securities of enemy origin, amounting to several millions of dollars, passing in the mails between the United States. Various representations have been received from the government of the United States as well as the other governments concerned. His Majesty's Government believe they have the right to treat such securities when found in the mails in the same way as any other enemy exports and they understand from the note regarding mails addressed to them from the Government of the United States that the latter does not claim that these securities are entitled to special immunity as postal correspondence. In view, however, of representations received regarding the damage caused genuine neutral intersts by seizures made in the past, His Majesty's Government have decided to waive what they believe to be their strict rights and to release a number of these consignments and forward them to their destinations. The allied Governments maintain their right to intercept such securities in the future, but they have concluded arrangements whereby neutral business will be safeguarded from inconvenience and neutral transactions may be made with certainty of freedom from seizure..

Kitchener Club At Bowmanville

Purpose is to Stimulate and Sustain Interest in the War

BOWMANVILLE, Aug. 4.—(Special)—John Elliott, Manager of the Standard Bank, Belleville, was the principal speaker at a mass meeting of citizens of Bowmanville last night, Mayor Mitchell presiding. Following a stirring appeal by Mr Elliott commemorative of the second anniversary of the opening of the war, Capt. W. G. Clarke, chaplain of the 235th Battalion (Northumberland and Durham), presented a motion for the organization of a Kitchener Club, the purpose being to stimulate and sustain interest in the war. Among the plans set forth the following are worthy of note:—Addresses by men of note; giving assistance in recruiting; co-operation in looking after the welfare of the families whose men are in khaki; co-operation in looking after the interests of returned soldiers; promoting any measures that may be practical for meeting conditions that will arise after the cessation of hostilities.

ALL NIGHT FIGHTING COSTLY TO THE ENEMY

Ferocious Attacks by German Forces Bring Only Heavy Losses—Allies Retire Owing to Heavy Artillery Fire, But Capture Eighty Prisoners—Squadrons of Allied Airships Drop Bombs on Railroad Stations and Factories

Canadian Press Special.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—Afternoon statement—On the right bank of the Meuse the battle continued along Thiaumont and Fleury front, which the Germans attacked all last night with great ferocity. Several counter attacks in large numbers upon our positions near Thiaumont works were repulsed with eavy losses for our adversaries. In the course of this fighting our troops even occupied Thiaumont work, but they were compelled subsequently to evacuate it under powerful German bombardment. They brought back with them eighty prisoners.

There has been fighting no less violent in the region of Fleury. The Germans multiplied the number of counter attacks upon this village. Each was preceded by an intense preparatory artillery fire. After several fruitless endeavors the Germans secured a footing in the southern part of Fleury, where very spirited fighting is still going on. All efforts made to dislodge us from our position to the southeast of this village were checked by the resistance of our troops. The enemy attacked in ilke manner during the night our positions to the east of Vacherauville. They succeeded only in suffering heavy losses. In the vicinity of Vaux Lechapitre and Chenois artillery fighting has been very spirited. In Vosges the enemy delivered upon the sallient at Lachapelotte an attack which was, however, dispersed before our adversaries could reach our lines. The night passed in relative quit on the remainder of the front. During the night one of our air squadrons threw down eighty shells of large calibre on the railroad station at Noyon, and on a munitions factory. Fifty shells were thrown down by another squadron upon railroad stations and bivouacs of of enemy in the region of Somme.

Japan Behind Slav Successes

Japanese Ambassador in Canada Says Major Part of Munitions Made in Japan

TORONTO. August 3.—Marquis Inouze, Japanese Ambassador to the court of St. James, arrived in Toronto last night on his way from London, Eng., to his home in Japan. His Excellency, in the course of an interview discussed Japan's relations to the present war and its future relations with the Allies in the compact of peace.

He ridiculed the idea of a "yellow peril," which, he said, was started by the Kaiser. The purpose was to cover up his own ambitions in China, which were to make the country a German India.

"Will you give Kiau Chow back to Germany after the war?" he was asked.

"We will give it back to China, to whom it belongs," he replied, adding, "Japan is playing a large part in the war. All our Government arsenals and our private industries are mobilized against Germany. We are doing everything possible to help the Russians. We are sending munitions to the eastern front via Vladivostock. I might safely say that Japan has supplied the major part of the munitions that are being used by the Russians in their present offensive, and in that way we have contributed a great deal toward the Russian success."

Referring to the conference of Paris on the commerical alliance after the war, the Marquis said Japan was represented there and subscribed to all the resolutions passed, and that they would carry out all their agreements with the allied nations.

German Submarine Dashes Out To Sea As British Patrol Waits—Reaching Capes Deutschland Dives

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 3.—Somewhere out in the Atlantic to-day the German merchant submarine Deutschland and allied warships were believed to be playing hide and seek as the undersea boat sped homeward after passing out of the Virginia Capes last night.

The Deutschland submerged a mile off tho coast shortly before nine o'clock, and, so far as known here, was unobserved by the allied warships patrol guarding the Capes against her escape.

The final dash was virtually without incident. Eighteen miles up the Chesapeake Baye, at the crossing of the Old Point and Cape Henry channels, the submarine began to gather speed and soon was hurrying towards the Atlantic. With only a slight delay after reaching the Capes, she dashed into the sea and submerged. Only one warship, a United States torpedo destroyer was sighted by the submersible in her entire trip from Baltimore, Capt. Hinsch, of the tug Timmins, declared.

Motor Boats Collide in Harbor

Pleasure Launch Smashed Into By Speedy Boat and Sank in Fifteen Feet of Water

CLAYTON, N.Y., Aug. 3.—While cruising about Clayton harbor on Tues day evening Hayes Lafaive and Miss Florence McKinley had a thrilling experience when their motor boat was struck by the speedy craft of Leander Denny, jr., and so badly crushed that it sank in fifteen feet of water just as the terrified occupants reached a wharf two hundred feet from where the accident occurred. The force of the impact was such that the bow of the Denny craft protruded five feet through the Lafaive craft, pinning Lafaive under it.

Denny backed his boat off and proceeded on his way down the harbor, while Lafaive though badly injured by the collision, turned his damaged and leaking boat about and made a dash for the wharf. He reached it as his craft sank, and friendly hands pulled him and his companion from the water.

Witnesses state that Lafaive had the right of way, and that the prescribed lights were burning properly. A legal action will likely result.

SEA MURDER BY HUN SUBS

Passengers on Italian Liner Are Latest Victims

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(Special.)—The Italian mail steamer Letimbro has been sunk by a submarine and twenty-eight survivors have arrived at Malta, says a Reuter despatch from that place. Two boatloads with survivors have also arrived at Syracuse.

The Letimbro carried a crew of fifty-seven and her passengers numbered 113. It is believed that a large number of them lost their lives. The passengers included women and children.

Survivors report that a submarine was observed at a distance of about 6,000 metres. It fired a warning shot and then gave chase, firing continuously for half an hour. It finally overtook the Letimbro, which had begun to lower boats.

"The submarine," adds the despatch, "continued its bombardment, smashing five boats, the occupants of which perished. Some of the survivors say that many were killed by shell fire.

Premier Hearst Says That Sufferers are Receiving Every Attention

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—Special—Premier Hearst issued a statement yesterday announcing that everything possible is being done to assist the sufferers of the great bush fires in Northern Ontario and that the situation is now well in hand. The statement reads: "Conditions are improving rapidly in the north. The injured are all doing well, and some 300 of the fire sufferers have now been transported to their homes in Ontario and Quebec. Bodies are now being shipped out to those whose relatives desire them to be sent to outside points. The call for clothing has been splendidly and generously responded to, and there will be ample to take care of all the demands. There are plenty of food supplies now on hand."

MODEL LOG CABIN DESTROYED BY FIRE

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—(Special.) —New Ontario will depend this year for an exemplification of its owndeful resources at the Exhibition upon the mineral display arranged by the Government. Some time ago arrangements had been made with the Exhibition for a large space at the corner of Landsdowne Avenue, just across from the grand stand. Here was to be erected a model settler's cabin on a miniature farm. It was quite the most effective Exhibition display yet planned by the Government. The logs had all been cut, peeled and fashioned into a dwelling. The plan was to ship it to the Exhibition in sections within the next few days. Unfortunately the whole exhibit fell prey to the flames in last week's fire, and for this Exhibition, at least, Timiskaming will have no grain exhibit.

TRIUMPH FOR FRENCH ON VERDUN FRONT

Retake Village of Fleury, Also Capture Whole System of Works Southeast of Thiaumont—By a Powerful Thrust General Nivell's Troops Regain Possession of Positions—1,750 Germans Taken

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Special— The French counter-offensive north-east of Verdun to-day reached its climax in a powerful blow which has resulted in the complete recapture of Fleury and the whole system of highly-organized defences from south-east of Thiaumont to the Froid Terre ridge.

After a series of almost uninterrupted attacks during the night and in the forenoon on the four-mile front from the Meuse to the woods west of Damloup the French this afternoon concentrated all their power in a tremendous thrust on the one-mile Thiaumont-Fleury line. They smashed forward on this front for a distance of about a quarter of a mile through very powerful field works. To-night they had counted more than 650 prisoners.

The French night official report recording the victory says:

"On the right bank of the Meuse our infantry, continuing its offensive action on the Thiaumont-Fleury front during the day, by a series of successive attacks captured all the trenches between these two points, as far as the south-east of Thiaumont work and to the edges of Hill No. 320. The village of Fleury, attacked seimultaneously from the north-west and south-east, has been entirely re-occupied by our troops after a brilliant action.

"The number of prisoners taken in this action, so far counted, is more than 650, making a total of 1,750 unwounded prisoners taken by us on the right bank of the Meuse since August 1. At about the same time as the Fleury fighting we delivered a violent attack in the region of Chenois, which enabled us to recapture the greater part of the ground lost on the day before yesterday."

The village of Fleury was attacked from two sides, the north-west and south-east. In previous attacks the French had advanced as far as the ruined railway station against furious resistance. Then, after the big guns had been given time to clear a path, the infantry again swept forward, this time to complete victory.

Close Call For Small Child

Fire Started in Valise While Little One Lay Asleep on a Bed

KINGSTON, Aug. 3.—When fire started in the home of Robert Warren, at 174 York street, on Wednesday morning, at 9.16 o'clock, a baby which belonged to a woman who was visting at the house, had a close call from being suffocated. The mother got to the room and made her escape just as the smoke was pouring out of the bedroom. The baby was asleep on the bed.

Fire started from some unknown cause, in a valise which was filled with clothing. The fire broke through the valise and set fire to the window curtains and the mattress on the bed, and in a short time there would have been a lively blaze raging, if it had not been noticed. As it was the blaze was extinguished with slight damage.

Girl Missing

Prisoner Who Is Charged With Abducting Her Asserts She Escaped From House

PETERBOROUGH, Aug 3.—County Constable Archie Moore went to Campbellford yesterday and affected the arrest of Willis Bingham, for whom he held a warrant on the charge of abduction. The girl in the case, Lily Martin, is under 18 years of age and had been making her home with James Sampson township.

Bingham's story is to the effect that he did not take the girl away from the Simpson home. He says he visited the place and that while he was hitching up his horse the girl left the house of her own accord and her whereabouts are unknown to him.

The constable brought the prisoner before Magistrate Langley, who ordered a remand until Wednesday morning. Bingham did not plead or elect, but will be admitted to bail on sureties satisfactory to the Crown Attorney.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Cardinal Lucon, Archbishop of Rheims, has sent a statement to Pope Benedict relative to the alleged inhuman treatment of the population of the invaded regions of Northern France by the German authorities. No Change in The Liquor Law

Denial Given to Statement in Toronto Paper--No Early Referendum

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—Cabinet Ministers deny the staement published yesterday that the Ontario Cabinet may take a referendum on prohibition in the immediate future, rather than wait until 1919 as proposed by the Ontario Temperance Act. The reason given for an early referendum was that the Premier and his colleagues realized there is not a majority behind the prohibition law.

Hon. Findlay G. Macdiarmid stated this afternoon that he had never heard the suggestion, that nothing of the kind had been discussed by the Cabinet to his knowledge, and the writer of the article was apparently drawing on his imagination.

In government circles close to the Premier the opinion was expressed that no referendum was regarded as probable before 1919, as the Act stipulated.

BALFOUR SCORES GERMAN KULTUR

Execution of Fryatt a Crime and Blunder

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Special— The First Lord of the Admiralty, A. J. Balfour, has issued a statement for publication, in the course of which he says: "The second anniversary of the British declaration of war provides fitting opportunity for the survey of the present naval situation. The consequences, material and moral, of the Jutland battle cannot be easily overlooked; an Allied diplomatist assured me that he considered it the turning point of the war.

"The tide, which had long ceased to help our enemies, began from that moment to flow strongly in our favour: This much is at least true: that every week which has passed since the German fleet was driven damaged into port has seen new success for the Allies. It would be an error, however, to suppose that the naval victory changed the situation; what it did was to confirm it.

"Before the Jutland battle as a fact the German fleet was imprisoned. The battle was an attempt to break the bars and burst the confining gates. It failed, and, with its failure, the high seas fleet sank again into impotence."

MERCILESS FIGHTING RAGES ON THE RUSSIAN FRONT

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(Special.) —Mixing infantry and artillery attacks, the Russians continue to hammer away at the Teutonic line defending Kovel.

Heavy fighting along the Stokhod River before the important railroad centre is reported by both the Petrograd and Berlin War Offices.

The Germans claim the repulse of an advance on both sides of the Kovel-Sarny railroad, and the Russians state the fiercest fighting is occurring near the villages of Dubeschovo and Gulevichi.

This battle extends on the front as far south as Brody, the key position to Lemberg. Berlin claims that heavy Russian attacks along the railroad from Brody have been repulsed.

The collapse of six gas attacks in the region of Smorgon, to the east of Vilna in the north, is reported to-day from Petrograd. German troops released the fumes at 1 o'clock in the morning. A new wave was directed against the Russians every hour until 6 o'clock, when the infantry was brought into action.

CLUNG TO CANOE 7 HOURS

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 3.—With a capsized canoe as their sole support, George Creamer, 21, and Edward G. Sumner, members of the New York Athletic Club, clung to the overturned craft for seven hours in Long Island Sound, near Saybrook Point, yesterday. A choppy sea was running at the time, and the young men were near exhaustion when a schooner came along and picked them up. The canoeists had been in water from 8 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Creamer and Sumner left New York last week in thier canoe, intending to make the trip to New London. All went well until Tuesday morning, when they encountered the choppy seas which a brisk breeze had stirred up off Sound View. A high wave swamped their boat.

For hours no passing boat saw them Just as they were seen by the schooner a motorboat owned by Martin V. Kelley of New York discovered them and also put to the rescue. The schooner picked them up first, but as she was bound for New York and the young men were anxious to get to New London, M. Kelley consented to bring them here in his boat. He is also a meber of the New York Athletic Club.

Many Drown In Cloudburst

Water Swept Homes and People Before it—Nine Bodies Found —Over Score Dead.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Aug. 3.—Between fifteen and twenty-five persons were drowned, and enormous property damage was sustained by a cloudburst on Blair's creek, near Tazewell, Tenn., last night, according to information which has reached here today. Telephone messages from there said about one hundred persons lived along the creek, and of these only a few have been accounted for. Nine bodies have been recovered.

City officials and citizens of Tazewell have organized rescue parties, and are scouring of the dead. The region is very rough, and communication, which normally is not of the best, has been practically cut off.

The bodies that have been found are: Robert Johnson, his wife and two children; Mrs. Samuel Wiley and two children; Bush Hargeson and wife.

The home of Crockett Edwards, which was supposed to have housed Edwards, his wife and four children, has completely disappeared and no trace of them is obtainable. Two bridges on the southern railroad between Middlesboro and Knoxville are washed away and train service is at a standstill.

OPTIMISM OF ENTENTE IS BASED ON RESULTS

Fruits of Second Year of Preparation Surpass All the Expectations of a Year Ago

LONDON, Aug. 3.—In connection with the statements made for publication by the leading men of the allied countries at the beginning of the third year of the war, The New York Times correspondent is in position to emphasize the fact that the general note of optimism struck therein is genuine and not stressed for such a purpose as encouraging the allied populations.

The highest authorities are not only supremely confident of eventual triumph, but are convinced that the united efforts and effective combination of the Allies have in the second year of the war produced results beyond the utmost hopes entertained twelve months ago.

But Kingston Police Took Charge of Young Man—Spent Night in Cell as Undesirable

KINGSTON, Aug. 3.—The authorities at border points are keeping a sharp look-out to see that no "undesirables" get into Kingston.

When the boat from Cape Vincent arrived in the city on Wednesday night a young fellow rounded up as an "undesirable" was under the care of the immigration officers. He was given a room to sleep in during the night, as it was the intention to land him back in Uncle Sam's territory in the morning.

However, the young man thought he would take matters into his own hands, and when he thought the coast was clear he jumped off the boat and made a bee line for up town. The officials were wide awake however and the runaway was soon in custody again.

This time the city police were notified, and to make sure that the man would not make a second escape, they had him placed in the police station for the night.

Constable John Naylon was called, and he took the man to the lock-up, where he spent the night, and on Thursday morning he was taken across the border.

CALLED ON WIFE GOT HEAD CRACKED

MONTREAL, Aug., 3.—George Wilson is separated from his wife and has received instructions not to visit her. But George failed to obey the instructions and the other evening paid a call. As George put it in the court this morning: "I went to see my wife, and the first thing I saw was a bottle land on my head." There must have been a hard battle, judging from Wilson's appearance before Judge Leet this morning. He will appear to-morrow for voluntary statement.

In connection with this case there will be another one, as Wilson has taken out a counter charge against Isaac Freeman for assaulting him. The latter was remanded for voluntary statement also.

It is estimated that there will be 60,000 globes used in the lighting scheme of the Canadian National Exhibtion this year.

KING GEORGE'S MESSAGE TO CAPT. FRYATT'S WIDOW

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Special—King George has sent a letter of sympathy to the widow of Captain Chas. Fryatt, Master of the British steamer Brussels, who was executed recently by the Germans on a charge that he tried to ram a German submarine when he was master of the steamer Wrexham. In his letter King George says: "The action of Captain Fryatt in defending his ship (the Wrexham) was a noble instance of the resource and self-sacrifice characteristic of his profession." The letter adds that the King has learned with the deepest indignation of Captain Fryatt's fate and that the King "regards the outrage with abhorrence."

Would Declare War On Britain

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—An Associated Press despatch from Washington, yesterday, said: Representative Gallivan, of Massachusetts, introduced a resolution today proposing that a 'recommendation be made to the President that diplomatic relations between the United States and Great Britain be terminated at once," because of the exclusion from England of Thomas Hughes Kelly, of New York, treasurer of the Irish Relief Fund, and "impudent and insulting acts of Great Britain toward American commerce." As a matter of course the resolution went to the foreign relations committee.

A Matter of Money.

A wealthy stockbroker who gave an imposing dinner, says the London Telegraph, dilated with much pride, but with mangled English, on the delicacies that he had provided. Everything in season and out of season, he declared, was at the disposal of his guests.

"I notice you have no aspirates," observed one of them quietly.

"No more I 'ave," replied the stockbroker, with crestfallen visage, "but if money can get 'em," he added, "I'll 'ave some of the best in the market next time you're 'ere."

A Japanese "Comic."

"After scanning a Japanese comic for a few minutes," says a writer in Cartoons Magazine, "one might conclude that the mystic Jap hasn't a greatly different viewpoint than other folks when his thoughts are immersed in the lighter things of life. Even the time honored, hoary jests of the papa cow and his ever readiness to resent encroachments upon his fenced domain or peace of mind find places in the funny pages of Japan's publications, as they still do in ours. Quite a typical example of Japanese comic page material, and one which uses this very theme, is represented in a strip that appeared not long ago in Osaka Puck. Two characters are used—one a fellow of the Opie Dilldock type, and the other an ordinary everyday bull. The former finds it necessary to cross a bridgeless stream. Summoning his wits to his aid he seizes a rock and hurls it at the other's head. Then, grabbing a plank and placing it across that part of his anatomy most logically open to attack, he faces the stream and awaits the impact. The force imparted by the enraged bull lifts him to the opposite bank in the twinkling of an eye. The line beneath the picture reads, 'Now I see that necessity makes invention.'"

In the Days Before Coal.

People sometimes wonder how their forefathers got on in the days before coal became the staple heater. They fared ill. Wood was the chief commodity in use, both in its natural state and as charcoal, the latter being prepared in the country and suburbs of London and brought into the city in carts, the chief marts for its sale being at Smithfield and Cornhill. By an enactment of Richard II. it was decreed that the price of charcoal should be fixed at tenpence per quarter from Michaelmas to Easter and eightpence per quarter during the remainder of the year, the regulation of its sale, as well as that of firewood, being committed to the mayor and aldermen. Among the poorer folk fern, reeds and stubble served as fuel, and quite a common method of keeping warm was to sit over pots filled with hot water.—London Chronicle.

The Ideal "Cottage For Two."

The proverbial "cottage built for two" is a place of much economy of space and much expense of temper, time and toil. The architect whose field lies among country mansions laughs at the "toy house" idea, and the smugly satisfied city dweller, from his ill lighted and excessively cramped apartment, finds a theme for many jokes in "the cottage built for two." But every day in every little hamlet and big town sane young people are demonstrating the truth that the little house well planned, with abundance of sunlight and fresh air and with absolutely practical arrangement of rooms and full equipment of modern conveniences, is not only a possibility but also a most satisfactorily proved fact.—Raymond Comstock in Countryside Magazine.

Some Riddles.

What is that which is put on the table, cut, handed round, but never eaten? Answer.—A pack of playing cards.

Why are the banknotes better than gold coins? Answer.—Because when you put a banknote in your purse you double it and when you take it out you find it increases.

Where Women Rule.

Near the Cape of Shima, in Japan, there is a village the name of which in Japanese means "The Settlement of Nymphs." Woman in this village is the predominant partner. The chief industry is pearl fishing, and it is the women who are the fishers. The men stay at home and do the housework.

Accuracy is Demanded

It won't do to guess what time it is—not these days.

Every man that "does things" must own a watch that he knows will stand by him.

If it won't do that, then he should let us fix it so that it will do that.

Don't wait to have it done, hand it in at once.

It is bad for the watch to neglect it and inconvenient for you. Does this apply to you and your watch?

How a Boy Escaped From Reformatory

Threw Clothes Out and Squeezed Through "Lookout" Measuring Ten By Twelve Inches

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—Two weeks ago the police arrested the twelve-year-old leader of a gang of thieves who had been giving them considerable bother in the north-east end of the city. The gang was composed of boys much older than the leader, but a genius for avoiding the police and engineering difficult robberies raised him to the leadership. When he was taken before Judge Croquet in the Juvenile Court and committed to the Reformatory for a couple of weeks, the police felt relieved, thinking they were rid of the troublesome youngster for a time at least. But the little fellow was only two days in the Reformatory when he made his escape by squeezing himself through the "lookout" in the front door and getting away. The "lookout" is an opening in the centre of the door, ten by twelve inches, with a shutter.

The Brothers who have charge of the Reformatory, say that it was the first time in fifty years, since they have occupied the building, that any boy confined there has been able to squeeze himself through the opening. The little shutter on the opening in the door was found unbolted the morning after the little gang leader had made his escape, but it was not believed that he could have got out that way, as it would be almost difficult for an ordinary sized monkey to wriggle through the opening. It was not until the little fellow was taken back to the Juvenile Court yesterday morning by his mother, that it was learned how he had got out.

The boy informed Owen Dawson, clerk of the Juvenile Court, that by divesting himself of his clothing, which he first threw out through the opening, he managed to squeeze through. He was asked if he had greased himself, to which the boy replied, "I didn't have to do that. It was easy."

Watchful Waiting

It Proved Effective In Time.

By OSCAR COX

Miss Imogene Danforth, believing in the equality between women and men, was one day expressing her opinions to her cousin, Jack Fearing.

"Tut!" he said. "That's all well enough for women who can't get husbands. It's no use for those who can."

"Do you mean to assert that I can't get a husband?" she demanded, bristling.

"Not at all, being well aware that I have proposed to you six times."

"And I have as many times told you that woman must choose between independence and marriage. I choose independence. I have leased an island on the New England coast, which I propose to colonize with girls of strong character. There I shall prepare them for the propaganda for woman's rights and send them forth to teach their sisters."

"I presume you will pick out the homeliest girls you can find."

Imogene was ruffled. She declared that in order to show him that the cause of woman's rights was not limited to the support of unattractive women she would select comely girls. Jack, the scamp, in this way introduced the cankerworm that was to eat into her apple.

Imogene located her colony on the 1st of June with twelve girls, all fair to look upon. She did not organize her school for those who had been converted to the cause. She expected to train them to that end. There was a house on the island large enough to contain them all, so no great preparation was needed. No man being allowed on the island, the servants were women.

One morning soon after their arrival Imogene convened her flock in a wood near the water and, arranging them in a semicircle, proceeded to lay down the causes that had rendered woman subordinate to man. She opened with woman's primeval condition as a servitor to fighting man and was proceeding to trace her career in eastern nations when she paused and looked down on a patch of water revealed between the trees. A yacht that had been luffed up into the wind was moving slowly toward the landing near by.

The girls, turning, saw the yacht and a dozen young fellows, not counting Jack Fearing, the owner, on her deck, each man made more handsome by a becoming yachting costume.

Imogene frowned; the girls looked pleased. But it must be remembered that they were novices and had not yet been trained to consider man their enemy. The fellows secured the yacht to the landing and advanced to the lecturer and her class, each man with cap in his hand and all resembling rather slaves to the women than women's masters.

"We have come," said Fearing, "not to interfere with your course of instruction, but to invite you to take a cruise with us when the present lecture is concluded."

"Thank you for your invitation," replied Imogene, "but it is declined. May I beg that you will depart?"

"Most assuredly, since you wish it," replied Fearing. "Your commands shall be obeyed."

He led his men back to the landing. They all got aboard, unloosed the painter and, raising a jib, withdrew for a few hundred yards from the shore, where they dropped anchor.

"How obedient!"

"What handsome fellows!"

"Surely, Miss Danforth, these young men seem ready to serve us instead of to oppress us."

These were some of the remarks made by the young ladies. Imogene disdained to reply. Instead she resumed her lecture. But she might as well have lectured to the trees, for it was evident that the girls' minds were on the yacht, and under the circumstances man's tyranny did not interest them. Seeing this, Imogene brought her discourse to a close and, looking down on the anchored vessel herself, wondered what the men meant by remaining where they were.

"I think," said one young lady, "that they're showing their obedience."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Imogene.

"You've hit the nail on the head, Susie," said Imogene.

"There are just as many of them as there are of us," remarked another young lady. "If we were to pair off there would be a fellow for each girl."

"Gwendolen!" said Imogene sternly. "If you and the others harbor such thoughts our school will be broken up!"

"How long, Miss Imogene," asked Susie, "will we have to withstand the watchful waiting?"

"I don't know. Why do you ask?"

"Because," was the meek reply, "I'm afraid I can't stand it very long."

"Girls," said Imogene, "in order to help you to get your minds off this contemptible effort to break up our school I will call your attention to the impossibility of our going on a cruise. Is there one among you who would do an improper act?"

"No!" cried every girl at once.

"Very well. We could not go with them without a chaperon, and we haven't a chaperon."

"Why wouldn't Mrs. Markham do?" asked the gentle Susie. Mrs. Markham was the housekeeper.

Imogene looked troubled. Elements of weakness were popping up among her flock, and it was beginning to appear to her as impossible to keep them down as to hold corks under water. One thing was apparent—she must get the girls away from a view of the yacht. She ordered them to the house. She was obeyed, but while on the way they were continually turning their heads for one more look.

Between 12 and 3 p. m. was the period for dinner and rest. At 3 o'clock there was a study period of an hour, during which the girls were expected to prepare themselves from books that had been provided on arguments in favor of woman's emancipation, with a recitation at 4. At 5 the girls were allowed to wander about the island at will. This period till supper time was a matter of deep concern to Imogene. She could not well deprive the girls of their outing, and she feared the yachtsmen.

"Young ladies," she said after the recitation, "I shall have to ask you this afternoon to avoid going near the landing where the yacht is anchored. Indeed, it would be immodest for you to do so."

"We won't," said all the girls at once, though in a faint voice.

"Very well. I'll trust you."

The girls straightway proceeded to scatter over the island and, true to their promise, avoided that part of the shore off which the yacht was anchored. Imogene herself remained within doors. Suddenly she heard a sound that filled her with hope. The young men on the yacht were getting up the anchor. Were they going to abandon the siege? Imogene went to a cupola on the roof of the house, where she could see all over the island and the waters beyond. The sails were hoisted, there was a fair breeze, and the yacht instead of sailing away began to make the circuit of the island.

Imogene's heart sank. Her scattered flock preferred the shore and everywhere were amusing themselves throwing stones or sticks into the water, and some of them had discarded their shoes and stockings and were wading in shallow places. Round and round sailed the boys, keeping near the shore, and every now and again Imogene saw them toss a package. These packages were picked up by the girls, the wrappers torn off, revealing pasteboard boxes, and several fair hands were at once thrust within and removed to as many pairs of rosy lips.

"Candy!" groaned Imogene. "We are lost!"

Running downstairs, she seized a trumpet that had been provided for transmitting orders and sounded a recall.

The girls came in, but very slowly, every girl munching sweets. Imogene thought it prudent to say nothing about the yachtsmen or the ammunition they had used. She kept the girls indoors till supper time, then instead of letting them out again in the long June twilight she proposed that they spend the evening dancing, for which purpose a piano had been provided.

Meanwhile the yacht had come to anchor again, and the watchful waiting was resumed. After supper the yachtsmen sat on deck and after a smoke began to sing, accompanied by a couple of mandolins and a guitar. Imogene sent one of the girls to the piano. The chorus from the yacht, rich and strong, came up in competition with the tinkling piano. Several of the girls started in to dance together.

Now, it must be admitted that a dozen girls dancing with one another to the music of a poorly tuned piano while listening to the songs of as many young men who would be glad to dance with them made but a sorry sight. There was no elasticity in the girls' steps. The musician played without heart.

Then came Jack Fearing with a mandolin in his hand and very subserviently offered the services of the stringed instruments of the yachtsmen to furnish music for the young ladies' dancing. Imogene cast her eyes over the girls standing about and saw mutiny in every girl.

"It's no use for me, Jack," she said, "to carry on this struggle any longer. Bring up your instruments and your yachting party too. The girls are crazy for a real dance, and I suppose they must have it."

The men jumped into the small boats like frogs plunging off a log, pulled to the shore and in a jiffy were in the dancing room. The musicians struck up a tango, and in another moment couples were whirling like mad. Jack went up to Imogene and asked her to dance. Pouting, she tapped him on the cheek with her fan, and they sailed away among the others.

After a couple of hours' dancing refreshments, which Jack had provided especially for such a purpose, were ordered up from the yacht, and the evening or, rather, the morning was finished with a supper. Then Jack led Imogene out on to the porch and said to her:

"Tomorrow we sail away and leave you to continue uninterrupted your instructions on the tyranny of man."

"I shall do no such thing," was the reply. "The heads of these girls have been turned by this visit, and they will not listen to me. I shall continue the camp for pleasure only, and I hope that you and your crew will remain as long as you like."

The crew accepted the invitation, and before the season was over seven of the twelve girls were engaged to as many yachtsmen. Imogene and Jack were married on the island before the party broke up.

The Germans cal lthe late Capt. Fryatt a "bushwhacker of the sea." What with new phraseology by the Kaiser and words like these ,the English language is being greatly enriched.

Fought Eight Aeroplanes.

That Lieut. Jack Simpson of Guelph met his death when, single-handed, he attacked eight hostile aeroplanes, is the word received recently by his father, Mr. J. H. Simpson, in a letter from Flight Lieut. R. Corbett, R.F.C. The report says:

"Your son went up on patrol duty and met eight hostile machines coming over the lines. He attacked, and against such heavy odds he was, of course, badly handicapped. Eye-witnesses say they watched the gallant act of a British aeroplane attacking eight hostile machines. Your son was shot in the head, so all must have been over instantly. He died a hero's death."

Time Makes Changes.

Two relics of former legislators in Osgoode Hall, Toronto, have been placed in danger by the renovating of the heating system in the King's Bench and the Common Pleas courtrooms. They are desks which were installed by the Law Society of Upper Canada in 1828, during the reign of King William IV., when students at law were required to be in attendance in the courts. The desks were for the convenience of the students, who were required to sign a register showing that they had been in attendance each day.

The desks were in use as late as 1870, and Chief Justice R. M. Meredith, who was called in 1869, entered his name in the books kept there.

THIS IS THE 671ST DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

TWO YEARS AGO.

To-day marks the completion of the second year of war between Great Britain and the German nation. It finds the Empire still engaged in the struggle with an unfaltering determination to fight until victory shall have been attained.

Two years ago to-day Germany was given until twelve o'clock midnight to withdraw her forces from the Belgian frontier, or consider Britain her foe. As the hour struck, the answer was practically a defiant blow. The gauntlet was thrown down, and within five minutes a wireless was flashing over the sea to the British Navy: "Capture or destroy the enemy." The struggle was on, and from that hour until now the boom of the cannon, the crack of the rifle, the drive of the bayonet has been ceaseless.

After two years of the bloodiest war the world has known, Belgium is still in the iron grip of the foe. Poland has yet to be released from occupation by the Teuton armies. Italia irredentia is not yet redeemed. But the situation on every front is favorable and the Empire and its Allies are at last meeting the enemy on something approaching equal terms of preparedness.

Victory is in sight. Steadily the Germans and Austrians are being pressed back toward the hearts of their countries. Without risking the unnecessary loss of men the British, the French, the Italians, the Belgians and the Russians are capturing territory, munitions and prisoners, and daily bringing nearer the hour of final victory. And in the Balkans the Servians and Franco-British armies are awaiting the word to strike.

Details of the great conflicts are needless; they are too fresh in the memories of the world's people. Suffice to say that Britain and her Allies, now fully prepared, are on the offensive, and as the enemy in the eastern and western zones are gradually withdrawing from their positions, the spirits of our people rise accordingly, and will continue to rise until, the enemy nations brought to their knees, a uniform cry of victory will be heard from end to end of our land.

In conclusion, in recognition of this the second anniversary of the declaration of war, let us keep in mind the proclamation by His Worship Mayor Ketcheson, in another column of this issue, and attend the gathering at the Armouries this evening, or bow our heads in prayer that the God of righteousness may speed Britain and her Allies through to a victorious end.

DESERVING OF PATRONAGE

In view of the widespread discussion of the Canadian nickel question, it might be timely to state that a part of the valuable nickel deposits at Sudbury, Ont., is owned by the Mond Nickel Company, a British corporation which has been taking matte to Wales for refining. It is stated on good authority that the operations of this concern has become only second in interest to those of the American International Nickel Company.

The Mond Company has at its head an eminent public man of the Mother Country, Sir Alfred Mond, Baronet, M.P. The company made a profit of $322,000 in its business for a year recently closed. Besides paying all charges and seven per cent. dividend on its preferred shares, largely increasing its reserve and assigning a handsome sum to be available for war taxes, the company is paying a dividend of twenty per cent. on its ordinary shares. The refining plant at Swansea has been enlarged and the refinery has been worked to full capacity. That it has not been able to supply a larger quantity of nickel for munition purposes is a matter of regret, but Sir Alfred holds that the company is not to be blamed for that. "If," he said at a recent meeting, "the output was not large enough even now to meet all the requirements of the country, he would just make two observations. One was that there had never been any special encouragement given by the British Government Departments to them, in times of peace, to develop more rapidly their supplies for war needs, and, in the next place, they had had a prolonged struggle to get permission to have used in British armaments the only nickel manufactured within our Empire." One could wish for a plainer statement on this point, says the Journal of Commerce. The inference to be drawn, we suppose, is not that nickel has not been used widely in the making of British armaments, for the value of this metal in conjunction with steel has long been known, but that, for some unexplained reason, the British Government used nickel of foreign manufacture rather than the nickel from the Mond refinery, the only one in the world operating entirely within the Empire. If there has been official neglect of the Mond industry in the past, there is not likely to be such in the future. We may reasonably hope, too, that out of the present agitation in Canada there will soon spring up a Canadian refinery plant of a capacity sufficient to treat all the nickel ores of the Dominion.

Speaking of a new name for Berlin, Ont., an amalgamation with Waterloo would seem to be only the natural development of a growing approximation. The Toronto Saturday Night, discussing this point, says: "The same street railway system, by joint agreement, now serves them both. The waterworks system of the two places, while separately owned, are connected. The high school and the hospital are owned and controlled in common. The gas systems of the two places are connected, and while there are two fire departments, they work together in either municipality in time of need. As for civic debt, it is practically the same per capita in both places." It is quite remarkable that a majority of the people of Berlin should be willing to adopt the name "Waterloo."

Correspondent in The New York Times: If, as reports indicate, a submarine was attempting to sink Captain Fryatt's merchant vessel without warning, he was justified in using every possible means of self-defence. That is the law of nature, but it is incorporated in every system formulated by man—civil or common or international. The commander of that submarine was a pirate and deserved and still deserves the fate of a pirate, hanging. If a so-called naval court tried Captain Fryatt for defending himself against a pirate, and, finding him guilty, condemned him to death, the members of that court are equally pirates, and when apprehended should be treated as such. The Kaiser, if he indorsed their findings, should meet the same fate.

Toronto News: Mr F. W. Grange, Ottawa correspsondent of The Toronto Globe, and Liberal candidate for Lennox, has another "war purchase scandal." He declares that the site for Camp Borden was bought through middlemen at extravagant prices. This "scandal" we fear will go the way of a good many other war scandals. They are impressive until they are investigated. The site for Camp Borden was bought by Mr H. H. Williams and Mr Frank Poucher, two of the best authorities on real estate and two of the most reputable citizens of Toronto. They were under no instructions to give favours or concessions and they made the purchases with a single eye to the public interest.

A good suggestion is made in the Toronto Star to the effect that "The only way in which we shall ever get full and fool-proof control of our nickel is to manufacture it entirely in Canada, and then sell it only under restrictions which will prevent its reaching unknown destinations. Having a practical monopoly of this metal—in conjunction with our French Allies in New Caledonia—we can control its market if we will take the pains to do so. Moreover, we can present ourselves with a good and paying industry into the bargain."

Ottawa Free Press: Baltimore despatches quote Captain Koenig as dwelling on the "heavy odds" in the matter of British warships which the submarine Deutschland will face when she passes the Virginia Capes. As a matter of fact, the "heavy odds" are in favour of the under-water craft. Searching for a submerged vessel which may "lie low" or turn to any one of the points of the compass in miles of open sea is a good deal more difficult than "looking for a needle in a stack of hay."

Montreal Gazette: It is estimated in Paris that the German forces opposing the Allies on the western front number between 1,700,000 and 2,500,000 men. The total is enormous, but it has been more than hinted by those in auathority on various occasions that the French, British and Belgians are considerably superior as regards men and munitions, both quantitatively and qualitatively. The advantage is with them.

Harvesting in Manitoba has already begun, and will soon be general throughout the West. The outlook is promising, the chief fear being that sufficient labor will not be available.

A remark by Mr. Asquith to the effect that he did not know who would be responsible for the conduct of the business of the next session of Parliament has led some to think he contemplates retirement from the Premiership.—Montreal Gazette.

The political cook stove is all lit up again and pots of various kinds are beginning to sing and steam: some at the front are bubbling, others toward the back are kept simmering, ready to be moved up to the front when the master cooks think it timely. And some even start to boil, all on their own account, much to the annoyance of the chefs. The zilingual pot bubbles inceassantly. They're getting a nickel?plated one for this stew.—Toronto World. And a copper kettle should be added for the head of the World's editor, with a steam exhaust for superfluous gas.

The Minister of Militia has done things. He has done some wonderful things, some unbelievable things. In the doing of them he has stepped on many tender toes. He has not always been considerate of individual feelings. It has apaprently been impossible for him to etatnd to minor details. He has been obliged to trust others. He has not always wisely placed his trust. But he has done in the main what Canada and the Empire wanted him to do, expected him to do; and he has done it well.—Christian Science Monitor.

If Sir Sam Hughes were a man who did things and if the things he did were worth doing and stayed done when finished, it would be another matter; but he concludes nothing and the results of his errors pile up in England, until they bid fair to cover the British Islands.—Toronto Star. It is strange, then, that the responsible newspapers of England are sounding Sir Sam's praises, even to heralding him the "Kitchener of Canada." But then, it is not possible to please some people.

Mr. Dingee's Dinner

Story of a Marriage Anniversary.

By CLARISSA MACKIE

The day Silas Dingee married Maud Ball he declared that never before had he known real happiness. He swore that the anniversary of that blessed day which ended his bachelor loneliness would be more to him than all the holidays in the calendar together. A cynical friend at his farewell bachelor dinner the night before had said to him:

"Si, I'm sorry for you. Tomorrow you go to serve your life long term of regulation. Farewell independence. Farewell a jolly night at the club. Farewell cocktails; they'll taint your breath. Farewell cigars; they'll make the curtains smell. Goodby, Si. The matrimonial prison doors will soon close behind you."

"You dried up old bach," was Dingee's reply, "tomorrow will be the happiest day of my life. And let me tell you whenever the anniversary of my wedding comes round I'll have some delicate memento for the dear girl who is to furnish that happiness. I shall on that day remain at home from business and devote it to celebrating my escape from such crusty old bachelorhood as you represent."

When Mr. and Mrs. Dingee were driven away after the wedding festivities, followed by showers of rice and old shoes, it looked as if his promises would be kept. If ever there was a happy man it was Silas Dingee.

One year passed. Mr. Dingee had been made over by his wife from a bachelor to a married man. He had learned to live for some one besides himself. The first anniversary of his wedding had come round, the day that he had vowed he would celebrate above all others.

As Silas Dingee shrugged on his overcoat that morning preparatory to making a dash for the nearest subway station his pretty wife spoke from the dining room door.

"If I'm not at home when you come, dear"—

"Going out this afternoon?" interrupted Dingee peevishly.

"Just to Mrs. Wright's for bridge, honey," she soothed him. "If I'm not here the moment you arrive just get a bite to eat from the refrigerator and read your paper until I come. It won't take me fifteen minutes to get dinner after I arrive—steak and mushrooms, Silas—it's Hilda's afternoon out."

"Seems to be always Hilda's afternoon out and yours, too," grumbled Dingee as he kissed his wife farewell and departed.

As he opened his newspaper on the train he was still thinking of his dislike of being alone. It was one of his peculiarities that he was a restless mortal indeed when Maud was away from the apartment. Maud was an inveterate card player and belonged to two bridge clubs and a band of pinochle enthusiasts. On the evenings when he knew Maud would be late in coming home Mr. Dingee usually went from his office to his club and remained there until his wife's frantic telephone messages assured him that she was home and that dinner was waiting.

On such occasions he usually called a taxi and sped home on the wings of love and rubber tired wheels.

Today everything went wrong. In the mail he found several misdirected letters, which had been returned to him. One of them was an important matter, which involved the loss of considerable money.

So he discharged the careless stenographer, scolded his chief clerk, scared the office boy into a state of humility and lunched at his club.

After luncheon things went better. He telephoned to Chicago and found that he wouldn't lose the money after all. When the tearful stenographer came for her money he gave her another trial, and the office boy was emboldened to ask for a raise in his pay.

Whether he received it or not is not part of this tale, but at 4:30, when Mr. Dingee closed his desk, he was feeling in high good humor with himself and the world.

He had quite forgotten all about the lonely apartment he must return to and stopped to buy some violets for Maud. While he stood there who should rush up to him with hearty greeting but Tom Finch, Maud's Boston cousin and a particular chum of Silas Dingee's.

"Just going up to your place," remarked Tom.

"Mighty glad to see you!" cried Dingee heartily. "Maud's out this afternoon at some whist bat or other, but she'll be home by 6:30. We can have a bite to eat as soon as we get there."

"Good! I'm hungry. Had a little accident coming down. The buffet car and one coach derailed. Nobody hurt. Haven't had a bite since 10 this morning."

"Man alive, hurry!" Dingee hustled Tom into a taxi, and they whirled uptown.

"It's 6 now. Maud will be home in a few minutes," said Dingee as he opened the door with his latchkey.

But the rooms were dark until he switched on the lights and revealed the warm coziness of the place.

"We'll have to forage a bit," said Dingee as they left hats and overcoats in the hall and entered the dining room. "I'll make you a cup of coffee, hey?"

"Just the thing. I'm starved, old man."

They entered Hilda's spotless kitchen and investigated the refrigerator.

"Cold chicken! Not bad for a handout," commented Tom Finch as he pounced on the platter. "What's that, Silas—makin's of a salad?"

"Yes, and here's the mayonnaise. Take 'em along. Maud certainly has got some goodies put away for me. Let's try the pantry."

When the men had set the table in the dining room there was a feast indeed.

"This is a regular birthday party," chuckled Tom as he carved the chicken. "Maud needn't bother about getting any dinner. This is good enough for me!"

"Suits me down to the ground," agreed Silas Dingee. "I suppose Maud will scold when she finds I've treated you to a picked up meal when she likes to put on company frills when you come down."

"Humph!" sniffed Tom Finch, who was more interested in the good things before him than he was in the elaborate preparations for any meal. "Seems to me you live pretty high. Didn't I see a steak and mushrooms and some kind of pudding in the icebox?"

"You did," said Silas cheerfully. "Those are for dinner."

"What is all this food for then?"

"Search me!" retorted Silas. "Have a piece of this perfectly 'splendiferous' birthday cake?"

Tom Finch looked rather startled and laid down knife and fork. "You are sure—sure it isn't anybody's birthday?" he faltered.

Silas meditated. "Not mine or Maud's. It may be Hilda's or the cat's birthday. They don't count, though. What's that?"

"That" proved to be the buzzer from the dumbwaiter, and Silas Dingee hastened into the kitchen and fussed around a bit. Presently he returned and sat down again.

"Ice cream," he explained. "Maud's evidently going to have it for dessert. Funny, though, she should have ordered such a quantity."

A feeling of apprehension settled over the two men as they consumed the delicious cake, which was rich with fruit.

"If ever I tasted a birthday cake"—Tom was beginning when Silas Dingee interrupted impatiently.

"Hang it all, man, can't you stop croaking? What if we have eaten every hanged thing in the house, eh! It's my house, isn't it? I'll eat the ice cream if I want to!" he ended recklessly.

As he spoke the door opened hastily, and Maud Dingee, flushed and rather excited from her hurried trip home, came in, followed by a remarkably pretty girl with ermine furs snuggled around her neck.

"Tom Finch!" cried Maud, falling on her cousin's shoulder. And over his shoulder her eyes surveyed the remains of the feast.

Silas Dingee looked at his wife and saw horror in her gaze. She came forward and looked at the remains of the chicken, the evidences of salad, the bare half loaf of bread and finally the damaged cake.

The girl in the doorway looked on with friendly, amused eyes.

"Silas Dingee," shrieked Maud at last, "what have you done?"

"Had a bite to eat, as you told me to," retorted Silas defiantly.

"But—but—you've"—her voice was close to tears now—"you've eaten all the refreshments!"

"Refreshments for what?"

"For my party."

"Your party? When?"

"Tonight, goose!" she sobbed angrily. "Didn't you know that this is our wedding anniversary and it's Polly's birthday, and I was going to have the loveliest surprise for you? The Campbells are coming and the Lanes and the Treats."

Silas Dingee was pale, but he held his ground.

"How was I to know, Maud?" he explained.

"You might have remembered the day," she reproached him.

"I did," he prevaricated. "Didn't I bring you violets?" Triumphantly he produced the box of flowers.

Still Maud eyed him suspiciously. "You often bring those on ordinary occasions," she said, but her husband's chagrined face quite melted her heart so that presently she smiled and said it didn't matter and remembered to introduce Tom to the pretty Polly in the doorway.

Everything turned out beautifully, after all. Dingee frantically telephoned to a caterer and a florist, and Maud and Polly dashed around and straightened up the rooms for the expected company.

They ate a hurried meal in the kitchen, Tom Finch skillfully making sandwiches for the two girls.

It was a most delightful party. Still, Dingee saw there was one tiny cloud which even the sight of Tom's devotion to Polly could not lift from his wife's heart.

Although he did not ask for an explanation, Silas Dingee is quite sure that Maud was more hurt because he had forgotten that it was their wedding anniversary than she was over the stolen dinner.

However, to be on the safe side, he has carefully noted on his desk calendar the important date for next year, and there isn't any likelihood that he will forget it, especially as Tom and Polly have selected the same date for their own wedding.

To-day the Kaiser talks about the allies being "terrified." This man is getting positively reckless in his statements.

A Family Secret

It Came Out Gradually and Satisfactorily

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

When I was old enough to desire a child to play with me I said to my mother:

"Mamma, why haven't you another little girl for me to play with?"

She kissed me and told me that I had a little brother whom I had never seen, but he was coming home soon and I would have a companion. I was too young to seek for a reason why this brother, whom she called Georgie, had never been at home since I had been born. I simply accepted the fact and rejoiced that I would have a playmate.

Georgie arrived a couple of days later. He was several years older than I. I asked him where he had been living all the while, and he said that he supposed he had been with his mother, but a few days before he came to us she had told him that she was not his mother and then was sent to us.

Whatever explanation of all these matters was made to us was called forth by our childish questions, and they were answered vaguely. We looked upon each other as brother and sister. We lived in a place in the country where we saw no other children and when we began to be educated were placed in charge of a young woman who taught us the rudiments and as we grew older had tutors.

When I was ten years old something occurred that troubled me. A lady visitor called on my mother. I was in an adjoining room reading a story book and as quiet as a mouse.

"Is Clara still ignorant of the fact that she is not a Clayton?" asked the visitor. My mother's name was Clayton.

"Yes, but she is getting to an age when we shall find it hard to keep the secret."

"How about George?"

"He being older than Clara, we may expect still more difficulty in his case."

"I question it. Boys are not so curious about seeming trifles as girls. A boy's mind reaches out to discover what is going on without—how things are made and all that. A girl is curious about those things which immediately concern her."

I was thunderstruck. I could scarcely refrain from running into the other room and begging my mamma to explain what I had heard. But the presence of the visitor restrained me. I would wait till she had gone. I stole away and upstairs to my room, where I shut myself in and gave myself up to all kinds of (to me) terrible forebodings.

By this time George had grown old enough to crave the society of boys of his own age and was out playing ball with some of his friends. Therefore I did not see him before I had had a conference with mamma. This was perhaps fortunate. As soon as the visitor had gone I went to her and almost with tears in my eyes asked her what the lady had meant by saying that I was not a Clayton.

Mother was evidently quite put out at first, but presently she took me up on to her lap and said:

"I will explain this if you will promise to ask me nothing more till you become eighteen years of age."

I gave a reluctant promise, and she continued:

"Papa is not your real father. Your real father died when you were a baby, and I married papa when you were too young to know anything about it."

This was a great shock to me. Remembering how it affected me, I have ever since condemned the bringing up of children in ignorance of their true parentage. After what my mother told me I was curious to know about George. Forgetting my promise to ask no more questions, I begged mother to tell me about him. She considered for awhile, then said:

"George must soon know about his case, but not now. I will tell you about him if you will promise to keep what I say a secret from him for the present."

I gave the promise, and she continued:

"George is not your brother."

This was not the shock to me that the secret about my papa was. Possibly this was because of George's introduction into the family at a time when I was old enough to take cognizance of his coming. Mother continued:

"George's mother and I were very dear friends. She died when he was two years old, and George was given in charge of a woman who took care of him till he came here. I would have taken him at the time of his mother's death, but it was then impossible. There had been an arrangement between me and her to that effect, and I carried it out as soon as I was able to do so."

Mother paused here for awhile in order, I presume, to give me time to get somewhat used to what she had told me, then concluded what she was saying.

"And now, my dear little girl, I wish you to be brave and strong and say nothing to papa or George as to what you have learned, but leave it to me to make it all known whenever I find that it will give the least shock."

I made the promise sadly and kept it. This, for a child, great responsibility that was thrown upon me added several years to the few I had lived and made a woman of me earlier than I would have been without it. I presume my papa, as I continued to call him, was told that I had stumbled on the family secrets, but he never mentioned the matter to me nor I to him. There was no change in our treatment of each other except that, having learned that he had treated me as his daughter who was not his daughter, my affection for him increased rather than diminished.

I have since been quite proud of myself for giving mother a free rein as to what course she should take with regard to giving George his part of the family secret. From the day I gave her the promise to keep it I never mentioned it to her or asked her when she would tell him. This I think was more than was to be expected of a child. Month after month, year after year passed, and the matter was never mentioned.

But a time came when the relationship between George and me became a matter of importance. When he was in his eighteenth year and I fifteen he was treating me as a sister, while I knew he was not my brother. The statement of the lady through whom I had learned the facts that a boy looks without rather than within the home circle was verified in this case. George seemed to me to be very stupid about it. Nevertheless there were times when I wondered if he had not fallen upon the secret and was keeping his knowledge of it from me as I was keeping mine from him.

On his return from an absence when I was sixteen he took me in his arms and kissed me. Then, holding me off and looking at me, he saw a blush on my face.

"Look at the red!" he exclaimed, and, drawing me to him again, he gave me another kiss. Naturally this served to deepen the blush. I playfully boxed his ears, which, instead of making the matter appear more brotherly and sisterly, had the reverse effect.

"The last ear box I got for a kiss was for another fellow's sister," he said and, giving me a second kiss, released me. I stood for a moment panting, not knowing what to do or say, then walked away in a dignified manner, followed by a laugh from George, which made me feel that I had come very near a giveaway.

But a worse one followed. A friend of mine, Bessy Lawrence, made me a visit, and George seemed to me to be very much struck with her. This was the first revelation to me of the fact that I did not relish any other girl stepping in between George and me. I tried not to show jealousy, but did not succeed. Bess ended her visit in a buff, and George asked me what in the world was the matter with me. Since I could not explain, I walked out of the room, leaving him to put his own interpretation on my action.

There seemed to be plenty of funds in our family, and, since George was not in a hurry to settle down to business, he concluded to spend a year in travel. He asked me to go with him; but, knowing what I did, of course I declined. He urged me for some time, insisting on my giving him a reason for my refusal. I gave him a number of them—all trumped up—and he laughed at me. When he started on his journey he called out:

"I won't promise!" I shouted. And he drove away, waving his handkerchief till I could see him no more.

He returned in six months, and after the first welcome, when he and I were alone together, he came to me and said:

"Sis, do you know the reason why I came home sooner than I intended?"

"No. Why?"

"Because I couldn't stay any longer away from my dear sister."

"You'll be saying that to some other fellow's sister pretty soon."

"Have you a brother?"

"What a question!"

"If you have I'm saying it to some other fellow's sister now."

I wondered if he could have got the secret.

"Sit down here," he added, drawing me to an easy chair big enough for us both. Then he continued:

"You and I were betrothed the day you were born. I have not known these things as long as you have, but I have known more than you. I have long known that papa and mamma are not my real parents. My real parents I never saw. My real mother arranged with my second mother that I should come into this family and be brought up with you, hoping that we would make a match. When it came time for me to come here mamma settled everything in her own way, and I consider it the right way. She is not to be blamed for anything, though some persons will say that she made a mistake. She certainly gave you a brother and me a sister. It now remains to be seen whether we shall be transformed from the grub brother and sister to the butterfly lover and lovers."

The rest would only sound pleasing if given in the terms of the novelist, who causes the hero lover to declare himself in terms that have been carefully written and duly worked over. I need only add that an understanding of the situation, as had been intended years before, and its termination were a relief and a matter of satisfaction to our dear papa and mamma as well as to ourselves.

When Wilhelm reads Lloyd George's statement showing how near to a disaster the British were in June 1915, he will exclaim "suffering cats!" or some such expression.

A Strip of Seaweed

It Was Given as a Token at the Time of a Betrothal.

By F. A. MITCHEL

In the olden time Newport, R. I., was an important shipping port. Indeed, until the period of the Revolution a number of points on the Atlantic coast were about equally prominent in this respect. As the years rolled on all except New York, Boston and Philadelphia dropped out, the latter finally leaving the first the supremacy.

In that early day on the beach where now in the summer season hundreds, at times thousands, of fashionable persons drive and lounge and bathe, one moonlight night a young man and a girl sat looking out upon the gilded water. They were Edmond Roscoe and Evalina Blair, the young man a son of a prominent shipowner, the girl the daughter of a merchant. There were no sounds of revelry in the little town back of them, as there are now at that season, and, as for the beach, not a sound was to be heard except the plash of the sluggish waves as they broke and rolled in on the sand.

There could be no more fitting place for a young man to tell his story to a maiden, and Edmond Roscoe was telling Evalina Blair his love for her. Then and there their troth was plighted under the yellow light of the moon, the lovers' voices accompanied by the effervescing sound of the waves as they slid up in foam on the smooth sands.

There were both happiness and sadness for these two young creatures whose lives seemed so much to them. In a few days they were to part for several years. Evalina was to go to England that her education might be finished under the supervision of an aunt, for she was of the Blairs of Devonshire, a family of country gentlemen and ladies of blue blood, and must needs be given accomplishments suitable to her rank. Edmond was to enter Brown university, which was then in its babyhood and soon to give up its as yet only dormitory to quarter soldiers of the Revolution.

The transports of betrothal were scarcely over when Edmond said:

"You are going to a land where you will meet many persons of rank and fashion. I know that you will be a belle among them. Some man, possibly a noble, will fall in love with you. You will dread to return to this uncultivated land. You will remain in England, and I shall never see you again."

Looking at him through her earnest eyes, she replied:

"Give me some token by which I shall remember these words of yours. If I am tempted by fortune to remain in England I promise you I will look at it and am sure it will bring up before me the happiness of this evening, and I shall choose you and the life of a simple Rhode Island woman in preference to that of a lady of rank."

"Alas, I have nothing suitable. I should give you a ring or"—

"I wish no bauble," replied Evalina. "Give me something to remind me of these sands, the ocean, the plash of the waves."

Looking about him, Edmond saw a seaweed lying within his reach. Taking it up, he handed it to Evalina. She took it and, spreading it out on her lap, said:

"I, Evalina, promise you, Edmond, that in case I am tempted to place rank and fortune before my love for you I will think of you with this plant of the sea before me. And I assure you that when I have finished my education I will bring the token to you as evidence that I have been true to you and my heart has been always yours."

After this assurance there was a long embrace. Then they arose and, taking a path which is now a broad avenue, returned to the town.

Every day, or, rather, every evening, till Evalina's departure the lovers went to the beach. They were not troubled even in the daytime with persons to disturb their meetings. There were no bathers in fantastic suits, no carriages, no loungers. The last evening before Evalina's departure they passed there. The moon rose, as it were, out of the ocean, the first spark appearing like a far distant bonfire, then gilding the shore over the crests of the waves, and finally the great round disk rested on the horizon of water.

"Heaven grant," said Edmond, "that we will again see this beautiful sight and that we shall then be one."

"If I live you will have your wish," replied Evalina.

The next day the ship that was to carry her to England sailed from the little town on Narragansett bay, the lovers waving until they could distinguish each other's forms no longer.

During the first year of their separation Evalina wrote regularly to her lover. The second year abroad was for an education in social life. As her lover had predicted, she became a belle. She wrote Edmond of the fine people she met, of the amusements common among persons of quality. But her letters showed no diminution of love for him and indicated that she looked forward to their reunion with as much hope and pleasure as when she had left him.

Yet there was a great deal that she did not write him. She did not write of the offers of marriage that followed one another in rapid succession.

When these offers of marriage were showered upon Evalina she declined them without giving as a reason a previous attachment. Later, possibly as one might hide behind gauze, she frequently wore as a decoration the seaweed that her American lover had given her. Sometimes it was tacked to her skirt, sometimes she wore it in her corsage, and again it would be intertwined with her hair. In time she came to be called the Seaweed Lady.

Meanwhile Roscoe was studying as a collegian, though his mind was with his heart, and that was across the ocean. He read with avidity Evalina's letters and shuddered as he thought of the differences between himself, an undergraduate of a college but a few years old, without fortune, compared with some coroneted man with vast estates. Evalina's letters were reassuring, but she was growing from maidenhood to womanhood, and would she not give way at last?

However, the period allotted for her sojourn abroad was drawing to a close. She did not write her lover that she was coming home for the reason that she did not know if she would be permitted to return. Her parents were much chagrined at hearing that she had refused an earl and the second son of a duke and were debating whether to send the funds for her passage back to America or insist that she remain longer.

It was two years from the time of Evalina's departure that a storm such as Newport had not experienced in many years broke upon the coast. For three days the giant waves struck wildly upon the cliffs and rolled far up into Narragansett bay. Then, on the evening of the third day, the clouds broke away in the west, and the sun set in golden splendor.

That night the moon was at the full. As the sun went down the queen of night rose. Edmond, desiring to view the effect of the storm on the waves, when night had fallen and the moon was lighting the land and the water, started for the beach. The path was lonely, and there was terror in the tumbling of the great waves on the sands. The only likeness to the night of Edmond and Evalina's betrothal was the full moon.

He had passed midway from the town to the water when he saw before him a figure that he knew to be a woman by her garments fluttering in the wind, which was still strong. She seemed to be coming toward him, but as he advanced drew no nearer to him. He went on until he came to the edge of the beach and saw her still distant from him, sometimes flitting nearer, sometimes farther, and always seeming to rock like a bird resting on the crest of a wave.

Whether it was the night, still disturbed by the storm that had passed, or something bewildering in this unsteady figure, Roscoe could never tell, but an appalling premonition stretched a pall over him like the wings of some huge black bird. Something within him seemed to say: "A great misfortune has fallen upon you. The wind and the waves are a dirge. Be strong or you will be crushed."

And now, having reached a point overlooking the water, the sands being soaked, progress was slower. Scattered ragged clouds were flying above, now and again dashing across the face of the moon and shutting off its light. At these dark periods the flitting figure was lost, but reappeared when the cloud had passed and the full light of the moon was released.

Edmond had spent many an hour when home from college on the spot where he and Evalina had spoken their betrothal, and he saw that the figure was slowly moving toward it. Yet it was the movement of a floating object, driven by alternate advancing and receding waters, yet borne by an invisible tide toward a given point. But notwithstanding this apparently slow movement he gained but little on the figure. At last it reached the very spot where he and Evalina had plighted their troth. There it paused. Hastening his steps so far as he could—the moon at the moment was overcast—he advanced to join the figure. When he was a few yards from it a bright light burst from the moon and revealed—Evalina, looking at him with pale and melancholy visage.

He sprang toward her with outstretched arms, but at the moment another black cloud swept across the face of the only available light and hid his from her. When it had passed she had vanished.

When morning came a boatman stalking along over the soft sands saw a man lying so still that he thought it might be one cast in from a wreck by the storm. He found Edmond Roscoe. There was life in him, and the boatman after rousing him helped him home.

A ship came in and with it news that Evalina had departed for America. But the vessel on which she sailed never reached port. Pieces of wreck came ashore on the coast, denoting that a ship had foundered, but no fragment bore its name.

Edmond Roscoe never went back to college. He had lost all ambition, all desire for life. It was claimed that he had received some physical stroke which impaired his mental faculties. Whether this were so or whether the loss of his betrothed and his ailment were a coincidence was never settled. He was often seen on the beach at Newport wandering about aimlessly or sitting on one spot looking out on the water. This continued till he was an old man, and in the town in which he lived a few residents of other places began to build cottages for summer residences.

FOUND A GRAND MACHINE

And There Are Some Men Who Have Not Yet Discovered Its Usefulness.

"I say, old chap, why have you deserted the club?"

"To tell you the truth, dear boy, I've been so blooming busy that with the exception of an occasional tramp or two for my health I've hardly left the house."

"Oh, I say, anything new?"

"Tremendously new to me, old chap. Several weeks ago I very unexpectedly ran across it—an old machine I've owned a good many years and never paid much attention to. Upon examination the thing is so monstrously wonderful, you know, that it has simply held me in open mouthed consternation. I can't actually take it in, and, bless me, I can't understand why I've so long ignored its possibilities—just accepted it, you know, this wonderful inheritance of my ancestors, as something very natural and quite ordinary."

"Hope you've struck a money maker, old man."

"I believe I have, you know, and that's one of the remarkable parts about my discovery. Can you conceive, old chap, of my having never seen its possibilities? It's merely a piece of machinery, mind you, and let me tell you some of the things it can do. With a turn from me I can make it see or hear or speak or walk or dance or write or telephone. Why, I can and with no effort at all make it breathe."

"Oh, I say, what is the blooming thing, old chap?"

"It's my blooming self, old top, and I'm going to put it to work and make a fortune."

Making Things Hum in Rome.

The Romans had three recognized methods of applauding—the bombus, the imbrices and the testae. The word bombus did not carry any allusion to explosives. On the contrary, this form of applause was the most decorous, inasmuch as it consisted merely of a humming or buzzing noise. Thus in a way the Romans were the first "to make things hum" in a public assembly. The bombus was not the chief feature the Romans had to offer in the way of applause. The imbrices meant a demonstration made with the hollow of the hands. The testae meant the striking together of the flat portions of the hands. From this we may conclude that the Romans clapped, but there is no certainty on this point.

The Talmud.

The Talmud is the compendium of ancient Jewish oral or unwritten law, as distinguished from the Pentateuch, or written law. Its origin is coeval with the return of the Jewish people from the Babylonian captivity, 536 B. C. Its compilation in Hebrew was begun by the scribes, and by their successors the work was carried on till 220 B. C. The Talmud is a combination of prose and poetry and contains two elements, legal and legendary. Its morality resembles that of the New Testament, and its philosophy reminds us very forcibly of that of the great Plato.

Elevated.

Traveler—I say, what are you people so proud about? Last time I came here everybody was very friendly, and now I can hardly get a person to speak. Uncle Eben—You'll pardon us, but it's our town pride. You see, Joe Summers picked up a guidebook that fell out of a motorcar last week, and we found that the old tannery swamp is a mountain tarn, Simmons' stone quarry a precipice, Bill Moodler's beer house a wayside inn and the whole country chock full of historical antidotes and delusions.

"I hope you didn't ask for a second helping of pie when you were at Mrs. Smith's house," said Johnny's mother.

"No'm, I didn't," said Johnny. "I just asked her for the recipe, so you could make some pie just like it, and then she gave me another piece without my asking for it."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Milky Way.

The Milky way is an irregular luminous belt that encircles the celestial sphere and has the general shape of a great circle, inclined at an angle of 63 degrees to the equinoctial. Its luminosity is due to the myriads of stars or suns composing it, many of which have been revealed to us by means of the telescope. It varies in width from 4 to 20 degrees and at one point of its course splits up into two nearly parallel branches of unequal brightness, which do not reunite for a distance of 150 degrees.

A Philosopher's Viewpoint.

"I don't expect to fence in many acres of this beautiful old world," says a Georgia philosopher, "but what little ground I gain I hope to make as beautiful as old Adam's possessions were before he ran away with the idea that what he didn't know about the apple business wasn't worth knowing."

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE
BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

Possibly, then, you will as truthfully answer one more question," Nick said dryly. "Judge Packard was the guardian of considerable property bequeathed in trust to you until you should marry. Mrs. Selkirk, have you had a final settlement with Judge Packard since your marriage, more than a year ago?"

The answer was about what Nick expected. Mrs. Selkirk, still as white as before, drew herself up and promptly replied:

"That is none of your business. You shall not inquire into my personal affairs, nor drag me into this horrid case. I will appeal at once to—but no matter to whom I shall appeal. Your conduct is outrageous! I will suffer it no longer! Leave my rooms at once!"

She opened the door again and Nick saw that she meant what she said. He saw, also, that a sinister gleam had taken on a expression as if some crafty countermove had sudednly occurred to her, of which she meant to take speedy advantage. Nick had aimed to provoke her to something of this sort, and he now bowed indifferently and rejoined:

"Very well, Mrs. Selkirk, since there appears to be no alternative. I bid you—au revoir!"

"You imply that we shall meet again, I infer?" she retorted, with a sneer of contempt. "In that case, I shall be better prepared for you, better able to repay your insolence with what it deserves. Take my word for that!"

Nick made no reply, but walked out of the room, the door of which the woman quickly closed. A group of people near the elevator, by whom he was observed the moment he appeared in the hall, deterred him from turning back to listen at the door.

Nick thus missed something which, otherwise, he might have overheard. For the door was no sooner closed than a man came hurriedly from one of the adjoining bedrooms, where he had been listening to all that was said—a stocky, red-faced man of nearly fifty, very well clad, yet whose beer-bloated features were entirely void of any signs of culture or natural refinement.

"Good Heaven!" he excitedly cried. "What's the meaning of this? What game are you playing? Why did you ——"

He was abruptly checked by the woman, who darting across the room, seized his arm and covered his lips with her hand.

"Hush, you fool" she hissed, with terrible intensity. "He may be listening. Haven't you brains? Can't you guess who he is?"

"Who is he?"

"Nick Carter—that's who!" Nora fiercely whispered. "You've learned that 'twas he who tracked Cullen into the tunnel! Haven't you brains, Pat? It was he, too, who got Fenno out of limbo and put him up to this smash in the market. No other man in town could have done what he has done. He's made friends with Fenno, and is out to save him, out to down us! Man alive, haven't you common sese? We must get him—get him without delay! We must down him, Pat, or he'll down us! That's certain!"

"But——" gasped Selkirk, aghast.

"There aren't any buts," Nora fiercely interrupted. "It's a case of do him, or he'll do us. I'll show you the way. I'll leave here at once and go—— Listen, Pat, and do what I tell you!"

"Go ahead, I'm listening."

"I'll go the moment I can make ready," Nora went on. "He'll pick up and shadow me. I said enough to make sure of that. That was my game, Pat, the instant I guessed the truth. I'll lure him out to Dugan's into the side court. I'll land him there after dark—say, at seven o'clock. Trust me for that."

"Yes, yes, I see," responded Selkirk, nodding, staring.

"Meantime, Pat, you go out there and warn some of the gang. Find Coyle, Cullen, or some of them, and tell them of the danger. Lie in wait in the court, three or four of you and down him when he follows me in there. Coyle will know what to do. Tell him, Pat, and he'll plan the job. I'll land this infernal sleuth there about seven o'clock. That will give you time to get the gang there and——"

"I understand. I'll do it."

The energy, the suppressed ferocity, the ability of this woman to grapple with the situation—all were infinitely greater than those of the man. She went on with fierce intensity while she was changing her dress, while Selkirk stood and listened, nodding at times to signify that he understood the instructions she gave him.

That Nora Selkirk was right appeared in what followed, for Nick Carter did not go far from her room. That their interview would result in some move on her part, the detective did not doubt. He stepped into an adjoining corridor and quickly changed his disguise. He did not venture going down to the office to inform Chick of his intentions, fearing that the woman might depart before he could return. Yet ten minutes had passed before his cautious watchfullness was rewarded.

Then Nora Selkirk suddenly emerged from her rooms. Her face was partly veiled. A long, dark garment covered her dress nearly to her feet. Without a backward glance, she walked quickly by the elevator and hurried down the stairs.

Nick Carter waited a few seconds in the adjoining corridor, then darted after her.

CHAPTER XIV.
The Boot-Heel Clew

While Nick Carter was engaged as described, the quest of Patsy, his assistant, was rewarded in a way that gave promise of important discoveries.

After having visited nearly a hundred shoe stores and cobbler shops, in vain attempts to derive something from the boot-heel clew, as he termed it, Patsy finally brought up at one in a lower section of Harlem, an inferior locality and a shop so humble that it was not included in his list, but upon which he had stumbled entirely by chance.

It was in a small wooden building wedged in between a beer saloon and the stable of a local express company. Above the narrow door was a faded sign bearing the name of cobbler, while a wooden figure of a boot hanging from an iron rod over the sign proclaimed the vocation of the shop's occupant. It was this boot that had drawn Patsy's attention to the place.

Entering the shop, which was hardly ten feet square with a small rear room adjoining it, he found that the only inmate was a gray-haired old man, bowed nearly double with the weight of years. Clad in a leather apron, he was seated on one of two low workbenches, with a lasted shoe on his lap, on which he was at work.

The man looked up when Patsy entered, however, and the young detective, quick to read faces correctly, needed only a glance at the watery blue eyes of the steel-bowed spectacles to know that the man was strictly honest.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Kane," he said, having noticed the name on the sign. "You appear to be pretty busy, sir."

"Yes, most of the time," replied the cobbler.

He spoke with a wheezy voice, turning his unsteady head to follow Patsy's gaze at a quantity of unfinished work on a shelf near by.

"What can I do for you?" he asked.

"I wish to learn," said Patsy, "whether a boot with the heel entirely gone has been left here for repairs since yesterday morning.. That strikes you as a curious inquiry, no doubt, but I will explain in case such a boot has been left here. I have called at nearly a hundred shops in search of it."

"That's a good deal of trouble for one old boot."

"Well, you bet," Patsy laughed. Trouble's no name for it."

"You must be very anxious to find it?"

"That's what, Mr. Kane."

"Well, young man, you've struck the right shop at last," said the cobbler, taking up a man's heavy shoe from the floor at one end of his bench. "Here's the last job I finished. I haven't got up yet to put it on the shelf with the others, for the man who left it said he'd call this afternon to got it. Is this the one you are looking for?"

With far more eagerness than he betrayed, Pasy hastened to examine the shoe, for which an entire new heel had been made. Taking from his pocket the heel which Nick had found in the tunnel, he compared it with the other. The size was almost the same. One bit of evidence, moreover, absolutely clinched the matter: Either when he leaped into the tunnel, or during his subsequent fight with the detective, the ruffian's foot had struck or slipped on one of the steel rails, making a broad abrasion near the back of the shoe and extending downward to the lower lift on the heel.

"This does settle it, Mr. Kane," cried Patsy, showing him the old heel and the abrasion both on that and on the shoe. "This is the brogan I've been looking for, as sure as I'm a foot high."

"That's the heel that came off of it," wheezed the cobbler. "There can't be any mistaking that."

"Right you are, sir," Patsy declared, much elated by his discovery. "Now, Mr. Kane, when was this shoe left here?"

"Yesterday afternoon."

"By a man?"

"Yes."

"Do you know him?"

"No; I never saw him before."

"Was he a strong, stocky fellow, with face shaved smooth and a sort of hangdog look about him?" asked Patsy, recalling Nick's description of the ruffian.

"Well, I don't see very plain, but I'd say that fits the man quite near," Kane admitted, now regarding Patsy with some misgivings. "But why are you asking about him? I don't want to get in any trouble. Who are you?"

LOW FARE TO PORT ARTHUR

In conformance with its ever progressive Policy, The Canadian Northern Railway has inaugurated a low fare from all points east of Sudbury to Port Arthur, Ont., which makes the trip practically as inexpensive as the Boat Service on the Great Lakes, and being quicker, is bound to meet with considerable favor among busy men.

Those who have already made the trip by water will find a pleasant change, as this route is one of exceptional scenic charm, passing many beautiful Lakes and Streams, among the most notable being the Nipigon, famous to the world over for the wonderful trout fishing to be had in its waters.

Trains leave Belleville, Monday Wednesday and Friday.

ORGANIZE

ONTARIO

THE THIRD YEAR OF THE WAR calls for the organized co-operation of every citizen of the Province of Ontario. ALL must help to hasten the day of final triumph. For the sake of those who have made the Great Sacrifice, and of those now overseas or in training, every citizen must give the best service possible. No one need feel "out of it" when the great day of Victory comes, but everyone must qualify now by sharing in the sacrifices which the War demands.

Suggestions for Organization

In many Municipalities there are already active patriotic organizations, such as Recruiting, Red Cross, Soldiers' Aid and Patriotic Fund Committees. In such cases, one of these, or, better still, a joint committee of these and the citizens generally, might undertake to co-operate with the Central Committee at Toronto.

Where there is no active representative organization, it is suggested that one be formed at the earliest moment. It should be non-partisan (in the broadest sense), and represent every interest affected by war conditions.

What Organizations Should Do

1. Find more men for Overseas service.
2. Help in keeping our munitions plants working to full capacity.
3. Induce every possible worker, men and women, to serve on the farm and in other essential industries.
4. Find money for the coming WAR LOAN and war funds.
5. In short, assist in the organization of Ontario's resources to meet war conditions and after-war conditions.

THRIFT and ECONOMY, and a careful consideration and preparation for our problems are essential if we would meet the present and future needs. For further suggestions and information you are cordially requested to write at once to ALBERT H. ABBOTT, Ph.D., Secretary, Organization of Resources Committee, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

RELEASING ALIENS.

Interned Foreigners Are Being Allowed to Go Back to Work.

Large numbers of Canada's interned aliens are now being released. Already a great many of them have been allowed to return to ordinary life and more of them are being released all the time.

Between 1,300 and 2,000 Germans and Austrians have been allowed to leave Spirit Lake, Que., and Kapuskasing, Ont., the large camp along the N.T.R. line. There are now less than a hundred aliens in each of these camps.

The reason for the release of the men is the great improvement in employment conditions in Canada. In the early days of the war when work was scarce, large numbers of these aliens roamed the streets with nothing to do and thus promised to constitute a menace. It was this class chiefly which was sent to the internment camps, the more dangerous aliens being confined at Fort Henry, Amherst, Halifax and Vernon. Now that work is plentiful and labor scarce, those at the camps are being let go and are being eagerly received by industries which have been experiencing a labor shortage.

Complaints as to the treatment of aliens in Kapuskasing, Spirit Lake and other such camps, have been received by the Canadian Government. The Government was able to assure the United States consul, through whom the representations were made, that they were unfounded. Since the outbreak at Kapuskasing some time ago those interned there have not done work of any kind. There was a disturbance at Spirit Lake about the same time, news of which did not become disseminated, but it was summarily quelled before it reached any proportion. A result of the work done by the aliens at both camps in clearing ground of the villages in embryo have grown up there and it is probable that those still at Spirit Lake and Kapuskasing will remain after their release and make their homes there.

A still life by Jan van Huysen in the museum at The Hague was injured, but it is believed that the perpetrator was neither vandal nor thief. The picture represents a basket of fruit on which a number of insects have gathered. On a pale yellow apple, which is the centerpiece in the cluster of fruit, is a large fly, painted so true to nature, so say the officials of the gallery, that the canvas was injured by some one who endeavored to "shoo" it and brought his cane or hand too close to the canvas. "A tribute to the painter's genius," says the letter recording the fact, "for which the work had to suffer."

A Death Lure.

According to tradition, Kenith, the legendary king of Scotland, was allured to his death in a most novel manner. Kenith had slain a son and brother of Fennella, who to be avenged ordered Wiltus, a famous silversmith, to construct a death dealing statue of silver. In its right hand the statue held a basin and in the left hand an apple of pure gold, both set with diamonds and other precious stones. To touch the apple was to defy death, it being so arranged that any one guilty of such vandalism would be immediately riddled by poisoned arrows shot from openings in the body of the statue. Kenith was invited to inspect the wonder, and, as Fennella had hoped, he tried to pluck the precious imitation fruit. When his hand touched the apple he was wounded by the arrows and died where he fell.

Smart Boy.

A teacher was taking a class of boys on the subject of war, and the following statements were heard:

Teacher—A bullet is driven out of a gun by means of exploding gunpowder.

Small Boy—I always thought a bullet was lead, not driven.

A Spanish Custom.

It is customary throughout Spain for the waiters of cafes to fill a glass of wine or liquor so that it overflows upon the saucer. This custom, in which it is desired to show an appearance of liberality, is called "the foot bath."

Depends on Circumstances.

"Pa, what does mother mean when she calls you a matrimonial misfit?"

"My son, she never means the same thing twice. I cannot answer your question."

Regular Order.

Collector—Did you look at that little bill I left yesterday, sir? House Member—Yes. It has passed the first reading

A Cotton Legend.

Cotton was the theme of one of the most fabulous nature stories on its first introduction into Europe. Travelers related that in Tartary there grew a shrub that when its ripe fruit was cut open within was "a lytle Beaste in flesche, in bone and blode as though it were a lytle Lamb with outer wolle." The flesh of this "vegetable lamb" was eaten, ran the story, and the wool made into cloth. The basis of the legend is the way in which the cotton pod ripens and bursts, showing the white fluffy raw cotton, which closely resembles wool. Raw cotton is still called "cotton wool."

Parental Conscience.

"My boy Josh has got me kind o' worried," said Farmer Corntossel.

"Ain't he behavin'?" asked the neighbor.

"I hadn't thought about that. What I'm wonderin' is whether I kin spruce up an' be the kind of a father he thinks he's entitled to."

Not in His Line.

The Lady—Didn't I hear you quote Omar Khayyam just now? The Broker—I think not. In fact, I don't think I ever heard of the stock.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

PRESENTATION TO 156TH

It has not yet been decided as to when the presentation of the colors to the 156th Battalion will be made but efforts are being made to have it at Barriefield Camp. The people of Brockville, at least the ladies of Brock Chapter, Daughters of the Empire, are anxious that it should take place at Brockville, but this is not considered in the interests of the battalion by the officers.

The men would have to lose at least one day's training and also stand the expense of the trip. The ceremony could be conducted at the camp to much better advantage as the grounds are more suitable. The military background of the tents and hundreds of soldiers present would also be more suitable for such a ceremony.

There are at present over 200 members of the 156th Battalion on farm furlough and if the ceremony should be held now the appearance of the unit would not be satisfactory from a numerical stand-point.

The opinion of those interested in the affair is that with everything to have the event held at Barriefield.

The speakers expected for the occasion are Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance, Hon. G. P. Graham, A. C. Hardy, Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Hon. Dr. Reid, Senator Taylor, John Webster, M.P., A. E. Donovan, M. P. P., R. Dargavel, M.P.P.

NOTES

Mr. Wilson, superintendent of the "Y." work in camp will spend a week with the Y.M.C.A. school at Lake Couchiching.

There are now 42 patients in "Ongwanda." The hospital is being improved every day, and will soon be the best military hospital in Canada.

"No pass will be issued to any man on whose conduct sheet an entry has been made inside of one month."—Orders 155th Battalion.

The 155th Battalion had only one company on parade Wednesday morning, as three of the companies were inoculated. The four companies are now working on the ranges.

The 155th Battalion band left for Picton yesterday afternoon, to take part in the big annual Orphanage picnic. The band went up the bay by boat, aid will return to camp in the morning.

Lt.-Col. Adams, commanding the 155th, was in Picton yesterday, attending the Orphanage picnic. Col. Adams has been one of the strongest and most enthusiastic supporters of the Picton Orphanage.

The many friends of Captain Carl Kane will be pleased to hear that he is around again after a severe attack of sickness. Captain Kane expects to be able to return to duty with the 146th battalion at Valcartier about the end of the week.

The School of Cookery class is practising practical work in the field for the instruction of the officers and N.C.O.'s in attendance and the benefits derived are exceedingly valuable in teaching these soldiers how best to economize and cook food properly from the army ration.

Captain Doyle, quartermaster of the 155th Battalion, who was thrown from his horse yesterday morning and taken to his cottage on the bay in an ambulance, is feeling quite sore from his heavy fall, but with care and rest for a few days he will soon be able to return to duty.

It is published for the information of all concerned, that the executive board of the Canadian National Exhibiton have decided to admit, free, all members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force to the Exhibition Grounds during this Exhibiton, on presentation of the regular pass issued by the Officers Commanding their respective units.

Baiting For Bass—Reverse of the Usual Form Answers Well

When using minnows for bass (shiners are the only reliable ones), pass the hook in the mouth, then out through the gill, and finally bed the bark in the flesh just above the tail. This is the reverse of the usual way; but answers very well. Keep the bait moving in a natural headforemost manner by means of a slight turning of the wrist. A bass seizing this bait, will either grab it crosswise or by the tail, and then bore toward his tronghold before swallowing. If given plenty of time he will flirt the minnow around so as to take it head first in swallowing. This is natural, but do not wait for it.

Upon the first twitch strike sharply and trust to luck. The bass has the minnow either crosswise or tail first in his first grab, and in either event the hook has two chances of taking hold. Two to one is good odds. If given time the bass will reverse to bait, and in so doing he may find the hook and promptly reject the imagined dainty. When hooked head upward the minnow plays in a natural manner; if hooked merely through the lips it may be taken without giving a cance to plont the barb firmly, and good minnows are scarce.fl If hooked first through the lips and then through the skin of the back, or the back fin, there is still a goodly portion of it at which a fish may grab with impunity. Therefore, hook the bait as described, and strike at the first sign, without giving any chances for gorging at leisure and subsequent trouble in removing a fairly swallowed hook.

When using white grubs pass the hook in at the mouth, or just below it, and on to the tail. This gives a natural curve, which few bass can resist. When the bait is crayfish pass the barb in aet the mouth and through to the tail. This also gives the important natural curve, and a bait so rigged and sent down with Mr. So-and-So's compliments, is well-nigh irresistible.

Another important thing is that baits so rigged may serve two or three times. This is no trifling matter, when fish are biting freely. As a rule, crayfish, frogs, minnows, and so on, are difficult to secure in numbers and the more service one can be made to render, the better. And furthermore, a bait so rigged will almost invariably glide up the gut, at the fish's first rush and so be preserved to do another turn.

When using a frog pass the hook first through the lips and then through the skin at the juncture of the legs with the back. In this position the frog can kick out and swim more or less, and in so doing make himself the more attractive. The grasshopper and the bee may be hooked crosswise behind the wings and so serve their purpose.—All Outdoors.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

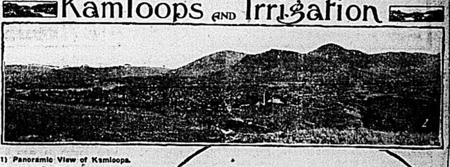
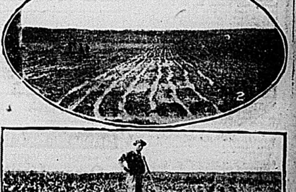
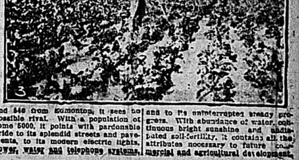
Kamloops AND Irrigation







(1) Panoramic View of Kamloops.
(2) Irrigation Ditches.
(3) Field of Mangolds, raised by irrigation.

THE Western Canada Irrigation Association held its Tenth Annual Convention at the City of Kamloops the last week in July. The picturesque little city takes its name from the Indian equivalent "Meeting of the Waters," where the sun shines every day and good fellowship, health and happiness radiate from all, and opens wide in hospitality its doors to you. Away back over a hundred years ago, the North West Fur Trading Co., with keen appreciation of the advantages of the location, established a post on the present site of Kamloops—the junction of the now called North and South Thompson Rivers. Its excellent water communications; its central position in a wide open stretch of splendid grazing country and its healthy, growing climate, attracted Indians and traders from all parts, and soon the little trading-post grew in importance and population. Seventy-five years afterwards the Canadian Pacific Railway thrust its steel rails through the main street of the aspiring little community, and it was but an endorsement of the opinion of the old trading company, that Kamloops was indeed, "The Place in the Sun."

There are irrefutable reasons why Kamloops claims the distinction of being the leading inland city of the Province of British Columbia. Its geographical position marks it as serving a very large area; 250 miles from Vancouver, 490 from Calgary, and 640 from Edmonton, it sees no possible rival. With a population of some 5000, it points with pardonable pride to its splendid streets and pavements, to its modern electric lights, power, water and telephone systems, and to its uninterrupted steady progress. With abundance of water, continuous bright sunshine and undisputed soil-fertility, it contains all the attributes necessary to future commercial and agricultural development.

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territories, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Applications for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

CANADA'S SHARE IN CARRYING ON THE WORLD'S GREATEST STRUGGLE

She Has So Far Furnished 334,736 Men Out of a Total of 8,075,000.

Has Also Sent Huge Quantities of Munitions and Other Supplies.

CANADA, on August 4th, 1914, the most peaceful and unprepared country in the world, raised in six weeks 33,000 men, armed and equipped them, and on September 24, 1914, sent them overseas in one fleet of transports—the greatest number of armed men to that date ever to embark upon the seas at one time. From that date to June 1, 1916, twenty-two months later, the Dominion raised 334,737 men in a country of only 8,075,000 population, one-quarter of which were foreign born or only one generation removed, 30 per cent. of these being from countries with which Canada is at war. Besides this practically the maojrity of the 3,500,000 people residing in Quebec of French-Canadian origin are opposed to war.

This army of 334,737 men was raised from a total eligible male population of 1,720,070, but the Government statistics do not allow for alien male eligibles made ineligible by their nationality in the present war, nor take into account the percentage of those made unfit through physical reasons. These two facts have been approximated to lower the number of available recruits to 1,250,000. Thus Canada has already given more than a third of her physically fit male population. This from a country that is principally an agricultural, mining, lumbering, and fishing one, which industries require the best men for their successful carrying out.

Canada's army is the best paid of any of the nations at war. The minimum wage for privates is $1.50 a day, with food, clothing and lodging supplied. Each man's outfit costs $200. The pension list is oen of the most equitable in the world, as follows: Rank and file, $480 per year; non-commissioned officers, from $510 to $680; lieutenant, $720; captain, $1,000; major, $1,260; lieutenant-colonel, $1,560; colonel, $1,890; brigadier-general $2,700. This is paid to men totally disabled—losses of both eyes, both hands or both legs, insane, permanent leakage of valves of heart, or contracted incurable tuberculosis. In case of a soldier losing hand and foot he will receive 80 per cent. of the total. The loss of only one hand entitles him to 60 per cent. Allowance for soldiers' children up to the rank of lieutenant, is $6 per month, with a slightly increasing amount for those of higher rank, the highest amount being $10, paid to children of a brigadier-general. Pensions continue until children are 16 if boys and seventeen if girls. When a soldier is killed, his wife receives 80 per cent. of total pension his class allows. This ends in case she marries again.

The Government pays to the wife and children of all enlisted married men the following amounts: Private's wife, $20 a month each child $5 per month; lieutenant's wife, $30 per month, children $5 each; captain's, $35, and $5; major's, $40, and $5; lieutenant-colonel's, $50, and $5.

The Canadian people by public subscription give an added payment to soldiers' dependents. This, known as the Patriotic Fund, paid out in 1915 $6,000,000. The fund is only for the more needy families, and maximum payment to one wife is $20 per month, the minimum $5, according to circumstances. Each child, however, receives $5 per month. In addition, again, to these two funds, many firms paid their enlisting employees wages for periods varying from six months to the duration of service. In some cases the wives of employees enlisting were placed on half pay. Thus the average soldier's dependents are even better taken care of finacially than when the bread winner was at home. This is particularly true of the wives of laborers and other small paid workers.

For maintaining the Patriotic Fund the following contributions per province were apportioned in May, 1916, and collection of same is now going forward, the total amount, $10,000,000, being enough to carry the fund through until the end of 1917: Ontario, $5,000,000, or $1.92 per capita; Quebec, $2,200,000, $1.05 per capita; New Brunswick, $400,000; Manitoba is self-sustaining, giving $2 per capita; Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, $560,000, $1 per capita; Saskatchewan, $700,000 $1.20 per capita; Alberta, $600,000, $1.20 per capita; British Columbia $600,000, $1.25 per capita. Of Ontario's $5,000,000 only $4,000,000 will be expended therein, the balance going to the more sparsely settled provinces of Alberta and British Columbia, which can contribute only $600,000 each, though twice that amount is needed. The Province of Quebec is also scheduled to raise an extra $900,000 to help out the sparsely settled West.

In addition to the Patriotic Fund the Canadian people have subscribed freely to Belgian Relief, Red Cross, and other hospital funds for returning soldiers; also Tobacco Funds for Soldiers. A million pairs of socks a month are knitted by Canadian women.

The total to date, including the Patriotic Fund, is around $30,000,000.

To carry on the war Canada, in August, 1914, voted a first war credit of $50,000,000. In Feb., 1915, $100,000,000 was voted. In April, 1916, $250,000,000. A total of $400,000,000, or a per capita debt of $49.05. Taking this amount and the amounts paid for other purposes connected with the war the Canadian people have shouldered a per capita burden of $53.11.

From the nationality figures it might be conjectured that the Canadian-born enlistment has not been in keeping with men from other parts of the British Empire. This however, is due to the fact that in the earlier days of the war the enlistment was made up largely from immigrants. With the beginning of 1916 the Canadian-born really began to flock to the colors. An approximate of recruiting figures for the months of April, May, and June, 1916, show the Canadian-born recruits to have averaged from 75 to 90 per cent. of the total enlistment.

Canada has pledged to raise her number of recruits to the half million mark. On July 1, 1916, an unofficial approximate put the number of men under arms at 340,250. So Canada has practically 160,000 men more to raise to meet her total, or, on a basis of 1,250,000 eligible men, she will have to give 60 per cent. of her physically fit males between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years.

In her army to April 4, 1916, there had been 22,000 casualties, according to official figures from Ottawa. Since that date the casualty lists have been the heaviest of the war, and an unofficial bulletin at Ottawa on June 28 placed the figures at 10,000 killed and wounded since April 4, bringing the whole to at least 30,000 men.

Increased her munition factories from nothing to 422 up-to-date plants that are now turning out $30,000,000 a month worth of munitions.

Is investigating thoroughly her natural resources under the guidance of Arthur D. Little, Inc., known throughout the world for his noted chemical, and other highly specialized work. This latter project was started by Baron Shaughnessy, and among the things particularly to be looked into are deposits of coal, petroleum, graphite, asbestos, platinum, lead, zinc, antimony, iron, felspar, manganese and silver deposits. All of these the Dominion is rich in, but many of the fields have been scarcely prospected. All the wood ashes formerly shipped to United States as fertilizer are now being retained at home to aid in the manufacture of potash, very necessary in munition manufacture.

In the matter of munitions, Canada accepted, between December, 1914, and January, 1916, orders totaling half a billion, the major part of which amount was for 22,800,000 shells, 8,000,000 of these—2,000,000 "fixed" and 6,000,000 "unfixed"—were sent to Europe by the end of 1915, and represented an expenditure of $65,000,000. The following are now being chiefly produced: 15 and 18-pound shrapnel empty; 19-pound fixed 18-pounder high explosive, both empty and fixed; 4.5 howitzer (same, except loading); 65-pounder high explosive, empty; 6 and 8-inch high explosive, empty; 9.2-inch high explosive, empty.

Canada furnished to the end of March 48,000 war horses. The British Army Remount Commission secured 15,000; the French army, 8,000, and Canada the 25,000 remaining for her own army.

Canada gave from those engaged in the commercial life of the country 9,782 medical doctors, trained nurses and chemists.

Canada gave expert well drillers when water was an urgent necessity in the Gallipoli expedition. Canada's two great ice-breakers and the men operating them were the means by which Russian waters were kept open, making possible shipments to Archangel. When railroads were being constructed in France, Canadian engineers and bridgemen were among the chief workers.

In the Dominion in 1915, in spite of the shortage of men, the greatest grain, fodder, and root crops in the history of the land were grown, yielding to the farmers the sum of $800,000,000.

In fact the only industries in Canada that were hurt by the war were the lobster, sealing and fur industry (the latter only at first, later boomed by reason of large war orders for coats, mitts, etc.) In the case of the sealing industry the bottoms engaged turned to transporting war supplies, and are making more than if engaged in ordinary occupation.

Canada, though engaged in tremendously costly war, is exceedingly prosperous. Even her savings bank deposits, instead of decreasing, as is usual in time of war, increased. In August, 1914, there was on deposit in the chartered banks of Canada $699,399,000. On March 31, 1916, there was on deposit $738,169,000, an increase of 10 per cent.

Another good example of the Dominion's financial position can be best given by citing the fact that in May, 1916, the Government, even burdened with the war, was able to advance to two Canadian transcontinental railways $23,000,000. In addition to this the Government is pushing actively to completion the railway to Hudson Bay, at a cost of $26,000,000.

Thus Canada has accomplished feats in raising men money, and munitions that are little short of marvelous, and at the same time has carried on the regular businesses of life. The slogan "Business as Usual," adopted early in the war, has been more than lived up to.

Marquess Inouye Expresses Hope That Friendly Relations Will Be Strengthened

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—At the dinner given by the Premier, Hon. W. H. Hearst and his party in honor of the Marques and Marchioness Inouye at the York Club last night the Marquess, responding to the toast to the Emperor of Japan said:

"Although it has been my long cherished wish to visit Canada yet I regret that I have never had an opportunity of doing so before, so that this is the first occasion that I have of realizing my wish. But I regret that I am only just passing through and have not time enough to see all the attractions for which the Dominion of Canada is so famous.

"I must say that on my arrival here last night I was agreeably surprised to find myself the recipient of so many courtesies and hospitality on the part of your Government and of the city of Toronto—and may I add on the part also of an influential body of newspaper men, who had assembled last night at the hotel to give me 'a most warm' reception.

"I am indeed most grateful to the Prime Minister for his kindness in giving me this opportunity to-night to have the honor and pleasure of meeting you all. It will be a pride for me to carry back to Japan the fact that I have been treated as a guest in this most important and thriving city.

"Yesterday in reading over the newspapers, I learned with deep regret for the first time of the great extent of the awful disaster of the forest fire. I only hope that by this time it is now fully under control. Allow me on this occasion to offer you my sincere sympathy at the great suffering and loss which has befallen your country.

"As regards the present war, while we all regret the dreadful sacrifice which it has entailed, and which I fear will still entail, yet I am glad to see that the armies of the Allied Powers are now on the road which points towards a sure and final victory.

"I am glad to see that not only in England but also in the oversea dominions through the British Empire, especially in Canada, there prevails the firm determination not to pause at half measures, but to push and go on until the enemy is completely vanquished.

"I need hardly assure you that is also the spirit of Japan and that is also the reason why we have joined in signing the compact not to conclude a separate peace with the enemy.

"One of the benefits which we have derived as an outcome of the war is that the relations between the Allied Powers have naturally become very intimate and in the sam way I am very glad to see that the relations become very intimate and in the same way I am very glad to see that the relations between Japan and Canada have become more and more friendly and cordial. I venture to express the sincere hope that these friendly relations will not only be maintained but will still further be strengthened in the future.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Provision was made by the War Department today for the training of National Guard machine gun companies in Federal service. Instructions were given that not to exceed 3,000 rounds per gun be used for target practice. The guardsmen are equipped to a large extent with the machine gun of the same design as is being used by the Canadian troops on European battlefields but has never been part of the United States army equipment.

SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF DECLARATION OF WAR

Large and Representative Gathering in Armouries Friday Evening--Addresses by Mayor Ketcheson, Rev. Dr. Blagrave, Mr. E. Guss Porter, K.C., M.P., Rev. S. C. Moore, Mr. W. B. Northrup, K.C., M.P., and Others--Spirit Ran High For Allied Victory

In response to a proclamation issued by Mayor Ketcheson a goodly number of the citizens of Belleville assembled at the Armouries last evening, despite the fact that the weather was exceedingly warm. The ladies present were by far more numerous than the gentlemen.

The meeting was called in response to a request from the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, asking the citizens of Ontario to commemorate the anniversary of the declaration of war and to publicly discuss the great problems that face this Province as part of our Empire and to re-affirm our belief in the righteousness of the cause for which we are fighting, and our inflexible determination to continue the struggle until victory has been achieved.

His Worship occupied the Chair and associated with him on the platform were Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Mr E. G. Porter, K.C., M.P., Mr W. B. Northrup, K.C., M.P.; Revs. Dr Blagrave, E. C. Currie, S. C. Moore, Dr Scott, and Canon Beamish; Mr John Elliott and Sergt. A. Gibson, the latter of whom received a hearty welcome upon being requested to go upon the platform. In a few well chosen remarks the Mayor stated the object of the meeting as outlined above.

The proceedings were then formally opened by the singing of the National Anthem, followed by an appropriate prayer by Rev. E. C. Currie, B.A., pastor of the John Street Presbyterian Church. During the evening patriotic hymns were sung, the accompaniments to which were skilfully played by Prof. Wheatley. Four addresses were given and the speakers certainly confined their remarks to the occasion, and each spoke eloquently.

REV. DR. BLAGRAVE

Rev. Dr Blagrave, rector of Christ Church, was the first speaker and in his opening remarks referred to the fact that two years of this war had passed and that it found the Canadian people with as much determination to assist in prosecuting it to a successful issue as a year ago or when the struggle commenced. A year ago we were somewhat pessimistic as to the result. The advance of the Germans in Poland, the difficulties in the Balkans, in Greece and other places gave rise to trouble, but the worst is past, is over, and our arms are going to achieve what we believe are our rights. We are getting accustomed to casualties in this great struggle. We are, however, buoyant and our sympathies are as great as ever. We feel for those who have been bereft. We feel like dropping a tear and sympathizing with all. We have the same faith that we had when the war broke out. We were confident of the issue then and we are confident of it to-day. We have confidence in the Omnipotent. It is the sovereignty of justice and righteousness. We have unbounded confidence to-day, knowing that righteousness will prevail. This cause is an honourable one and our faith is expressed in our work. We should express our faith in our living. Let us have less sport, as there is a call across the line to take part in the great struggle that is taking place. Some who have gone and others who may go will not all come back. Those returning will be honoured, but something should be done outside of what Parliament may do for the returned heroes, and he had not the slightest doubt that it would be done by the Canadian citizens.

E. GUSS PORTER, M.P.,

After the singing of a hymn Mr E. G. Porter, K.C., and M.P. for West Hastings, was called upon and spoke as follows:

To anyone who knows in even a general way, as I think I know, the make-up of the average Belleville citizen it would not require a public meeting or a public resolution to convince him of the loyalty and patriotism of our people.

We are loyal to the core, but I think we prefer showing it in our works rather than proclaiming it in speeches or resolutions, and this we have been doing during the 2 years this terrible war has been on. One has only to refer to the public record of recruiting to see where Belleville stands in the sacrifice she has made and is making of her sons in defence of the Empire and of the principles of right and justice, liberty, and freedom. When the call to arms came very few believed or had any idea that the call meant such a gigantic struggle as has been witnessed during the past two years between the greatest nations of the world. No one of us was willing to believe at that time that within the next two years there would be upon the battlefields of Europe the sacrifice of hundreds of thousands, yes of millions of lives, the very flower of the manhood of nations from whence they came. Nor could we believe that in such a short space of time that hundreds of millions, yet billions of the accumulated wealth of nations would be squandered in the unholy and needless destruction of human life.

Who is there amongst us who in his mildest flight of imagination could picture the terrible scenes that have taken place in innocent Belgium, Poland, North-eastern France and Serbia. Where not only the destruction of peaceful homes, the conversion of houses of worship into ruined heaps of debris or fortifications for carrying on the carnage of murder and rapine that is marked by the life blood of loving mothers and helpless children and other crimes too horrible to mention. Who could have even guessed that the resources of the world would be strained to almost the breaking point in order that millions of our fellow-beings who were guilty of no wrong-doing might be rescued from sheer starvation.

On the land, on the sea, in the air, everywhere human agencies have been at work to destroy the "Noblest work of God," the human being who worships the Almighty and loves his liberty.

One marvels and is incapable of understanding in this 20th century of the Christian Era that any part of the human race, unless the savage in his native state, could lend himself to such a campaign of bloodshed, ruin and destruction.

Yet such scenes and occurrences as I have only in a general way referred to, are being enacted every day and every hour by the Central Powers of Europe at the dictation of militarism as it is known in Germany, whose Kaiser has forced upon his people the consideration of the Almighty as second only to himself.

One must not forget either, that these conditions have prevailed notwithstanding the best effort that could be put forth by the Allied nations of which we form no inconsiderable part, and that it is only within the last few weeks that one could discern the ray of sunshine in the success of the Allied arms that will eventually dispel the dark clouds that have hung over us so persistenly for the past 2 years.

We have sent forth with God's blessing, our quota of the first contingent, of the second contingent, the 34th Battery over strength, the 39th Battalion, the 80th Batt., the 155th Batt., contributed largely to the 224th Forestry Batt., and the 54th Battery. We have contributed of our means running into many thousands of dollars, the good ladies have been working day and night, every day in the week and every week in the year for the two years of the war, providing necessary comforts and some luuries to our boys at the Front.

And now the question is asked, shall we, the people of Belleville, discontinue our efforts? Shall we withhold our help or shall we go on increasing our activity?

Shall we help to roll back the dark and threatening cloud which like a nightmare has been hovering over and around us for the past two years, and allow the sun to shine through in all its brightness and glory upon a happy and peaceful world, or will we allow the clouds to grow bigger, dark-

Canadian Children Barred By States

Measures Similar to Canada's Against Paralysis are Adopted--Toronto Women Excluded

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Aug. 4.—Dr. Walter A. Scott, City Health Officer, has closed the bridges here and at Lewiston against children under sixteen years of age from points in Ontario where cases of infantile paralysis have been found. The case of two Toronto women with two small children who reside next door to a case there caused this action.

The orders issued by Health Officer Scott, affecting travel from Canada reads: "Children coming in from Canada under sixteen years of age must have a doctor's certificate which is not over 48 hours old. The certificate must state that they have not been exposed to a house where there has been infantile paralysis."

Order Covers Tourists.

This order covers tourists endeavoring to enter the country from Toronto and other points by boat landing at Lewiston.

The bridges were closed last night at the Canadian and to children under 16 years of age coming from New York State points without required certificates. Children coming from within a radius of 40 miles of New York city were not admitted, certificate or no certificate. Up to noon to-day several hundred had been turned back by the officers stationed at the American end of the bridges.

Refuse Toronto Families.

Irene Johnson, 20, and Mrs. Ivy Ward 19, and their infant sons, Harold Johnson and Jack Ward, all of Toronto, to cross the border that led to the placing of the quarantine on the American end of the bridges. They said that there was a case of the disease next to their home, and that they had left there several days ago, visiting friends in St. Catherines. They were on their way to visit friends in Buffalo when they were turned back by Dr. Scott.

Holland Questions Zeppelin Tactics

Claims They Can See English Towns in The Dark But Uses Holland as Short Cut Home

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 4.—The press has frequently pointed out that Germany seems to be challenging civilization and purchasing a course in all her dealings which flouts all consideration of justice and humanity. The uneasiness in Holland has been intensified by the disregard for Holland's neutrality as shown by the Zeppelins on their return voyages from England.

After all of the recent raids the Zeppelins have been seen cruising homeward, not only on the fringes of, or actually over, teritorial waters, but far inland, and in broad daylight, when their position must be perfectly clear to the crews.

When the first of the Zeppelins violated Holland's neutrality the exeuse that they lost their way was accepted, but the habitual crossing, both of the waters and land, is now regarded as an open disregard of this country's rights.

It is pointed out that if the Zeppelins, when over England at night, are able to identify actual towns and points on the coast, as stated again and again in the Berlin official news, it is impossible for Holland to accept the usual ecuse that these airships "lost their bearings," when what they really are doing is to use Holland as a short cut home, often in a damaged condition.

ALLIES FIRMLY HOLD THE ENEMY IN CHECK

Several Enemy Patrols Disposed of and Prisoners Taken--Fighting Lasts Throughout The Night--Aeroplanes Deliver Seventeen Attacks on the Enemy

Canadian Press Special

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(Afternoon statement.)—The night passed in relative quiet on the Somme front. Between the Rivers Avre and Aisne we disposed of several patrols of the enemy and took a number of prisoners. On the right bank of the Meuse cannonading last night was violent on the entire sector between Thiaumont and Fleury. The Germans endeavored by furious counter-attacks to drive us from the work of Thiaumont, which we hold firmly. The fighting lasted from eight o'clock last night until this morning. It resulted in heavy losses to the enemy and each one of their endeavors was repulsed without their being able to obtain the slightest advantage. Fighting continued with equal spirit in the village of Fleury, but resulted in no appreciable change in the situation. There has been intermittent artillery fighting in other sectors. On the right bank to the east of Pont Amousson, after preparatory artillery fire, the Germans delivered upon our positions in Facq forest an attack which resulted in failure. On the Somme front French scouting aeroplanes delivered seventeen attacks upon the enemy during the course of which two German aeroplanes were seriously damaged and compelled to land within their lines. Two other aeroplanes were brought down in Verdun region.

TURK'S ATTACK OF NO AVAIL

Canadian Press Special.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The following report was sent out by the commander-in-chief in Egypt at eleven o'clock last night: Since midnight Thursday, the Turks, estimated number fourteen thousand, have been attacking an out position near Romani, east of Port Said, on a front of seven to eight miles. The position Friday at dark, was that the attacks had made no impression on our fortified position, while on the southern flank fighting was going on in our favor, and between four and five hundred prisoners had been captured there. Ships of the navy rendered valuable assitance from the Bay of Tina. Fighting was still in progress when the report was despatched. The day temperature was one hundred in the shade.

STREET CAR MEN ON STRIKE

Canadian Press Special.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Street car lines which carry daily two million, three hundred thousand passengers, and empoly sixty-six hundred motormen and conductors, were nearly tied up by strike to-day. A few cars were moving, guarded by police. The elevated and subway, which were not directly effected by the strike, were thronged with passengers unable to use the surface lines. A threat has been made that the strike will eventually be extended to those systems.

AUSTRALIANS TAKE PRISONERS

LONDON, Aug. 5.—British official statement—North of Pozieres a local attack last night, in which the Australians and troops of the new army took part, was completely successful. The German main second line system on a front of over two thousand yards was captured, several hundred prisoners remaining in our hands. Repeated counter-attacks delivered against the position captured were repulsed with very heavy losses to the enemy. Except for some mining activity near Souchese and Loos there was no important incident on the remainder of the British front.

Begin Two-Year Man Hunt in North

A Second Party of Mounted Police About To Attempt Round-up OF Murderers

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—A second party of mounted police is about to start north on a man-hunt. They are after the Esquimaux who killed Explorers Radford and Street three years ago on the edge of the Arctic Circle west of Hudson Bay. Two years ago Inspector Beytes with a party of five mounted policemen started after the natives. They have been in the wilderness two years, and have not succeeded in locating the men they wanted. Now they are coming out, but the hunt goes on. Captain French has come down from the Pas, and is organizing another party to take up the search. It is to be larger and better equipped than the first. It sails Wednesday from Montreal on the Nascopie for Hudson Bay, will land at Chesterfield Inlet, and proceed, to Coronation Gulf to plunge into the Arctic Wilderness.

Captain French's party going in will meet Inspector Beytes' party coming out at Chesterfield Inlet. They go in equipped for a two years' stay, provided with dog teams, firearms and ammunition, fur clothing and all the essentials for life in the North.

Should they fail, another party will be sent in two years hence.

The hunt will go on, and the North scoured until the natives are found. Radford was an American explorer.

Street was from Ottawa, and a brother of Colonel Street, of the 77th Overseas Regiment.

MAY SETTLE COAL STRIKE

Alberta Miners Probably Will Receive Bonus

CALGARY, Aug. 4.—The dispute between the Coal Operators Association and the miners of District 18 may be settled. There is a strong probability that the threatened general strike may be averted.

Through the efforts of the Dominion fair wage officers acting as intermediaries, a committee of the operators was induced to meet a committee of miners executive. The representaties were in conference several hours last night. They will report to their representative bodies to-day.

It is understood the operators are willing to grant a 5½ per cent. bonus until the expiration of the present agreement on March 31, followed by a 7½ per cent. bonus for a period of six months after the close of the war.

British Bank To Enter Canada

London City and Midlands Preparing to Exploit Canadian Opportunities

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—Information has been received in unofficial circles that the London City and Midland Bank will establish branches in Canada at an early date. Application for a charter will be made at the next session of parliament.

The action of the London City and Midland Bank comes as a surprise for the reason that the Colonial Bank, an English institution has been considering the Canadian field. The Colonial Bank has a large business in the West Indies, and it was the intention to develop West Indian trade through the Canadian branch. Some well known Montreal financial men were interested in the enterprise.

Officials of the Finance Department say they have no information as to the intentions of the London City and Midland Bank. It is considered possible that the Colonial Bank has made an arrangement with the London City and Midland Bank under which the former will not proceed with the Canadian project.

Tax May Relieve Exchange Problems

Ottawa Hints At Levy on Non-Canadian Securities of Canadians

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—In view of the large purchases made in Canada of Anglo-French and other Government bonds issued in the United States and the serious effect which the continuation of such purchases will have upon the exchange situation between Canada and the United States, it is now regarded here as certain that at the next session legislation will be introduced imposing special income taxation upon all non-Canadian securities held by Canadians.

The effect of such legislation, which will be along lines somewhat similar to that in force in England, and enacted for the same purpose, will cause the liquidation of the securities specially taxed. This liquidation will tend to benefit the exchange situation and preserve the Canadian market for purely Canadian issues. There is abundance of money in the United States to take up all these securities, the proceeds of which have been expended in the United States.

Dodged By Destroyer

Deutschland Reported Beyond Reach of Allied Ships

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 4.—The Deutschland is now safe beyond her enemies off the Capes. She passed within less than 400 feet of the torpedo boat destroyer Sterret in her getaway without being detected, though her decks were awash, and part of her conning tower showing. A heavy sea was running at the time. Her course beyond the Capes is known to only two men—Captain Koenig and Captain Frederick Hinsch. She did not run west," was all that Captain Hinsch would say. The Deutschland escaped the vigil of the American destroyers by a clever ruse manoeuvred by the Neckar's commander.

The Sterret's officers "picked up" every light passing into vision from Old Point Comfort until finally they spotted the Timimns. At the time the submarine's one light on the conning tower was plainly showing, and the tug made a movement to draw closer to the destroyer. About thirty minutes later Captain Hinsch signalled to the Sterret: "The Deutschland has passed out."

er and more threatening until we are seagulfed in a malestrom of destruction, our liberty gone, our families and our homes destroyed, our very right to exist in jeopardy?

I know how the people of Belleville will answer the question.

REV. S. C. MOORE

Rev. S. C. Moore, pastor of the Tabernacle Methodist Church, being called upon, said he spoke as the representative of the Ministerial Association of the city. Years ago a challenge was issued for men, and men were secured. Two years ago a challenge was given and the men responded; men of all religious belief.. As a nation and people we must be united. We are fighting in a just and holy cause, and can confidently implore God's blessing upon this great war and crisis. For two years the war has engrossed our attention; it hangs over us and it harrows us; it invades our minds at all times. At times our hopes seem crushed, when we contemplate its awfulness. Millions of men are engaged in the struggle, and thousands of lives are sacrificed every day. The money consideration was also enormous and will be more till the struggle is over. When we think that there are some 5 millions of prisoners and nearly that number in the hospitals, we may have some idea of the magnitude and awfulness of the struggle. It is a gigantic struggle, and it was the supreme duty of the church of God in all of its branches to do its duty. The church as well as the nation is on trial. How dear the British Empire is to us, and we will pay the last sacrifice for her defence. A great duty devolves upon the church of the living God. This war is a challenge to the nation, and it is also a challenge to the church and our Christian teachings. How is the church and Christianity meeting the crisis? After two years of struggle we are gathered to commemorate the declaration f war and to consider what we can do more. This ought to be a time of heart searching, and humble ourselves before God and plead with Him to make up stronger and better for the struggle. The churches of this land have done much for the Allies, and have assisted in every way for those in land and sea. What more can we do is now the problem. The war clouds will have a silver lining. We believe a new day is dawning, and the church is being looked to to do its duty, and it will. Life is more real than ever before. Our first duty is to preach and practice faith in God. We need to confess our national sins and plead to God to make us a clean nation and a righteous people.

W. B. NORTHRUP, K.C., M.P.

Mr. W. B. Northrup, K.C., and M. P. for East Hastings, was the last speaker. This able Parliamentarian made a most capable, practical and earnest address, and was loudly applaused at intervals. It is to be regretted that we are unable to give a full report of his speech. In his opening remarks the speaker referred to Canada, its resources and immense territory. Canadians were the possessors of a great heritage, and Providence had endowed it with great wealth. He referred to the area of Russia, Germany and Great Britain. The latter was comparatively small in area compared with other countries, being only some 90,000 square miles in area. Germany had a large territory, as has also Russia. Canada has some three million square miles, and its fishery, mineral and forest wealth was almost incalculable. We certainly owe much to the Almighty for the many blessings we are endowed with. We also owe much to the Motherland, and Canadians naturally responded with alacrity when the call to duty was sounded. Are we going to make good and face with confidence the great problems which will confront us when the war is over. In this respect the church can do much and there is no doubt but that it will do its duty in every respect. In speaking of the church Mr. Northrup said that, if the head of the Roman Catholic church had at the commencement of the war issued a mandate the atrocities which were committed in Belgium might have been to a certain extent averted. When this terrible war broke out there was one country that was prepared for a long siege, and that country was Germany. When we know, as we know now, of the unpreparedness of the Allied nations, the wonder is that Germany did not capture Paris, march through France, as she did in Belgium, and then on to London, and would have done so had not England stepped into the breach. If this had occurred what a bounty would have been placed on France, Great Britain and even Russia by the German nation. It was evidence that the Allies were right and that the Lord was on their side. When this war is over it is up to the nation and the church as a body, to see that patriotism alone is not preached, but other great principles involved in a nation's welfare are promulgated. Mr. Northrup said there was one absurdity in our educational system, and that was that history was not taught as it should be taught, and any Government that does not in the future make this a speciality should be denounced from platform and pulpit. Canadian history should be more thoroughly taught and understood. Let us have a true teaching of history in our schools. In his closing remarks the speaker said it was up to us all to see that we do all we can intelligently and wisely for ourselves and our beloved country as a whole.

This completed the speech-making, and Mayor Ketcheson on behalf of those present, thanked the various speakers for their able and inspiring addresses.

After the singing of the National Anthem the Rev. Dr. Scott pronounced the benediction and the audience dispersed.

That new, black "Barefoot" Rubber!

ONE of its most valuable characteristics, for Tire (and Shoe) purposes, is its CLING quality—its tenacious grip on smooth and slippery surfaces.

Through that it gives its maximum Traction with a minimum of Friction.

When you put on the Brakes to stop the Car, or throw in the Clutch to start the Car, the Tires made of this black "BAREFOOT" Rubber instead of grinding against the ground for Traction, CLING to it, as your bare foot would cling to a slippery floor.

Get a sliver of it, from any Goodrich Branch or nearest Dealer.

You'll find it stretch almost as much, and return to shape almost as instantly, as a pure Rubber band.

Weigh a Goodrich "Barefoot" Tire of any size against the corresponding size of other makes of Tire, and you'll find it many pounds lighter, though many "Miles" stronger.

Drive it, and you'll find in Goodrich "Barefoot" Tires a liveliness, a quick response to power, a tenacity of traction,—and all this with a Mileage capacity which will surprise and delight you.

WE developed this "Barefoot Rubber" primarily for use in our now famous "Silvertown Cord" Tire which, last year, showed such marvellous ENDURANCE on the Race Track, at over 100 Miles per hour.

But we now make it into Goodrich FABRIC Tires,—Goodrich Inner Tubes,—Goodrich Motor-Cycle Tires,—Goodrich Truck Tires,—Goodrich Bicycle Tires,—Goodrich Rubber Boots, Overshoes, Soles and Heels, as well as into Silvertown Cord Tires.

Because,—in all of these its characteristics of "Cling,—Spring,—Stretch,—Strength,—and Lightness" are first requisites.

Now, compare GOODRICH Fair-List prices with prices you are quoted for same size Tires of other Brands, that have not the wonderful Resilience and Cling-quality of this new black "Barefoot" Rubber, which can be had in no other Tires than those made by—

NOTICE:
"No Concern in America made, or sold, during its latest fiscal year, nearly so many Motor-Car Tires as did The B. F. Goodrich Co.

VOLCANOES ARE IN VIOLENT ERUPTION

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—A Journal despatch from Rome to-day says:

The volcanoes of Mount Etna and Stromboli are in violent eruption, accompanied by underground rumblings. So intense is the heat from the flaming lava that the sea is boiling in the region of the volcanoes.

The volcanoes nave been active three days, during which time great volumes of lava, smoke and gas have poured from the craters.

THE BELLEVILLE RED CROSS SOCIETY

REPORT FOR JULY, 1916

JULY REPORT

Belleville Cheese Board Red Cross Society reports that official receipts and acknowledgments have been received from the following societies:

St. Johns Ambulance Warehouse
July 4th, 1916

Dear Mrs. Lazier:—

Many thanks for your kind letter of June 20th, for your kind especially welcome gift of £5-3-5 from the Red Cross branches of the Women's Institute which enables me to buy at once some specially needed hospital comforts. You may rest assured that every penny will go straight to easing a wounded man or helping a nurse in her difficult duties. It is kind of you to be sympathetic, and St. Johns' Warehouse gratefully appreciates it.

These are anxious days for all of us, but our men are fighting gloriously. I hear the casualties, though numerous, are of a slighter nature than expected.

I enclose my official receipt. Please remember that such a gift as yours is most thankfully received, and most gratefully acknowledged.

Yours sincerely,
AGNES JEKYLL.

Also from Granville Canadian Hospital, Ramsgate, England.

July 3, 1916.

Dear Mrs. Lazier:—

The three boxes sent through you arrived safely on July 1st, and are accepted most gratefully. The contents will be of the greatest service to the Hospital and will add greatly to the comfort of the patients.

Will you be good enough to convey to the various branches of the Queen Alexandria' Wallbridge Red Cross societies to whom we are much indebted, our sincere thanks on behalf of the Hospital.

Yours very sincerely,
ETHEL E. RIDLEY.

From Dublin Castle Hospital, the matron reported the receipt from the Belleville Cheese Board Red Cross and Patriotic Society of Canada of 8 boxes of Medical stores. The thanks of the committee are expressed. They were checked by Mrs. Bolton, commandant No. 24, V.A.D., Bristol Red Cross Co., Dublin, who writes as follows:

Dear Mrs. Lazier:—

Will you kindly convey the most grateful thanks of the Dublin Castle Hospital for the most generous contribution. The boxes were opened and checked by me in the presence of the matron. All were received in good condition, and will be distributed among Canadian wounded soldiers.

Please convey our thanks to the following societies:—

Wallbridge Women's Institute, Roslin Institute, Plainfield Institute, Queen Alexandra Institute, Sidney; St. Albans church Red Cross Branch, Tweed Red Cross Society, Frankford Institute, Wicklow Women's Institute, Marysville Women's Institute, Chatterton Women's Institute, Centenary Red Cross Circle.

A letter from Nursing Sister C. Geen, in whose care two cases were sent to No. 2 Stationery Hospital:

Dear Mrs. Lazier:—

How can I tell you how much the contents of those two boxes are being appreciated, both by the fortunate boys who are getting the good things and, by me, to whom you goodhome people have given the pleasure of distributing them.

When I received a note from the O. C. of No. 2, Canadian Stationary Hospital at Outreau, a few miles from here, saying two boxes had arrived there for me, I had not the faintest idea who they were from or what they contained, so you can imagine what a delightful surprise I had when I opened them.

You could not have had these articles arrive at a more opportune moment, for they came when we were in the midst of the greatest rush this unit has ever had, and when almost double the amount of beds that we are supposed to have, had to be ready to receive patients, and of course that means we were not over supplied with sheets, and in the emergency huts we had to put the patients between blankets. Putting patients between blankets may not sound very serious to you, but when I explain that certain small animals which many of the poor men bring in on their clothes, can be more easily discovered on sheets, you will understand.

I hope you will convey to all the different ladies who helped to furnish the boxes with its golden store, my most sincere thanks for everything.

I traded my pillow for one of those in the box. It really gave me so much pleasure to think I was sleeping on feathers from home.

The "Old Chum" and cigarettes are very acceptable and I give those to Canadians only for they like home brands.

The khaki shirts have been much in demand and I always enjoy new sheets, towels and pillow slips.

I might add that these are the first two large boxes that have been sent to me directly and I have often rather envied girls getting them from home, so you know how happy these made me.

Since the rush has been on we sisters take turns in giving from 8 to 12 p.m. a sort of supper to the boys who have to be up to help with the convoys—in fact some of them have worked night and day and through it all are so bright and jolly and so kind to the patients, though the poor boys look ready to drop themselves.

Again thanking you all for all the pleasure you have given many, I am,

Sincerely yours,
CELESTINA GEEN.

A letter also from the Canadian War Contingent per Eleanor McLaren Brown.

Mrs. S. L. Lazier,
Belleville, Ont.,

Dear Madam:—

We have recently received and unpacked a case forwarded by you containing gifts from the Women's Institutes of Wallbridge, Wicklow and Queen Alexandra Institute, Sidney, sent through the Belleville Cheese Board and Patriotic Association.

I am directed to convey through you most grateful thanks for this splendid contribution. The contents of the cases were received in excellent order and checked up correctly with the enclosed lists.

We are particularly grateful for the totobacco and chocolate as the demand for these things is somewhat hard to keep pace with, though we spend large sums of money every month for the purchase of these comforts in addition to what we receive from Canada.

Sincerely yours,
ELEANOR McLAREN BROWN.

Two other letters and receipts were received from Lady Jekyll:

To Mrs. Lazier and the members of the Belleville Cheese Board.

Dear Madam and Friends:—

On behalf of the Ladies' Committee of the Order of St. John of which Her Majesty the Queen is President, I write to acknowledge and thank you most warmly for the useful contribution you have so kindly sent.

The calls for hospital requirements, clothing and comforts for the sick and wounded at home and abroad, are so numerous and urgent, that all gifts are most gratefully received.

Yours faithfully,
AGNES JEKYLL.

Submarine Bremen Still In Germany

Reported from Baltimore That Sister Of Deutschland Is Expected to Sail Soon

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4.—The Bremen, second of the subsea freighters of the German Ocean Navigation Company, it is reported on good authority, has not left Germany, but may leave at any time, with Boston as her port of destination.

Preparations are now being made in that city to receive her. Captain Frederick Hinsch, Baltimore agent for the Navigation Company, will go to New England to superintend arrangements for her arrival. His family and household goods have been moved to Boston, and their recent home here is closed.

Henry G. L. Hilken, senior member of the Eastern Forwarding Company, would make no comment to-day on Captain Hinsch's removal to Boston, except to admit that he had left the city and that he was not taking a vacation.

Naval Constructor Wm. Gotthold Prusse, designer of the Deutschland, has gone to Buena Vista Springs, in Franklin County, Penna., where he will spend a month. He came over in the Deutschland as cargo, and it had been understood he would remain in Baltimore to take charge as construction engineer of other submarines that will arrive here.

The report that the Bremen is coming to Baltimore is effectively disposed of by Constructor Prusse's absence from this city for a month and Capt. Hinsch's removal to Boston. The Hilkens, however, both father and son, have stated that other submarines will make Boston their destination, though they have not said how soon.

Italy Renounces Commercial Treaty With Germany

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 4.—A despatch to the Handelsblad from Berlin says Italy has given notice to Germany of the termination of the German-Italian Commercial Treaty of 1891, which would have expired at the end of 1917.

A despatch from Paris last Tuesday quoted the Petit Parisien as saying that it understood that Italy had renounced the commercial treaty with Germany, thereby leaving the way clear for a declaration of hostilities between Italy and Germany. The newspaper said also the only reason which had prevented Germany from declaring war on Italy.

THIS IS THE 672ND DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

THE MANITOBA SCANDALS.

The trial of the members of the Roblin Government for malpractices in office is still in progress. A telegram from Winnipeg gives portions of the cross-examination of V. W. Horwood, the late Government's architect.

A few extracts will give the reader an idea of the character of the man. He commenced by admitting that he "swore falsely while under oath before the Public Accounts Committee," but justified his perjury by adding that he did it to screen the Ministers who are now being criminally tried. Among other statements he swore—

That as provincial architect he took his instructions from the Minister of Public Works (Montigue) and never considered the public at all, or that he had any duty to the public.

"Yes," replied Horwood, who said that $50,000 had first been put in the caissons payments for the fund. Afterwards Kelly mentioned $100,000, but he did not know whether this was a new sum or meant a total of $100,000 on the caissons.

"You committed perjury before the Public Accounts Committee?" asked Mr Andrews. Mr Bonnar objected that the witness could not know the legal definition of perjury. "He's well versed in perjury," commented Mr Andrews. The witness said that at the preliminary trial E. F. B. Johnston told him so many things about perjury he got "rather mixed."

"Did you go before the Public Accounts Committee and make, under oath, statements you knew to be false?" asked Mr Andrews.

"I did, under instructions," was the reply. Mr Andrews objected to the witness qualifying his answers.

"Did you not swear falsely, deliberately and knowingly and intending to do so?"

"Yes."

He denied having endeavored to have Wm. Salt commit perjury in connection with the caisson records. He requested Salt to alter his books to show a greater depth for the caissons. The intention of the alteration was that the province might be defrauded for the campaign fund.

"You instructed Salt to falsify a Government book, and you were with him when he did it?"

"I instructed Salt under my instructions." Horwood added that he looked up to the Ministers, and he "did not feel that there was much wrong in it."

"What was the consideration for your participation in this fraud, these crimes of which you have spoken?" asked Mr Andrews.

The witness said that Dr Simpson had mentioned that he (Horwood should make a little out of it. Horwood "wanted to kick Simpson" out of his office, and replied that his salary was sufficient.

The cross-examination is still proceeding.

It will be a difficult task for jurors to believe anything this witness says, particularly when it is known that he turned King's evidence to save his own skin.

Notwithstanding the character of this man, he is still employed by the Norris Liberal Government, as will be learned from the following portion of his evidence.

"You've been under pay since you came back from Minneapolis?" asked counsel.

"Yes," was the reply.

"By the Crown?"

"I certainly have." He said he received $4 per day, for which he was at the service of the Crown whenever they needed him.

Horwood said that after the preliminary trial of the ex-Ministers last fall, he could get no work and went out to the farm. It was arranged that he should be paid four dollars a day, so that he was at the service of the Crown any time they called him, and he had many calls.

Mr Andrews insisted witness state what he had been threatening.

"Well," said the witness, "at a meeting of the Cabinet on April 17 last year at which you were present, the question was fully discussed of how to keep Salt away and what to do about it."

"I can't give evidence, but I wish to state that that is a contemptible lie," retorted Andrews hotly.

What does the Manitoba Liberal electors think of a Government which keeps a confessed perjurer in its employment at $4 a day doing nothing? Is this a specimen of Western Liberalism?

BRITISH COLUMBIA ELECTIONS.

There is every probability of lively times in British Columbia at the Provincial Elections. The Nominations took place on the 3rd inst. In Vancouver, where Premier Bowser is running, there are six seats to be filled. Six Conservatives and six Liberals are running, and one Socialist and six independents were nominated, making just nineteen candidates for the six seats. There were two surprises: first, the crowd of independents who entered the field in Vancouver; second, the withdrawal at the last moment of the Liberal candidate in Prince George. In the Northern constituency a hot fight is raging between Hon. W. R. Ross, Conservative, and John McInnes, Socialist. G. A. Gaskell had been nominated by the Liberals, but it has been apparent for weeks that McInnes would lead the Opposition forces, and rather than divide the poll against the Minister of Lands, the Liberals withdrew, and will try and elect the Socialist.

Socialism and Liberalism are synonymous terms nowadays, hence it is a natural combination, particularly if there are any pickings in view.

Referring editorially to the prospects of the war, the Montreal Gazette says: "When the end will come is not even to be guessed yet. The tide is going against the Germanic confederates. Their strength is being reduced from day to day. They probably cannot maintain their armies at their present numbers. The balance of success is still on their side, however, and before they are subdued much more hard and costly work will have to be done. Great Britain, France and Russia are fighting the German people, and the Kaiser and his war workers are strong because of this fact. It can only be overcome by continuing the efforts that have marked the past twenty months in Great Britain and wherever British authority extends, and in France and Russia. To persist in the work is not only a duty; it is a necessity to the salvation of the friendly Allies. There is to cheer them in their task, as the result of recent efforts, for the first time in the two years of struggle, the knowledge that gains made do actually promise to open the way to victory."

In New Zealand the voluntary system of recruiting will be continued, but it will be backed up by a scheme of compulsory service, which will make sure the number of reinforcements New Zealand requires to send away every four weeks to maintain the standing of the contributed fighting force. New Zealand has contributed 60,000 men out of a population of one million, but it felt that the voluntary system would not maintain the standing of the country, and has passed a compulsory service law which does not exempt any class of citizens, as it was felt this was the weak spot in the English conscription act. Canada has already given 350,000 men out of the 500,000 promised by Sir R. L. Borden, by a voluntary system—a fact which the advocates of conscription in this country.

The Fifth Royal Hightlanders, which in the last few weeks has been raising a reinforcing draft for overseas, has sworn in almost a hundred men. The Fifth has already supplied three battalions, the Thirteenth, Forty-Second, and Seventy-Third, all of which are at the front. The men now attesting are nearly all native Montrealers. The local Scots regiment is surely doing its duty.

To conserve the gasoline supply for military service, it is proposed in Great Britain to stop Sunday motor travel. The new order, when it is issued, will be enforcible by penalty. Even the most selfish will see the need of obeying it.

Edward, aged six, was sent to a barber's shop to get his hair cut. The assistant who attended to him had red hair.

"Would you like to have your hair cut like mine," asked the barber with a kind smile.

"No, sir," answered Edward. "Cut it some other color, please!"

It is quite clear that there are dishonest officials in other parts of the Empire, other than Canada. A bill has been introduced in the House of Commons of the United Kingdom to facilitate inquiry into charges that in the discharge of their duties certain officials in the military service were not always influenced by national considerations alone. The exploitation of charges of this kind is the common lot of countries at war. The grafter asserts himself wherever there is heavy expenditure of public money made in a hurry.

The Poets' Corner

REMEMBRANCE TO MOTHER

The following very pleasing poem was recently received by Mrs. R. G. Barlow, from her son, Pte. George Barlow, of the 59th Battalion. It was sent on his departure for France, apparently the brave boy's last thought was of his mother.

Mother o' mine, have no fear
Now that the time is drawing near,
For us to go to the firing line
To help the Boys to cross the Rhine.

Mother o' mine, keep up your heart,
God will not keep us long apart,
Mem'ries of home locked in my breast,
Thoughts that will make me fight my best.

Mother o' mine, I shall soon return,
And ever for thee my heart shall yearn,
Safe in your prayers I'll always be,
God give us quickly, Peace and Victory.

Mother o' mine, I can say no more,
But to bid you a tender au revoir,
God keep you free from this parting's pain,
And hope that we soon shall meet again.

Quebec Censors Requires Titles in Both Languages

MONTREAL, Aug. 4.—Dr. L. J. Lemieux, chairman of the provincial Board of Moving Picture Censors, last night explained the letter which he had written to the moving picture companies in regard to having titles and sub-titles displayed in both languages. The letter states that in the future the board will issue an order requiring that this be done, but it is intended that there shall be plenty of notice, so that the companies in the United States, which make the pictures shown here will have plenty of opportunity of putting the titles and sub-titles in both languages. There is no intention on the part of the board to force the companies to cut the lms they now have in order to insert French titles, where there are none at present. Several of the large companies already have the titles and sub-titles in both languages, and in some cases in Italian also.

"The order of the board may not be issued for three or six months, or given a year," said Dr. Lemieux. "The idea is not to make them cut their films, but merely to have the American companies prepare their pictures in the future with both languages. The letter sent out is to give the companiee an opportunipty to make the necessary preparations." He added that the people who made the money out of the films were the Americans, and it is to them that the order will go forth. Dr. Lemieux made it clear that it is not the intention of the board to interfere with the films already issued.

A FATAL BARGAIN

OR

THE MAN WHO DARED FATE

BY

NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

"You shall get in no trouble, Mr. Kane," Patsy hastened to assure him. 'On the contrary, if you will consent to aid me, you shall be liberally paid. Here's a ten-dollar note for a starter."

"Goodness gracious!" The cobbler's eyes opened wide when he fingered the money Patsy thurst into his hand. "This is more than I can earn in a week."

"You shall have an even hundred, Mr. Kane, if you'll follow my instructions," said Patsy, quick to see the opportunity the situation now presented.

"A hundred dollars!" gasped the old man, with eyes fairly bulging.

"That's what, Mr. Kane, and I mean every word I say."

"But I don't know you, young man, nor why you want——"

"I'll explain," Patsy interrupted. "I'm a detective in the employ of Nick Carter. You've heard of him, haven't you?"

"Yes, yes; I have. Who hasn't?"

"I am one of his assistants. Have a look at my badge, to convince you that I'm telling the truth. The man who owns that shoe is a criminal, one of a gang Nick Carter is trying to run down. It is now very important that I should take advantage of this circumstance to assist him in that work. You shall be well paid, as I have said, but you must consent to follow my directions."

"What am I to do?" asked the cobbler nervously. "I'm too old to be of any service."

"Nothing will be required of you, Mr. Kane, except to let me get in my work against this fellow," said Patsy. "Do you employ a man here? I see you have another workbench."

Sometimes. I have none just now."

"Where do you live?"

"I live over my shop," Kane replied, with an upward glance. "There is only me and my wife."

"Good enough!" Patsy exclaimed. "Now I'll tell you what I want. I wish to be alone here when the owner of this shoe shows up. You go upstairs and leave me to run your shop, as if I was in your employ. I'll put on your leather apron and make a bluff at being at work on the other bench."

"I see, I see,' repeated the old man, nodding and rubbing his hands.

"I shall go out with the rascal, if I can fool him with the ruse I now have in mind, and you probably will never set eyes on him again," Patsy continued. "If inquiries are made here later, however, you must say that my name is Jim Hogan, and that I'm a journeyman cobbler who has worked a short time for you, living upstairs with you, and that you don't know where I have gone."

"I can do that."

"My scheme, Mr. Kane, is to blind this fellow and get in with the gang of which he is a member.' In case I am suspected by them however, and one of them should come here to substantiate the story I shall tell, I want you to say what I have directed. Can you remember it?"

"Yes, I can do that," was the reply, with a confident nod.

"I shall also write a few lines to Nick, which you must drop in the nearest mail box after I have left here," Patsy added. "If he comes here to question you tell him only the truth."

"I wouldn't dare to tell him anything else," said Kane, with a significant shrug of his bowed shoulders. "Is that all you want of me?"

"Yes."

"I'll do that much for you, then. I can hear from upstairs what you say to the man, and I'll remember it in case Mr. Carter comes here."

"Good for you," nodded Patsy. "You shall be well paid. Now, sir, is there a back door in that rear room?"

"Yes."

"Where does it lead? Is there a yard, or alley, through which I can reach the next street?"

"Yes, by going back of the stable."

"Let's have a look, Mr. Kane."

The cobbler now hastened to rise, convinced that Patsy was telling him the truth, and led him into the rear room. It was not furnished, containing only a few sides of leather, with other materials used in his trade, and a quantity of rubbish in one corner.

Opening the back door, Patsy quickly took in the surroundings—a small yard, the side wall of the stable mentioned, an old fence beyond it, and the rear walls of several inferior wooden buildings fronting on the next street.

"You can go over that fence," Kane explained, pointing from the door. "Then you'll see an alley a little to the right, which runs out to the street below."

"That's bully!" said Patsy approvingly. "Now, Mr. Kane, I'll get ready to meet this fellow. He said he would call for the shoe this afternoon, did he?"

"Yes. He may come in at any minute."

"I'll lose no time, then," said Patsy, quickly removing his coat. "I'm going to leave my detective badge and a few other articles in your care, Mr. Kane, until I can call for them. Somthing might happen after I land in with this gang, you know, that would cause them to search me. I'll leave with you the few things that might show me to be a detective."

"I'll take care of them for you."

"Good enough. You have no idea who the man is, you say?"

"No, I don't know him," said the cobbler, shaking his head and watching Patsy make his preparations. "But I guess he's a workman."

"Why so, Mr. Kane?"

"Because he said he wrenched his heel off while working on a pile driver," Kane replied. "That makes me think he may be at work on the Harlem River job, not very far from here, where a lot of pile driving is being done for some railway."

"I know," said Patsy, nodding. "It's being done for the United Transit Company, for an extension of one of their lines. The work has been held up for several weeks, under an injunction granted against them."

"But I heard this morning that they were going to start working again to-morrow."

"Yes, quite likely," the detective admitted. "The Packard decision was all they were waiting for. It's a hundred to one now that the rascal who owns this shoe is with the gang I am after. Now, Mr. Kane, you slip away upstairs and take these few articles for safe-keeping. I shall get away with this man, or immediately after him, as soon as he puts in an appearance. You can then resume your work as if nothing had happened, and I'll make it a point to see you again within a day or two."

"I understand," said the cobbler. "I will do all that you require. I'm to mail this to Mr. Carter this evening?"

"Yes."

Kane referred to the brief note which Patsy had written to Nick on a page from his notebook, including the detective's address. Patsy also had given him the notebook, his badge, watch, and a ring of keys, together with two pairs of handcuffs, which it seemed unwise to carry. He retained his revolver, however, in case of need.

The preparations he had quickly made, moreover, had wrought a decided change in his appearance. He had removed his coat, collar, and cravat, soiled his hands and shirt front with some of the cobbler's wax, as well as smirched his face a ilttle, in an artistic way that gave him a rather rascally aspect. He then rolled up his sleeves and put on the cobbler's apron, seating himself on the second workbench, having tossed a number of old shoes near it to indicate that he was at work on them.

There was a look of mingled amusement and admiration on the face of the aged cobbler when he was about to go upstairs, the way being through the rear room. He lingered only to shake hands with Patsy and wish him good luck, repeating his promise to do all that he had been told. He then withdrew to the floor above, taking with him the articles intrusted to his keeping.

Seated on the bench, Patsy picked up the shoe on which the cobbler had been at work, and—well, a stranger would readily have inferred that this bowed, begrimed young fellow had been at work there half his life.

It was then four o'clock in the afternoon, one hour since the dramatic closing of the Stock Exchange, and about the time when Nick was holding his interview with Nora Selkirk in her apartments.

With every passing step, Patsy furtively glanced up in the hope of seeing his quarry about to enter, but nearly an hour passed before his patience was rewarded. Then a man paused outside and glanced through the window, a well-built, powerful fellow, rather roughly clad, who appeared quickly satisfied with what he saw, for he at once opened the shop door and entered.

He knew at once that he beheld the ruffian with whom Nick had battled so desperately in the tunnel two night before

It required nerve and courage to proceed single-handed against such a brutal knave, with such a design as Patsy now had in mind. Yet he glanced up coolly when the fellow entered, then greeted him with an indifferent nod.

"Got my shoe done?" the man asked, with a growl habitual to his rough voice.

"What shoe is that?" inquired Patsy, laying aside the one on which he was pretending to be at work.

"One I left yesterday. Where's the old man who was here?"

Good Digestion A Source of Health

WHEN THE STOMACH IS OUT OF ORDER THE WHOLE SYSTEM SUFFERS

Indigestion is one of the most distressing maladies afflicting mankind. When the stomach is unable to perform the work nature calls for, the result is severe pains after eating, nausea, heartburn, fluttering of the heart, sick headache, and often a loathing for food, though the sufferer is really half starved. People with poor digestion, but there is only one way in which the trouble can actually be cured, that is through the blood. That is why the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cures even the most obstinate cases of indigestion. They make rich, red blood that strengthens the stomach and the nerves, the nerves, thus enabling it to do its work. The process is simple, but the result means good appetite and increased health and pleasure in life. In proof of these statements, Mrs. Albert Hall, Sonya., Ont., says: "I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with wonderful results. For two years I was a great sufferer from indigestion, which almost made me a physical wreck. At times my sufferings were so great that I was unable to attend to my household duties. I had smothering spells at times and was afraid to lie down to rest. After every meal, no matter how sparingly I ate, I suffered great distress. I tried several doctors but their medicine was of no avail. I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised to cure this trouble and decided to try them. I had not been taking them long when I felt somewhat improved. This improvement continued and after taking ten boxes I could eat and digest all kinds of food and felt better than I had done for years. You may be sure I am very grateful for the wonderful relief these pills have given me. I know they are also a cure for anaemic sufferers, as an intimate friend of mine was badly affected with this trouble and after taking several boxes she was entirely cured."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Westerr Canada Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

GERMANY'S POLICE

Science, System and Patience In Hunting Criminals.

HANDLING A HOMICIDE CASE.

How the "Murder Board" Works to Solve a Mystery and the Resources at Its Command—A Clever Swindler Who Worked a Daring Game.

Criminal investigation in Germany follows the national policy of an extreme centralization. Every phase of detective work is undertaken by a specialist along a particular line. An investigation is not carried out by a general purpose constable, as at Scotland Yard. It is conducted by an officer accompanied by a corps of experts. The "murder board" is an original German idea. A homicide mystery is investigated by one of the murder boards from the detective center. This board will consist of a photographer, a surgeon, a chemist, experts on blood stains and finger prints, some one having experience in taking molds of footprints, marks of burglar tools, and so forth. These murder boards, commissions or squads are always available under the German system. Each of these squads is given a single criminal mystery to work out. It cannot be put on a second mystery until the first is either solved or abandoned.

The advantage of such a system is at once apparent. It means that a thorough, minute, scientific examination will be made at the theater of a crime and that each succeeding step will be comprehensive.

The German idea is that a mystery should be examined from the center out. It is an ever widening circle, and if the investigation moves outward always in an increasing arc a solution in the end is inevitable. The thing is merely a question of scientific examination. Every resource of science is brought to the aid of a criminal investigation through the great laboratories in Berlin and other German cities devoted to the uses of the detective departments of the imperial police.

The whole postal system is at the service of the German police. They have the right to open and examine anything passing through the post which may seem to them to be important to their criminal investigation department. They are able to do this so cleverly that the average person does not discover that his letter has been tampered with. However, when the police wish to know whether one of their letters has been opened a number of devices are resorted to which will at once indicate any effort to disturb the envelope. Among these is the device of putting a certain chemical in the gum on the envelope flap. If such an envelope is subjected to the least heat in an effort to steam it open a stain will appear along the line of the gum border.

It must be remembered that the German police have one great advantage over Scotland Yard or any American detective center. A complete record of everybody is always available in the German empire. If one changes his place of residence or travels from one point to another his departure and arrival must be registered with the police.

It is not to be concluded, however, that all dangerous crooks are by this means excluded. Some of the most daring and ingenious sharpers of which we have any knowledge have carried out their fraudulent devices in spite of the elaborate protective system.

A famous international cracksman one night looted the office of a business house in a German village. He expected to obtain a considerable sum of money in cash, but he got instead a small sum and a sight draft on a banking house in a neighboring city for some 8,000 marks. The ordinary cracksman would have gone no further. He would have known the robbery would be discovered in the morning and the banking house telegraphed to stop payment on the draft.

But the German swindler was a person of greater resources. He disguised himself as a police commissioner, went in the night to the residence of the owner of the business house, awakened him, told him that his office had been robbed and inquired what the robbers could have taken. The man gave the sum of money on hand. The false commissioner inquired if there were any papers. The man replied that there was a draft for 8,000 marks and gave the address of the banking house on which it was drawn. The swindler called for a sheet of paper and wrote out a telegram to the chief of police in the city in which the banking house was situated directing him to advise the bankers to stop payment on the draft and to take the proper precautions to arrest anybody who presented it for payment. He read the telegram over to the man. He then directed the tradesman to say nothing about the robbery until the police authorities could lay their hands on the swindler when he came to present the draft for payment.

The thing was so cleverly done that the tradesman believed he had been visited by an agent of the police. He did precisely as he was told. It was a day or two before his suspicions were aroused. Finally, not hearing from the police, he telegraphed the bankers and received a reply saying they had heard nothing about the robbery and that the draft, properly indorsed, had been cashed. It was a bold piece of strategy impossible to any but the acutest order of criminal intelligence.—Melville Davisson Post in Saturday Evening Post.

STUFFING THE KING

A Dusky Kongo Monarch Who Fairly Reveled In Roast Pig.

HE WAS KIND TO HIS WIVES.

Anything on the Menu That Didn't Tempt His Dainty Taste Was Passed to Them, but When His Favorite Dish Came on It Was All His Very Own.

During his residence in the Kongo town of San Salvador John H. Weeks had many strange experiences, which he relates in his book, "Among the Primitive Bakongo," but one of the most entertaining pictures that he draws of the strange habits and customs of the people depicts the king, whose naivete and childish guilelessness are in strong contrast to the characteristics of his European contemporaries.

Occasionally, says Mr. Weeks, we invited him to dinner, and the piece de resistance was a sucking pig, which in those days we could buy for a shilling's worth of cloth or beads. Although his house was 400 yards away, he always came in his state hammock, carried by six of his headmen. Fortunately the headmen were strong and in the prime of life; otherwise the king's weight would have taxed them too much.

The hammock was of native cotton, grown, dyed and woven in a neighboring village. It was covered with red cloth adorned with tassels and bells, and a canopy was arranged to shield the rider from the sun. As there were no clocks in the palace, we asked our guest to come at sunset, and no sooner was the sun below the horizon than we heard the shouts of the people as they accompanied the king's hammock to the station.

As he got nearer we could hear the tinkling of the ferret bells on the hammock, the hurried, heavy breathing of the hammock carriers and their short, sharp sentences of direction to one another. They were not at all sorry to lower the hammock at our door, where we stood ready to receive and welcome him, who, although black, had come in the most kingly manner he knew and was certainly very dignified in most of his ways and words.

The boys quickly put the dinner on the table, and the king eyed every dish hungrily. I said to him one day when I was visiting him in his courtyard and we were both in a joking mood, "Do you know what the poorer class of English boys do when they are invited to a feast?"

"No," he said. And as he saw me hesitate he asked, "Well, what do they do?"

"Why, they eat very little all day," I replied, "so as to have plenty of room for the feast."

The old man rolled with laughter, snapped his fingers, slapped his thighs, and tears came from his eyes as he said: "Why, white man, that is what I do, but I did not know that anybody else was cute enough to think of that. But, Mfumu Weekisi, I am smarter than those white boys, for I don't eat anything all day when I am coming to take dinner with you at sunset." After that I could understand the hungry look in his eyes as he watched the dishes put on the table.

Native provisions of all kinds were very cheap, and by sacrificing one or two tins of preserved goods we were generally successful in working out a menu of six or seven single courses. Soup made of fowl and goat bones, with odd bits of meat and seasoning, a tin of fresh herrings baked or fried, a roast fowl, stewed goat, roast suckling pig and baked rice pudding with stewed papaws were our dishes. Our drinks were lime juice made from fresh limes and coffee grown in the district.

The king would squat on the ground, with a row of five or six favorite wives immediately behind him and the six headmen who carried the hammock standing against the wall. The king would take a few spoonfuls of soup and pass the rest down with a piece of bread to his waiting wives, who would quickly and quietly finish them.

The fish he would eat all up, because it came from the white man's country, while the wives pouted their disappointment. We would give him a liberal share of the fowl, but that was so common that after he had selected the best pieces the rest was finished by the expectant wives.

Goat came next, but was treated with as scant courtesy as that bestowed on the fowl, and meanwhile the old man would turn his eyes repeatedly toward the roasted pig.

When at last that was put before us we piled his plate with a liberal portion, which rapidly disappeared, while all the time his wives were making mouths in the semidarkness. He would grunt assent to more when we asked him, and again we would load his plate. It was the moment for which he had lived all the long hours of that day, for he had heard that the white man had bought a pig for dinner.

Farcical Roles.

An American actor of versatile talents was asked recently what type or role is most difficult to play. "The farcical," he answered. "To enact farce successfully one must play with deadly seriousness. Half the effect is gone once you begin to act your part lightly. The constant strain to maintain this mock seriousness is, of course, exhausting, since you have no outlet for your emotions."

HIS FORMAL REPRIMAND.

It Was Not Exactly the Kind He Was Asked to Administer.

Dr. Simon Parvin, an English clergyman, was at times absurdly absentminded. Once while he was visiting in the home of a very great lady who employed a large staff of servants, whom she kept under extremely rigid control, it chanced that two young footmen fell out about a pretty housemaid who had coquetted with both and so far forgot themselves as to engage in fisticuffs. The old countess was indignant. Her first intention was to dismiss the culprits, but they were excellent servants, and, moreover, the repentant maid tearfully interceded for them. The countess relented so far as to reduce the sentence to a formal reprimand before the other servants—a reprimand in the nature of a moral lecture to be duly administered by her distinguished guest. At her earliest request—she was herself confined to her room by gout—Dr. Parvin, a man of imposing presence and resonant voice, permitted himself to be escorted to the servants' hall. On his return she sent for him to come to her chamber to relate the result of his mission.

"A fine couple," said Dr. Parvin. "I should say, an excellent match."

"Match?" inquired the countess. "What match? Has the silly girl made up her mind between them, then? I vow, I thought she meant to jilt them both, and serve the boobies right. Pray tell me, how did John and Thomas receive their reprimand?"

"John? Thomas? Reprimand?" echoed Dr. Parvin vaguely; then, with a sudden dismaying flash of memory: "Dear me, I fear I have made a singular mistake! When I entered the room the younger servants were at the far end in a group, and the butler and housekeeper were together, quite near, immediately in front of me, in fact, standing side by side, and—in short, madam, I married them!"

He had, indeed; but, although astonished, they were fortunately not unwilling. They had, it happened, long been contemplating matrimony and were deterred only by fear of the countess' disapproval. Believing that she would not disapprove the act of her eminent guest, they had readily abetted Dr. Parvin in his error. The countess was angry, but her anger fell chiefly upon the absentminded divine. She gave him a piece of her mind that—if he had been any one else—he would not easily have forgotten.—Youth's Companion.

Two Ways of Studying Music.

Picture to yourself a little girl of seven or eight seated before that ponderous and portentous mass of iron, steel, wood, wires and hammers which we call a "pianoforte" (sixty pounds of tender, delicate humanity trying to express itself through a solid ton), her legs dangling uncomfortably in space, her little fingers trying painfully to find the right key and at the same time to keep in a correct position, struggling hard the while to relate together two strange things, a curious black dot on a page and an ivory key two feet below it, for neither of which she feels much affection. And then picture to yourself the same child at its mother's knee or with other children singing with joy and delight a beautiful song.—Thomas Whitney Surette in Atlantic.

An Unparalleled Victory

About a month ago we announced to the world our newest value—the $890 Overland.

In twenty-four hours and from every section of the Dominion we had received more orders than we could fill in several weeks.

So we immediately increased the production—filled the orders and notified our dealers not to push the model too hard as we were going night and day to catch up with orders.

Before the end of the first week orders were pouring in so rapidly that we decided to again increase the production so that there would be no disappointments.

Now we are shipping 500 of the new cars every single day and are fairly breaking our backs to keep pace with the great demand that now looks as if it never would cease.

We anticipated a great success, but we did not look for such a daily avalanche of definite shipping orders.

Never before has any automobile enjoyed such an unparalleled victory.

When to Bend Your Knees.

Here is a hint for you. In case you should happen to be caught in a falling elevator bend your knees. One day an elevator in a sixteen story building became disabled and fell from the seventh floor to the basement. There were seven passengers in the car. Alive to the danger, the car operators shouted: "The car is going to fall! Turn your backs to the door and bend your knees!" Six of the seven passengers obeyed and escaped injury, although the car landed with a crash that sounded all through the building. The seventh rider failed to obey the order and suffered fractures of the right thigh bone and of the right knee and lacerations, because he was facing the door and the broken glass showered upon him when the car struck.—New York Letter

Real Envy.

A considerable mingling of social classes occurs in our hill village, writes a correspondent, owing to the townfolk's practice of renting summer cottages in our midst and living there neighborly with the real working people for whom the places were built. In one such case the resident from town was an unmarried lady; the "genuine" cottager next door had a husband who, to put it mildly, was notoriously no blessing to her. Making a friendly call one day the wife was greatly impressed by the pleasant air of comfort and well being achieved in a cottage otherwise the duplicate of her own. She looked round with a mildly envious air and earnestly remarked, on a little sigh, "Ee, Miss X—, you ought to be 'appy—no 'usband nor nothin'."—Manchester Guardian.

The Arts of Asia.

It was Asia, through Arabia, which gave Europe the literature, the arts and the sciences which we have developed and of which we now boast. Gunpowder was probably invented in China. It was certainly introduced into Europe from Arabia. The finely tempered steel of Damascus went over from Arabia at the time of the Moorish invasion of Spain, and its manufacture was continued at Toledo. The coppersmiths of Bagdad supplied the world's market with their wonderful productions centuries before there were any industries in Europe. Weaving of silk and cotton had its birth as an industry in Arabia, and the weaving of wool was learned by the crusaders in the same wonderful country. Astronomy, mathematics, the mariner's compass—all came to us from the Arabs.

Tomb of Noah.

The tomb of Noah is supposed to lie in the small town of Nakhtchevan, on the plain of Ararat. The burial place is at the side of the broken walls of an abandoned fortress in the midst of a vast plain which is literally covered with the remains of bygone glories.

NO BLACK RUST IN PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Deputy Minister of Alberta and Saskatchewan Deny Rumors

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 4.—Although destructive hail storms have been reported from various parts of Saskatchewan, and thousands of acres of grain were destroyed in the Balcarres district, other drawbacks, such as black rust, are absent, and Acting Deputy Minister of Agriculture F. H. Auld stated yesterday that with the exception of 1915, crop prospects were never any better than at present. It is estimated that 20,000 men will be needed to harvest the crop in additional to local help. He said that there had been nothing to confirm the wild rumors that black rust threatened the grain production, although there was some red rust which did not damage the wheat.

About 75 per cent. of the Balcarres district was hailed out on Wednesday'es storm, the district affected being that which was completely hailed out last year. The damage will be about the same as last year.

Alberta, according to Deputy Minister Craig, is also free from black rust.

Railways to Avoid Last Year's Mistake

Rates to the Canadian National Will Extend Over the Full Two Weeks Period

A year ago all over the Province there was great disappointment among the people coming to the Exhibition the last couple of days to learn that the rates on the railroads had expired. It was too late then to have the matter rectified, but the Exhibition management took the matter up with the railroads and found that there had been a mistake in the circular sent out to their agents, the result being that on the closing days people going to Toronto had to pay full fare. This year the matter was attended to early and the Exhibition has the assurance that there will be no repetition of last year's trouble. The rates extend over the full two weeks period.

Revenue Going Up.

The consolidated revenue of Canada for the three months of the fiscal year ending June 30 was $50,772,903.92, and the expenditure was $37,065,289. The revenue from all sources amounted to $56,000,000. Of this expenditure only $10,528,045 comes under consolidated fund account while $26,527,243 is under capital and $22,173,031 of this is war outlay. In the month of June last the war expenditure was $12,439,187.93. During the three months' period the expenditure on both capital and revenue accounts outside of the capital outlay on war has decreased substantially, due to the policy of rigid economy adhered to by the spending departments of the Government.

The June revenue increased from $11,433,970 to $17,600,149, the increase being found in nearly all branches including $4,000,000 in customs.

The buoyancy of the Dominion's financial situation is shown throughout the statement. The total assets of the Dominion on June 30 were $420,395,783, as against $257,943,948 a year ago. The net debt increased from $450,287,721 to $593,910,637, but the increase for the month was $16,013,946.95, or nearly $2,000,000 less than a year ago.

The credit Canada has extended to the British Government now totals $150,000,000. Munition orders to this amount have been placed is Canada by the Imperial Government.

Canadian deposits on savings account total over $700,000,000 having increased a little over $100,000,000 during the 20 months of the war.

Empty Handed.

The afternoon at the new neighbor's had passed very pleasantly. James junior cried when told that it was time to go home.

"Never mind," said the lady consolingly. "You can come again."

"It ain't that," said James junior. "It's the walloping I am going to get from Henry. When I get home he'll say 'Halves,' and if I have to tell him that you didn't give me anything he will think I'm telling a story and punch my head for it."

The Portuguese Rebanadas.

A dish as much eaten by the Portuguese as mince pie by Americans is the rebanadas. It is of Moorish origin and is easily and quickly prepared, as befitted the habits of a nomadic race. Thick slices of bread are soaked in new milk, fried in olive oil and then spread with honey and eaten hot. The result is something delicious, and those who have once tasted the rebanadas will want to taste it again.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

CASUALTIES COMMAND

A casualties command has at last been organized, and the control of the convalescent homes will pass to this command, under the direction of the Hospitals Commission. For some time the pay of all casualties has been in the hands of a casualties paymaster, which in the Third Military District is Captain William Peters. Now the command of the homes will be placed in the hands of an appointed officer, who will be Captain Tett of Bedford Mills, who for some time has been doing duty with the Fort Guard of the 14th Regiment. The casualties command for the whole of Canada has been given to Lt.-Col. Sharples, and all casualties will come under the control of this new command. In all probability the medical work of the convalescent homes will also come under the casualties command, and medical officers will be appointed on the command. This will mean that the convalescent homes will be governed by a civil commission of which Senator Lougheed is president, and will be administered by a military command. There is a tremendous problem in the matter of the convalescent homes of Canada, and it remains to been seen if it can be worked out by a dual control, part civilian and part military.

THE CLEANEST SOLDIER

It is published for the information of all concerned, with reference to the guards which mount in front of camp headquarters at 5.30 p.m. daily, the camp commandant has been pleased to approve of the following: "The cleanest and smartest soldier on parade will be presented with a swagger stick, which he will retain during his tour of duty, and which he will hand over to the man detailed from the next guard coming on duty. He will also, for the tour of his duty, act as the D.O.C.'s orderly. He will not perform any guard duties during the tour, but will wait outside the office of the District Officer Commanding and will hold himself in readiness to perform any duty that he may be required to do by the D.O.C. or his representative.

The cleanest soldier will be selected by the Camp Adjutant or in his absences, by the officer inspecting the guards mounting.

are promptly relieved by applying Absorbine, Jr., the antiseptic liniment. It is soothing, healing, and invigorating—puts vim and energy into jaded muscles. One of the many enthusiastic users writes: "I received the trial bottle of Absorbine, Jr., all right and at that time was unable to walk without a cane, just around the house. I used it freely and inside of two days could walk without limping, something I had not done in two months. I went to the drug store and procured a $1.00 bottle and today can walk as good as ever. I'll never be without it. I am recommending it to everyone I can, for I am a living witness."

At druggists, $1.00 and $2.00 a bottle or sent postpaid. Liberal trial bottle for 10c. in stamps.

SOME HORSE

There was quite an exhibition of horsemanship yesterday afternoon in the neighborhood of the field hospital. The A.D.S.T. has given the officers of Queen's field ambulance a horse which any man would find difficult to ride. He could dance and plunge, and had a propensity to run to his stable, but he refused to act decent enough for any Queen's man to ride him. Several artillery officers, and an R. W.M.P. tried the game, but it was no use. There was lots of fun in the exhibition—for the man who was looking on.

Lt.-Col. Adams and the band of the 155th Battalion returned from Picton this morning.

Lieut. Young of the 155th Battalion has reported to Lt.-Col. Brown, G.S.O., for duty with the Machine Gun School. Lieut. Young will do instructional work.

Lt.-Col. Putman was in command of the 155th Battalion during the absence of Lt.-Col. Adams in Picton.

Captain Dodds, chaplain of the 155th Battalion has gone to Wellington to take part in the second anniversary of the war. On Sunday Captain Dodds will speak in Picton at a big recruiting meeting. Mrs. Dodds accompanied the Captain.

The Shadow of Death Hangs Over Belgium

3,000,000 People are Living Within A Few Days of Actual Starvation.

The situation in Belgium grows more critical with every passing week. The fate of women, children and old and wounded men, in steadily growing numbers, depends absolutely on the Belgian Relief Commission. If the food supplied by the Commission were cut off, the third day would find the weaker ones starving to death. Within two weeks 3,000,000 would be dead or dying, and 4,000,000 more would be suffering acutely.

Compare this with Canada—with our huge crops and busy factories—an abundance of food and plenty of money! Think of the average Belgian family! The father is in the trenches—or dead. The mother takes her place in the lengthening bread lines, to get the meager rations served out by the Belgian Relief Committee. The children, thin and pinched, and clad in rags, wait for what she will bring home.

So long as contributions to the Belgian Relief Fund keep up, each will get three slices of bread and a pint of soup a day. If givings fall off, some must go hungrier, or starve!

You can save at least one from such a fate! $1.00 a month—less than 4c. a day—will do it. $2.50 a month, in the hands of the Belgian Relief Commission, will feed an average family. Can you spare that much or more? Can you, with a clear conscience, withhold it? How many families will you undertake to feed till the war is over?

Whatever you feel you can give, send your subscription weekly, monthly, or in one lump sum to Local or Provincial Committees, or

SYNOPISIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territories, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Applications for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections or legal sub-divisions of sections and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

AN IMPORTANT LETTER FROM NIAGARA FALLS.

Niagara Falls, Ont.—"I was miserable, tired out and dragging around. My legs could scarcely support me. My husband had read about 'Favorite Prescription' and he got me to use it. I used four bottles and the results were surprising. I got stronger, was less nervous, my appetite improved and I felt like a new person. It is the best medicine for women I have ever heard of."—MRS. A. C. BROWN, 39 Clifton Ave., Niagara Falls, Ont.

There is nothing that will bring comfort and renew hope to the invalid so surely as good news. When the vital forces are at a low ebb and everything seems useless, a ray of joy and assurance will stimulate the weary body to new effort and energy. A letter from a loved one has turned the tide in many a siege of sickness.

Doctor Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., has good news for every suffering woman. Write him to-day and tell him your troubles, and he will send you just the right advice to restore you to health and bring back the roses to your cheeks, and without charge. His "Favorite Prescription" has been the rescue of thousands of suffering women. Many grateful patients have taken Dr. Pierce's advice.

Mothers, if your daughters are weak, lack ambition, are troubled with headaches, lassitude and are pale and sickly, Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription is just what they need to surely bring the bloom of health to their cheeks and make them strong and healthy.

Sale of Danish W. Indies Signed and Sealed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—The treaty between Denmark and the United States for the purchase of the Danish West Indies for $25,000,000 was signed in New York to-day by the Secretary of State, Mr. Lansing, and the Danish Minister, Constantin Brun, the State Department announced to-day.

Early ratification of the treaty is expected. The statement of the United States Senate favors such action and unofficial word from Copenhagen is that the Conservative party, which rejected the proposal for sale in 1902, is not now opposed to sale.

Senator Stone, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said to-day the opposition to the Danish West Indies purcase apparently the vote to confirm the treaty would be unanimous. The only opposition at all was because of the price, he said.

Under the treaty the United States obtains the islands of St. Croix, St. John and St. Thomas, east of Porto Rico. It surrenders its discovery rights in the north of Greenland. The treaty must be ratified by the Danish and American Governments and the people of the islands.

Britain May Try To Divide Wealth More Equitably

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Parliamentary correspondent of the Daily Express says the Government is considering measures aiming at abolishing after the war what the sociologists call "preventing poverty."

He says this was the meaning of a passage in Mr. Asquith's speech on the economic conference, when the Premier referred to certain reforms designed to "spread the fruits of industry more fairly throughout the community."

The writer adds the whole Cabinet is in agreement on this question and that there are prominent men in and near the Government who favor ways and maens to bring about a system of State control or guidance of the distribution of wealth.

The germ of State action on this principle is contained in the excess profit tax clauses in the budget, which this year is taking from very large excess profits no less than 77 per cent.

As secretary to the commission, Juan B. Rojo was named.

The party will start for the United States as soon as possible. The meeting place of the joint commissioners will be selected by them.

Luis Cabrera is Carranza's Minister of Finance, and leader of the administration party; Ignacio Bonillas is Under-Secretary of Communications, and Alberto Pani is president of the National Railways of Mexico.

A FINE RECORD

The results of the examinations during the past year show a magnificent record for Albert College. In the Departmental Examinations, 90 per cent. of those who wrote on Senior Matriculation and Faculty got their standing. In Normal Entrance and Junior Matriculation ten students were successful, three securing honours, and only one had spent two years in Matriculation Class, the time allowed by the High Schools.

With one exception, all piano and vocal students were successful in passing Conservatory and College examinations, most securing honours and many first honours. All candidates in Art, whose work is examined by Prof. W. A. Sherwood, R.A., C.A., passed, many with honours. All students in the Express Department were successful.

How Fat Folks May Become Thin

By Elizabeth Thomas

Perhaps you are suddenly becoming stout, or it may be that you have been putting on weight for years. In either case the cause is the same—lack of oxygen-carrying power of the blood. This trouble occurs in adults of both sexes and all ages, but it may be overcome very easily and without any of the privations that most people imagine necessary to reduce their weight.

Simply go to your druggist and get some oil of orilene capsules. Take one after each meal and one before going to bed. Weigh yourself so as to know just how fast you are losing weight. Wonderful results have been accomplished by this inexpensive recipe, but be sure to get the genuine oil of orilene in capsule form. It is sold only in original sealed packages. Any large druggist can supply you, or a large size box will be sent on receipt of $1: D. J. Little Drug Co., Box 1240, Montreal, Can.

QUESTIONS FATE OF SOLDIERS

Apprehension Exists as to What Became of Them at The Fall of Kut

Canadian Press Special

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Lord Robert Cecil told the Commons today an appreciation exists as to the fate of British soldiers captured by the Turks at Kut-el-Amara. Enquiries made through the American Embassy failed to elict a reply. At the fall of Kut the prisoners were compelled to cross the desert at the worst season of the year.

WOMEN AS POLICE ARE MAKING GOOD

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Women police are making good, according to the chief officer of the Women's Police Force. They are employed in munitions factories very largely, to search the ingoing and outgoing women for contraband, keep order in trains, inspect passports, and to patrol the lines and yards. They get $10 weekly, with railway fares, sergeants receive eleven dollars, and inspectors twelve dollars.

The chief officer says school teachers are particularly wanted for the force, as their training fits them admirably for police duties, which require good temper, patience and tact with firmness.

The girls in the factories appear to be very fond of the women police, and the government are asking for more to be appointed at various munition works throughout the country.

ADD MORE BOATS TO THE BLACKLIST

LONDON Aug. 5.—These American ships have been removed from the black list since its last publication: Steamer Seneca, and sailing ship Edgar W. Murdock.

Wagner liners which have been captured by the British and are now in the service of the government while awaiting their status by the prize court, appear on the list without any indication of their nationality, while the other Wagner boats appear as American.

A large number of ships on the list are bracketed under a caption stating that they have temporarily been removed from the blacklist while under charter to entente allies or innocent neutral interests.

Unlike the statutory blacklist of neutral traders, the shipping blacklist never has officially been made public.

DEATH OF A. M. BUCHANAN

Prominent Business Man of Picton Expires in His Workroom

PICTON, Aug. 5.—Andrew M. Buchanan, a prominent business man, was found dead in his furniture and undertaking establishment here this morning. He was seventy-seven years of age. He had been in failing health for some time past. Yesterday afternoon being a holiday, it is presumed, not feeling well, he went into his place of business to lie down, and expired. Besides his wife he leaves a family of five daughters, Mrs. F. Bogart of Fredericksburg, Mrs. F. Minaker and Miss Jessie of Picton, Miss Frankie of Toronto, and Miss Lizzie of Winnipeg; also two brothers, Jas. and William, and a sister, Mrs. Illsey of Calgary. Mr. Buchanan was a Presbyterian, and a member of the Masonic Order and A.O.U.W.

ENEMY CHECKED BY CURTAIN FIRE FRENCH AVIATORS DO GOOD WORK

Canadian Press Special

PARIS, Aug. 7.—An afternoon statement says:—North of the Somme and in the region of Chaulnes there was intense artillery fighting. On the right bank of the Meuse or the Verdun front, after artillery preparation, the Germans delivered an attack at Thiaumont work. Checked by our curtain of fire the enemy was thrown back immediately on leaving his trenches. In the Vaux Chapitre Wood an attack was delivered by the enemy at seven-thirty Sunday night, after a heavy bombardment, which failed completely. On the remainder of the front the night was calm. On the Somme front our aviators in numerous combats brought down three enemy machines and compelled three others to land in their own lines, also destroyed two captive balloons. French squadrons dropped twenty bombs on the railway station at Metz Sablons, thirty on the railway station at Thionville, twenty-five on factories at Rombach, and twelve on a military camp near Etain.

INITIAL SERMON BY NEW BRIDGE ST. MINISTER

Rev. Charles T. Scott, B.A. D.D. Creates Most Favorable Impression Upon Large Congregation--Fluent, Logical Preacher, With Evangelistic Tendances--Believes in An Optimistic Religion--His Morning Sermon

Considering the extreme heat of the day, a large congregation greeted the new pastor, Rev. Charles T. Scott, B.A., D.D., upon his initial appearance at Bridge Street Methodist Church, Sunday morning. Naturally a degree of curiosity occupied the hearts of the assemblage as it awaited the coming of the reverend gentleman, as few had as yet met him. But a silent expression of approval welled up when a tall, lithe, smooth-faced gentleman stepped into the pulpit, accompanied by Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, secretary of the official board, who was to introduce the newcomer to his future parishioners. As he stood for a moment, with a smile upon his lips, and scanned the upturned faces, a feeling of good-will prompted every heart, and the decision was general that the right man had been called to fill the place of the beloved Mr. Osborne, who at the same hour was to appear before his new congregation in Vancouver, B.C., from whence came Mr. Scott.

A pleasing solo by Miss Anna Ponton, a cordial introduction by Mr. O'Flynn, and the preacher took his theme for the morning.

While not particularly eloquent in a rhetorical sense, Mr. Scott is a fluent, logical speaker, possessing a fine voice, easy of manner, moderate in action, deeply versed in the scripture, inclined to evangelism, and of a decidedly optimistic trend, which carries his hearers with him; the beauty of yesterday's discourse lying in its simplicity and adherence to the thought of the Great Master.

Taking for his text Luke 21-33: "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away," the preacher referred to the purpose and work of Christ, His knowledge of human needs, His desire to help us on our way through life, and instilling comfort in the wounded hearts that appeal to Him. He dwelt at length upon Truth, its reality and application to the requirements of life—while all other things may pass away, this necessary ingredient in life's successes is ever at hand. Truth is the only thing that will conform to reality; Truth gives a conception of things eternal. While the outward character does not always indicate goodness, Christ looking into the heart observes the motives; a great and eternal vision means much to the usefulness of life. The optimism of Jesus arises from Truth; in laying the foundation of goodness Truth is always the corner stone. We need this optimism in running the race of life; a race which, on the whole is a moving upward into the light. Those who meet the scorns of the world for principle will rise to heights of rewards that cannot be realized. The world is not becoming worse; history does not substantiate the claim. Go back to the days of Rome's despotism and compare them with the privileges of today, and the argument is fully answered. The righteousness of God is gradually filling the earth. Thank God for present day blessings. The spirit which controlled the Pilgrim Fathers brought new light to this continent; the spirit of faith in God in these modern days is bound to have its effect. God will bring us all home to the eternal shore without a mistake if we follow His leadings. God's plans never fail; God is in the heavens controlling our destinies. As we begin our work together in this church let it be in an optimistic spirit. Let us make ourselves burning sacrifices for God.—Romans 12:1.

Will Lay The Corner Stone

Duke Of Connaught to Officially Inaugurate New Parliament Building

OTTAWA, Aug. 5.—The Duke of Connaught will lay the corner stone of the new Parliament buildings on September 1st. This date has ben chosen because it will be the 56th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the old building in 1860, by the late King Edward.

The committee supervising the reconstruction of the buildings concluded its session to-day, and came to this decision. The committee passed a resolution unanimously that all supplies be purchased by the tender system. A committee consisting of Messrs. Pearson and Marchand, the architects, Mr. J. B. Hunter, deputy-minister of public works, and Mr. D. Ewart, consulting architect, was appointed to supervise such purchasing. Another meeting of the committee will be held within the next two weeks to receive interim reports by the architects on the work.

Among those who attended the meetings were Hon. Robert Rogers, Hon. J. D. Reid, Hon. P. E. Blondin, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Senator Watson, and Hon. William Pugsley.

Robbery Mistaken For A Movie Play

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 5.—Search was being vigorously prosecuted early to-day in every county surrounding Detroit for the five automobile banditr, who, armed with rifles and automatic pistols yesterday held up the motor pay car of the Burroughs Adding Machine Co. and made off with about $34,000 after shooting and slightly wounding one man.

The robbery, which occurred within half a block of the Burroughs plant, is declared to have been the most daring in history of Detroit. It was accomplished so quickly that almost before anyone but the occupants of the pay car, a number of guards in a car following and the bandits themselves, realized what was happening the robbers had transferred five cash bags to their own machine, and were out of sight.

Hundreds of persons who saw the hold-up, smiled in the belief that they were witnessing the acting of a photoplay. One of the robbers is said to have lost his hat and revolver, both of which are now in the possession of the police.

FORBID BELGIANS BUYING IN HOLLAND

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Aug. 5.—Notwithstanding that she was already largely monopolizing the export of Holland's surplus agricultural and other food products. Germany has just taken measures with a view to removing Belgian buying competition from the Dutch market. A decree has been issued in Belgium prohibiting communes and dealers from importing goods from Holland. Applications to make such purchases must be submitted to Berlin. The result is that Belgium, where distress was already acute, is deprived of an indispensable supply of goods, and the great difficulties which the American Relief Commission is experiencing with cargo space does not allow of the adequate and speedy replacement from that quarter.

MORE CAPTURES BY RUSSIANS

PETROGRAD, Aug. 7.—Further success for the Russians along the Sereth and Graberk River in Northern Galicia south of Brody, were announced by the War Office to-day. The Russians captured fortified positions in this region of the villages of Zvyjin, Kostiniec and Reniuv.

BRITISH MOVING IN EAST AFRICA

Several Towns Occupied and Progress Made Along The Coastline

Canadian Press Special.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Rapid progress in the southward drive of the British through German East Africa is reported to-day by General Smuts, who says: The minor port of Sadani on the Indian ocean was occupied by our naval forces August 1st, a slight opposition only being experienced. Other naval operations are in progress at various points along the coast line. Having reached the German Central Railway at Kilimatinde, Rodoma and Kilombo, Col. Vandeventer, pursuing enemy forces, dislodged them from this area in the direction of Mpahua.

DRASTIC ACTION TO PREVENT PARALYSIS

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 5.—Drastic precautions are proposed by the Halifax Health Board to prevent infantile paralysis breaking out here through children coming here from New York by steam or rail. The board passed a resolution, which will be sent to the Dominion Government immigration department, recommending that every child under sixteen years of age coming to Halifax or any other Nova Scotian port, either by train or boat, be detained from landing for eight days from the date that they last left the district in which the malady is prevalent.

It is not expected that parents will put up with this inconvience of being isolated for six days at a Nova Scotian port. No cases of infantile paralysis have been discovered in Halifax, and only one death has resulted from the disease in Nova Scotia since the outbreak of the epidemic in New York. The health board officers will examine all children arriving from New York.

Cannot Reach Elephant Island

Vessel Selected for Rescue of Shackleton's Crew Too Light and Had to Return

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Sir Ernest Shackleton, the Antarctic explorer, sends the following message from Port Stanley, under to-day's date: "I reached here last night in the schooner Emma, I regret to say we were unable to reach Elephant Island, where my companions from the Endurance are still waiting rescue.

"At a distance of one hundred miles from the island our little schooner encountered pack ice in streams. We tried to force a way through but failed.

"The ship was too light for this task. The bobstay was carried away and ice chocked the water inlet to the engines, which thus became useless. After that we worked the schooner under sail to the eastward. The conditions were very bad. The pack set northeast and then southeast. Constant gales were encountered, and, with the low temperatures prevailing the ship became covered with ice.

"We were forced to turn north again and came through very rough weather on our journey back. It evidently is a very bad season in the south, and we must wait until the weather moderates before making another attempt to rescue the men on Elephant Island."

FIVE VILLAGES CAPTURED BY RUSSIAN FORCES

Over 5,500 Are Taken in Two Days' Fighting—Town of Zalozce, 53 Miles East of Lemburg, Also Occupied By The Russians--Teutons Fight Desperately to Retake Lost Ground

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(Special.)—A Russian victory in the Sereth Valley, northeastern Galicia, after a three days' battle in villages where every street was a battlefield and every house a fortress, is reported by the Petrograd War Office to-day. The success was gained on the front taken by Gen. Brusiloff's centre after the fall of Brody ten days ago, extending southward from that city across the headwaters of the Sereth. Finally breaking the desperate resistance of the Austrians, who again and again hurled themselves forward in vain counter-attacks, the Russians captured five small villages and the town of Zalozce, fifty-three miles due east of Lemberg, as well as the whole ridge of hills on the slopes of which these points are situated.

Kaiser Works In Harvest Field

Germany Jubliant at Big Crop of Potatoes and Dictator Confident of Future

BERLIN, August 5.—Emperor William is spending a brief holiday by helping in person to reap the bountiful harvest at the present great headquarters, thereby not only setting a good example of patriotism, but also keeping himself in physical trim. Divested of his field grey uniform, he is toiling whole afternoons in the heat of the sun and wielding a scythe in the rye fields with the muscular expertness of a peasant. He has acquired a healthy tan.

Herr von Batocki, the food dictator, showed to-day three telegrams from cities in the Empire calling urgently for help to handle the avalanche of potatoes, descending on them. He further said: "In Berlin 1,200 carloads of potatoes arrived in three days, and we needed only two hundred. As a result we had to send a thousand carloads to other cities and to dessication plants to keep them from rotting."

Herr von Batocki, who with his staff has already furnished detailed plans for the 1917 food year, is now drafting economic measures for 1918 and for the transition period immediately after the war.

"I am sure now that we shall enter the next food year in the fall of 1917 with a good reserve, because first we have had very good crops east and west. It is a fact that Germany has entered the third year of the war, not only with the food crisis safely passed but with marked improvement in the food conditions already noticeable all along the line. The reasonable anxiety as the old food year neared an end, as to whether the fast-vanishing food supplies, particularly potatoes and breadstuffs, could be made to last until the new food supplies became available, has completely disappeared in the last few days with the influx of new potatoes."

SAFES ARE OPENED

Strong Boxes in Cochrane Not Much Damaged

COCHRANE, Ont., Aug. 5.—Of all the safes in Cochrane which came through the fire, that in the Post Office suffered most. In fact there was no damage done to the contents of the safes of the Bank of Montreal and Imperial Bank, and but little to that of the Customs House. The contents of the safe in the Post Office were, however, somewhat damaged, some of the papers being so much charred that it will be impossible to read what is on them.

Cleaning up is in progress and already buildings are being erected, some well advanced. Lumber of course is scarce, and the small mills nearby will not nearly be able to supply the demands.

Tents and railway cars, the railway stations and other buildings are being used for housing those who are homeless. In addition those who were fortunate enough to save their houses are accommodating as many as they can. The soldiers pitched tents and gave whatever assistance they could but the officers in charge thought that by the end of the week the men could return to Camp Borden.

Hopes Eor Cheaper Gasoline

Government Urged to Develop Oil Bearing Shales in Dominion

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—If a proposal now being put before the Government meets with success, the worst nightmare will be removed from the life of the motorist. Gasolene, it is promised, will be plentiful and cheap.

What is being asked is that the Government encourage the development of the oil bearing shales of which there are known to be large deposits in New Brunswick, in parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta, and to some extent also in British Columbia. These shales exist not only in commercial quantities but the resources are so rich as to provide for all Canadian requirements, and then some.

This, at least, is the case which is being put before the Government by Mr. Louis Simpson, of Ottawa, who has made an exhaustive study of the problem. -Or rather, it is one side of the case. The other side has to do with the employment of returned soldiers, the suggestion being made that instead of assisting men to go on the land, or as an additional measure, the Government help in the establishment of a new great industry capable of providing employment for a large percentage of the men who will come back.

Those members of the Government who have considered the question have not expressed themselves definitely with regard to it. The oil imports from the United States are increasing by very large amounts annually as the Canadian consumption increases and the price of gasolene has advanced steadily. There is said to be little chance of relief from the United States as the consumption there is rapidly catching up with the production.

OUR WEEKLY SERMON

The Power of The Soul Over The Body

By A. M. Hubly.

Passing over the many correlations of the word soul, I shall only make use of the term in this discourse to designate that individual intelligent being which is popularly supposed to be capable of an active existence independent of any known physical connection. "Man is a soul, and has a body," is an assertion attributed to the late Joseph Parker of London. These words truly suggest the soul's proprietorship of the body. We may or may not agree as to the extent of this proprietorship, but we must all believe in the union of things and their properties. We also believe that change in the property or action of anything means a change in the condition of the thing itself in relation to other things. With material bodies there is continual changes. Change in matter may change spiritual conditions within material environment. In relation to human life, "Change and decay in all around I see," but the soul has undying affinities and cries: "O Thou who changes not abide with me."

Said St. Augustine: "O God, Thou hast made us for Thyself, and unquiet are our souls without Thee." In our minds we generally associate ideas of force and power with matter or with the material body. Nevertheless, we are conscious of powers in connection with human life, which we can neither define nor identify with any force correlated with the recognized properties of matter. It is by these powers that operate apart and independent of molecular force we recognize the man to be above the animal—and the soul a real individual personal existence, designated by personal pronouns, first, second and third.

The connection of the soul with the body is indeed a mystery. It has so baffled scientists in their investigations as to results, that we are presented with widely different conclusions. Professor Tyndall, at a meeting for the advancement of science along these lines in 1868, said: "The mystery of the connection of soul with body may be made a power in the human organism, but it is a power which has feeling and not knowledge for its base." But on another occasion he said: "Molecular forces, chemical and mechanical, have no conceivable relation to man's consciousness of thought, will and affection." Many conclude that soul power of faith, hope and love depend not upon bodily sensation, but feelings without knowledge have no bases, and not to feel what we know, is to know without purpose or benefit.

Someone has said: "Unfeeling science, if there be such a thing, is but a corpse." True science lives and knows it lives, with a life touch; it knows not how, by a power separate from material things with which it has to do. Matthew Arnold puts it thus: "Strong is the soul and will, and beautiful: The seeds of godlike power are in us still; gods we are, bards, saints, heroes if we will." While the soul becomes, through the use of the body, intimate with the realities of time, yet it finds stability, satisfaction and rest only in knowing that it is in correspondence with the eternal. Its supreme need is God! When in a normal or saved condition, the man has or seeks to have such control over the body, its functions and faculties, as will make all these minister to the higher life of the soul. Aristotle said: "The soul is that by which we live, feel and understand." But Elihu, in the early dawn of human intellect, took higher flight and said: "There is a spirit in man: and the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding." Without this soul and inspiration, the body were more unmeaning than a statue and only fit to breed corruption, as it does as soon as it becomes untenanted. Yet how gloriously needful is the body as an organism through which the soul, while on earth, may express itself: its high and noble aims, holy aspirations and its knowledge of its higher life. For a moment let us consider the origin of the soul. "In the image of God." We understand this expression to denote the moral excellence of nature, the superiority of being, and the supremacy of dominion with which man was endowed over all other forms of life.

To quote George Moore, M.D., member of the Royal College of Surgeons, England: "The Deity touched the common dust into sublimest order, the dead elements stood up in beauty, a temple fit for its Maker, who breathing within it filled it with His life." In man was mirrored the Abiding Light, that swept chaos and effected order.

"The Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his notrils the breath of life," or "lives," as some translate it, "and man became a living soul." "That is to say," says Dr Moore, "a being to whom all forms of life pertain." By this account of man's creation it is plain that life and mind did not manifest themselves as the organization of the body proceeded, but by an importation of the Divine, effecting thereby a peculiar vital relation of an inner life to its Author, capable of expressing itself, through and by means of the material body, which was of the earth earthy. Professor David Smith, in his correspondence of a few weeks ago, speaking of the tripartite nature of man—body, soul and spirit—said: "These terms, though found in the Bible, do not convey a final revelation of the consititution of human nature. When St. Paul makes use of them to the Thesselonians, he is not talking either theology or philosophy. He is quoting a common and quite unscientific classification of the different elements in man's complete being. Body, soul and spirit means the whole man, and the lessons which it teaches are religious and not scientific." So much from Dr Smith.

We are reminded that Marcus Aurelius speaks of "body, soul and mind," meaning our physical nature, our vital principle which we possess in common with the lower animals, and our intellectual nature which is supposed to differentiate us from them. But the soul in the New Testament is not only the vital principle which animates our physical organism, but is our intellect as well. Animals have life and mind. Life and soul in the Scriptures are interchangeable terms, meaning that which has control over physical organism in all spheres. The tree life directs and controls the material growth of the tree. This vital principle pertains throughout the vegetable kingdom. In the animal kingdom there is a dual principle. There is mind as well as matter correlated with life. "The old cow thinks." In all animals, from the mouse to the mammoth, the body is subjected to the power of mind, or instinct if you'd rather. All lower creatures, to the very creeping things of earth and insects of the air, have aptitudes and sensation. They no sooner come to life than instinct with skill they seek their happiness in the right paths, as if directed by Divine guidance. But let us note here, that with grub and bug and with bird and beast their bodily nature is their limit and cempletion.

All are adapted and related to their special spheres of existence: the fish the water, the beats to the field and forest, the bird to the air. Man's body does not fulfil his desires, natural faculties and functions cannot satisfy his aspirations. His mind must work with his wondrous hand to subdue nature, as in a supernatural manner, to satisfy his wants and mature his plans and purposes. He must invent means of accommodation to human requirements or receive them from other hands. He lives by art. "And all his works," says Dr Moore, "demonstrate that once appointed dominence over terestrial nature."

I suppose the doctor's mind reverted back to man's condition before the fall and the original intent of his Creator: universal dominion and the subjugation of the earth. But the soul is deeper than the machine which we see at work in the various spheres of action. It is the unseen, indescribable, undefinable, effectual working in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body to the edifying of itself, and through the flesh expresses itself and perfects its plans and purposes. The soul may fulfil its mission independent of the physical senses. An instance in Laura Bridgeman. At two years of age, through severe illness, lost sight, hearing, speech, smell and taste. At eight she entered Perkins Institute in Boston. In three months she was able to spell, with names of movable type, names of many objects. By the sense of touch she became a scholar and musician of no mean order, and an expert needlewoman, and also a most intelligent Christian. It is not the body nor any of its members that has the power of sense and sensation, which we in common parlence attribute to them. It is the soul that speaks by the tongue and voice, that sees through the eye, that hears through the ear. Helen Keller's life bears testimony to this. Blind and deaf, she says: "Light! give me light! was the cry of my soul, and the light of love shone on me in that very hour." Up to that time she had been almost devilish in her selfish rebellion against her condition and the will of those about her. Speaking metaphorically she says: I came up out of Egypt and stood before Sinai, and a power Divine touched my spirit and gave it sight, so that I beheld many wonders. And from the sacred mountain I heard a voice which said, knowledge is love, and light and vision." The eye did not see. She was and is still blind. The ear did not hear; it is still irresponsive to all sound. What was it that saw and heard? She gives the answer in the story of her life, which is a beautifully written book. She says: "That living word awakened my soul, gave it light, hope, joy, set it free." How rich is the soul in its overcoming power as it wars against the rebellious flesh. Listen to the way she puts it. "Sometimes, it is true, a sense of isolation enfolds me like a cold mist as I sit alone and wait at Life's shut gate. Beyond there is light, and music, and sweet companionship; but I may not enter. Fate, silent, pitiless, bars the way. Fain would I question His imperious decree, for my heart is still undisciplined and passionate; but my tongue will not utter the bitter words that rise to my lips, and they fall back into my heart like unshed tears. Silence sits immense upon my soul. Then comes hope with a smile and whispers, 'There is joy in self-forgetfulness.' So I try to make the light in others' eyes my sun, the music in others' ears my symphony, the smile on others' lips my happiness."

The late Fanny Crosby also has born wonderful testimony to the soul's independence of bodily faculties in its strivings toward high ideals. Referring to her blindness she said: "I do not want anyone to sympathise with me, for my loss of physical vision, nor to think of it as an affliction. I have never regarded it as an affliction, but as my greatest blessing. I do not need sympathy and would not know what to do with it if I had it. God had a wise purpose in depriving me of sight. He has done this that my life should be consecrated to a special work for him. There is a bright star that has always guided me and which I could see at all times, and this was brighter and more beautiful than any physical vision could possibly be." Thus do we learn from those with impaired bodily functions the power of the soul over the body.

The fleshly body in itself has no sensation. The brain does not think, the heart does not ache. This may be proven beyond contradiction in the operating chamber of an hospital. A body perfect in every part becomes dead to all environment and again with all its members absolutely immune from all sensation of pain, or pleasure, simply because by chemical action upon matter, the material body with all its parts are put out of correspondence with the soul, an unseen ersonality more real than that which is seen. The real man, therefore, is the unseen, and is endowed with unseen faculties and functions corresonding with those we see belonging to the body.

This indestructable something which shall flow back to the burning fountain of light and truth from whence it came, has all ower for good or evil over the body, and will be exercised according to its own relative affinities with the unseen forces of good and evil. Hence, the logic of Paul's exhortation: "Put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt, according to the deceitful lusts; and be renewed in the spirit of your mind, and that ye put on the new man which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness." The character of this inner man has all to do with what the tongue shall speak and what the hand shall do. It registers upon the physical form, the road, the way, the pace, and indicates the goal at the end of the way.

Newell Dwight Willis said: "The body is a show window, advertising and exhibiting the soul's stock of goods." The smile is the flag of the soul," says Dan Crawford, the famous African missionary. If you ask what the man smiles at, the answer will reveal his character. If he smiles tolerantly at evil he is a traitor. If he smiles mockingly at god he is an infidel. If he smiles happily over good things and chiefly in adversity and thankfully up to God, his flag is of the right sort." We behold the inner man by the countenance, the word and deed of the outer. By the voice the soul speaks, not only in an infinite variety of articulations, but by the modulated language of tones, so as to excite into pleasure or pain every sensation and sympathy of human life. It is the soul which throws the smile or the frown uon the countenance, and also animates the features, causing them to present a picture with all the light and shade of artistic skill, to give expression, and to portray, correctly the good or evil harboured within the brain or heart. As by the hand of a painter, is placed upon the canvas his inborn ideal, so by the soul is spread upon the face each passion, so that the innermost agitations become visible in a moment, and the wish or thought that would seek concealment betrays its presence, and power in the vivid eye while the blood kindles into crimson along the brow a burning blush of shame.

Just as readily is the beautiful, the pure and the holy painted by the same power, diffusing the fact with sweet serenity portraying feelings tranquilized, and thought abiding with heaven and happiness, like an ocean in a calm reflecting the placid glories of the sea of glass, where celestial harpers make music. This unseen master of its fleshly dwelling awakens sympathy, breathing from face to face when in association with responsive love, and with heart answering to heart, we have living sympathy with spiritual affinities, while memory and hope, and expectations, repose alike in smiling peace upon the tranquil bosom of happiness.

In conclusion, we recognize the soul as an essential being of enternity, with power to quicken matter, impart sensation, motion and expression to the intricate framework of flesh and bone which we call the body. But with all this the whole man, body, soul and spirit, has fallen and is doomed to eternal ruin, except as he is a recipient of the gracious gift of eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. "Unless above himself, he can erect himself, how vain a thing is man." It is the soul that wills when we act, attends when we perceive, compares thoughts when we reason, looks into the past when we reflect and not content with the present, projects its aims and hopes into the future, making use of the body with all its faculties, powers and functions for the attainment of its desideration; and, if reborn, all its volitions, aspirations and efforts to attain are principled upon righteousness, with a desire to do the will of God, and for the glory of His name.

Bilinguals Say Judgement Will Favor Them

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—Private advices from England received by the Separat School Board state that there is every prospect of the board winning out on the three cases now awaiting judgment by the Privy Council. Senator Elcourt is epected home within a few weeks. While this view of the situation may be unduly optimistic on the part of the bilingualists, they are undoubtedly sanguine as to the result.

Judgment is expected before the opening of the schools in September. An adverse judgment for the bilingualists will not result in a cessation of the fight.

A new method of impressing their claims of injustice will be resorted to. The last meeting of the school board before the resumption will be held on Monday evening.

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE
BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

"Gone out after some booze, I reckon. That's a trick of his, to skin out alone about twenty times a day to soak the roots of his tongue. I notice I'm never in it. I'd go dry as a smoked fish, for all of him. Mebbe he'll show up in a few—— What's the name, mister?"

Patsy abruptly ceased his grumbling, uttered with sullen snarls designed to favorably impress his hearer, and glanced up to the shelf of shoes when he carelessly asked the question.

"Cullen—but I didn't give the old bloke any name," was the reply. "The shoe wanted a new heel, the which ——"

"Oh, gee! You must be the covey."

"What d'ye mean by that?"

"Easy boss! Close your trap for a second."

The change that had come over Patsy had given Cullen one of the surprises of his life. As if hit with a sudden recollection, with his face taking on a look of mingled craft, caution and evil eagerness to befriend his hearer, Patsy turned to the window and peered out for a moment, as if looking for some one. Before Cullen could speak, however, though his fading color betrayed his immediate misgivings, Patsy turned back and said quickly, while he picked up the ruffian's shoe from the floor:

"This is the one, ain't it?"

"Yes," Cullen said harshly. "But why are you so stirred up over it? What's the matter with——"

"Stow that, boss, till I've turned the key," cautioned Patsy, stealing quickly to the door and locking it. "That's to head off the old man, in case he shows up—or the fly cop who was here this morning."

"Fly cop!"

"Sure thing—a detective."

"Here for what?"

"Get in the back room and I'll make you wise," said Patsy, hurriedly putting on his coat and hat. "He's after your pelt, for fair, boss; but I've no love for the cops, so thought I'd give you a tip. If it comes to a show-down, you can bolt out of this back door. I'll show you the way, boss, if you have to fly the coop."

"Tell me what you mean," Cullen fiercely muttered, seizing the detective's arm when they reached the back room.

"Sure, that's told quick enough."

"Out with it, then."

"A fly cop, some Mulberry Streeter, was in here this morning and asked of a boot without a heel had been left for repairs. He said a squad of detectives was doing all of the cobbler shops, hoping to run down a covey who lost his boot heel in a fight with some officer in a tunnel a few nights ago. I tried to dip the old man to keep his mouth closed, for I knew he'd been working on such a job. But his lamps are no good, and he didn't tumble."

"Is this straight good, young fellow?"

"Sure it's straight. What for would I be giving you anything phony?"

"Go ahead, then. You may be doing me a good turn."

"Rats!" said Patsy. "Don't you know I am? The boss showed the detective the shoe, mind you, and told him the cove who left it was coming in this afternoon to get it."

"He did, eh?"

"That's what. Then the fly guy told him to say nothing, and that he would watch outside and arrest the cove when he left here. That's why I'm tipping you to——"

"Stop a bit!"

Though Cullens desperate face wore a scowl as black as midnight, he now spoke with a snarl of genuine appreciation. As a matter of fact, he did not know just when and where he had lost the heel from his boot, and did not dream that it had been found by the detective encountered in the tunnel, which he would have thought utterly improbable. Otherwise, he would not have left the shoe to be repaired.

Quickly convinced, under the circumstances, that Patsy was telling him the truth and seeking to save him from arrest, he stepped to the door of the rear room and glanced sharply through the shop. It so happened that a man was at that moment approaching it from across the street, and the ruffian realized the danger of taking chances. Turning quickly, he vented an oath and growled:

"I'll be off at once. Where does this door lead?"

"Come in," said Pasy, quickly throwing the bolt. "I'll show you. In half a minute we'll be in the next street."

He opened the door while speaking, just as a hand lifted the latch of that in the front shop, and Cullen impulsively thrust him into the rear yard.

"Move lively," he cried, under his breath. "I'll follow you."

Patsy darted across the yard and around a corner of the stable, then clambered over the fence and led the way through the alley mentioned by the cobbler. Cullen kept close upon his heels all the while, and within a minute both were in the street below that on which the shop was located.

There they slowed down a little, Cullen taking Patsy's arm and remarking, with a grim show of gratitude:

"You're all right, young fellow. Come on a bit farther. I've something to say to you."

"What about?" asked Patsy, that he might not appear so willing as to incur suspicion. "You're well away and can give the guy the slip."

"I know that, kid," Cullen grimly nodded. "But you come along, just the same. You've done me a good turn, mind you, and I'm not a covey who thinks you did it for fun. I'll make good, d'ye see?"

"Oh, it's all right now, pal," said Patsy, with an air of friendly indifference. "Ive no love for the fly cops. One of 'em turned me brother down in Chicago two years ago, and I've been dead nuts on 'em ever since. You don't owe me nothing."

Cullen glanced furtively at him as they hastened down the street, and saw in Patsy's eyes a look of vindictiveness that appeared to corroborate his bitter words. It seemed to please Cullen, for his huge hand closed more firmly on Patsy's arm, while he remarked, with a low laugh:

"Mebbe I don't owe you, lad, yet I reckon you'd not dodge a good thing, if you saw it coming your way. How about that?"

"Good thing, eh?" Patsy glanced at him with a covert leer. "Well, not so you'd notice it. Good things don't come my way so often that I'm ducking 'em."

"I thought not," Cullen grinned. "Were you in the cobbler's shop when the detective came in?"

"Yes, sure. Didn't I tell you so?"

"I'd forgotten. What did he say, kid?"

"Only what I told you. There's a lot of 'em out on the same lay. Some covey—I take it 'twas you—did up a man in town a few nights ago, then bolted into the tunnel to slip away from an officer who got after him. The heel of his boot was found in the tunnel, so Mulberry Street started out a gang next morning to run him down, thinking he'd get the boot mended."

"I see," Cullen nodded. "Did you know the detective?"

"I didn't know him, pal, but he said his name was Chick Carter."

"Chick Carter, eh? Yes, yes, I'm wise."

"As I was telling you," Patsy went on, with glib earnestness, "I tried to close the old man's trap, but 'twas no go. He wouldn't tumble if the Flatiron Building fell on him. The fly guy left the heel on the counter after showing it to the old man. I swiped that, thinking you'd be just as well off if it couldn't be found."

"You did?"

"Sure thing! Here 'tis."

Cullen took the heel and looked at it. He could not have asked for stronger evidence in confirmation of Patsy's story, after what he really believed the latter had done to prevent his arrest. He nodded approvingly after a moment, thrusting the heel into his own pocket, and again said, with grim appreciation:

THIS IS THE 672ND DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

BRITAIN'S ONLY COURSE.

Always just in its editorial expressions regarding Britain's policy, The New York Times continues this attitude in taking up the Sir Roger Casement trial with an intelligent fairness that is worthy of the great American paper. In the face of rabid criticisms by a wide range of writers, The Times asserts that "The fairness of the man's trial was beyond reasonable or even sane question, and he had certainly been proved guilty of the crime for which every Government has a recognized right to inflict the heaviest of penalties. To have commuted his sentence on the plea of insanity would have been merely to seek and use a colorable excuse, in preference to frank admission of a desire to avoid the indirect consequences of carrying out the law. For Casement was "mad" only in the same sense that were the other participants in the rebellion he expected to lead, and his treason involved the trafficking with 'the enemy' which is most cases was lacking in theirs."

Every discussion of the case of which the basis is not blind hatred of England must start with an acknowledgment of these facts, and to them must be added the other fact that to have spared Casement's life might have weakened the proper and necessary distinction between loyalty and treason, and might have been interpreted as a confession by the Government that did it of apprehensions and cautions as readily explicable by cowardice as by magnanimity.

"It might be stated, however," continues The Times, "that there remains, and long will remain, in many minds in no way prejudiced against Great Britain or her Allies a feeling of regret that she did not realize the existence of a higher as well as a lower expediency and see in the situation as it confronted her an opportunity to be merciful rather than just.

"This feeling is a product of instinct, not of logic. Not all have it, and not all need to have it. Those who do not, require no defence; those who do have it will grieve the more in proportion to their desire that England's greatness may be spiritual as well as material. But they will not criticise her for exercising an indubitable right, or for deciding on her own judgment what course in this matter she should take. Whether she spared Casement or hanged him was distinctly and wholly her own affair, her own business. The consequences are hers to take and she will take them."

LET US ALL CONTRIBUTE.

A timely suggestion from the Montreal Journal of Commerce to Sir Thomas White, Canadian Minister of Finance, is to the effect that in his arrangements for the forthcoming war loan, provision be made, as in England, to enable the people of moderate means to participate in it. This is not because of any fear that the loan will not easily be subscribed but because it will be beneficial to the country and to the people to have the loan spread among them. The participation of the mass of the people in a war loan would cultivate economy and thrift. It would also induce those people who invested small sums in the loan to take a deeper interest in the war and in war financing. Patriotism would be stimulated. "A loan of fify million dollars obtained from the thrift and patriotism of the mass of the people would be a much better thing for the country than a similar amount received from banks and the wealthy classes," the Journal asserts, with which we fully agree.

And why shouldn't the man with a small savings account be enabled to get the same rate of interest paid by his country to those of larger means? The change might necessitate some extra machinery and some additional cost, but it would be worth both and would be a decided inducement to thrift.

UNTIL THE END.

The Montreal Gazette gives editorial expression to a meeting held in McGill Campus, Friday evening, which voices the feelings of our people from ocean to ocean of the Dominion of Canada. The gathering was in recognition of the second anniversary of the declaration of war by England against Germany, and the speeches, which strongly emphasized the intention of the people of Canada to stay in the war to the end, were typical of many given in every part of the Empire on the second anniversary of Great Britain's entry into the great struggle. "It was not a noisy meeting," says The Gzette; "the time when noise making could be excused in the connection has long gone by. It was significant most in its quietness. The chief speeches were fitting for the occasion. Sir Robert Borden and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux are men of different type. What they had to say was framed on different lines. The spirit of their utterances was the same. Each effectively gave the gathering something to think about and something to aspire to. Wherever their words are read, as where they were heard, the resolve should be strengthened that this country, with the others that make up the British Empire, will not abate the efforts it has begun." To quote the Prime Minister's concluding sentences:—

"We enter upon this third year of war with a fuller realization of its horror and with intensest sorrow and sympathy for all the homes it has saddened; but we have not lost faith that through all this welter of sacrifice and destruction human events march with steady footsteps to the assured fulfilment of an eternal and majestic purpose. We enter, too, upon this third year with a supreme and abiding confidence that our righteous cause will prevail and with an inflexible determination that for this our efforts shall not be spared. Canada consecrates herself anew to that great purpose in the unshrinking resolve that the cause for which her sons have fought and suffered and gloriously died shall be crowned with the laurel of victory."

Mr S. S. McClure, the noted New York publisher, upon arriving in England a few days ago following a tour of the Continent, said during an interview: "The impression I get is that Britain is firmly bent on carrying on the war to the end, and is intent on victory. I have found a wonderful spirit. a profound determination among the British. They have done an amazing thing in accumulating with the Allies a fighting strength that is as strong as Germany's was at the start of the war. What took Germany forty years to do the Allies have accomplished in twenty-four months. This war is going to be a struggle to the bitter end, with the strongest force victorious. The side that is gradually pounded down until it weakens is the one that's going to lose. This British military machine to-day is equally as good as Germany's, with all of Germany's long years of training conscripts. All talk of peace efforts now is pure idiocy. Ford's peace expedition was sheer phantasm. Before it ever landed at Stockholm it had been discredited. Although I was a member, I only went for the fun of the thing. I wanted the trip to Europe to see how things were going."

Toronto News: Never again must the control of the world's dyes, tungsten, spelter and other metals rest in the hands of one nation to use against other nations. After the war civilization must not slip back into the economic maw of Germany. As the Premier of Australia said in England, the relations between trade and commerce and national safety are so intimate that they must be treated as inseparable. There must also be adequate fiscal protection against neutral nations which have grown enormously in financial power as a result of the war. As the head of a Labour Government in Australia, Mr Hughes declares that our national resources must be conserved and developed for our own use, in order that the multitudes of our own people may be benefited. Once delivered from the menace of German militarism, the natural resources of Canada and the Empire must be developed on a basis that will yield the average industrious worker a fair and reasonable wage. That way lies national and Imperial strength and security.

Hamilton Spectator: Sir Sam Hughes' enemies have evidently taken counsel of Shakespeare in their animadversions, when he said: ". . . No matter how witty, so it be eloquent and full of invention; taunt him with the license of ink, . . . and as many lies as will lie on thy sheet of paper . . . set it down; go about it. Let there be gall enough in thy ink; though thou write with a goose-pen, no matter."

Current Comment

Kitchener, B.C., protests against the proposal that Berlin, Ont., shall take that name. Here's an excellent excuse for reconsidering the change.

Mr Carrell may console himself with the fact that he had several nice trips to New York, where it is said he dined at the Cafe des Beaux Arts and otherwise regaled himself.

The war has been in progress for two long years. The Empire has been "in peril" for that length of time, yet Sir Wilfrid has not yet made good his promise to "stump Quebec."

There are said to be fifty-six adult males in the National Liberal Advisory Committee which has been meeting in Ottawa. Hon. Sydney Fisher and Hon. Mackenzie King are also members.

The Ottawa Free Press calls for a reorganization of the Canadian Liberal Monthly. No wonder Liberals are becoming disgusted with that notoriously vicious partisan publication.

Premier Walter Scott and Hon. J. A. Calder, of Saskatchewan, were in attendance at the Liberal "uplift" conference recently held in Ottawa. Judging by the graft revelations in the western province they are worthy apostles of the new Liberal policy.

Hon. Sydney Fisher is casting covetous eyes upon Brome County, whose late member, Colonel Baker, has laid down his life for the Empire. Mr Fisher cannot again be elected in Brome unless sufficient Conservatives are killed in Flanders.

The arrangement now being made by the International Nickel Company for the establishment of a refining plant in this country, is a satisfactory outcome of the Dominion Government's efforts to have the manufacture of nickel from Canadian ore done in Canada.

It has been discovered that Roger Casement had agreed with the German military authorities that his "Irish Brigade" was to be sent to Egypt to fight against the British there. This proves Casement to have been a liar as well as a traitor, for he declared at his trial that he intended his brigade to be employed only in Ireland.—Hamilton Herald.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

DRAFT OF OFFICERS

Brig.-General Hemming has been asked by headquarters to submit the names of 19 officers for an overseas draft at an early date. The draft will be made up entirely of officers from the various overseas units whose establishment has been disturbed by the recent order cuting off assistant adjutants, transport officers, signalling officers, and junior majors. Should there not be sufficient of these to complete the number required for the draft, the list will be made up of supernumerary officers who have recently been dropped from different overseas units. No others will be considered, and it will mean a waste of time and effort for others to apply for a place on this draft. The draft will be mobilized at once, and in a matter of days will be ready for overseas service. This will be welcome news to a number of officers whose positions have been cancelled by the new order, and the draft will afford a quick and direct means of getting overseas.

MAJOR PRIDEAUX

Maj. Prideaux the capable ordnance officer of the Third Military District who recently left for his new appointment in Winnipeg, is doing the same excellent work in his new post that he did in his old post at Kingston. Major Prideaux received his training in the Imperial service, and saw active service on the east and west coasts of Africa. The major also saw service in Persia.

TACTICAL SCHEME

A tactical scheme which will be carried out some time this week is in course of preparation by Lt.-Col. Thompson, G.S.O. The exact date of the scheme cannot be given, as it would interfere with the carrying out of the same, but when carried out will include night work, and matters of the most practical and recent character which are carried out in actual warfare at the front.

PRESENTATION OF COLORS

The presentation of colors to the 154th Battalion will take place on Aug. 18th and an effort is being made to have the battalion go to Cornwall to receive the colors, which have been secured through the efforts of the young ladies of St. Lawrence Chapter I.O.D. E. It is understood that the soldiers themselves would prefer to have the ceremony there, and it is said that the men would be willing to have the expense of the railway trip deducted from their pay. If this is the case, it should be an easy matter to arrange for the presentation of colors in Cornwall, the county town of the district the battalion represents.

PRESENTATION TO 156TH

It has been definitely decided that the presentation of colors to the 156th Battalion will be at Brockville and the date will likely be August 16th.

NOTES

Lieut. Bromwich of the 146th Battalion will probably succeed Major Campbell as chaplain of the 146th.

Lieut.-Colonel Malley of Deseronto was in camp yesterday in consulation with Brig.-General Hemming.

There was a concert in the large mess tent of the 156th on Thursday their big tent Friday night.

Captain Dodds arranged a concert for the men of the 155th Battalion in their big tent last night.

Captain Thorn, officers commanding the Special Service Battalion, has returned to camp after spending a few days at his home in Lindsay.

The military editor of the Standard has been invited to deliver an illustrated lecture in the large recreation tent of the 154th Battalion on Friday evening next, August 11th.

There will be a concert in the tent of the 155th next Tuesday evening when several ladies from the city will take part.

The Special Service Battalion have opened their canteen. It is nicely equipped, and the men are pleased to have such an institution in their lines.

The 155th Battalion were unable to get into St. George's Cathedral at the special anniversary service Friday morning, and marched as far as the city park where they remained until the service was over.

Corporal Hogan of the 156th Battalion has been granted a certificate of qualification in Machine Gunnery, on the termination of the school of instruction at Kingston, on the 2nd of June last.

The artillery units at Barriefield Camp are certainly going in strong for athletics of all kinds. A meeting held last week showed that the boys were anxiously waiting for developments that would enable them to try out their talent.

SOLDIER CHANGED CLOTHES WITH A SCARECROW

MONTREAL, Aug. 4.—Eugene Bouthiller is a novel kind of soldier, to judge by the story told by a Grand Trunk Railway constable yesterday. Wednesday Bouthillier turned up at Coteau Landing, on the Soulanges Canal, in uniform. Later he appeared in mufti, having changed clothes with a scarecrow, who apparently did not object. Having robbed the scarecrow, Bouthillier seems to have figured that he must make public restitution of some sort. So he began to give away handfuls of small change on the station platform. The constable stopped Bouthillier's philanthropic work, stripped the still unprotesting scarecrow of his military trimings, and as a sequel Bouthillier this morning pleaded guilty to a charge of deserting his regiment.

TO SHOOT ALL ENEMIES

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Frankfurter Zeitung, says a despatch from the Reuter correspondent at Amsterdam, reproduces from the Rhenisch Westfaelische Zeitung, of Essen, a remarkable letter arguing that Germany has the right to treat as common murderers any subjects of neutral states caught fighting on the side of Germany's enemies. The letter, in part, says: "We are waging no war with the United States, but North Americans whom we encounter with arms in their hands ought to be treated as franc-tireurs and shot."

The Frankfurter Zeitung asks if the Rhenisch Journal would consider it legal for England to have shot Germans who fought against the British in the Transvaal.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT

James Alexander, on remand of a charge of disorderly conduct was allowed his liberty upon furnishing securities for his good behavior.

JEWS IN COURT

Saturday afternoon the Police Court was occupied with a charge of assault preferred by one Jewish junk dealer against another. The parties had a dispute about some dealings between them, which ended in a fight. The accused seemed to have rather the best of the fight, but the Magistrate said, as one witness put it "they were like a pair of game cocks," he would not impose a fine. After the close of the evidence the parties were permitted to settle.

W. Carnew for the Crown F. E. O'Flynn for the private prosecutor; W. C. Mikel, K.C., for the accused.

Compensation to Fire Survivors

Northern Ontario Farmers Find Their Land Cleared Almost Free of Charge

HAILEYBURY, Ont., Aug. 5.—Despite the heavy death list, which, however, official figures are likely to reduce considerably below the earlier estimates, and the damage to property in the fire-swept area, the general sentiment throughout Northern Ontario is that the fire is not an unmixed evil. Bush fires may be regarded as a heroic method of farm clearing, but the fact remains that settlers returning to their burned-over holding will find that they have been saved an immense amount of labor in the clearing of land. The general consensus of opinion, which is generally optimistic, is that despite a temporary setback in the loss of buildings, machinery and loss of portions of crops, there will be a new agricultural awakening in the north. A few days of fire have superceded the work of months with the axe and brushhook, and, in the opinion of several, who have returned from the fire zone, the actual loss by fire will be more than compensated for by the comparative ease and cheapness of land clearing. This, according to a farmer from near Haileybury, will not exceed $3 an acre, whereas before the fire the clearing cost might be placed at least $40 an acre. The general view is that by reason of the lands cleared, the farmers will reap next season three or four times the crop they have hitherto secured.

Prospecting for minerals will, it is also asserted, be aided by the clearing of the ground.

With sporadic outbreaks of fire here and there the situation is still not without further danger, but unless strong winds spring up the situation now is not regarded as dangerous.

Five hundred feet of hose were sent from Cobalt to South Porcupine as a precaution against fires burning south of the gold camp, but it is not expected that there will be any need for its use. Englehart is also considered to be safe.

A Splendid Spirit.

Toronto, Ont., August 5.—A telegram from Hon. G. Howard Ferguson to Premier Hearst on fire conditions in the North, states that the fire area from Ramore to Cochrane is chiefly on the east side of the railway. The largest area is from Matheson to Iroquois Falls, extending to the Quebec boundary. Practically everything is wiped out. A splendid spirit is shown by settlers almost all of whom are anxious to get back to the land.

PRESBYTERIAN CENTRAL ASSEMBLY, WINNIPEG, MAN., JUNE 1916.

During the last Presbyterian General Assembly at Winnipeg a number of delegates from the Maritime Provinces made their trip to Winnipeg via the Canadian Government Railways, Grand Trunk Railway System and the Transcontinental Line. The Grand Trunk are now in receipt of a eulogistic letter from these delegates, fifty two in number, which reads as follows:

"The undersigned, commissioners to the Presbyterian General Assembly at Winnipeg and their accompanying friends from the Maritime Provinces, hereby express their very great satisfaction with the conveniences and comforts enjoyed by them during their journey.

The officials of the Transcontinental Line, from the highest to the lowest, were not only faithful in the discharge of all their duties during this first excursion trip on their line from the Atlantic to Winnipeg, but they cheerfully did everything they possibly could to make the trip to be a long remembered one by all who took it."

Pawnee Bill to Produce "Pioneer Days"—Many Indians and Champion Cowboys and Girls

Pawnee Bill, the millionaire banker, and one of the few remaining members of the old western pioneers, is bringing his big wild west production "Pioneer Days" to the Canadian National Exhibition this year. Pawnee Bill's last appearance at the Exhibition was in 1892, when he had a very small show. In his present production he has over fifty head of stock, and there are 85 people in his company, including some of the world's champion horsemen, rifle shots and ropers. He will appear on the Midway, and in addition will present each afternoon and evening in front of the grand stand a half dozen of his best acts.

STEADY FLOW OF AMMUNITION IS THE CHIEF FACTOR

General Haig Writes British Workers Even Brief Holiday May Prolong War

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—An official diagram received by a British official in this city shows the rise in production of shells in Great Britain from September of last year up to two weeks ago. The diagram indicates that two weeks ago the production of shells had almost reached the maximum capacity of the British plants, and that this probably would be reached within the next few weeks.

With the diagram there came from the British War Office a copy of a letter from General Sir Douglas Haig, the British commander-in-chief in France, in which he appealed to the munition workers not to lose a moment's time in keeping the army at the front plentifully supplied. A two days' let-up in the supply, said General Haig, would be a serious thing for the army in France, and "might even mean the addition of many months to the war." General Haig's appeal, written from his headquarters in France, was as follows:—

"I feel sure that you would like to know how fully the troops in this country appreciate the strenuous and self-sacrificing efforts which are being made by their fellow countrymen at home to furnish them with the quantity of ammunition necessary to bring this campaign to an early and successful conclusion.

"At this moment we are engaged in the greatest battle the British army has ever fought. Our daily progress has been continuous since the battle opened, but the success of our gallant troops has only been made possible by the guns and ammunition turned out in the factories at home.

"The munition workers at home very generouly gave up their Whitsuntide holiday and were promised two days in August instead. I fully appreciate how tired they must be, and how much they must be looking foward to that promised holiday. Yet, I feel confident that if they could but see their comrades fighting here, both night and day, with heroism and determination which is beyond all praise, they would not hesitate to surrender those two days' rest, and would devote them to maintaining, and, if possible, increasing the supply of guns and shells, without which victory is impossible.

"I ask you to put the facts before the workers, and I know they will consent.

"Two days' cessation of work in the munitions factories must have the most serious effect on our operations. It might even mean the addition of many months to the war. The pressure which we have now brought to bear on the enemy must not for a moment be relaxed. The troops are prepared and eager to maintain it, but the continuous supply of ammunition is a vital factor.

"The army in France looks to the munition workers to enable it to complete its task, and I feel sure that this appeal will not be in vain.

"Let the whole British nation forego any idea of a general holiday until our goal is reached. A speedy and decisive victory will then be ours."

The official to whom a copy of General Haig's appeal was sent said that it could be stated officially that the commander-in-chief's desires in the matter of munitions would be more than met by the workers in the British shell and munitions manufacturing plants.

Lawyers Engage In Personalities

One Called Another a Liar and Fight Nearly Started During Winnipeg Trial

WINNIPEG, Aug. 5.—There were a few moments of tension in the trail of the ex-ministers this afternoon, when R. A. Bonnar, K.C., chief Crown counsel, told F. M. Burbidge, one of the defence lawyers, that he was a liar. A dispute arose when the defence tried to put in a letter from Auditor Fearnley o C. H. Dancer. The Crown objected that the document was a copy and the judge ruled that when an original was available a copy could not be used. A. J. Andrews, K.C., chief defence counsel, said the Crown had the original. Mr. Bonnar replied that it was not in the files, and Mr. Burbidge intimated that if the Crown would search their files they would find it.

"Then you're a liar," retorted Mr. Bonnar.

Mr. Burbidge stepped to the Crown's side of the table, where Mr. Bonnar was sitting, and took the senior Crown counsel by the shoulder. Mr. Bonnar stood up, and a stalwart officer hurried in their direction as the two lawyers faced one another. Then Mr. Justice Prendergast applied soothing words. He said the present case was one in which the defence should be allowed the fullest latitude in cross-examination, and he added that he was sure an expression of regret would be forthcoming from Mr. Bonnar. Mr. Bonnar replied that the statement of Mr. Burbridge was to the effect that he (Bonnar) was not telling the truth. His Lordship declared the incident closed.

A little earlier Mr. Andrews and R. M. Haig, K.C., of the Crown counsel, participated in a somewhat similar incident. Mr. Andrews devoted a lot of time in seeking to have V. W. Horwood, under cross-examination, do a little arithmetic to ascertain the yardage cost of concrete. Horwood refused, saying he could not make the division accurately in court. Mr. Craig remarked that he would not like to do it himself in court. Mr. Andrews declared that "this man is ready to come along and tell any sort of a disgraceful lie to help out the witness."

"Are you talking to me? Then you are no gentleman," retorted Mr. Craig.

"Well, you are not," said Mr. Andrews, and he proceeded with his cross-examination.

It was the eleventh day of the trial and the eighth day Horwood has been on the stand. Horwood at the opening of the session apologized to J. P. Foley, former member of the Legislature for North Winnipeg, for having introduced his name by mistake.

ITALIANS WIN BIG VICTORY

Considered The Beginning of Vast Offensive, With Far-Reaching Results

Canadian Press Special.

ROME, Aug. 8.—The announcement of the Italian victory is received everywhere with rejoicing. In view of the difficult nature of the ground and favorable positions held by the Austrians, the capture of thirty-six hundred prisoners is regarded as a long step in advance. The conviction is general here that we are at the beginning of a vast offensive, the results of which are certain, though they may be slow.

Swing In Bridge At Campbellford

Arrangements Are Completed to do This Work--Will Permit of Full Use of Trent Valley Canal

PETERBOROUGH, Aug. 7.—The Hamilton Bridge Co. have the contract for the new swing, and it will be all ready for the iron workers when traffice closes down on the G.T.R. Saturday night.

In the meantime the minor details of understructure are being attended to by the government and railway engineers.

Not a hitch in the plans as arranged is looked for, and the way to the upper waters of the Trent system will be cleared away for merchant vessels and pleasure craft.

Peterborough citizens next Monday, on their Civic Holiday, will be able to go to Lake Ontario by water, if they have the notion, and the present plans of the G.T.R. and government engineers do not miscarry.

The Government has completed arrangements for a quick transformation of the present bridge across the river at Campbellford from a fixed structure to a regulation swing bridge, so that the traffic from Lake Ontario to the upper waters will never again be impeded.

FRENCH PROTEST TO POPE

Vandalism and Inhuman Treatment by Germans is Alleged

ROME, Aug. 7—The French cardinals, archbishops and also the clergy and laymen have appealed to the Pope protesting strongly against "the vandalism of the Germans and their inhuman treatment of the French population," and imploring him "to stand by his persecuted children." The appeal also condemns "the anti-Christian methods of the enemy."

The vatican is making a careful summary of all the accusations, and the evidence will be transmitted to the Prussian and Bavarian ministers accredited to the Holy See, who are now residing in Switzerland.

It is believed that the Pope will use all his influence in interceding with Germany in behalf of the French population in occupied territory, especially asking for better treatment for the women, children and old men. But it is doubtful whether the Pontiff will make any public protest or expression of condemnation, as he might consider that a breach of the impartiality assumed by the Holy See.

Thiaumont and Fleurs Objective, But Heavy Fire of Allied Guns Check Advance—Fierce Drive Against Trenches in Vicinity Near Senones--Gain a Footing, Only to be Compelled To Retreat

Canadian Press Special

PARIS, Aug. 8.—(Afternoon statement)—North of the Somme our infantry operating on the right of the British in the course of an attack by our allies on Guillemont, made an advance east of Hill No. 139, north of Hardecourt, and took forty prisoners. East of Menacu farm the Germans made two attacks this morning and recaptured trenches which we took yesterday. Both attempts were repulsed by our infantry fire. The enemy was compelled to fall back, leaving a number of dead before our lines. The number of unwounded prisoners taken yesterday in this region is 230, of whom two are officers. On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun), the bombardment was resumed during the night with extreme violence on Thiaumont, Fleur front. At about five o'clock this morning the Germans delivered a series of powerful attacks with heavy forces against our positions from the village of Fleury to a point north of Thiaumont work, accompanied by curtain fire. All attacks were checked along the Fleury road and in the village by the fire of our machine guns which caused large losses to the enemy. The Germans succeeded in gaining a foothold in Thiaumont work after a desperate encounter which is still continuing at this point. In Vosges a detachment of the enemy, which attempted to approach our trenches near Senones, were dispersed easily by our fire.

Fell Down An Elevator Shaft

Oswald Cummings Killed At E. T. Wright Plant--Coroner Has Decided to Hold Inquest

HAMILTON, Aug. 7.—Falling down the plant of E. T. Wright company, Wellington street north, Oswald, eleven-year-old son of Oswald and Mrs. Cummings, 87 Ferguson avenue north, sustained a broken neck and was found dead by a number of young lads about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. They immediately notified the officials of the company, who summoned the police and Coroner Dr. Simpson to the scene of the fatality. After examining the body the coroner decided that an inquest was necessary, and ordered that a jury be empanelled to view the remains to-day at 12.30 o'clock. The body was then removed to the city morgue.

In spite of their efforts the police were unable to discover any person who had witnessed the accident or heard anything as to how it occurred. All that they could ascertain was that the unfortunate lad had been away from his work only about 20 minutes. The victim entered the employ of the company only last Tuesday, and was endeavoring to earn sufficient money to go with the other employes of the E. T. Wright Company, on their excursion to Niagara Falls to-day. He was born in this city and intended working only during the summer holidays. His young brother, Charles, is also employed by the same company, and it was left to him to break the sad news to his mother, who has been ill for some time. The lad's father is employed by White & Co. wholesale fruit dealers, in the capacity of a teamster. At the time of the sad fatality he was in the east end of the city, and could not be located until he was returning home after his day's work was finished. The news of his son's death came as a terrible shock to him. Besides his parents the deceased leaves six small brothers and sisters.

Car Suspended Over River Bank

Auto and Four Occupants Had Narrow Escape From Thirty-foot Drop

MONTREAL, July 7.—An accident which by a matter of inches failed to result in serious injuries or possibly death for four persons, occurred yesterday afternoon at Cartierville, when an automobile crashed through the planks protecting the approach to the bridge, and barely missed going over the 30-foot embankment. The automobile contained four passengers, a woman beng the driver. It had just crossed the bridge, on the way to St. Martin, when a man attempted to cross in front of the auto. The woman driver feared that she would strike the man, and turning too far to the side, crashed into the planks. She had presence of mind enough to throw on her brakes, and the machine stopped with one wheel and the front part of the car hanging over the rock river bank, a sheer thirty feet below. All those in the auto were severely shaken up and badly frightened, while the front of the machine was badly smashed. The Cartierville chief of police happened to be on the spot and he, assisted by several other men, succeeded in shoving the auto back upon the right of way. It was found to be in running condition, in spite of the crash, but the party abandoned their intended trip and returned to Montreal.

SITE NOT CHOSEN YET

NORTH BAY, Ont., Aug. 7—In reply to a deputation of citizens, officials and Board of Trade officials of his town, regarding the establishment in Canada of a nickel refinery, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson last night stated that he would not be surprised if the Provincial Government undertook the task of establishing customs smelters for the benefit of the small mine owners.

FACTIONS IN SO-WEST TORONTO MAY SPLIT ROWELL FORCES

TORONTO, Ang. 8.—Special—The breach in the Liberal ranks which became most apparent when the Rowell forces in South-West Toronto first had under consideration the selection of a candidate to contest the riding at the forthcoming bye-election has widened still further. The Liberals of Ward Six, who were eager to avoid a convention, nominated Mr. Gordon Waldron, and apparently closed their ears against all other suggestions. The desires of the Liberals of Ward-Six are seemingly no concern of their brethren of Wards Four and Five, who have arranged for a convention at Broadway Hall, Spadina Avenue, on Thursday next, to nominate a candidate for the riding of South-West Toronto.

A circular has already been issued in which there is more than meets the eyes of any individual outside the pale of Liberalism within the riding, as its purport speaks of a big break within the Liberal ranks.

At the convention two names at least will be mentioned in opposition to that of Gordon Waldron, Messrs. H. H. Dewart, K. C., and Frank Regan.

It is just possible that Mr. John Galbraith, 91 Cronyn Avenue, may enter the contest as an independent candidate.

Meantime, the supporters of James Norris, the Government candidate, have been busy arranging and placarding committee rooms in South-West Toronto.

Situation Bad In Fire Region

T. and N.O. Superintendent Wires Bad Outbreaks Have Occurred At Some Points

TORONTO, Aug. 7.—Danger points in the Northern Ontario fire zone are being diligently watched, and trains held in readiness at various parts to give relief should such a contingency arise.

A message received today from the traffic superintendent of the T. & N. O. Railway, says: "Conditions 3 p.m. today bad. Fires between Mile Post 30 and Bushnell. Large number of small fires between New Liskeard and Englehart. Particularly severe around Earlton Junction. Have ordered men with train to assist between Englehart and Kenogami. Fires at various points; particularly bad between Mindoka and Boston Creek. Have train on hand with men, rendering every assistance. Between Ramore and Porquis Junction fires still smoldering and burning severely surrounding Monteith and Porquis Junction. Porcupine camp, fires burning all around, but nothing serious except in vicinity Metagami and South Porcupine. Have train ready at Timmins to assist if required."

NEW FIRE SUBDUED.

North Bay, Ont., Aug. 6.—The officials of the T. & N. O. stated to-night that there was little new to report regarding the fires in the northern country, and that, although fires are burning in some sections, the situation is now believed to be well under control. This afternoon a fire started within a mile of the limits of this town, but was subdued by prompt work on the part of the fire brigade and corporation teamsters who were detailed to draw barrels of water from the lake.

Canadian Sentry Stops C. E. Hughes At Bayonet Point

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Aug. 7.—Several automobiles were crossing the international bridge to the Canadian side of the falls yesterday afternoon, when the first car was brought to a sudden halt by a sentinel who thrust a bayonet against the windshield.

"Got to search this car for bombs and explosives," said the guard, as two soldiers sprang forward.

The chauffeur looked worried and finally exclaimed, pointing to one of the occupants of the car: "Say, that's Charles E. Hughes, Republican candidate for President of the United States. You don't think he's carrying explosives, do you?"

"I dunno," was the unruffled retort. "I've got to go through everybody here, even if it's the King of England. Tell the gent to get out." Then the sentinel removed every cushion from the car and looked under it, leaving it with many backward glances, as if he felt sure that something was being concealed from him.

Meanwhile Mr. Hughes and his wife stood smilingly aside and permitted the search to go on, and just to show that he had no fear, Mr. Hughes supported himself with the aid of the bayonet.

Casualties Among Canadian Troops

Among the Canadian casualty list to-day appears the names of Ptes. Trefflie J. Guay of Trenton, and Pte. Harry W. Miller of Madoc, who are officially reported as wounded.

100 GERMANS CAPTURED BY TWO FRENCH SOLDIERS

Astonishing Exploit on the Somme Front Related by One of the Heroes, Who Was Decorated by President Poincare--Filed into French Lines With Their Brave Escort Of Two

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Special—Corporal Gouteaubier of the French Light Infantry has been decorated with the Military Cross by President Poincare for capturing one hundred Germans, including two officers, aided only by a single comrade. The curt reference to Corp. Gouteaubier's exploit in army orders reads: "For bravery and contempt of danger which struck terror into the trenches and shelter of the enemy. With a single comrade he has made one hundred prisoners, including two officers, whom he took to the rear and then rejoined his post."

When Corporal Gouteaubier was paraded before President Poincare on the recent visit of the latter to the Somme front he told the story of his feat at the request of the President.

It was on July 20, before Hem Wood. The French troops had just dashed forward at the German positions. The first wave had swept over the enemy's trenches and the second had followed to complete the operation. However, from a hollow toward the right a well sustained fusilade was being poured on the flank of the attackers. Gouteaubier, who was at the right wing of the second wave, called out to one man: "Guillot, come with me." The two men approached the spot whence the firing came. They glided from tree to tree until they were close to the shelter where a German company was holding out. Guillot threw bombs as fast as he could into their midst and the fire ceased. "Surrender!" shouted the Corporal in a stentorian voice from behind a tree.

In response to his demand one hundred Germans emerged from the shelter with uplifted hands, led by two officers. "Pass along this way," shouted Gouteaubier from his hiding-place. "Go out of the wood at once and march to the rear." Two minutes later the one hundred Germans, shepherded by the Corporal and Guillot, arrived at the French lines.

The prisoners admitted that some of their comrades remained in the shelter. Come on, Guillot, let us go and fetch them," said Gouteaubier. The two men started back, but Guillot fell with a bullet in his breast and the Corporal had to abandon his enterprise.

Germany Calls Available Men

Correspondent Declares Teutons Are Making Desperate Effort To Check Foes

"It is clear from information reaching Holland that the last two months have been spent by the German military staff in Berlin in readjusting home military arrangements in order to release every single available fighting man. Every garrison has been practically cleared of every trained man, leaving a minimum of inefficients with experienced officers for any normal and possibly abnormal duties that may arise in the towns throughout Germany.

"This latest and probably the last mustering of men has secured a ver considerable addition to the fighting forces. The men thus collected have been sent to certain centres within easy reach of the east or west fronts. Thus I learn that Cologne recently had to provide room for 150,000 men. Germany's man power may, therefore, be regarded as now at the absolute maximum on all fronts ,the authorities having been forced by the urgent necessities of the military situation to adopt extreme and heroic measures in a final desperate effort to hold up the Allies' advance toward German soil. The minimum number of German munition workers compatible with safety has been retained in the workshops, recourse being had to foreign labor on even a greater scale than hitherto.

"A decision so far as the present tpye of warfare is concerned is fully expected before the end of the Summer. I am told that even large numbers of men of the navy have been brought ashore and put into field gray and trained for land fighting. I have every reason to believe this statement to be accurate."

NEW USE FOR MOCCASINS

Well Adapted for Use in Explosive Factories

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—A new use has been found for Canadian moccasins. Mr. W. L. Griffith, secretary to the Canadian High Commissioner, has notified the Trade and Commerce Department that there is a demand for moccasins by merchants who state "this form of foot covering is particularly well adapted for use in explosive factories, and if once this type of shoe were introduced into this country, considerable business might be developed."

Sudden Death Of Kingston Man

William Yellowly Retired in Good Spirits and Was Dead in Ten Minutes--Supt. of Locomotive Works

KINGSTON, Aug. 7.—William Yellowly, superintendent of the Canadian Locomotive Company died suddenly last night at his home, 69 Union Street. He has been in good spirits and seemed quite as well as usual. In fact, he was as jolly as ever and did not complain of any pain. At ten-thirty he retired and at twenty minutes to eleven was dead. He died peacefully, without any sign of pain. Heart failure was the immediate cause of his death.

The late Mr Yellowly was born fifty-seven years ago in Newcastle, Durham County, England, and when a small boy came to Pittsburg, Penn., with his family. It was there that he received his early training and afterwards entered the Pittsburg Locomotive Works. He soon became assistant superintendent of the company.

In November 1901 Mr Yellowly came to Kingston as assistant superintendent of the C.L.C.. He held that position until September 1911, when his earnest labours were rewarded with his appointment as superintendent of the entire plant. He was one of the best known men in the city, and was always well liked by his employees, who heard with regret of his sad death.

TORONTO, Aug. 8.—(Special.) —The heavy gale which swept over Toronto Bay shortly after noon yesterday capsized the sailboat Romp, of the National Yacht Club, about a quarter of a mile off Centre Island. A call was sent in to Capt. Chapman, of the life-saving crew, and his launch was soon upon the scene. Meanwhile the crew of the sailboat had succeeded in climbing in the tender, and on the arrival of the lifesaving crew they were towing their 20-foot craft to shore. Canadian Press Special LONDON, Aug. 8.—(Official statement.)—The enemy after his five fruitless attempts yesterday north and east of Pozieres has not made any fresh infantry attacks, but is maintaining heavy artillery bombardment on this front and on other portions of the battle area. Last night our troops pushed forward in places east of Trones Wood and fighting on the outskirts of Guillemont, near the station, is proceeding. In the eastern portion of Liepsic salient the enemy attempted a bomb attack on our lines, but was driven back without difficulty. North of Roclincourt two of our raiding parties successfully entered the German lines and blew up some dug-outs. An enemy squadron of ten eroplanes tried to cross our lines yesterday on a bombing expedition. They were cut off by one of our offensive patrols of four machines. The enemy's machines scattered, returning precipitately, pursued by our patrols. Two of hostile aeroplanes had to make forced decents behind their own lines.

Wedding Bells

The following, copied from the Menomenee, (Wis.) News, has been forwarded to us for publication:

HEARTS AND HANDS JOINED AT WEDDING

A society event of much interest was that of the marriage of Miss Jennie Emma Koehler to Mr. Roy Cooley of Kingston, Rhode Island, which occurred at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride, Thursday, July 27th. The couple pledged their troth in the presence of a natural bower of shrubbery at the grove close by, standing beneath an arch, on each side of which were clusters of brown-eyed Susans. The bridal party marched to the grove as Miss Eleanor Craighton of Milwaukee, and Mr. Fleetwood Diefenthaler of South Barrytown, with Miss Lydia Kissling at the piano, sang Lohengrin's wedding march. The bride was given away by her father, Rev. H. L. Barth officiating. She was prettily gowned in white Georgette crepe, wore a tulle veil and carried white roses. Mill Lily Koehler was bridesmaid, and wore blue Georgette crepe, carrying pink roses. Mr. Wm. Koehler was groomsman. Following congratulations a splendid wedding dinner was served to upwards of seventy guests. The tables were arranged in an alcove, and were artistically decorated with nasturtiums and oak leaves. The young couple were the recipients of many splendid presents.

During the evening they were serenaded by the local band on their departure for a short wedding trip; showers of rice were thrown.

The bride is one of our town's most popular young ladies, a graduate of the State University and a successful teacher in the R.I. Schools. Her husband is a Professor of Animal Husbandry in the Rhode Island State College at Kingston.

They will return prior to their departure for the east.

HAD TO QUIT GERMANY TO GET ENOUGH FOOD

There is a Swiss merchant in Montreal who, while pro-Ally in sympathy, has had a great respect for German resourcefulness, and has, until today, refused to believe the reports of food shortage in Germany. What changed his opinion was a letter from his father in Switzerland, telling how his sister-in-law, a resident of Berlin, has been compelled to leave Germany with her two children, because they could not get enough to eat. "They were wealthy people, too," said the Swiss to-day." "If they were hungry, how about the poor?"

Canada to Send Another Division

Will Have a Quarter-Million Men in Field and Send Drafts to Keep Battalions Up to Strength

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—The announcement in England by General Sir Sam Hughes that Canada would place two more divisions in the field was expected here and in anticipation of such an increase in our army in Flanders, about forty thousand troops now in training in Canada will be sent overseas before the middle of October.

Canada now has four divisions in Flanders and with the two others to be organized will have 250,000 men on the firing line, or the equivalent of three army corps. There have been sent overseas 22,000 men and allowing 20,000 for wastage in killed, prisoners and permanently unfit for service by wounds and sickness, the new war organization will have 120,000 men at the front and 80,000 in reserves in England. To bring the reserves up to 100 per cent, there will be sent from Canada as soon as possible an additional 40,000 men.

These are expected to be drawn from troops in training camps in about the following number: Maritime Provinces, 5,000; Quebec, 4,000; Ontario, 15,000; Manitoba and Saskatchewan, 8,060; Alberta, 4,000, and British Columbia, 4,000.

Another 40,000 are expected to be ready to send overseas before 1917, making a total of 300,000 across the Atlantic by the end of the year.

No New Separate Units

It is believed that few additional regiments will be now authorized. When the six divisions are at the front this will mean 72 infantry battalions, whose indentity will be preserved. Beyond this number it is very doubtful if other battalions will be permitted to preserve their identity. The new recruiting system being considered is to have the parent militia organization enlist drafts for the allied battalions at the front. Every one of the 72 battalions in the army in Flanders is in a great measure identified with some particular regiments and it is believe that the home regiments will be able to furnish enough partially trained recruits to keep the ranks of the regiment on service filled. Drafts for this purpose wil probably consist of one hundred non-commissioned officers and men and two lieutenants.

CHILDREN AT PRAYER STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Serious Electric, Hail and Rain Storm Visits Quebec District

QUEBEC, Aug. 8.—(Special.) —A serious hail, rain and electric storm struck Quebec and district Saturday evening about 6 o'clock and wrought heavy damage to grain crops, and in some places where the hay was not yet barned this crop was also seriously hurt.

A number of houses in the surrounding communities were either hit by bolts or unroofed by the gale that swept at a rate of fifty-nine miles per hour.

At St. Augustin, among other accidents, four children of the Joseph Cote family were struck and numbed by lightning while at prayer. They later recovered, but all bear traces of the shock.

No estimate of the damage to property and crops can yet be given, as telephone connections are greatly interrupted.

RUMOUR SAYS TURK CABINET HAS FALLEN

No Confirmation of Report, However, Has Yet Been Received

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Special—An exchange Telegraph Company despatch from Rome says that unconfirmed reports have been received there that the Turkish Cabinet has fallen.

The London Times Constantinople correspondent telegraphs as follows: "The movement in Constantinople against Enver Pasha and the Committee of Union and Progress is rapidly gaining strength. The Old Turk party has been latterly reinforced by the clandestine adhesion of many important persons who, while openly professing loyalty to the policy of the Young Turks, secretly favor the cause of the Entente and steadily aim at the overthrow of Enver and his partisans. Their resolve to put an end to the present regime has been quickened by the prospect of the approaching ruin of Turkey. Once their plan is accomplished, they would immediately ask for peace in the hope of obtaining comparatively favorable terms from the Entente powers and averting an impending catastrophe.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Westerr Canada Dr. McCill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

"I was born there, I reckon," said Patsy. "But I don't come from any place in these days."

"How's that?"

"I'm a journeyman cobbler, and work where I happen to be, if the fit strikes, or if Ive gone broke," Patsy explained, with a grin. "I've been round here for a spell, working for old Kane part of the time. I was on me upper, so had to dig in a while for some coin."

"You don't get much out of it, do you?" Cullen asked, glancing again at Patsy's shrewd face, by which he was evidently somewhat impressed.

"Only enough for grub and booze," was the reply.

"Ever done anything else?"

"Oh, I can turn me hand to most anything. I've done all kinds, pal. Some things I've done I'd not be in a hurry to talk about," Patsy quietly added, with a leer that brought a laugh from the other.

"That's right, is it?"

"Well, rather! I don't mind telling you."

"Knowing me so well, eh?"

"That's what."

"What's your name, kid??'

"Jimmie Hogan."

"Do you live here?"

"I've been hanging out with old Kane. There's only him and his wife, so they put me up for part pay, d'ye see?"

"Would you take a job along with me, saying I could make the dough come pretty easy for you?" Cullen asked, with a sharper scrutiny.

"Would I?" queried Patsy, with a start as if he had not thought of such a thing. "Try me and see."

"I know of a big game that's on, mind you, and I might find a way to use you."

"Say, boss, this ain't a case of fall out of bed and wake up, is it?" Patsy demanded. "You ain't stringing me, are you?"

"Sure not!" growled Cullen quickly. "I can land you all right if you can make good."

"Will you do it?"

"You might have to take big chances."

"I'll take 'em."

"And do what you're told?"

"Sure! I'll do any old thing—if the price fits the job."

"Come in here, Hogan, and we'll talk it over," Cullen said abruptly.

They had arrived at a beer saloon several blocks from where they had started, a basement dive within a quarter of a mile of the river front, and Cullen paused on the sidewalk to add:

"Talk on the quiet, kid. Ive got to meet one of the bosses after dark tonight, and if I find you're the kind he'll be likely to fancy, which I think you are, I'll take you along. It's because you've done me a turn, mind you, and he's not one to overlook that. Come in, now, and I'll hear more about you."

Patsy followed him without a thought of personal fear, yet he knew very well that no chance he could be asked to take would be greater than that he voluntarily was taking at this moment.

CHAPTER XV.

Down And Oout.

As has already been stated, before digressing to show the partial result of Patsys clever work, Nick Carter felt reasonably sure of one thing before leaving Nora Selkirk's apartments—that his woman had some project in view, impulsively formed during their interview, and which she meant to lose no time in executing.

Nick had, in fact, aimed to drive her into making some immediate move, by observing which he hoped to obtain more absolute evidence against her than that which had occasioned his otherwise ineffective bluff, which had been attempted only on the strength of what little he had seen of her directly after the murder, and the indefiinite admissions of Percival Fenno.

It was with this object that Nick had lain in wait for her after his departure, and at once picked her up when she appeared.

That the woman was even more crafty than he suspected, her resources far greater, her designs deeper, and her determination much more desperate—these possibilities did not then occur to him, nor in ony case would they have deterred him.

It was half-past four when he followed Nora Selkirk out of the Hotel Royal. He was divested of his disguise as Mouser, and wore one of an entirely difference type. As an additional precaution, he reserved his cravat and punched his soft felt hat into another shape, feeling sure that his inconspicuous dark suit would not betray him.

"She fears she may be shadowed," he said to himself, noting the furtive backward glances of the woman after reaching the street, and not dreaming that the crafty jade thus aimed to increase his incentive to follow her. "It's a hundred to one she'll make some move to elude me—yet a thousand to one she'll not succeed."

Though he knew she could not have detected him, and must be only assuming that he might follow her, Nick was right in both of his conjectures, as presently appeared.

Nora's first move, however, was to visit a telephone pay station in a drug store several blocks from the hotel, where she knew the detective would not risk recognition by entering. Instead of using the telephone, however, she only pretended to do so.

She wanted to give Pat Selkirk time to follow the instructions she hurriedly had given him. After spending about twenty minutes in the telephone booth, frequently consulting the book as if in search of several numbers, she returned to the street and walked away more rapidly, yet with the same occasional apprehensive glances.

As if impelled by her misgivings, Nora next visited a Third Avenue dry-goods store, where she paused for some time at several of the counters, then seized opportunity to mingle with a throng of women heading toward a side exit from the store. She thus reached the street and again hurried away, apparently less apprehensive than when she entered. Yet she felt sure that the detective was still on her track.

"Does she think she could elude any one by such a transparent move as that?" thought Nick, who not once had lost sight of her, and did not suspect that her attempt was only anoher artful trick to lure him on. "Evidently she does, the minx, for she appears more at ease. Where she is bound, by Jove, is an open question."

Still playing for time, Nora walked less rapidly, and presently entered a surface car for Harlem.

Nick boarded a car that was close behind it and rode several blocks, constantly watching the one ahead, then seized an opportunity presented by the stopping of both, and quickly reached the rear platform of that in which Nora was still seated.

It was dark when she finally left the car, nearly two hours after leaving the hotel, and she at once hastened out of the thoroughfare and into a side street running east.

Nick sprang from the car after it had passe' the corner, then darted back and quickly located the w man's dark figure some twenty yards down the street mentioned. Moving more cautiously, he still continued on her trail, around the first corner and into the next street south, then east again until apparently sighting the lighted window of an inefrior brick hotel on the opposite side and some fifty yards away, Nora quickly crossed the street and resumed her earlier display of caution, moving more slowly and seeking the darkness near the building she was passing.

"Don't want to be seen here, eh?" Nick grimly soliloquized. "Well, there's one fellow who has an eye on you, my lady, for all that. Can she be heading for the hotel? I'll be hanged if I don't think so. Who the dickens can she know in that filth-rate rookery? It's run by an Irishman named Dugan. H'm! she may know the place so well that she'll give me the slop after entering. I'll guard against that."

Availing himself of the concealment of a covered wagon moving moderately in the same direction as himself, Nick had nearly overtaken the woman, yet still on the opposite side from her, when she paused for an instant, drew her dark garment more closely around her, then hurried into the gloom of the narrow alley leading to a side entrance of Dugan's hotel.

Fearing that she might get into the house and reach some room in which he could not locate her, Nick darted back of the wagon and caught one glimpse of her, as Nora entered a dimly lighted doorway some thirty feet into the court.

"H'm! she made that move quickly enough, for fair!"

In another moment, however, Nick was sprinting noiselessly into the alley and heading for the same doorway.

He had nearly reached it when two men, apparently coming out of the house, yet who had been waiting in the concealment of the doorway, came quickly down the three stone steps—the foremost so timing his descent that he collided violently with the hurrying detective just before he reached the door.

"I beg pardon!" the fellow cried, at the same time seizing Nick's arm as if to prevent him from falling.

"That's all right," Nick quickly growled, attempting to free himself and move on.

Not until then, though the entire episode transpired in half a dozen seconds, did he suspect the trap into which he had been lured. He felt the strangers hands close with a sudden viselike grip on his arm, while the man behind him, who stood on the lower step, reached quickly over the shoulder of his confederate and knocked off the detective's hat.

Though Nick moved with lightning rapidity under the impulse of suddenly realized peril, drawing back and swinging his assailant to one side—this readiness on his part did not avert the danger.

From the shelter of a near wall, the juting corner of an adjoining building, a third man had leaped the moment the collision occurred. He was close behind Nick as the latter recoiled, when his hat was knocked from his head, and a sandbag in the miscreant's hand rose and fell like a flash.

The heavy thud of a brutal blow, then another, sounds that were mingled with a single groan that seemed to die on the lips that uttered it—these were all, as Nick went down and out in the miserable alley, sandbagged to insensibility in far less time than one could tell it—an oblivion like that of death itself.

"Dreamland for his!" said the miscreant who had struck him, as Nick dropped like a bag of meal on the pavement.

"Neatly done—the best ever!" exclaimed the knave who had held the detective's arms.

"Trust me, Pete. Neat's no name for it."

"Get a move on, Tony. Look sharp, lad. See if the wagon's there and the coast clear."

FROM GERALD SPAFFORD

Belgium, July 19, 1916.

I am permitted to write yet another message—much has transpired since I wrote, fate, destiny or the fortunes of war, whatever controls the tide of events, has made a radical change in the phrase of affairs in general.

Thus I find the emotions and experiences of the past few weeks have left me—hors de combat, inasmuch, that my reasoning has become ambiguous, and I am unable to find inspiration or energy to write as fully as I would like.

Perhaps it is due to the incessant strain on ones nerves, or our minds have become weary of war and strife. However, we realize to the fullest extent the more ghastly side of this titanic struggle, because, as we look along the line of faces in the familar ranks, they are not the comrades of yesterday; but others who fill the vacant files.

Thus we live only for to-day, there may be no to-morrow, even for us. However, I am at liberty to refer to the recent engagements and to comrades who have fallen, they have, I note, been published in casualties. Seemingly fate or whatever we may see fit to call it, has ordained that I should be spared to write of the deeds of gallantry and devotion to duty of the fallen heroes from dear old Belleville.—I must fulfill my duty. The heroic death of Clifford Burrows, the particulars of which I am indebted to a dear comrade of my late Comrade Clifford Burrows of P.P.L.I. I had the pleasure of spending the evening previous to Clifford leaving for the trenches—a most enjoyable one. Gr. Chas. Sharpe was with me, and all together (Belleville boys) one talked of old days—happy days gone by—and what we intended doing after the war, the prospects of an early peace and etc. I shall never forget a remark Clifford made, in referring to his reverting his commission and coming out here as a private. In reply to a subject we had been discussing regarding the efficiency and inefficiency of officers, and the responsibilities attached, he said, "Gerald, I could take a platoon or company and go on a parade ground, and put them through from A to Z in drill, but I felt that was not good enough, I knew nothing of what would be required of me in trench warfare. I felt that no man, no matter how well he might handle men on a parade ground, should assume command of men, who depended on him as a leader, unless he had experience, that's what I came out for: and I hope soon to assume the responsibilities of an officer, having gained sufficient experience to warrant me doing so."

Time does not permit me to give a description of what transpired during the second battle of Ypres. However, you have the story already, briefly, considering the frontage. I never witnessed an attack so concentrated, intense and systematic. It was an eruption of shells bursting, ripping and crashing into trenches and positions; and it fairly hailed H. E. shrapnel, followed by sudden bursts of terrific searching and sweeping vollies of bursting shell and then a swift infantry attack.

During this attack, the Princess Pats held a portion of the line near Sanctuary woods. I herewith relate the part Clifford Burrows played in this terrific attack, related to me by a former Belleville boy, A. H. Buckland, of Canadian Bank of Commerce staff, now in Machine Gun Section of P. P. C. L. I's.

The Germans had launched their attack and the officer in charge of Burrow's platoon called for a volunteer to go with him with important despatches to rear of front line (headquarters) as all other means of communication had been broken by the terrific bombardment. Clifford responded, and undertook the hazardous commission with his officer to pass a continuous volley of shellfire—it's purely a matter of good fortune, your chances are a hundred to one against you.

Thus with this endeavor in view, in devotion to duty, and endeavor to accomplish the undertaking, he died with his officer,—the supreme sacrifice still a glorious end, that only soldiers true and faithful to duty are willing and ready to make when duty demands it—to victory or to death.

Pte. Buckland informs me that the bodies were found and he gave me as a token a card case, which Clifford had carried. It is pierced and torn and brings to me the confirmation and realities of the sad side of war. I understand that Clifford's effects have been sent to his bereaved parents—to whom we, his friends and comrades, extend our heartfelt sympathy in this hour of grief and mourning. However, we feel that the knowledge of our fallen comrade's heroic example is and shall ever be an inspiration to us and greater are our efforts to-day to fulfil the task which our comrades have given their lives.

I have stories and incidents of many others from the Quinte Bay district, but time and space does not present an opportunity to mention them individually. I wish to mention Copl. E. A. Carr, who has been sadly wounded, and although now minus both legs, is progressing favorably. Here we have a hero of the Royal Purple stamp—though thus maimed with his comrades in action, all who were not killed and those wounded have since died, with the exception of Corpl. Carr—forgetful of the terrible injuries he received, assisted one of his comrades and pulled him from under the debris of a gun pit on the stumps of his mangled legs—and when carried away he was smiling as ever was his habit—no finer example of true British pluck, or nerve exists. We can say no more, only here's for a speedy recovery, and may God bless you lad, for the sacrifice you have made for your King and country.

Volumes could be written about our soldier boys, but my heart is sad. I find it hard to write, because my emotions overwhelm me, for truly I miss them (my true and brave). Peace be with their souls with God in eternity.

We, who saw the dark war clouds over cast the sky of peace, and have witnessed the violence of the storm, to-day we behold upon the horizon, behind the darkness, the first gleam of peace. We are glad to be alive. We hope to live to see the victory so gallantly fought and lived for, and lives so nobly sacrificed that our loved ones our beloved Empire might maintain the traditions of our race. Britons never, never shall be slaves. This is the Battle cry of our noble Allies, France, Belgium, Russia, Italy, Japan and Servia—they too have joined hands ith Britain, and Wilhelm Kaiser the would-be conqueror of nations, listen to our declaration, our Battle cry.—The nations of the earth shall never, never be slaves. For vengence is mine saith the Lord. So be it, for soon the advancing hordes of avenging Allied armies shall repay you, crush you, destroy your kind, even as you attempted to crush and subject, helpless Belgium.

May we hold sacred our trust, and may peace we enjoy in future years be sanctified by the memory sacred of the fallen heroes. May all nations guard it, jealously, religiously; hold what Good wills should be the theme of the world. Peace and goodwill to all men.

CANADIAN NORTHERN ALL THE WAY

THE NEW PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

Scarcely had the reconstruction of the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa been commenced before the Liberal press, led by the Toronto Globe and its correspondents, raised the cry of favouritism and graft in connection therewith, notwithstanding the fact that all that had been done in the past has been under the direction and management of a joint-committee appointed by the Government, composed of Conservatives and Liberals, members of the Senate, of House of Commons, and others. The Liberal members upon the committee are the Hon. Messrs Lemieux, Pugsley and Watson, who found it necessary to repudiate the Globe's charges and insinuations. Not an unusual thing for even Liberals to do.

The system adopted for reconstruction by this Parliamentary Committee was on a basis of percentage on the actual cost of construction, and not by the ordinary system of contracts. To this the Globe takes exception, pointing out how frauds can be practiced under such a system. It would be difficult indeed to devise any plan for the construction of public or private works which would or could prevent frauds on the part of dishonest contractors or superintendents of such works, whether carried on by contracts or under a percentage basis, hence disingenuous writers of the Liberal class begin, before the old walls are pulled down, to charge he committee with favouritism in dealing with the furnishing of supplies.

The joint-committee met the other day in Ottawa, when, the report says:—

> Resentment was expressed by members of the committee over an editorial in The Globe, attacking the contract with Lyall Company. One statement of The Globe's was branded as an untruth. This was the statement to the effect that the committee has been ignored in the letting of the work, following a promise that the construction was to be under its direction. As a matter of fact, two Liberal members of the committee moved that the work be given to Lyall & Co. The committee has been consulted at every step throughout the work.

Explanations were given for the course which the committee had recommended, as follows:—

> John Pearson, of Toronto, architect for the building, attended the meeting and explained the necessity of having to tear down the whole of the old building after having first reported that the old walls could be used to the value of $2,000,000. This report was on the basis that the buildings would be rebuilt the same size and absolutely along the same lines as the old structure with the chambers in the interior. When it was decided that the old buildings were not large enough; that there should be an extra storey and that the chambers should be placed on the outside, it was found necessary to tear down the old buildings and reconstruct from the foundations up. As it has turned out, it was fortunate this was done. Evidently there were scientific grafters in the 'sixties, as the stone walls, supposed to be solid, were found to be full of holes. The wonder was that the building had not fallen down before the fire.

GERMANY'S NICKEL SUPPLY.

Certain fault-finding newspapers, principally throughout this province, keep up the cry that Germany continues to receive a large portion of the Canadian nickel output to the detriment of the Allied market. It must be remembered that Germany's war preparations during the past forty years have not been in one channel. The accumulations have been on a large scale, and British authorities have long been in a position to know that in expectation of war immense quantities of nickel had been stored in that country. This emergency supply was secured from America, England and New Caledonia. When Antwerp fell to Germany they secured the immense refining plant in that Dutch seaport with a huge supply of nickel ore and nickel matte. In Prussia and Saxony are nickel mines that could not be profitably worked in peace times in competition with the cheaper Canadian product and that also from New Caledonia, but are now in active operation. There was also in Norway a nickel mine that was being closed by the Canadian and New Caledonian competition, but since the outbreak of the war the Germans have paid a price for nickel that has led to a development of this mine, impossible under ordinary conditions. From these sources Germany has drawn supplies, even if at a tremendous cost, that has supplemented its reserve supply sufficient to meet her requirements until the present time.

The German official report again emphasizes the intensity of the British artillery fire north of the Ancre and in the region of Thiepval. The signs of a coming attack there multiply. Apparently the great guns used early in July to the east of Albert are now concentrated along the line of the Ancre, and are systematically smashing the German works and the fortified villages east of that stream. The salient in the German front between a point immediately south of Arras and the village of Longueval, about eighteen miles due south, is a most pronounced one, and Sir Douglas Haig doubtless intends before proceeding too far east to force the enemy out of the entire region lying between his present lines north of the Somme and Arras. In this Longueval-Arras salient there are over a hundred square miles of territory and about twenty-five villages. The country is of the same sort as that to the south occupied during the July offensive—rolling and hilly, with considerable clumps of woodland in various parts, especially to the north of Ancre.

Montreal Star: The Australians get credit for a big part of last week's victory, as they did for the capture of the difficult position of Pozieres. They are plucky and resourceful fighters, especially in this close contact fighting in which the quick individual initiative plays so vital a part. Canada is proud to see her sister colony winning undying laurels on this front as she did against the entrenched Turk before Anzac. They will make of Pozieres an immortal name in Australian annals as we have enshrined Ypres in the heroic records of this Dominion. Undoubtedly, when the war is over, some adequate permanent memorial of our sentimental "annexation" of these Belgian and French towns will be erected in the midst of their quaint and picturesque beauties.

First thing Lloyd George knows Sir Sam Hughes will be making him an honorary colonel.—Hamilton Herald. Perhaps the Herald man would like to be considered.

Isn't it strange the Liberal Advisory Council neglected to pass a resolution on the question of recruiting in Quebec?

A correspondent asks the New York Times why the Deutschland carries 3,000 bottles of beer in space that might be filled with milk for German babies. Nonsense! German sailors don't drink milk.—Montreal Mail.

Germany hails the appointment of von Hindenburg to supreme command on the Eastern front as if it were a victory already. But it doesn't take any war munitions away from the Russians.

Did the Kaiser send the Deutschland across on a trial trip with a view to using the same mode of conveyance to a safe haven in the United States if things should become too hot for him at home?—Nelson Daily News. No, it was just a little pleasure trip with a view to picking up some articles for home consumption.

Germany is interning its "troublesome" citizens. So far the editorial staff of a newspaper and four Socialists are the bag, but it is safe to predict that the camp will soon have a large population, which will increase as the pressure on Germany causes more people to "speak out in meeting."—Nelson, B.C., News.

The Poets' Corner

"LORD KITCHENER OF KHARTOUM."

A vast expanse of rolling sea, half hidden in the mist,
A glimpse of broken coast-line by white-capped wavelets kissed,
A sea, on which the Vikings sailed,
holding the keys of doom,
For another mighty man of arms—
Lord Kitchener of Khartoum.

Far from the home of elephants, and India's jewelled lands,
Far from the coast of Egypt, and the Soudan's burning sands,
Far from the dazzling sunshine, wrapped in a North sea gloom.
Lies the idol of those countries—Lord
Kitchener of Khartoum.

Only the cry of the sea-gull is heard on that salt sea air,
Or the sound of many waters, hushed,
when the winds are fair,
But the roar of the maddened billows,
the mighty deep sea boom,
Plays eternal requiem music o'er
Kitchener of Khartoum.

And there in the mighty tempest,
lightning, and driving rain,
When the Son of God goes forth to war he'll follow in His train,
As the sea gives up her dead, forth from the blinding spume,
Shall rise again that prince of men—
Lord Kitchener of Khartoum.

—"Justin Wilson."

Little Ethel—"What is an acrostic?"
Little Tommy—"Huh! You girls dont know nothin'. An acrostic is a man wot don't believe in no religion."

A FAMOUS BATTLEGROUND.

Picardy is Scene of British Victories of Agincourt and Crecy.

If historical associations inspire to brave deeds, the British forces in their offensive against the Germans along the Somme River should be heartened to extraordinary acts of valor by the thought that they are fighting in Picardy, says a war geography bulletin of the National Geographic Society

This ancient province of France, now divided into four departments—the Somme, Oise, Pas-de-Calais, and Aisne—has two battlefields whose very names quicked the pulse of Englishmen, for it was at Crecy that the Black Prince won his spurs, and Agincourt that Henry V., commanding his yeomen with their cloth-yard bows, utterly overthrew the flower of French chivalry.

Picardy is a treasured name in romantic literature and in French history. It had a literature of its own in the twelfth century and its soldiers were among the most valiant in France, being known as the Gascons of the North.

The province was a natural battleground for the French and English during the Hundred Years' War, for its shores extend along the North Sea and the English Channel, from the River, Aa, above Valais, to a point below Dieppe. Fifteen miles north of Abbeville, one of the principal cities of Picardy, is Crecy, where, until late in the nineteenth century, there still stood the old windmill from which Edward III. of England in 1346 watched his beloved son, the first Prince of Wales, at that time only 16 years of age, triumph over Philip of Valois. On this occasion the English were outnumbered four to one, and they wrought terrible havoc among the enemy, the losses of the vanquished being variously estimated at from 10,000 to 30,000. One of those who fell in this fight was the chivalrous John, King of Bohemia, who, although blind, led a heroic charge for his French ally. Some historians trace the Prince of Wales' crest of three ostrich feathers and the motto "Ich dien" (I serve), to this battle, the Black Prince adopting them from the fallen John in memory of the event.

Less than 20 miles northeast of Crecy is Agincourt, where English archers, nearly 70 years later, after letting fly their clouds of arrows against the heavily armored nobles, attacked them with hatchets as they floundered helplessly in mud. Five thousand Frenchmen of noble birth, including their commander, d'Albret, constable of France, fell in this battle, while the estimate of English losses was astonishingly low, some chroniclers giving only 13 men at arms and 100 foot soldiers.

Several towns of Picardy—Amiens, Soissons, and Beauvais—owe their names to the ancient tribes which inhabited this section, known as Belgica Secunda, when the Romans maintained armed camps along the valley of the Somme. In the third century Christianity was introduced, and St. Quentin, from whom the important town 20 miles east of Peronne gets its name, was martyred at that time.

Picardy was the heart of Merovingian France in the fifth century, for Clovis named Soissons as his capital, while Charlemagne designated Noyon as his principal city, and the lesser Carolingians in turn similarly honored Laon.

By the treaty of Arras in 1435 the royal towns of the Somme Valley were ceded to Burgundy, but 42 years later, after the death of Charles the Bold, Louis XI. regained them. During its brief eras of peace the province thrived as a centre of the weaving industry, Flemish immigrants having introduced the art.

Australia's "Slackers."

Australia has recruiting troubles also. The Sydney, N. S. W., Herald says on the subject:

As a member of the recruiting staff put it—something will have to be done. "Look at the trams going to the race course last Saturday!" he said: "They were packed to suffocation with young men all, or rather the majority, of military age. They had already seen the cables telling of the fight in the North Sea, but that would not appeal to them. It was the most disgusting sight I ever witnessed, and yet these people arrogate to themselves the name of sports. While these young able-bodied men, who should be forced into the firing line if they won't volunteer, were going out to back their fancy in thousands, we had an example which would shame them if they were capable of shame. A white-haired man came into the office and unblushingly gave his age as 44 years and 11 months. 'Just in time,' he said, 'can't help my hair being white; that was due to a shock.' We passed him through only to learn the next day that his real age was 70. That would make a good story for the 'real sports' in Pitt Street to-day, who come to settle up and collect their winnings, but you can't do anything except conscription with these 'real sports.' What would make them blush would make an ordinary man leave the country."

Arranged With Enemy.

A visitor to a West-end restaurant in London, being waited on by a particularly tall and fine-looking waiter with a foreign accent, asked the man his nationality.

"Oh, I'm a Hungarian."

"How comes it, then, that a big, strong fellow like you is not in the firing line?" asked the visitor.

"Well, sir, it's like this," replied the knight of the napkin, pointing to a brother waiter a few tables off. "You see that man? Well, he's a Serb, and we have vat you call 'paired.'"

A FRUGAL SAILOR.

Great Japanese Admiral Lives a Simple Life.

The great naval hero of the Russo-Japanese War, Admiral Togo, lives at his home of thirty-six years in Kami Rokubancho, Tokio. He is 70 years old. Saito Man writes of him in The Tokio Advertiser: He is but five feet two inches in height, but muscular, weighing about 145 pounds. He lives a quiet life with the Countess. They have three maids and two boy servants.

His eldest son, 32 years of age, is just back from London; and the second son, 28, a graduate of the Naval Cadet School, is now studying in the Gunnery College. The latter comes home three or four times a year, and for the rest the distinguished couple lead a lonely sort of life. They do not seem to pay any attention to their personal comfort. Luxury is absolutely unknown in the Togo home. When the Admiral is at leisure, he amuses himself by a saunter in his garden, surrounded by its old style black wooden fence, or playing with his favorite dog.

Since his illness about three years ago he never drinks, except a little foreign wine before he goes to bed. In a small stable near the house are two chestnut colored steeds which were the coronation gift of the Emperor. In the shed adjoining the stable there is a carriage which is always in the neatest state imaginable. Simplicity and cleanliness of habit can be seen in the outside appearance of his home life, we hear from the tradespeople of the neighborhood nothing but most impressive stories of "insignificant bills," always the same fish order and a "very small" meat order.

The barber clips the hero's hair short twice a month, except that he has an extra cut when the Emperor calls for him. He pays 25 cents every time. "I never see him except in cotton clothes, and in the parlor there is nothing that can be called an article of luxury." The rice dealer and the draper tell similar tales. The green grocer was especially reverent. The bills for vegetables seldom go beyond 75 cents a month, but "it would be a great rudeness for a man like me to make any comment about a godlike man like Togo." When the Admiral entertains, however, the feast is served generously from a nearby restaurant.

The Heroical Vein.

"The heroical vein of mankind runs much in the soldiery, and courageous part of the world; and in that form we oftenest find men above men. History is full of the gallantry of that tribe; and when we read their notable acts, we easily find what a difference there is between a life in Plutarch and Laertius. Where true fortitude dwells, loyalty, bounty, friendship, and fidelity may be found. A man may confide in persons constituted for noble ends, who dare do and suffer, and who have a hand to burn for their country and their friend. Small and creeping things are the product of petty souls. He is like to be mistaken, who makes choice of a covetous man for a friend, or relieth upon the reed of narrow and poltron friendship. Pitiful things are only to be found in the cottages of such breasts; but bright thoughts, clear deeds, constancy, fidelity, bounty, and generous honesty, are the gems of noble minds; wherein, to derogate from none, the true heroic English gentleman hath no peer."—Sir Thomas Brown, "Christian Morals."

Love of Country.

"'Dulce et decorum pro patria mori.'

"It cannot be expressed, what a deal of charity that one name of countrey contains.

'Amor laudis et patriae pro stipendio est.'

"The Decii did se devovere, Horatii, Durii, Scaevola, Regulus, Codrus, sacrifice themselves for their countrey's peace and good.

'Una dies Fabios ad bellum miserat omnes;
Ad bellum missos perdidit una dies.'

"One day the Fabii stoutly warred,
One day the Fabii were destroyed.

Fifty thousand Englishmen lost their lives willingly near Battle Abby in defence of their country. P. Aemilius speaks of six senatours of Calais, that came with halters in their hands to the King of England, to dye for the rest. This love makes so many writers take such pains, so many historiographers, physicians, etc., or at least as they pretend, for common safety, and their countrey's benefit." — Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy."

They Found a Mine.

An exciting time was experienced a few days ago by the crew of the steamer Clermiston, when nearing Leith. A mine was sighted floating right in the track of the vessel. A boat was lowered from the steamer and a rope made fast to the mine in order that it might be towed to the nearest patrol boat. There was a choppy sea, so that the work of getting the ropes around the mine was of a hazardous character. The men succeeded, however, in securing it, but after towing for a quarter of an hour the mine blew up, sending smoke and water to a great height, and fragments of the mine fell aboard the steamer.

Spats.

One of those things not generally known is that the wearing of spats originated as a compliment to the kilted regiments who wore them in the Indian Mutiny. The glorious deeds of the Highlanders in that campaign made them popular heroes, and the public adopted many things in dress in imitation of Scotch uniforms. Among these things were spats, and they have never been out of fashion among smart people since the days of Sir Colin Campbell.—London Chronicle.

HOW AEROPLANES SIGNAL.

Soot Clouds and Mirror Flashes Brought Into Use.

To a commander the value of a military aeroplane is its power to locate hostile artillery and direct gunfire, rather than its bomb-dropping possibilities. Thus it is very necessary that a pilot several thousand feet in the air should be able to communicate with the headquarters staff on earth so that he may convey the necessary information for the guidance of gunners hurling shells at targets miles ahead which they cannot see. The French are using a very ingenious method of signalling from on aeroplane by means of soot clouds. An apparatus filled with lampblack rests near the hand of the aviator, and when he presses a lever some of this soot passes down a pipe and is discharged in a black cloud. The pipe is so delicately arranged that the clouds may be small or large. The operator can spell out the Morse telegraphic code in little clouds, and they can be read from earth when the aviator is four thousand feet high.

Another clever means of signalling from aircraft is that carried out by means of lamps and mirrors. A lamp which has a flash of 10,000 candle-power sends piercing rays of light through a tube fitted with powerful magnifying glasses. When a message is sent the operator directs his flasher in the required direction, presses a button, and a brilliant light flashes out, long or short, according to the pressure. The officers on earth receive the message and may send a reply in the same way, being provided with similar mirrors and lamps. The rays of light sent out are almost as bright as sunlight, so that they can be seen with the naked eye for a distance of four miles in the daytime and at night for a distance of eight miles.

When military aviators wish to drop a written communication to earth without descending they utilize an ingenious bomb. This contains the document, and the projectile is weighted so that it falls sharp-end first. As the end strikes the ground a trigger is released which sets fire to a torch on top and thus the location of the bomb is indicated day or night.

The stationary balloons which are being used in large numbers at the Front are in constant communication with earth though they float at a height of over a thousand feet. Telephone wires are attached to the guide rope which secures the aircraft to earth, and the observer aloft and the officers on earth exchange messages by telephone as simply as though they were carrying on a business conversation in the city.

Some fellows are never satisfied to quench a thirst for knowledge unless they have a free lunch thrown in.

THE ONLY MEDICINE THAT HELPED HER

"Fruit-a-tives Again Proves its Extraordinary Powers

ROCHON, QUE., March 2nd, 1915.

"I have received the most wonderful benefit from taking "Fruit-a-tives". I suffered for years from Rheumatism and change of life, and I took every remedy obtainable without results. I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and it was the only medicine that really did me good. Now I am entirely well—the Rheumatism has disappeared, and the terrible pains in my body are all gone. I hope that others, who suffer from such distressing diseases, will try "Fruit-a-tives". MADAME ISAIE ROCHON.

Colors and Heat.

In an attempt to illustrate graphically the relative values for summer wear of different colors in dress materials, an interesting experiment was recently conducted. Four strips of cloth, made of the same material and weight, but of different colors, were placed on a cake of ice and exposed to the sun. The fabrics were white, yellow, red, and black. The result showed in a striking way how white reflects the sun's rays while black absorbs them.

The ice covered by the piece of white cloth was not melted to any appreciable degree during the test; that under the yellow strip was slightly depressed; a deep cut was formed beneath the red cloth, and a groove approximately twice as deep as that covered by the latter was melted under the black fabric.

White-Washed Kerbstones.

Since the exigencies of war have made it necessary largely to eliminate street lighting in British cities, it has been found advisable in certain instances to whitewash the kerbs on either side of public thoroughfares so as to make it easier to discern the roadways at night.

At Norwich a pneumatic painting-machine carried on a steam wagon has been successfully employed for doing this work. The lime solution is forced through a hose under air-pressure and directed at the kerb. A nozzle especially designed so as to prevent the spreading of the wash beyond certain limits is used. With this equipment the work can be done at a rate of about three miles an hour.

Radium and Agriculture.

A series of remarkably interesting experiments have been recently carried out in the West of England by certain scientists to demonstrate the extraordinary effect on vegetable growth produced by the addition to the soil of radium-bearing and radio-active materials.

It appears that radishes and other root crops are obtained nearly five times as large as those grown in untreated soil at the same time. If this process could be generally adopted by our agriculturists the increase in the prosperity of the nation would be very large.

The initial cost of such a system has hitherto stood in the way of its general adoption. But the recent discovery by MM. Detaille and Lafayaise, the two distinguished French chemists of Paris, and Professor Scammell, M.S.C.I., of Hadleigh, Essex, that coal contains radium, which, in the form of "lignaite," can be used for the radiumization of the soil, places the process within the reach of every agriculturist in the country. Fruits, flowers, and vegetables can be grown in a much shorter time, in much larger quantities, and of finer quality by the use of "lignaite," the cost of the treatment of an ordinary-sized garden being very trifling.

Electric-Moto. for Dentists.

Recently, a miniature electric-motor has been devised for the dentist's use which is so small and weighs so little that it may be used as a hand-tool. A light electric-cord connects the motor with a lamp-socket. The motor is one of the smallest ever made for commercial use. Its weight is but 5¼ oz., and it is 1¾ in. long by 1¼ in. in diameter. It operates at a speed of 15,000 revolutions per minute. It can be used either on direct or on alternating current. A control-switch is mounted on the motor where it can be operated conveniently by the hand. The speed of the motor may be controlled by the foot.

Pocket Flash-Light.

For communicating after night, the signal corps of the British army is equipped with an electric flashlight apparatus which is easily portable and very efficient for medium ranges. In size, and to a somewhat less degree in appearance, it is similar to an ordinary camera. It is made substantially with the corners reinforced with metal pieces, and is fitted on the top with a telegraph key. A large lens is provided at the front of the box, inside of which the batteries are carried. The light is flashed by means of the telegraph key, enabling code messages to be transmitted rapidly in much the same manner as by wire.

He Got Furlough.

A young seaman belonging to Cullen, Banffshire, who has been interned at Groningen since the fall of Antwerp, has arrived home on parole, leave having been granted for a few weeks on account of the illness of his mother. He does not look any the worse of his long stay in Holland. A young fisher girl from Cullen is going out with his party, when he returns, to marry one of the Portknockie seamen who are interned at Groningen.

BUYING COMMISSIONS.

Bad Old System Now Abolished in Great Britain.

Forty-five years ago the system of purchasing commissions in the Army was abolished by Royal Warrant, signed by Queen Victoria, after the House of Lords had rejected Mr. Cardwell's Bill for the "Abolition of Purchase in the Army." Previous to that first appointments in any branch of the service were purchased, and a regulation price had to be given the Government for same. The system may be said to have arisen from the mode by which many regiments were originally raised. During the great wars with France, when the army was largely increased, the Crown contracted with gentlemen of standing, who received a bounty for every recruit and were appointed colonels of regiments. In some cases, instead of receiving bounty money these gentlemen had the privilege of nominating all the officers, and made good their outlay by selling the commissions, a mode which had indeed prevailed from very early times. Gradually the Crown took the matter into its own hands, raised regiments at its own expense, and recouped itself by the sale of commissions, obtaining a regulation price, which varied from time to time, for each step up to that of lieutenant-colonel, above which there was no purchase. When abolition of purchase was carried Parliament voted a sum of money to compensate the officers holding saleable commissions in order that they might not lose anything through the destruction of the old system.

A regulation price was eventually fixed by the Government, which ran from £420 for a first commission, or ensigncy in the line, to £1,200 for the same position in the Guards. Each step was higher in price, and the lowest that a lieutenant-colonelcy could be obtained for was £4,200 in the line and £9,000 in the Guards. In addition to the Government price, what was termed an over-regulation price had to be paid to the retiring officer. This latter fee sometimes exceeded the regulation price, and had been established by custom, although it was contrary to law. When an officer retired the Government handed over to him the price of his commission, and his successor paid him the over-regulation fee. There were, however, at all times a number of commissions given free to sons of distinguished officers, especially of such as had been killed in action, and a certain number of nominations were in a similar manner made by the Sovereign. In theory the system of promotion by wealth was absolutely indefensible. The hardship of an officer, unable to find money to purchase his next step, being superseded by a junior with more wealthy parents was altogether repugnant to a sense of justice, and the clamor raised in consequence brought about its abolition in the year 1871.

Pharaoh's Palace.

The Museum of the University of Pennsylvania has made public a report from Dr. Clarence S. Fisher, leader of the Eckley B. Coxe, Jr., expedition to Egypt, in which he tells of what appears to be the discovery that Merenptah had in his palace at Memphis an archeological museum something like those of the present day. Merenptah was the son of Rameses the Great, and by many is identified as the Pharaoh of the Oppression as described in the Book of Exodus.

The palace was discovered early in the present year, the report said. It was large and elaborately decorated, but at some time was destroyed by fire, traces of which are abundant. The palace was about 180 feet long and 100 feet wide and contained about 20 rooms. The throne room was a magnificent chamber of about 60x40 feet.

In describing this room the museum announcement stated that "it is probable that this throne room, if not the same, is similar to the one in which Moses and Aaron confronted the Pharaoh, demanding that the people of Israel be permitted to go. The authorities in Egypt admit that a great discovery has been made."

In the rooms were found gold ornaments, scarabs, vessels, and vases. The most interesting find, the report stated, was a collection of relics, partly of the Stone Age and partly of the Sixth Dynasty (about 4500 B.C.), which indicated that Merenptah was a collector much like modern men or nations. The stone implements included knives, razors, sickles, and arrow heads.

Kitchener Heir in Navy.

The new Earl Kitchener's only son and heir, Commander Henry Kitchener, will be styled Viscount Broome, after the family seat near Canterbury, Broome Park. Viscount Broome, who is nearly 40, has been a commander in the navy for several years and has acquired a reputation as a gunnery expert. He has an only sister, Norah, the wife of a captain of artillery. As Viscount Broome is unmarried the second in succession to the Kitchener peerage is now Lt. Henry Kitchener, of the Royal Flying Corps. This young officer, "K. of K.'s nephew, was engaged to be married last March, and the announcement of his betrothal was made on the same day as that of his sister, Philippa.

Senator Belcourt Took Air Trip.

Senator Belcourt, while visiting Aldershot, was given what was called a "joy ride" in an aeroplane. The pilot treated him to an extra assortment of thrills, going through all the hair-raising aerial manoeuvres he could think of, short of looping the loop. Senator Belcourt was apparently relieved to find himself once more on terra firma, and remarked, that, while he could think of several phrases which would describe his experience, "joy ride" was not one of them.

THIRD YEAR IS THE ALLIES' YEAR

Sir Douglas Haig Prophesies the Continuance of Victory.

FULL STRENGTH NEXT YEAR

In Summer of 1917 Britain Will Have Achieved Her Maximum Force on Land and Will Drive Invader Out — Blow Will Follow Blow Until Victory is Most Complete.

AT the close of two years of war and of the first month of the British offensive, Sir Douglas Haig, commander-in-chief of the group of British armies in France, speaking of the situation, laid particular emphasis on the fact that the beginning of the third year of war saw the initiative entirely with the Allies on all fronts, while England for the first time was exerting something like the power worthy of her numbers and resources on land.

"The tide has turned," he said. "Time has been with the Allies from the first. It is only a question of more time till we win a decisive victory, which is the one sure way to bring peace in this as in other wars. Until this victory is won, it ill becomes a British soldier in France to think of peace."

Those who have had freedom along the battle lines during the last four weeks have had glimpses of the youthful and scholarly features of Sir Douglas in passing in his automobile on dusty roads, in the thick of the moving troops and transports, and again of his athletic figure alighting from his car at the headquarters of one of the army commanders for a conference.

GENERAL SIR DOUGLAS HAIG.

But mostly his time is spent in a quiet room in the small chateau which forms his personal headquarters. In the centre of this room, where he had a talk with the correspondent a few days ago, was raised a map of the region of the present offensive, with every detail: roads, woods, villages, trenches, ridges, and valleys, and all contours revealed at a glance.

"The problem of the first summer's campaign and of the second for the Allies was to hold the Germans from forcing a decision with their ready numbers of men and guns and shells," said Sir Douglas. "Whether it was the able generalship and the heroism of the French on the Marne, the dogged retreat of the little British expeditionary force from Mons, the stubborn resistance of the French and British to German effort for the Channel ports, the Russian retreat last summer, Belgium's or Serbia's sacrifice, Italy's stone-walling against Austria's offensive, or France's immortal defence of Verdun; the purpose was always to gain time for the preparations necessary to take the offensive away from the enemy."

Sir Douglas referred to the character of the German army and to that of the British army as revealed by the fighting of the last four weeks.

"The British soldier," said he, "is used to thinking for himself, and recognizes the stubborn task before him, but the German is docile in his obedience and takes his ideas from his superiors without question. He was led to believe that the offensive of our new army, which was not taught their kind of discipline, and therefore was inefficient, could not be formidable.

"The third years of the war will be the Allies' year. No less than France, now that we are ready, we shall give all the strength there is in us to drive the invader from her soil and from that of Belgium. England will not achieve her full strength on land, however, until next summer. All those who believe that our cause is the cause of civilization may rest assured that this army has no thought except to go on delivering blow after blow until we have won that victory by force of arms which will secure an enduring peace."

War Words.

England's sixteenth century war with Spain was responsible for several new words being added to the language. Embargo and contraband are two of them; while to the campaigns in the low countries we are indebted for such words as freebooter, furlough, cashier, leagues, drill, onslaught, sconce, and domineer.

Theory is the raw material for practice, and much of it is waste.

TREASURE TROVE TALES

STORIES OF HIDDEN FORTUNES ARE LEGION.

Thousands of Pounds Have Been Spent in Efforts to Recover Lost Hoards on the Strength of Mythical Stories—There Are, However, Many Well Verified Cases of Loss of Huge Sums of Money.

STORIES of sunken treasure are legion. Some have a foundation of fact; others are pure legend, and have sometimes resulted in thousands of pounds being spent in an attempt to recover the mythical millions. There does not seem to be much doubt, however, that beneath the waves of La Hogue, the roadstead on the east side of the island of Cotentin, in the north of France, a huge fortune lies buried. It was there in 1692 that the great naval battle of La Hogue was fought between the French fleet and the combined English and Dutch fleets, when sixteen French men-of-war were entirely destroyed, thirteen of the latter being sunk.

These ships included the flower of the French navy. Three of the French vessels, including the flagship of Admiral de Tourville, were said to be the finest men-of-war in the world. In addition to many men, they carried much bullion, most of which had been obtained from captured prizes.

That the exact spot where some of these vessels were sunk has been hit upon is evident from the fact that in 1912, while an engineer of Cherbourg was engaged in dredging, he brought up two bars of silver stamped with the date 1692. Most of the vessels, it is presumed, are buried in the sand, for they have never been a source of danger to navigation. An exception to this, however, is one Terrible, whose wreck sailors avoid with care. Another, the Magnifique, also constitutes a danger to trawlers, while about eighteen years ago an unusually low tide disclosed the hulk of one of the sunken vessels, cannon balls and pieces of artillery being taken out.

These discoveries ultimately led to the French authorities inviting public tenders for the salvage of wreckage and treasure from the sunken fleet. The conditions are that the contractor shall pay 20 per cent. of any specie or articles of value recovered to the Pension Fund of the Marine, which also reserves the right to take, on the advice of experts, any object which possesses historical interest. Up to the present no great finds have been made, the war having interfered with the operations. There is no doubt, however, that at a suitable opportunity further endeavors will be made to recover the treasure of the roadstead at La Hogue, and that those engaged on the salvage operations will probably reap a big fortune.

Round the South African coast are about twenty wrecks, which it is reckoned would yield £6,000,000 in salvage. Among these wrecks are the troopship Mereston, supposed to contain £1,000,000 in gold; the Thermopyloe, wrecked in 1898, with an unknown number of silver bars on board; the Wilhelm der Secunda, with a pirate's treasure in her hull; the Grayenstein, a merchantman belonging to the Netherlands Government; the Middelburg, lost in 1898; and the most interesting, if not the most valuable, wreck of all, the Dorothea, which left Delagoa Bay at the end of 1898 with gold valued at £600,000 on board, and went down off Cape Vidal, in Zululand.

Various attempts have been made to recover this treasure, but only a small part has been retrieved, the bulk still waiting for enterprising searchers.

For hundreds of years the belief has prevailed that gold dust and gems to the value of £1,120,000,000 lie buried at the bottom of the sacred lake of Gustavita, in Colombia, a territory once occupied by Indian tribes renowned for their fabulous wealth, and many attempts have been made to drain the lake, without success.

The lake was emptied in 1903, but it kept refilling on account of the heavy rains and the presence of springs. A certain number of jewels and ornaments found in the mud of the lake-bed seemed to indicate that the search for hidden treasure was to prove successful. Then the mud dried hard, and a fresh difficulty was thus encountered. Ever since the engineers have been continuing operations, but no further treasure has come to light. After an outlay of some £15,000 it was decided to abandon the hunt. It remains to be seen whether anyone else will take up the search.

Origin of Blotting-Paper.

Blotting-paper was discovered purely by accident. Some ordinary paper was being made one day at a mill in Berkshire when a careless workman forgot to put in the sizing material. It may be imagined what angry scenes would take place in that mill, as the whole of the paper was regarded as being quite useless. The proprietor of the mill desired to write a note shortly afterwards, and he took a piece of the paper, thinking it was good enough for that purpose. To his intense annoyance the ink spread all over the paper. All of a sudden there flashed over his mind the thought that this paper would do instead of sand for drying ink, and he at once advertised his waste paper as "blotting." There was such a big demand that the mill ceased to make ordinary paper, and was soon occupied in making blotting only, the use of which spread to all countries.

THE FALKLAND ISLANDS.

The Falkland Islands, where Sir Ernest Shackleton recently found a haven after the hardships of a perilous Antarctic expedition, have figured seldom in world news since 1833, when the British flag was firmly planted over the land which, together with South Georgia, constitutes the Empire's "farthest south" peninsular possessions. The Falkland group is described in a bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society, which says:

"Except when some unfortunate skipper is compelled to cast anchor in the harbor of Port Stanley, where the damage wrought by the fierce storms of Cape Horn can be expensively repaired, the Falkland Islands are seldom visited, save by the monthly mailboat from England. It must have been a sensational news event, therefore, when the 900 Port Stanley inhabitants and the 1,100 other people heard that the intrepid explorer, Sir Ernest Shackleton, had arrived with five companions, after having lost his ship, the Endurance, in the Antarctic ice last October.

"Not since the thrilling naval engagement off the Falklands in December, 1914, when a British squadron under Vice-Admiral Sturdee sank the German cruisers, Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipsic, and captured two colliers have these islands figured so prominently in the news of the day as now.

"The Falklands are among Great Britains' colonial possessions which cling to the very fringe of civilization. They comprise an area somewhat larger than the Bahama group and lie 250 miles east of mainland of South America and more than 1,200 miles south of Buenos Ayres. Only two of the islands are of considerable size—East Falkland, which is about five-sixths as large as Puerto Rico, and West Falkland, with an area somewhat less than that of the State of Delaware.

"While the climate of the Falkland group is comparatively mild, the rigors of its winters in no degree approaching the cold of the southeast coast of Labrador, which lies in the corresponding parallels of latitude in the northern hemisphere, yet the islands are not an agreeable place in which to live, as a penetrating, drizzling rain is experienced here during 250 days of the year.

"Except for the palm-resembling tussock-grass, which furnishes excellent forage for the herds of cattle, flocks of sheep, and droves of wild horses on the islands, there is little vegetation. The commerce, which does not reach a million dollars a year, consists chiefly of the exportation of wool, hides, tallow, and frozen mutton. Extensive peat bogs supply the Scotch shepherds with a satisfactory fuel.

"During the last quarter of the eighteenth century Spain laid claim to the islands, and for a time threatened to go to war with England over their control. The territory belonged to the British Empire by right of discovery, however, for just 100 years after Columbus reached American shores John Davis, one of the most dauntless navigators of the Elizabethan era, sighted this land while on his return voyage from the Straits of Magellan, where his superior, Thomas Cavendish, had met with disaster. This is the Davis who is reputed to have been in command of the Black Dog during the memorable overthrow of the Spanish Armada, and who ranks with Baffin and Hudson as the great triumvirate of early Arctic explorers.

"Nearly a century and threequarters after Davis' discovery the explorer De Bougainville raised the standard of France over these islands, and the latter Government ceded the territory to Spain in 1767. It was upon this cession that Spain based her claims, which she seemed ready to enforce with arms until 1771. The reassertion of British rights in 1833 marked the withdrawal of the colonial claims of the people of Buenos Ayres."

Work for Soldiers.

An Edinburgh professor in a recent letter to a newspaper, suggests new work for wounded soldiers. Apropos of the suggested tax on cats, he says: In place of taxing cats, I would urge the Government to organise, not after the war, but now, a fully equipped and efficient department for the extermination of rats, and employ wounded soldiers to do the mechanical part of it. The systematic breeding, collecting, and distributing of types of cats known to be superior ratters, would comprise an important section of the work, but, to make a clean sweep of the most destructive animal pest from which the country groans, much light labor and personal supervision, and a good deal of simple laboratory work under scientific expert guidance would be necessary. By this means many men whom the country will be in duty bound to support, might find congenial employment not to mention the saving to the country of an enormous sum of taxable wealth.

AFRICAN LAKE SEIZED.

Taking of Tanganyika Was a Romantic Struggle.

While the eyes of the world have been fixed on the absorbing events at Verdun, says the Kansas City Star, there has been enacted unnoticed and in a far theatre of the war scarcely laid down in maps, a drama of arms almost unrivalled in the romance of Jules Verne. A British expedition, consisting of only 27 officers and men, after a journey of a year, penetrated to the heart of Africa and brought to a successful conclusion operations that transferred from German to British control a region immeasurably greater than the entire territory for which vast armies are now battling on the Western European front.

The goal of the expedition was Lake Tanganyika, on the flank of the German East African colony. To reach it the expedition, which in numbers and in the almost fantastic nature of its design, resembles the band of adventurers which Clive led into India, undertook a railway journey from Cape Town to Fungurumee, which lies north of Rhodesia, from which point it had to literally hew its way through the bush for 166 miles to the Lualaba River, which flows into Lake Tanganyika 350 miles further on. Over this entire distance the expedition transported two armed motor boats, the Mimi and the Tou-Tou, dragging them through the bush by ox team and traction engines, hewing roads, bridging gullies and streams and overcoming difficulties that would seem almost insuperable in a country of civilization where every aid of engineering was instantly at hand. The water supply failed, not enough being found even for the boilers of the tractors, and hundreds of natives had to be impressed to carry water in jars for miles through the jungle.

When the river was reached one set of troubles was merely exchanged for another. The boats were launched, but mud bars, treacherous currents, and numerous obstructions made the journey by water almost as slow as that through the bush. Even when the lake was reached it was found necessary to construct harbor works to protect the craft from the sudden and violent storms of the region.

At length the Mimi and the Tou-Tou were got in fighting trim and the hunt for the German flotilla began. The day after Christmas the German gunboat Kingani was sighted on Boxing Bay, and after a spirited fight was captured. A six-weeks' cruise of the lake followed before this victory was clinched by the sinking of the Von Weissman, the German flag ship in the East African waters. It was the Trafalgar of Africa, leaving the British in complete possession of the region.

The account of this extraordinary expedition, when it shall be written, will prove more interesting to lovers of the adventurous than many greater operations in better known fields. It is exploits like this that give the touch of romance to war which the gigantic struggles in the European theatres have failed to impart.

No Wonder.

To the average Scottish churchgoer the minister who reads his sermon is a weak sort of preacher. In a Highland village the minister was always offending in this respect. At last a deputation of his congregation waited on him to point out that they would prefer him to preach without reading every word from a manuscript. "Ah, my friends," he said sadly, "I must apologize; but I have a bad memory. If I had not it in writing I should forget what I have to say." "Weel, meenister," was the spokeman's scathing answer, "if ye canna remember yer ain discourses ye canna blame us gin we forget them."

His Choice.

During breakfast in a large munition factory on Clydeside, where nearly every nationality is represented, a group of workmen were discussing Lord Derby's scheme and the different battalions which they would like to join. After various opinions had been given as to which was the best, Sandy said: "If Ah hev tae join, gie me the Scottish Rifles." "A'll join the Royal Scots," said Geordie. "Ah think them the best." "What aboot Isaac here?" inquired another workman. "Oh," replied Geordie, "Isaac's gaun to join the new battalion—the Jordan Highlanders."

She Cannot Be Dead.

In a council school in Newcastle the class were having a history lesson, and the subject under consideration was the life of Queen Elizabeth. The teacher, after outlining the career of this wonderful woman, who found England poor, weak, and divided, left it strong, and conscious of greater possibilities, asked:

"Now, can any boy tell me when Queen Elizabeth died? Perhaps Tommy will tell the class?"

"She's not deed yit," replied Tommy, "becaas Aa hard me fethor say she wes fightin' in th' Dardanelles."

SETTLEMENT HELD BACK.

War Has Taken Many Men From Nothern Ontario.

The men of Northern Ontario from forest, mine, and farm, who now wear the King's uniform, include the best that old Ontario has sent north for the development of the great mining and agricultural indusries. No less than 4,000 men who lived along the line of the T. & N. O. Railway have gone, many of them in construction and pioneer battalions, and many in infantry, artillery, and engineers' units. Recruiting posters, signs of Red Cross activities, men in khaki, who are ready to forsake everything they hold dear, and women engaged in patriotic enterprises are features of every northern Ontario town, whether large or small.

A problem has been presented for the Provincial Government to solve with regard to the enlistment of homesteaders whose three years' term of residence on their land has not been completed. No definite policy along this line has yet been laid down, but it is quite certain that the Government will give consideration for the men who were willing to forsake the plow to take up a rifle. It is anticipated that a regulation providing for the non-cancellation of homesteads, under such circumstances, will be passed by the Legislature.

"The main thing is to mark time, and to keep things going," declared Commissioner George Lee of North Bay. "The north will go ahead by leaps and bounds after the war. It is no detriment to a country for its development to be held up temporarily. The progress that will be made after that period will only be the more marked."

The limit for settlers at present is a point about twelve miles north of Cochrane. The foreigners are found to be fairly industrious settlers. The colony of 100 Danes, who are situated at Sisikinaki Lake, 176 miles north of North Bay, seemed to be in a fairly prosperous condition. Their buildings were quite modern, and their crops promised quite well. A colony of Swedes, that is quite scattered, also seemed to be doing very well, and showed that they are assiduous in the work of clearing their land.

Still the stream of immigration flows in and more land is being taken up. The northern country is not being developed nearly as rapidly as if peace conditions had prevailed, but signs of prosperity are to be seen on all sides. Homesteaders are steadily clearing the land, although the acreage under cultivation this year is not as great as in 1915. This is on account of the enlistment of homesteaders, the scarcity of farm help and the wet fall, which prevented the sowing of fall wheat to some extent.

The figures showing immigration totals for the last three years were given by Mr. Lee. They showed the number of new homesteaders in 1913 to be 938, in contrast to 634 in 1914 and 925 in 1915. With regard to the figures of 1915, Mr. Lee estimated that two-thirds of the settlers brought their wives and families. Closer settlement has meant an increase in social life, and a consequently greater proportion of settlers who are willing to bring their families with them. Schools and churches have been erected, and have been made more accessible by the much greater mileage of highways. A conservative estimate was given by Mr. Lee of the number of settlers who had come into the clay belt this year, when he ventured the opinion that between 400 and 500 had taken up homesteads.

In 1915, he declared, fifty per cent. more clearing had been done than in the two previous years. Along the Elk Lake branch particularly great improvements have been made.

Invents Hand Mine.

Another war invention has just been completed by Brantford's youthful inventor, Alton J. Hall, student at the local collegiate institute. A few days ago Hall gave the final test to his most recent invention, a new land mine for protecting trenches. His first two inventions, which have proved successes, and were accepted by the Canadian Department of Militia, were a simple form of percussion shell for locating trenches, and a timing percussion shell without a fuse. If the present mine, which is constructed of aluminum, is successful, the cost of its manufacture will be much cheaper, and it will be three-quarters lighter than the old kind. The mine is 18 inches in diameter, and 24 inches long, and everything, including its explosives, are his invention. On the battlefield they will be worked by electricity. A test was made in an old brickyard near Brantford, and the cannon-like roar was heard all over the city, the mine was placed on the surface of the ground, and buried itself in the earth. The finished product is being sent to Ottawa.

18,000 Masons Have Enlisted.

Masonic symbols have become realities to eighteen thousand Masons who have enlisted in the Canadian overseas force; they have thereby interpreted into deeds the teachings and ideals of the ancient order. Their Masonic training fitted them for entrance into the khaki brotherhood, and many of them have been faithful unto death, notably the late Major-General Mercer, who was a Past Master of the Masonic order.

Two thousand Masons have enlisted in Ontario; this is equivalent to almost nine battalions or over two infantry brigades.

LURING AN AUDIENCE.

Just a Little Twist in a Shakespeare Title Did the Trick.

There was once a traveling theatrical company, so the tale of venerable age and long improbable veracity goes, that was booked to play in a town a melodrama considered as suitable to the prospective audience. By accident the necessary scenery and costumes were sent ahead to the next stopping place, which was the capital of the state, where a Shakespearean play was to be presented at the governor's special request, and the costumes and accessories for the Shakespeare performance were the ones that arrived. There was no time to right the mistake, but there was time to rush a new set of posters advertising the new play.

"Come one, come all!" they invited the public. "Do not miss the opportunity of a lifetime! The great comic, historic, romantic, emotional drama 'As You Like It, or the Wrestler's Sweetheart!' as triumphantly performed before the queen of England at the Globe theater, London, with the distinguished author in the cast!"

Naturally the public inferred that this interesting performance had taken place before Queen Victoria during the last London season rather than in the presence of good Queen Bess some 300 years before. Naturally also the gymnastic suggestions of the ingenious subtitle were not lost upon them. They turned out in force. The town attended almost to a man. They did not think much of the melancholy Jaques, but they would have endured him another seven ages for the sake of Rosalind!—Youth's Companion.

Tongues That Kill.

The tongues of some animals are very dangerous weapons. A lion could speedily kill a man by merely licking him with his tongue. The tongues of all the members of the cat family are covered with curious recurring spines formed of tough cartilage. In the common domestic cat these spines are very small, but are sufficiently well developed to give the tongue a feeling of roughness. In the fiercest animals, such as the lion or tiger, these spines are frequently found projecting up for an eighth of an inch or more with very sharp points or edges. While the mouth is relaxed the tongue is soft and smooth, but when the animal is excited the spines become rigid.

No Wedding Rings Here.

In many parts of the world women do not wear wedding rings, but they have other signs which unmistakably show that they are married.

Hindu women paint a vertical red mark in the middle of their foreheads and wear peculiarly shaped bangles.

In most of the native tribes of South Africa a horn ring encircles the topknot of the married woman. Among these tribes unmarried women wear no rings, wives wear one, and mothers wear two.

Ring Finger the Weakest.

The finger on which the wedding ring is worn is anatomically the weakest of the ten. Pianists have to give the third finger twice as much drill as the others. Place both hands together, palms facing, and all but the middle fingers stretched, you will be able to separate all couples easily but the two third fingers. The anatomical explanation of this weakness is that the tendon of the extensor muscle of the third finger is attached by a cross slip to that of the second and sometimes of the fourth. This slip is sometimes cut in violinists, who need all the freedom and power they can get.

A Witty Suggestion.

At the time when Thaddeus Stevens was a representative in congress a member of the house who was noted for his uncertain course on all questions and who confessed that he never investigated a point under discussion without finding himself neutral asked one day for leave of absence.

"Mr. Speaker," said Stevens, "I do not rise to object, but to suggest that the honorable member need not ask this favor, for he can easily pair off with himself."

English Injustice.

An Australian tourist traveling in the west of Ireland asked an old woman how far it was to the nearest town. She sadly looked at him, then sighed and said:

"It was five nice miles two years ago, but some English brute came over with chains and made it seven, and our hearts are broke walking it ever since. Bad luck to them!"

And she disappeared into the house, leaving him there.—Illustrated Bits.

Talking and Looking Backward.

Bess—Can't you do this as I do it?

Curious Church Architecture.

The parish church of Ormskirk, in Lancashire, England, has a tower and a spire side by side. The tower is built over the porch at the west end, and the spire is placed as closely as possible to it. The origin of this architectural freak has not been ascertained, but there is a tradition to the effect that when Orme, the Saxon pirate from whom the town derives its name, decided to construct a kirk, or church, as an expiatory offering for his evil deeds his two daughters quarreled over the design for the structure. One determined to have a tower; the other was equally resolved to have a steeple. As neither of them would give way the pirate chief acceded to both their wishes, and the curious may see the tower and spire still keeping watch side by side on the surrounding country.

Origin of the Hackney.

The hackney horse has given quite a number of useful words to the language. He and his name came from Normandy originally—haquenee, really a corruption of the Latin for horse—and he was a riding horse. Being commonly hired out, the name came to be associated with hiring and in course of time also with drudgery. Today there are far more hackney carriages, within the meaning of the act, without horses than with. A literary hack is another form of the same name, and hackneyed is an obvious derivation from a common source.—London Chronicle.

Tart Reception.

Hoffman, the German physicist, arrived in Glasgow late one Saturday night and on Sunday morning went to call on Lord Kelvin. The doorbell was answered by a woman servant, whom Hoffman asked if Sir William was at home.

The servant answered, "Sir, he most certainly is not."

Hoffman then asked, "Could you tell me where I could find him?"

"Sir," she answered, "you will find him at church, where you ought to be!"

Knocked Into a Cocked Hat.

The expression "knocked into a cocked hat" is familiar to every one, but perhaps its origin is not so generally known. Cocked hat was a variety of the game of bowls in which only three pins were used, set up at the angles of a triangle. When in bowling tenpins all were knocked down except the three at the corners the set was said to be "knocked into a cocked hat," whence the popular expression for depriving anything of its main body, character or purpose.

Antiquity of Cricket.

By the middle of the seventeenth century cricket, whose age seems cast in the shade of the unknown, had achieved for itself a recognized place. It was one of the sports which a writer of the times indignantly declared he had witnessed "openly and publicly on the Lord's day." However, the real rise of cricket did not begin until the eighteenth century. Then men of quality began to favor the game. They organized teams and matches, and even royalty took note of it and became its patrons. The Marylebone club, which was formed in 1787, remains to this day the final court of appeal on all matters relating to cricket.—London Spectator.

COOKING IN A HOLE.

A Forest Ranger's Method of Preparing Baked Chicken.

One summer day, while laboriously picking a sage hen, a friendly forest ranger approached, smiling, and offered to show me an easier way.

He lifted a bird as yet untouched by my hands and deftly cleaned but did not pick it. Then he sifted some dirt from the ground into a big mixing pan half filled with water. With these ingredients he mixed a paste of soft mud. Now he cut a slab of bacon, which he placed inside the hen, with a good sprinkling of pepper and salt, at last stuffing feathers into the opening to keep the meat clean. This done, he covered the chicken with the mud paste.

Now he dug a hole deep enough to put the bird in. In the hole he built a fire and waited until there was a thick coating of coals on the sides and bottom. Next he carefully placed the mud coated chicken on top. All this he covered with shovels of dirt until the hole was airtight. Now he turned to me and said, "It will be cooked in one hour from now."

With that he went his way.

At the end of the hour he came again and, throwing back the soil, drew forth the chicken, quickly skinned it and laid before us a delicately browned chicken with a wholesome odor about it.—Outing.

FANTASTIC GOLDFISH.

Some Curious Shapes Produced by the Experts of Japan.

Japanese fish breeders took advantage of one of nature's pranks to obtain this much decorated goldfish. Years ago a Jap found in his aquarium a fish with two tails. He was so well pleased with the novelty that he undertook to make it the basis of a new type. Thus the one accident by nature became the grandfather of a race of two tailed fish. We call them Japanese fantails.

Not satisfied with the double tail, the breeders next set about molding the bodies of their fish into round balls. Breeders first picked out the fish with the shortest bodies and bred them every year by painstaking selection. Fish with shorter and shorter bodies were produced until today the accepted type of Japanese fantail has a body as round as a ball.

Not all fantails are alike. One with the ends of the tail cut off flat is called the square tail. Another with a slight inward curve to the edges of the tail is called veil tail. A third, with a deep cut out tail, is named the ribbon tail. All these varieties have long tails and fins. You will recognize them instantly when you see them in an aquarium floating about like bits of lace in the water.

A Delayed Execution.

An eighteenth century execution on Kennington common was stopped for a time owing to a strange cause. On Aug. 19, 1763, two days before the date of the execution, a heavy fog came over London, accompanied by thunder and lightning and torrents of rain. These conditions lasted for nearly forty-eight hours, and many people believed that the last day had arrived. When the time fixed for the execution arrived the assembled crowd cried shame on the sheriff for hanging a man when the world was coming to an end. As he persisted in his preparations, they burst through the barriers and stopped the proceedings, shouting that the culprit might as well wait a few minutes, when the grand summons would come to all. The sheriff had to obtain the assistance of a force of soldiers before the execution could be carried out.

A Shabby Coat Collar.

Very often the collar of a coat begins to look shabby when the coat is in good order, and it is wonderful what a difference a thorough cleaning will make. First take a piece of clean cloth and dip it in spirits of turpentine and rub the collar thoroughly with it. Leave it for ten minutes, then rub it again with the turpentine and scrape it carefully to remove any loose dirt. Next sponge the collar with a little alcohol and keep wiping it until it is dry. Hang it up in an airy place for an hour or two and it will look as good as new.

Serious Oversight.

"Yes," remarked Farmer Corntossel, "Josh knows a heap. He can tell me all the scientific names of what I'm tryin' to raise an' what injures the crops. But there's one thing he never investigated. If he had studied a little deeper Josh wouldn't have got all mussed up while out walkin' in his Sunday clothes."

"What did he omit?"

"He never investigated the psychological effect of a red necktie on a bull."

Diplomacy.

"It takes diplomacy to get on with a husband," said the woman who speaks her mind freely.

"I believe it does," replied Miss Cayenne. "As I understand it, diplomacy consists largely in seeming to be deceived whether you are or not."

A FLOATING FORTUNE.

The Right Kind of Whale Is Heavily Freighted With Wealth.

First let us dispel the popular idea that a whale is a fish. It is not a fish, but an animal. It feeds its young with milk. And even though it lives in the water it can be drowned. A fish extracts oxygen from the water and takes it through its gills. But the whale has to rise to the surface and get a supply of oxygen from the air. When it does this it spouts water to make room for air, and the fishermen say, "There she blows!"

A whale has a large, flat tail, about eighteen feet across. Every fish has an upright tail. That is because fish need their tails only to act as rudders. But a whale, when he needs oxygen, has to beat down the water and get to the surface in bounds. That's the reason his tail is flat.

The baleen, or whalebone whale, carries all the whalebone in his mouth. It hangs down from his upper jaw in a vast network. He eats the smallest sort of jellyfish, etc. Having no teeth, he swims right into a shoal of things that form his food, and the network of whalebone acts as a huge fishing net. Whalebone is worth $10,000 a ton, and one whale may carry one and a half tons of it. Besides whalebone, we get tons of oil from the whale. It is used for ointments and very fine candles. And from a certain species of whale we get ambergris, which is worth from $10 to $30 an ounce. The whale is a floating fortune.

Knife Duels In Mexico.

A duel between cattle herders on the Mexican plains is about as savage and deadly a manner of fighting as one could possibly imagine. Each opponent extends his left arm, and a third party who has been selected to act as referee binds their wrists together with a thong of rawhide. He then places a knife in the right hand of each, and the fight is on. Needless to say, it does not last long. Every stab may be calculated upon to do damage, and it often happens that both duelists receive fatal wounds. Yet, in spite of the severe rules of the game, there are men who become experts and terrorize a whole neighborhood. They pride themselves on being able to strike so quickly and so surely that they can kill an opponent with the first blow and get away unscathed.—Exchange.

When Tea Was Dear.

Those who grumble at the price of tea should turn for consolation to the records of its price in early times. At its first introduction into England, about the middle of the seventeenth century, tea fetched anything between £6 and £10 a pound, and though a fall in price quickly took place the East India company still had to pay over £4 for the two pounds of tea which it presented the king. However, even thus it is doubtful if the tea merchants got very fat, seeing that the importation of some 4,000 pounds in 1678 was enough to glut the market for some years.—London Chronicle.

The Missouri River.

The Missouri river is one of the great drainage channels of the United States, measuring in total length about 2,400 miles. It drains 527,155 square miles, a territory as great as that embraced in the states of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

Although Missouri river may never again be utilized as a means of communication and transportation, it is destined to play a large part in the better development of its drainage basin by furnishing water for irrigation and for generating power.—Geological Survey.

Ancient Baths of Caracalla.

The Romans appear to have been well off in the matter of bathing places in the first and second centuries. In the baths of Caracalla 1,600 bathers could be accommodated at one time. The inclosed area was 880 square yards, but it included a course for foot racing. The bathing establishment was 240 yards in length by 124 wide. The remains of the walls are eight and ten feet thick and in some places as much as fifty feet high.

Sand.

"What business are you in now?"

"The sand business."

"And how is it?"

"Well, it's a tantalizing sort of business. Plenty of people need more sand and would doubtless like to purchase. If I could only supply that demand I'd get rich."

MASON'S DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

Such Was Verdict of Coroner's Jury--Much Evidence Submitted at Inquiry

We, the jurors empanelled to enquire when, how, where and by what means George W. Mason came to his death, find that on the afternoon of Wednesday, August 2nd, 1916, deceased was struck by No. 1 train in the east yard of the G. T. R. in Thurlow Township and died shortly after in the baggage room of the said company at the depot in the city of Belleville.

In our opinion the fatality was purely accidental and that no blame can be attached to any employee of the railway company.

Such was the verdict rendered last night by the coroner's jury who heard evidence relative to the fatal accident that befell brakesman George W. Mason of Belleville.

Dr. Boyce, coroner, presided over the inquiry. Mr. Wm. Carnew, County Attorney, represented the Crown and examined witnesses, and Mr. T. W. R. McCrae of the G. T. R. legal office, Montreal, was present on behalf of the railway. The following is a synopsis of the evidence submitted:—

Thomas Parsley testified that he was conductor on train No. 1 going west. On Wednesday last, August 2nd, the train was on time at Belleville. On the date in question the train was stopped in the east end yard of Belleville. Witness emerged from the train and was informed by the engineer that the train had struck a man. The victim was picked up and placed on the train. Personally he knew nothing of the accident. The train was going about 25 or 30 miles an hour when the accident occurred. J. B. Haslip, testified that he was a G. T. R. engineer residing at Brockville, and on August 2nd he was engineer on No. 1 train. On approaching Belleville yard there is a good view to the depot, the train was on the west bound track. The first that witness saw of the deceased was when the engine struck. Two men ran across the track in front of the train and the third man was struck. North of the express there were no cars to obstruct the view. On the day in question the train was going beyond the usual speed at this point. As soon as witness saw a man had been struck he applied the emergency brakes and stopped the train within a length of itself. The bell of the engine was ringing at the time this man was struck. Witness could not at the time avert the accident, as he did everything possible. The pilot evidently struck the man. This was the first person he had ever struck whilst an engineer. The man after being struck fell clear off the engine.

Dr. Gibson testified that on Wednesday, August 2nd he had a hurried call to the G. T. R. station on the day in question. Witness saw the man just before he died. The injuries received were of a fatal nature, and W. J. Spry testified he was a G. T. R. brakesman and was on No. 1 train going west when the accident occurred. He was about opening a vestibule door of a pullman car. The first witness knew of an accident occurred was when the engineer said the train had struck a man. Did not know the deceased and did not see the accident.

H. F. Smith testified that he was a G. T. R. fireman, and was firing on No. 1 train on the day of the accident. Witness saw two men run across in front of the engine, and the third man was struck. The engine was under control as it was approaching into the yd. At a point where the accident occurred a cabose was on a side line, and the men apparently ran from the side of the cabose. When the two men ran across in front of the engine, the latter was within 50 feet of them. Just then the third man appeared, and he was struck by the engine. In witness' opinion the cause of the accident to the deceased was that he attempted to get across the track as the train approached, and did not do so. The engineer could not have done anything he did not do to avert the accident. The bell on the engine was ringing at the time.

John Rigby testified that he was in the Belleville yard when the accident occurred. He was conductor on train No. 495, a west bound manifest freight train. Mason was a brakesman on witness' train. Witness in company with yard foreman Alexander, crossed the main line to board an engine. Mason was endeavoring to cross the west main line when he was struck by the engine of No. 1 train. Witness immediately went to where the accident occurred and assisted in picking up the deceased. They placed him on the train and he was conveyed to the station. Witness was with Mason when he died. Deceased never spoke after being struck. Deceased went across the track to assist in the making upon the train he was working upon as brakesman. Mason was about his ordinary duties when he met with the accident, and he apparently did not notice the approach of the train which struck him. Deceased was struck by the pilot of the engine.

John Thompson testified that he was in the employ of the Thompson Company, and on Wednesday, August 2nd, he assisted in taking the body to the undertaking establishment. It was the body of George W. Mason which the jury received.

J. M. Trulasch, testified he was a G. T. R. constable, and on August 2nd an accident occurred. Witness was at the depot when No. 1 train came in, and he (witness) was informed the engine had struck a man, and that he was on the train. Mason was carried into the baggage-room where he expired in a few minutes. Did not personally know the deceased. Dr. Gibson arrived and stated that Mason had been fatally injured.

James Hill in his evidence, stated he was one of the crew of the manifest train No. 495. The cabose of this train was on siding, Mason was struck. Witness crossed the track about 70 feet in front of No. 1 train and Mason was behind him. When he saw No. 1 approaching, he called to Mason to look out for No. 1. Mason was then on the rail of the west main line and the train was then on him. Mason made a jump to get out of the way but the engine struck him on the right side. The north side of the engine struck him and threw him a few feet away. Witness heard no whistle and heard no bell ringing. Witness remained with the deceased until he died. Mason was a careful, industrious and sober man. John Alexander testified he was yard foreman, and he was near Mason when he was struck by the engine of No. 1 train. He corroborated the evidence of Hill and Rigby. Witness crossed the track ahead of the other men. Mason should have known that No. 1 was due.

Mr. McPhearson testified that he was a G.T.R. brakesman, and he saw Messrs. Hill, Rigby and Alexander cross the track safely, and Mason was following. The latter seemed to stand still on the track for a second as No. 1 train was approaching. He made an effort to cross the track, but was struck.

Hair Often Ruined By Washing With Soap

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure; and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

Realistic Fight With Aeroplanes

British War Office Sends Anti-Aircraft Gun to the Canadian National.

An anti-aircraft gun, such as is now mounted all over England and on the battlefields in France, Belgium and elsewhere, is being sent over by the British War Office for use at the Canadian National Exhibition, and will be utilized for the purpose of making the fights betweens the invading aeroplanes and the land forces stationed on Exhibition shore more realistic, the battles being staged under conditions similar to those existing in Great Britain and the war zone. The Admiralty has also been asked to approve the shipment to Toronto of a 20-foot model of the Hercules, a first class battleship built in 1911, and at present one of the most powerful in the British Navy. An effort was made to secure a submarine for exhibition on the waterfront, but the Admiralty protested on the ground that everyone now available is required for war purposes. Negotiations have since been opened with the United States government for the loan of one, but so far no definite answer has been received.

The amount given in prizes the first year of the Canadian National Exhibition was $17,000. This year over $60,000 will be distributed.

The record for a day's attendance at the Canadian National Exhibition is 154,000, reached in 1913.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

CIVILIAN CLERKS IN UNIFORM

Last winter, Brig.-General Hemming stated that every civilian male clerk in the employ of the military of the Third District would be compelled to wear uniform Many of the clerks welcomed the statement, and at once started to get uniforms. Many of the clerks felt that the wearing of khaki would save them from the charge of "Safety First" which was freely thrown at them by soldiers who thought that they ought to be wearing uniforms. Some of the clerks are medically unfit for overseas service, and are more than anxious to get into uniform at a time when every young man should be wearing this badge of honorable service. Why the matter of putting civilian clerks in uniform was dropped has not yet been explained, but the question is again being revised, and many feel that at a time when recruits are being so persistently sought, it would look much better to see every civilian clerk wearing uniform in offices where so many military clerks are employed.

THE WOMEN WON

It has been decided to have the colors of the 156th Battalion presented in Brockville on August 17. There has been much discussion over the matter, with numerous telegrams and telephones, but the good women of Brockville who had the matter in hand have won out in the fight, and Lt.-Col. Bedell and his officers will show their appreciation of the work of the Daughters of the Empire by going to Brockville to receive their colors, instead of having the ceremony at Barriefield, as fully intended.

• INAUGURATING SPORTS

An athletic association, which will govern all the sports staged by the 72nd, 73rd, 74th and 75th batteries as well as the Ammunition Column, at Barriefield Camp, was organized on Saturday afternoon. Major Barrett, who is in command of the Depot Battery, was elected president of the new association and M. J Smith, a former sport writer of Ottawa, is the secretary. In addition to the above two officers, there will also be one man from each of the batteries on the committee. It is the intention of the association to start a baseball league from among the various units during the course of this week. A quoit league, and a soccer football league may also be formed.

RECRUITING LOOKS UP

Captain Kennedy, of Queen's Field Ambulance, returned from Peterboro on Saturday and brought with him eight more recruits for the field ambulance company. This means 23 recruits which Captain Kennedy has secured in Peterboro since Queen's Field Ambulance was first organized. The captain will no doubt go back looking for more.

The band of the 155th Battalion gave a most delightful program of music during the dinner hour yesterday.

Mrs. Allen, wife of Major Allen of the 155th Battalion was a visitor to camp yesterday from her summer home in Stella. Mrs. Allen has promised to sing at one of the concerts to be given the boys of the 155th some evening next week.

Lt.-Col. Adams of the 155th Battalion, went to Picton yesterday morning after the regular church service, accompanied by Mrs. Adams.

Major Allen of the 155th Battalion left for Ottawa today where he will act as a member of a board of examination of the provincial school of the 230th Battalion.

The largest of the three bear cubs owned by the 155th Battalion is evidently not much of a Baptist for the boys had great difficulty in persuading young Teddy that he ought to take a bath in the river on Sunday afternoon.

It is published for the information of all concerned, that it has been decided to increase the establishment of all draft-giving depot batteries now in Canada, by 50 men approximately 40 gunners and 10 drivers.

The band of the 155th Battalion played a splendid programme at the headquarters mess on Sunday evening.

The work of the school of bombing and trench warfare at the camp is progressing splendidly and now a large section of the trenches that are exact in every particular to those in use at the front have been built.

Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, G.S.O., Maj. A P. Allen, 155th Battalion, and an officer of the 230th Battalion form a board of officers for conducting examinations in connection with the School of Infantry, 230th Battalion, Ottawa. The examinations will be held on Tuesday.

THE NORTHERN ONTARIO FIRE

Timmins, Ont., Aug. 7, 1916.

To the Editor of The Daily Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—The following brief account of the fire which last week swept over the North and the actual damage known up to the present time may be of interest to you, and I shall be pleased if you can find space in your paper for its publication, especially since as former residents of Belleville we have many friends in your town whom we wish to assure of our safety through your columns.

Sincerely yours,
J. W. NOSWORTHY.

The forest fires which have been raging for several weeks all over the north country and which last Saturday (July 30) left so much destruction in its trail, has caused comparatively little damage in the Porcupine gold district. Timmins, near which are situated the Hollinger, MacIntyre, Schumacher, Porcupine Crown, Vipond, Jupiter and Plenarium gold mines, was the only town in this end of the camp to suffer from these fires. Here we were untouched by the big forest fire and had to fight only one of local origin which destroyed fourteen residences before it could be got under control. The whole town was seriously threatened for a time, and only almost superhuman efforts on the part of the fire brigade, assisted by hundreds of citizens saved the town itself from complete destruction.

Several large bush fires were raging around the camp, one of which came within a few miles of Timmins, while another assumed such a threatening aspect at Porcupine, the scene of the 1911 fire, that men left the mines and made every preparation for a speedy escape should it become necessary.

The outstanding features of the fire which swept along the main line of the T. & N.O. Railway has already appeared in your paper, but not till one has been an eye-witness on the scene of destruction and has talked with numbers of those who have come through the fire can even the faintest idea of the sad affair be realized.

The fire swept along a front of 73 miles, from the little town of Ramore on the south to a point ten miles north of Cochrane. At some points along this frontage it was at least 30 miles wide. An area of 350 square miles is said to have been completely devasted. Towns, homesteads, crops and everything is wiped out. In our Township (Munroe) of 36 square miles there is not a single house standing. The Croesus gold mine, which had a plant of about 20 buildings, is wiped out. The towns of Matheson, Muska and Kelso have disappeared, with nothing but piles of charred ruins to mark their former prosperous condition.

Worse than the loss of towns and property is the terrible loss of life. The latest authentic reports given this evening place the number of recovered bodies at over four hundred, and it is expected that when the many search parties have completed their work the number will reach the appalling figures of five hundred. There are yet many prospectors and bushmen unaccounted for and some no doubt will never be found.

Matheson, Ramore, Watahbeag, Nushka, Monteith, Kelso, Iroquois Falls, Porquis Junction, Nellie Take, Holland and Cochrane were all swept by the fire, and for the most part were cleaned out of buildings and remain heaps of ruins. The greatest loss of life, with Nushka excepted, was not in the towns, but in the country, as by far the greater part of the fire-swept area consisted of farms, farms in the making, and homesteads. Here it was that scores of homesteaders and farmers found themselves with their families surrounded by fire, and with no possible means of escape or hiding-place. Many instances are told of whole families being found dead, huddled together, in some instances in a well, root-houses, or field. Many cases have been found showing where the men folk had covered the women and children with blankets, which they kept wet, hoping to save them at the expense of their own lives, but without avail.

Many heart breaking stories are related by refugees, who have come to join their friends here in the camp. One man, a Mr McInchie, who had owned a farm a few miles from Matheson, related in tears to the writer the story of how he had gone to the market town of Matheson in the morning, how as soon as the fire looked threatening, he had hastened homewards, only to find that his way was barred by miles of raging fire, and that when at last he was able to reach his devasted farm it was only to find his wife, a daughter of 18 years, his hired man and his cattle, buildings and crops all burned to ashes The remains of his loved ones being beyond recognition.

A belated freight train was turned into a rescue train at Mathieson and carried hundreds of men, women and children south to safety. A rescue train from Porquis Junction brought two carloads of women and children to Porcupine, where their needs were immediately cared for by the more fortunate residents of the Gold Camp, who knew well from 1911 experiences the urgent need of immediate relief. In spite of all the relief that has been given the need is still urgent and scores of victims at the time of writing are reported to have barely enough clothing to cover them, women in many instances having to go dressed in men's clothing, only too glad to have something to shield them from the elements. Up to the present there has been no time to distinguish which towns have and which have not contributed its part to the urgent need.

The day following the fire found every resident of the Gold Camp hastening to the depot with a bag of clothing and provisions. Two car loads of relief was sent from the town of Timmins within 24 hours of the conflagration. If Belleville has contributed her part as she undoubtedly has or will, your readers may be assured that the cause well merited their contributions and that the worst accounts of the great devastation can scarcely be exaggerated.

Deserter Gets Nine Months

Pte. Fluke Is Arrested At Kingston After Donning Uniform

KINGSTON, Aug. 7.—Pte. R. N. Fluke, of the 155th Battalion, was sentenced to nine months in jail by Justice of the Peace Hunter, when he pleaded guilty to desertion. Fluke went to Belleville with the battalion to receive the colors, and while in that city, according to his statement, made friends with too much whiskey, with the result that he went on a prolonged spree, which wound up in Peterborough. In the meantime he had taken off his uniform, but was arrested and brought to Barriefield Camp.

NATIONAL FETE FOR THE QUEBEC BRIDGE

Completion of Last Span Will Be Celebrated on September 26

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—Quebec City Council desires the Government to make the occasion of the placing of the middle span in the Quebec Bridge one of national importance. September 26 is the date that the famous structure will be completed across the St. Lawrence by floating into place the centre span and uniting the portions built from both sides of the St. Lawrence. The Quebec Council would have the work completed in the presence of Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues, and also of representatives from various parts of the Dominion. The bridge will not be ready for traffic until some time next year.

Young Child Fatally Scalded

Earnest Elton Hubbs, aged 1 year and 9 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hubbs residing at Rednerville, Prince Edward County, died this morning under rather distressing circumstances. It appears that Mrs. Hubbs was washing yesterday, and was using a washing machine. While she was absent from the house for a minute or two, an elder son pulled the plug from out of the machine. Mrs. Hubbs came from the house with a pail of boiling water, intending to put it in the washing machine. Noticing the plug out of the machine she placed the pail of water on the ground while replacing it, and Earnest came along and fell backward into the pail of boiling water. The injuries he sustained were of such a nature as to cause death. The distressing affair has called forth the heartfelt sympathy of a large circle of relatives and friends of the bereaved parents.

KISSING TICKETS.

They Are Sold at All Large Railroad Stations in England.

The guard waved his flag; the lover kissed his girl, she jumped aboard, shut the door, put her laughing face out of the window, and just as the train was starting he kissed her again. And the cost of this osculation was 1 penny.

That was over in England, where they have what are called "kissing tickets." These may be obtained at any of the larger railroad stations from regular slot machines at a penny apiece, giving the purchaser the privilege of going on the platform and being with his friends or—as in the case outlined—friend up to the last moment.

This custom of issuing platform tickets came about by the big railroad companies realizing that the delay caused by people crowding around all the carriage doors saying goodby when the train ought to be under way was costing them money amounting to many thousands of pounds in the course of the year.

When the cause of this loss of money was discovered it was at first suggested that no person who was not actually traveling by the train should be allowed on the platform at all. But even railway directors have hearts, though there seem to be some people who doubt it, and this arrangement seemed altogether too cruel. Finally the idea of charging a penny for admission to the platform was hit upon and adopted. In laudatory parlance of the day "it's a grand success," though the scheme wouldn't work here.

DRESDEN'S FAMOUS CLAY.

Its Value Was Brought to Light by a Freak of Fashion.

Did you know that the discovery of the material which makes translucent chinaware possible was due to the vanity of man—not mankind, which includes woman, but to masculine man? It came about in a remarkably devious manner, beginning and ending a little way from the spot where Dresden china is still manufactured. The man who identified the long sought substance was an eminent chemist, John Frederick Boettcher, but the scientist would never have had the substance to analyze had it not been for the circumstances of a muddy road, the vanity of society beaus and a shrewd business man who thought he had found a profitable means of catering to that vanity.

The man was riding from his iron foundry by a short cut when his horse's hoofs stuck in the mud. That mud next day disintegrated into a fine white powder when it was thoroughly dry. The founder conceived the idea of turning the white clay into powder for the fashionable bob wigs of court dandies. Even the king, Augustus of Saxony, fell for it, but it was not satisfactory, so Augustus ordered the chemist, Boettcher, to analyze it to find if it was injurious. To his amazement the man of science found that this Dresden clay was the same substance that had been used for 1,800 years in China in the making of the ware that had never been imitated anywhere else in the world.

TAKE CARE OF THE HAIR.

The Value of Sun Baths for the Scalp.

The hair needs greater care during the summer months than at any other time of the year. The reason for this is simple. During the warm months the average woman is out of doors a good deal more than during cold weather, and her scalp is exposed to dust and dirt more frequently than at any other season. Often she goes bareheaded when playing golf or tennis, allowing the sun's rays not only to bake, but to scorch the delicate fibres of her hair. This results in a brittle, bleached coiffure at the end of the summer, a head that is anything but lovely to look upon.

While warm weather is decidedly disastrous to the condition of the scalp, if extra care is not given the hair, this season of the year is exceedingly beneficial if a few precautions are taken. It does the scalp a world of good to be given frequent sun and air baths, but these baths should not be given indiscriminately, with no limit for their duration. A frequent small dose of sunshine and air is excellent. Big doses at odd intervals do more harm than good.

Let the hair hang down the back and sit on the porch in the sun for half an hour, lifting it strand by strand so that the air may play through it. If you have no front porch use a window into which the sun shines. A sun bath of half an hour a day is sufficient. But do not sit hours on the sand with the head uncovered and expect at the end of the summer to have your hair in good condition. It will be baked to a frazzle, dry, brittle, and ugly.

Lingerie Dresses.

White net is being used for lingerie dresses this season. The washable white net is selected, and when the pretty frock is soiled it may be sent to the laundry along with white dimity and lawn costumes. These white net dresses are rather simply made, with ruffled skirts or full, gathered skirts tucked in groups. Shirrings are lovely in net, but they do not launder very satisfactorily. Neither do net plaitings. So it is best to use narrow white lace or frilled footing as a trimming on bodices and sleeves.

Snap fasteners close such a frock invisibly, and usually there is a slip of accordion plaited daphne silk or of pussy willow taffeta to go underneath. Such a frock may be worn at a very informal afternoon affair or—with a handsome sash, tinted pussy willow lining and dainty slippers—at a formal evening affair in summer.

Fish Flake Omelet.

Beat four eggs seasoned with a half teaspoonful each of salt and paprika until whites and yolks are well mixed. Add four tablespoonfuls of water and a can of fish flakes picked in bits with a silver fork. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan and turn in the fish mixture. Shake the pan back and forth on top the hot stove lid, tipping the pan meanwhile to let the uncooked mixture down upon the pan. When the egg is nearly set roll the omelet and turn on to a hot plate.

ABOUT SWEATERS.

The Popular and Picturesque Sport Garment Up to Date.

Many women like the two tone silk or fiber silk sweaters. They are less glaring when in high colors, and they seem to blend more satisfactorily into the tone of the skirt. There are models, also, of pure silk which have wide borders of tartan plaid. There is more difficulty in the wearing of these because, unless the skirt matches the body of the sweater, there are apt to be a clashing of blues and a displeasing ensemble.

Besides the plaided trimming, there are recent accessories to the sweater ranks which have the hem border, the color and the cuffs done in Paisley design and colorings. The charm of these lies in their comparative novelty.

The lines of the sweater have undergone several little changes. The smartest are somewhat longer than their immediate predecessors, and those that have been sent over from the other side of the Atlantic incline to raglan sleeves rather than the regulation type. In some instances Norfolk plaits are introduced, and the majority of them are belted or sashed in continuation of a style that is feminine and becoming.

White and black effects remain highly popular. There are a certain refinement and stability about this combination that give it a permanent place season in and season out. Several of the sweaters are of white, whose knitted surface is superimposed on one of black and which has a border of solid black. Then there are varieties which reverse this arrangement of color. And for those who must have a spice of gayety the border may be of Scotch plaid, also knitted.

Sweaters of pure silk are practically worth their weight in gold—or at least in silver. For those who cannot afford the possession of such there are sweaters of silk fiber that wear very well and which may or may not stand the intense rays of the summer sun.

It is said that all the sweaters which have come from Switzerland and England within recent weeks have been dyed in the old way, but those that have been made in this country have been subjected to dyes that are in a more or less experimental stage and must be taken with the understanding that the manufacturer and the retailer are in nowise to be held responsible for the fading out or streaking of the garment.

THE NEW POKE.

OFF FOR A SPIN.

JUST THINGS.

Remember These Notes and Housework Will Become More Intelligent.

The secret of a light omelet is to froth the egg. One egg well beaten is worth two not well beaten.

When a pudding is boiled in a basin it should fill the basin.

Roasting meat cannot be basted too much or too often.

The part which to be topmost in the dish should when boiling be downmost in the pan.

Salted and smoked meat should be put into cold water, brought slowly to the boil, then simmered.

Water boils when it gallops, fat when it is still.

Puddings made with suet should be stiffly mixed.

When ketchup is used be sparing with the salt.

To leave bread or vegetables in stock or soup turns these eatables sour.

Root vegetables should be boiled gently, with the lid on the pan.

All vegetables, excepting old potatoes, should be put into plenty of fast boiling salted water.

The liquor used in boiling meat or roots should never be thrown away. Soups and sauces may be made of it.

Broiled meat must be turned often; put the cut side to the fire.

A handful of salt will often clear a fire from smoke for broiling.

When baking powder has been used there must be no delay in baking.

White For Summer.

Almost every summer white proves its worth as the most popular summer color. This year, like all others, is to be a white one. There will be frocks of white taffeta, white organdie, white voile and white in every other fashionable fabric.

SNAPPY MODEL.

For Hikers Comes This Good Looking, Comfortable Suit.

For a youthful walking suit is this of king's blue wool jersey. The circular skirt gives ample comfort, and the slip-on coat, belted and made with detachable white silk collar and cuffs, is smart to a degree. Correct accessories are low heeled shoes and a turban with blue velvet maple leaves appliqued.

SO MODISH.

THE EMERGENCY SHELF.

How to Be Always Prepared For Unexpected Guests.

When unexpected guests arrive the hostess naturally wishes to entertain them and to get her share of pleasure from the visit, but that matter of "what to eat" makes her ill at ease. She phones wildly for this and that or rushes out into the kitchen almost as soon as the guests are seated. Later, in taking stock, she finds that she has spent more than was warranted and that the refreshments offered were needlessly lavish or sadly one sided.

The hostess backed by a well stocked emergency shelf and menus arranged to fit any occasion opens her door to the party of friends who "just drop in" with absolute joy. She comfortably visits with her guests, for she knows she can serve dainty, satisfying refreshments in a twinkling from her emergency shelf.

On the emergency shelf there should be canned fish, meats, chicken and fruits, a jar of sweet homemade cookies, packages of plain crackers, a jar of pickles, beef extract and canned soups. A small case of grape juice will answer the call of almost all emergencies for beverages and desserts. Keep a pail of pure leaf lard on hand to mix up quick pastries and to cook croquettes.

FLESH COLORED LINGERIE.

The Fad For Fine Underwear Takes on Colorful Shapes.

Such a hold has flesh color obtained on the popular fancy that even in batiste flesh color is much used for nightgowns and underwear. Flesh color batiste is very effective embroidered in white or in bright pink and pale blue. A white scallop with a dainty floral design in white is particularly attractive on the pale tinted background, and many a pretty dressing jacket, nightgown and chemise or camisole is embroidered with the white. When blue is used in the embroidery it must be used with caution and in some patterns is better combined with white, but it is very effective to run pale blue ribbon in flesh colored lingerie, whether of batiste or silk or satin, and this is being done a great deal by the specialty shops which make a point of dainty and unusual lingerie creations. The combination of pink and blue is gaining steadily in favor in this connection and is useful as well as attractive, since it allows of the garment's use with either pink or blue over finery.

To Clean Jewelry.

Gold rings, brooches and other articles of jewelry that are set with precious stones can be cleaned with warm water, white soap and a very little ammonia. Use a soft old toothbrush to get in between the setting and the stone. For rings set with turquoises and pearls the water cleansing should be avoided, but for the hard, transparent gems it is allowed. Polish the rings and pins with a soft chamois and they will be wonderfully bright and sparkling.

Black Rust Now Confined To The South

Has Only Appeared in a Few Instances--Wheat Is Fully Headed Out In Sask.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 8.—In view of the fact that many inquiries have been made as to the reliability of the reports with reference to the appearance of black rust in the wheat crop of Saskatchewan, the Department of Agriculture has made a special inquiry concerning this matter, and it appears from the reports to hand that black rust has developed in a few instances, but is confined, as far as it is possible to learn, to practically the southeastern part of the province. The weather during the past two weeks has been generally hot, with occasional violent storms, accompanied with wind and hail, which has done considerable damage in various sections of the province.

It is estimated that some crops on the lighter soils will be cut about the fifteenth of this month, but will not become general throughout the province before the last week of August.

The wheat is now fully headed out and maturing rapidly.

Haying is in full swing, and is generally abundant, although on account of the wet weather, it has been found inopportune to put it up at present, but with dryer weather this may be remedied.

GERMAN WAR LORDS EXPOSED BY TAGEBLATT

Berlin Newspaper Now Under Iron Heel Said Frankly That Conflict Could Have Been Averted Had Militarists Wished—Grey's Proposal Sidetracked

LONDON, Aug. 8.—According to The Daily Express, the following represents a translation of part of the article for which the Berliner Tageblatt was suppressed:—

"The declaration that this war was inevitable and that Germany was forced into it unprepared and against her will cannot be supported except by the most extreme partisans. Undoubtedly the conflict could have been avoided had the Government desired to avoid it, and doubtless it would have been had the Reichstag been taken into the confidence of our rulers, instead of merely being presented with a recital of actions taken independently of Parliaments.

"The proposals for a conference put forward by Sir Edward Grey were rejected before the members of the Reichstag had an opportunity of hearing them and the Imperial Chancellor's statement with regard to the regrettable necessity of violating the neutrality of Belgium was also made after the event."

Encased In Cow's Stomach For Cure

Young Woman Took Her Baby to Killing Pens For External Blood Nourishment

DENVER, Colo., August 8.—Declaring that she was following recommendations of a Denver physician, an unidentified young woman yesterday took her sickly month-old baby boy to the Denver stock yards and had it encased for five minutes inside the stomach of a cow which had just been killed.

The 'treatment' was arranged for at the slaughter house of Swift & Company, where the young woman calmly stood in a pool of blood and rubbed her hands approvingly while the treatment was given according to her directioins. She was conducted to a killing pen, and as soon as a cow could be killed an incision was made in the animals body by two federal inspectors. She then handed them the naked child which was placed feet foremost into the opening. She directed that the animal's skin and flesh be drawn closely around the infant's neck, which was done regardless of its crying protests. At the end of five minutes she washed and dressed the child and departed without disclosing her address to the inspectors.

Wind Tears Off Awning Which Hostler of Hotel Was Adjusting

WATERLOO, Aug. 9.— Special — While he was adjusting an awning on a window of a hotel here this afternon, a heavy gust of wind tore the awning off and carried Reinhardt Bowman, hostler, off the step-ladder, causing him to fall on his head. His neck was broken, and he expired within a few minutes. He was about fifty years of age.

PUT MISCONSTRUCTION ON THE REAL FACTS

German Newspapers Comment On Fryatt's Death

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—"German newspapers discuss British comment in regard to the execution of Captain Charles Fryatt, of the British steamship Brussels, declaring unanimously that British commentators are attempting to confuse the facts by pretending that the captain was sentenced to death because he defended himself against aggression," says the Overseas News Agency. "As a matter of fact, the sentence was imposed because he undertook a treacherous surprise attack on a German submarine in order to gain the prize promised for the destruction of a submarine.

"The newspapers insist furthermore that Germany never admitted the unlimited right of defence and that it is irrelevant whether Great Britain agrees with this standpoint inasmuch as British legal views are dependent on considerations of expediency, and not justice. For example, the British war of starvation against the unarmed population of Germany is absolutely opposed to international law.

"As for the indignation shown by the English press, the German newspapers refer to the murder of men on a German submarine by the British patrol boat Baralong and to the case of the British trawler King Stephen, which refused to save the crew of the wrecked Zeppelin L-19."

CARPENTERS ON CANALS ARE OUT ON STRIKE

Men In Employ of Government are Demanding Higher Wages

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 9.—Carpenters in the employ of the Government on the old and present Welland Canals to-day went on strike for an increase of from 30 to 40 cents per hour. The men petitioned the department several weeks ago for a rise to go into effect to-day, but without the desired result.

The carpenters of St. Catharines have been out on strike against the Builders' Exchange since May 1st for an increase from 43 to 50 cents per hour. Most of these latter men, however, are working for independent contractors in the city or on jobs not far distant at a higher scale.

RAIN CHECKS FIRES

In Townships Around Orillia They Have Burned For a Week

ORILLIA, Aug. 8.—Heavy rain last night effectively checked bush fires in this vicinity. Fires have been burning for a week past in the adjacent townships of Matchedash and Wood to the north and Rama and Dalton to the east. There is a good deal of waste land in these townships, the rock being close to the surface, and, as the best timber has been cut, the damage is not so great as might be expected. Several ranchers lost fences and small shelter buildings for cattle, notably John Hargraves and J. M. Chrysler, Sebright; Melville Nicholson, Rama township, and R. Doble, Udney. No farm buildings or crops in this vicinity have been damaged by fire.

UNITED STATES AND MEXICO COME TO AN UNDERSTANDING

Statement to be Made at Washington Today--Commission Accepted--Understanding Said to Include Arrangement for Discussion as to Withdrawal of U. S. Army--Washington May Assist Loans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Special—An agreement was reached yesterday between Mexico and the United States for the settlement of the Mexican border troubles. Carranza's proposition has been accepted with some minor changes. Negotiations as to these changes prevented a formal announcement of the agreement of to-day, but it is believed the changes will be acceptable to Carranza. It was announced at the State Department late yesterday afternoon that a statement covering the agreement will be issued to-day. The agreement as it now stands, according to the best information available, provides:

First—That the United States Government accepts the general plan of a Commission to deal with the subject.

Second—That the United States Government agrees to the propositions of Carranza to discuss the withdrawal of the army, the ascertainment of the cause of the border troubles, and the making of an agreement granting mutual rights to the United States and Mexico to cross the border in emergencies.

Third—That the Mexican Government accepts the suggestion that the three propositions of Carranza shall be increased. This will permit the discussion of other issues, such as Mexican financial legislation, the assistance of the United States in obtaining loans for the de facto Government, and finally, American claims against Mexico and Mexican claims against the United States.

BRITISH ARE IN PURSUIT

Drive Turks Back in Suez Canal District--Take a Number of Prisoners

Canadian Press Special.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Pressing the advantage won by defeat of the Turks who attacked the British forces near the Suez Canal, the British have driven back the Turks to a line fifteen miles east of Katia. The following official statement with regard to these operations was issued here to-day:—"Telegraphing last night the commander-in-chief in Egypt reports our pursuit of the enemy in Katia district continues. North and west the Turkish rear guard has been pressed back, while south the Imperial Camel Corps, by a dashing attack, drove them from their entrenchment. We captured more prisoners, and the enemy rear guard has now retired to about a line running north and south through Birelabd, fifteen miles east of Katia."

OWEN SOUND YOUTHS SWAMPED IN STORM

OWEN SOUND, Aug. 9.—Special—During the storm yesterday Jim Armstrong and Stewart Douglas, sons of Mr. A. F. Armstrong and Mr. T. W. Douglas, respectively, were capsized from a dinghy about a mile out from Paynter's Bay and three-quarters of a mile from the Leith shore. Both are excellent swimmers and managed to get on the bottom of the upturned boat. Their predicament was seen from the shore and a motor boat put out and took them off.

BRITISH FORCES ADVANCE LINES AT GUILLEMONT

Gain of Four Hundred Yards Made and Fighting Continues--Four German Attacks--Enemy Secures Foothold in Trenches By Using Liquid Fire

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Further progress by the British forces southwest of Guillemont and east of Trones Wood, is reported in yesterday's communication from Sir Douglas Haig. In the Guillemont region the British line was pushed forward about 400 yards. The importance attached by the Germans to the recovery of positions lost at Poieres, was freshly emphasized by a series of four attacks in which the enemy again employed liquid fire and succeeded in gaining a small foothold.

Last night's official statement says: "Southwest of Guillemont we advanced under our line about four hundred yards. Fighting continues near Guillemont station.

"Northwest of Pozieres the enemy made four attacks on our trenches, again using flammenwerfer (liquid fire). Three attacks failed completely, but in one he managed to occupy about 50 yards of our trench.

"The enemy shelled Longueval, High Wood and Pozieres heavily and also the vicinity of Mametz.

"Elsewhere along the front it was a quiet day except for some artillery activity in the Loos salient and near Givenchy."

The afternoon statement said:

"The enemy after his five fruitless attempts yesterday north and east of Foieres, has not made any fresh infantry attacks, but is maintaining a heavy artillery bombardment on this front and on other portions of the battle area.

"Last night our troops pushed forward in places east of Trones Wood, and fighting on the outskirts of Guillemont, near the station, is proceeding. In the eastern portion of Leipsic salient the enemy attempted a bomb attack on our lines but was driven back without difficulty.

"North of Roclincourt two of our raiding parties successfully entered the German lines and blew up some dugouts.

"An enemy squadron of ten aeroplanes endeavored to cross our lines yesterday on a bombing expedition. They were cut off by one of our offensive patrols of four machines. The enemy's machines scattered, returning precipitately, pursued by our patrols. Two of the hostile aeroplanes had to make forced descents behind their own lines."

STAGGERING BLOW IS STRUCK BY RUSSIANS

Occupy Eight Teuton Places in Southeastern Galician Drive-Over 10,000 Prisoners Already Captured--Russians Are Now Within Thirteen Miles of Stanislau

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The Russians suddenly resumed their drive in south-eastern Galicia yesterday and struck a powerful blow at the defence of Stanislau, the converging point of five strategic railway lines. Rushing forward in dense masses from two directions, north-east and south-east they battered down a series of strongly defended barriers and pushed their lines within less than ten miles of the city. Three towns and five villages fell to them. Their advance brought them within the gates of the town of Tysmienica, on the River Vorona, one of the four streams which still separate them from Stanislau.

These successes are reported in the Russian official night report. The Petrograd War Office's afternoon statement foreshadowed a general advance on the Stanislau front by the report of the capture of Tiumacz, thirteen miles to the south-east of Stanislau.

On August 5 and 6 the Czar's War Office asserts, 166 officers and 8,415 men, four cannon, nineteen machine guns and great quantities of war material were captured in the battles on this front. South-west of the Kolomea-Stanislau Railway, Russian cavalry succeeded in cutting off and capturing 2,000 Germans and several heavy guns. These are in addition to the 8,415 above mentioned.

The total gain of territory made on the Stanislau front amounts to 160 square kilometres, the Petrograd War Office announced to-night. The battle on the Vorona, which the next forty-eight hours is expected to usher in, will decide the fate of Stanislau. "It is probable," to-night's Russian official statement says, "that the enemy has exploded bridges and stores before retreating."

A proclamation foreshadowing the surrender of Lemberg, capital of Galicia, was issued by the Governor of the city on August fourth, says an Exchange Telegraph Co. despatch from Bucharest. On the same date, the despatch adds, the evacuation of the city by the civilian population was ordered. The proclamation declared the Austrians would return shortly to wrest Lemberg from the Russians.

The towns and villages taken by the Russians south of the Dniester are situated in a semicircle west of Stanislau. The captured places are Tlumacz, Nijiuv and Otynia, and the villages Bratychuv, Palakhiche, Nadorovna, Charnolozce and Krivotulanovo.

The resumption of the drive on Stanislau comes on the heels of the appointment of the Austrian heir-apparent, Archduke Karl, as commander of the front on that theatre, Count von Bothmer, the Bavarian General, having been placed in charge of an adjoining army. The Russian action is believed, therefore, to be aimed at a moral as well as a military effect: to damper the reinspirited confidence of the Austrian population.

RUSSIAN VICTORY IS GREATER THAN TOLD

Londoners See Indications of Disaster in Frank German Admission

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Russia's new victories south of the Dniester and southwest of the Stanislau-Kolomea railway afford great satisfaction here, and the prompt admission in the Berlin official statement of the retirement of the Austro-Germans south of the Dniester is taken here to indicate that the Russian victory in this quarter is weightier than yet announced by the Russian official despatches. According to an unofficial report the evacuation of Lemberg, the Galician capital, has already been ordered.

MOTHER AND CHILDREN STRANDED IN TORONTO

On Way to Scotland, Had Money and Transportation Stolen at Station

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—(Special.) — Returning to her father's home in Aberdeen, Scotland, Mrs. Marion Watson and her two small children arrived in Toronto, via the C.P.R. yesterday morning from Chicago. She stepped on the platform, leaving her purse, containing her money, passports and transportation, hanging in the car, and on returning a minute later found that the purse and all it contained had been stolen. This left her stranded. Constable Arrowsmith was notified by the C.P.R. officials and soon had a member of the detective department on the job, and hoped to recover the purse.

Mrs. Watson lost her husband in a mine explosion some seven months ago, and was returning to her father's home. On learning her predicament, kind friends soon appeared, who made all arrangements to look after her and her family until arrangements are completed to enable her to continue her journey.

FRENCH IN POSSESSION OF BIG STRETCHES OF FOES' TRENCHES

Full Success Achieved on a Front of Nearly Four Miles--A Gain at Thiaumont--Trench Rewon and Works Entered--Other Gains on Verdun Front

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Special —In the two battles now waged by the French, they won successes yesterday both on the Somme front and before Verdun.

North of the Somme River they increased their gains of yesterday by capturing a small wood and a trench strongly fortified by the enemy north of the Hem Wood. This success completed the capture of a line of German trenches on a three and three-quarter mile front, and of a depth of more than 300 to 500 yards. They also made an advance east of Hill 139, and they repulsed two attempts of the Germans to retake some trenches east of Monacu Farm.

On the Verdun battle front the French not only held their own in a furious struggle on the entire Thiaumont Fleury front, but they regained a trench that the Germans had taken, and re-entered the Thiaumont work. They also captured an entire line of German trenches and at some places two lines of these on the Vaux-Chapitre-Chenois front, and they took 200 unwounded prisoners in the various actions.

A French pilot also brought down in flames a German machine north of Auberive.

Tuesday a German aeroplane dropped four bombs on Nancy. Five of the civilian population were wounded, three of them grievously.

The Belgian communication was as follows:—

"In the region of Dixmude the artillery duel lost its intensity. At Boesinghe and Het Sas bomb fighting was spirited."

CRITICISING COST OF REBUILDING

Resignation of Liberals From Parliament Committee is Demanded

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—Liberal newspapers are printing very severe criticisms of the razing of the Ottawa Parliament buildings—"two million dollars worth of needless destruction" it is called—and of the percentage contract awarded to Peter Lyall Limited for the construction of the new buildings.

The London Advertiser demands that the Liberal members (Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Messrs. Lemieux, Pugsley and Watson resign from the Parliamentary committee having this matter in charge. The committee met in Ottawa last week; but there was no suggestion of any Liberal resignations. Indeed, it was said that the Liberal members approved what had been done. A curious situation is, therefore, developing.

The razing of the whole of the old walls with the exception of the Library is said to have been necessary owing to the fact that they had been so poorly built as to be incapable of carrying with safety the additional floor.

The boy had been in bathing with the raft when the current swept it out into the lake. The child was noticed by the watchman from the lifesaving tower and the crew at once went out to rescue the boy from his perilous position.

New War Minister Reviews Canadian Troops

Says Proud Boast Is Their Army Halted German "Drive" on Calais

LONDON, August 8.—Canadians had the honor to-day of being the first troops to be reviewed by Mr. Lloyd George since he was appointed successor to Earl Kitchener as the Secretary for War. Every aspect of this review of the Fourth Division was favorable. The weather was fine and not too hot, and the troops were in splendid condition.

The War Minister's speech to the men was at once inspiring and eloquent. "The best tribute I can pay to the Canadian army," said Mr. Lloyd George, "is that it blocked the way of the Germans to Calais."

Standing in an automobile at the side of Sir Sam Hughes while he thus spoke, Mr. Lloyd George congratulated the Minister of Militia upon the part that he had played in raising such a fine army. He also congratulated Brigadier-General Watson upon having command of such a magnificent body of fighting men.

The review took place near Bramshott, on the same spot where the review of troops by King George recently took place.

It was regarded as significant that the troops marched past with full marching kit, just as if ready to embark.

The units which passed under review to-day were the same that took part in the Dominion Day review, except that the Third Division of the Artillery was missing, the men being engaged elsewhere.

The Minister of Militia, in a brief speech, congratulated Brigadier-General Watson and the officers upon the efficiency and good showing of the Division.

Colonel Lorne Drum, of Montreal, chief of the Medical Service of the Training Division at Bramshott, was present, having quite recovered from his recent attack of rheumatism.

Sir William Peterson, Principal of McGill University, was among the spectators of the review, and saw his son, who is an officer, pass with the Highlanders. Principal Peterson will cross over to France next week.

Major Bassett was presented to Mr. Lloyd George at the close of the review.

Captain J. T. Jenkins, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., a McGill man, has been promoted major. His brother, Captain H. G. Jenkins, transfer officer of the 105th, has arrived in camp.

JUST LOOK AT IT

It was an interesting sight—the racing of floods down Victoria Avenue yesterday during the storm. Not only did the water descend the hill above Pinnacle street, but mud, gravel, sticks and everything reachable made a business of accumulating between the railroad track and Front Street, clogging the drains, tearing up the roading and keeping the residents in action to prevent the flooding of sidewalks and cellars. We noticed A. J. McCrodan at work with a big shovel, and he did good work too. After the storm Victoria Avenue from Front to Church streets, looked like it had just returned from the Verdun battlefield—after a bombardment.

TWELVE O'CLOCK PARK PICNICERS GOT THEIRS

The Presbyterians went picnicing to Twelve O'clock Park yesterday. It was a nice, high spirited crowd that started out, and the day was promising. But—Let us tell Mr. D. V. Sinclair's story: "I was hungry on arriving, and as I had provided a substantial lunch, I proceeded to lay it out according to my own idea of a well regulated repast. We had surrounded the meal in an informal manner, and I guess I was about to call down a blessing, when—well, the only way I can express it, something dropped. The group dispersed for shelter, an umbrella was posted over what remained of the food, and we awaited a calm in the storm. When the rain ceased the umbrella remained, but the food—yet gods! But we enjoyed the day, and while many became drenched no evil results are known. We arrived home safely."

Fire Sufferers Need Assistance

Mr. Fred Dane Says That all Available aid is Indispensable

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—Special—"We shall need all the assistance we can get from all over the country if those who have suffered from the fire are to be properly cared for," said Mr. Fred Dane yesterday on his return from Northern Ontario, where with Mr. George Lee, of the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, he has been superintending the distribution of relief to residents of the fire-swept districts on behalf of the Provincial Government. The need for aid, he asserted, was very great indeed.

Mr. Dane said that application for aid by way of loan under the provisions of the Northern and North-Western Ontario Development Act were already being received from settlers who wished to rebuild their burned homes and take up again the task of improving their farms. Each such case will be dealt with on the basis of information which is now being collected by officers of the Government.

HEARTBROKEN OVER LOVER GIRL TAKES OWN LIFE

Rosa Rosenfelt Ate Poisoned Sandwiches--Pathetic Letter Read To Jury

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—(Special.)—An inquest was held at the City Morgue last night into the death of Rose Rosenfeldt, who died on August 1st from the effects of eating poisoned sandwiches. A letter she had written to her lover was found beside her when she was discovered, and its pathetic contents were read to the jury.

"I ask you, dear friend, that you should not be angry for my committing such a crime in taking my life, because my troubles are very great, and I can't bear them any longer. During the time that I knew you, you have caused me a broken heart. I have told you that I was going to take a long journey; well, this is the journey I meant."

After directing that her clothes be given to poor girls, the writer concluded:—

"Forgive me. From me, your true love, whose death you have caused, that is suicide. Rose Rosenfeldt.

The evidence showed that the girl had been infatuated with the man, and that when she found him apparently deserting her, she took her life by eating bread sprinkled with rat poison. The verdict of the jury was that the girl came to her death by taking poison by her own hand. The inquest was conducted by Dr. W. F. Clewes, Coroner.

GENERAL SECRETARY FREDERICK RESIGNS

At the regular monthly meeting of the Y.M.C.A. directors held in the secretary's office last evening, steps were inaugurated looking to the securing of a new General-Secretary to take the place of Mr. E. P. Frederick, who has been compelled to tender his resignation owing to a responsible city appointment. Following the acceptance of the resignation, which was with extreme regret, the following resolution was unanimously passed:—

"Whereas the general secretary of the Belleville Young Men's Christian Association, Mr. E. P. Frederick, has tendered his resignation, and whereas the said resignation has been reluctantly accepted.

Resolved "That this board place on record its high appreciation of the splendid services rendered by Mr. Frederick during his incumbency. He came into his duties at a time of great stress and difficulty and followed a secretary whose place it was indeed hard to fill. We therefore feel that in discharging his duties so capably he has rendered to this Board, to the Association and to our citizens generally a very great service."

Mr. Frederick will close his official services September 1st, and while his successor, has not as yet been called, several available men are being communicated with from among whom the right man, it is hoped, will be secured.

In leaving the work officially, Mr. Frederick takes the best wishes and fervent thanks of the Board for faithful work rendered at a critical period of The Association.

NEW

Post Toasties

No other flaked corn food on the market shares this honor---no other equals it in form and flavor.

Several distinctive features characterize this new and economical food delicacy.

Old style "corn flakes" do not possess much real flavor of their own. Old fashioned methods of making didn't bring it out. They depended largely for their taste on the sugar and cream, or milk, you ate with them. You were never asked to test the flavor by eating them dry.

We want you to test New Post Toasties by eating some dry, fresh from the package. You'll get the flavor at once. The new way of cooking, rolling and toasting under quick, intense heat brings out the natural goodness of the grain.

New Post Toasties do not mush down when milk or cream is added. They don't crumble or "chaff" in the package. There's substance to them—so wonderfully delicious as to make you call for more.

Usually it gets precious little thought.

In the majority of cases NONE AT ALL.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

For further information apply to the nearest Canadian Northern Agent, or write to R. L. Fairbairn, General Passenger Agent, 68 King St., East Toronto. tues, thurs, sat.-tf

LOW FARE TO PORT ARTHUR

In conformance with its ever progressive Policy, The Canadian Northern Railway has inaugurated a low fare from all points east of Sudbury to Port Arthur, Ont., which makes the trip practically as inexpensive as the Boat Service on the Great Lakes, and being quicker, is bound to meet with considerable favor among busy men.

Those who have already made the trip by water will find a pleasant change, as this route is one of exceptional scenic charm, passing many beautiful Lakes and Streams, among the most notable being the Nipigon, famous to the world over for the wonderful trout fishing to be had in its waters.

Trains leave Belleville, Monday Wednesday and Friday.

Poisons left in the blood by deranged kidneys cause rheumatism, lumbago, backache and bodily pains.

This is best accomplished by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because of their combined action on liver, kidneys and bowels. The system is cleansed, the blood purified and the pains and aches disappear.

THIS IS THE 676TH DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

WHOLESALE MURDER.

When Germany crushed inoffending Belgium beneath the heel of the Prussian jackboot, she flung around the world a challenge to manhood. Prussian militarism, as it was faithfully portrayed in the scenes of Belgium's martyrdom, is nothing if not cowardly. The women and children of Belgium, like the women and children of the Lusitania, were its natural victims. The German from childhood is taught that his Kaiser is divinely appointed to rule him. His courage is fanatical, like that of the Turk. His patriotism is a strange religion, dulling his moral sense. He dons the military unfirm to become a beast, a pervert and a lunatic, clay in the hands of the mad potter who rules his country. He is in the grip of that abominable war machine German monarchs have been able to hammer out of a people that might have been of service to their kind, because the people did not possess sufficient individual courage to demand and secure their elementary political rights. The machine owns him, body and soul; makes use of him with a disregard of his personal feelings that he, as a German citizen, has invited and, if need be, murders him under the guns of the enemy.—Montreal Daily Mail.

The statement is well put. For every German subject who falls beneath the fire of the Allied guns, the cost of that soul lies at the door of the Prussian war machine, because of the motive which prompted the onslaught of the vicious German monarchy—murder in its very essence. It is decreed by royal command that the manhood of Germany shall give its life for its country; but in this great war, for the slaughter of every German, of every Belgian, of every Britain, of every Frenchman, Russian, and Serbian, the Kaiser and his advisers are fundamentally responsible, and must pay the mighty penalty at the great summing up.

Great Britain answered the cry of Belgium for protection against the most atrocious outrage upon a peaceful nation the world has ever known. In stepping into the breach the man in khaki symbolizes the coontention of freedom against tyranny, the protest of outraged civilization against despotism and national greed. Side by side with the valiant French soldier, he with each blow serves notice on the Kaiser that the war lord's challenge is accepted in behalf of the weak whose rights the Prussian disregards, that there are men to-day prepared at whatever sacrifice to go to the aid of those in distress, content and eager to match the Prussian beast with the British repudiation.

" The man in khaki is the chosen instrument of the British people to express their contempt for German brutality and their repudiation of German ambitions, and to demonstrate their undoubted power to meet and master the Prussian menace," concludes the Mail.

He is a product of an old-age struggle with tryranny during which the spirit in action against Kaiser to-day has always triumphed because it inspires a more potent form of courage than tyranny will ever produce. But we repeat, for every one of these gallant warriors who meets death upon the battlefield or upon the sea, the Prussian war lord, as his murderer, must pay the price.

A REFERENDUM.

" It is noteworthy," says the Kingston Standard, " that Mr Jas. A. Norriss, President of the Central Conservative Association of Toronto, made vacant by the death of the late Hon. J. J. Foy, has come out in favour of submitting to the people a referendum on prohibition as well as a question as to whether or not they favour a beer and wine license. Whether Mr Norris is speaking only for himself or is foreshadowing probable action by the Ontario Government is not clear, but his suggestion is at least interesting, since it coincides with the views of many people who feel that a referendum might very well be taken on the prohibition question in view of the fact that there seems to be very strong diversity of opinion on the whole issue. If this were done the Government would then have a clear mandate from the people as to what course they should or should not follow, while if it is done those temperance Liberals who, having successfully urged the Government to take action along its present lines then turned upon the Government and voted against it, will have themselves to thank for thus endangering the cause of prohibition.

" Pity of it is," continues our contemporary, " that in a time like this people who profess to love temperance and to hold it most dear to their hearts seem, nevertheless, to be disposed to put their politics before their temperance principles, and to play the political game no matter what the cost. It is a sorry exhibit."

HELP THE FIRE SUFFERERS.

Two public spirited citizens of St. Thomas, Ont., have undertaken the task of collecting clothing and other supplies for the relief of the fire sufferers in Northern Ontario. These gentlemen are to be praised for their efforts in this direction, and it is to be hoped that the response to their appeal will not be confined to St. Thomas, but spread throughout the Province.

The beneficial thing in connection with providing relief for the Northern Ontario fire sufferers is promptness. The goods are needed now, not a week or a month hence. The unfortunate people who have lost their all as a result of the great conflagration, are in sore need of assistance. The hearts of our people go out to the sufferers in a general sense, but let the feeling be practical to the extent of action. The little each of us are able to do in providing them with food, clothing and money is but small recompense for the loss they have sustained.

" Any effort to throw the blame of the nickel situation on the Conservative administration," says the Brantford Courier, " fails of the attempted mark. The outbreak of hostilities illumed the nickel situation as it did so much else, and then outside interests had control, with the refining done in the States. To cut it off at once would have been to hit the Allies as hard as anyone. However, drastic steps, satisfactory to the British Government, were then taken to keep supplies from the Huns, and now the Conservative Government at Ottawa and the Conservative Government at Toronto, have got together and have persuaded the International Nickel Company and the British-American Nickel Company to establish plants in the Dominion." The Courier should remember the Scriptural admonition that " there is none so deaf as he that will not hear, or so blind as he who will not see." When the Grits credit the Borden Government with a something well and faithfully done, jot it down that the millennium is at hand.

Toronto Globe: In Everyman, a well-known British journal of foreign opinion on matters connected with the war, there appeared recently an interview given shortly after the war began by Prince Henry of Germany to a distinguished Italian naval officer. Prince Henry of Germany, a younger brother of the German Emperor, is the Commander-in-chief of the German high sea fleet. Asked by him what he thought of the newest dreadnoughts and submarines, and of the arsenal he had been permitted to visit, the Italian officer replied: " I have found your submarines admirable and your arsenal wonderfully organized, but as for your dreadnoughts, how much money and work have been squandered! " It may seem strange, but the fact is that this opinion was strongly endorsed by Prince Henry. " Our dreadnoughts are shut up here at Wilhelmshaven, and the number of our submarines is insufficient, though we are building furiously. The dreadnoughts are a nightmare to me."

Current Comment

The Berlin Tageblatt announces that the German submarine Bremen, which was to have arrived at an American port, has been sunk through an accident to her machinery, according to a despatch received yesterday afternoon.

The submarine which shelled and sank a helpless Italian passenger liner, killing many non-combatants, will probably turn out to be a Bulgarian. We believe no notes of warning have been sent to Bulgaria.—Montreal Star.

A league has been formed in Edmonton for the purpose of having " interest on loans and mortgages entirely extinguished during the war." There are evidently some people in the same place who stand still more in need of extinguishment.—Brantford Courier.

Wheat quotations in the United States are perceptibly stiffening as a result of increasing reports of black rust in the spring wheat area. The grain-grower of the Canadian West will secure a most profitable price this season for his product. Rust has not yet made great headway this side of the border.—Toronto Globe.

The London Daily Mail quotes the Cologne Gazette of August 4 as saying that the food restrictions in Germany have brought many benefits in their train; that double chins and "corporations" have disappeared from Germany and it has been noticed that the popular health is rapidly improving.

North Bay is putting forward strong claims for the establishment of the nickel refinery there. A Parry Sound resident makes similar claims on behalf of that place. Much is to be said in favour of locating the refinery in Northern Ontario. It would be near the nickel supply, and at a safe distance from the frontier. It would also promote development of the northern country and would create a new market for its agricultural products.—Toronto Star.

The Poets' Corner

"NO MAN'S LAND."

No Man's Land is an eerie sight,
At early dawn in the pale gray light,
Never a house and never a hedge
In No Man's Land from edge to edge,
And never a living soul walks there
To taste the fresh of the morning air,
Only some lumps of rotting clay,
That were friends or foemen yesterday.

What are the bounds of No Man's Land?
You can see them clearly on either hand,
A mound of rag-bags gray in the sun,
a furrow of brown where the earthworks run
From the eastern hills to the western sea,
Through field or forest, o'er river and lea;
No man may pass them, but aim you well
And Death rides across on the bullet or shell.
But No Man's Land is a goblin sight
When patrols crawl over at dead o' night,
Boche or British, Belgian or French,
You dice with death when you cross the trench.
When the "rapid," like fire-flies in the dark,
Flits down the parapet spark by spark,
And you drop for cover to keep your head
With your face on the breast of the four months' dead.

The man who ranges in No Man's Land
Is dogged by the shadows on either hand
When the star-shell's flare, as it bursts o'erhead,
Scares the great gray rats that feed on dead,
And the bursting bomb or the bayonet-snatch
May answer the click of your safety-catch,
For the lone patrol, with his life in his hand,
Is hunting for blood in No Man's Land.
—J. Knight-Adkin, in the Spectator.

What's become of the old-fashioned woman who always came down town with her shirt waist half-unbuttoned down the back?

SUFFERED FROM BACKACHE, RHEUMATISM, DROPSY.

Dear Mr. Editor—I wish to tell you of a recent experience I had when suffering from backache, weak back, rheumatism, dropsy, and congestion of the kidneys. I tried a new medicine called "Anuric," which has recently been discovered by Dr. Pierce, of whose medicines and Surgical Institution in Buffalo, N. Y., you have no doubt heard for years. This medicine acted upon me in a wonderful manner. I never have taken any medicine so helpful in such quick time. I do wish anyone in need of such a remedy would give it a trial.

(Signed) G. H. HERR.

NOTE: Folks in town and adjoining counties are delighted with the results they have obtained by using "ANURIC," the newest discovery of Dr. Pierce, who is head of the INVALIDS' HOTEL and SURGICAL INSTITUTE, in Buffalo, N. Y. Those who started the day with a backache, stiff legs, arms and muscles, and an aching head (worn out before the day began because they were in and out of bed half a dozen times at night) are appreciating the perfect rest, comfort and new strength they obtained from Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets. To prove that this is a certain uric acid solvent and conquers headache, kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism, if you've never used the "Anuric," cut this out and send ten cents to Doctor Pierce for a large sample package. This will prove to you that "Anuric" is thirty-seven times more active than lithia in eliminating uric acid—and the most perfect kidney and bladder corrector. If you are a sufferer, go to your best druggist and ask for a 50-cent box of "Anuric." You run no risk for Dr. Pierce's good name stands behind this wonderful new discovery as it has for the past half century for his "Golden Medical Discovery" which makes the blood pure, his "Favorite Prescription" for weak women and "Pleasant Pellets" for liver ills.

EXPERTS IN TRACKING.

Australian Natives of Both Sexes Trained From Childhood.

On many occasions they have performed feats which are almost beyond belief. But to them the work is quite habitual. The boys are taught to track from birth.

The women are just as expert as the men. Horse tracks are child's play to them. They can track a horse at full gallop. They can track anything—possums, snakes, iguanas, even beetles leave sufficient trail for them to work on.

The standard of honor among these tribes is high. When one of them breaks their strict code, fearing the wrath of the tribe, he bolts and, knowing he will be pursued, uses all his knowledge in an effort to elude those in search of him. But it is questionable if there is a single case on record where he escaped.

What might be called classes in tracking are held for the youngsters. The tutor will get them in a body and then disappear into the bush and do everything he can to make them lose his tracks. He will tiptoe along fallen logs, swim a quarter of a mile along a stream, double on his tracks, and so on.

Finally he returns to the boys, who then set out to pick up the tracks.

His Painful Specialty.

"My second cousin, Perry Petty, for years kept a series of diaries," related H. H. Harsh, "and had a habit of producing and disproving thereby almost every reminiscence that was uttered in his presence. He seemed to feel that it was his duty to do so. His funeral was the largest ever held in the neighborhood where he had resided, people coming for many miles to pay their last tributes of respect to a conscientious man and to see for themselves that he absolutely was dead."

Does Anger Correct?

Not so long ago we passed a small garden in which stood a sunny haired baby plucking from a rose the bright red petals and watching them float like fairy boats to the green grass at her feet. Then came a storm and a tragedy. A dark being sprang from nowhere with a terrible shadow upon his face and harsh words upon his lips. The being shook the baby roughly by the arm. The baby was smiling like an angel. There was anger in that clutch at the rose child's arm, and there was a blow in the words that accompanied the grasp. Then the creature went away, and we rubbed our eyes in wonder because it was dressed like a woman.

Clothed by the Year.

At one time tailors used to help a man to dress cheaply by taking back his old clothes. An advertisement in the Times of Nov. 19, 1834, states that "gentlemen can, if they choose, be dressed by contract. Two suits per year, 6 guineas; extra fine quality, the very best, 7 guineas; three suits, 10 guineas; four suits, 12 guineas, the old suit to be returned before a new one is obtained." Overcoats were obtainable on the same system, but clients were specially recommended the advertiser's "Spanish cloaks of superfine blue cloth, a complete circle of nine and a half yards, 4 guineas." Apparently these would never wear out.—London Globe.

And He Knew It.

The Professor—I'm afraid, my dear young lady, that you find statistics very dry things. The Dear Young Lady—Not always. Lieutenant Smyth told me there were 1,000,000,000 people in the world and that I was the prettiest girl of the lot.—London Opinion.

An Uncanny Custom.

In ancient Egypt at the end of a fashionable dinner a mummy richly painted and gilded was presented to each guest in turn by a servant, who said: "Look on this. Drink and enjoy yourself. For such as it is now, so thou shalt be when thou art dead."

A FATAL BARGAIN

OR

THE MAN WHO DARED FATE

BY

NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are, published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

The man with the bludgeon darted out to the entrance of the alley, where he immediately uttered a low whistle.

The sidewalk in both directions was deserted.

The covered wagon, already an advantage to Nick, was drawn up to the curbing, now to be used to his disadvantage.

In response to the signal, the two men in the alley quickly bore his senseless form to the street, and in a moment he was whisked across the sidewalk and rudely dumped into the body of the wagon. The three men now clambered in with amazing agility, and the vehicle rattled rapidly down the street.

Less than two minutes had passed, in fact, since Nick Carter entered the dismal alley—only to leave it in this fashion.

"Dead men tell no tales, it's said," remarked one of the ruffians, with a laugh that mingled with the rattling of the wheels. "But dead bodies sometimes tell nasty stories, for all that, so we'll make sure this one never yips on us."

"He's not dead, is he, Peter?" asked Tony, so called, the one who had struck Nick.

"Give it up. We'll see about that a little later."

"Great Scott, I hope he's not! It's two thousand volts for that."

"Rats!" sneered the other. "Who's to know of it? We're all in the same boat, and none would squeal. Hang it, Tony, do you know who he is?"

"You say."

"Nick Carter—that's who."

"Get out!"

"Ask Pat. He knows."

"That's right, Tony, and Petes no liar," said Selkirk, who was the man driving the wagon. "Let my black-eyed baby alone to have lit on the truth."

"Hang it, Pat, what's become of her?" demanded the first speaker. "I'd forgotten about her."

"Oh, you needn't bother over her," said Selkirk pointedly. "She'll dust on her own hook. Trust her to get back into town, Coyle, and to trot safe without an escort. She's out of the house and well away by this time."

If Nick Carter could have heard this intercourse, carried on amid the rumbling of the wagon, he would have known at once, despite that each of the gang was disguised, the identity of two of its number.

One, Patrick Selkirk, husband of the woman who had lured him into the trap.

Another, Mr. Peter Coyle, of the firm of McNulty, Cassidy & Coyle, contractors; the man who now appeared to be directing the rascally work of this particular night.

Very little more was said during the ride that followed. The course taken was toward the river, into one of the lower sections of the city, and the team presently stopped briefly at a gate in a high board fence, fully a hundred yards in length, built along one side of the narrow, poorly lighted street.

One of the gang leaped down and quickly unlocked the gate, through which the wagon was hurriedly driven, and the gate closed and locked again. Within was a yard lying along the river. On all sides were evidences of a great work that was being done. Several sheds and temporary wooden buildings were in the yard, beyond which could be seen a portion of Harlem River, with pile drivers and dredges dimly discernible in the near distance.

"We'll lug him into the tool shed and tie him up," growled Coyle, with a wave of his hand toward a low building close upon the river. "Look lively, boys, and then get the wagon out of sight."

They worked with dispatch, these ruffians, and the wagon was speedily backed up at the door of the shed mentioned. Coyle unlocked the door and quickly lighted a lantern found within.

A moment later Nick Carter, still limp and unconscious, was rudely hauled from the wagon and carried into the dim and dismal place.

CHAPTER XVI.

In The Toils

Returning consciousness brought Nick Carter a keen appreciation of disagreeable conditions. Those predominating were an aching head, a realization that he was tied hand and foot with stout cords, that his coat and linen were drenched, the result of a bucket of water poured over his head, and that several scowling men were gathered around him, evidently waiting impatiently for him to revive.

"Pipe his lamps," one suddenly exclaimed, seeing Nick's eyelids begin to flutter. "He's coming back to earth. A man's all right when his peepers begin to get busy."

"Hold your tongues, all of you. I will do the talking."

Peter Coyle uttered the last remark with authoritative curtness. It was to this man that Nora Selkirk had commanded her husband to hasten, intimating that he was the right man for a rascally job. How well it was planned, and how expeditiously done, has appeared.

Though he was well disguised, as were the three men who had assisted him, the knavish qualities of Coyle were manifest in his eyes and voice, the one as coldly sharp as a cambric needle, the other as sinister as a serpent's hiss. He was a finely built man, however, of unusual height and breadth, and set up like an athlete.

Nick's gaze fell at once upon this man when he opened his eyes. Still considerably dazed, his first thought was of Percival Fenno, an impression probably occasioned by the likeness of their figures. His second thought, however, with mind cleared and blood stimulated by the first, was how nearly he resembled Fenno—when the latter briefly stood in disguise which he admitted having used that day, and allowed the detective to replace when interrogating Jackson, the servant, who had been intercepted when bringing whisky to the room just before the crime.

So stimulating were these impressions, despite his condition and surroundings, that Nick instinctively and almost instantly asked himself three questions:

Was Jackson, who had declared Fenno to be the man who intercepted him, deceived by this same likeness?

Was this man now in disguise—one used on the day of the murder, one almost precisely like that worn by Percival Fenno?

Might not his man, then, have been the murderer of Judge Ormsby Packard?

These very pertinent questions were not verbally framed in Nick's mind. They swept through it like vivid impressions, yet were he more effective on that account. Before he could reason upon them, or size up the man carefully, however, Coyle stepped nearer and said with sinister bluntness:

"So you've pulled yourself together, eh?"

Brought back to his own situation, and with his mind now tolerably clear, Nick glanced sharply around before he answered.

He beheld a rough interior, evidently that of a large shed. There was a broad door at each end of it, but no windows either in the walls or roof. It was lighted with a single oil lantern, placed on a box a few feet from another on which he was seated, with his back against one of the walls.

On all sides were quantities of tools of various kinds, picks and shovels, crowbars and sledges, axes and adzes, with no end of similar implements. A large windlass, with blocks, tackle, and huge coils of rope, occupied one corner. Near by were two huge tool boxes, such as bridge or road builders and masons often use for locking up their tools overnight on the scene of their work, instead of removing them to their headquarters.

Nick took in these surroundings at a glance, and at the same time heard the low swash of water amid the piles of a wharf or pier, on which he inferred that this shed for the storage of tools was located.

He saw also the three companions of the man who had impressed him so vividly, saw that each was darkly bearded, and he at once decided that all were disguised. He had hardly ended this swift survey of his surroundings when Coyle abruptly asked, with threatening asperity:

"What are you looking at? Can't you speak?"

"Yes," said Nick, with a quick stare at him. "I'm looking at you. But you'd not fancy hearing what I think."

"Hang what you think!" Coyle retorted. "It's little we care what you say or think. You'll do neither much longer."

"Then you're going to end me, and make a clean job of it. Is that what you mean?"

"Nothing less. You've hit it right."

"And you've made a good beginning of a bad job," Nick coolly retorted. "What's it all about?"

"You know."

"I know nothing I've done to warrant such treatment."

"You don't, eh?" Coyle returned, with a sneer. "Why were you chasing that woman to Dugan's hotel?"

"What woman?" Nick inquired, with affected innocence. "You'll have to explain more definitely."

"Oh, I guess not," Coyle exclaimed, with a threatening headshake. "That cuts no ice with us. We knew you, all right, and what you've been doing. We're wise to your game."

"Is that so?"

"You'll find it's so. You're Nick Carter, the detective, and you've been turning one of your crafty tricks in the character of another named Mouser. That's who and what you are."

"Well, I'm glad to know so much about myself," Nick said dryly, willing enough to prolong the conversation, hoping thus to get some definite clew to the identity of his captors, and all the while making mental notes of their physical characteristics for subsequent use.

What Am I?

That I'm the center of gravity I'm sure you'll allow;
Invaluable, being first in victory, all will avow.
A capital position in Vienna I hold;
Always in voice, though out of tune, behold!
Invisible, though in the midst of a river seen.
Oh, there are three in love with me, I
ween,
Although I've three associates in vice, you say.
It is vain to seek me, for let me tell you,
pray,
That I've been in heaven since ages have gone by,
And embalmed in the grave even now I lie.

The Salad Bowl.

Shrimp Salad.—A can of shrimp, three boiled eggs, boiled thirty minutes. Slice eggs, mix with shrimp; then turn over the whole a dressing made of an egg, a dessertspoonful cornstarch, half teaspoonful salt, pinch red pepper, a tablespoonful butter. Mix quickly and well and stir all into half a cupful of hot vinegar. When cold mix with a cupful of cold cream.

Apple and Celery Salad.—Slice the tops from four large apples and scoop out the pulp. Mix this with a cupful of crisp celery cut into small bits and broken English walnut meats. Then add mayonnaise dressing made without mustard. Fill the apple shells with this mixture, put on the tops and serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

Oyster Salad.—A large can oysters, six soda crackers, six stalks of celery. Roll crackers fine, chop oysters, leaving two or three for garnishing. Chop white part of celery and two hard boiled eggs. Mix well, adding salt and pepper. For dressing cook two well beaten eggs in a cupful vinegar, add a piece of butter size of a walnut and flavor with liquid from oysters. Pour over the oysters and garnish with sliced hard boiled eggs.

Tuna Fish Salad.—Materials—A tablespoonful gelatin, one-quarter cupful water, three-quarters cupful water, three-quarters cupful cooked salad dressing, a cupful flaked tuna fish, one-half cupful chopped celery, one-half green pepper shredded fine, two tablespoonfuls chopped olives, one-quarter teaspoonful paprika, one-half teaspoonful salt, two teaspoonfuls vinegar. Utensils—Two bowls, knife, spoon. Directions—Soak gelatin in two tablespoonfuls cold water ten minutes, then dissolve in two tablespoonfuls hot water. If necessary set cupful in hot water. Add dissolved gelatin to salad dressing. When it begins to thicken add fish, celery, pepper, olives, and seasonings. Mold and chill. Remove from mold and garnish with one or two lettuce leaves, pickles, celery tips, and rings of pimentos.

A DOMESTIC ONE.

HOW SHE MADE LOVEBIRD PIE

Miss Hedman, who is the only actress who ever baked a cake in a glass dish, sold a piece of the delicacy to an elderly man who visited her booth, next to the authors and artists' booth. He was a little man with a fringe of hair as white as the serge suit he wore. A single medal stood out in bold relief on his left breast. He had given his quarter for the slice of cake so eagerly that Miss Hedman began extolling the virtues of a lovebird pie, a flaky crust over a glass bowl in which were two live birds, urging him to buy the pie and throwing in such an inducement as an autographed picture of herself. As she talked merrily on her visitor munched his cake, masticating each small bit thoroughly. At the end of several minutes he was still eating calmly, and as Miss Hedman glanced at the portion that remained undevoured there may have been just a suggestion of impatience in her eye. At any rate, her customer handed her his card, which read, "Horace Fletcher, A. M., Food Economist." Then it rushed across the actress' consciousness that the man fletcherizing his cake was he who had taken the joy out of life—and probably putting much health into it—for many by scaring them into eating slowly.

Baby Things.

In the craze for quilts baby's interests should not be neglected, as he will perhaps have more use than his elders for such a comfortable, even during the warmer months. A most effective modern version of the old time quilt is made of blue chambray, with a white band near the edge, which crosses at the corners. In the center of the quilt are three saucy bedtime babies in nighties, not forgetting the caps, and each carries a lighted candle. White chambray is used to depict this and is appliqued to the blue background. Extra touches of color are put in with embroidery outline. Below the figure runs the legend, "The Sandman Is Coming."

A toy that the baby will probably take to bed as well as play with in the daytime is a linen doll made by joining two tinted and embroidered pieces of material together to form the front and back of the doll and inclosing beans, for the character doll is really a bean bag.

Secret of French Frying.

The secret of successful French frying is to have the lard so deep that it entirely covers what you wish to fry and so hot that it will instantly form a crust over the entire surface of the article that is immersed in it. If further cooking is necessary the heat should immediately be reduced.

The best frying is done by plunging the article entirely in boiling fat. All too often French fried potatoes are merely slices softened in grease. Boiling grease does not enter articles plunged into it, but forms a crust on the surface which keeps out the fat. A well fried article, prepared in the French manner, will hardly soil the napkin on which it is laid. Either lard or drippings may be used for this purpose. Test the heat with a bit of bread an inch square. If it browns in one minute the heat is right.

Corn Chowder.

Fry a half pound of diced salt pork in a big saucepan until brown. Add one sliced onion and cook until light brown. Then add four sliced potatoes that have been parboiled ten minutes, a can of corn or corn cut from cob and a pint of boiling water. Cook until the vegetables are tender, then add a quart of rich milk, pepper, salt and a half dozen crackers which have been soaked in a little milk. Serve with a cracker on each dish of soup.

The truth is always the strongest argument.—Sophocles.

Tame Silk.

There is more silk in the world than the silkworm ever knew. As a matter of fact, much of the "silk" which is worn is merely guncotton in a new dress. It is merely cotton dissolved in a bath of nitric acid, kept water free by the strongest vitriol. The jellylike result is then forced through very minute tubes, and the fine threads so produced are dropped into water and rendered innocuous by ammonium sulphide. This "tame silk" has a fine luster and has all the flexibility of the worms' work. In fact, so close is the resemblance that it needs an expert to distinguish them.—London Chronicle.

She Liked Gloom.

It is a matter for thankfulness that widows of this generation are more sensible than the dowager Countess of Buchan, who passed away in the year 1786.

On the death of her husband she dressed herself entirely in black crape, engaged two black servants to wait upon her, ate nothing but black puddings and drank for one whole year nothing but black cherry brandy. Yet she survived this gloomy diet twenty-one years before the grim reaper gathered her in.—T. P.'s London Weekly.

Blunt.

Jones' opinion of himself as a golfer was very much greater than his skill warranted, and he had been invited to play on a certain famous Scottish ground as a visitor. Armed to the teeth with clubs of all sorts and sizes, he set off and, followed by a caddy, proceeded to play.

He buried his ball in every bunker, gully and bit of rough grass on the landscape and muttered naughtily. After half an hour of it he turned to his silent caddy.

"Really," he murmured ingratiatingly, "this is the most difficult course I have ever played on."

"Hoo did ye ken?" replied the lad, in scorn. "Ye hevna played on it yet!"

TWO BIRD GIRLS.

Aviation Is Said to Be Woman's Coming Profession.

"IT'S SUCH FUN TO FLY."

Already Two Women Are Making Exhibition Flights, and One Family, Two of Them Girls, Has Founded a School of Aviation In Texas.

Dressed in riding breeches and a natty Norfolk jacket and armed with (harmless) bombs, which she dropped over Manhattan, Miss Vera Pearce, accompanied by P. C. Millman, recently flew from Mineola, N. Y., over New York and around Battery park in a biplane.

Miss Pearce has a rival in this new field of enterprise for young women. Miss Katherine Stinson.

At Sheepshead Bay speedway this young lady, not yet twenty-one years old and weighing only 104 pounds, recently made two long, loose circles of the speedway. On the third time around, when she was about 2,000 feet above the imitation fort they were building for the flying exhibition, she made a swallow's smooth downward curve, then sheered up and back over her own path, her head and the upper part of her machine downward toward the ground. For a moment the engine stopped; then the tune of it began again. Katherine Stinson for the several hundredth time had looped the loop, and three minutes later she landed without even a jolt. She had been up less than ten minutes.

MISS VERA PEARCE.

Miss Stinson wears no elaborate aviation wardrobe.

Often she doesn't even tuck her curls under her close fitting hood. She wears a short khaki skirt, high heeled boots and the two warmest coats she can find. Sometimes she wears riding breeches, but she doesn't in the least object to a skirt. She never allows wind or clouds to interfere with her flights. "But I don't like rain," she confessed. "It hurts. It feels exactly like sleet when you fly in it."

Besides looping the loop, she has carried United States mail, dropped bombs, made night flights, flown with her plane upside down and performed a number of other "stunts." "They always want some fancy thing thrown in at the exhibitions," she admitted carelessly.

"My sister Marjorie is only eighteen, and she's a flier. My brother Edwin is twenty-three, and he flies. In San Antonio, Tex., we three are running the Stinson school of aviation. I have another brother fifteen years old, but he wants to go to West Point. My people on both sides fought in the civil war.

For the Creeping Baby.

Here is an interesting suggestion for the young mother with the active, creeping baby: Get a good sized gray blanket, preferably woolen. Cut out the pictures from a cloth nursery picture book and sew them to the blanket. The bright pictures will attract baby's attention, and he will pat and pick at them by the hour and keep perfectly contented on his soft, warm, creeping rug. This idea may also be used in connection with the baby fence, for baby may be left inside the fence with his pictorial floor covering and run no risks of falling on sharp playthings.

WINE JELLY.

Directions How to Make This Delicacy For Your Dinner Dessert.

Half pint of lemon juice, one-fourth pint of sherry, one and one-fourth pints of water, one-half pound of cube sugar, one and one-half ounces of gelatin (unless in warm weather; then two ounces), whites and shells of two eggs. Peel the rind of the lemons very thin and put them in a clean saucepan which has been rinsed out with boiled water and not dried. Put in the sugar, gelatin and two-thirds of the liquid and stir gently until all are dissolved. Take the whites and shells of the eggs, the shells slightly crushed, add the rest of the liquid and whip until there is a froth on top. Then mix in with the gelatin and continue whipping until the whole froths well, but be sure to stop beating before it comes to a boil. Let it continue boiling gently for about five minutes, then leave to settle before straining. If you have not got a regular jelly bag strain through a double fold of cheesecloth, but whatever you use be sure to scald it well by pouring boiling water through before putting in the hot jelly. Empty the bowl under the jelly bag, drain well, but do not clog. Ladle the jelly into the cloth very gently, and do not do the straining in a cool place or in a draft, as it must be kept hot. If it is not quite clear at the first straining let it run through a second time.

Get Plenty of Sleep.

There is nothing so fatal to beauty as sleepless nights. Give up tea and coffee entirely. If possible, all mental work must be laid aside for a few hours before going to bed. Do not have any amusement that will excite the nerves. The things that you can do to induce sleep are many. Take plenty of brisk exercise in the open air. Before retiring take a hot foot bath. This will draw the blood away from the brain, which is a necessary condition for sleep. A cold douche on the spine is another method you can give with a bath spray. General baths should be warm. Sleeping rooms should be well ventilated and cool. Do not eat immediately before retiring. A glass of warm milk will overcome insomnia after other suggestions have failed.

Plain Loaf Sponge Cake.

Break the five eggs into a bowl; add one cupful of sugar and a pinch of salt and beat for fifteen minutes. Sift the flour and add to the eggs and sugar, folding in very lightly; do not beat after adding the flour. Line a pan nine inches square, or a brick pan, with paper, pour in the mixture and bake for forty minutes. Flavor to taste.

Delight Cake.

One cupful of sugar, one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, sifted together; one tablespoonful of butter in cup, melt. Break egg in butter, fill up with milk. Flavor. Beat all well. This cake calls for only one egg. Bake in moderate oven.

SUMMER PORCHES

The Luxury of Living Outdoors In Hot Weather.

WHAT PAINT WILL DO.

Get Out Your Old Chairs, Buy Two New Wickers, Give Them a Green Coat and Then Dress Them Up In Gay Chintzes.

It seems a pity that all country homes are not built with roomy, spacious piazzas. After all, the principal reason that any one has for living in the suburbs and going through all the trouble of commuting is because he wants to live in the country. Of course six months in the year it is too cold to sit out of doors, but when spring comes the suburbanite wants to enjoy the country to the utmost. He cannot do this by sitting indoors, certainly. He wants to read his paper and smoke his pipe where he can see nature's beauties spread all out before his eyes—namely, on the porch.

Modern architects are realizing more and more the need for big porches, no matter how small the house. Of course the suburbanite who owns his own home can always add to the porches if he wishes. But the others must make the most of what they have and do the best they can to make their piazza cozy and comfortable, no matter how small it may be.

You women who live in the country will find that a can or two of paint and a bolt of pretty chintz will do much to transform your porch furniture. If you have no comfortable chairs for piazza use do buy one or two. They need not be expensive pieces, but be sure they are comfortable and have pretty lines.

The wicker or reed furniture is really the most attractive for verandas, and it is not at all expensive.

You need not worry if you have two or three pieces of one kind and a couple of pieces of another variety. After you have given them all a coat of the same paint and made chintz cushioned seats and backs for them they will look enough alike to fool any casual eye. Besides, no one expects rigid formality in porch decorations.

If your house is white or gray you will find that green porch furniture will look best. Give all the chairs, tables and settees a coat of green paint and one of green enamel paint. The chintz for green furniture should contrast with it, and a figure with a good deal of red in it will be found most effective.

It may be wisest to have a cheap upholsterer make the seat cushions and backs if you are afraid to tackle so tricky a job. Have them made with some white goods as a cover. Then you can yourself make slip covers of the chintz for them. The reason why it is better not to have the chintz put right on as the first cover of the cushions is because it may soil very quickly, being where the street dust can easily reach it. If the chintz is made into slip covers they can be removed and washed when soiled.

If your house is any other color except white or gray brown porch furniture is prettiest. So you can paint your furnishings brown and use almost any gayly colored, pretty bright chintz for cushions.

A PROUD LADY.

SHADOW EMBROIDERY.

How to Make This Fascinating Work on Blouse Fronts.

Not for many years has shadow embroidery been in favor, but this season one sees it here and there on many organdie and voile frocks. When the work is done in colors it is most effective.

As the name indicates, the work is done on the wrong side of the material, and in order for its shadow to be visible on the right side the material must necessarily be thin and sheer. A practical idea if you intend to do the work in colors is to hold different shades of the color or colors you intend to use beneath your material. You can then tell how the finished work will look.

The work done on the wrong side of the material is nothing more than the herringbone stitch. Learn how to do this. Practice on a sample of material before actually doing the work. To make the directions clear just imagine you are working on a long, narrow leaf. To make the herringbone stitch put the needle through at the left hand end of the lower line, slant the silk obliquely upward across the space to the upper line and take a short stitch from right to left on the upper line. With the same slant cross the silk to the lower line and take a second short stitch from right to left. Proceed in this manner across the space, keeping the slant true and the length of the stitch even.

Now, there is just one difference in the herringbone stitch and the stitch used for the shadow embroidery. That is that the stitches are placed closer together, so that a solid effect is gained on the right side. Aim to let the work on the right side show lines of little forward stitches of uniform size and exactly on the lines of the design.

If you desire to insert veins in the leaves these should be worked before the petal is covered on the wrong side. For the veins use the back stitch.

French knots placed within the leaves and petals of a flower add materially to the effect of the shadow work.

Individuality In Dress.

The "magpie" effect, as it has come to be called, does not by any means imply a harsh and emphatic contrast of dead black and white, though this contrast is often used very effectively in tailored effects and in sport wear. There are any number of soft gradations of tone produced by veiling white with black lace or net, weaving white and black threads together, and the like. A well known French actress adheres rigidly to a particular color scheme in dress, and she wears nothing but black, white, blue and green, yet it is amazing how much variety there is in her wardrobe. Pearl, jet, silver, airy black tulle, rich black velvet, scintillating weaves of green and silver, white flowers with black or silver leaves—all these give her frocks and wraps a variety of color that is so entrancing that one never misses the pinks, yellows and lavenders worn by other women.

When Baking Cake.

The richer a cake the more easily it is spoiled if the oven is too hot. As soon as the cake has risen and become a light brown color the heat should be lessened by shutting off the drafts a little or opening a cold air draft. Then continue to bake the cake until a pointed skewer or broom straw can be stuck into the middle and withdrawn without uncooked paste sticking to it.

O'Connell as an Orator.

Few orators have been so fortunate as Daniel O'Connell in their physical appeal to the senses. Grattan, Curran, Emmet, Sheil and Meagher were small men, not the least impressive to the eye. O'Connell was a man of royal aspect. His voice was seductively musical—the most musical, according to Disraeli, ever heard in the house of commons. It was soft, of great compass, capable of expressing every imaginable emotion. His eyes, light in color and full, flashed or beamed or burned, according to the sentiment expressed. His contemporaries all mention the expressibility of his mouth. His gestures were free and bold, not in the least suggestive of elocution and yet infinitely graceful and apt. There was nothing in his manner indicative of preparation. His manner was easy and without effort. Wendell Phillips, who heard him, says in his lecture: "We used to say of Webster, 'This is a great effort,' of Everett, 'It is a beautiful effort,' but you never used the word 'effort' in speaking of O'Connell. It provoked you that he would not make an effort."—"The Irish Orators," by Claude G. Bowers.

The Evil Eye.

It is probable that the "evil eye," for which many hapless old women were harried to their death on the suspicion of witchcraft in "the good old days," was no more than a common squint, a "cast" in the eye, or "bossing," as it is called in many parts of the country to this day, writes Dr. N. Bishop Harman in the British Journal of Children's Diseases. Not only was the squint thought to be of evil significance, but the defect itself was considered to be the work of evil spirits. In "King Lear" we find the following in the scene on the heath at night:

"This is the foul fiend Flibbertigibbet. He begins at curfew and walks till the first cock; he gives the web and the pin, squints the eye and makes the harelip, mildews the white meat and hurts the poor creature of earth."

Knew His Man.

George Bubb, better known as Bubb Doddington, one of the wits of the eighteenth century, always dined well and always liked to doze after the repast. Falling asleep one day after dinner with Sir Richard Temple and Lord Cobham, the latter reproached Doddington with his drowsiness. Doddington denied having been asleep and to prove he had not offered to repeat all Lord Cobham had been saying. Cobham challenged him to do so. Doddington repeated a story, and Lord Cobham owned he had been telling it. "Well," said Doddington, "and yet I did not hear a word of it, but I went to sleep because I knew that about this time of the day you would tell that story."

Lightning Rods.

There were no lightning rods in ancient times. The first one that the world ever saw was set up by our own illustrious countryman Benjamin Franklin shortly after the year 1752. He had just had his celebrated experiment with the kite, in which he demonstrated the identity of lightning with electricity, and was therefore prepared for the construction of the rods for which the world had waited so long. It is not generally known that Franklin was as distinguished in science as he was in statesmanship and diplomacy.—Exchange.

A Bright Outlook.

"Do you—er—do you think, Miss Dobleigh, that you will be—er—engaged next Thursday evening?" asked Tompy very bashfully.

"Well, really, Mr. Tompy," replied Ethel, "I don't know, but if you can get up spunk enough between now and then to do your share I think there's a fair prospect that I shall be."

And Tompy did.

Different Kinds.

"I had a tooth extracted yesterday," remarked the fussy man, "and the dentist gave me gas."

"Oh, that's nothing," rejoined the man with the bald spot. "Every time I get shaved the barber gives me a lot of it."—Indianapolis Star.

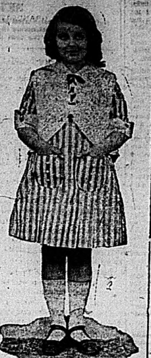
HER NEW JUMPER.

A Delectable Gown For the Small Girl's Vacation Days.

A one piece frock is cut with short sleeves and huge pockets, button trimmed. The fabric is a gray and white striped chambray. A quaint jumper vest of white pique is laced in front, breaking the striped effect and matching the cuffs. This simple model clever mothers can duplicate in any colored cotton material and is smart for summer wear.



VERY PROUD.

CHILDREN'S TEMPERATURE.

What to Do When Your Precious Has Symptoms of Illness.

Children have a great habit of running into a high fever upon the slightest provocation, and, while it is advisable for every mother to possess and to understand the use of a clinical thermometer, yet, on the other hand, the tale that is told by said instrument is likely to give the nervous parent many a qualm until she begins to realize that while a child's temperature mounts rapidly it also goes down quite as suddenly when the trouble, whatever it is, is under control.

On the other hand, when a child seems restless and peevish and heavy it is a great comfort to know by what is recorded by the thermometer whether there is something really the matter.

When the little thermometer registers between 99 and 100 degrees the patient needs watching, a good purgative being the first remedy in about every childish distemper. But if the mercury mounts over 100 degrees communicate with your doctor, and if it goes over 101 degrees have him pay a call at once.

Little children are singularly unable to tell their symptoms. They just know they feel "bad" without any clearly defined pain. Even a good sized child may have a high fever and an inflamed throat without appearing to feel anything but inertia; therefore the wise mother always examines the throat, including tonsils and tongue, and ascertains if there are signs of irritation. With this settled and the discovery of fever she is armed with answers to the first questions a physician will ask.

Rye Bread With Carraway Seed.

For one loaf made in the morning soften one cake of yeast in one-fourth cupful of lukewarm water. Mix thoroughly, then add a cupful lukewarm water, one-half teaspoonful salt, a tablespoonful carraway seeds, one and a half cupfuls white flour and enough sifted rye flour to make a dough that may be kneaded. Use white flour in kneading. Wash out the bowl, cover close and when double its bulk turn upside down on the board and roll under the hands to fit a French bread pan. Cover and when again light slash it three or four times across the top and bake the loaf about fifty minutes.

Making Beds.

To make up a bed so that it will be smooth, tuck the clothes in, one piece at a time, at the sides, and complete the work all but tucking the clothes in at the foot. Now draw the clothes down, one piece at a time, as taut as possible and tuck them in at the foot. The bed will be far nicer looking than would be otherwise possible. If the bed is of iron or brass, which does not permit of tucking in the coverlet, tuck in the other clothes as directed, placing the coverlet over all.

Silk Fiber Sweaters.

Some call them sport coats, and for summer they are just the thing. They come in copenhagen blue, green, salmon, rose, rose striped with white and purple with white. At $3.95 they have a half sash which is only in the back, and at $4.98 they have a full sash that ties in front.

The world is three-fourths water, but you can't blame a cow for what happens after the milk gets out of her jurisdiction.

Lashing a Lazy Liver with pills may give temporary relief—but the pill habit is not a health habit. It will put the liver out of business in time—and then everything else goes out of business. Get the health habit by eating Shredded Wheat Biscuit, the ideal hot-weather food, which contains more digestible, brain-making, muscle-building material than beefsteak or eggs. The tasty, delicious crispness of the baked wheat gives palate joy and stomach comfort. It supplies the maximum of nutriment in smallest bulk, and its daily use keeps the bowels healthy and active. "FOURTEEN-MILE WOODS."

So Pine Plains Was Called in the Early Days.

Since so much has been said regarding the new Camp Borden, the following early recollections of "Fourteen-mile Woods," as it was once called, sent in to The Toronto Globe by a correspondent, are interesting.

Leaving Toronto in March, 1848, the writer, with his brother, started on a tramp up north, our objective being St. Vincent, Grey County. We rode the first part of the way by stage behind a balky horse as far as Newmarket. Leaving there, we walked on to Holland Landing. Proceeding, we arrived at a tavern kept by a man named Kelley, on the edge of Pine Plains. There I remember tasting my first maple syrup after coming out from England. What the bed was like I forget, being too tired to care. We were glad to get a straw bed in those early days. After a good night's sleep we proceeded, entering Pine Plains, or "Fourteen-mile Woods" as it was then called. I well remember the long tramp through those dense pines, ever in the shade, and the scarcity of water. We walked miles, finally coming to a small creek crossed by a log bridge. Here we quenched our thirst. We continued our journey, and the next place reached was Jimmy Jack's, a well-known figure in those days. They had nothing to give us to eat but saleratus biscuit baked many days before and tasting sour. Tea and coffee fit to drink were unknown in those woods, but I remember he had a good well of water, where we refreshed ourselves. Those were the days men endured hardships. If our soldier boys had to tramp as we did in those days, take what they could get to eat, sleep on any kind of bed—no field kitchen to supply us with soup, nor ambulance waggons to follow us up in case we fell out on the trail. Yet who would give up the thoughts of those early days, the perfume of those pine woods, the peacefulness, the freedom, for the present days, when everything is military and the tramp of fighting men and the pound of guns fills the land.

An old man can only pray that the children of this generation and their children's children may see the day when war is blotted out and men may believe it is more blessed to give than to receive.

Preference for Westerners.

Western Canada candidates will get a preference on the four postgraduate fellowships which will be awarded next year by the University of Toronto, as a result of the generosity of Sir Edmund Osler, Mr. J. W. Flavelle and Colonel R. W. Leonard. President R. A. Falconer announces that westerners will be given a preference if they are able to fulfill the preliminary conditions. The fellowships will be tenable for one year, and if the work done is satisfactory they may be renewed.

No particular department has been fixed on by any of the donors of the fellowships, and the intention is to give them to candidates for the degree of Ph.D. The Board of Governors and the Senate of the University of Toronto accepted the fellowships at their last meeting, and free tuition will be given to the students to whom the awards are made.

This course is in pursuance of the policy advocated for several years by President Falconer. Following the establishment of a fellowship in the department of biochemistry by the Alumni of the University in the United States, a beginning has been made which the university authorities believe will be extended so that Canadian students will be able to pursue postgraduate studies to as good advantage in the University of Toronto as in the American seats of learning.

Sir Edmund Osler gave one of the fellowships, and the other two donors each presented one.

Apple Crop Disappointing.

"The apple crop of Ontario will not be nearly as heavy as at one time promised," reports Mr. P. W. Hodgetts, Director of the Fruit Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. "The 'drop' has been exceedingly heavy, and some sections have suffered severely from hail. About Oshawa a recent hailstorm covered a territory of ten square miles, and some of the best orchards in that district suffered very serious [illegible]. Taking the Province as a whole [illegible] look for something a good deal better than last year's very light yield."

"The apple crop in our district will not be materially different from that of last year, which means that [illegible] will not have more than 30 per cent. of a normal yield," says Mr. C. W. Gurney of Brant county. "Spraying was very much neglected in our section, and the June drop was heavy [illegible]

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

OFFICERS ANXIOUS TO GO WITH DRAFT

Among the applications being received by headquarters for officers to go overseas with the draft of nineteen officers which will be leaving in a few weeks are officers holding ranks as high as majors. Some have volunteered to go holding the rank of lieutenant but the following order implies that others wish to go over and hold their rank The order is as follows: It is published for the information of all concerned that a number of letters and telegrams are being sent by officers and others, to headquarters, asking for major, 3rd in command, assistant adjutants, etc., to be taken overseas, as a special case, and to point out that it has been decided some months ago, to make the establishment of all Canadian Divisions in the field, uniform, and that instructions were issued accordingly, and therefore, it is quite impossible to make any exceptions in individual cases, because the authorities have been notified that the establishment of officers of an infantry battalion cannot exceed 32, which includes a Chaplain, if one is authorized There would, therefore, be no means of paying additional officers, even if it were permitted to send them over. to France, and there would be no chance of a major, third in command, getting any employment. As above stated, therefore, it ir quite impossible to make any exceptions whatever.

If this matter is thoroughly understood by all concerned, it will save a great deal of time and trouble in Headquarters, asking for special cases to be considered.

COUNTIES ABLE TO RECRUIT FULL BATTALIONS

There seems to be a great deal of hesitation about authorizing new battalions to take the place of those which have gone overseas. Those at present at Valcartier are, according to a recent order, to be supplied with recruits from the home areas, but to date the strength has not been run up to such an extent that they are being overburdened with recruits.

According to the best information available, because of the fact that the final plans have not yet been made, there seems to be a great possibility of each county being allotted a company of a battalion. This county company will be recruited during the winter months, and at the opening of the spring camps four counties will unit to form a battalion. In cases where counties can supply men for more than a company, a second and a third company will then be authorized,, but in the majority of cases the commands will only be for companies of 250 men each. These will be treated as battalions at headquarters for the time being, but eventually they will be united into battalions.

The scheme will be on something the same principle as worked out last year with small groups situated in places that raise at least twenty men.

The selection of a battalion headquarters in this case would prove to be a difficult matter, and to secure the earnest co-operation of all concerned the headquarters for each unit will be directly at the district headquarters. The headquarters for each company will be selected by a committee of representative men acting in conjunction with the chief recruiting officer at Ottawa.

SCOTCH BATTALION HAS FINE ORCHESTRA OF 15 PIECES

The 154th Battalion has a splendid orchestra, which, though it has not made its official appearance at the camp on many occasions, should prove to be a very attractive feature of the Scotch unit. Capt. W. G. Robinson, adjutant of the battalion, is the leader and its members are all enlisted in the 154th. There are fifteen players, including violins, cornets, etc. The orchestra was of great assistance while the battalion was recruiting, but work has hindered much progress since coming under canvas. In the spare time, however, Capt. Robinson hopes to again bring it together and has called for a practice for Tuesday evening. It will likely be used as an entertainment to be given in the big tent of the battalion on Thursday evening.

The orchestra is really being put into shape for the big color presentation ceremony which is to take place soon. The date was originally set for August 18th but the arrangements were never made definitely. Owing to the fact that the 155th had the ceremony in Belleville and the 156th is to be Brockville, the 154th members will likely ask for it to take place in Cornwall.

NOW A GRANDFATHER

Lieut.-Col. McCammon, sanitary officer at the camp received a telegram on Monday from Herbert, Sask., which stated that his son, Dr. Gordon McCammon, graduate of Queen's University, had presented him with a grandson. He is the proudest officer at the camp.

TWO NEW BATTALIONS

Capt. J. J. Glass, formerly paymaster of the 109th Battalion, is making the necessary arrangements for a battalion to be formed in Lindsay and Haliburton. It is understood that he has been unofficially informed that a battalion will be authorized in the near future. Ex-Mayor Duffus of Peterboro, is, according to rumor, billed for the command of a battalion to be formed in the counties surrounding that city.

GO TO LEMOINE'S POINT

On Thursday and Friday the soldiers of Barriefield camp will be on one of the most extensive field manoeuvres yet carried out here. The infantry men will leave the camp on Thursday morning and march through the city to Lemoine's point where by the kind permission of Dr. D. A. Black the boys will pitch their camp. On Thursday evening some night manoeuvres will be carried out and on Friday the units will march back to Barriefield, arriving in the afternoon. It is about seven miles from the camp to the point.

NOTES

The School of Signalling will reopen for the new course on August 15th and already hundreds of applications have poured in for permission to attend. The new wireless course will open on August 8th.

A number of men of the 154th Battalion who were on farm furlough are returning to the battalion for duty.

Capt. B. H. MacConnell, on the staff o fthe chief recruiting officer, was in camp on Monday and tried to secure Sergt. (Shorty) Grant, of the Special Service Battalion, for work in the Ottawa office. The popular mascot and stenographer is undecided whether to accept.

Capt. Grierson, formerly commanding officer of the 53rd Battery, has reported for duty in command of the 74th Battery at Barriefield. Lieut. Mac Dougall and Lieut. McCurdy, formerly with the 13th Brigade at Petawawa, have reported for duty with the 74th Battery.

IN & ABOUT THE CITY

KILLED AND WOUNDED

In the Canadian casualty list published to-day appears the name of Pte. Roy G. Simmonds, Stirling, who is officially reported as dead. Pte. John P. Cunningham of Peterboro', is officially reported wounded.

FLOOD CARRIED OFF BIKE

When the big rain struck town yesterday afternoon a bicycle some one had left leaning against the curbing on Bridge street, started on a sail with the flood and never stopped until Front street was reached. Several cellars suffered from a superabundance of water, but no especial damage resulted.

ARRESTED FOR VAGRANCY

Mr. J. M. Truiasch, who is a constable in the employ of the G.T.R. system in Belleville, last night apprehended three young men on a charge of vagrancy. They gave their names as George Jessop, Herbert Bonliff, and James O'Connor, and aged respectively 17 and 18 years. This morning they appeared before Magistrate Masson and were remanded to jail for a week.

HEAVY DOWNPOUR OF RAIN

Belleville and vicinity was yesterday afternoon visited by a heavy downpour of rain, which will have a most beneficial effect upon outstanding crops. For some time rain fell in torrents filling gutters etc. In many parts of the city the water flowed over the sidewalks, and in some cases it entered places of business. A number of cellars were inundated to a considerable depth. No particular damage was done.

SEVERE WIND STORM

On Monday evening a severe electrical storm accompanied by a heavy wind, visited certain sections of North Hastings. Rain fell in considerable quantities whilst the wind did some damage, but not of a serious nature. A few barn doors in Rawdon Township were taken off, and hay which was scattered about several farms. In a few cases fields of gain were levelled but not seriously damaged.

Great Living Flag At The Exhibtion

One of the features of the Federation of Empire pageant at the Canadian National Exhibition this year will be a living flag, 150 x 100 feet, which will be unfurled at a moment when it will seemingly put a great loyal seal on "Federation" just prophetically proclaimed from the House of Parliament, which will form part of the background for the patriotic pageant. Several of the Colonies and Overseas Dominions, which will be represented in the Federation procession have sent greetings to Dr Orr and best wishes for the success of the Exhibition, together with official flags to be carried at the head of the continent representing them.

CREATED A WATER FALL

In some manner known only to itself yesterday's rain-storm entered the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, raced about the foot-track, dropped to the gym floor, went through the side door and flowed down the main stairway with the speed of a waterfall. "It was a beautiful sight for a time," remarked Secretary Frederick last evening, but "when it came to flooding the whole lower floor and taking possession of the kitchen, we objected and turned it out through the side door." No particular damage was done; just a little extra work mopping it up—that's all.

PAINFUL SWOLLEN VEINS QUICKLY RELIEVED AND REDUCED

Mrs. R. M. Remler of Federal, Kansas writes an interesting account of her success in reducing a severe case of enlarged veins that should be encouraging to others similarly afflicted. She suffered with badly swollen and inflamed veins (in fact one had broken), for more than seven years before she became acquainted with Absorbine Jr., and used it. Absorbine, Jr., was faithfully applied for several weeks and, to quote from her letter. "The large knots in the veins left, it was all nicely healed, and has not bothered me since."

Absorbine, Jr., is an antiseptic liniment—healing cooling and soothing. Safe and pleasant to use. $1.00 and $2.00 at your druggist's or postpaid. Liberal trial bottle postpaid for 10c. in stamps. W. F. Young, P.D.F., 457 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Can.

LETTERS FROM OVERSEAS

The following brief letter was received this morning by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Loyd, 20 Franklin Street, from their son Harold, who is a prisoner in Germany:

FROM PRIVATE H. LLOYD

Dear Mother and Father:—Is this anything like home? I am the one that really knows, but we cannot grumble as they treat us very well. All that I need is parcels, and send me a sweater coat, also two of my pictures. Seven others and myself were captured on the 2nd of June at Ypres, and it was some day, too. That were all that were left out of my company that we know of. We were some torn up rats; our clothes were like rags. J. J. coal boxes, whiz bangs, trench mortars, everything that he had came our way. A number of our boys were buried alive; that was from trench mortars and coal boxes. Did Bird Pope get through all right of the big 4th scrap? I saw B. B. and Carol Kiser.

Tell all the friends that I am well and alive. Tell Raymond I will come home in a few months. Tell all the boys at the mill that I am well and also give them my best regards. Percy Jones wishes to pay the same compliment to the same boys; he is here with me. Tell Mr. Burgess I send my best wishes to him also. I am sorry I canot say much as there is a limit. Love to all,

Your loving son and hero,
HAROLD.

SOLDIERS' WIFE ARRESTED

Alleged to Have Defrauded Patriotic Association

On the complaint of the Canadian Patriotic Association, Mrs. Annie Ross Foster, of Belleville, wife of a soldier at the front, was placed under arrest in Toronto charged with obtaining $16 by fraud from the association. It is alleged that the woman cashed a cheque for $16, her allowance, at Belleville and on arriving in Toronto wrote to the association complaining that she had not received it. The money was sent to her and officers were ordered to investigate.

When arrested the woman declared she had written to the association before receiving the first cheque. Upon investigation it was learned that the above facts were correct, and that the women in question will have to stand her trial on a charge of obtaining money by false misrepresentations.

Mrs. CHARLOTTE NEAL DIES AT WILMINGTON, DEL.

Body on Way To This City Where Interment Will Take Place

A telegram from Mr. Warren Handley, of Wilmington, Del., to his father, Mr. P. H. Handley, of this city, received yesterday, announced the death of Mrs. Charlotte Neal, widow of the late James Neal, who at one time was mechanical engineer for the Hon. Robert Read, in the old establishment on the Kingston Road. The whole family were active and devoted members of Bridge Street church. The body will arrive from Wilmington on Friday, accompanied by Mr. Warren Handley, and interment will take place in the local cemetery. Mrs. Neal was formerly well known and highly respected in Belleville.

THE CANARY ISLANDS.

In Ancient Days They Were Thought to Form the Real Heaven.

You know, of course, that the Canary islands are northwest of Africa and that they belong to Spain. You may happen to remember, too, that three very interesting things have been given to the world by that group of islands—Canary wine, the Canary dance and the lovely little yellow song bird that has a place in so many homes. To be sure, they are the Canary islands, because that is where canary birds come from.

But hold! The horse is behind the cart. The birds got their name from the place of their nativity, and the group of islands took its name from the largest and most important member, Gran Canaria island. Curiously enough, the name means "big dog" instead of "little bird."

There was a time when these islands were of far more interest and importance than they are now, a time when they called forth a special government edict. It was the senate of Carthage that passed a law forbidding the citizens to make those islands the objective point of their summer vacation.

From time immemorial the world had believed that somewhere beyond the pillars of Hercules there was a group of islands so beautiful, so replete with everything to make men and women happy, that they constituted the real heaven. They were called "Islands of the Blest." When the Carthaginian fleet returned from its first expedition to the Canary islands there was danger that all the population of Carthage would emigrate to that realm of song birds and tempered sunshine; hence the edict.

Belleville Couple Celebrate Their Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Carre Commemorate the Event With Friends--Well Known In The City

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carre, residing at 276 Albert Street, Belleville, two well known and much esteemed residents, to-day were the recipients of many congratulations and gifts, owing to the fact that they, with members of their family, were commemorating the 50th anniversary of their wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Carre were married in Stirling, Ont., from the home of the bride's brother-in-law, Rev. G. W. G. Grant, Rector of the Parish of Stirling, who assisted the Rev. Dr. Lundy, father of the bride, at the ceremony. The groomsman, Mr. D. E. K. Stewart, Barrister now of Madoc, Ont., and two of the bridesmaids, Miss Alice Grant of Grimsby, and Miss Jarvis Seymour of Ottawa, together with the Rev. Canon Grant of Kingston, have been invited.

From this union there were born to them ten sons and one daughter, of which the daughter and four sons are now living, and were present at the celebration together with two of their four grandchildren. The sons are Mr. Harry Carre of the Molson's Bank, Toronto; Mr. Eric Carre, Manager of the Molson's Bank, Sutton, Quebec; Corp. J. F. Carre, of the 155th Battalion, Barriefield, and Mr. Lundy Carre who is connected with the Marsh & Henthorne establishment of this city. The daughter, Miss Carre, is at home.

Mr. Carre made his home in Belleville from 1866 until 1868, when he became one of the chief engineers on the I.C.R. and subsequently of the C.P.R., through the west, returning to Belleville in 1888. Since that time he has been a resident of the city. It is opportune to mention at this time that Mr. Carre was enlisted in the Canadian Militia at the time of the Fenian Raid, and proceeded with his company to Prescott, this necessitating a postponement of his wedding.

The Intelligencer unites with the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Carre in congratulations and expresses the wish that they may enjoy life and happiness for some years to come.

Twelve Words.

Some years ago the circulation department of a London newspaper offered a prize for the longest sixpenny —twelve word—telegram that could actually be sent to its office. This won:

"Administrator general's counterrevolutionary intercommunications uncircumstantiated. Quartermaster general's disproportionableness characteristically counterdistinguished unconstitutionalistic incomprehensibilites."

These twelve words contain exactly 209 letters, and the telegram needs two periods, two apostrophes and one hyphen to make it proper English. And it does not contain the longest possibility in the language, "proantitranssubstantiationistically," either.

How Portuguese Entered Africa.

Portuguese Africa was a byproduct of the long efforts to discover and maintain a maritime route to India, independent of the services of Turks and Moors as commercial intermediaries. This was the primary object alike of Prince Henry the Navigator, of Vasco da Gama and of all the Portuguese explorers and colonizers, and the Portuguese empire in Africa east and west, the colonization of Brazil, the conquest of Mexico and the navigation of the strait of Magellan were incidental results. The fascination of India has been second to nothing in its effects upon the map. It drew Columbus to America and England to South Africa.—London Mail.

A Stubborn Husband.

A most interesting phenomenon is the stubborn husband. He is not a bad man. He is contrary, and he has to be managed. He is usually married to a clever little woman, who is constantly devising schemes to accomplish the things which make their joint lives a success.

He has no suspicion of this. If he had be would be so mad he could undoubtedly eat her. So all through life she goes on swinging a turnip ahead of his nose to make him go the same as though he were a balky mule. She is a cheery little body, and she chuckles in her sleeve when he is not by. The stubborn husband is as interesting as a bug.—London Standard.

Lore of the Clover.

Any one who carries about a four leaved clover will be lucky and will have the power of discovering ghosts or evil spirits. With it under the pillow the lover may insure dreams of the beloved one. A fragment in the shoe of a traveler insures a safe journey. The power of the four leaved shamrock for good is familiar to all from Lover's pretty and once popular song, the speaker in which pictures what she would do should she find the magic plant:

I would play the enchanter's part and scatter bliss around,
And not a tear or aching heart should in the world be found.

CANADA'S FUTURE CITIZENS.

They Will Have to Be Drawn From Great Britain.

Since Canada and the other Dominions wish to populate their great vacant areas with people of British stock, they must look to the surplus population of Britain. No other part of the Empire has a surplus of Anglo-Saxons for emigration. The effect of the war upon British population, and upon the birth-rate which maintains it, is therefore of direct national interest to us. Canada will want, during the coming years, an influx of Britishers at least equal to its present population, and at the same time, the Motherland ought to maintain her population and strength at the present mark of 45,000,000 at least. The problem of a falling birth-rate in Britain is really Imperial, affecting very materially the future strength of the Empire. The report of the Birth-rate Commission appointed by the National Council of Public Morals in England, is, therefore, timely and interesting. After the war the birth-rate question will be acute in all the countries whose manhood has been sadly reduced in the fray, and in the Motherland a study of the causes operating to cause a decline in the rate has a new importance from that fact. The commission was composed of a group of leading scientific and sociological authorities.

The main findings of fact by the commission were:

1. That the birth-rate has declined to the extent of approximately one-third in the last 35 years.

2. That this decline is not, to any important extent, due to alterations in the marriage rate, to a rise in the average rate at marriage, or to other causes diminishing the proportion of married women of fertile age in the population.

3. That this decline, though general, has not been uniformly distributed over all sections of the population.

4. That on the whole the decline has been more marked in the prosperous classes.

5. That the greater incidence of infant mortality upon the less prosperous classes does not reduce their effective fertility to the level of the wealthier classes.

6. Conscious limitation of fertility is widely practised among the middle and upper classes, and there is good reason to think that, in addition to other means of limitation, the illegal induction of abortion frequently occurs among the industrial population.

7. There is no reason to believe that the higher education of women (whatever its indirect results upon the birthrate may be) has any important effect in diminishing their physiological attitude toward bearing children.

These findings confirm, generally, what has been understood in relation to this important question of population increase. Economic and social reasons, arising chiefly out of improved education, have played an important part in conscious restriction of the size of families. In France, for economic reasons, it is the custom to have small families, and among the higher classes in Britain there is the same regard for family convenience.

Called on Canadians.

Arising from the prosecution in the London (Eng.) Police Court of a gang of cocaine vendors who have been supplying the drug to soldiers, a fresh demand has been made for immediate legislation to cope with this latest form of plague. Owing to the fact that the development of this vice has only lately come to the public notice in England there is no legislation directly bearing on the evil except a provision in the Defence of the Realm Act, under which vendors of drugs to soldiers can be punished.

So unaccustomed are the Metropolitan police to dealing with these drug cases that they called on the Canadian military police to track down the offenders, and it was due to the efforts of Major Clifford, Regimental Sergt.-Major Dee and Sergt. Smith that the gang of vendors just prosecuted were entrapped. The London city police think that the prosecu- [illegible] put a temporary check on the system of vending, which was spreading to large proportions. The selling has been chiefly by small foreign shop-keepers, who secured their supplies through one or two druggists, who have also been trapped.

The drug habit has been finding its victims among soldiers on leave after suffering from nerve strain at the front and soldier convalescents who are troubled from old wounds, and the police authorities are urging that immediate action should be taken to allow more severe penalties than three months' hard labor, such as given to the seven men who have just been prosecuted in the London Police Court.

Unwise Land Settlement.

"The opening up of non-agricultural lands to settlement has produced some of the most far-reaching and pitiful tragedies in the Dominion's history," says the Canadian Forestry Journal. "Every province has communities which have been permitted to make the fatal error of a bad location. Their subsequent history is an unbroken line of bad crops, poverty, suffering, and human demoralization."

One of the most pressing duties of those in authority, after the war ends, will be the devising of means by which such lands can be restored to their proper purpose, that of growing trees.

Leaving Nothing Undone.

He Got Immelmann.

At the Canadian Military Hospital at Orpington the credit for humbling Immelmaun, the daring Teuton aviator, is given to a young Canadian, Lieut. Clarence Rogers, son of Mr. Elias Rogers of Toronto, who is now believed to be a prisoner in Germany.

In a letter replete with interesting experiences and anecdotes, Capt. Dr. M. M. Crawford, formerly Associate Coroner in Toronto and member of the surgical staff of St. Michael's Hospital, and now serving with the Canadian forces at Orpington, writes to his father, Mr. Alex. H. Crawford. The letter reached Toronto recently. In it Captain Crawford writes:

"Immelmaun, the great German aviator, was brought down a few weeks ago. People have been giving credit to various ones for doing the trick, but the general opinion of the aviators is that Clarence Rogers, son of Mr. Elias Rogers, is the real hero. Immelmaun was killed, but Clarence was taken prisoner. I do not think there is any doubt about this being absolutely correct. Our fliers have been doing wonderfully good work; the Germans seldom come over the British lines now, and our own Canadian boys are certainly doing their share."

Knows Two Laws.

The ready retort of a license inspector in Renfrew to a lawyer who tried to show his superiority in the law afforded further proof that an Irishman can give a Roland for an Oliver. "You don't know anything about the law," quoth the lawyer, according to the story that is going the rounds. Quick as lightning came the response from the inspector: "There are only two laws I profess to know, the laws of God and the liquor laws, and these (apparently meaning the latter, though not specifying) I know better than you." The result seemed to bear out the inspector's contention for it is reported he secured conviction.

Pay of Canadian Soldiers.

The Canadian is the best-paid private soldier in the world. Until recently he was drawing $1.10 a day; but a short time ago his pay was cut down to half, the remaining half accumulating for him until the end of his service.

Silence is Golden.

Never Had It.

It is sometimes said of a man that he outlives his usefulness when in reality he never had any.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territories, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Applications for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections or legal sub-divisions of sections and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

DAIRY SHORTHORNS.

Remarkable Results Are Being Secured in Alberta.

Dairying forms a prominent feature in the work carried on in connection with the demonstration farms and schools, conducted by the Department of Agriculture in the Province of Alberta. As part of this work demonstration: have been given as to the capacity of the double-purpose Shorthorn as a milk producer. The records made in the Alberta Provincial farms have not quite equalled the best made at the Ontario Agricultural College, where one dairy Shorthorn gave 12,401 pounds of milk in a year. What has been accomplished in Alberta would, however, be creditable under any circumstances, and is especially so in view of the fact that the Alberta records were made by cows imported from Ontario, and that had not as yet been fully acclimatized in the west.

At the demonstration farm at Sedgewick, Alberta, the Shorthorn cow, Lady McKay 2nd, gave 10,472 lbs. of milk in a year, and two other Shorthorns gave 9,699 and 9,006 lbs. of milk respectively. Fourteen cows of the same breed at this farm, five of these being two-year-olds, and one three, gave an average of over 6,000 lbs. of milk for the year.

The most interesting feature in connection with what is being done with dairy Shorthorns at these Alberta Provincial farms is found in the records made by daughters of one of the herd bulls. This bull is Butterfly King. He has, says the official report of the Department of Agriculture, all the characteristics of the choicest dairy Shorthorn sires, and at the same time he would in his prime have stood in good company in any beef show ring. This bull is the sire of one cow which produced 8,343 pounds of milk in nine months; another which is credited with 5,284 pounds in a little over six months; of a three-year-old which produced 2,561 pounds in three months, and a two-year-old which has a record of 3,454 pounds of milk in five months. The departmental report claims for this bull that he has more daughters in the Record of Merit in Canada than any other dairy Shorthorn bull in the Dominion.

TRADE IS ADVANCING.

Ninety-Three Per Cent. Increase Shown in Latest Statement.

Another record-breaking trade statement was issued in Ottawa recently. It shows an increase of than 93 per cent. in the grand total of Canadian trade for the three months of the fiscal year ending June 30. The volume of trade on that late had reached the imposing figure of $527,512,344, as against $272,-346,868 for the first quarter of 1915. The increase has been pretty evenly divided as between the two branches of trade, the imports having risen from $98,017,187 to $186,245,480, and the domestic exports from $113,-578,221 to $245,381,035.

Foreign exports increased from $8,577,775 to $66,989,732, a jump which seems to be accounted for under metals, the exports of foreign mine products increasing in the three months from slightly less than two millions to sixty-two millions and a half. These exports in the month of June alone rose from $8,138 to $51,886,013.

The June trade contributed largely to the good showing for the financial quarter, the increase in the trade total being from $127,402,516 in June, 1915, to $243,953,544 in June of this year. Domestic imports increased from $35,324,739 to $66,-399,838. Although the larger proportion of increase is shown under free goods, which jumped more than 100 per cent., there is a substantial increase shown in the amount of duty collected for the month. The total Customs receipts were $12,105,263, as against $7,409,238.

The exports for the month show very heavy increases in manufactures, in agricultural and in mineral products. From the mines the exports rose from $4,640,014 to $7,-755,875, agricultural products from $14,269,748 to $38,744,527, and manufactures from $9,757,146 to $32,252,447.

He Touched Their Hearts.

The hearts of many people at the corner of Queen and Bay streets, Toronto, were touched recently by the sight of an old man clothed in rags, wearing a felt hat and green glasses, and with a long grey moustache, who apparently secured what little means of support he had by playing on a fiddle he had managed to construct from an old cigar box. Not only were their hearts touched but their pockets, also, some even to the extent of a twenty-five cent piece, so that by the time the night was gone he had a fairly large collection.

The old man did not, however, appeal in such a manner to P. C. Marshall (340), who took him up to Agnes street station, and, removing his whiskers and glasses, disclosed him as a man of thirty-two. When his collection was counted it was found that he had $9.10. The man gave his name as Lawrence B. Horlock of Stop 25, Lake Shore road, and stated that he was employed as a shipper. He was arrested on a nominal charge of vagrancy.

H. B. Company to Rescue.

It is officially announced that the British Government is sending the Antarctic ship Discovery to the relief of Shackleton's men at Elephant Island. The Discovery has been placed at the Government's disposal by the Hudson Bay Company free of cost. Lieut. James Fairweather will be in command.

FUTURE FOR SILVER.

Northern Ontario Camps See Bright Prospects After War.

Different industries pursue their paths separately, but all proceed towards a common goal. Industries that are instrumental in bringing out the best of a country's resources run parallel with each other; they are not identical but they are all going in the same direction, says L. J. Moore in The Toronto Globe. In Northern Ontario the big industry is mining, and this promises to hold the lead for many years to come, in spite of the rapid strides which agriculture has made within the last four years. It is no handicap to the agricultural industry, however, that it does not occupy first place as a wealth-producer.

It is, on the contrary, singularly fortunate that mining has taken such an important place. The latter industry is filling a most important function, whether consciously or otherwise, in opening up the northern country for agriculture. The general prosperity which results from the high profits and good wages paid in the mining camps has tended to spur on the farmer. When crops are not as encouraging as they might be, on account of lack of capital, or labor, or other circumstances not within the farmer's control, there is always work to be had in the mines, and this may prove the salvation of many a farmer who is badly in need of funds to make improvements on his farm.

A survey of the various mining camps of the north showed that there was plenty of activity, alike in the gold, silver, and nickel districts. The effect which the war may have on the relative importance of gold and silver, was a subject to which the writer devoted special attention. Opinions of prominent mining men were sought to get an idea of the place which silver will occupy after the conclusion of the war, and the view almost universally expressed was that silver would occupy a more important place than ever before.

However it may be, the price of silver has risen to an unprecedented figure in the history of the Cobalt mining camps, and although there are the inevitable fluctuations, the price remains fairly constant around the high-water level. Still, the price of silver will have to rise from approximately seventy cents to $1.20 per ounce before the old familiar ratio of sixteen to one is reached.

The silver mines of Cobalt are very active, and lower grades of ore are being treated than hitherto. About 3,000 men are employed at the Cobalt mines, and this number is 1,000 less than the record of 4,000, which was reached a year and a half ago.

One feature of living conditions in Cobalt which is a sign of the times is the development of markets. Farmers from New Liskeard and from across Lake Timiskaming, in the Province of Quebec, come to the markets at Cobalt to dispose of their products. The growth in the agricultural industry is indicated by the fact that a much greater proportion of fruits, vegetables, and farm products in general for the population of Northern Ontario is raised north of North Bay at the present time than ever before. The advent of the farmers tends to keep store prices down, and better stuff is obtainable.

Another factor which affects the mining life of the north is the development of more electric power. The Northern Ontario Light & Power Company are running a transmission line for a distance of sixty-five miles to Kirkland Lake. This will place both power and light at the disposal of the ever-increasing number of farmers who have settled in that district.

Muzzling Useless Precaution.

Since the beginning of the year thirty persons bitten by dogs have received the Pasteur treatment at the laboratories of the Ontario Board of Health, and one Toronto man, who declined to be treated, has died of rabies. The cases which were treated all came from the section of Ontario west of the eastern boundaries of the Counties of Ontario and Simcoe and were distributed as follows: Brant, 2; Dufferin, 2; Elgin, 1; Grey, 1; Middlesex, 1; Ontario, 2; Oxford, 1; Peel, 2; Perth, 1; Simcoe, 4; Wentworth, 1; Welland, 1; York, 1; Toronto, 10. Moreover, it is pointed out by the Provincial Board of Health in a number of cases cows and hogs have died of hydrophobia, and that at least one dog kennel has been depleted by the disease.

In the section of the province west of the eastern boundary of Simcoe and Ontario Counties, regulations adopted in 1910 are in force. Those regulations permit the muzzling of dogs. Muzzling, the Board of Health considers useless. It favors a rule requiring that dogs be tied up or kept within enclosures for a period in order that the disease may be stamped out. It points out that by legislation passed in 1914 the police commissioners of municipalities having populations of 100,000 or less are empowered to regulate the running at large of dogs.

Food Sent to Belgians.

Canada has sent six shiploads of food stuffs for the relief of suffering Belgians. Shortly before leaving London for Ottawa, Sir George Perley, Acting High Commissioner, received the thanks of the Belgian Minister for the sixth of these cargoes, which had just reached England in the steamer Gothland. The foodstuffs in this cargo were worth a quarter of a million dollars, and included wheat, flour, condensed milk, canned vegetables, and smoked fish.

Antelope Herd in Saskatchewan.

That the antelope can be bred in captivity was proved by a farmer of Davidson who has a small herd. Twin antelopes were born less than a month ago.

There are two sides to every argument, and in many arguments neither is right.

QUESTIONS FATE OF SOLDIERS

Apprehension Exists as to What Became of Them at The Fall of Kut

Canadian Press Special

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Lord Robert Cecil told the Commons today an appreciation exists as to the fate of British soldiers captured by the Turks at Kut-el-Amara. Enquiries made through the American Embassy failed to elict a reply. At the fall of Kut the prisoners were compelled to cross the desert at the worst season of the year.

WOMEN AS POLICE ARE MAKING GOOD

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Women police are making good, according to the chief officer of the Women's Police Force. They are employed in munitions factories very largely to search the ingoing and outgoing women for contraband, keep order in trains, inspect passports, and to patrol the lines and yards. They get $10 weekly, with railway fares, sergeants receive eleven dollars, and inspectors twelve dollars.

The chief officer says school teachers are particularly wanted for the force, as their training fits them admirably for police duties, which require good temper, patience and tact with firmness.

The girls in the factories appear to be very fond of the women police, and the government are asking for more to be appointed at various munition works throughout the country.

ADD MORE BOATS TO THE BLACKLIST

LONDON Aug. 5.—These American ships have been removed from the black list since its last publication: Steamer Seneca, and sailing ship Edgar W. Murdock.

Wagner liners which have been captured by the British and are now in the service of the government while awaiting their status by the prize court, appear on the list without any indication of their nationality, while the other Wagner boats appear as American.

A large number of ships on the list are bracketed under a caption stating that they have temporarily been removed from the blacklist while under charter to entente allies or innocent neutral interests.

Unlike the statutory blacklist of neutral traders, the shipping blacklist never has officially been made public.

DEATH OF A. M. BUCHANAN

PICTON, Aug. 5.—Andrew M. Buchanan, a prominent business man, was found dead in his furniture and undertaking establishment here this morning. He was seventy-seven years of age. He had been in failing health for some time past. Yesterday afternoon being a holiday, it is presumed, not feeling well, he went into his place of business to lie down, and expired. Besides his wife he leaves a family of five daughters, Mrs. F. Bogart of Fredericksburg, Mrs. F. Minaker and Miss Jessie of Picton, Miss Frankie of Toronto, and Miss Lizzie of Winnipeg; also two brothers, Jas. and William, and a sister, Mrs. Illsey of Calgary. INITIAL SERMON BY NEW BRIDGE ST. MINISTER

Rev. Charles T. Scott, B.A. D.D. Creates Most Favorable Impression Upon Large Congregation--Fluent, Logical Preacher, With Evangelistic Tendances--Believes in An Optimistic Religion--His Morning Sermon

Considering the extreme heat of the day, a large congregation greeted the new pastor, Rev. Charles T. Scott, B.A., D.D., upon his initial appearance at Bridge Street Methodist Church, Sunday morning. Naturally a degree of curiosity occupied the hearts of the assemblage as it awaited the coming of the reverend gentleman, as few had as yet met him. But a silent expression of approval welled up when a tall, lithe, smooth-faced gentleman stepped into the pulpit, accompanied by Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, secretary of the official board, who was to introduce the newcomer to his future parishioners. As he stood for a moment, with a smile upon his lips, and scanned the upturned faces, a feeling of good-will prompted every heart, and the decision was general that the right man had been called to fill the place of the beloved Mr. Osborne, who at the same hour was to appear before his new congregation in Vancouver, B.C., from whence came Mr. Scott.

A pleasing solo by Miss Anna Ponton, a cordial introduction by Mr. O'Flynn, and the preacher took his theme for the morning.

While not particularly eloquent in a rhetorical sense, Mr. Scott is a fluent, logical speaker, possessing a fine voice, easy of manner, moderate in action, deeply versed in the scripture, inclined to evangelism, and of a decidedly optimistic trend, which carries his hearers with him; the beauty of yesterday's discourse lying in its simplicity and adherence to the thought of the Great Master.

Taking for his text Luke 21-33: "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away," the preacher referred to the purpose and work of Christ, His knowledge of human needs, His desire to help us on our way through life, and instilling comfort in the wounded hearts that appeal to Him. He dwelt at length upon Truth, its reality and application to the requirements of life—while all other things may pass away, this necessary ingredient in life's successes is ever at hand. Truth is the only thing that will conform to reality; Truth gives a conception of things eternal. While the outward character does not always indicate goodness, Christ looking into the heart observes the motives; a great and eternal vision means much to the usefulness of life. The optimism of Jesus arises from Truth; in laying the foundation of goodness Truth is always the corner stone. We need this optimism in running the race of life; a race which, on the whole is a moving upward into the light. Those who meet the scorns of the world for principle will rise to heights of rewards that cannot be realized. The world is not becoming worse; history does not substantiate the claim. Go back to the days of Rome's despotism and compare them with the privileges of today, and the argument is fully answered. The righteousness of God is gradually filling the earth. Thank God for present day blessings. The spirit which controlled the Pilgrim Fathers brought new light to this continent; the spirit of faith in God in these modern days is bound to have its effect. God will bring us all home to the eternal shore without a mistake if we follow His leadings. God's plans never fail; God is in the heavens controlling our destinies. As we begin our work together in this church let it be in an optimistic spirit. Let us make ourselves burning sacrifices for God.—Romans 12:1.

Will Lay The Corner Stone

Duke Of Connaught to Officially Inaugurate New Parliament Building

OTTAWA, Aug. 5.—The Duke of Connaught will lay the corner stone of the new Parliament buildings on September 1st. This date has ben chosen because it will be the 56th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the old building in 1860, by the late King Edward.

The committee supervising the reconstruction of the buildings concluded its session to-day, and came to this decision. The committee passed a resolution unanimously that all supplies be purchased by the tender system. A committee consisting of Messrs. Pearson and Marchand, the architects, Mr. J. B. Hunter, deputy-minister of public works, and Mr. D. Ewart, consulting architect, was appointed to supervise such purchasing. Another meeting of the committee will be held within the next two weeks to receive interim reports by the architects on the work.

Among those who attended the meetings were Hon. Robert Rogers, Hon. J. D. Reid, Hon. P. E. Blondin, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Senator Watson, and Hon. William Pugsley.

Robbery Mistaken For A Movie Play

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 5.—Search was being vigorously prosecuted early to-day in every county surrounding Detroit for the five automobile bandits, who, armed with rifles and automatic pistols yesterday held up the motor pay car of the Burroughs Adding Machine Co. and made off with about $34,000 after shooting and slightly wounding one man.

The robbery, which occurred within-half a block of the Burroughs plant, is declared to have been the most daring in history of Detroit. It was accomplished so quickly that almost before anyone but the occupants of the pay car, a number of guards in a car following and the bandits themselves, realized what was happening the robbers had transferred five cash bags to their own machine, and were out of sight.

Hundreds of persons who saw the hold-up, smiled in the belief that they were witnessing the acting of a photoplay. One of the robbers is said to have lost his hat and revolver, both of which are now in the possession of the police.

ENEMY CHECKED BY CURTAIN FIRE FRENCH AVIATORS DO GOOD WORK

Canadian Press Special

PARIS, Aug. 7.—An afternoon statement says:—North of the Somme and in the region of Chaulnes there was intense artillery fighting. On the right bank of the Meuse or the Verdun front, after artillery preparation, the Germans delivered an attack at Thiaumont work. Checked by our curtain of fire the enemy was thrown back immediately on leaving his trenches. In the Vaux Chapitre Wood an attack was delivered by the enemy at seven-thirty Sunday night, after a heavy bombardment, which failed completely. On the remainder of the front the night was calm. On the Somme front our aviators in numerous combats brought down three enemy machines and compelled three others to land in their own lines, also destroyed two captive balloons. French squadrons dropped twenty bombs on the railway station at Metz Sablons, thirty on the railway station at Thionville, twenty-five on factories at Rombach, and twelve on a military camp near Etain.

FORBID BELGIANS BUYING IN HOLLAND

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Aug. 5.—Notwithstanding that she was already largely monopolizing the export of Holland's surplus agricultural and other food products. Germany has just taken measures with a view to removing Belgian buying competition from the Dutch market. A decree has been issued in Belgium prohibiting communes and dealers from importing goods from Holland. Applications to make such purchases must be submitted to Berlin. The result is that Belgium, where distress was already acute, is deprived of an indispensable supply of goods, and the great difficulties which the American Relief Commission is experiencing with cargo space does not allow of the adequate and speedy replacement from that quarter.

MORE CAPTURES BY RUSSIANS

PETROGRAD, Aug. 7.—Further success for the Russians along the Sereth and Graberx River in Northern Galicia south of Brody, were announced by the War Office to-day. The Russians captured fortified positions in this region of the villages of Zvyjin, Kostiniec and Reniuv.

BRITISH MOVING IN EAST AFRICA

Several Towns Occupied and Progress Made Along The Coastline

Canadian Press Special.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Rapid progress in the southward drive of the British through German East Africa is reported to-day by General Smuts, who says: The minor port of Sadani on the Indian ocean was occupied by our naval forces August 1st, a slight opposition only being experienced. Other naval operations are in progress at various points along the coast line. Having reached the German Central Railway at Kilimatinde, Rodoma and Kilombo, Col. Vandeventer, pursuing enemy forces, dislodged them from this area in the direction of Mpahua.

DRASTIC ACTION TO PREVENT PARALYSIS

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 5.—Drastic precautions are proposed by the Halifax Health Board to prevent infantile paralysis breaking out here through children coming here from New York by steam or rail. The board passed a resolution, which will be sent to the Dominion Government immigration department, recommending that every child under sixteen years of age coming to Halifax or any other Nova Scotian port, either by train or boat, be detained from landing for eight days from the date that they last left the district in which the malady is prevalent.

It is not expected that parents will put up with this inconvience of being isolated for six days at a Nova Scotian port. No cases of infantile paralysis have been discovered in Halifax, and only one death has resulted from the disease in Nova Scotia since the outbreak of the epidemic in New York. The health board officers will examine all children arriving from New York.

Cannot Reach Elephant Island

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Sir Ernest Shackleton, the Antarctic explorer, sends the following message from Port Stanley, under to-day's date: "I reached here last night in the schooner Emma. I regret to say we were unable to reach Elephant Island, where my companions from the Endurance are still waiting rescue.

"At a distance of one hundred miles from the island our little schooner encountered pack ice in streams. We tried to force a way through but failed.

"The ship was too light for this task. The bobstay was carried away and ice chocked the water inlet to the engines, which thus became useless. After that we worked the schooner under sail to the eastward. The conditions were very bad. The pack set northeast and then southeast. Constant gales were encountered, and, with the low temperatures prevailing the ship became covered with ice.

"We were forced to turn north again and came through very rough weather on our journey back. It evidently is a very bad season in the south, and we must wait until the weather moderates before making another attempt to rescue the men on Elephant Island."

FIVE VILLAGES CAPTURED BY RUSSIAN FORCES

Over 5,500 Are Taken in Two Days' Fighting—Town of Zalozce, 53 Miles East of Lemburg, Also Occupied By The Russians--Teutons Fight Desperately to Retake Lost Ground

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(Special.)—A Russian victory in the Sereth Valley, northeastern Galicia, after a three days' battle in villages where every street was a battlefield and every house a fortress, is reported by the Petrograd War Office to-day. The success was gained on the front taken by Gen. Brusiloff's centre after the fall of Brody ten days ago, extending southward from that city across the headwaters of the Sereth. Finally breaking the desperate resistance of the Austrians, who again and again hurled themselves forward in vain counter-attacks, the Russians captured five small villages and the town of Zalozce, fifty-three miles due east of Lemberg, as well as the whole ridge of hills on the slopes of which these points are situated.

Kaiser Works In Harvest Field

Germany Jubliant at Big Crop of Potatoes and Dictator Confident of Future

BERLIN, August 5.—Emperor William is spending a brief holiday by helping in person to reap the bountiful harvest at the present great headquarters, thereby not only setting a good example of patriotism, but also keeping himself in physical trim. Divested of his field grey uniform, he is toiling whole afternoons in the heat of the sun and wielding a scythe in the rye fields with the muscular expertness of a peasant. He has acquired a healthy tan.

Herr von Batocki, the food dictator, showed to-day three telegrams from cities in the Empire calling urgently for help to handle the avalanche of potatoes, descending on them. He further said: "In Berlin 1,200 carloads of potatoes arrived in three days, and we needed only two hundred. As a result we had to send a thousand carloads to other cities and to dessication plants to keep them from rotting."

Herr von Batocki, who with his staff has already furnished detailed plans for the 1917 food year, is now drafting economic measures for 1918 and for the transition period immediately after the war.

"I am sure now that we shall enter the next food year in the fall of 1917 with a good reserve, because first we have had very good crops east and west. It is a fact that Germany has entered the third year of the war, not only with the food crisis safely passed but with marked improvement in the food conditions already noticeable all along the line. The reasonable anxiety as the old food year neared an end, as to whether the fast-vanishing food supplies, particularly potatoes and breadstuffs, could be made to last until the new food supplies became available, has completely disappeared in the last few days with the influx of new potatoes."

SAFES ARE OPENED

Strong Boxes in Cochrane Not Much Damaged

COCHRANE, Ont., Aug. 5.—Of all the safes in Cochrane which came through the fire, that in the Post Office suffered most. In fact there was no damage done to the contents of the safes of the Bank of Montreal and Imperial Bank, and but little to that of the Customs House. The contents of the safe in the Post Office were, however, somewhat damaged, some of the papers being so much charred that it will be impossible to read what is on them.

Cleaning up is in progress and already buildings are being erected, some well advanced. Lumber of course is scarce, and the small mills nearby will not nearly be able to supply the demands.

Tents and railway cars, the railway stations and other buildings are being used for housing those who are homeless. In addition those who were fortunate enough to save their houses are accommodating as many as they can. The soldiers pitched tents and gave whatever assistance they could but the officers in charge thought that by the end of the week the men could return to Camp Borden.

Hopes Eor Cheaper Gasoline

Government Urged to Develop Oil Bearing Shales in Dominion

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—If a proposal now being put before the Government meets with success, the worst nightmare will be removed from the life of the motorist. Gasolene, it is promised, will be plentiful and cheap.

What is being asked is that the Government encourage the development of the oil bearing shales of which there are known to be large deposits in New Brunswick, in parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta, and to some extent also in British Columbia. These shales exist not only in commercial quantities but the resources are so rich as to provide for all Canadian requirements, and then some.

This, at least, is the case which is being put before the Government by Mr. Louis Simpson, of Ottawa, who has made an exhaustive study of the problem. Or rather, it is one side of the case. The other side has to do with the employment of returned soldiers, the suggestion being made that instead of assisting men to go on the land, or as an additional measure, the Government help in the establishment of a new great industry capable of providing employment for a large percentage of the men who will come back.

Those members of the Government who have considered the question have not expressed themselves definitely with regard to it. The oil imports from the United States are increasing by very large amounts annually as the Canadian consumption increases and the price of gasolene has advanced steadily. There is said to be little chance of relief from the United States as the consumption there is rapidly catching up with the production.

Southeast of Boisgrenier the enemy endeavored to raid our trenches, but the raiding party was unable to reach our lines, and was driven back with losses.

OUR WEEKLY SERMON

The Power of The Soul Over The Body

By A. M. Hubly.

Passing over the many correlations of the word soul, I shall only make use of the term in this discourse to designate that individual intelligent being which is popularly supposed to be capable of an active existence independent of any known physical connection. "Man is a soul, and has a body," is an assertion attributed to the late Joseph Parker of London. These words truly suggest the soul's proprietorship of the body. We may or may not agree as to the extent of this proprietorship, but we must all believe in the union of things and their properties. We also believe that change in the property or action of anything means a change in the condition of the thing itself in relation to other things. With material bodies there is continual changes. Change in matter may change spiritual conditions within material environment. In relation to human life, "Change and decay in all around I see," but the soul has undying affinities and cries: "O Thou who changes not abide with me."

Said St. Augustine: "O God, Thou hast made us for Thyself, and unquiet are our souls without Thee." In our minds we generally associate ideas of force and power with matter or with the material body. Nevertheless, we are conscious of powers in connection with human life, which we can neither define nor identify with any force correlated with the recognized properties of matter. It is by these powers that operate apart and independent of molecular force we recognize the man to be above the animal—and the soul a real individual personal existence, designated by personal pronouns, first, second and third.

The connection of the soul with the body is indeed a mystery. It has so baffled scientists in their investigations as to results, that we are presented with widely different conclusions, Professor Tyndall, at a meeting for the advancement of science along these lines in 1868, said: "The mystery of the connection of soul with body may be made a power in the human organism, but it is a power which has feeling and not knowledge for its base." But on another occasion he said: "Molecular forces, chemical and mechanical, have no conceivable relation to man's consciousness of thought, will and affection." Many conclude that soul power of faith, hope and love depend not upon bodily sensation, but feelings without knowledge have no bases, and not to feel what we know, is to know without purpose or benefit.

Someone has said: "Unfeeling science, if there be such a thing, is but a corpse." True science lives and knows it lives, with a life touch; it knows not how, by a power separate from material things with which it has to do. Matthew Arnold puts it thus: "Strong is the soul and will, and beautiful: The seeds of godlike power are in us still; gods we are, bards, saints, heroes if we will." While the soul becomes, through the use of the body, intimate with the realities of time, yet it finds stability, satisfaction and rest only in knowing that it is in correspondence with the eternal. Its supreme need is God! When in a normal or saved condition, the man has or seeks to have such control over the body, its functions and faculties, as will make all these minister to the higher life of the soul. Aristotle said: "The soul is that by which we live, feel and understand." But Elihu, in the early dawn of human intellect, took higher flight and said: "There is a spirit in man: and the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding." Without this soul and inspiration, the body were more unmeaning than a statue and only fit to breed corruption, as it does as soon as it becomes untenanted. Yet how gloriously needful is the body as an organism through which the soul, while on earth, may express itself: its high and noble aims, holy aspirations and its knowledge of its higher life. For a moment let us consider the origin of the soul. "In the image of God." We understand this expression to denote the moral excellence of nature, the superiority of being, and the supremacy of dominion with which man was endowed over all other forms of life.

To quote George Moore, M.D., member of the Royal College of Surgeons, England: "The Deity touched the common dust into sublimest order, the dead elements stood up in beauty, a temple fit for its Maker, who breathing within it filled it with His life." In man was mirrored the Abiding Light, that swept chaos and effected order.

"The Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his notrils the breath of life," or "lives," as some translate it, "and man became a living soul." "That is to say," says Dr Moore, "a being to whom all forms of life pertain." By this account of man's creation it is plain that life and mind did not manifest themselves as the organization of the body proceeded, but by an importation of the Divine, effecting thereby a peculiar vital relation of an inner life to its Author, capable of expressing itself, through and by means of the material body, which was of the earth earthy. Professor David Smith, in his correspondence of a few weeks ago, speaking of the tripartite nature of man—body, soul and spirit—said: "These terms, though found in the Bible, do not convey a final revelation of the consstitution of human nature. When St. Paul makes use of them to the Thesselonians, he is not talking either theology or philosophy. He is quoting a common and quite unscientific classification of the different elements in man's complete being. Body, soul and spirit means the whole man; and the lessons which it teaches are religious and not scientific." So much from Dr Smith.

We are reminded that Marcus Aurelius speaks of "body, soul and mind," meaning our physical nature, our vital principle which we possess in common with the lower animals, and our intellectual nature which is supposed to differentiate us from them. But the soul in the New Testament is not only the vital principle which animates our physical organism, but is our intellect as well. Animals have life and mind. Life and soul in the Scriptures are interchangeable terms, meaning that which has control over physical organism in all spheres. The tree life directs and controls the material growth of the tree. This vital principle pertains throughout the vegetable kingdom. In the animal kingdom there is a dual principle. There is mind as well as matter correlated with life. "The old cow thinks." In all animals, from the mouse to the mammoth, the body is subjected to the power of mind, or instinct if you'd rather. All lower creatures, to the very creeping things of earth and insects of the air, have aptitudes and sensation. They no sooner come to life than instinct with skill they seek their happiness in the right paths, as if directed by Divine guidance. But let us note here, that with grub and bug and with bird and beast their bodily nature is their limit and cempletion.

All are adapted and related to their special spheres of existence: the fish the water, the beats to the field and forest, the bird to the air. Man's body does not fulfil his desires, natural faculties and functions cannot satisfy his aspirations. His mind must work with his wondrous hand to subdue nature, as in a supernatural manner, to satisfy his wants and mature his plans and purposes. He must invent means of accommodation to human requirements or receive them from other hands. He lives by art. "And all his works," says Dr Moore, "demonstrate that once appointed dominence over terestrial nature."

I suppose the doctor's mind reverted back to man's condition before the fall and the original intent of his Creator: universal dominion and the subjugation of the earth. But the soul is deeper than the machine which we see at work in the various spheres of action. It is the unseen, indescribable, undefinable, effectual working in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body to the edifying of itself, and through the flesh expresses itself and perfects its plans and purposes. The soul may fulfil its mission independent of the physical senses. An instance in Laura Bridgeman. At two years of age, through severe illness, lost sight, hearing, speech, smell and taste. At eight she entered Perkins Institute in Boston. In three months she was able to spell, with names of movable type, names of many objects. By the sense of touch she became a scholar and musician of no mean order, and an expert needlewoman, and also a most intelligent Christian. It is not the body nor any of its members that has the power of sense and sensation, which we in common parlence attribute to them. It is the soul that speaks by the tongue and voice, that sees through the eye, that hears through the ear. Helen Keller's life bears testimony to this. Blind and deaf, she says: "Light! give me light! was the cry of my soul, and the light of love shone on me in that very hour." Up to that time she had been almost devilish in her selfish rebellion against her condition and the will of those about her. Speaking metaphorically she says: I came up out of Egypt and stood before Sinai, and a power Divine touched my spirit and gave it sight, so that I beheld many wonders. And from the sacred mountain I heard a voice which said, knowledge is love, and light and vision.' The eye did not see. She was and is still blind. The ear did not hear; it is still irresponsive to all sound. What was it that saw and heard? She gives the answer in the story of her life, which is a beautifully written book. She says: "That living word awakened my soul, gave it light, hope, joy, set it free." How rich is the soul in its overcoming power as it wars against the rebellious flesh. Listen to the way she puts it. "Sometimes, it is true, a sense of isolation enfolds me like a cold mist as I sit alone and wait at Life's shut gate. Beyond there is light, and music, and sweet companionship; but I may not enter. Fate, silent, pitiless, bars the way. Fain would I question His imperious decree, for my heart is still undisciplined and passionate; but my tongue will not utter the bitter words that rise to my lips, and they fall back into my heart like unshed tears. Silence sits immense upon my soul. Then comes hope with a smile and whispers, 'There is joy in self-forgetfulness.' So I try to make the light in others' eyes my sun, the music in others' ears my symphony, the smile on others' lips my happiness."

The late Fanny Crosby also has born wonderful testimony to the soul's independence of bodily faculties in its strivings toward high ideals. Referring to her blindness she said: "I do not want anyone to sympathise with me, for my loss of physical vision, nor to think of it as an affliction. I have never regarded it as an affliction, but as my greatest blessing. I do not need sympathy and would not know what to do with it if I had it. God had a wise purpose in depriving me of sight. He has done this that my life should be consecrated to a special work for him. There is a bright star that has always guided me and which I could see at all times, and this was brighter and more beautiful than any physical vision could possibly be." Thus do we learn from those with impaired bodily functions the power of the soul over the body.

The fleshly body in itself has no sensation. The brain does not think, the heart does not ache. This may be proven beyond contradiction in the operating chamber of an hospital. A body perfect in every part becomes dead to all environment and again with all its members absolutely immune from all sensation of pain, or pleasure, simply because by chemical action upon matter, the material body with all its parts are put out of correspondence with the soul, an unseen ersonality more real than that which is seen. The real man, therefore, is the unseen, and is endowed with unseen faculties and functions corresonding with those we see belonging to the body.

This indestructable something which shall flow back to the burning fountain of light and truth from whence it came, has all ower for good or evil over the body, and will be exercised according to its own relative affinities with the unseen forces of good and evil. Hence, the logic of Paul's exhortation: "Put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt, according to the deceitful lusts; and be renewed in the spirit of your mind, and that ye put on the new man which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness." The character of this inner man has all to do with what the tongue shall speak and what the hand shall do. It registers upon the physical form, the road, the way, the pace, and indicates the goal at the end of the way.

Newell Dwight Willis said: "The body is a show window, advertising and exhibiting the soul's stock of goods." The smile is the flag of the soul," says Dan Crawford, the famous African missionary. If you ask what the man smiles at, the answer will reveal his character. If he smiles tolerantly at evil he is a traitor. If he smiles mockingly at god he is an infidel. If he smiles happily over good things and chiefly in adversity and thankfully up to God, his flag is of the right sort." We behold the inner man by the countenance, the word and deed of the outer. By the voice the soul speaks, not only in an infinite variety of articulations, but by the modulated language of tones, so as to excite into pleasure or pain every sensation and sympathy of human life. It is the soul which throws the smile or the frown uon the countenance, and also animates the features, causing them to present a picture with all the light and shade of artistic skill, to give expression, and to portray, correctly the good or evil harboured within the brain or heart. As by the hand of a painter, is placed upon the canvas his inborn ideal, so by the soul is spread upon the face each passion, so that the innermost agitations become visible in a moment, and the wish or thought that would seek concealment betrays its presence, and power in the vivid eye while the blood kindles into crimson along the brow a burning blush of shame.

Just as readily is the beautiful, the pure and the holy painted by the same power, diffusing the fact with sweet serenity portraying feelings tranquilized, and thought abiding with heaven and happiness, like an ocean in a calm reflecting the placid glories of the sea of glass, where celestial harpers make music. This unseen master of its fleshly dwelling awakens sympathy, breathing from face to face when in association with responsive love, and with heart answering to heart, we have living sympathy with spiritual affinities, while memory and hope, and expectations, repose alike in smiling peace upon the tranquil bosom of happiness.

In conclusion, we recognize the soul as an essential being of enternity, with power to quicken matter, impart sensation, motion and expression to the intricate framework of flesh and bone which we call the body. But with all this the whole man, body, soul and spirit, has fallen and is doomed to eternal ruin, except as he is a recipient of the gracious gift of eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. "Unless above himself, he can erect himself, how vain a thing is man." It is the soul that wills when we act, attends when we perceive, compares thoughts when we reason, looks into the past when we reflect and not content with the present, projects its aims and hopes into the future, making use of the body with all its faculties, powers and functions for the attainment of its desideration; and, if reborn, all its volitions, aspirations and efforts to attain are principled upon righteousness, with a desire to do the will of God, and for the glory of His name.

Bilinguals Say Judgement Will Favor Them

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—Private advices from England received by the Separat School Board state that there is every prospect of the board winning out on the three cases now awaiting judgment by the Privy Council. Senator Elcourt is epected home within a few weeks. While this view of the situation may be unduly optimistic on the part of the bilingualists, they are undoubtedly sanguine as to the result.

Judgment is expected before the opening of the schools in September. An adverse judgment for the bilingualists will not result in a cessation of the fight.

A new method of impressing their claims of injustice will be resorted to. The last meeting of the school board before the resumption will be held on Monday evening.

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE

BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

"Gone out after some booze, I reckon. That's a trick of his, to skin out alone about twenty times a day to soak the roots of his tongue. I notice I'm never in it. I'd go dry as a smoked fish, for all of him. Mebbe he'll show up in a few—— What's the name, mister?"

Patsy abruptly ceased his grumbling, uttered with sullen snarls designed to favorably impress his hearer, and glanced up to the shelf of shoes when he carelessly asked the question.

"Cullen—but I didn't give the old bloke any name," was the reply. "The shoe wanted a new heel, the which ——"

"Oh, gee! You must be the covey."

"What d'ye mean by that?"

"Easy boss! Close your trap for a second."

The change that had come over Patsy had given Cullen one of the surprises of his life. As if hit with a sudden recollection, with his face taking on a look of mingled, craft, caution and evil eagerness to befriend his hearer, Patsy turned to the window and peered out for a moment, as if looking for some one. Before Cullen could speak, however, though his fading color betrayed his immediate misgivings, Patsy turned back and said quickly, while he picked up the ruffian's shoe from the floor:

"This is the one, ain't it?"

"Yes," Cullen said harshly. "But why are you so stirred up over it? What's the matter with——"

"Stow that, boss, till I've turned the key," cautioned Patsy, stealing quickly to the door and locking it. "That's to head off the old man, in case he shows up—or the fly cop who was here this morning."

"Fly cop!"

"Sure thing—a detective."

"Here for what?"

"Get in the back room and I'll make you wise," said Patsy, hurriedly putting on his coat and hat. "He's after your pelt, for fair, boss; but I've no love for the cops, so thought I'd give you a tip. If it comes to a show-down, you can bolt out of this back door. I'll show you the way, boss, if you have to fly the coop."

"Tell me what you mean," Cullen fiercely muttered, seizing the detective's arm when they reached the back room.

"Sure, that's told quick enough."

"Out with it, then."

"A fly cop, some Mulberry Streeter, was in here this morning and asked of a boot without a heel had been left for repairs. He said a squad of detectives was doing all of the cobbler shops, hoping to run down a covey who lost his boot heel in a fight with some officer in a tunnel a few nights ago. I tried to tip the old man to keep his mouth closed, for I knew he'd been working on such a job. But his lamps are no good, and he didn't tumble."

"Is this straight good, young fellow?"

"Sure it's straight. What for would I be giving you anything phony?"

"Go ahead, then. You may be doing me a good turn."

"Rats!" said Patsy. "Don't you know I am? The boss showed the detective the shoe, mind you, and told him the cove who left it was coming in this afternoon to get it."

"He did, eh?"

"That's what. Then the fly guy told him to say nothing, and that he would watch outside and arrest the cove when he left here. That's why I'm tipping you to——"

"Stop a bit!"

Though Cullens desperate face wore a scowl as black as midnight, he now spoke with a snarl of genuine appreciation. As a matter of fact, he did not know just when and where he had lost the heel from his boot, and did not dream that it had been found by the detective encountered in the tunnel, which he would have thought utterly improbable. Otherwise, he would not have left the shoe to be repaired.

Quickly convinced, under the circumstances, that Patsy was telling him the truth and seeking to save him from arrest, he stepped to the door of the rear room and glanced sharply through the shop. It so happened that a man was at that moment approaching it from across the street, and the ruffian realized the danger of taking chances. Turning quickly, he vented an oath and growled:

"I'll be off at once. Where does this door lead?"

"Come in," said Pasy, quickly throwing the bolt. "I'll show you. In half a minute we'll be in the next street."

He opened the door while speaking, just as a hand lifted the latch of that in the front shop, and Cullen impulsively thrust him into the rear yard.

"Move lively," he cried, under his breath. "I'll follow you."

Patsy darted across the yard and around a corner of the stable, then clambered over the fence and led the way through the alley mentioned by the cobbler. Cullen kept close upon his heels all the while, and within a minute both were in the street below that on which the shop was located.

There they slowed down a little, Cullen taking Patsy's arm and remarking, with a grim show of gratitude:

"You're all right, young fellow. Come on a bit farther. I've something to say to you."

"What about?" asked Patsy, that he might not appear so willing as to incur suspicion. "You're well away and can give the guy the slip."

"I know that, kid," Cullen grimly nodded. "But you come along, just the same. You've done me a good turn, mind you, and I'm not a covey who thinks you did it for fun. I'll make good, d'ye see?"

"Oh, it's all right now, pal," said Patsy, with an air of friendly indifference. "Ive no love for the fly cops. One of 'em turned me brother down in Chicago two years ago, and I've been dead nuts on 'em ever since. You don't owe me nothing."

Cullen glanced furtively at him as they hastened down the street, and saw in Patsy's eyes a look of vindictiveness that appeared to corroborate his bitter words. It seemed to please Cullen, for his huge hand closed more firmly on Patsy's arm, while he remarked, with a low laugh:

"Mebbe I don't owe you, lad, yet I reckon you'd not dodge a good thing, if you saw it coming your way. How about that?"

"Good thing, eh?" Patsy glanced at him with a covert leer. "Well, not so you'd notice it. Good things don't come my way so often that I'm ducking 'em."

"I thought not," Cullen grinned. "Were you in the cobbler's shop, when the detective came in?"

"Yes, sure. Didn't I tell you so?"

"I'd forgotten. What did he say, kid?"

"Only what I told you. There's a lot of 'em out on the same lay. Some covey—I take it 'twas you—did up a man in town a few nights ago, then bolted into the tunnel to slip away from an officer who got after him. The heel of his boot was found in the tunnel, so Mulberry Street started out a gang next morning to run him down, thinking he'd get the boot mended."

"I see," Cullen nodded. "Did you know the detective?"

"I didn't know him, pal, but he said his name was Chick Carter."

"Chick Carter, eh? Yes, yes, I'm wise."

"As I was telling you," Patsy went on, with glib earnestness, "I tried to close the old man's trap, but 'twas no go. He wouldn't tumble if the Flatiron Building fell on him. The fly guy left the heel on the counter after showing it to the old man. I swiped that, thinking you'd be just as well off if it couldn't be found."

"You did?"

"Sure thing! Here 'tis."

Cullen took the heel and looked at it. He could not have asked for stronger evidence in confirmation of Patsy's story, after what he really believed the latter had done to prevent his arrest. He nodded approvingly after a moment, thrusting the heel into his own pocket, and again said, with grim appreciation:

THIS IS THE 672ND DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

BRITAIN'S ONLY COURSE.

Always just in its editorial expressions regarding Britain's policy, The New York Times continues this attitude in taking up the Sir Roger Casement trial with an intelligent fairness that is worthy of the great American paper. In the face of rabid criticisms by a wide range of writers, The Times asserts that "The fairness of the man's trial was beyond reasonable or even sane question, and he had certainly been proved guilty of the crime for which every Government has a recognized right to inflict the heaviest of penalties. To have commuted his sentence on the plea of insanity would have been merely to seek and use a colorable excuse, in preference to frank admission of a desire to avoid the indirect consequences of carrying out the law. For Casement was "mad" only in the same sense that were the other participants in the rebellion he expected to lead, and his treason involved the trafficking with 'the enemy' which is most cases was lacking in theirs."

Every discussion of the case of which the basis is not blind hatred of England must start with an acknowledgment of these facts, and to them must be added the other fact that to have spared Casement's life might have weakened the proper and necessary distinction between loyalty and treason, and might have been interpreted as a confession by the Government that did it of apprehensions and cautions as readily explicable by cowardice as by magnanimity.

"It might be stated, however," continues The Times, "that there remains, and long will remain, in many minds in no way prejudiced against Great Britain or her Allies a feeling of regret that she did not realize the existence of a higher as well as a lower expediency and see in the situation as it confronted her an opportunity to be merciful rather than just.

"This feeling is a product of instinct, not of logic. Not all have it, and not all need to have it. Those who do not, require no defence; those who do have it will grieve the more in proportion to their desire that England's greatness may be spiritual as well as material. But they will not criticise her for exercising an indubitable right, or for deciding on her own judgment what course in this matter she should take. Whether she spared Casement or hanged him was distinctly and wholly her own affair, her own business. The consequences are hers to take and she will take them."

LET US ALL CONTRIBUTE.

A timely suggestion from the Montreal Journal of Commerce to Sir Thomas White, Canadian Minister of Finance, is to the effect that in his arrangements for the forthcoming war loan, provision be made, as in England, to enable the people of moderate means to participate in it. This is not because of any fear that the loan will not easily be subscribed but because it will be beneficial to the country and to the people to have the loan spread among them. The participation of the mass of the people in and thrift. It would also induce those people who invested small sums in the loan to take a deeper interest in the war and in war financing. Patriotism would be stimulated. "A loan of fify million dollars obtained from the thrift and patriotism of the mass of the people would be a much better thing for the country than a similar amount received from banks and the wealthy classes," the Journal asserts, with which we fully agree.

And why shouldn't the man with a small savings account be enabled to get the same rate of interest paid by his country to those of larger means? The change might necessitate some extra machinery and some additional cost, but it would be worth both and would be a decided inducement to thrift.

UNTIL THE END.

The Montreal Gazette gives editorial expression to a meeting held in McGill Campus, Friday evening, which voices the feelings of our people from ocean to ocean of the Dominion of Canada. The gathering was in recognition of the second anniversary of the declaration of war by England against Germany, and the speeches, which strongly emphasized the intention of the people of Canada to stay in the war to the end, were typical of many given in every part of the Empire on the second anniversary of Great Britain's entry into the great struggle. "It was not a noisy meeting," says The Gzette; "the time when noise making could be excused in the connection has long gone by. It was significant most in its quietness. The chief speeches were fitting for the occasion. Sir Robert Borden and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux are men of different type. What they had to say was framed on different lines. The spirit of their utterances was the same. Each effectively gave the gathering something to think about and something to aspire to. Wherever their words are read, as where they were heard, the resolve should be strengthened that this country, with the others that make up the British Empire, will not abate the efforts it has begun." To quote the Prime Minister's concluding sentences:—

"We enter upon this third year of war with a fuller realization of its horror and with intensest sorrow and sympathy for all the homes it has saddened; but we have not lost faith that through all this welter of sacrifice and destruction human events march with steady footsteps to the assured fulfilment of an eternal and majestic purpose. We enter, too, upon this third year with a supreme and abiding confidence that our righteous cause will prevail and with an inflexible determination that for this our efforts shall not be spared. Canada consecrates herself anew to that great purpose in the unshrinking resolve that the cause for which her sons have fought and suffered and gloriously died shall be crowned with the laurel of victory."

Mr S. S. McClure, the noted New York publisher, upon arriving in England a few days ago following a tour of the Continent, said during an interview: "The impression I get is that Britain is firmly bent on carrying on the war to the end, and is intent on victory. I have found a wonderful spirit, a profound determination among the British. They have done an amazing thing in accumulating with the Allies a fighting strength that is as strong as Germany's was at the start of the war. What took Germany forty years to do the Allies have accomplished in twenty-four months. This war is going to be a struggle to the bitter end, with the strongest force victorious. The side that is gradually pounded down until it weakens is the one that's going to lose. This British military machine to-day is equally as good as Germany's, with all of Germany's long years of training conscripts. All talk of peace efforts now is pure idiocy. Ford's peace expedition was sheer phantasm. Before it ever landed at Stockholm it had been discredited. Although I was a member, I only went for the fun of the thing. I wanted the trip to Europe to see how things were going."

Toronto News: Never again must the control of the world's dyes, tungsten, spelter and other metals rest in the hands of one nation to use against other nations. After the war civilization must not slip back into the economic maw of Germany. As the Premier of Australia said in England, the relations between trade and commerce and national safety are so intimate that they must be treated as inseparable. There must also be adequate fiscal protection against neutral nations which have grown enormously in financial power as a result of the war. As the head of a Labour Government in Australia, Mr Hughes declares that our national resources must be conserved and developed for our own use, in order that the multitudes of our own people may be benefited. Once delivered from the menace of German militarism, the natural resources of Canada and the Empire must be developed on a basis that will yield the average industrious worker a fair and reasonable wage. That way lies national and Imperial strength and security.

Hamilton Spectator: Sir Sam Hughes' enemies have evidently taken counsel of Shakespeare in their animadversions, when he said: ". . . No matter how witty, so it be eloquent and full of invention; taunt him with the license of ink, . . . and as many lies as will lie on thy sheet of paper . . . set it down; go about it. Let there be gall enough in thy ink; though thou write with a goose-pen, no matter."

Current Comment

Kitchener, B.C., protests against the proposal that Berlin, Ont., shall take that name. Here's an excellent excuse for reconsidering the change.

Mr Carvell may console himself with the fact that he had several nice trips to New York, where it is said he dined at the Cafe des Beaux Arts and otherwise regaled himself.

The war has been in progress for two long years. The Empire has been "in peril" for that length of time, yet Sir Wilfrid has not yet made good his promise to "stump Quebec."

There are said to be fifty-six adult males in the National Liberal Advisory Committee which has been meeting in Ottawa. Hon. Sydney Fisher and Hon. Mackenzie King are also members.

The Ottawa Free Press calls for a reorganization of the Canadian Liberal Monthly. No wonder Liberals are becoming disgusted with that notoriously vicious partisan publication.

Premier Walter Scott and Hon. J. A. Calder, of Saskatchewan, were in attendance at the Liberal "uplift" conference recently held in Ottawa. Judging by the graft revelations in the western province they are worthy apostles of the new Liberal policy.

Hon. Sydney Fisher is casting covetous eyes upon Brome County, whose late member, Colonel Baker, has laid down his life for the Empire. Mr Fisher cannot again be elected in Brome unless sufficient Conservatives are killed in Flanders.

The arrangement now being made by the International Nickel Company for the establishment of a refining plant in this country, is a satisfactory outcome of the Dominion Government's efforts to have the manufacture of nickel from Canadian ore done in Canada.

It has been discovered that Roger Casement had agreed with the German military authorities that his "Irish Brigade" was to be sent to Egypt to fight against the British there. This proves Casement to have been a liar as well as a traitor, for he declared at his trial that he intended his brigade to be employed only in Ireland.—Hamilton Herald.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

DRAFT OF OFFICERS

Brig.-General Hemming has been asked by headquarters to submit the names of 19 officers for an overseas draft at an early date. The draft will be made up entirely of officers from the various overseas units whose establishment has been disturbed by the recent order cuting off assistant adjutants, transport officers, signalling officers, and junior majors. Should there not be sufficient of these to complete the number required for the draft, the list will be made up of supernumerary officers who have recently been dropped from different overseas units. No others will be considered, and it will mean a waste of time and effort for others to apply for a place on this draft. The draft will be mobilized at once, and in a matter of days will be ready for overseas service. This will be welcome news to a number of officers whose positions have been cancelled by the new order, and the draft will afford a quick and direct means of getting overseas.

MAJOR PRIDEAUX

Maj. Prideaux the capable ordnance officer of the Third Military District who recently left for his new appointment in Winnipeg, is doing the same excellent work in his new post that he did in his old post at Kingston. Major Prideaux received his training in the Imperial service, and saw active service on the east and west coasts of Africa. The major also saw service in Persia.

TACTICAL SCHEME

A tactical scheme which will be carried out some time this week is in course of preparation by Lt.-Col. Thompson, G.S.O. The exact date of the scheme cannot be given, as it would interfere with the carrying out of the same, but when carried out will include night work, and matters of the most practical and recent character which are carried out in actual warfare at the front.

PRESENTATION OF COLORS

The presentation of colors to the 154th Battalion will take place on Aug. 18th and an effort is being made to have the battalion go to Cornwall to receive the colors, which have been secured through the efforts of the young ladies of St. Lawrence Chapter I.O.D.E. It is understood that the soldiers themselves would prefer to have the ceremony there, and it is said that the men would be willing to have the expense of the railway trip deducted from their pay. If this is the case, it should be an easy matter to arrange for the presentation of colors in Cornwall, the county town of the district the battalion represents.

PRESENTATION TO 156TH

It has been definitely decided that the presentation of colors to the 156th Battalion will be at Brockville and the date will likely be August 16th.

NOTES

Lieut. Bromwich of the 146th Battalion will probably succeed Major Campbell as chaplain of the 146th.

Lieut.-Colonel Malley of Deseronto was in camp yesterday in consulation with Brig.-General Hemming.

There was a concert in the large mess tent of the 156th on Thursday their big tent Friday night.

Captain Dodds arranged a concert for the men of the 155th Battalion in their big tent last night.

Captain Thorn, officers commanding the Special Service Battalion, has returned to camp after spending a few days at his home in Lindsay.

The military editor of the Standard has been invited to deliver an illustrated lecture in the large recreation tent of the 154th Battalion on Friday evening next, August 11th.

There will be a concert in the tent of the 155th next Tuesday evening when several ladies from the city will take part.

The Special Service Battalion have opened their canteen. It is nicely equipped, and the men are pleased to have such an institution in their lines.

The 155th Battalion were unable to get into St. George's Cathedral at the special anniversary service Friday morning, and marched as far as the city park where they remained until the service was over.

Corporal Hogan of the 156th Battalion has been granted a certificate of qualification in Machine Gunnery, on the termination of the school of instruction at Kingston, on the 2nd of June last.

The artillery units at Barriefield Camp are certainly going in strong for athletics of all kinds. A meeting held last week showed that the boys were anxiously waiting for developments that would enable them to try out their talent.

SOLDIER CHANGED CLOTHES WITH A SCARECROW

MONTREAL, Aug. 4.—Eugene Bouthiller is a novel kind of soldier, to judge by the story told by a Grand Trunk Railway constable yesterday. Wednesday Bouthillier turned up at Coteau Landing, on the Soulanges Canal, in uniform. Later he appeared in mufti, having changed clothes with a scarecrow, who apparently did not object. Having robbed the scarecrow, Bouthillier seems to have figured that he must make public restitution of some sort. So he began to give away handfuls of small change on the station platform. The constable stopped Bouthillier's philanthropic work, stripped the still unprotesting scarecrow of his military trimings, and as a sequel Bouthillier this morning pleaded guilty to a charge of deserting his regiment.

TO SHOOT ALL ENEMIES

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Frankfurter Zeitung, says a despatch from the Reuter correspondent at Amsterdam, reproduces from the Rhenisch Westfaelische Zeitung, of Essen, a remarkable letter arguing that Germany has the right to treat as common murderers any subjects of neutral states caught fighting on the side of Germany's enemies. The letter, in part, says: "We are waging no war with the United States, but North Americans whom we encounter with arms in their hands ought to be treated as franc-tireurs and shot."

The Frankfurter Zeitung asks if the Rhenisch Journal would consider it legal for England to have shot Germans who fought against the British in the Transvaal.

JEWS IN COURT

Saturday afternoon the Police Court was occupied with a charge of assault preferred by one Jewish junk dealer against another. The parties had a dispute about some dealings between them, which ended in a fight. The accused seemed to have rather the best of the fight, but the Magistrate said, as one witness put it "they were like a pair of game cocks," he would not impose a fine. After the close of the evidence the parties were permitted to settle.

SYNOPISIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territories, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Applications for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections or legal sub-divisions of sections and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

Compensation to Fire Survivors

Northern Ontario Farmers Find Their Land Cleared Almost Free of Charge

HAILEYBURY, Ont., Aug. 5.—Despite the heavy death list, which, however, official figures are likely to reduce considerably below the earlier estimates, and the damage to property in the fire-swept area, the general sentiment throughout Northern Ontario is that the fire is not an unmixed evil. Bush fires may be regarded as a heroic method of farm clearing, but the fact remains that settlers returning to their burned-over holding will find that they have been saved an immense amount of labor in the clearing of land. The general consensus of opinion, which is generally optimistic, is that despite a temporary setback in the loss of buildings, machinery and loss of portions of crops, there will be a new agricultural awakening in the north. A few days of fire have superceded the work of months with the axe and brushhook, and, in the opinion of several, who have returned from the fire zone, the actual loss by fire will be more than compensated for by the comparative ease and cheapness of land clearing. This, according to a farmer from near Haileybury, will not exceed $3 an acre, whereas before the fire the clearing cost might be placed at least $40 an acre. The general view is that by reason of the lands cleared, the farmers will reap next season three or four times the crop they have hitherto secured.

Prospecting for minerals will, it is also asserted, be aided by the clearing of the ground.

With sporadic outbreaks of fire here and there the situation is still not without further danger, but unless strong winds spring up the situation now is not regarded as dangerous.

Five hundred feet of hose were sent from Cobalt to South Porcupine as a precaution against fires burning south of the gold camp, but it is not expected that there will be any need for its use. Englehart is also considered to be safe.

A Splendid Spirit.

Toronto, Ont., August 5.—A telegram from Hon. G. Howard Ferguson to Premier Hearst on fire conditions in the North, states that the fire area from Ramore to Cochrane is chiefly on the east side of the railway. The largest area is from Matheson to Iroquois Falls, extending to the Quebec boundary. Practically everything is wiped out. A splendid spirit is shown by settlers almost all of whom are anxious to get back to the land.

PRESBYTERIAN, CENTRAL ASSEMBLY, WINNIPEG, MAN., JUNE 1916.

During the last Presbyterian General Assembly at Winnipeg a number of delegates from the Maritime Provinces made their trip to Winnipeg via the Canadian Government Railways, Grand Trunk Railway System and the Transcontinental Line. The Grand Trunk are now in receipt of a eulogistic letter from these delegates, fifty two in number, which reads as follows:

"The undersigned, commissioners to the Presbyterian General Assembly at Winnipeg and their accompanying friends from the Maritime Provinces, hereby express their very great satisfaction with the conveniences and comforts enjoyed by them during their journey.

"The officials of the Transcontinental Line, from the highest to the lowest, were not only faithful in the discharge of all their duties during this first excursion trip on their line from the Atlantic to Winnipeg, but they cheerfully did everything they possibly could to make the trip to be a long remembered one by all who took it."

Pawnee Bill to Produce "Pioneer Days"—Many Indians and Champion Cowboys and Girls

Pawnee Bill, the millionaire banker, and one of the few remaining members of the old western pioneers, is bringing his big wild west production "Pioneer Days" to the Canadian National Exhibition this year. Pawnee Bill's last appearance at the Exhibition was in 1892, when he had a very small show. In his present production he has over fifty head of stock, and there are 85 people in his company, including some of the world's champion horsemen, rifle shots and ropers. He will appear on the Midway, and in addition will present each afternoon and evening in front of the grand stand a half dozen of his best acts.

STEADY FLOW OF AMMUNITION IS THE CHIEF FACTOR

General Haig Writes British Workers Even Brief Holiday May Prolong War

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—An official diagram received by a British official in this city shows the rise in production of shells in Great Britain from September of last year up to two weeks ago. The diagram indicates that two weeks ago the production of shells had almost reached the maximum capacity of the British plants, and that this probably would be reached within the next few weeks.

With the diagram there came from the British War Office a copy of a letter from General Sir Douglas Haig, the British commander-in-chief in France, in which he appealed to the munition workers not to lose a moment's time in keeping the army at the front plentifully supplied. A two days' let-up in the supply, said General Haig, would be a serious thing for the army in France, and "might even mean the addition of many months to the war." General Haig's appeal, written from his headquarters in France, was as follows:—

"I feel sure that you would like to know how fully the troops in this country appreciate the strenuous and self-sacrificing efforts which are being made by their fellow countrymen at home to furnish them with the quantity of ammunition necessary to bring this campaign to an early and successful conclusion.

"At this moment we are engaged in the greatest battle the British army has ever fought. Our daily progress has been continuous since the battle opened, but the success of our gallant troops has only been made possible by the guns and ammunition turned out in the factories at home.

"The munition workers at home very generously gave up their Whitsuntide holiday and were promised two days in August instead. I fully appreciate how tired they must be, and how much they must be looking foward to that promised holiday. Yet, I feel confident that if they could but see their comrades fighting here, both night and day, with heroism and determination which is beyond all praise, they would not hesitate to surrender those two days' rest, and would devote them to maintaining, and, if possible, increasing the supply of guns and shells, without which victory is impossible.

"I ask you to put the facts before the workers, and I know they will consent.

"Two days' cessation of work in the munitions factories must have the most serious effect on our operations. It might even mean the addition of many months to the war. The pressure which we have now brought to bear on the enemy must not for a moment be relaxed. The troops are prepared and eager to maintain it, but the continuous supply of ammunition is a vital factor.

"The army in France looks to the munition workers to enable it to complete its task, and I feel sure that this appeal will not be in vain.

"Let the whole British nation forego any idea of a general holiday until our goal is reached. A speedy and decisive victory will then be ours."

The official to whom a copy of General Haig's appeal was sent said that it could be stated officially that the commander-in-chief's desires in the matter of munitions would be more than met by the workers in the British shell and munitions manufacturing plants.

Lawyers Engage In Personalities

WINNIPEG, Aug. 5.—There were a few moments of tension in the trail of the ex-ministers this afternoon, when R. A. Bonnar, K.C., chief Crown counsel, told F. M. Burbidge, one of the defence lawyers, that he was a liar. A dispute arose when the defence tried to put in a letter from Auditor Fearnley o C. H. Dancer. The Crown objected that the document was a copy and the judge ruled that when an original was available a copy could not be used. A. J. Andrews, K.C., chief defence counsel, said the Crown had the original. Mr. Bonnar replied that it was not in the files, and Mr. Burbidge intimated that if the Crown would search their files they would find it. "Then you're a liar," retorted Mr. Bonnar.

Mr. Burbidge stepped to the Crown's side of the table, where Mr. Bonnar was sitting, and took the senior Crown counsel by the shoulder. Mr. Bonnar stood up, and a stalwart officer hurried in their direction as the two lawyers faced one another. Then Mr. Justice Prendergast applied soothing words. He said the present case was one in which the defence should be allowed the fullest latitude in cross-examination, and he added that he was sure an expression of regret would be forthcoming from Mr. Bonnar. Mr. Bonnar replied that the statement of Mr. Burbridge was to the effect that he (Bonnar) was not telling the truth. His Lordship declared the incident closed.

A little earlier Mr. Andrews and R. M. Haig, K.C., of the Crown counsel, participated in a somewhat similar incident. Mr. Andrews devoted a lot of time in seeking to have V. W. Horwood, under cross-examination, do a little arithmetic to ascertain the yardage cost of concrete. Horwood refused, saying he could not make the division accurately in court. Mr. Craig remarked that he would not like to do it himself in court. Mr. Andrews declared that "this man is ready to come along and tell any sort of a disgraceful lie to help out the witness."

"Are you talking to me? Then you are no gentleman," retorted Mr. Craig.

"Well, you are not," said Mr. Andrews, and he proceeded with his cross-examination.

It was the eleventh day of the trial and the eighth day Horwood has been on the stand. Horwood at the opening of the session apologized to J. P. Foley, former member of the Legislature for North Winnipeg, for having introduced his name by mistake.

Resident Highly Honored in Death

Almost a Thousand Employees of Kingston Locomotive Works Attend Funeral of William Yellowly

KINGSTON, Aug. 10—A magnificent last tribute was paid to the memory of the late William Yellowley, whose body was laid to rest Wednesday morning. The officials and almost 1,000 of the employees of the Locomotive works, of which Mr. Yellowley was superintendent, attended the funeral in a body, having marched from the works, and all were visibly affected, realizing that they had lost a faithful friend. The funeral was private, but many citizens were present to express, by their attendance, appreciation of his life, and regret at his passing. The floral taributes were numerous and beautiful, and spoke eloquently of the fragrance of the good deeds of the departed which will live many days. The burial case, which was surrounded by flowers, was of solid mahogany and was copper lined, trimmed with silver bars. Its beautiful simplicity was a striking testimony to the life and character of the deceased.

The service was conducted at the family residence, 69 Union street east, by Rev. Alfred Brown, pastor of Sydenham Street Methoddist church.

The pallbearers, all employees of the Locomotive Works, representing different shops, were: G. E. Lee, William Patterson, William Grant, Edward Nugent, Walter Fraser, J. B. Ahern. The chief mourners were the five sons of the deceased, Thomas of Toronto, and William, Robert, Walter and Charles, at home.

Interment was made in Cataraqui Cemetery, the locomotive employees and others following the mortal remains of a kind boss and a good citizen, a large part of the way, even going as far as the cemetery. Rarely has a more impressive funeral cortege been seen in Kingston, and never has a more sincere tribute been paid to the memory of a Kingstonian.

HOTELS LIABLE FOR TAX

"No Bar" Hostelry Ordered To Pay Business Tax

WINDSOR, Aug. 10.—Hotels which have their bar licenses revoked before September 1916, when Ontario goes dry, will not be exempted from payment of the business tax, according to a judgment delivered yesterday by County Judge Dromgole at Sandwich. The ruling was made as a result of an appeal by the proprietor of a Leamington hostelry against a business assessment made by the Town Assessor of Leamington, where local option has been in force since 1911.

The hotel proprietor relied upon judgments given by the County Judge of Huron, who held that hotels which lost their licenses through local option becoming effective should not be compelled to pay a business tax.

Judge Dromgole does not concur in these decisions, declaring that hotels without licenses can be assessed properly for business tax if any kind of business is carried on therein.

Liberal Stories "Tissue of Lies"

Hon. Robert Rogers Says The Globe Has Grown Sour in Opposition--Hungry for Office

OTTAWA, Aug. 10.—Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, had drawn to his attention a copy of the Ottawa Evening Free Press, covering statements respecting the Parliament Buildings made by the Toronto Globe and London Advertiser.

"You can say, if you wish," said Mr. Rogers, "that I am no longer much surprised at the lying and dishonest statements of the Toronto Globe and its caddy, the London Advertiser. They have grown sour, distempered and hungry in their five years of Opposition, and have now become so desperate that they would apparently just as soon repeat lies from day to day as tell the truth, for there is no doubt about it that the representatives of the Globe newspaper knew perfectly well that their statements in respect to the Parliament Buildings have been a tissue of deliberate lies and misrepresentations from the very beginning.

"I do confess, however, that I was a little surprised at an editorial which was drawn to my attention yesterday and which appeared in the Toronto Star last Saturday on the same subject. Before reading it I had some hope that Joseph Atkinson would at least have some rspect for truth and common decency, but he apparently has neither. I understand he attended the Liberal conference here in Ottawa a couple of weeks ago and was no doubt there made acquainted with the honest facts of the situation. Yet notwithstanding his personal knowledge of the facts he turns his paper in and joins in the chorus of the Globe in a campaign of lying and misrepresentation."

ENEMY ATTACKS WITH MACHINE GUNS, BUT ARE REPULSED

Canadian Press Special

LONDON, Aug. 11.—British statement in full:—Last night the enemy opened a heavy machine gun and rifle fire on the high wood, followed by an artillery barrage on the back area. We replied effectively, and no hostile attack was delivered. North of Bazint, in Lepetit, we made further progress, taking short lengths of trenches and inflicting considerable loss on the enemy. At 5.15 a.m. the enemy made a determined counter-attack on the trenches captured by us. This attack was repulsed with further heavy losses to the enemy. Northwest of Pozieres we also advanced our line slightly at certain places. Near Neuville St. Vaast we exploded a mine last night and occupied the crater with little opposition. South of Ypres we successfully raided the ruined farm in the enemy's lines. On the remainder of the front there was no event of importance.

WIFE RESCUES MAN FROM TERRIBLE DEATH

Holds Him By Ankle As He Hangs Out Hotel Window In Detroit.

DETROIT, Aug. 10.—For a period of three minutes, Joseph O'Hare hung between life and death balanced on a window ledge twelve stories above the ground at the Hotel Pontchartrain while his young wife clung with a grip of desperation to his back to safety, but so badly frightened that he suffered a nervous breakdown and was taken to the Receiving Hospital.

O'Hare, who is a wealthy Chicago business man, with his wife motored to Detroit several days ago, registered at the Pontchartrain and were given a twelfth-story room. This afternoon they sat by the window talking. Just outside a flower box was blooming, and Mr. O'Hare reached out to pluck one of the blossoms. His foot slipped on the smooth carpet and he started to fall outward. His wife seized his ankle just as it reached the ledge.

Mr. O'Hare managed to recover his strength just in time, and by clinging to the edge of the eleventh-floor window pushed his body upward, while the woman clutched at his coat. Between them they drew his body to safety.

Confident Men Will Uphold Honor of Dominion

Sir Robert Borden Delivers Inspiring Address at Aldershot Review--The Canadians' Record

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 10.—Sir Rob. Borden reviewed the four battalions of the Nova Scotia Highlanders and 97th Battalion of the American Legion at Aldershot Camp today. The men made a good appearance and a fine showing in the manoeuvres which were witnessed by the Prime Minister. The weather conditions were ideal and a number of visitors were at the camp, including Governor David MacKeen, from Halifax.

Sir Robert's message to the men, delivered to them after the review, was brief and full of feeling. "You are leaving us soon," said Sir Robert, "and you are going to the front at a most important and vital period of this great struggle. We are entering upon the third year of war. The first year was one of testing, as it were; the second, one of preparation; but the third year will be one in which the armies of Great Britain and her allies will fight harder and fiercer than they have ever before."

Sir Robert reviewed the record of Canadians who have made the name of Canada immortal. On April 22, 1915, sons of this Dominion had stemmed the tide of the German drive on Calais and had saved the cause of humanity for the British Empire, for the Allies and for the civilized world. "That is the glowing example those who have gone before have set," said Sir Robert. "In sending you forth, Canada bids you godspeed, firm in the assurance that you will do honor to the trust she has placed in your hands. Take off your caps with me and give three cheers for His Majesty the King."

The response to Sir Robert's words came in cheers that were almost deafening.

Previously to his visit to Aldershot, Sir Robert was at the Methodist Camp meeting in Berwick, where he delivered an address. His speech was an appeal for a continuation of that steadfastness of purpose and devotion to duty that thus far has stamped the conduct of the people of Nova Scotia with its own seal.

Sir Robert Borden will arrive in Halifax tomorrow morning.

A new vein was run into a few days ago by the diamond drill at about 1000 feet from the shaft, at an incline depth of 1229 feet. The vein is six feet in width and assays $14.80 to the ton.

Canadian Press Special

PARIS, Aug. 11.—(Afternoon statement.)—North of the Somme our artillery directed a destructive fire against the defensive of the enemy. In the course of our operations we took prisoners and captured two machine guns in the small wood northeast of Hardecourt. On the left bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) we made a surprise attack on German trench east of Hill 304, and brought back prisoners. On the right bank there was the usual artillery fighting and skirmishing with grenades northwest of Thiaumont works. On the remainder of the front intermittent artillery fighting occurred. Wednesday night French aerial squadrons bombarded the railway station and barracks at Vouzieres and a station.

FIVE BELIEVED DROWNED: LAUNCH COMES ASHORE

Tragedy Which Wipes Out Well-Known Edmonton People —Lost in Storm

EDMONTON, Aug. 11.—Special—Word of a drowning accident yesterday at Lac La Biche, 126 miles northeast of Edmonton, in which five well-known Edmonton people are believed to have lost their lives, reached the city last night. The victims were: Harry Flowers, Manager of the Sommerville Hardware Company here, and formerly of Regina; Mrs. Flowers, Mrs. Williams, wife of E. B. Williams, barister; Mrs. Soper, wife of H. E. Soper, Chief Clerk of the Provincial Treasury Department, and their daughter, Elaine, aged fourteen. They were all guests at the new J. D. McArthur hotel in Fort McMurray, at Lac La Biche. On Wednesday afternoon they were out on the lake in Mr. Flower's gasoline launch, when a severe storm came up suddenly. Since that time no trace has been found of the party, and the upturned boat drifted ashore yesterday afternoon.

GOVERNMENT HELP FOR THE FIRE SUFFERERS

Federal Authorities Contribute $100,000 to Northern Relief Association

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—(Special.) —A message has been received by the Government from the president of the Northern Ontario Fire Relief Association expressing his thanks at the generous contribution of $100,000 to the fire sufferers, and asking the Government to nominate a member of the board which is to supervise the distribution of the relief. This the Government does not think necessary, as it is confident the money will be wisely expended.

NEW OFFENSIVE BY RUSSIANS STRONG MENACE TO TEUTONS

General Letchitzky to Form Line of Attack North of the Dniester—Enemy Vainly Striving to Stem This New Advance.

LONDON, Aug. (Special.)—Russian troops are within gun range of Stanislau, the great Teutonic stronghold on the right wing of the army guarding Lemberg.

General Letchitzky, following up his victory at Tysmienitsa, has pressed westward and north-westward until his army is now within six miles of Stanislau. He is now preparing to drive across the Koropiec River and launch a new offensive north of the Dniester River.

Such an attack would greatly imperil the position of General von Bothmer, whose right has been protected by the flooded Dniester. The appearance of an offensive north of the Dniester. which has already carried the Russians as far west as the crossing of the railroad at Nizniolf, 20 miles east of Stanislau, injects an entirely new element into the situation. With Monasterzyski seriously flanked, Gen. von Bothmer finds himself with General Letchitzky in the rear of his advanced position along the Stripa and in close touch. The Austrians are vainly striving to stem this new advance by desperate counter-attacks, in which the troops engage in hand-to-hand encounters, but apparently with the net result always favoring the Russians.

The totalling of Gen. Letchitzky's prisoners during the ten days' operations shows that he has taken upwards of 15,000, and it is estimated that 10,000 more men were put out of commission. This would bring the grand total of prisoners to General Brussiloff's credit since early in June to 402,000.

MOUNT PLATEAU FOR DRIVE TOWARD TRIEST

Italians Wage Fierce Battle on Front of Thirty Miles—Troops Under Duke Aosta Now in Complete Control of Four Crests of Monte San Michele and Have Firm Foothold on Doberdo Plateau

Terrific fighting is being waged on the lofty Alpine summits which rise up out of the Isonzo valley. The Italians are now in complete control of the four crests of Monte San Michele and hold a firm foothold on the Doberdo plateau, a part of the vast Carso plateau across which their advance to Triest must be made.

Following their conquest of Monte San Michele, which they have held twenty-five times only to lose again before the final conquest, the Italians pushed on and occupied the village of Boschini.

Amid the cheers of his soldiers King Victor Emmanuel has himself entered Goritz, over which the Royal flag again flies after a lapse of many years.

The Austrians, in a desperate effort to halt the successful Italian operations on the Lower Isonzo, are delivering furious attacks at many other points along the front. According to a statement received to-night from Rome these have been uniformly repulsed.

A total of 12,072 Austrian prisoners have been brought in, Rome officially announces, while the Austrian dead choke the mountain gullies and fill the caves and caverns which they had converted into artillery positions. The last peak on Monte San Michele was captured after a flotilla of Italian dirigibles had dropped tons of high explosives upon the Austrian gun emplacements. The dirigibles fought off swarms of aeroplanes with machine gun fire, while Italian planes went to the aid of their comrades of the sky.

Vienna claims to have halted the Italian advance across the Doberdo plateau and to have captured more than 4,000 prisoners. The Austrian lines have now been straightened, it is announced, the Italians offering no opposition, following the repulse of their efforts to advance.

Cavalry was used on a big scale in the fighting around Goritz after the Austro-Hungarian lines had been broken. Heavy losses were inflicted, and a steady stream of prisoners has been pouring in since the beginning of the fighting, the War Office states.

BRITISH INCOME EQUALS BURDEN

Chancellor of Exchequer McKenna Reveals Financial Strength of Empire

LONDON, Aug. 11.—(Special.) —Reginald McKenna, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was subjected to criticism in the House of Commons yesterday on the ground of over-reliance upon Treasury bills, his critics arguing that the large amount of such bills outstanding constituted a danger, and that the Government ought to have issued another war loan.

In the course of his reply the Chancellor claimed that Great Britain was able to borrow abroad at much lower terms than any other belligerent power. He estimated the nation's total indebtedness at the end of the present financial year to be £3,440,000,000.

From that amount, said the Chancellor, the nation was entitled to deduct £800,000,000 loaned to Allies and Dominions of the Empire, the sum left being a burden it could well sustain, as it was practically balanced by the national income. He declared Great Britain was in the position of a man whose income was £5,000 and whose debts amounted to £5,000, which was not an alarming position.

The Liquor Law Important Point

Claims That Shipments From Within This Province Not Illegal

TORONTO, Aug. 10.—The possibility that liquor may be delivered in Ontario from local manufacturers without having to be shipped to Quebec and back is now being discussed, and it is expected that a test case may be taken when the Ontario Temperance Act comes into effect on September 16th. The clause on which this effort will be based is that providing for the sale of liquor to a person within the Province by a person outside the Province, and vice versa. The argument is that a bonded warehouse, being in effect Dominion Government territory and solely under the jurisdiction of the Federal authorities, is outside the Province. Nor could the official in charge of such a warehouse be prosecuted by the Provincial authorities for any actions in keeping with the Federal regulations governing his duties. Therefore, it is claimed, shipments could be made from brewery or distillery into bonded warehouse, and a liquor dealer in Quebec, on receipt of an order for liquor in Ontario, could have that order filled direct from a bonded warehouse in Ontario.

The question has already been drawn to the attention of the Ontario License Board, and Mr. J. D. Flavelle, the chairman, has asked Hon. I. D. Lucas, Attorney-General, for an opinion on it. Mr. Flavelle stated today that he would not be surprised to see a test case taken immediately the Act went into force.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

FROM J. J. B. FLINT

No one desires to die. Every one wishes to live. In order to prolong ones life, it is absolutely necessary to attend to the body, and supply its wants. What does the ordinary individual require to give and to keep in good health? He requires exercise of his bodily organs, and agreeable amount of nourishment. There is a large number of our citizens, who do not attempt to comply with nature's demands, and who will shortly, in consequence of their own neglect, die. Lawn bowling is one of the best tonics to sustain life, and it is a great misfortune that mahy people of both sexes, do not give their attention to this splendid exercise. Bowling gives our fresh air, sunshine, pleasant companions, a stimulous to success. It is not fatiguing and every muscle of the body is exercised. It is not expensive. Nearly every city and town has its club. Next Wednesday a return match will be played here with the Kingston club, on the club grounds. All citizens who desire to witness the match, will be welcomed. Quite a large number of our Kingston friends will be here. Our club needs additional members. We want a better green. We require more funds. For your own sakes join, and lend the club a hand.

Yours truly,
J. J. B. FLINT.

Sir. David's Sense of Appreciation

Sends Pair of Skates to Picton Lad Who Contributed 40 cent To Sailors' Fund

Col. Cecil G. Williams, chief recruiting officer for the Dominion, tells of an interesting incident which gives a glimpse of the human side of the character of that great British naval officer, Vice-Admiral Sir David Beatty.

It happened in Picton last fall when Col. Williams was lecturing there, and making an appeal for comforts to be sent the sailors in Britain's navy. As the Colonel, along with the local newspaper man, was leaving the hall, a boy approached him and extended his hand. There were 40 cents in it.

"That's for the sailors," said the lad, shyly. "I was saving it up to buy a pair of skates, but I can do without them."

Col. Williams refused to take the money. "God help me, I didn't see the spirit of the boy," he remarked afterwards. But the Picton editor nudged him on the arm, and said—"Take the boy's money—it will do him good." The colonel finally took the 40 cents.

He sent the money to Lady Beatty, along with a note explaining the origin of the gift. She was so struck by the spirit of self-sacrifice shown by the lad that she sent the letter on to Sir David, who with his British bulldogs was somewhere in the North Sea, keeping watch day and night for the fleet of the foe. Sir David liked the lad's unselfish spirit so much that he assembled the crew of the Lion and read Col. Williams' letter to the accompaniment of the cheers of the men.

A few weeks later there arrived in Picton a pair of the best silvermounted boy's skates obtainable in England, the thanks of Sir David and Lady Beatty for the 40 cents given by young Carter.

"It was a paying investment," says Col. Williams. "That pair of skates will be hiscoric."

AUTO STOLEN AT PICTON

The police department of Belleville were this morning advised from Picton that a Ford car bearing the number 9619 had been stolen in that town and it was supposed the two parties in charge of the car were enroute to this city. Although every effort was made to intercept the men in charge of the car it was apparent they did not come to Belleville.

A beautiful camp has been fitted up by Mr S. S. Moore, which is the attraction of the Park. A pleasing part of the outing is the unique and handsome Indian costumes worn by the young ladies.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENT

The guests of the Massassaga Park Hotel and the campers on the park, who have cottages on the park were last evening entertained by Mr. W. T. Fleming who is the manager of the hotel and park. The event was most enjoyable in every respect, and Mr. Fleming left nothing undone for the comfort and pleasure of those he was entertaining. Dancing was indulged in at the pavillion, appropriate music for which was furnished by the Sprague orchestra. Refreshments of a dainty nature were provided.

CANADIAN BONDS ARE STRONG IN NEW YORK

The continued strength of the Canadian bonds in the New York market is taken as evidence that the second domestic war loan to be made shortly, will prove a success. The 15-year Canadian issue in New York is holding steadily above par, although put out in the spring at 94.94. Meantime the five-year security, put out at 99.56, is maintaining a shade under par, illustrating the favor with which the long term issue is viewed. As a result of this indication, it is believed that the minister of finance will decide on a longer maturity for the new war loan than the ten-year bond sold last fall. It is understood that the terms will be framed to attract the American investor as well as the Canadian. Meantime the action of the external loan in New York seems to show that the government may count on receiving a good price for the new issue.

Canadian Pacific Subway Under Selkirk Mountains to Bear the Duke's Name

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 10.—His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, has, at the request of Lord Shaughnessy, graciously allowed the tunnel which the Canadian Pacific Railway bored under the Selkirk Mountains to be named after him. The "Connaught Tunnel," which is five miles long, double tracked, gives the Canadian Pacific Railway the lowest grade of any trancontinental line through the Selkirks. His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught went through this tunnel on the 17th July last, when the bore had been completed. This tunnel was bored in less than three years, and therefore holds the world's record for tunnelling. The permanent tracks are now being laid in the tunnel, and trains will be running through it very shortly.

FULTON'S SUBMARINE

The Nautilus and Its Then Daring Feats in French Waters.

That Robert Fulton set more store by his submarine plans than any of his other projects or achievements in ship designing is recalled by Farnham Bishop's "Story of the Submarine." It was in Paris, where Fulton had received from Napoleon an advance of 10,000 francs to build a submarine, that his Nautilus was brought to completion.

"On her first trial, on the Seine at Paris, in May, 1801," writes Mr. Bishop, "the Nautilus remained submerged for twenty minutes with Fulton and one other man on board and a lighted candle for them to navigate by. This consumed too much air, however, so a small glass window was placed in the conning tower and gave light enough instead. Four men were then able to remain under for an hour.

"After that Fulton made the first compressed air tank, a copper globe containing a cubic foot of compressed air, by drawing on which the submarine's crew could stay under for six hours. This was in the harbor of Brest, where the Nautilus had been taken overland.

"A trial attack was made on an old hulk, which was successfully blown up. The submarine also proved its ability either to furl its sails and dive quickly out of sight or to cruise for a considerable distance on the surface. Once it sailed for seventy miles down the English channel."

A Fatal Bargain

OR

The Man Who Dared

.... BY NICHOLAS CARTER ....

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XVII.

Patsy Turns Another Trick

That Coyle meant business, as he had said, as brutal business as one could well imagine, and that he and his confederates were fully capable of executing his diabolical threat, were very apparent to Nick Carter.

Several other facts also had become obvious to him through what had occurred that night. He knew that he had been trapped by Nora Selkirk, that her cunning had been greater than he had thought, and he realized with some chagrin that she had temporarily outwitted him.

Nick consoled himself with the thought, however, that he had driven the woman into showing her hand, and had clinched his suspicion concerning her.

Nick could not detect in any of the four men into whose hands he had fallen must be Nora's confederates, that they would not consistently be part of any subordinate gang at work on the Harlem River job, but much more likely were the projectors of it, or men in close relations with them and her, and that their assertions to the contrary had been made only with a design to turn suspicion into a wrong channel.

Nick could not detect in any of them, however, any resemblance to Todd, McNulty, or any of the men he had been led to suspect, and he realized that the gang and game must be even greater than he had imagined.

That these observations and deductions were to be of any future service, however, would have appeared extremely doubtful to a man of less nerve, prowess, and faith in his own resources than Nick Carter.

For his captors at once set about executing Coyle's threat, and with a dispatch that left no doubt of their intentions.

While Selkirk hastened to unlock one of the doors of the shed, as directed, Coyle and the others seized Nick to remove him from the box on which he was seated.

"Hold on!" one of them abruptly said. "We ought to gag him before lugging him outside. A yell for help might be heard."

"That's right, too," Coyle growled, whipping out a handkerchief to tie over Nick's mouth. "You can wag your head, Carter, when you're ready to speak. Youll speak, too, or you will have no head to wag. Do you hear?"

"Oh, yes, very distinctly," sneered Nick, with an indifference that seemed to aggravate his questioner. "But you're taking a good deal of trouble for nothing. You'll get no information from me."

"Nor will any man, then," Coyle snarled significantly, while he knotted the handkerchief back of the detective's head. "Lay hold again, you fellows."

Nick noticed the terms with which he addressed these two, further convincing him that this man was not one of a gang in common with them, as had been asserted, but was a superior whom they were accustomed to obey.

If he felt any fear of the threatening outlook, Nick's face did not betray it. Its paleness was due only to the knock-out he had suffered, and his strong, clean-cut features wore a look of grim austerity evincing his stoical nature and invincible nerve.

It is a racking thought, nevertheless—that of lying bound and powerless under the hammer of a pile driver, of being secured face upward between the tall timbers through which it descends with lightning-like velocity, and of gazing up at a half-ton block of cast iron which the twist of a wrench may start on its downward career, yet the utmost power of men cannot then check.

Before the three men could lift Nick from the box, however, there came a second interruption—a single, short, sharp whistle, from some point out of doors. It fell with immediate effect on the ears of the several men.

"What the devil's that?" cried Selkirk, hurriedly closing and locking the door he had partly opened.

"It sounded like our signal," said Mauley.

"That's just what it was," Coyle declared, quickly relieving Selkirk's apprehensions. "It must have come from Dan Cullen, who was to meet us here at eight. This unexpected job landed us here a little earlier."

"Dan Cullen, eh?" thought Nick. "I'll remember that."

"It was a slip of Coyle's tongue, his mention of the name of one of the gang, yet it passed unnoticed by any of them in the momentary excitement.

"See if Im right, one of you," Coyle quickly added. "Look through the peek before opening the door."

Mauley hastened to obey, running to the door opposite that at which Selkirk was standing. There he drew a loose knot from one of the boards near by and crouched to peer out into the starlight.

He saw only one dark figure, standing motionless near the door, one he quickly recognized.

"It's all right," he cried, with a backward glance at Coyle. "That's who 'tis."

"Let him in," Coyle commanded.

"Hold on," Selkirk cried impulsively: "You have forgotten that he——"

He was about to remind them that Cullen was the man whom Nick had so nearly captured in the tunnel, and that a recognition might prove disastrous in case their present designs miscarried.

His interruption came too late, however. Mauley had already turned the key, and Cullen, hearing it, quickly opened the door and strode into the shed, crying gruffly:

"Come in, kid. Come in and meet the boss. He'll make good for what you've done, and mebbe will——"

But the hangdog ruffian got no further with is remarks, for Coyle, seeing Patsy follow him into the shed, uttered a wolflike snarl, and reached Cullen with a single bound, then clapped his hand over the speaker's mouth.

"Silence!" he fiercely hissed, forcing Cullen back nearly to the wall. "Are you mad? Who's this fellow you've brought here? Can't you see we're not alone? Don't speak our names, not for your life. Who's this fellow?"

The situation was one that startled every participant.

Mauley hurriedly closed and locked the door.

Filled with dismay, Selkirk and Greer rushed to Coyle's assistance, the three crowding around Cullen and warning him to be silent.

Patsy coolly stepped aside, thrusting his hands into his pockets, but his gaze fell upon Nick the next moment, sending a thrill through him from head to foot.

"Holy smoke! they've nailed the chief!" flashed through his mind. "Gee! here's something doing right off the reel."

The startling discovery brought no sign of recognition from either detective, however, when their eyes met for a moment.

Yet Nick Carter beheld with genuine relief this timely arrival of his young assistant. He guessed the truth the instant he saw Cullen's face. There was no mistaking it—that hard-featured, desperate countenance, with its bulldog jaw and thin lips, its gleaming eyes and beetling brows the same threatening face indelibly fixed in Nick's mind when seen in the headlight's glare, as the midnight express came thundering down upon them while they battled in the tunnel.

"Oh, ho! Patsy here with the rascal!" he mentally exclaimed. "He ran him down, then, as I expected, and has turned a clever trick. He's making a play to get in with him and his gang, eh! I must try not to queer it It gives promise of too much, since he's getting on so famously. Dan Cullen, eh? Well' I've got your name at least, you rascal! Unless I'm much mistaken, Patsy will now get the others."

One undesirable possibility occurred to Nick, however, while his captors were holding a whispered discussion near the door—a possibility that Patsy, seeing him in so desperate a situation, might suddenly hold up the five men with his revolver, in order to rescue him and insure their immediate arrest.

Nick did not want this done, except as a last resort. He know that a great felony had been committed, the result of a conspiracy involving some of the big men of Wall Street, and that these five men were not the chief instigators of the several crimes already perpetrated. To arrest them at this stage of his investigation, therefore, might prevent making a clean scoop of the entire gang.

Nick realized, too, that there were many complications still to be unravelled, much to be learned in connection with the case, which the premature arrest of these men might hopelessly pervert. These included the positive identification of Judge Packard's assassin, the whereabouts of Allen, the assistant district attorney; the recovery of the documents and records stolen by Cullen, and the establishment of the precise degree of guilt of each of the numerous criminals involved.

In view of these contingencies, despite that he was gagged and bound, Nick seized the brief opportunity presented to communicate with Patsy. He accomplished this by tapping with his finger nail on the empty box on which he was seated, producing a succession of sounds not unlike those of a telegrapher's key, which any expert operator readily interprets by ear. Nick had drilled all of his assistants in this method of communication, using the ordinary Morse code, and Patsy's ears were alert when the first faint tap reached them.

In less than half a minute, Nick thus telegraphed him:

"Careful. Avoid arrests, if possible. Play your own game. I'm wise."

Patsy scratched his head, a prearranged signal, to show that he had heard and understood.

THIS IS THE 678TH DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

THE SHELL INVESTIGATION COST OVER $50,000.

"Who is going to pay the fifty thousand odd dollars which represents the cost of the Meredith-Duff Royal Commission of investigation into fuse contracts?" asks an Ottawa telegram. That is the question now to the fore now that the bills are coming in.

Of more immediate interest is the question against whom the cost of the investigation of the Shell Committee is to be charged. It was learned today that the committee are disinclined to assess it against the Imperial authorities. Although it was an Imperial body, the investigation was not requested by the War Office and therefore it is held that they should not be asked to pay for it. If the investigation had been conducted in an ordinary court the costs would be assessed against Messrs G. W. Kyte and F. B. Carvell as unsuccessful prosecutors, and members of the committee would not be at all disinclined to take this course. However, a Royal Commission has no power to assess costs.

It is understood the cost of the commission will be well over $50,000. One of the first bills to come in has been that of Mr E. F. B. Johnston. It is said to amount to $7.000.

There can be no questions as to the payment of the $50,000. The Dominion Government ordered the investigation, appointed the Commissioners and the lawyers to look after both sides of the question, a policy seldom, if ever before, adopted by a party Government. Charges were made on the floor of Parliament that grave wrongs had been committed in the awarding of contracts by the Munitions Committee, and insinuations, if not direct charges, indulged in by unscrupulous politicians that one of the members of the Canadian Government was a party to the frauds. To meet these charges, two judges were appointed to make a thorough investigation into what had been denounced as frauds, and the extraordinary course adopted of giving Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Leader of the Opposition, who made the charge, authority to appoint a prosecuting lawyer at the expense of the Canadian Government.

Would the leader of a Liberal Government have adopted such a course? Doubtful. The more likely course he would adopt would be to treat the whole tirade of abuse of such members of Parliament as Kyte and Carvell with contempt. However, the investigation was held, and the Minister against whom wrongs were charged honorably acquitted, and the Liberal lawyer is to get, if his account is allowed, the magnificent sum of $7,000 for his services in prosecuting a Minister of the Crown who had done no wrong. Such is Grit politics.

MANITOBA GOVERNMENT'S WITNESS IN THE SCANDAL TRIAL.

The closing scene at the cross-examination of Horwood, the ex-Provincial Architect of the Manitoba Government, will enable the reader to form an opinion of the man, who is still kept on the Norris Government pay roll at $4.00 a day doing nothing, except appearing in Court when called upon to give evidence against Sir Rodmond Roblin and members of his late government.

As the cross-examination of Horwood was drawing to a close, says a Winnipeg telegram of the 8th inst., Victor Horwood, the ex-Provincial Architect, "confessed that on at least one material account involving Sir Rodmond Roblin he had made a mistake," for which, says the report, he was "rebuked by Court." Here follows a short account of his statement under oath:—

Horwood swore positively and repeatedly that Sir Rodmond had personally signed the $215,000 south wing steel contract, for he had witnessed the signature. On exhibition it was established that such was not the case. The witness admitted he was mistaken.

It was a painful scene through which the witness was dragged when he was asked to explain the motives which impelled him to suddenly change the story which he had told before the Public Accounts Committee when he repeatedly swore the contract had been honestly adminstered and economically handled, and became the chief figure in the indictment of the Roblin Ministers.

Leading up to the exciting topic, Horwood said he had long been employed by the Government and the Ministers were his personal friends, having treated him with great consideration. It was in April of last year, when he was forced to go to the hospital to undergo what he was told might be a fatal operation, that he changed his story. He said Crown counsel had come to him and he had told them for the first time the new version. He said since that date he had been drawing $4 per day from the Attorney-General's Department. He said he had told the other story under instruction from the Ministers as it could not do them any harm.

Following the theory that Horwood and Kelly were alone in the alleged conspiracy, defence asked the witness if at any time he undertook to pay out his own money to keep Salt, the caisson inspector, out of the country, he had not been guilty of some eight felonies as a result of his evidence before the Public Accounts Committee, the truth of which Salt might reveal if he was allowed to testify.

Horwood said yes. He added that he had paid out some $1,600 of his own money to get Salt away. When it was suggested to him that he did this, not to protect the Ministers, but himself, Horwood said he had been reimbursed by Dr Simpson for the cash he had spent on Salt.

When he was shown the record increasing his salary in 1914, by $2.000, he was asked if he had not been willing to participate in the alleged fraud to the extent of this increase and he said yes. The frankness of the witness saved him from a very compromising position.

This is the character, as acknowledged by himself under oath, of the Norris Government's witness, whom the Government has kept, and still keeps, on the pay roll of the Province. On the principle, it may be supposed, that the witness should be paid for the work he is doing, and who amply earns the money!

Mail and Empire: The Italian people could have no more stimulating victory than the opening of the way to Trieste. The recovery of the capital of Istria will now be an immediate objective, not a lure dangling out of reach. Italy will be able to win herself that which she went into the war to get. The Government at Rome will undoubtedly be much strengthened by a victorious campaign in the Carso region, and fuller play will be allowed Italy's superior forces. The moral effect in Italy should be to encourage the final break with Germany, toward which she is inevitably heading. Between advancing Russians and Italians, and with Roumania on the south, Austria-Hungary could not long maintain itself even with German assistance. Austria-Hungary becomes more of a burden to Germany by the new phase of Italy's Irridentist campaign.

Montreal Herald: The Toronto World, which is the organ of Mr W. F. Maclean, Conservative member for South York, is in a pessimistic mood over the question of political leadership. It says that every political party is apt to get an old man of the sea on its back, and that "Usually the Premier is beyond all question the leader of his party, but it may happen that he has no command or influence over the great body of his supporters." The World explains that it is not talking of bad men or discredited men, but of "good, moral, colorless, impossible men," who, having been elected, cannot be got rid of. It says that "Such a situation approaches opera bouffe. At any time it would be grotesque, but it becomes tragic when we encounter it in our country's most dire and heroic age." Now who can the World possibly be referring to?

WOMAN'S KINDNESS

The light of woman's kindness makes easier the way
For the blind who walk in blindness except for the guiding ray
Of a woman's faith and devotion, her sweetness and her cheer,
When only the shadows hover and the dark and doubt are near.
The light of a woman's kindness
Is a light where kings may go,
And the high souls and the mighty
That have bled from the battleblow.

The light of a woman's kindness helps over the hills of strife
To the vales of the pleasant beauty of the sunlit way of life;
Her grace and charm and devotion,
her patience and her skill,
Are the joys of a living purpose to the hearts that feel its thrill.
The light of a woman's kindness,
It turns to the golden day
The shadows that cloak and hinder
The hearts of the daily fray.

The light of a woman's kindness
makes sweeter all we do,
And it helps in the ceaseless struggle,
and it holds us strong and true,
Its cheer and its comfort lead us, and we triumph in the end
Because in a woman's kindness a woman has been our friend,
Praise her and glorify her,
For the light that she brings our eyes,
And the spirit to turn from the shadows
To the light of the living skies.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

Wigg—There is nothing like being seasick to take the conceit out of a man. Wagg—Yes; and about everything else he has in him, too.

So Many Klondyke Men Enlist Gold Mining Industry Tied Up

There is a possibility that the loyalty of Klondyke territory may result in paralyzing the mining industry in that isolated section of the country. "Joe" Boyle, president of the Canadian Klondyke Gold Mining Company, who is at the Chateau Laurier, stated today that some means would have to be devised to keep sufficient labor in the country, to guarantee the running of the mines.

"We are intensely Canadian, and loyal enough to let our men go," he stated. "We would like to be able to contract for men from the United States to fill their places, however. It wouldn't matter if they were not quite so good, for you can't get as good men as they breed in the Klondyke," he added. He will try and arange with the Labor Department for the introduction of alien labor.

J. M. Boyle, or "Joe" as he is known, will be remembered as the man who brought a hockey team four thousand miles in 1903 to contest for the Stanley Cup. The team was unsuccessful. Jack Marks, now of Quebec, who still chases a puck though nearing forty, was a member of that team. It was a great sporting venture, however.

"Conditions in the Klondyke are excellent," stated Mr. Boyle, who is a massively built man with a shock of hair like Samson, and a demeanor that even outside his apparent strength commands respect. "We are paying the highest wages in the world."

A demand has gone out for 400 more men to be trained for overseas service, in British Columbia. These are native miners, cheechakos and sourdoughs, men acclimated to the north country, who for years have followed the silver trail.

Best for the Work

"There aren't better men in the world for the work," said Mr. Boyle who stated that not only was the Klondyke, but Alaska as well was feeling the pinch of war.

"They are the men that want to fight, and we can't hold them, we do not want to hold them if they want to serve," he explained.

"Gold must be had to help speed the bullets, and men must be had to dig the gold," was his summary of the situation.

HE WAS AFRAID OF BEING AFRAID

Midnight was close at hand, and an end was in sight, though by no means come, to the long day of unremitting toil for the R.A.M.C. staff, says an old country writer.

The perspiring bearers had no more than another thirty or forty stretchers to carry ashore.

"I heard you asking that lad what was the bravest act he saw in the break through the Boche second system" said the second in command of a service battalion which had made a fine name for itself. The man, much bandaged, was in the end cot of the hospital.

"I should like to tell you about a boy in my battalion," he said. "He was rather like that lad who's just gone. He was no older; a bit thinner, perhaps, and in temperament about as different as I imagine a rather over-trained inbred racehorse is from a prize ox.

"It was two nights before the first advance that I first learned he was afraid—mortally afraid. No one had ever guessed it, I am certain; I never should. But he told me, and there was no mistaking the fact.

"It wasn't strafing he feared. He wasn't afraid of Boches, or of being killed, but he was mortally terrified of being afraid—afraid of fear.

"You may have heard that our battalion rather distinguished itself. We were in the first advance Ten minutes before I was knocked out young —— was killed by a bomb. He lived for about three minutes after he was hit, and he died in my arms.

"I think he tasted greater happiness in dying than he had ever known in living—since the war began, anyhow.

"I had talked with him nearly every night all through the terrific time. Nothing could reassure him.

"At least a dozen times he must have deliberately stepped out into a hot fire to pick up and carry in one of his own wounded. Three times, to my knowledge, the wounded man was hit and killed in his arms, while he went untouched.

"Brave! He was a knight of old chivalry. More fearless acts no poet ever wrote about than he performed a dozen times a day.

"And all the time I knew, and nobody else but himself knew, that he went in mortal fear—afraid as most soldiers never have been, not of being killed, God knows, but of being afraid.

"He was smiling like a woman when he died. He said: 'They never guessed. I'm so thankful that I——' And then he was gone. But I knew what he would have said."

Duke of Connaught To Visit Fair

Will Be Accompanied by the Duchess and Princess Patricia-- Farewell to Queen City

TORONTO, Aug. 10.—His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, the Duchess, Princess Patricia and staff from the Government House will say farewell to Toronto before their departure for overseas on Tuesday. Wednesday and Thursday, September 5, 6 and 7. The first day of their stay in Toronto, Tuesday, September 5, they will visit the Exhibition. The entire afternoon of that day will be spent on the grounds and in the buildings, while the evening will be devoted to the grand stand performance.

Col. Noel Marshall, president of the Exhibition, has returned from a trip to Ottawa, where he interviewed His Royal Highness regarding his Toronto farewell, and as a result Tuesday was decided upon as the day he would spend at the grounds. The civic reception will likely be extended the following day at the City Hall, while Thursday has been left open for general engagements.

The Exhibition officials have not yet completed arrangements for the reception to the visitors, but it is likely to take the form of a purely local farewell, one of the proposals being that the Overseas troops from the model camp on the grounds, large detachments from the local militia, the school children of the city, cadet corps, boy scouts and similar organizations be invited to take part in a typically rousing Toronto welcome to the Royal party on the Exhibition grounds.

It was first suggested that large detachments from the battalions in training at Camp Borden be brought down for the day, but the likelihood is that the Duke will review the troops there previous to his arrival in Toronto.

IN & ABOUT THE CITY

SEIZED A BOAT

Mr. Walter T. Ross, Collector of Customs, at Picton, has seized the Str. Prince Edward Ferry, running between Glenora and Adolphustown, for running without a Certificate of Inspection.

REMANDED TO JAIL

In the early part of last evening a number of the local police answered a call to the western part of Moira street, and arrested a party who gave his name as John Cook. The charge preferred against him was vagrancy. This morning the accused was by Magistrate Masson remanded to jail for a few days. Cook is a stranger in the city and claims United States as his home.

CALL FOR POLICE

At a few minutes after eight o'clock last evening, the police answered a call to the lower part of Front street, where it was reported a girl had been insulted. Upon investigation it was ascertained that the report was foundless.

A LARGE FAMILY

On a G. T. R. express which passed through Belleville at midnight last night was a woman, who had in charge nine children all of whom were of tender years. The party were enroute to Montreal where the intention was to take a steamer for the Old Country. It was learned that the husband and father was at the front and that his family was enroute to the Old Country where it was their intention to live.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

155TH BATTALION CONCERT

Wednesday evening a most enjoyable concert program was given in the large tent of the 155th Battalion. Captain Dodds, chaplain of the battalion, occupying the chair, and in his usual able and pleasant manner made the undertaking of the evening one of the best the battalion has enjoyed since coming to camp. Miss Frances Devlin, was the accompanist, and Mrs. Dodds, Miss Phyllis Devlin, Miss Higgerty, and Mr. Simpson gave a number of vocal selections which delighted the crowded tent, and each praticant had to respond to frequent encores. Dr. Evans gave a recitation, and Mr. Simpson played a number of selections on the violin. The audience was a most enthusiastic and responsive one, and enjoyed every number on the program. All were importuned to "Come again" by the boys. Miss Higgerty, who has taken an active part in entertaining the boys at Barriefield, returned to her home in Ottawa yesterday morning.

TAKING SIGNALLING COURSE

The following men of the 155th Battalion will report to the District Signalling Officer on Tuesday, August 15, for the purpose of taking a course in Signalling:—Corporal W. A. Glover, C. Co.; Pte. J. A. Saylor, A. Co.; J. J. Deacon, A. Co.; R. Packard, B. Co.; C. Knight, C. Co.; F. Miller, C. Co.; K. Watson, D. Co.; R. R. Bullied, D. Co.

156TH HAS BEST BAND

The 156th Battalion has the best brass b andat Barriefield camp. The fact is admitted particularly as the 155th Bandsmen have all been inoculated and there are no competitors. These two bands however, are evenly matched and the competition between them gives splendid results to each which vie in winning the approval of those in command as to their relative merits.—Kingston Whig.

WILL TAKE COMMISSION

Sergt. Charles A. Gibson, W.O., who was overseas with the 2nd Battalion was at the camp on Thursday afternoon. He will report to Lieut.-Col. M. K. Adams, commanding the 155th Battalion, to take a commission in that unit. Sergt. Gibson was in the Spanish-American war, fought the Mexicans in Mexico, the Boers in South Africa and finally the Huns in France, and was wounded in each campaign. His home is in Belleville.

NOTES

The 154th Battalion has a football and baseball league, together with company track teams. They are all keeping in trim for any events that may open during the camp season.

Mr. Vanderwater, of Thurlow, and his family, were visitors to the lines of the 155th Battalion yesterday. Mr. Vanderwater and party motored to camp from their home in Prince Edward county.

Mr. Sykes the evangelist who conducted a gospel tent among the artillery brigade last summer, is working in conjunction with the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Sykes spends the day in personal work among the men of the different battalions.

The soldiers drilling at Barriefield camp present a splendid sight as they go through their physical training exercises on the grounds in front of headquarters. Until 10.15 a.m., daily, all of the drill is conducted on the upper parade ground and the mass of khaki-clad men going through the various movements presents an inspiring sight. It is one of the best that the camp presents and is watched with interest and curiosity by all visitors to the camp who happen to come at that time.

Australia Buys Big Cargo Fleet

Fifteen Steamers of Strath Line Acquired by Premier Hughes--Price Paid $10,000,000

MELBURNE, Australia, Aug. 10.—"Mr. Hughe's Wheat Ships," "The Commonwealth as Ship Owner," and like headings in the Australian press signalized the news of the federal prime minister's quasi-commercial coup in buying the Strath line of cargo carriers upon the eve of his leaving England to return to Australia in order to relieve the wheat situation in the Commonwealth. That the premier acted with characteristic force and boldness—for among other things the purchase has not as yet any constitutional sanction—is generally conceded; but whether he did wisely is quite another matter.

For those who see in state socialism no specific for the ills which trouble highly developed and complex communities, Mr. Hughes' transaction will point a moral; it is likely that if he had not stepped between the Australian farmers with their "bumper" crop of wheat and shipping companies operating between Europe and the Antipodes there would have been no governmentally controlled wheat pool; and if there had been no pool he would not have been faced after more than three months of negotiating, with the alternative of either acquiring steamers for the wheat at exorbitant figures or else going back to Australia with confession that the scheme was a dismal failure.

But should the fifteen steamers which he has bought succeed eventually in transporting all the surplus wheat, and should the demand for ocean craft rule as high months hence as it does now so that they can be disposed of at a profit, the whole deal will be a decided feather in the Antipodean statesman's cap along with the feathers gained by his breaking the German hold upon the British baser metals supply.

.... In Favor of Purchase ....

Apart from the gratification felt by Mr. Hughes' laborite colleagues that at last the Commonwealth is the possessor of an overseas fleet by which in war or peace its Government—by which they mean themselves indefinitely—can engage in further socialistic schemes, the Prime Minister's admirers here urge that with the price, heavy as it was, ($10,000,000) which he paid for the steamers he endeavored to buy the salvation of Australian wheat farming; that the cost of the ships is part of the cost of war and under the circumstances cannot be grudged; that the Commonwealth being now the owner of a number of cargo carriers will be able to adjust freights without allowing for war profits for shipping concerns and the British Government; that considering the abnormal value of all classes of vessels at present he drove a good bargain; and that the whole world being short of ships there is ample room for the lucrative use of every allied or neutral vessel afloat.

"PRICE CUTTING" BANNED

Winnipeg Retail Merchants Adopt Contract Selling Plan

WINNIPEG, Aug. 10.—Commercial preparedness was the keynote of the day's deliberations of the Dominion Board of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, which will close its annual convention here today.

What is held by the executive officers as being the outstanding feature of the day's activities was a "get together" meeting of retailers, creditmen, wholesalers and manufacturers, which was held last night.

A joint committee was apopinted to which all matters pertaining to legislation affecting all parties concerned will be referred. During the day the Dominion Board adopted a contract selling plan, which marks a new era in the retail trade of Canada. If the plan proves successful it will be carried out on a broad scale, and by this all "price cutting" will be eliminated.

PRIVATE GEORGE M. WRIGHT GETS D. C. M.

Pte. George M. Wright of Picton, has received the Distinguished Conduct Medal for bravery.

Pte. Wright is the son of Mrs. Beatrice Wright of Picton, and grandson of Mr. Stephen Thurston. Pte. Wright enlisted with the 39th Battalion. In England he was drafted with reinforcements for the 20th Battalion. The feat for which he has been deservedly honored was performed in a bombing raid on the 27th of June. The leader of the raid, Lieut. D. S. Anderson of Toronto, fell mortally wounded on the enemy's parapet and Pte. Wright carried the wounded officer in under fire. Anderson and Wright were left in a shell hole about ten yards from the enemy's parapet, both wounded—the officer through the pit of the stomach and left leg broken, and Wright in the foot and right leg. They laid there for over an hour and were fired at and bombed all the time. Wright packed the officer on his back and crawled from the shelter of one shell hole into another, then with the officer on his shoulder made a break for the Canadian line. He was nearly across when he was hit with a rifle grenade in four different places and he reluctantly left Lieut. Anderson in the shelter of a shell hole, being too weak from loss of blood to carry him farther. Before his comrades could return to the rescue, Lieut. Anderson died from loss of blood. Private Wright is now in the Royal Victoria Infirmary at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England—Picton Gazette.

VETERAN SEA CAPTAIN TO QUIT SERVICE

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—Commander W. S. Mains, F.R.G.S., well known in Montreal as an Allan Line skipper, and in command of the S.S. Hesperian when that vessel was torpedoed and sunk, is soon to leave the sea. He is in Halifax now in command of a big ship. He will take that vessel back to Liverpool; then ashore to assume other duties. A position on the nautical consulting board in England has been offered him.

With the passing from the sea of Commander Mains, the last of the older captains of Montreal's ocean ships disappears. Capt. Frank Carey, of the C.P.R., quit last year after fifty years' service.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

A Sleepy Time Story That Is Both Interesting and Instructive.

DISCOVERY OF TREE PRUNING.

How a Wise and Hungry Old Animal Performed a Good Deed and at the Same Time Acquired a Square Meal. Interesting Items For Small People.

I am going to tell you tonight, said Uncle Ben to Polly Ann and little Ned, a story about

THE WISE DONKEY.

There was once a farmer who had a donkey, and, like most people who own donkeys, his master did not have a great deal of respect for his wisdom. One day the donkey showed him that he knew a great deal more than he was given credit for. At any rate, after this occasion the farmer thought him far wiser than a whole forest full of owls, who have ever been regarded as the wisest of feathered folk. But to begin at the beginning:

The hero of this tale—the donkey—was very hungry. His master, thinking him only a donkey, thought he did not know the difference between eating prickly thistles and something better. The donkey was very tired of thistles, and his stomach felt like the "old scratch" because of them. He gave a loud bray and before he got to the end of it—not farther than b-b-r, in fact—he saw the gate into the orchard was open. The donkey had always longed to go into this forbidden place, but the gate had been kept securely locked. His master could not lock the smell of the apples and pears from reaching the donkey's nose, though, and this smell made the donkey long more and more after the good things which grew there.

The donkey could scarcely believe his eyes or nose either, but the second glance showed him that his eyes had not deceived him. The gate was open; consequently the donkey was invited into the orchard. Once inside, he lost no time in sampling the fruit of a fine apple tree. You know how fond your pet pony is of a nice juicy apple. Well, you can imagine how a donkey who had been raised on thistles would regard a tree full of them. He ate and ate until no pig would have recognized him. Branch after branch came off the tree in Mr. Donkey's attempt to get the delicious apples. All went well until his master returned. When he saw what the donkey had done, poor donkey got the worst whipping that he had ever received in his life. The master almost cried, for his tree was ruined, and the apples were the finest ones he owned.

The year following, what was his surprise to see that the tree he had looked upon as ruined bore double as many apples as any other tree in the orchard. Besides this, the apples were finer and larger than any he had ever grown. He was ashamed of the way he had treated the donkey for his part in the scheme. He gathered a large basket of the apples and himself carried it to the poor donkey. Ever after this the farmer pruned all the trees in the orchard, and from so stupid an animal as a donkey the valuable process of pruning trees was discovered.

Jumbled Dinner.

"Oh," said Ruth, "I know what we will have at grandma's. There will be plapes, knipmup and cemni pies; yetruk, of course, with plenty of gyarv; reelcy and skiecoo, with ocfefe and drice to drink."

One Summer Day.

Little rabbits in a row,
All dressed up, no place to go,
Said the tiny, frisky one:
"Let us go and take a run."

"Let's sit still," said t'other rabbit,
He who had the lazy habit.
"I know what to do," said Creepy,
"Sweet be our dreams, I'm sleepy."

TYPICAL OF HIS RACE

NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL IS A REAL CAVENDISH.

In Appearance and Characteristics He Recalls His Famous Uncle, the Former Duke — As Victor Cavendish He Was Unionist Whip—The Duchess is Celebrated as a Hostess in England.

IN Parliamentary circles in London there is the utmost confidence that the Duke of Devonshire will prove a Governor-General carrying confidence and esteem, and winning friends throughout the Dominion, says a London correspondent of The Mail and Empire. A better appointment could not have been made. I have seen a good deal of the Duke. I remember the time when as Mr. Victor Cavendish he was a Unionist whip, and was thus brought in touch with members of Parliament of both sides of the House. He is essentially British in type, a man just in his prime, a little above the medium height, rather heavily built, but with easy movement. His head recalls his uncle, the famous Duke of Devonshire, who concealed much sagacity under a certain reserve and even apparent dulness until the countenance lighted up. The present Duke has not the same taciturnity, but he has the same characteristic of deliberateness, of caution and of firmness. He gives the impression at once that his judgment will be slowly formed, but will be pre-eminently fair, and that he is destitute of personal vanity or ambition. He represents in an especial degree the type of English aristocrat who has taken his part in public life from a high sense of duty, and goes through with it cheerfully and amiably, though with a feeling of responsibility that is very apparent. His circumstances, indeed, confirm this thought. The inheritor of the magnificent estate at Chatsworth, which is the Mecca of American tourists, and which throws them into ecstasy from its picturesque magnificence; the inheritor also of Devonshire House, one of the finest town mansions, rich in art treasures which were the envy of Pierpont Morgan; the possessor also of a spacious and fine seaside domain at Eastbourne—this is the man who applies himself persistently and untiringly to public pursuits, and now leaves all his home glories in order to come to Ottawa to take the arduous duty as Governor-General of Canada. Arduous it might not be if he chose to regard the office as ornamental, but everyone knows that, while he will keep strictly within his functions, he will do all that he can do for the Dominion thoroughly and well—that is the way of the family.

The training of the Duke of Devonshire for his career was not limited to the ordinary public school and university education. When he had obtained his degree he was placed in the office of a firm of city accountants to get an insight into finance. He was also entered at one of the Inns of Court and qualified as a barrister. Afterwards he came to the House of Commons. His uncle and he were on excellent terms; they understood each other perfectly, and there are many stories to show that they did not waste words in idle chatter. There was an occasion in the days of his youth when the heir was thought by the Duke to have done something foolishly, something that required an apology from the youth to his uncle. Accordingly the former was summoned into the presence of the senior. Then there was silence. After a considerable interval the Duke, addressing his nephew, tersely said: "You are a silly ass." The dutiful nephew responded quietly, "Yes, uncle." Then there was another pause; it was so long that the Duke felt bound to break the silence, and once again he said briefly, "You are a silly ass." The only difference in the observation this time was that extra emphasis was put upon the word "are." The dutiful nephew again replied respectfully, "Yes, uncle." That was all that happened, nothing more could be expected; no one could say that the lad was failing in deference to his uncle. But for all that he was not prepared to make mournful expiation, and probably his uncle appreciated the family quality.

There is another story which might create a false impression if I did not qualify it. The late Duke was the subject of many anecdotes concerning his reputed apparent drowsiness. His intimate friends knew that this was rather a feint than reality; it was a way he had of resting himself and protecting himself against bores. The present Duke, I should say at once, has not followed the ancestral trait. With that matter made clear I may mention the anecdote of the occasion when during duty on the door of the House of Commons as a Unionist whip he dozed. The object of a whip being placed on the door is to prevent members leaving when they may be required for a division. The first knowledge the then Mr. Victor Cavendish got that he had been asleep for a moment or two on the previous evening was a demand from a young M.P., a scion of the nobility for one hundred pounds. "You owe me a hundred pounds," was the first salute. When explanation was demanded the young M. P. said it happened in this way: "If you had not been asleep on the door I should not have got out and gone to a music hall and lost my watch." For all that, however, I believe the claim was resisted.

Careless Talkers.

Some fellows are so clumsy that they canot even talk without making a break.

Superstition is what prompts a person to believe a horseshoe over the door has more virtue than a lock and key.

Strikers Leave Thetford Mines

Both Employers and Workers at Asbestos Plant are Still Holding Out

THETFORD Mines, Que., Aug. 11.—A number of the striking mine workers have left this place, no less than 60 going to Shawinigan Falls. Others have gone to Drummondville and other places in the province, while a number have decided to take in the harvest work in the west.

Both sides still hold out. The employers are firm in their position There are two unions concerned. The members of one, comprising the larger number of workers, are declared to be satisfied with conditions and desire to continue at work. The other union is a newcomer in the field. It is an international, connected with the American Federation of Miners, and was responsible for calling the strike. The work in the asbestos mines is in the nature of quarrying. Only a few of the workers are skilled. The rate of pay has been increased in a short time from $1.50 to $2 a day, and the companies now offer $2.25 a day. The demand is for $2.50. This demand the companies feel they cannot grant. Their representatives also take the ground that they cannot "recognize" the union, and characterise as unfounded the statement that the majority of the men want what recognition means. The mass of the men want to work, and if they were free from outside influence it is held they would go to work. If the strike is prolonged the mines will be kept closed, and, when they are re-opened, the wages paid will be lower than those now offered.

The stoppage of work is a serious matter for the companies, as there is a demand for asbestos at present. The town is also suffering in its business.

GAMBLING IN BREAD

Chicago Behind Rise in Price, Says London Daily Express

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Under the heading "Gambling in Bread" the Daily Express today explains to its readers that the new rise in the price of bread, which goes into effect in London next Monday, is due to manipulations in Chicago.

"Circumstances," says the Daily Express, "appear to have conspired to enable the Chicago wheat market to indulge in one of its periodic gambles for the purpose of putting up the price against bread later.

"While it is not believed that Chicago can create anything like a corner in wheat, there is a strong impression that operators in the Chicago pit are forcing prices as high as the market will let them go. Meanwhile supplies are rotting in the quays in Australia and being used as fuel and large quantities are being held up in Argentina for lack of ships."

Rumor Has it He Will Be Under Secretary for External Affairs

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—Latest parliamentary gossip has it that R. B. Bennett, M.P. for Calgary is to be appointed parliamentary Under Secretary for External Affairs as assistant to Sir Robert Borden. Recently Mr. F. B. McCurdy was appointed Under Secretary of the Militia Department and an order-in-council was passed creating the position of Under Secretary for external affairs. This has not yet been filled and it is said Mr. Bennett is to be the man. Sir Robert since the war has been seriously overworked and this appointment will relieve the strain on him.

ALLIES STRIKE BLOW ON MACEDONIAN FRONT

Important Battle Raging Near the Greco-Serbian Frontier Between British, French and Serbs on One Side and Bulgars on the Other—About 600,000 Troops Attack Enemy Positions

LONDON, Aug. 12.—A heavy battle was raging last night near the Greco-Serbian frontier, with the allied troops from Saloniki attacking the Bulgarians. Already the allies have captured the station of Doiran and the high ground nearby.

The attacks are believed here to be the preliminaries of a great offensive of the 600,000 men who have been gathered at Saloniki. The last ounce of pressure will be brought against the far-flung battlefronts of the Central Empires and their Balkan allies The drive has a two-fold purpose; to clear Serbia of the invaders and to bring Roumania into the war on the side of the Entente.

Last Link in Great Drive

With the allied steam roller under way in the Balkans, the last link in the great offensive on all fronts is completed. First news of the battle was received here yesterday in an official statement from Paris, which announced the occupation of Doiran station. Berlin, for the first time in weeks, mentions the Balkans, reporting the repulse of "sham attacks." A great artillery engagement is under way, according to a despatch from the Centrals News last night.

French, British and Serbians are taking part in the new campaign. About 120,000 Serbians, constituting the reorganized army, are at the front.

A Central News despatch from Athens says that Gen. Sarrail has been appointed Commander-in-chief of all the allied forces at Saloniki. Gen. Cordonnier has taken command of the French troops.

Joffre Receives An American Woman

Invites Chicago Artist and Praises Work of Her Countrywomen

PARIS, Aug. 11.—The first American woman to be presented to General Joffre at his headquarters is Miss Grace Casette, a Chicago artist.

Learing that Miss Casette was in the military zone introducing a new surgical bandage, the French Commander-in-Chief invited her to pay him a visit. General Joffre told her he was especially glad "to take this opportunity of expressing gratitude for the personal services of American women in the war," and made complimentary references to the American Ambulance work generally.

Miss Casette says she was struck by the General's silent force and calm determination. When he received her General Joffre wore his engineer uniform which bore no decorations except his rank.

Miss Casette was accompanied to headquarters by Mrs. John F. Bass and Norman Scott, members of the French-American Committee for Improved Surgical Appliances.

The Americans presented to General Joffre a pipe in a case lined with the flags of the Allied nations by the Communal. He remarked that he appreciated the souvenir, but that he did not smoke. General Joffre has distributed 63,000 packages of cigarettes while on his military rounds.

Miss Casette has worked for the last two years with the American Ambulance at Neuilly.

Zimmerman's Boastful Peace Talk—Says Allies Cannot Drive Through In West

AMSTERDAM, via London, Aug. 11.—The Berliner Tageblatt today reproduces an interview had by correspondent of a Hungarian newspaper which Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, the German under secretary for foreign affairs, in which Dr. Zimmermann said the time to talk peace had not yet arrived.

"Conscious of our strength and invincible prowess, and of success," Dr. Zimmermann is quoted to have said, "we repeatedly offered our willingness to enter negotiations for peace conclusions. It is known that the entente power, under the pressure of England, have not shown the same readiness. Therefore full responsibility for further bloodshed falls upon the entente powers.

"The entente allies live under the impression that the present offensive can better their position. We are firmly convinced that the iron wall in the west cannot be shaken, and that the new successes in the east cannot stop us.

"Unless our enemies are convinced by the failure of their efforts that they cannot alter their military position, it is useless to consider the question of peace prospects."

STRONG INFANTRY ATTACK OF ENEMY REPULSED WITH HEAVY LOSS

Canadian Press Special

LONDON, Aug. 12.—A strong infantry attack was delivered last night by the Germans on the Somme front north of Pozieres. An official announcement says: "The enemy renewed his efforts to recapture trenches we lately wrested from him on high ground north of Pozieres by delivering a strong infantry attack yesterday evening, supported by heavy artillery fire. This attack was repulsed with heavy losses, and nowhere did he succeed in piercing our positions. Elsewhere along the front there was no change.

Relief Work Is Progressing

Federal Government Will Not Appoint Member to Committee--People Well Supplied

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—The Dominion Government will not name a representative on the Northern Ontario Relief Comittee which was organized in the city a few days ago. Hon. Robert Rogers, acting Prime Minister, is willing that the committee as it stands, and acting under the auspices of the Ontario Government, shall handle disbursement of the Dominion Government's $100,000 donation.

Reports received by the Northern Ontario Fire Relief Committee from Northern Ontario show that relief work at all points is going along nicely. So far, owing to several days' supply being on hand at each station the Toronto Committee has only been called upon to make one shipment. it is expected, however, that heavy shipments will be required early next week to take care of the relief work.

The committee has received a number of inquiries from Toronto and throughout the Province as to where donations of clothing can be sent. It is expected that arrangements will very shortly be complete for a central receiving station for such donations, an announcement of which will be made as early as possible.

Responses to the committee's appeal for funds are now being received from many municipalities and Boards of Trade throughout the country to the effect that as soon as the various executives and councils can be called together liberal assistance will be afforded.

Flood Deaths Placed at Sixty

Thousands Made Homeless in Valleys of West Virginia--Story Told By Witness

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 11.—Rescue parties proceeded far into the mountain districts to-day carrying relief to thousands of homeless people in the Cabin Creek Valley, which was swept by a flood Wednesday, causing a loss of more than sixty lives and property damage reaching into the millions. Progress was slow as many bridges have been washed out and the roads are blocked by slides.

J. W. Hartless, of this city, who was at Eskdale Wednesday morning when the cloudburst swept Cabin Creek Valley, is the first to reach Huntington from the flooded district. According to his story at 8.30 o'clock in the morning Cabin Creek started rising at the rate of eight feet an hour and continued until the creek reached from mountain to mountain. Houses floated down stream at the rate of one a minute. He watched almost all of Eskdale swept away. Whole families rushed for the hillside, he said, but some never reached safety. One could hear women praying on all sides.

TEAM KILLED ON PARLIAMENT HILL

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—J. Couvrette, of 483 Booth street, had a miraculous escape from death and serious injury yesterday when the team he was driving in dumping earth into the excavation for the foundation of the new Parliament buildings was killed.

Couvrette in disposing of his load backed too far, with the result that the rig, horses and all fell over a distance of fifteen feet. In the fall both horses broke their necks and the wagon was smashed. Couvrette, who is well advanced in years, managed in some way to get himself out of the entanglement and escaped with only a few slight bruises and cuts.

The horses were the property of Mr. James Plunkett of 261 Bell St.

CONGRATULATES THE ITALIAN KING

PARIS, Aug. 11.—President Poincare has sent the following telegram to the King of Italy: "I learned today while in a town re-conquered in Alsace of the taking of Gorizia by the Italian troops. The acclamation of the population delivered by our army enabled me still better to understand the joy of Italians, freed by the victory of their brothers. I beg Your Majesty to accept my heartiest congratulations for the magnificent successes of your brilliant army."

ITALIANS ADVANCE ON LOWER ISONZO LINES

Entire Doberdo Plateau is Now in Possession of Cadorna's Troops—New Victories an Important Step Toward Clearing Salient Formed By Bend of Isonzo Behind Goritz

LONDON, Aug. 12.—(Special.)—The Italians continue to press their advance on the Lower Isonzo lines. They have now reached the line of the Vallone River, advancing, since the fall of Goritz about four miles on a front of twenty miles. The entire Doberdo plaeau is now in their possession, according to official despatches from Rome, as well as the towns of Rubbia and San Martino del Carso. The number of Austrians taken prisoner is reported to have been increased by several thousand.

By their new victories the Italians appear to have taken an important step toward clearing the salient formed by the bend of the Isonzo below Goritz. The Doberdo plateau was the scene of heavy fighting earlier in the war, but the Austrians obstinately withstood efforts of the Italians to win this important position. This fighting took place on a front some distance below Goritz, the capture of which enabled the Italians to push forward in the direction of Triest in this region San Martino del Carso is six miles southwest of Goritz. It is about twenty miles from Triest.

Hughes Campaigns Among Farmers

Presidential Candidate Wins Their Approbation Even on Preparedness Plank

FARGO, N.D., Aug. 11.—Charles H. Hughes campaigned for the first time today among the sturdy farmers of the eastern part of North Dakota, and left behind him the reputation of being a "pretty good fellow." He was forced to undergo a critical scrutiny before the verdict was given.

Mr. Hughes preached the doctrines of government efficiency, Americanism, tariff as protection to the farmers, and preparedness, and in each instance won applause, despite the fact that the farmers are not the strongest advocates of the last-named issue. They cheered for preparedness the loudest when Mr. Hughes told them that it meant, not militarism, but ability to uphold national honor. They cheered for Mr. Hughes, one broad-shouldered farmer said, because. "There's something about him that makes you believe he's telling the truth."

This paragraph in particular, which smacked of peace, won enthusiasm from an audience of 8,000 at Grand Forks: "If we allow ourselves to state that right in a firm and determined manner, it should carry conviction to everyone who recognizes the right that we enjoy. There should be no vacilation in connection with that a sertion. Weakness breeds, insult insult breeds war. Honest firm, consistent, determined defence of the known rights establishes peace and respect throughout the world."

A situation entirely new to him was faced by Mr. Hughes today, for he had left behind him the big cities of the Middle West, and plunged into the country of hearty, cordial, unassuming people, who wanted to do everything they could for everybody, and treated a presidential nominee much like anyone else. Nobody took the trouble to put on his coat before going up to shake the hand of the man who may be their president, and when they shook hands they shook with a grip of iron and expected the same in return. Mr. Hughes won a lot of friends by his handshake and even the sturdiest farmer complimented him on that score.

The Meteor was in the regular lanes, making for Philadelphia, when he sighted the U-boat. It was getting dark at the time the submarine was encountered.

Children Dead In Quebec Fire

Young Girl Pluckily Saved Two Others and Also Tried to Save The Deceased

QUEBEC, Aug. 11.—A fire occurred yesterday morning at eight o'clock at 213 Hermine street in the home of Mr. Hornore Paquet, in which two little children lost their lives. Their names are Roland Verret, aged 4 years and Cecile Lemelin, aged 6 years. Alberquet, was engaged in washing the dishes, while in a nearby room four young children were playing together. There were Roland Verret, Alice Verret, Horce Lemelin and Alice Lemelin, the last named being the eldest and only 6 years old, and all being the grandchildren of Hornore Paquet. Suddenly young Albertine found herself enveloped in smoke and flames and ran crying for help to the room where the young children were playing. She succeeded in dragging two of them out of the window, where she threw them out of the window to several persons who had already gathered outside. Unfortunately the young girl was not able to go back into the room on account of the flames and smoke and she threw herself from the window, a distance of fifteen feet. She injured one of her legs in falling on to the pavement. After the firemen of No. 7 and 8 stations had extinguished the flames the two little children, whose names are given above, were found suffocated by smoke.

At the time the mothers of the two little victims were absent and could not be notified until some time later.

No star of the legitimate stage, who has entered in the greater eld of photoplay acting, has achieved within so short a time, the extraordinary success that has come to Fannie Ward, the famous American comedienne. She is now the star in the Paramount picture, "For The Defense," produced by the eJsse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, and written by Hector and Margaret Turnbull, which is to be exhibited at Griffin's Opera House on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

This will mark Miss Ward's fourth Lasky production. Her first was the comedy photoplay, "The Marriage of Kitty," and then in succession followed "The Great," the sensation of the year; "Tennessee's Pardner," and now "For The Defense."

In this production Miss Ward will appear as a petite French girl who, coming to this country as a strange, is suddenly thrown into the midst of a great tragedy. By an accident she becomes the sole witness to a murder fro which a young man, unknown to her until later assists her, is accused. When this man, who has kept secret from her his true identity, is later accused of crime, none but the little French girl is able to prove his innocence. The scenes of "For The Defense," are laid in New York and in the beautiful West. It is a story of great suspense from beginning to end.

A SPLENDID WAY TO REDUCE ONE'S WEIGHT

There is, perhaps, no one thing that shows the passing of our youth so much as the horrible tendency of some of us to put on too much weight after we have reached the age of 25 or 30. However young our face may appear, our figures "give us away."

The cause of this over-stoutness is that our stomachs convert the food we eat into fat because there is not enough oxygen in the blood to produce a proper combustion to destroy the fatty tissue. To reduce your weight go to a good druggist and get oil of orilene in capsule form, and take one after each meal. It is sold only in original sealed packages. Oil of orilene taken at meal-times gives you all the benefit of the food you eat, and at the same time dissolves the fatty tissue from any part of the body where there is excessive fat. In this way many have reduced their weight at the rate of about a lb. a day, and no flabbiness is left.

Any druggist can supply you or a large size box will be sent on receipt of $1. Address D. J. Little Drug Co.,

AVOID FATIGUE.

Why Keep on Going Till You Actually Drop?

YOUR REST AND RECREATION.

The Human Mechanism Needs Oiling, Just as Do All Machines—Order Your Hours and Have Time Left For Play as Well as Work.

Fatigue of mind and fatigue of body are the two great causes of the housekeeper's unhappiness, and you cannot say that mind or body is sound if the energy has departed.

Now, it does not go all at once, and it is your own fault if you do not lay a detaining hand upon it long before the final exit.

First we must realize that you are a machine which must be well oiled if it is to run smoothly. Of course a machine will go on running if you don't oil it—experiment, if you dare, on your sewing machine—but what happens? Instead of running smoothly and silently, it makes a grating, jarring noise, and then—it stops altogether.

The woman who goes on without oil does exactly the same. And it is her own fault, protest she ever so loudly.

The oil, you will understand, is anything which makes the wheels go easily, and the woman who doesn't avail herself of such is guilty of false economy. Every day a little oil is needed, and two kinds are necessary, for two sorts of machinery are in use—the structure of the body and the mechanism of the mind. The oil for the first is rest; for the second, recreation.

Then order is the first means to this end.

The woman who maps out her day gets everything done in time and has a little over.

Efficiency is the next—efficient workers and efficient tools. Don't keep a little maid about you who "makes more work than she does." And if you are not up to the mark yourself make haste and become so. There are always free cookery lectures to be had, and friends are usually ready to give tips, while the papers—they are just bursting with household wisdom.

Last, but not least, save every penny toward buying labor saving appliances. A carpet sweeper, knife cleaner and sewing machine will cover their cost in a few months, while rugs instead of carpets will save hours of work. Linoleum on the kitchen floor—no need to sing its praises.

And so on, and so on—convenience makes labor light and is a real saving.

Thus, working by order, efficiency and time, there is no worry, for everything goes smoothly; there are no miseries, for everybody has recreation, and there are no breakdowns, for the worker is fit for her work.

HER PORTRAIT.

For Rainy Days.

Children love to engage in the game of "playing school." They will cut out boys and girls for pupils and a few men and women for teachers. With crayons and paints they will color these nicely and fasten them to empty spools with flat sticks so that they will stand upright. The picture is first pasted to the stick, and the stick is wedged into the hole in the center of the spool. In this way the figures will stand or sit on the spool. Then the teacher figures are supposed to march the children around and to teach them. A single game of this kind will occupy all the children's spare time for a week.

The Grinder.

When baking oatmeal cookies calling for raw rolled oats, either with or without nuts or raisins, if the rolled oats are run through a meat grinder (using the nut plate) the flavor of the cookies is greatly improved and they bake evenly. When using raisins and nuts mix with oats and then grind all together and put with your other ingredients.

Fell Off a Train

On Tuesday night Mr. J. Legault of Ottawa, Canadian Pacific Railroad brakeman out of Trenton, fell backward off the top of a freight car at Central Ontario Junction, North Hastings. He was thought to be seriously injured and the Montreal passenger train was stopped and the injured man was taken to Tweed. Tweed operator was notified to have the C.P.R. physician, Dr. Robertson on hand, but as he was not available, Dr. Kindred was quickly called. He discovered that the patient's arm was badly out of joint and his ankle badly sprained. After administering chloroform, he set the injured arm and doctored the sprain. Mr. Legault was taken on the eastbound express to Perth, where he has relatives. He will be laid up for a short time, but will be able to resume his duties in about ten days.

CANADIAN PRISONERS OF WAR RECEIVE RED CROSS PARCELS

One of the admirable features of Canadian Red Cross Work is the provision made for supplying Canadian prisoners of war with clothes and other comforts, and weekly parcels of food. For this purpose a special fund has been created, and in addition, by arrangement with Government authorities, any Canadian prisoner has the privilege of assigning part of his pay to the Red Cross, which in return will send him such goods as he desires and the German authorities permit.

Some people profess to doubt whether the prisoners actually receive these parcels. The Canadian Red Cross has had, however, many letters from Canadian prisoners in Germany. Many of them are published from month to month in the Red Cross Bulletin.

A prisoner in Giessen stated, "I received my first parcel of food through the Canadian Red Cross on November 25th, and since then they have been coming regularly. Have also had shirts, underwear, socks, gloves, muffler, blanket, overcoat, sweater and a pair of slippers. All here join in thanking the Red Cross for its kindness.

No. 27561, a sergeant in the 48th Highlanders of Toronto, writes from the prison camp of Alten Grabow, "We have been looked after most splendidly by the Red Cross Society, and I can assure you that we all have received ample underclothing and outer clothing and boots. We are also receiving bread from Berne."

Another sergeant who is imprisoned in Giessen acknowledges the receipt of a gramophone, boxing gloves and a football, in addition to special parcels from Montreal.

There are innumerable other letters of a similar nature, and there is not the least doubt that the Canadian Red Cross, owing to the special privileges conferred on Red Cross Societies by the Hague Convention, is the best medium through which to communicate with Canadian prisoners in Germany.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

For further information apply to the nearest Canadian Northern Agent, or write to R. L. Fairbairn, General Passenger Agent, 68 King St., East Toronto. tues, thurs, sat.-tf

BIRTHS

BUTLER—On Friday, August 11th, at 279 William Street, to Mr and Mrs E. J. Butler, a daughter.

Little Things as an Index.

"Here," said an observer, "was a machine upon which appeared the name plate of the manufacturer, a small and not essential feature. But this plate had been set on true, and then the screws by which it was held in place had all been turned up until the slots in their heads all showed in precisely the same position, alike, uniform.

"Whoever put this plate on made a nice, finished job of it, and I should be inclined to think that a shop that had such pride in even the minor details of its work would do good work throughout."

Discourtesy.

Discourtesy does not spring merely from one bad quality, but from several—from foolish vanity, from ignorance of what is due to others, from indolence, from stupidity, from distraction of thought, from contempt of others, from jealousy.—La Bruyere.

Kiss Producers.

"I wish mistletoe were in season all the time," said he.

"Why?"

"It means kisses."

"Orange blossoms are never out of season," hinted the girl.

SUMMER DIET.

Why Overfeed the Body In Hot Weather?

Change of diet is just as essential to good health, once the warm weather arrives, as a change of clothes. No one would think of dressing in heavy woolens, furs and velvets with the thermometer soaring. Why, then, feed the system during the hot days with the same sort of heavy food which makes up the winter menu?

Too few housewives realize that the body craves change of diet once the warm weather sets in. They go on serving in summer hot soups, steaming meats, heavy desserts, just as though it were the middle of winter, and then wonder why their families do not seem to relish their food.

Begin now to serve summer meals, for warm weather is here and a change of diet is necessary to good health. Make the first change in the appearance of the table. If you have been in the habit of using cloths use doilies during the summer season, as they give the appearance of coolness and summer comfort. They are, too, a great saving of labor during the warm weather season. It is no idle task to wash out a big tablecloth once a berry stain mars its pristine beauty, but if a doily becomes soiled how easy it is to take this single piece and dip it into the tub. During the berry and fruit season, when so many spots are apt to appear, no matter how careful the diners, this labor saving scheme should be given consideration.

Some housewives go so far as to substitute the paper doilies for the linen ones, throwing them away as they become soiled. These come in so many pretty designs and are so inexpensive that this form of table adornment is both pretty and economical.

WITH THE ROAST.

How to Dress Up Your Meats Most Appetizingly.

The proper accompaniments for various roasts as laid down by one well known cook are as follows:

Roast beef should be garnished simply with sprigs of parsley and with freshly scraped horseradish. A more elaborate garnishing would include small baked tomatoes, whole mushrooms and braised vegetables, such as celery, button onions, salsify and the like. A rich brown gravy should be served with it, and small, neat squares of Yorkshire pudding garnished with sprigs of parsley and either mushrooms or horseradish.

Roast mutton should be garnished with daintily cooked tomatoes or mushrooms, or both, arranged alternately with a sprig of parsley between each, and red currant jelly should be served as an accompaniment.

Roast lamb should have a properly prepared cucumber garnish and should be served with a good brown gravy and cucumber sauce. Another and more elaborate garnish would include fried potato croquettes, cauliflower sprigs dipped in hot butter and lightly sprinkled with salt, pepper and finely minced parsley. Of course the simplest of all dressings is the traditional mint sauce.

Butter Squares.

To cut butter in small, even squares for the table use a coarse, wet thread as this leaves no ragged edges.

The exhibit in the Fine Arts Gallery this year at the Canadian National Exhibition will comprise 200 masterpieces of French art representing all the schools of the present day.

Eggs That Can't Be Found.

The eggs of some common birds of the present day have never been found. There is the robin snipe; its eggs have never been seen. An English zoologist kept a man going up and down the coast of Labrador for weeks purposely to get a robin snipe's egg, but it was in vain. The bird is known by thousands of people, but it breeds so far north and so remote from any civilization that no scientific observer can ever get to its nest ere the young are hatched and have taken to wing. The frigate bird that is so commonly seen at sea on the Pacific and off the West Indies is such a solitary bird and is so seldom seen in its nest during the hours of daylight that its egg is rare.

Cunning Scheme.

This from a conductor on a Northwestern street car: "A north side resident has been riding on this car for a number of years twice a day, and I often noted that he never bought tickets, but paid his fare in cash. One day I asked him why he did not buy tickets and save 25 cents on the dollar. 'Well, you see, it's like this,' the patron replied. 'Very often I meet an acquaintance on the car, and when the conductor comes for the fares I offer the money, while the acquaintance generally has tickets and immediately offers to pay the two fares with his tickets and in this accommodating manner permits me to save my money. I find the money saved by this scheme exceeds the amount saved by the purchase of tickets.'"

THIS IS THE 679TH DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

OLD SLANDERS RESURRECTED.

An Ottawa despatch of the 10th inst. says the Militia Department has made an official statement regarding certain Toronto newspaper criticisms of its policy. A categorical denial is given to a number of points that had been specified as indicative of Departmental incompetence The statement reads:—

The Opposition are evidently becoming very hard up for material with which to attack the Militia Department, and those who are directing the Opposition in an endeavour to again draw the energies of the officials of the Department into a political controversy, so that they may be the less able to attend to the prosecution of the war, have dug up in an editorial in the Toronto Star of Aug. 2nd a lot of matters which were thrashed out by the Public Accounts Committee in 1915, and were thought to have been disposed of.

WAGONS

In the first place the Star say: 'Take the case of transport wagons. Canada has sent them to England by the hundreds, yet we are informed that of them all only four have ever gone to France.' This is an absolute mis-statement of fact.

EATON M. G. B. EQUIPMENTS

The Star then takes up the equipment of the Eaton Machine Gun Battery. This was a private enterprise, and it is true that at present the motor equipment has not been of service due to the stationary trench system of warfare prevailing. However, the whole of the personnel, whether especially trained for machine gun or motor transport service, is in active service in France.

BICYCLES

The next matter referred to is bicycles, in connection with which the Star says: "Thousands of wheels have been bought by the Canadian Government and sent to England. They have got no farther. They are not standardized. They would be useless at the front, because neither tires nor any part can be replaced from stores." This is also a mis-statement. All bicycles supplied to and accepted by the Militia Department have been used, and are now being used, in either France or England.

BOOTS

The boot question has been dug up, and the Star says: "And no Canadian boots have as yet been worn to war." This is also an absolute untruth. The Canadian troops are supplied with a Canadian boot for service at the front.

OLIVER EQUIPMENT

The Star states: "There are, we believe, 30,000 leather Oliver equipments stored up in England." This is about as near the truth as the other statements of the Star. The fact being that the last report from England to the Department says, that only 250 sets of Oliver equipment are stored in England.

The pity is that these denials will have little effect upon the policy of mis-stating facts and slandering Government officials. These slanders have been committed to memory and probably act upon the old saying, "that a lie will travel miles before truth gets on its boots."

THE SCANDAL-MONGERS.

The scandal-mongers of the Liberal press are at their wits end to find new food for an attack upon the Dominion Government and dishonestly resort to resurrecting old exploded scandals. Failing that, they now attack the Parliamentary Building Committee, the members of which are prominent representatives of both political parties in the House of Commons, appointed on the suggestion of the Premier. The representatives of the Liberal party on said committee were selected by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and are the honorable Messrs Lemieux, Pugsley and Watson.

One complaint is that the work is done, not upon the contract principle, but upon the principle of a percentage, and another bogey is the pulling down of the old walls thereby adding some $2,000,000 additional cost to the country, and the third, the most serious of all, is that all this was done by the Hon. Mr Rogers without consulting the Liberal members of the committee. If this were true, the Liberals members—Messrs Lemieux, Pugsley and Watson—would be justified in resenting it, whether or not they approved of the percentage policy of paying for the work or the removal of the old walls.

The rebuilding upon the percentage plan is a question upon which there may be difference of opinion (contractors, of course, objecting), but there can be no honest objection to the removing of the old walls, even if such removal add $2,000,000 additional cost to the country, based upon the report of the architects, who have made a thorough examination and declare them defective and not strong enough to carry the weight of the additional storey which is proposed to be added to the new buildings. What are the facts?

When the first report was made to Parliament it was on the basis of reconstruction on the old plans. Afterwards it was found the walls were defective and the committee decided to erect a new building, making it a storey higher, and placing the Commons and Senate Chambers in new positions. This, it is affirmed, was agreed to by the committee unanimously. In not a single instance has the committee been ignored. The minutes of the various meetings, which will probably be made public, will show that the committee was unanimous in the adoption of new plans in awarding the contract to the firm now in charge and on the terms since made public. Messrs Pugsley, Watson and Lemieux were present and the minutes of the meeting show that they were in accord with the proposals; in fact, confirmed by resolution most of the propositions on which the committee is now attacked.

A telegram from Ottawa says Messrs Lemieux, Pugsley and Watson appealed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier that they were a party to the plans and contract, had always been consulted and were satisfied with the proceedings. It is believed here that they went still further and told their leader that the attacks must cease or they would be compelled to defend themselves publicly against the unfair reflections cast on the committee and the implied insinuations that they were incapable and neglectful.

SIX IN THE RACE

Politicians of both parties are at present considerably at sea over the situation in South Toronto, where a bye-election will take place within a few days. The Conservatives in convention nominated Mr Norris, who is president of the Association for the riding. Mr Waldron has been nominated at a Liberal meeting of Ward Six, which forms a part of the riding, as an anti-prohibitionist. At a meeting of the Rowell Liberals on Thursday night Mr H. H. Dewart, K.C., although not present, was unanimously placed in nomination. Mr Harry Winberg is spoken of as an independent Conservative and Mr John Galbraith, on an anti-prohibition and single tax ticket. Mr O'Connor, a sixth aspirant, has received the nomination of the Socialistic faction, and declares his intention of going to the polls.

It is without doubt a political complex, if the six parties who have been placed in the running by their respective backers continue in the race.

Mr Norris avows himself a firm supporter of the Hearst Government upon its general policy, except upon the question of total prohibition. Upon this question he reserves to himself the right to urge upon the Government a modification of the proposed law, in so far as it affects the sale of wine and bear.

Mr Dewart is an out and out Rowellite, except in the statements which have appeared in the press, upon the prohibition question, be true. Those statements were that he and Mr Norris were one upon that question. His policy, if he accepts the nomination, will be looked for with interest.

Waldron, of course, expects the entire liquor vote, though Galbraith stands up the same platform, with the additional plank of single tax.

The other two are mugwumps.

Under all the circumstances it is the duty of the Conservatives of the riding to rally to the support of Norris, as a supporter of an honest Government.

The Military Hospitals Commission is planning Government control and supervision of the collection of money and supplies for war purposes The idea is to control the irresponsible and aimless, sometimes fraudulent, collection now going on. The amount contributed by the people of Canada in one form or another for patriotic purposes is very large, but owing to lack of central direction, much of it has been spent unwisely. For instance, large amounts have been collected for blind Canadian soldiers, where, as a matter of fact, not a half-dozen all told have suffered this disability. Collections have also been made for the for purchase of artificial limbs and various other supplies which are being furnished either by the Military Hospitals Commission or the military authorities themselves. There is also a certain amount of fraudulent collections. Under the plan of the Hospitals Commission authorities this method, now aimless, will be organized and directed so as to divert the patriotic impulses of the Canadian people into the channels where they are needed.

An unusual request for naturalization has come before the Circuit Court at Montreal. It was that of Lieut. Chas. Medhurst Saul, of a construction corps now at Valcartier in training for the front. Born a British subject, he lived in California for some time and was obliged to become an American citizen so as to hold the position he was ocupying there. In anticipation of going to the front, he wished to send his wife to Scotland, where he has relatives. His wife, taking her husband's American nationality, is an American subject, and Lieut. Saul has had considerable trouble, owing to the fact that there are restrictions against the entry of foreigners in going to England. The application will take its regular course through the Circuit Court offices.

A German paper complains that John Bull is still allowed to send a constant stream of troops across the English Channel to France. Well, why doesn't the Kaiser, who still claims that the sea fight smashed the British Navy, put a stop to it?—Brantford Courier.

Having charged nearly everybody between Windsor, Ont., and Windsor, Eng., except Mr W. F. Maclean, M.P., with being in a secret and well-paid nickel conspiracy to deliberately benefit Germany during the war, the World's attention ought to be drawn to the fact that it has not yet impugned the loyalty of the publishers of the City Directory. There are a lot of pretty strong German addresses published in that book.—Toronto Globe.

Americans coming from the interior of Mexico report that conditions are improving in that country and that confidence in Carranza's administration is growing.

The German people seem to be at last aware of the predicament their country is in. They know that the Entente Allies are superior in manhood as well as other resources and that the longer the war lasts the worse it may be for Germany and her partners in trouble. They cannot hope for victory, but only to delay the day of final settlement.—Montreal Gazette.

That the British Government in contemplating the confiscation of all the German-owned property in Britain in retaliation for the execution of Capt. Charles Fryatt of the British liner Brussels was revealed in the House of Lords this week by Lord Lansdowne. He stated that the Government was consulting with financial houses as to the advisability of taking the step. The German property in England runs into many hundreds of millions of dollars.

The German minister at Stockholm has issued, on behalf of his government, a revised list of contraband, says a despatch from that city to the London Morning Post. At the same time, it is announced that the commanders of German warships have been instructed to sink all ships bound for enemy ports, carrying cargoes which consist wholly or in part of contraband, either absolute or relative.

The Russian Emperor has presented to General A. A. Brussiloff a sword of honor of the Order of St. George, ornamented with diamonds, for his victories over the Austrians and Germans in Galicia and Volhynia, says a Reuter despatch from Petrograd.

A FINE RECORD

The results of the examinations during the past year show a magnificent record for Albert College. In the Departmental Examinations, 90 per cent. of those who wrote on Senior Matriculation and Faculty got their standing. In Normal Entrance and Junior Matriculation ten students were successful, three securing honours, and only one had spent two years in Matriculation Class, the time allowed by the High Schools.

With one exception, all piano and vocal students were successful in passing Conservatory and College examinations, most securing honours and many first honours. All candidates in Art, whose work is examined by Prof. W. A. Sherwood, R.A., C.A., passed, many with honours. All students in the Express Department were successful.

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE
BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XVII.—Continued

While the two detectives were thus engaged, the entire interval being about two minutes, Cullen had explained in hurried whispers why he had brought Patsy there, forcibly describing the service he had done him, and the favorable account of himself afterward.

"He's all right, I tell you, and a mighty shrewd kid," he declared, in conclusion. "I owe him something for fair, and we ought to be able to use him in some way. If it hadn't been for him I'd have been nailed by one of the Carters, dead sure."

His explanation evidently shed a better light on his conduct, nor was his earnest eulogy of Patsy without effect; for Coyle finally nodded with some show of approbation, then glanced sharply at Patsy.

"He says he'll do any kind of a job, does he, if the price is right?" he muttered, taking up one of Cullen's statements. "I'll soon see about that. We might use him in some way, if he can be trusted. I'll presently give him a job that will try his mettle; and that will put him in the same boat with us, making it a cinch that he'll never squeal. Do you know who we've got here?"

"No, I don't know him," Cullen growled, under his breath, with a stare at the detective.

"Yes, you do."

"Who?"

"Nick Carter himself."

"The devil you say!' Cullen shrank instinctively.

"Well, much the same."

"Perdition! He'll know me, sure."

"He doesn't appear to," Selkirk whispered. "Ive been watching him."

"How did you get him?" asked Cullen, still with a lowering stare at Nick.

Coyle briefly informed him, increasing the ugly gleam in the other's eyes, while he snarled with an oath:

"They'll down us, these Carters, unless we down them. One after me to-day, and this one on the lay you have stated. There's only one thing to be done with him."

"Put him out of our way?"

"That's what."

"You're right," Coyle nodded; "but we must first learn whom and what he suspects, and what evidence he has that enabled him to get Fenno out on bail."

"That's a good scheme, too. It would show us the way, and just what we are up against."

"We were going to put him under the hammer of one of the pile drivers, to try to force him to tell, when you showed up."

"But you can't do that," Cullen grimly whispered. "If you'd bossed those things as long as I have, you would know it. You can't raise the hammer except with steam power, and none of the donkey engines is fired up."

"Thunder! I didn't think of that."

"You've got him tied hand and foot, haven't you?" Cullen added. "We can shove him overboard from the deck of the dredger. It's as good to drown as to crush him. It's a cinch he'll never come up."

"I have it!" Coyle quickly declared, with a glance at Patsy. "We'll make this fellow shove him overboard. That will test his nerve, all right and he'll never dare peach."

"That's the stuff," cried Cullen instantly. "It'll make a sure thing of it. Come here, Hogan. The boss wants to speak to you. He's got a job for you, the first crack out of the box."

Patsy complied, with affected eagerness, pulling off his cap and halting in front of Coyle. The latter surveyed him sharply for a moment, then bluntly demanded:

"Your name's Hogan, is it?"

"Yes, sir; that's what," Patsy asserted, in business-like fashion.

"This man has told me what you have done to-day, and all about you. He says you're out for the stuff, if you can get it, and are willing to take long chances. Is that right?"

"You bet it's right."

"Were you ever under arrest?"

"Not yet," said Patsy, with a leer so expressive that Coyle smiled grimly.

"Ought to have been, eh?"

"Well, I'll not say that—but there are some who do."

"I guess you've sized him up right,' said Coyle, with a glance at Cullen.

"You can bank on that," replied the latter. "Wait till you've seen a bit more of him. He's as keen as a brier and hard as nails."

"I'll soon get his measure, all right," Coyle said darkly. "Hark you, Hogan, you've done this man a service, and we are willing to reward you. We can put you in a way to make good money but you'll have to do what you're told, and take long chances."

"I'll taken any chance that you will," Patsy said shortly. "You try me, boss, and see."

"That's what I'm going to do," said Coyle, leading the way to where Nick was seated. "You see this fellow, Hogan?"

'Sure, I see him," said Patsy, staring blankly at Nick. "What about him?"

"Do you know him?"

"Not from a side of leather."

"He's a detective.'

"Worse luck be his, then," cried Patsy, beginning to scowl. "What's he tied up for?"

"Because he's in our way, Hogan, and must be put out of it."

"Faith, that's no more'n he'd do for you."

"That's right, kid," put in Cullen. "Dead right."

'One of 'em did me brother out in Chicago, may the divil git him on his horns!" added Patsy, with a fervor that nearly made Nick laugh.

"You've no liking for them?" queried Coyle, sharply watching him.

"Any liking I have for 'em, boss, is left-handed," Patsy declared. "You can bet on that."

"Well, Hogan, here's your chance to get even. We're going to let you show your sand and make yourself solid with us."

"What d'ye mean, boss?"

"We want this infernal meddler pitched into the river, tied as you see him, and it's up to you to do it, Hogan."

"Faith, is that so?" inquired Patsy, with dry derision. "Why the divil don't you do it yourself?"

"Are you afraid?" Coyle sternly demanded.

"If I am boss, it's not of him."

"Of what, then?"

"What you coveys might say or do, after it was done," Patsy bluntly asserted. "Sure, I might do a job like that when no one was looking, but I'll not get my fingers burned with having some one else shove them into the fire. If you think I'm that kind of a dope, boss, you make a mistake. I'll do anything you coveys'll do, and no more'n that. I'm no easy mark, mind you."

Nick's finger was tapping on the box again, and Patsy, hearing it, strung out the above remarks only to divert the attention of the others. If heard by one of them, however, he would have only inferred that Nick was nervously drumming on the box.

"You needn't fear us," Coyle impatiently growled. "We mean business, Hogan, and only want you in the same boat with us, in case we decide to employ you. Then we'll be sure you won't squeal. Besides, we're going to lend you a hand."

"To do this job."

"Certainly."

"Faith, that's different," cried Patsy. "I'll do it, in that case, so be it the pay fits the job."

"You'll get more money for it, Hogan, than you ever saw in your life."

"That's good enough for me, boss. I know I'll get it, all right, or you'd not be up to such divil's own work."

Coyle made no reply to this. With an uglier gleam in his eyes, he turned abruptly to Nick and asked, feeling sure he would weaken upon hearing a stranger consent to such a deed:

"Got anything to say?"

Nick shook his head.

"That's final, is it? I'll not bother to ask again, mind you. I'd as soon you were dead and out of the way as to know what you suspect. Nothing to say, eh?"

Nick gazed at him defiantly and again shook his head.

Coyle swung round with a growl and pointed to the shed door.

"Open it again," he cried, with a glance at Selkirk. "Lay hold once more, you fellows, and we'll lug him out. Follow us, Hogan, and heed where you step. If you do what you have agreed, you'll be on easy street after to-night."

"Faith, that's where I'll be then," cried Patsy; "and on the sunny side."

Selkirk had hastened to the door and was holding it open.

Now, having Cullen to assist them, the ruffians easily raised Nick from the box and bore him out of the shed.

A narrow landing, walled with stone several feet above the river; a wall at which two great pile drivers were then made fast, while beyond them, well into the stream, was a huge dredger; a sweep of gloomy water, a dark, motionless mirror relieved only by the reflection of distant lights here and there; a stretch of partly finished work, for a considerable distance in both directions along the river front—these were the only features of the scene then discernible in the starlight.

With Selkirk leading the way, the four men bore Nick across the deck of each pile driver and thus reached that of the dredger, the three huge craft being made fast side by side.

SEVEN YEARS TORTURE

Nothing Helped Him Until He Took "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

ALBERT VARNER

Buckingham, Que., May 3rd, 1915.

For seven years, I suffered terribly from Severe Headaches and Indigestion. I had belching gas from the stomach, bitter stuff would come up into my mouth after eating, while at times I had nausea and vomiting, and had chronic Constipation. I went to several doctors and wrote to a specialist in Boston but without benefit. I tried many remedies but nothing did me good. Finally, a friend advised "Fruit-a-tives". I took this grand fruit medicine and it made me well. I am grateful to "Fruit-a-tives", and to everyone who has miserable health with Constipation and Indigestion and Bad Stomach, I say take "Fruit-a-tives", and you will get well".

HOW TO KEEP WELL

BY JOHN W. S. McCULLOUGH, M.D., D.P.H., CHIEF OFFICER OF THE PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

THERE are five chief ways in which disease spreads. These are: Water, Food, Flies, Milk, and Contact. These sources of infection are intermingled with one another. Let us look into them and see how disease travels from one person to another.

WATER The source of all water supply comes from the rain and snow. Next we find it in rivers, streams, ponds, and lakes, stored in the ground in the form of springs, and in underground stretches of gravel whence it is obtained from deep or shallow wells. When a water supply is being considered it must be judged (like the character of a person) by the company it keeps. Any source of water supply cannot be pure if it is exposed to the entrance into it of sewage (the discharge from the bodies of human beings). This may occur in a variety of ways; for example, a stream, river, or lake which would otherwise be pure, may have the sewage of a town dumped into it, or there may be water-closets upon its banks, or the excreta of a typhoid case may be thrown on the ground nearby and washed by melting snow or rain into the water. A supply from such a source, unless purified, is a dangerous one. It might be safe for every day of the year but one; the pollution on that one day might start an epidemic of disease. The well may be unprotected, allowing surface water to enter, or it may be sunk in a creviced limestone rock which serves as a means whereby sewage may reach the water. The commonest diseases carried by water are Typhoid Fever, Cholera, Dysentery, and Diarrhoea (or Summer Complaint). In this country the commonest water-borne disease is Typhoid Fever.

FOOD Food frequently carries disease because it becomes contaminated by flies, dirty fingers, and by mouth or nose-spray of carriers or persons affected by disease. Meat containing the germs of tuberculosis or the larvae of certain worms, if insufficiently cooked, may carry disease.

FLIES Flies breed in manure, chiefly in fresh horse manure. They will not breed in fermenting manure which is too hot for them. A period of eight to eleven days is required to carry the fly from the egg stage through the maggot, larvae, and pupae stages to the full grown fly. The fly will not travel great distances if there is plenty of food at hand, but if hungry it may fly for some distance, say half a mile or more. One can easily understand how this insect may carry disease when one considers its well-known habits of flitting from the exposed contents of the water-closet to food in the kitchen. Diseases such as Typhoid, Dysentery, Cholera, Diarrhoea, and Tuberculosis are commonly carried by flies.

MILK By milk from tuberculous cows children may become infected with Tuberculosis; or, if the handler is a consumptive, the disease may be carried to the users. Similarly, if those handling milk are in contact with diseases like Scarlet Fever or Diphtheria, these diseases may be carried. Washing of cans with sewage-polluted water, or dilution of milk with polluted water may serve to infect the milk, and, in turn, the consumers with water-borne diseases.

CONTACT Contact with either the actual victims of diseases like Tuberculosis and communicable affections, or with "carriers" of such diseases is a very common means of infection. Those who come closest in contact with sufferers from communicable diseases are the greatest victims. Thus in cases of Diphtheria the mother, the nurse, and the doctor suffer infection in the order named. It used to be thought that Tuberculosis was inherited because members of the same family often died one after the other. Now it is well understood that Tuberculosis is a "Catching" disease and that it is the close contact between the members of the family, living, eating, sleeping together, using the same table utensils and the same towels, which is the cause of the terrible family mortality from this disease. The better this is known the better is the chance for prevention of Tuberculosis.

These facts about the manner in which disease is spread should be taught to every child. The school teachers might do well to have every child in his or her class learn these truths by heart. Children learn such facts very quickly. The knowledge of the growing population about these matters is the hope and the standby of the public health officer.

Sir Edward Grey's Letter of Protest

Directly Accuses Germany of Judicial Murder and Seeks Full Details

LONDON, Aug. 11.—The Foreign Office made public a letter of Viscount Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to the American Embassy here, requesting that Ambassador Gerard in Berlin convey to the German Government the British Government's desire to enter a most formal protest against the execution of Captain Fryatt, of the British steamer Brussels, by the German authorities in Belgium.

This execution, says Viscount Grey's letter, the British Government "can only describe as the judicial murder of a British subject held a prisoner of war by the German Government, under conditions in direct violation of the law of nations and the usages of war."

Viscount Grey continues that from information in possession of the Government it cannot be doubted that the trial circumstances calculated to cast "the gravest obloquy" on the authorities concerned.

Citing the circumstances of the trial and the refusal of facilities to Ambassador Gerard, Viscount Grey says: "The unseemly haste of the trial and execution is sufficient proof that the German authorities were fully conscious of the unwarrantable nature of their action and were anxious to forestall the legitimate outburst of British indignation, while the fact that the intimation of the execution was conveyed only verbally to Ambassador Gerard can only be interpreted as showing the reluctance of the German Government to bring their proceedings to Ambassador Gerard's knowledge in official form."

Viscount Grey concludes by asking Ambassador Gerard to request the German Foreign Office to provide the full particulars of the whole proceedings.

THE PROBLEM OF NORTHERN ONTARIO

(Toronto Globe)

The people of this Province are asked to provide a fund of $400,000—to which the Dominion and Ontario Governments each donate $100,000 and the city of Toronto $25,000—for the relief of the sufferers from the recent forest fires. The fund is to be administered by a well-selected central committee, of which Mr. Arthur Hewitt, President of the Toronto Board of Trade, is Chairman, and Mr. T. Bradshaw, City Treasurer of Toronto, is the Treasurer. That the money subscribed will be most carefully and fairly spent is certain. The need is great, and businessmen, especially throughout the Province, who have relations with Northern Ontario, are expected to contribute generously.

The work to be undertaken by the committee is that of immediate relief to serious distress. Behind that there is a much greater task for some competent non-partisan organization. The restoration of confidence, the return of the burntout settlers to their holdings, and the making of plans for settlement in a larger and more systematic way than heretofore might well engage the attention of the committee, or of some similar body, after the work of relief is completed. It is admitted that the money spent and the efforts made to attract permanent agricultural settlers into the North country have not produced the anticipated results. Competent observers, intimately acquainted with the conditions of life in the new settlements, say that the two things which have prevented the young men of Ontario from settling in the northern wilderness are the isolation resulting from absentee ownership and the long delay in obtaining a considerable area of cleared land. So long as large tracts of prairie land lie ready to the plough in the West the young farmers of Ontario unaccustomed to the use of the axe, will refuse to go into Northern Ontario and by hard and unremitting toil clear a few acres of land yearly.

The improvement of settlement conditions is largely a matter of legislation and administration. Were the Province to sell land in the North only to actual settlers, who would agree to live upon it continuously, the isolation of which so many complaints are made would be ended, and it would be much less difficult to provide schools, churches, roads, and market centres for the people. Were the Government in a position to offer cleared land to settlers who desire to farm rather than chop down spruce for pulpwood, settlement would undoubtedly proceed much more rapidly than it does. But the cost of cutting the spruce, sending it to market, and clearing the land of stumps is placed by men who ought to be in a position to know as high as from $50 to $80 an acre, and no one would give that for the land for farming purposes after it is cleared

Reduced to plain terms, this means that the labor spent in clearing the land of Northern Ontario is not sufficiently remunerated by the sale of the timber taken from the land and by securing a homestead at a nominal price to warrant anyone undertaking to clear land in the expectation of earning wages while doing so. Is this true? Are modern methods of removing stumps by machinery and dynamite almost as costly as the primitive process of former generations? The people of Ontario would like to see a non-partisan committee of business men work out the problem and supply a conclusive answer. How would it do for the committee now dealing with fire relief to provide help in the form of an opportunity to the settlers to remove the stumps over a considerable portion of their burnt lands with modern appliances? This would provide an answer to the question, does it pay to clear the soil in Northern Ontario?

Northern Ontario Fire Relief

A Committee has been formed to receive Funds for the Relief of Sufferers

The Northern Ontario Fire Relief Committee, consisting of representatives of the Dominion and Ontario Governments, City of Toronto, Ontario Associated Boards of Trade, Toronto Board of Trade, and Canadian Manufacturers' Association, has been formed at the request of the Ontario Government to solicit and administer funds for the immediate relief of fire sufferers. The Dominion and Ontario Governments have each subscribed One Hundred Thousand Dollars, and the City of Toronto Fifty Thousand. It is estimated that at least Four Hundred Thousand Dollars is needed to effectively relieve the situation, which is very serious. Citizens are urged not to make contributions through other than the Toronto central organization, in order that duplication and waste may be avoided.

Subscriptions are earnestly and urgently requested, and should be made payable to T. Bradshaw, Commissioner of Finance, Toronto, Treasurer of the Fund.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

MARCH OUT OF SOLDIERS

Left Barriefield Camp on Thursday MORNING, Reached Lemoine's Point at 11.30 a.m. in Splendid Condition

The first day of the infantrymen's outing has been concluded, and on every side one hears of the splendid arrangements that were made for the comfort of the men and the excellent lot that was selected for the bivouac.

The parade left Barriefield camp shortly after 8 a.m., and marched down Barriefield hill and across Cataraqui bridge, along King street and out of the city. Through the city and through the village of Portsmouth most of the troops marched at attention, but in the country the greatest comfort possible was given the men.

A short stop was made in the City Park on the way out, but the only other recreation for the boys was their constant songs and thrilling yells. Passing through Portsmouth someone started a cry of "Are we downhearted?" and the most emphatic answer echoed back over the line of a decided negative. Songs were in order, but one noticeable feature was the almost entire absence of smoking. Whether this was prevented by an order or whether the men realized its injurious effects could not be found out, but with it all the most splendid spirit prevailed.

After covering the eight and a half miles between the camp and the bivouac the battalions marched in, and in a way that made Gen. T. D. R. Hemming, camp commandant, more than pleased with the kind of men under his command. The 154th Battalion lead in the march, and smiling broadly and evidently more than pleased with the first look at the camp. Lieut.-Col. A. G. F. MacDonald led his unit into the field blocked off. The next in line was the 155th Battalion under Lieut.-Col. M. K. Adams, and following the Belleville unit was the men from Brockville under Lieut.-Col. T. C. D. Bedell. The commanding officers, adjutants and a few of the other officers were mounted in each case.

The headquarters party consisted of Geo. T. D. K. Hemming, Lieut.-Col. S. A. Thompson, Major R. D. Ponton, Capt O Kennedy, Capt W. J. MacManus, Capt. T. Kidd, Lieut. Fleury, Lieut. Migney.

OUT-POST DUTY

Men Guarded Bivouac Camp of Soldiers Thursday Night.

The idea of the bivouac and route-march of the soldiers to Lemoine's Point was to throw the soldiers on their own initiative as to living in the open, and also to show them the protection needed while men sleep in the open on a temporary site.

The headquarters staff and the officers of the various battalions held a meeting directly after lunch on Thursday, and had a "pow-wow" on the plans to be carried out by the soldiers. To impress on the men would be interfering people, outposts were in order on Thursday evening. Guards were thrown out at various stragetic points and patroled beats at different points. Owing to the nature of the ground not many of these were necessary.

BARRIEFIELD CAMP QUIET

Barriefield camp was certainly a deserted place in the absence of all the infantrymen on the route-march to Lemoine's Point. The artillery carried on the regular battery and brigade drill using the dummy guns, but these seemed to be the only evidence of military activity in the district. A guard was kept on all of the camp lines, but with the exception of the orderly room and pay office clerks and a few others the lines were deserted of officers and men.

Col. G. Hunter, Ogilvie, A.A.G., was in charge of the camp in the absence of the Camp Commandant, and handled the many matters of military business that are usually transacted at headquarters.

NOTES

If any young man has dypepsia, let him join the C.E.F., and take a few route marches and bivouacs and his liver will soon get in working order.

Brig.-General Hemming and his staff lived out in the open just like the rest of the men. There are no frills about the general and he never likes them when displayed by others.

Lt.-Col. Adams and the officers of the 155th know how to quickly build up in the woods a good mess table, and they were just as generous with its contents as they always are in camp.

Communion service will be conducted in the "Y" tent in camp on Sunday morning by Captain Fitzgerald to which all church communicants, regardless of creed are invited.

Captain Dodds, and Captain Hagar chaplains of the 155th and the 156th Battalions will hold communion service in their own lines at eleven o'clock on Sunday morning.

Fortune After Years in Jail.

After she had passed eleven years of her life in the Orangeville jail, to which institution she had been committed because she was altogether without any means of support, Mrs. Martha McKitrick was smiled upon by fortune which had so long spurned her; and to-day she is an inmate of the Aged Women's Home in Toronto, and is possessed of an annual income of about $500. Mrs. McKitrick is 70 years of age. Her sister, Miss Jane Coulter, of Orangeville, died a short time ago and left her the income from an estate of $10,000.

Canada's Enlistments Now 350,655.

Total enlistments in Canada up to July 15 number 350,655. Ontario leading with 145,195. From the Toronto division alone there are 79,715. Quebec Province has given 36,390 men, of whom 30,186 were from the Montreal district. From the Maritime Provinces the number is 31,333, and from Manitoba to the coast 136,939.

The Thrill of Being Wet.

There is something rudimentary and fundamental about having water splashed down upon one and getting completely and deliciously wet—not damp, not moist, but wet, wringing wet. You yourself when a child never enjoyed anything so much as your first drenching in an unforeseen and unavoidable rainstorm—the thrill of being wet, the cool drive of the water on your nose, into your sleeves and down your neck, and the joyous shush of soaked, waterlogged boots. Even the tedium of being rubbed with alcohol, bundled up and warned you would catch your death did not diminish the event. You voted it better than the time you fell off the boat dock; it lasted longer.—Atlantic Monthly.

Conquered the Orchestra.

In his early days Herr Arthur Nikisch, the famous conductor, was appointed to conduct a performance of "Tannhaeuser" at the Leipzig opera. He was but a young chorus master at the time, and the orchestra absolutely refused to play under so youthful a conductor. They were only induced to do so when a director said that if they were of the same mind after the overture had been played they could then and there hand in their resignations. The overture was a veritable triumph for Nikisch, and with profuse apologies the orchestra offered him their congratulations.—London Tit-Bits.

The Tenrec.

One of the strangest animals known to zoologists is the tenrec, an insect eating animal found only in the island of Madagascar. It is supposed to represent a very ancient type of animal which is now almost extinct. Madagascar, once a part of the mainland of the African continent, was separated therefrom at a very remote period in the past. As a result a fauna peculiar to the island has been developed.

Rapid Heartbeats.

It is believed by scientists that the smaller the animal the more rapid is its heartbeats. Thirty pulsations a minute have been recorded in the elephant, 40 in the horse, 70 in man and 200 in the rabbit. The heart of a mouse beats 500 to 780 times a minute.

Stansiau is Taken By Russians

Great Railway Centre in Galicia Now in Possession of Bears

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Special—Sanislau, next to Lemberg the most important railway city in Galicia, has fallen to the Russians.

Gen. Letchitzkys army, which has been hammering at the city's gates for more than a week, taking one fortified barrier after another, captured its objective yesterday in a swift dash across the River. Czarina Bystritza. The city's fall was officially announced by Petrograd last night, and is admitted by the Austrian War Office, which in its statement last night says:

"We evacuated Stanislau without a fight."

The garrison and the army which had ben defending the city's eastern approaches escaped. Fleeing northwards along the Stanislau-Lemberg Railway, the Teuton forces are hotly pursued in the direction of Halicz, another important railway town fifteen miles to the north. The capture of this town is believed to be only a matter of hours.

SPORTING NEWS

BASEBALL LINERS

Philadelphia wound up its western trip at Detroit Thursday with a 10-4 defeat after getting a two-run lead. Detroit discovered Williams' weakness early and bunted and stole bases with reckless abandon, placing nine to their credit. Cobb in the eighth hit the first home run ever sent into the left field corner inside the park. The drive usually is good for two bases, but slow fielding and fast sprinting let him score handily.

Hans Wagner, shortstop of the Pittsburg National League team, is unique in baseball in several ways. Besides being the only man who ever batted for 300 in seventeen successive years and never being a holdout, he has worked for only one man in his twenty seasons in major league baseball. He went to work for Barney Dreyfuss in Louisville in 1897 and he is still drawing his salary from the same owner in Pittsburg.

Boston strengthened its hold on first place in the American League and sent Chicago down to third place by winning the final game of the series 11 to 5, while Cleveland won from New York and went into second place.

It has been practically decided that the Erie team will drop out of the Interstate Baseball League. The management announces that salaries for two weeks are due the players, and only $6 in the treasury. Lack of patronage is given as the cause.

The Tigers won the last game of the series from the Athletics 10 to 4. It was a free hitting contest on both sides, Mitchell being driven out in the sixth, but Williams took his beating alone. James replaced Mitchell and stopped the Athletics. Veach and Bush each got three singles, and nine bases were stolen.

Members of the University of Waseda baseball team of Japan will introduce basketball into that country. The baseball team in its tour just completed won only five out of seventeen games played with American college nines.

TO SWIM ENGLISH CHANNEL

Charles B. Durborow, the Philadelphia bank clerk distance swimmer, is ambitious to swim the English Channel. Only two swimmers have accomplished the feat. In 1875 Captain M. S. Webb, after sixteen attempts, swam from Dover, England, to Cape Griz Nez, France, in 22 hours and 35 minutes, while in 1911 William T. Burgess swam from Dover to Calais France, in 21 hours and 45 minutes on his second attempt.

RECORD LONG-DISTANCE SWIM

A record long-distance swim for a woman was recently accomplished by Miss Eileen Lee in the Thames, London. Miss Lee entered the water 200 yards below Greenwich hospital. She swam to Isleworth, and turning with the tide swam back by Barnes, a total distance of 23 miles. She was in the water seven hours, one minute, and was quite fresh when advised by her coach to re-enter the boat.

BALMY BEACH BOWLING TOURNAMENT

The Dominion Bowling Tournament which ends Aug. 19th does not finish the Tournament bowling for the season, next in importance and last of the season, comes the Balmy Beach Bowling Club's Tournament on Sept. 2nd and 4th. This Tournament always has an entry list of one hundred rinks and will likely be much larger this year.

It is expected that London, Hamilton, Buffalo, Welland, Berlin, Bridgeburg and several other Western Clubs will be strongly represented and as the Tournament is held on Saturday Sept. 2nd and Labor Day Sept. 4th it does not interfere with business, and also has the advantage of excursion rates on the Railroads.

The Ellis Trophy, which becomes the permanent property of any Club winning it twice (not necessarily in successive years) has been won 8 times, but no Club as been successful as yet in winning it twice. It will likely go this year, unless some of the Western Clubs send strong representatives.

The Tournament will be played on several of the larger Lawns in Toronto. Entries will be received from now on until Wednesday, Aug. 29th at 8 o'clock by Wm. E. Orr. Tournament Secretary in care of Balmy Beach Bowling Club, Toronto.

There are two competitions for the Ellis Trophy with individual prizes for the winners and runners up, and the consolation series with individual prizes for the finalists as above.

56,000 ARE TAKEN BY BEARS

General Scherdalchoff's Big Record From Aug. 4 to Present Date

Canadian Press Special

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Daily Chronicle estimates that all, or nearly all, of the fifty-six thousand prisoners taken by General Scherbatchoff from August 4th to the present date were taken since General Von Bothmer began his withdrawal, and are from his army, which has probably been reduced to one-half its strength. Since first week in June, the Chronicle, adds, the Russians must have taken more than a million prisoners.

No Rest For Fleeing Austrians

Italians Push Farther Across Carso and East of Goritz—Prisoners Total 15.393

LONDON, Aug. 14—The Italians are giving the shattered Austrian armies no rest. They have pushed farther across the Carso Plateau, have extended their gains in the hills east of Goritz, and not content with this, are also carrying on a heavy and successful offensive around Tolmino. This new drive has certainly reached the suburbs of the city, which is the key to the Upper Isonzo, and according to unofficial reports they have seized the entire town. The official statements make no mention of the fighting here, nor of that in the Dolomites where heavy attacks are being made, though Austria claims repulses for the Italians in these sectors. It is recalled that the successful attack on Goritz had been under way for three days before the official statements told of it The capture of Triest is appreciably nearer.

Altogther since August 6, 15,393 prisoners have been counted, including 330 officers. In the same operations the Italians have taken 16 guns, a large number of machine guns and war material of all kinds.

ARTILLERY WITHIN RANGE OF LEMBERG'S GATES

Gen. Letchitzky's Troops Only Seven Miles Southeast of Halicz This New Teuton Stand is Encircled — Enemy's Whole Tarnopol-Buczacz Line is Now Held by Brusiloff

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Special —The semicircle formed by the Russian army chain in Galicia from the region south of Brody to the area south of Stanislau has been drawn an average of ten miles closer to Lemberg during the last twenty-four hours. Swiftly rolling up the armies of the Austrian throne heir in the direction of the Galician Capital, the main goal of Gen. Brusiloff's drive in the south, the Muscovite forces drove the Teuton defenders from the greater part of their positions on the four great streams which formed the main natural obstacles on the road to Lemberg from the south-east: the Sereth, Stripa, Koropice and Zlota Lipa. Though fighting desperate rear-guard actions, the Austro-German troops are rapidly retreating on the whole front from the headwaters of the Sereth down to the eastern and southern approaches of Halicz, the withdrawal having become necessary with the fall of Stanislau last Thursday.

As a result of yesterday's fighting the two southern "gates" of Lemberg Halicz and Brzezany are now within the range of the Russian artillery, and their fall is near.

Four important towns fell to the Russians during the past twenty-four hours. The possession of each serves to tighten their grip on Lemberg. They are:

Ezerna (Jezierna), between the Stripa and Sereth Rivers, sixty-three miles south-east of Lemberg.

Podgaicy (Phodhajce), on the Koropice, thirty miles to the north-east of Stanislau, and only fifteen miles south of Brzezany. From Podgaicy a trunk railway runs north-west through Brzezany directly to Lemberg, which is sixty-one miles away as the crow flies.

Horozonka, west of the Zlota Lipa, ten miles north of Halicz.

Thus Halicz is being encircled, and the Teuton lines there, menaced since the fall of Stanislau,. have become untenable.

War Claims Eight German Princes

Almanach de Gotha Records Deaths in Teuton Nobility — Notes Morganatic Match

LONDON, Aug. 12.—A Daily Chronicle despatch from Paris says:

"The latest edition of the Almanach de Gotha records eight German Princes killed since the beginning of the war, namely:·

The Almanach notes the morganatic marriage of the Kaiser's fifth son, Oscar, with Countess Bassewitz, who was made Countess Roupine.

The Prince of Wied does not figure in the section devoted to reigning families. He is mentioned as "his Highness Prince Albania."

The Almanach also says: The German overseas colonies are said to be under the provisional administration of the French and British.

MANY CAPTURES ARE MADE BY THE ADVANCING RUSSIANS

PETROGRAD, Aug. 14.—Special.—An official report issued yesterday shows that during the recent operations the Russians have taken over 83,000 prisoners, 68 guns and 335 machine guns.. The statement follows:—

"In view of the great military importance attached to the capture on August 13 of the final remaining positions of the enemy's winter line of fortifications, the several armies are endeavoring to give details of prisoners and booty taken in the recent operations. One corps of General Sakharoff's troops took between Aug. 4 and 11 a total of 307 officers and 16,594 of the rank and file, and captured 4 guns, 47 machine guns and 16 bomb mortars. The troops of General Scherbatochoff have taken from June 5 up to the present time 1,263 officers and 55,158 of the rank and file, and have captured 55 cannon, 211 machine guns, 29 bomb mortars and mine throwers and 128 limbers. The troops of General Letchitzky took from Aug. 1 to 10 a total of 171 officers and 10,450 of the rank and file, and captured 9 guns and 77 machine guns."

Narrow Escape From Death

Strychnine in Bowl in Which Food Was Placed

TORONTO, Aug. 12.—How a whole family, living on a farm on the outskirts of Toronto, and some people who were visiting them, numbering in all about a dozen persons, narrowly escaped being poisoned by strychnine, was related to-day to a newspaper representative by Mr. R. C. Craven, secretary of the Toronto Humane Society. Food which was being prepared for the family and guests had unknowingly been placed in a bowl containing enough strychnine to kill about fifty people. One of the members of the household noticed that the food had a peculiar appearance and decided to throw it away. The bowl and its contents were placed in the pigs' swill. Later in the day the animals became very sick. A veterinary, often employed by the Toronto Humane Society, was called, but by the time he arrived, all the pigs, thirteen in number, were dead. After an examination he pronounced death due to strychnine poisoning.

For a time no clue could be discovered how the animals got the poison, but the veterinary decided to look into their swill. He saw the bowl and on examination found traces of strychnine therein. He was told how the bowl and contents had come to be placed in the swill and in return the veterinary told the people what a narrow escape they had had from certain death.

DEUTSCHLAND IS REPORTED SUNK

Statement Comes From Orderly of French Cruiser — Not Confirmed

PENSACOLA, Fla., Aug. 14.—Special—The German merchant submarine Deutschland was sunk by a British patrol boat on the morning of August 8, according to a statement made here by an orderly of Captain Lique, commanding the French armored cruiser Admiral Aube, which put into port yesterday.

Captain Lique refused to confirm or deny the report.

The orderly said that the cruiser received a wireless message from a British patrol boat in the Atlantic last Tuesday, saying she had sunk the German merchant submarine that morning.

The French armored cruiser Admiral Aube came into this port with supplies and coal exhausted. She dropped anchor near the Austrian steamship Licia, tied up here since the beginning of the war.

It is reported that Captain Lique has been keeping his cruiser near this port for the last two weeks, watching for the German submarine Bremen.

United States naval officers and customs officials boarded the cruiser. Under international law she is entitled to supplies in limited quantities.

The Aube is the first Entente warship to seek supplies in an American port.

TRENCHES WERE TAKEN IN BRITISH ATTACK

Make Advance on Mile Front Northwest of Pozieres and Also Take German Positions on Plateau of Bazentin-le-Petit Towards Martinpuich

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(Special.) —The British forces on the Somme front made a further advance of 200 or 400 yards on a front of nearly a mile north west of Pozieres and they also gained ground towards Martinpuich by capturing several German trenches on the plateau of Bazentin-le-Petit. They also repulsed a German attack southeast of Guillemont and their artillery scattered a large force which the Germans were concentrating for an attack north of Pozieres. British airmen have also been active in carrying out long distance raids and several short raids and reconnaissances.

The announcement follows:

"On the plateau northwest of Bazentin-le-Petit we gained ground toward Martinpuich and captured enemy trenches. Northwest of Pozieres we also made a further advance of 300 or 400 yards over a front of nearly a mile. Our losses were light in spite of a heavy barrage by the enemy's artillery.

"Last night we carried out three successful raids on trenches of the enemy; the first southwest of La Folie Farm on Vimy Ridge; the second opposite Calonen and the third east of Armentieres. We inflicted many casualties on the enemy and captured a machine gun and prisoners.

"The enemy attempted a raid near the Hohenzollern Redoubt, which was repulsed with loss by our infantry. Several Bavarian prisoners were captured. The enemy exploded a mine east of Cabaret Rouge, but we occupied the lip of the crater. We fired three mines north of Neuve Chapelle and also south of the quarries northeast of Hulluch. The enemy made no attempt to occupy the craters."

TEMPORARY FOOTING FOR HUNS BUT ALLIES SWEEP THEM BACK

Canadian Press Special.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Official statement.—Last night to the west of Pozieres the enemy gained a temporary footing in a portion of trenches captured by us yesterday. Otherwise there are no developments on the British front between the Somme and the Ancre. South of the Ypres salient we carried out a successful raid without incurring any losses to ourselves. There has been further mining activity. We forced an entry to a German gallery at a bluff north of Ypres-Comines Canal, and after exploration blew in a considerable length. We captured some of the enemy's mining stores. We also successfully exploded a mine near Cordonnerie.

ALLIED DRIVE AT SALONIKI

Fighting Becomes Severe—Opposing Lines Close Enough For Rifle Fire

Canadian Press Special

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The offensive of the entente allies in the Balkans begun three days ago against the Bulgarian positions at Lake Doiran in Greek Macedonia was extended today along the whole Bulgar-German front from Monaster in Serbia to Vardar river, says a despatch from Saloniki to the Journal. This is a distance of seventy-five miles. Semi-official reports emanating from the entente headquarters stated the allies had opened fire with their new heavy artillery on the enemy's positions and fortified works. The bombardment is intense. At some points the opposing lines are close enough for exchanges of rifle and machine gun fire, which is being carried on. In the region of Lake Doiran the offensive has been prosecuted with vigor, several villages having been captured by the allied forces at the Base of Doiran hill.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 14.—Text of Russian statement—In the region south of the little town of Stobychva, Sunday evening, the enemy attacked our troops on the western front of Stokhod, but in counter attacks he was driven back to his positions. On the upper Sereth our advance continues. The enemy retired to the west to fortified positions behind which at some points he is checking our advance by fierce artillery fire. In the region of the Middle Stripa and River Koropice our troops, continuing to pursue the enemy, advanced to the west, and arriving before the Zlota Lipa near Zavalov and Korsov, reached the northern bank of the Dniester before Mariampol. In the region of Yaremozc, Yaloviczary, and Kirlibaba, in the wooded Carpathians, local attacks of the enemy were everywhere repulsed by our troops.

Hon. Dr. Beland Still a Prisoner

Two Thousand Canadians Captives In Germany — Exchange Effected

OTTAWA, Aug. 12.—Hon. Dr. Beland, in captivity since early in the war, is said to be still a prisoner in Germany. There have been repeated negotiations to secure his releases, but so far without avail. He was allowed to go to visit his wife, who was ill, but had to return.

Two thousand Canadians are prisoners of war in Germany, according to the latest figures available here.

The first exchange agreed upon, in the case of those utterly incapacitated, was carried out three months ago, and the prisoners taken to Switzerland, not as prisoners but as invalids who would benefit by recuperation in the mountain air. The work is directed especially by the, International Red Cross Society. In the initial exchange five Canadians were included.

So far as the Militia Department is aware, there is no Canadian representative in Switzerland unless one has been detailed from London. The Canadian prisoners are treated as Britishers and are looked over by the British authorities.

AUSTRO-GERMAN CENTRE SMASHED BY RUSSIAN DRIVE ON LEMBERG

PETROGRAD, Aug. 14.—Special.—Dealing the Austro-Germans the most powerful blow sustained on any side since the war began, the Russians celebrated the birthday of the Grand Duke Alexis Nikolaievitch, heir to the Imperial throne, by capturing the whole region of the main enemy winter positions between Tarnopol and Buczacz on a front of about 75 miles. A partial return of prisoners taken since these operations began is given by the Russian official report of today at 1741 officers and 83,202 men. The Russians also captured 59 cannon, 335 machine guns, 45 bomb mortars and 128 bombers.

They have also taken Mariampol. seven miles from Halicz, the key of Galicia.

This action completes the battering down of the fortified wall which the enemy erected last winter from the Pripet River to the Roumanian frontier.

Warning Against Lightweight Bread

A great warning is being sent out to the bakers of the Province by Joseph Rogers, Superintendent of the Provincial Police, in which he notes that his attention has been drawn to the fact that many bakers throughout Onario are making and selling lightweight bread. The circular quotes the clauses from the Bread Sales Act, which provides for loaves weighing 24 to 48 ounces, excepting in small bread, which must not exceed twelve ounces in weight. The communication concludes:—

"I beg to notify you that in future such measures, including inspection of premises, weighing of bread, and seizures of such bread as is found to be of light weight, will be adopted to reach those guilty of violating these provisions as will ensue the general observance by bakers throughout Ontario of the provisions of the said Act."

A Fine Record For Albert College

The results of the recent departmental examinations show another magnificent record for Albert College. The class of Senior Matriculants, numbering five, were all successful. In entrance to Faculty 50% were successful, one student in part 2 securing honors. In Lower School 45% were successful, while the only student in Hastings County to secure honor standing was an Albert student. In Middle School examinations 70% were successful. Of the ten successful students in Junior Matriculation two of these covered the entire High School course in two years; while the time allowed by the majority of High Schools is four years. Five other students completed the work of Form 3 in one year. In the results of Lower and Middle School, Albert is indeed to be congratulated, as the failures throughout the Province were very great.

The other departments show equal results. With one exception all students of music, piano, violin, and theory were successful, many securing honors, and some first honors. Prof. W. A. Sherwood, R.A., C.A., expressed special delight at the work done in the Art Department, and all students secured honors. In the Expression Department all students were successful, nearly all securing honors, and some first honors. Many diplomas were granted in the Commercial and Shorthand Departments during the year.

Trenton Business Places Burned

At 1.30 on Saturday morning Plumbley's bakeshop situated on Murphy street in the town of Trenton, was destroyed by fire, and the flames extending to Lafrance's barber shop and Mrs. Harry Lowe's apartments above. The bake shop was destroyed, and considerable damage done to the barber shop and Mrs. Lafrance's apartments. The loss amounted to several hundred dollars, partially covered by insurance.

On Sunday night about 11 o'clock, Mr. Walter Carnrite's residence, on the river road, was destroyed by fire with the greater portion of the contents. Loss partially covered by insurance.

Sunday night a small frame barn situated in the western part of the town was burned.

SIDNEY RESIDENCE DESTROYED BY FIRE

At a few minutes after the noon hour on Sunday, a frame farm building, situated in the Township of Sidney, about two and a half miles west of the city limits, was destroyed by fire. The building was occupied by Mr. Archie Thompson and family, who were seated at the mid-day meal when the fire broke out. It is supposed the fire originated from a chimney. A few of the household contents were saved. The loss to Mr. Thompson, who owned the premises, is considerable. The building was insured for $900, and the contents for $300, which will by no means cover the loss.

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE
BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

While Patsy followed them, scowling a bit resentfully over the outlook, he drew his knife from his pocket and opened it, feeling the keen edge of the blade. Then he concealed it in his hand, still open, with the blade slipped up his sleeve.

He felt a little shaky over what he was about to do yet he was now obeying only the instructions Nick had tapped to him during the talk in the shed.

"Stand him there, close to the aft rail," Coyle harshly commanded, as Nick was lifted to the deck of the dredger. "How now, Carter? Have you changed your mind? Have you anything to say?"

The questions were asked after Nick had been stood on his feet, still gagged, still with his ankles secured and wrists bound behind him. He was within a foot of the lower rail around the aft deck. Eight feet below was a black abyss of water, the darker because of the huge, uncouth craft rising above is gloomy surface.

With some little difficulty Nick turned and looked over the rail—a move, made, however, only to bring his hands where Patsy could easily reach them. Then he glanced back at Coyle, over his shoulder, and again defiantly shook his head.

Coyle vented a growl and turned sharply around, just as Patsy reached the dredger's deck.

"Here you, Hogan," he said sharply. "It's up to you to do the work."

Patsy glanced at Nick, then at the several ruffians gathered near by, between him and the deck house.

"I'm to shove him over?" he asked, pretending to be alarmed and horrified when thus brought to the test.

"That's what, Hogan, and look lively, too," Coyle savagely commanded.

"I'll not do it while you coveys are looking,' cried Patsy, as if becoming much excited by what was required of him. "I'll not take that chance. If you don't see it done, I can swear he fell overboard. How do I know you will not peach? If you're not straight with me, mind you, it'll be the death of you! I'll not have you see me do it. Fall back, or I'll not do it at all. I'll not——"

"You'll do it, Hogan, or over he goes and your after him," Coyle fiercely interrupted, with a threatening gesture.

Patsy played no longer for an advantage, for an opportunity to accomplish his designs undetected. He had already forced the several men nearly to the deck house, and fully a dozen feet from where Nick was standing. Shrinking quickly when Coyle threatened him, he turned and dashed toward Nick, reaching him in three or four bounds.

There followed a brief struggle, or what appeared to be one, while Coyle and his confederates stared wildly and held their breath. Then, like a flash, the powerful figure of the famous detective went headlong over the fail, striking the water with a terrific splash, and in a moment had vanished under its gloomy surface.

Leaping to the rail, Coyle caught a glimpse of the sinking body, then wheeled round like a man electrified by this undubiable evidence of Nick Carter's death.

"Done up—by Heaven, he's done up!" he cried, with a savage exultation that seemed to turn his head. "No more fear of him. He no longer can block up, nor aid that infernal Wall Street shark! The work here shall go on to-morrow. Our stock will rise like a rocket. This way—this way, all hands! We must get word to Todd at once. With Nick Carter dead and Fennon jailed again—by Heaven, the way will be wide open! You're all right, Hogan—all right!" he impetuously added, while he seized Patsy by the shoulder and, closely followed by the others, hurried him back toward the shed. "You said you'd do it, and you've made good. You're all right, the real thing, Hogan, and shall quit no loser for this night's work. Take my word for that."

Patsy merely grinned and hurried on with him.

CHAPTER XVIII.
Nick Makes a Discovery.

A momentary chill, almost overpowering for an instant, and a plunge into darkness like that of the grave—these were Nick Carter's first impressions when he splashed headlong into the waters of the Harlem River and vanished under the surface.

Yet he was not quite as helpless as Peter Coyle and his confederates fully believed. For the trick turned by Patsy, under the instructions artfully conveyed by Nick before leaving the shed, had been so deftly accomplished that none had observed it, and was one from which Nick felt sure he could derive a later advantage, aside from thus escaping the gang into whose hands he had fallen.

In the brief struggle that occurred, Patsy had cut the cords confining Nick's wrists, leaving them in his hand, together with the knife he had used. Not until he was sure that Nick had a firm grip on both did he push him over the rail, and then rush back among the gang as if horrified by what he had done, but in reality to divert their attention in case Nick involuntarily parted his hands before striking the water.

The latter guarded against anything of that kind, however. He held them rigidly behind him, and quickly sank out of view. He felt the slimy side of the huge dredger, as the current swept him against it, and in a moment realized that he was being carried beneath it.

Knowing that he must drown if caught in the darkness unders its vast bottom, Nick first seized the slippery lower edge, and drew himself out till he could get a bearing against its broad side.

Then, doubling in the water, still a fathom under the surface, he quickly cut the cords from his ankles. Now able to swim freely, in which art he was an adept, a few vigorous strokes carried him toward the bow of the dredger, where, with head throbbing and lungs strained to their limit, he was compelled to rise to the surface.

He emerged noiselessly, however, and saw at once, that he was a dozen yards from where he had sunk, and out of probable discovery in the darkness.

Supporting himself by quietly treading water, he listened intently for several moments. He could hear nothing at first, but presently the sound of a door noisily closed reached his ear.

"The rascals have returned to the shed," he said to himself, "convinced that I am drowned, no doubt, and well pleased with the conviction. This may serve me well a little later. I'll make sure that none of them have remained to see if I show up."

Now removing the handkerchief from over his mouth and thrusting it into his pocket, that no evidence of his ruse might be discovered the following day, Nick quietly floated aft and supported himself by the rudder chains, again listening briefly. Not a sound came from the deck, however, and he soon felt sure that the last of the gang had departed.

Swimming quietly around the stern of each pile driver, he presently reached the stone wall at which they were made fast, where he climbed up noiselessly until he could look over the capstone. The shed was shrouded in darkness. From no chink or crevice came a ray of light.

"Have the scoundrels bolted as quickly as this?" he asked himself, still listening. "I believe, by Jove, they have. Some important business must have taken them away on the jump. It's a safe wager that Patsy is with them, however, and now stands ace-high in their rascally esteem. His report, when he finds an opportunity to communicate with me, should be interesting reading, barring any mishap. It looks as if nothing was left for me but to hike for home."

Chilled, with garments drenched, Nick had mounted the wall while indulging in the above reflections, and a brief examination at the shed door convinced him that the place was deserted. He could only conjecture whither the gang had now gone, and, seeing nothing to be gained by attempting to trace them in his present condition, he made his way out of the vast inclosure dividing the work from the neighboring streets, and set about finding a conveyance in which to quickly reach home.

To be Continued.

FARM AND GARDEN

CARE AND FEED OF DAIRY COWS

Calves Should be Put on Grain Feed At Four Weeks

After the calf is taken from the dame and placed in the calf pen for the first two weeks it should be regularly fed warm whole milk twice a day. The milk of its own mother is best, but if it does not agree with the calf that of another fresh cow may be used. Special care should be taken that the pails are clean and the milk pure and at body temperature. Large quantities of milk should not be placed before the hungry calf as he is liable to over-eat and thus get scours. Scours can be cured by decreasing the amount of milk and adding lime water or buttermilk to the milk the calf receives.

For the next two weeks the amount of whole milk should be gradually decreased and skim milk substituted in its place, so that at four weeks of age the calf is getting skim milk entirely. Milk obtained at the creamery should be pasteurized before being fed to the calf. Hay tea makes a good substitute for skim milk and has been used with success when milk could not be had.

Calves should be given grain as soon as they will eat it, this is generally at about four weeks of age. One good method in starting calves to eat grain is to rub it on their mouths after they are through drinking milk. Another is to place the grain in the bottom of the pail when they have drunk all the milk. Grain should never be put in the milk as the calf will then gulp it down without giving it proper mastication. There are many calf foods on the market, but it is much more profitable in the long run for the breeder to fed the grain that he can get the handiest. Corn, barley, oats, kaffir or sorghum are good grains to give a calf which is being raised on skim milk. Bran is often mixed with the ration to insure safety against scours.

Some good rations for the dairy calf on skim milk are: Whole oats and bran, corn meal, gradually changed in from six to eight weeks to whole corn, with or without bran, and three parts corn meal, three parts oats, three parts bran and one part linseed meal. Fresh grain should be placed in the feed box daily to prevent scouring. Whole corn is much better for the calf than corn meal.

The calf will begin to eat roughage almost as soon as grain. At first it will eat no more roughage than grain, but as it grows older the amount of roughage in proportion to the grain will increase until at six months of age it will be consuming about three times as much roughage as grain. Early cut clover and silage make good roughage for the calf. By this time the calf will be old enough to make use of the spring pasture. Calves should never be put on pasture before four months of age and then only for a little while at a time at first, but the time may be increased daily.

Reasons that some have poor luck in raising calves on skim milk are: Lack of sunlight and fresh air, unsanitary stalls, feeding too much milk at irregular intervals, feeding from pails that have not been scalded, daily feeding improper concentrates and in stale feed box. If these things are avoided no one should have any trouble raising dairy calves.

There will be 21 sections for field grain this year at the Canadian National Exhibition, 5 for grain in sheaves and a similar number for grain in sacks.

This is the thirty-eighth year of the Canadian National Exhibition. It came into existence in 1879, and has been running continuously ever since.

THIS IS THE 681ST DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

SOUTH-WEST TORONTO ELECTION.

Mr Dewart accepts the Liberal nomination, but, says The Globe, " refuses to recognize the prohibition question as being honestly an issue in the campaign." And The Globe is silent editorially upon the subject. Why?

THE PURPOSE OF IT ALL.

Not until the war is over, probably, shall we learn certainly who was the master strategist who designed the campaigns of 1916. As long as each of the Entente Allies was going ahead on its own hook, they were all at the mercy of the Central Allies, who were directed from a single point. This disadvantage resulted in the unification of the Entente's disorganized efforts. There is every reason to believe that the supreme directing head now is General Joffre; but whoever it may be, the Entente Allies now, like the Central Allies from the beginning of the war, are acting as one.

Their present aim appears to be the destruction of Austria as an opponent. General Haig has said that " the decision will come in the west," but it seems that the directing mind of the Entente has determined to crush Austria first. Brusiloff's campaign is not simply a brilliant dash or a sledge-hammer blow. He dashes and he hammers, but alternately, at different points —wherever, evidently, he can inflict the most damage on Austria. He threatens Lemberg from two points and then descends on it from a third. Italy pushes ahead in the Trentino, and then suddenly delivers her most destructive blow on the Isonzo. With each of these distressing and damaging attacks, Austria loses more of her resisting power. She has not men enough to save any one point from the slugging blow which is delivered here to-day and there to-morrow. Germany, apparently, cannot reinforce her any further.

Germany sees, of course, that the plan of the Entente chief is the destruction of Austria, but she does not attempt to foil that plan, as she would have done in the early part of the war, because she must hold on desperately to her western lines. Austria must save herself—which she cannot do. When she is gone, Germany knows as well as does Haig, " the decision will come in the west." She must hold on to the west now, at any cost to Austria. So Gorizia falls to-day, and Lemberg to-morrow, and Russia and Italy bring the Allies toward the moment of final triumph.

A SHORTAGE OF LABOR.

"The deliveries of munitions from Ontario are running far behind the quantities promised, and we are seriously apprehensive if the existing conditions cannot be bettered."

Such is the statement of the Imperial Munitions Board to the Provincial Organization of Resources Committee, which has been conducting a preliminary investigation into labor conditions in munitions plants in Toronto, Hamilton and other Ontario cities.

This shortage in production has been largely due to the fact that there has been a very inadequate supply of labor sufficiently skilled to make deliveries effective. This has hampered factories turning out steel forgings and component parts, which, in turn, have adversely affected operations at the machining and assembling plants. But these, also, have been unable to make deliveries are scheduled, even when they are fully supplied with forgings and component parts, largely owing to the shortage of labor.

The Provincial Committee, therefore, in bringing these facts to the attention of the public, desires:

1. To call the attention of all those engaged in the munitions and allied industries to the importance of their service and the great responsibility resting upon them as individuals to co-operate and do all in their power to secure a steady and increased supply of munitions for our forces at the front.

2. To urge upon all those who are ineligible for overseas service and who are anxious to voluntarily do their best in this great struggle (especially those now engaged in non-productive work or in the production of commodities which are luxuries more or less) to consider employment on munitions as their next best service to going overseas.

3. To urge Women's Emergency Corps to register women for munition work or for work which will release men for the munitions industry.

There is no need to emphasize the importance of the highest possible production of munitions. The lives of our boys and the success of their endeavors depend upon it. Statements from the highest authorities in Great Britain and from the front bear no small tribute to the part that munition workers are playing in bringing the war to a successful conclusion.

The officer commanding a brigade of Canadian artillery, who returned from the front last week, said: " The Germans will never break through now. Before, they had munitions, guns, equipment—everything but the " nerve." All we had was " nerve." But now we have good guns and plenty of good ammunition. Whereas formerly we were limited to 10 to 15 rounds a gun a day, now we use 500 to 1,000 a gun, and one week lately we kept going all week night and day. It's all important that the supply of munitions be kept up and increased."

Efforts to use women in munition plants are meeting with good success. In a number of places women have registered, and are waiting to be called to work as soon as necessary arrangements can be made. In Welland, for instance, 95 women responded last week to the call of a factory there which needs 150 to 200 women Fifty per cent. of those who answered the call had never been in regular employment before.

Wages in munitions plants should be such as to attract a large number of workers Four to seven, and even ten dollars a day is not uncommon, for men employed on the piece-work basis.

" If you can't be the man behind the gun,
Be the man behind the man
behind the gun."

Toronto Globe: The Executive of the Committee of One Hundred met on the 11th inst. in Toronto to consider the situation in South-west Toronto. The chief point discussed was whether the election was of vital importance to the objects of the committee. There is no intention to bring forward a candidate that would run counter to the Government. It was thought that too much was being made of Southwest Toronto as a test election on prohibition; that the world would go on just the same no matter who got in. If the committee should put up a candidate he will be brought forward on nomination day. For the present their attitude is one of watchful waiting.

Hamilton Herald: When J. P. Morgan died two years ago he was worth $73,149,000, of which $53,684,918 went to the present J. P. Morgan. The late J. P. Morgan was the recognized financial and industrial leader of the United States, but the amount it took him a whole life-time to amass has been doubled by his son in two short years. The claim is made in New York that no one in the United States or in any other country ever made money so rapidly as the present head of the Morgan estate. The European war and his deals with the British Government are the secret of his success. In addition to what he has made in placing war loans, Mr Morgan has been getting a " rake-off " of two per cent. on war orders of an estimated total of $2,000,000,000.

The Pioneer (official prohibition organ) of last week says that in view of the admitted fact that interprovincial trade is controlled by the Dominion Parliament, an Ontario brewer or distiller can sell his goods to a man in Montreal who can sell and reship to Toronto, so there is nothing to do but to press for a Dominion law prohibiting the sale of liquor from Quebec to Ontario. " This," says the Pioneer, " will require determined energetic action. It means a Dominion-wide fight; but it is neecssary—and it will win."

The Poets' Corner

The following dramatic and touching verse, by Mr Arthur Playford, of London, England, whose stirring poem, "The Lion," was published in The Intelligencer, and has often been recited in Belleville, depicts a frequent scene and sympathetic thought evolved in the old land just now as the passing ambulance trains make Britishers the world over realize the price we (or rather our brave lads) are paying for victory. The poem reads:—

See! Smoothly gliding along the line
Comes a Hospital Train with its Red
Cross sign—
Doctors, nurses, wounded men,
Bandaged heads at the window pane—
Wave! Wave!
To the wounded brave!
To the doctors and nurses, who work
to save!
God bless our brave boys, wounded!
Wave! Wave!
Wave to the brave!
God bless. . . . . .

HOW TO KEEP WELL

THE COUNTRY SCHOOLHOUSE

THOSE OF US who attended a rural school thirty or more years ago will, in driving through the older parts of the Province, notice the great improvement made in the school buildings and surroundings, compared with those of our boyhood days. The writer calls to mind the schoolhouse of a prosperous community of the seventies. It was a low, log building, heated in winter by an immense stove of the "box" type situated near the front door, with a long double range of pipes badly jointed and subject to smoking until the fire was well established. The fire was usually lighted on a winter's morning by the first arrival. The floor was of rough boards unplaned and unjointed, many of the boards not being nailed to the joist which was made of logs resting upon the ground. Those were the days of slates and pencils, and an ill-fate befell the dropping of a pencil upon the floor as it promptly disappeared through one of the numerous large cracks between the boards. The noon-hour was the occasion for a diligent search under the easily-raised flooring. The desks were huge arrangements along the walls, and the seats were benches devoid of backs. The blackboard was made of planed boards painted black. The floors were usually given a scrub in the summer holidays. Their cleanliness during the balance of the year depended upon the industry of the larger school-girls. Dry sweeping was the rule, with a resulting layer of dust upon everything in the room. The out-houses, bad enough in the present day, were usually devoid of doors and without any semblance of privacy. The grounds were small, filled with stumps and rocks and without much facility for play.

How much better are present-day conditions! The school buildings are mostly of stone, wood, or brick, are well lighted, well heated, and equipped with modern seats and desks, slate or plaster blackboards, and have clean, smooth hardwood floors. The number of children in each school, because of a greater number of schools perhaps, are fewer and with better surroundings, they should be healthier and happier. In the present day the grounds are usually ample. Trees and flowers have been planted; in many places experimental beds of flowers and shrubs are found. The one condition which has not improved as rapidly as it should is the toilet convenience.

MEDICAL INSPECTOR OF SCHOOLS

The Medical Officer of Health for the township should make it his duty to visit the schools at frequent intervals to examine the toilets, see that the well, the usual source of water-supply, is properly protected, that the heating and ventilation are satisfactory, and that communicable diseases are excluded as much as possible. Every teacher should be alert to notice signs of illness in the children, to see that the hearing, the sight, or other defects in the child do not prevent the proper development of any child or interfere with the advance of the more capable. With the insight of experience the good teacher should learn to note the presence of vermin, itch, the early signs of measles, whooping cough, diphtheria, mumps, etc., in the pupils, and, if the condition of any child is suspicious, the Medical Officer of Health should be notified and the child excluded from school until the question is settled.

THE SCHOOL NURSE

A properly qualified nurse should be assigned to a group of schools to follow up cases recognized by the teacher or Medical Officer of Health, the latter of whom, for rural schools at least, must in the course of time become the school medical inspector. The Medical Officer of Health in Ontario is the only officer common to the township who can rationally carry on the work of medical inspector of schools. With a nurse or two he can give most efficient service to his township. Now that he is made a permanent officer and with the prospect of an additional emolument for this service, he can afford to devote some attention to it, without the fear that any action he may take or the fact that he may tread on some one's toes may mean his dismissal. No other state or province has a better organization for public health work than Ontario, and no other single state or province in America has made greater strides in public health work during the last decade. The improvement in the municipal health officer is most apparent in the meetings of the Ontario Health Officers' Association. The latest meeting held in Toronto at the end of May last was in point of attendance, class of papers presented, and interest shown the best conference held in the last five years.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

For further information apply to the nearest Canadian Northern Agent, or write to R. L. Fairbairn, General Passenger Agent, 68 King St., East Toronto. tues, thurs, sat.-tf

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

AFTER THE OUTING

The 154th, 155th and 156th battalions are back again in camp, after spending a most enjoyable and profitable two days on a route march and bivouac. Just as soon as dinner was over yesterday the troops started to break camp, and turn their faces towards their tented homes in Barriefield. The clouds that had been hanging so threateningly in the sky for a couple of days broke out yesterday just as the boys were finishing their dinner, and continued to pour out their contents all along the line of march to city and camp. All got a good soaking, but they reached Barriefield in the best of spirits, and none were downhearted. About four o'clock the battalions passed through the city along King street to the city, and before five o'clock all were in camp and ready for the evening meal. The march and bivouac were a great success from the military point of view, and Brig.-General Hemming and his staff were pleased with every feature of the two days outing from Barriefield.

More such marches and bivouacs will not only be pleasing to the soldiers of Barriefield camp, but will contribute much towards their perfect preparation for the strenuous campaign which awaits them overseas. The men were well cared for, well fed, and well treated on the march, and there was an absence of complaint of any kind. The transport and supply of the C.A.S.C. were perfect, and officers and men deserve much credit for their work. The commanding officers of each battalion took a direct personal interest in all things pertaining to their men, and Brig.-Gen. Hemming played the part of a father to all. Lt.-Col. Thompson, G.S.O. was responsible for the scheme carried out and his work proved worthy of his old Imperial military connections.

NOTES

The R.M.C. will open next week with the largest number of recruits in the history of the institution.

The 155th Battalion did not take their pet bears on the route march.

The camp has settled down again to its regular routine on the return of the troops from Lemoine's Point.

Lt.-Col. Wilson says that Lt.-Col. Desalaberry, officer commanding the 230th Battalion, now has 600 men in his unit, and recruiting is progressing rapidly.

An average of five men a day are being enlisted at Ottawa for the artillery brigade in Barriefield. Capt. O'Leary has charge of the recruiting depot at the capital.

The 73rd Battery has been privileged to recruit 50 men over the strength of the artillery unit as laid down by regulations.

The date for the presentation of the colors to the 154th Battalion has been changed from August 18th to August 24th. Efforts are still being made to have the battalion go to Cornwall for the presentation. The battalion being a local one is recruited to a large extent from residents of that district, and it is hoped the militia authorities will acceed to the request.

Credit is due to Capt. Hyman and Capt. Bawlf, who acted as quartermasters respectively for the 155th and 155th Battalions. Capt. Hyman is transport officer of his battalion, and Capt. Bawlf is a paymaster, but both proved their ability to ably discharge their new duties.

Capt. S. S. Lumb of the Queen's University Field Ambulance, is in the city again this week recruiting for that popular unit. Dr. Lumb, who has been overseas himself, examines his recruits at the old Union Bank recruiting office on Front street.

Last Night At The Canvas Tabernacle

Evangelist F. W. Johnston Lectures on The Fourth Beast to Large Audience

A large audience was present last night at the Canvas Tabernacle on the corner of Victoria and Pinnacle, when Evangelist F. W. Johnston lectured on the fourth Beast and little horn of Dan. 737.8. He said that his authority of regarding these beasts as being symbolic of kingdoms is given in the same chapter verses 19,23 and that the horns also are said to represent kingdoms in ver. 24. Yet people say we can't understand. He said that the reason why these great lines of prophesy could not be understood before was not because that the people then were any less capable intellectually but that the time had not arrived to understand them. Daniel was told to "Seal up the book till the time of the end" and then adds in Dan. 12:4 that many would run to and fro and knowledge should be increased.

After proving from scripture and history that the fourth beast symbolized Rome and the ten horns were the ten divisions into which Rome was divided he then proceeded with the explanation concerning the little horn of ver. 7.8. He pointed out the part that the means of identifying it were plain from the text itself; for in ver. 25 in speaking of the little horn it gives several points of identification. He proved this horn to be a spiritual power taht as it says would wear out the saints or persecute them, that it would blashpheme the name of God by assuming the titles of the duty and that it would even attempt to change the law of God. Mr. Johnston raised the question as to what spiritual power was it that was guilty of all this? The papacy he said answers the question. The facts presented in support of all these points were plain and clear as was evident from the historical extracts read by Mr. Johnston. The theme in general was exceedingly interesting and the many who were present seem to manifest very great interest. Many important subjects are promised for future studies along the lines of the Prophecies of Revelation.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

FANNIE WARD APPEARS AT GRIFFIN'S TO-NIGHT

America's most versatile photoplay star, Fannie Ward makes her local filmplay debut at Griffin's Opera House, To-night, and Tuesday, in an elaborate 5-part version of, "For the Defense," adapted from the famous novel of the same name.

Few American actresses are so well known as Miss Ward, for her lasky production she has been provided with a role that is something enitrely different from the kind of part with which Miss Ward in the past has been identified. Hector and Margaret Turnbull who wrote, "For the Defense," have developed a strong virile drama full of sympathetic appeal. The scenes of, "For the Defense" are laid in New York and in the beautiful West. On the same program, "For the Resurrection," which is the title of the 15th episode of the popular Iron Claw series will be presented along with some refined comedies.

SATURDAY NIGHT AT GRIFFIN'S OPERA HOUSE

A decidedly wholesome programme was given to a large audience at Griffin's Opera House Saturday evening, including a two-reel humorous play in which Billy Rhodes, that everlastingly funny screen favorite, figured to advantage, several new specialties, and a five-reel masterpiece of especial merit, entitled "The Call of the Siren", depicting the extent to which greed will lead a crook, and the outcome of honorable tendencies. The evening was most enjoyable, and will be followed by a series of most attractive productions for which this play house is becoming famous.

Tonight "The Iron Claw," in its fifteenth episode, will screen "The Double Resurrection," one of the most thrilling of this marvellous serial. Also, Fannie Ward in "For the Defense," will prove a hummer. Better be there.

A Terrible Affliction.

At an exhibition of paintings a lady and her daughter took much interest in a picture which represented a soldier with hollow cheeks and staring eyes. It was called "After the Attack of Lutzen."

"What is 'Lutzen,' Mary Anne?" asked Mrs. Crockett in a whisper.

Mary Anne admitted that she did not know.

"Well, anyway," said Mrs. Crockett, with conviction, "it's a terrible disease. I can see that easy enough without anybody telling me."—Youth's Companion.

The Early Drum.

Drums are probably an eastern idea introduced by the crusaders into Europe. They are frequently mentioned in accounts of the first crusade. When Edward III. of England and his queen made triumphal entry into Calais in 1347 "tambours" were among the instruments which were played in their honor. Another of these was called a "nacaire," or kettledrum, taken, together with its name, from the Arabs. The poet Chaucer also mentioned this instrument in his description of the tournament in "The Knight's Tale." The king generally kept a troop of these bandsmen or minstrels in his employ, and we read that Edward II. on one occasion gave a sum of 60 shillings to Roger, the trumpeter; Janino, the nakerer, and others for their performance.

THE FAVORITE.

HOW TO LIVE.

That Is, How to Live Cheaply and Well.

Most Canadians wonder how people can live on the wages paid in some foreign countries, and when we see people coming over here in the steerage and raising large, healthy families on small wages we wonder also how that can be done: If the truth were known, it is largely a matter of soup and porridge. What is more, the Canadian pioneer had a few tricks of the same kind, now almost forgotten. In every country there is some national dish which is cheap, nourishing and savory, and it is usually a soup or stew.

The Italian has his minestrone and his macaroni cooked with meat or vegetables or both. The French housewife has a hundred or so good soups, notably petite marmite, soup a la bonne femme and pot-au-feu. The Scotch have their cockaleekie and barley broo. The Hungarian has his goulash. And so it goes. Old fashioned New England farmers cherished their "boiled dish" and hash and let no scrap of pork or veal or beef go to waste. On the southern plantation, where food was perhaps more abundant than anywhere else in the early days of America, soups were made of a variety of materials, cooked long and slowly. The soup kettle is the good fairy of any well managed household—a brown and squat fairy, but that is no matter. And to do the work properly it should be of good heavy enameled ware, easy to keep clean, and suited to sit on the back of the stove or the simmering burner for seven or eight hours. The great secret of any soup or stew is long, steady, slow cooking. Tough meat, mature vegetables, stale bread, bones (most particularly bones), remnants of oatmeal, macaroni, rice or potatoes, left in the dish after a meal and unappetizing warmed over, and such cheap foods as barley, rice and other forms of cereal, all improve a soup that is properly started, and the long, slow cooking with the cover on keeps in the flavor. Soup stock made in this way will make almost any sort of dish more palatable. With tin cooking dishes these forms of cookery are practically impossible, but as tin gives place to the unrustable, unbreakable, durable enameled kettles the soup and the stew are coming back into their true place.

Petticoat Styles.

The petticoat of the present is a very important garment, with its cordings, rufflings, pipings and flounces. The silk, mercerized and other cottons are very attractive, as are also the new fabrics, such as cotton net, cotton crape, sateen, twill, pique, lawn, embroidery and lace.

Mercerized petticoats, with dark grounds and pompadour bouquets in bright colors, are practical and inexpensive. A taffeta skirt in block design has a deep plaited flounce with three tiny ruffles on the edge. A yoke model has a deep flounce of six corded ruffles. Another design has a deep flounce, cluster, tucked and plaited, with a tiny ruffle on the lower edge. Sometimes a deep scalloped flounce is trimmed with narrow ruffles.

Length of Life of Children.

In the American Magazine Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, says:

"Contrary to the public belief that the first born child is apt to be short lived, I have found that the first born reaches the average age length, which is 34.6 years. The second born children come up to the average also. But here's a curious thing—the third and fourth born have an average life considerably longer than the average. As a general proposition, the children born after ten years of married life are short lived."

THOSE PTOMAINES

What a Housewife Should Do to Prevent Them.

GIVE PERFECT REFRIGERATION

Dangers That Lurk in Food Left Standing on the Kitchen Table—Shellfish and Clams Make Especially Good Poisons in the Summertime.

The hot and often muggy days of summer seem just the ones to develop in certain foods definite bacteria which cause symptoms of pain, chilliness, subnormal temperature and thirst. These may continue for a somewhat extended period and are particularly dangerous because the after effects of the poisoning are often severe.

Ordinary colic or intestinal fermentation is not the true poisoning, which is due to fermentation or imperfect digestion.

There are certain foods especially susceptible to the development of ptomaines, such as meat, game, fish and milk or its products. Shellfish, and particularly clams, are possibly the most common cause.

But the development of ptomaines (which, by the way mean "derived from a dead body") is not due to any qualities in the foods themselves, but to lack of care in handling them. Some persons think that contact with tin or galvanized surfaces is the cause, as in ice cream. This has not been definitely settled. The chief and accepted cause is change of temperature in food products before they are used and careless storage either on the part of dealer or housewife.

In spite of all that has been said on the subject of care of the refrigerator, sanitary handling and cleanliness, many of us are not 100 per cent rigorous in the way we treat foods before they reach our table. Probably the reason why shellfish are most frequently the cause is because these are very seldom subjected to complete refrigeration, but are allowed to stand about in bags in whatever temperature happens to prevail.

In order to prevent the development and danger from ptomaines we must first oversee and insist on state and municipal strictness in all handling of food products, particularly milk. The second step is so to handle food when it is within our own four walls that our own home conditions cannot encourage this poisoning.

Food left lying even a half hour on the kitchen table, a refrigerator which registers above 50, unclean utensils—any one of these may be the cause of the ptomaine developing. Especially with all canned goods and canned and smoked meats should we exercise the greatest care. Remove the contents from a can as soon as it is opened. Place at once in refrigerator or, better, allow the can to stay in the refrigerator some hours before it is opened.

It is worth noting that the bacteria that develop the ptomaines do not always develop putridity or decay—that is, we can eat a food in a high state of preservation and still be subject to ptomaines. Scrupulous care and as perfect refrigeration all the way from the time the food was first handled until the last are the only preventives.

HE STROVE FOR PEACE

Kaiser Makes Queer Statement Refers to French Revenge and English Treachery

LONDON, Aug. 15— Special — A statement by the German Emperor on the responsibility for the European war was published yesterday in the Daily News. It is contained in a despatch from Berne, Switzerland, which gives an "eminent neutral's account of an audience with the Kaiser at Berlin. The Kaiser is quoted as saying:

"I suppose the British theory that I am responsible for the war has got a hold on your own people.

"It is curious how this theory seems to fascinate my enemies, yet the people who accuse me of having caused the war are the very people who previously testified to the earnestness of my desire for peace.

"I do not envy the man who has the responsibility for this war upon his conscience. I, at least, am not that man. I think history will clear me of that charge, although I do not suppose history will hold me faultless.

"In a sense, every civilized man in Europe must have a share in the responsibility for this war, and the higher his position the larger his responsibility. I admit that, and yet I claim that I acted throughout in good faith, and strove hard for peace, even though war was inevitable.

"Why do you neutrals always talk about German militarism and never about Russian despotism, or the French craving for revenge, or English treachery? I think the next generation will strike a more just balance in apportioning the blame."

Hughes Satisfied With Campaign

Has Spoken in Five States and Will Now Speak in Washington and Idaho

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 14.—Chas. E. Hughes, Republican nominee for President, reached Spokane to-day thoroughly satisfied with the results obtained during the first week of his western tour. He has been told by the leaders with whom he consulted, that his addresses were effective and the crowds large and enthusiastic for an early August campaign. Representatives of the National Committee travelling with him reflected the same feeling.

Up to date, Mr. Hughes has spoken in five states in the Middle West and West, which, in the political language, are classified as "normally Republican." They are Michigan, Illinois, Minnesota, North Dakota, and Montana. Former President Taft carried all of them in 1908. In 1912, Roosevelt, as the Progressive nominee, carried Michigan and Minnesota, and Wilson, Democratic, the others.

By one utterance after another he has made the big issue Hughes, and has endeavored to break down Republican and Progressive party lines by opening his arms to all, and promising equal consideration for every one interested in the welfare of the country.

The women have shown enthusiasm and promised support. His campaigning to-morrow will be in Washington and Idaho, also woman suffrage states. Washington is a hot bed of Roosevelt sentiment.

Later he will go to California, Utah and other suffrage states.

HOLD SERVICE IN RAVINE

York Rangers Meet in Picturesque Setting

TORONTO, Aug. 14.—Amid an artistic setting that could scarcely have been bettered, the 320th York Rangers held a drumhead service in Rosedale Ravine, Sunday afternoon, conducted by Captain R. H. Pickup, the chaplain. Goodness and faithfulness were better attributes of the soldier, and would carry a battalion farther than mere cleverness or heroism, he said.

In the Metropolitan Church grounds, in the evening, a meeting was held under the auspices of the Methodist Local Preachers' Association with Captain Pickup as leader. Four recruits offered themselves in response to the appeals made, one of them being a Serbian boy, whose father has been killed in the war, and whose mother and sister are prisoners in Germany.

ITALY CALLS SCOUTS TO WAR

Minister of War Orders Them Out Until Opening of the Schools

ROME, Aug. 15.—Special—The boy scouts of Italy are to have their share in the war. The Minister of War has called out all the boys belonging to the organization for service until the opening of the schools in October.

The scouts are to be divided into two classes The class over fifteen years of age, with the permission of their parents, will do duty in the war zone as guards at railroad stations and depots. The class under fifteen years will be enrolled in the territorial service. They will be stationed at hospitals, mobilization centres, munition factories, aeroplane stations and hangars.

THOUSANDS OF SYRIANS DIE FROM STARVATION

Turks Remove Population and Food Supplies From Large Districts

LONDON, Aug. 12.—A correspondent of The Times, recently returned from Syria, writes as follows concerning conditions there:

"The state of the people of Syria is past all belief. It is estimated that from 60,000 to 80,000 have died from starvation in northern Syria. The Turks are proceeding with great throughness in removing large sections of the population, and in some villages there are no Arabic-speaking Christians left.

"The epidemic of typhus is gaining everywhere, and a great many Turkish army doctors have succumbed to the disease. Many civilian prisoners, mostly British, also have contracted typhus. One great difficulty in a systematic fight against the epidemic is the great scarcity of drugs and antiseptics. The Germans have taken very careful precautions, but the disease is gaining."

"I AM A PROUD CHIEF"

King Victor Emmanuel Lauds His Army

ROME, Aug. 14.—King Victor Emmanuel has addressed the following proclamation to the army:

"But a short time has elapsed since you interposed an insurmountable barrier to powerful enemy forces attempting to invade the rich Italian plains from the Trentino.

"To-day you have conquered strongly fortified enemy positions. It is through your bravery that Italy, rejoicing, clasps Goritz to her bosom. This victory is an important step on the glorious march tending to the fulfillment of our national aspirations.

"Soldiers of Italy, you will achieve the victory which already looms on the horizon. Let the memory of your brothers gloriously fallen be an example, and encourage you in your struggle against the secular enemy of the race.

"I am proud to be your chief, and thank you in the name of the fatherland, which looks upon you with admiration, love and gratitude."

Plague Deaths Show Decrease

Cooler Weather Checks the Spread of Disease—Daughter-in-Law of Ambassador Page a Victim

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The epidemic of infantile paralysis took a turn for the better to-day. The number of new cases of the disease reported to the health department went under the hundred mark for the first time in several weeks. During the 24 hours ending at ten o'clock this morning the plague killed 31 children in the five boroughs of New York City and 95 new cases were reported, 43 of them in Manhattan and 31 in Brooklyn. This compares favorably with yesterday's figures when there were 141 new cases discovered and 22 fatalities. The falling off in cases was attributed to the cooler weather recently.

The Kaiser regrets that he is unable to fight with the men in the trenches, but the Salina, Kansas, Journal does not believe that he regrets it half as much as the Allies do.

Disastrous Fire in Johnson's Livery Stable

Building Completely Destroyed and Six Horses Perish—Waggons, Sleighs, Harness and Feed Supplies a Total Loss—Lafferty's Livery also Damaged—Cause of Conflagration Unknown.

One of the most disastrous fires which has occurred in Belleville for some time broke out last night, and resulted in the complete destruction of an up-to-date livery stable and considerable damage to adjoining property, despite the energetic and systematic work of the fire brigade under the able supervision of Chief Brown.

At a few minutes after 10 o'clock flames broke out in Johnson Bros. livery stables on Pinnacle Street, a short distance south of Bridge street, and in close proximity to the Armouries and other prominent buildings. When the fire was discovered in the stables, a large building, which was covered with metal sheeting, it had gained considerable headway and every effort made by the fire brigade, when it arrived upon the scene, was futile to save the structure. At the time of the outbreak of the fire there were in the stables six horses, five of who belonged to Johnson Bros, who conducted the stables ,and a horse the property of the Canadian Northern Railway Express Company. Every effort made to release the animals proved futile, as the interior of the stables was a mass of flames. The result was the six horses were cremated, and the fine stables were completely destroyed. The Johnson Bros lost in addition to the fine horses a number of cutters and sleighs, harness, robes, feed, etc., which amounted to upwards of $4,000.

In the meantime the fire brigade were kept busy in preventing the spread of the fire. Just south of the burning building was situated Mr. J. Lafferty's livery stable; a large frame building. This structure took fire at the rear and it was only owing to the excellent work of the fire brigade, that it was saved from destruction. The horses, vehicles, etc., were removed to a place of safety. The loss to Mr. Lafferty will be upwards of $1,000, which is covered by insurance.

Whilst the fire was at its height other buildings in the near vicinity became ignited, and it was only by strenuous efforts that they were saved from destruction. Adjacent to the livery stables of Johnson Bros. was a large brick dwelling, which was occupied by Mrs. Johnson and her sons. The rear part of the dwelling was burned, but fortunately the main part of the building escaped the devouring element. A frame blacksmith shop, owned by Mr. E. Naylor, situated between the destroyed stables and Mr. Lafferty's stables escaped destruction, although it was virtually surrounded at times by flames.

When the fire was at its height the roof of a residence in rear of Johnson's stables, became ignited, but by prompt action the blaze was extinguished.

The fire brigade was upon the scene for some hours and their efforts were commended by citizens generally, who were spectators of the fire.

The stables destroyed is a portion of the Cummins' estate, and the loss sustained is partially covered by insurance.

The loss to Johnson Bros, is a serious one, and is far in excess of the insurance carried by them. The five horses burned were valuable animals, and the horse the property of the Canadian Northern Express Company, was valued at $200.

How the fire originated is not known. When it was first discovered the rear part of the stables were a mass of flames, and it was utterly impossible to make any effort to rescue the poor unfortunate horses that were confined therein.

Says Fifty Pats Still Fighting

That Number of Originals are at it Five Thousand Men on Battalion Rolls

OTTAWA, Aug. 14.—"There's no doubt about it, we have the Germans beaten and they know it. We have the upper hand now," was the opinion expressed by Sergt. Major Samuel Patterson, D.C.M., of the original Princess Patricias, and formerly of Calgary, who with Sergt. Major J. McKay of Prince Albert, also an original "Pat" is staying at the Windsor.

Both came over with a convoy of badly wounded soldiers. Sgt. Major McKay is himself badly wounded about the legs and back, having been badly mussed up in the first St. Eloi affair on Feb. 15, 1915.

It was here that Sergt. Major Patterson won the D.C.M. after successfully leading a sapping party against a German trench. He refused to tell of his own exploits, but stated that the little blue and red ribbon indicative of the honor, was won when the party took the trench.

"Everybody is feeling pretty cocky over in England just now. They are realizing that everything is going all right, and the public is very high spirited," he stated.

Sergt.-Major Patterson stated that the Princess Patricias are now being replenished through reserves from other battalions. Over five thousand men have now been attached to the battalion since the first of the war. There are about fifty of the original men still fighting. The university company system has been discontinued.

He is going back to England in a few weeks. Since last January, when he was wounded, he has been out of action.

"We were holding our own then, and some of the wounded Pats told me in England that things were overwhelmingly in our favor now," he declared.

OTTAWA NURSES STOPPED

Were Going to Fight Infant Paralysis in New York

OTTAWA, August 14.—Seven Ottawa nurses, sent to New York following the request of the New York City Board of Health to Canadian Hospitals for aid in fighting the infantile paralysis plague returned to Ottawa last night, having been turned back at Alburgh, Vermont, by the immigration inspector who said they could not enter the United States without having passports. An appeal was made to Washington, but an official of the Department there said no action could be taken. The nurses had letters to New York City officials from Sister St. Joseph, Superintendent of the Gray Nuns' Hospital branch here.

Substantial Gains in Our Trade Returns

OTTAWA, Aug. 14.—An increase of nearly half a billion in the total trade of Canada is indicated by preliminary trade figures covering the twelve months ending with May last, which have been issued by the Trade and Commerce Department. The total was $1,563,230,513.

As regards exports, the total this year was $820,000,000 as against $432,000,000 in 1915 and $358,000,000 in 1913. The greatest increase is in the export of manufactured goods, which has risen from $45,000,000 in 1913 to $261,000,000. Agricultural produce rose from $45,000,000 to $107,000,000; mine products from $57,000,000 to $68,000,000 fisheries from $16,000,000 to $23,000,000; products of the forest from $43,000,000 to $52,000,000.

The greatest increase has been in exports to Great Britain, mostly of war supplies, the total being $518,000,000, as compared with $180,000,000. However, that this prosperity is not all war produce is evident from the fact that exports to the United States also increased from $167,000,00 to $337,000,000. There was also an increase to France from $3,000,000 to $37,000,000.

There was a decrease in imports, those of dutiable goods dropping from $447,000,000 the year before the war to $321,000,000, the chief decrease being in imports from Great Britain, which fell off from $143,000,000 before the war to $86,000,000.

ARTILLERY ACTIVITY ON SOMME TRENCHES CARRIED BY ALLIES

Canadian Press Special.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—Afternoon statement—On the Somme front our artillery displayed great activity in the various sectors north of the river and in the districts south of Belloy and Estres and north of Lisons. South of Belloy a German reconnoitering party was dispersed by our artillery fire. North of the Aisne an enemy detachment, after a lively bombardment, penetrated a small salient of our lines northwest of Beaulne. It was driven out by immediate counter attacks. On the right bank of the Meuse serious minor actions were carried out brilliantly by our grenadiers north of the chapel of Hainte Fine, enabling us to carry some portions of the German trenches on front of three hundred yards to a depth of about one hundred yards. The enemy attempted to recapture them by counter attack, which was broken up by our curtains of fire. The bombardment continued with considerable violence in the sectors of Fleury and Vaux Lechapitre. Everywhere else the night was calm.

Colored Man Kills Wife Near Digby, N. S.

Calmly Drives to Scene and Away Again in Auto, Surrenders and Confesses

DIGBY, N.S., Aug. 14.—Digby has another murder case. There is, however little excitement, as no mystery surrounds it. From the evidence brought out at the coroner's inquest, it appears that Charles Robert, colored, a fireman on the steamer Prince George, running between Boston and Yarmouth, came into Yarmouth Bluenose, hired an automobile, and was driven to the home of Luke Frances, at Westville, a village near Digby, where his wife, also colored, had been staying since Wednesday. Without any warning, it is alleged, he drew a 32 calibre revolver and shot her through the shoulder, killing her almost instantly. He then came out to the road and returned to Digby in the same automobile.

At the post office he gave himself up to Chief of Police Peck, at the same time handing him the revolver. He said, "She fooled me long enough, broke up my home, sold my stuff, and I made up my mind she would never do it again. I have fixed her, I think and I am willing to take the consequences."

TORONTO, Aug. 14.—An eight per cent, increase in wages has beent granted to the machinists, boilermakers, pipefitters, carmen and electrical and sheet metal workers of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The announcement has come from the railway's headquarters at Montreal after a delegation of employes had discussed the matter with C. P. R. officials in conferences extending over several weeks.

The settlement applies to lines east of Fort William. The men were also granted better working conditions, a victory which they consider to be equal to a twenty-five per cent. wage increase.

Representatives of the same federated trades employed on all branches of the Canadian Northern Railway east of Fort William are conferring with C. N. R. officials with the view of increased wages. Up to the present, negotiations have not gone far enough to get the attention of the executive.

(Modes of Today)

It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone.

FANNIE WARD DRAWS BIG CROWD AT GRIFFIN'S

The very name of Fannie Ward drew the record crowd of the season at Griffin's Opera House last night, every one of whom was delighted with the dainty little actress, who under the title of "Fidele," the French maiden stranded in a big city, did ample justice to the most attractive photoplay, "For The Defence." Escaping from a house of ill repute, into which she had been forced by a street leach, and when scaling a fence in the rear of the place, she obtained information through the window of a fashionable residence which rendered important information later in the story. Finding her shivering among a collection of boxes upon a wharf, a fashionable fugitive from justice befriends her, and both succeed in making their way to Canada, where they become engaged upon a ranch. Here he was arrested, and Fidele, refusing to forsake him, is taken by the officers as a witness to the scene of murder. Her engagement as a maid in the house where the murderer, a butler, was employed, her purpose to wrench a confession from him, the intalment of a dictaphone, the jealousy of his paramour, the revelation of the true incidents, and arrest of the real culprit, brought out superb acting by the pretty little leading lady and others connected with the plot. Throughout Miss Ward shines forth as one of the most pleasing film stars thrown upon the screen, and last night's appearance, her debut before a Belleville audience, brought forth only expressions of commendation. Personally prepossessing, alert to catch an inspiration, natural in pose, she at once became a favorite. Her cry, as she ran across the open field, as her lover was being taken from her to supposed death, "I will follow, follow, until one of us die," created a throb in the throat that was hard to stifle. Besides this beautiful play, the fifteenth instalment of The Iron Claw, depicting "The Double Resurrection," a most thrilling production, and one or two minor plays, made up a splendid program, all of which will be repeated this evening. See it.

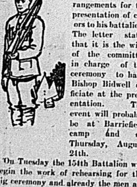
"THE OLD HOMESTEAD" AT GRIFFIN'S TOMORROW

After more than thirty years of continuous and unparalleled popularity as a play, during which period it circled the globe three times and was presented to twenty million people, Denman Thompson's immortal rural classic, "The Old Homestead," has been converted into a Paramount picture by The Famous Players Company, thus truly immortalizing what may justly be termed the greatest single triumph of the American stage. It was the irresistible simplicity of the human play and its tender story which bases its appeal upon real heart interest and upon its depiction of every day character, which everyone recognizes, that have made its popularity endure for more than three decades. It was this fundamental wealth of universal interest that caused "The Old Homestead" to become the foremost dramatic classic of our time and makes the film adaptation of the lovable play one of the most important screen events in all the annals of motion pictures. In addition to the above offering, the Pathe Weekly, which includes a review of events the world over, and the third of the escapades of Mr. Jack series, featuring the king of comedy, Frank Daniels, will also be exhibited.

Military Matters at Barriefield Heights

BISHOP BIDWELL TO ACT.

Will Consecrate Colors to 154th Battalion—Request Made by St Lawrence Chapter, I.O.D.E.



Lieut.-Col. A. G. MacDonald, commanding 154th Battalion, is in receipt of a letter from the St. Lawrence Chapter, Junior Branch, Daughters of the Empire of Cornwall, making some of the arrangements for the presentation of colors to his battalion. The letter states that it is the wish of the committee in charge of the ceremony to have Bishop Bidwell officiate at the presentation. The event will probably be at Barriefield camp and on Thursday, August 24th.

On Tuesday the 154th Battalion will begin the work of rehearsing for the big ceremony and already the men are anxious to be in it. Great interest is being taken and the presentation to the Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry battalion promises to be equal if not better tran any ever held in Military District No. 3.

An immense excursion will be run to the city for the purpose and will bring visitors from as far as Cornwall and district and will also bring up a large number from Brockville and vicinity. The event has been heralded in all of the papers of the eastern counties, and from reports received the whole population will make an effort to be on hand.

FATHER AND SON NOW AT BARRIEFIELD CAMP

On Saturday morning Lieut.-Col. M. K. Adams, commanding the 155th Battalion, appeared at headquarters with his face wreathed in smiles and walking a few steps in front of a slightly built but clean-cut active young officer. With another smile and a proud look in his eye Col. Adams introduced the visitor as "My kid, just back from the front." Lieut. E. A. Adams is as true a soldier as his father, and will doubtless become just as popular.

On his sleeve he wears a piece of gold braid, the first seen at the camp since the recent order authorizing it. The stripe means that the wearer was once invalided from the front.

NOTES

The examinations of those attending the Machine Gun School will likely be held on Friday. There are twenty-one in attendance and the course has been going on for a month.

The officers mess and canteen for the men of the Special Service Battalion has been started.

Lieut.-Col. M. K. Adams, commanding 155th Battalion, and his son Lieut. E. A. Adams, left on Sunday for a few days' visit in Picton.

The first six platoons of the 156th Battalion have been detailed to take a course in field engineering this week under the camp engineer.

Rev. O. C. Elliott, a Baptist minister from Stratford, spoke in the Y. M. C. A. tent on Saturday and Sunday evenings.

The 155th Battalion are proud of the fact that every man stood the march well, and none have a complaint since returning.

"Teddy," the pet bear of the 154th, was a great favorite with the excursionists and enjoyed an unusual feast of good things in the way of oranges and bananas.

The three young bears of the 155th Battalion received much attention from the excursionists on Saturday, and their fun and frolic amused everybody.

NOT AFRAID OF DEAD ONES

Sgt. Microbe: "Don't take water out of that shell hole, there's dead Germans in it."

Pte. Scarred Stiff: "Oh, I don't mind the dead Germans; it's the live ones what get my goat."

HADN'T SEEN A NEWSPAPER

Civilian: "Hullo, old man, home on leave? How are things going with us out there?"

Soldier: "I couldn't tell you, haven't seen a newspaper for months"

FARED THE SAME AS HIS MEN

In returning from the bivouac on Friday last, no officer, mounted or on foot, wore a raincoat, or cover of any kind beyond his regular uniform. The men were all in their shirt sleeves when it started to rain, and no officer wanted the men to feel that he was well protected, while they were not. The mounted officers kept their raincoats on their saddles, and Brig.-General Hemming took the heavy rain like every other fellow on the march.

There are 23 classes for field vegetables in the Canadian National Exhibition prize list this year, and no less than 19 for garden vegetables.

Public Opinion

"The natural corn flavour is delicious!"
"Three wrappers preserve their delicious oven-crispness"
"They're known by the "Bubbles""
"Don't mush down in cream"
"Don't chaff or crumble in the package"

The first taste of New Post Toasties reveals the fact that something different—something better—has arrived for the breakfast table.

The secret is in the flavor—a self-developed flavor of pearly white Indian corn—not the flavor of cream and sugar upon which other flakes have to depend.

And notice, too, the appearance of New Post Toasties, particularly the tiny "bubbles," on the surface of each flake. These bubbles are a distinguishing feature —produced by the quick, intense heat of a new patented process of manufacture.

New Post Toasties does not "chaff" nor crumble in the package, and they don't mush down in cream like other flakes. They're more substantial and are altogether more satisfactory than any flakes that have preceded them.

The proof is in the eating—have your grocer send you a package.

A FATAL BARGAIN

OR

THE MAN WHO DARED FATE

BY

NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XVIII—Continud

It took him only a short time to locate a cabman, whom he warned against making any disclosures concerning him, and soon after nine o'clock he arrived at his residence. He found Chick in the business office, from whom he had parted at four o'clock in the Hotel Royal.

"Well, you must have found Mrs Pat Selkirk very entertaining," Chick cried, not at once observing Nick's condition.

"Yes, I did—decidedly entertaining," Nick dryly rejoined. "She's one of he most accomplished——"

"Holy smoke!" Chick interrupted, now staring. "Where the dickens have you been? Not in swimming with her?"

Not with her—but because of her."

"The deuce you say! You look as if you'd been in a sewer."

"I'll tell you where I've been, Chick, after getting into dry garments," Nick replied, hastening from the office after placing the contents of his pockets on his desk.

He returned after ten minutes, and in as many more had told Chick all that was essential of what had occurred, and his reasons for the course he had taken.

"We could have arrested that whole bunch, mind you; but that wouldn't do, Nick said, in conclusion. "It would have been a leap in the dark. We weren't sure of the identity of any of them, barring Cullen, nor how close they may be to the chief criminals. There are far bigger men than any of them in this game that's being played, and they must be given no loophole for escape. It's much better as matters now stand, for Patsy will surely make important discoveries, and we may gain something by noting what effect my supposed death has in various quarters."

"In the stock market, for example," Chick suggested.

"Exactly. If United Transit begins to soar again tomorrow morning, it will be because the Todd crowd think me dead, and they can have been informed to that effect only by the rascals we encountered to-night, who, I fully believe, are in their employ."

'Are you sure Todd was not among them?"

"Absolutely," said Nick. "Todd could not disguise himself so well that I could not recognize him."

"Or, McNulty?"

"No, nor McNulty," Nick declared. "Neither of them was there. The fact that I was taken to a tool shed belonging to McNulty, Cassidy & Coyle, moreover, would cut no great ice, providing we had arrested this gang and found none of the firm among them, not men whom we could prove are in their employ. They could swear, in that case, that some unknown gang had broken into the shed because of its isolation, in order to do their knavish work undetected."

"That's very true, Nick."

"Here's another point," Nick added: "If work is immediately resumed on the Harlem River job, following the Packard decision, you may safely assume that both Todd and McNulty's firm have the courage to resume operations at once only because they think me down and out, and that they can now crush Fenno in the market, if not bring about his rearrest and detention in custody. With both of us out of their way, they'll think they have smooth sailing."

"There's one bad feature of the situation," Chick remarked.

"What is that?"

"If they boom United Transit again to-morrow, as you suspect, they may succeed in causing Fenno's failure. He must be awfully short of the stock since the smash he gave it today."

"With my help, he'll smash it worse to-morrow."

"With your help?" queried Chick "What do you meon?"

"Just this," replied Nick with grim determination: "We're up against a big case, looking at the financial side of it—one in which millions are at stake and fortunes made or lost in a day. Mighty quick work must be done, and decisive steps taken. No halfway moves will suffice. The gang back of the United Transit are playing as bold and desperate a game as has ever been played in New York City. They can be beaten only by countermoves of equal audacity, culminating with a complete exposure of their criminal operations. These include, I feel sure, the killing of Judge Packard."

"What are your designs?"

"On the strength of what little absolute evidence I possess, and the deductions I have made, I am going to drive this gang to the wall with a rush, and down them as quickly as posible."

"In what way?" asked Chick deeply impressed by Nick's unusual austerity.

"To begin with, I must protect Fenno," Nick replied. "He has millions involved, has taken tremendous chances on the strength of my advice and predictions, and take my word for it, he shall quit no loser. I will pull him out, Chick, and put millions in his pocket, or lose a leg in the attempt."

"How can you do it? You talk as if you had the National Treasury back of you."

"I'll tell you how," Nick grimly went on. "You must see District Attorney Henderson tomorrow morning, and get his assistance. He will give you what legal advice you require. I want you to apply for an injunction on such grounds as he may suggest restraining the resumption of work on the Harlem River job, and all further construction by the United Transit Company, pending a hearing as to the validity of Packard's decision, and an inquest upon his death. Henderson will get Judge Peabody to grant such an injunction, and it will have a double effect. It will drive the Todd crowd to greater extremes, and enable Fenno to smash the stock to smithereens, after whatever advance it may make to-morrow morning."

"By Jove, that's so!" Chick approvingly cried.

"The news of the injunction will not leak out before noon, and the action of the stock during the first two hours of the market will show me plainly enough whether Todd has been informed of my death. When the news of the injunction reaches the market, let Fenno alone to smash the stock again. I shall see him early tomorrow morning, and relieve him of all apprehensions as to the final results of my work."

"My gracious, Nick, you'r tackling an awful proposition—the biggest ever!"

"Yet I'll come under the wire a winner, you can bet on that."

"I hope so. But there's a raft of work to be done!"

"We should receive important information from Patsy tomorrow morning, or during the day," Nick replied; "and I shall begin to get busy right after breakfast."

"But you are thought to be dead."

"I shall get in my work in disguise."

"Yes, of course."

"I'll not let the Todd crowd learn that I'm alive, you can gamble on that," Nick dryly added. "It might prove fatal to my plans."

"What other plans have you?" Chick inquired.

Nick proceeded to inform him, and the clock had struck twelve when they ceased discussing the case and the work to be done, the nature of which will appear in their subsequent efforts.

"By Jove! theres' one thing I've forgotten," Chick abruptly remarked, when they were about to start for bed.

"What's that, Chick?"

"You had three telephone calls during the early evening."

"By whom?"

"Give it up." Chick said tritely. "She declined to give her name, or even her telephone number, in order that you might call her up when you returned."

"A woman, eh?"

"Yes, the same one each time," Chick nodded. "I recognized the voice."

"Young, or old?"

"It sounded like that of a young lady."

"H'm! is that so?" Nick drawled thoughtfully. "Did she state what she wanted?"

"Only that she was very anxious to communicate with you. I told her I was your chief assistant, but that evidently made no difference. She insisted that she must talk with you, and said that she would ring you up either to-night or in the morning."

"She appears to have deferred it until morning."

"Got any idea who she is?"

"Yes, an idea," Nick nodded.

"Who?"

"Fenno's high-strung lady friend—the girl in navy blue."

"Annie Elmore?"

"That's her name."

"What can she want of you?"

"Thats an open question," smiled Nick. "We shall learn to-morrow."

Despite this prediction, no telephone call was received before eight o'clock the next morning, at which hour both detectives left the house. Both were in disguise, moreover, Nick as an elderly man, wearing smoked glasses, and Chick in a less conspicuous make-up. It was too early for the latter to confer with the district attorney, and Nick wanted Chick with him during a visit he now had in view, despite the early hour.

For he meant what he said when he declared that, with what little evidence he had, together with the deductions and theories he had formed, he woudl drive the Todd crowd to the wall with a rush.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

THIS IS THE 682ND DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

THE TORONTO ELECTION. DEWART'S PLATFORM.

Mr Dewart declared, in a speech accepting the nomination of the Liberal party, that he was not a party " to the agreement between Mr Hearst and Rowell upon the prohibition question," adding: " If " you ask me what my view is as " to what may take place if any " emergency should arise, I tell you " that I reserve to myself the right " to exercise my own judgment and " do as I think right in every case. " You will have to trust me, and " you who have known me in the " past know that I am not one to " be driven around by popular " winds of fortune. I think you " can rely upon me to exercise " sound judgment and sound discretion."

Yes, the electors of Toronto know him to have been opposed to the Rowell policy, and that he was upon that question, as he himself declared, at variance with his party. The Globe has been daily denouncing Mr Norris for reserving the right to act for himself upon any proposition to grant licenses for the sale of beer and wine. Dewart declares that if any emergency arises upon the liquor question he reserves the right to act as he sees proper, and that " he will not be " driven around by popular winds " of fortune." This is a rap at the Globe, what has it to say upon the subject.

Mr Norris and Mr Dewart stand upon the same platform on the prohibition question. The Globe has declared it would support no one who would not swallow the whole morsel. We shall see.

SALOON LICENSES.

The Globe seems to be muddled when dealing with the liquor question, or it attempts to mislead its readers. In its issue of the 12th inst. it solemnly declares that " no candidate should be endorsed as a " supporter of Mr Rowell who does " not unreservedly declare in favor " of the central plank of the Liberal " policy in this Province—the closing of the saloon—not only during the war, but for all time."

Does not this leader of Liberal journalism in Ontario not know that no saloon licenses have been issued in Ontario for ten or fifteen years past? Or was the word saloon designedly used with a view to catching the liquor vote? Dealers in liquor would readily vote for a candidate who would avow himself an opponent of saloons, for it was in the days of saloons that the profits arising from liquor drinking went into the pockets of the saloonkeeper, hence they would readily support a non-saloon candidate, if saloons existed. Electors are not likely to be misled by such euphonic planks in any Liberal platform.

SOUTH-WEST TORONTO.

The fighting in this constituency for the seat in the Legislature of Ontario, to fill the seat made vacant by the death of the Hon. James Foy, is to be between—

James A. Norris, Conservative.
Gordon Waldron, Independent Liberal.
James McA. Connors, Social Democrat.
Hartley H. Dewart, Liberal.

It is charged in Ontario that the Government of the Province is not in favor of the Hydro-Electric Commission's radial railway scheme. The section of this radial railway scheme presently to the fore contemplates the construction of a competitive line from Toronto to London. The territory to be served is now occupied by three direct lines, while others cross it in all directions. There is no part of Eastern Canada enjoying superior advantages in the matter of regular rail transport. The line proposed is as little needed and would have as little chance of making profit as would another railway between Montreal and Ottawa. If the Government at Toronto is opposed to the investment of public money it is an evidence of business sense in its membership.

Monetary Times: Northern Ontario will have the sympathy and practical assistance of the southern section of the province in regard to the fire disaster. When the surviving settlers have been placed upon their feet again and the burned towns rebuilt, the Ontario government must consider seriously the desirability of ready-made farms in the North. Loans to settlers are helpful, but ready-made farms are the only medium by which settlers in large numbers will be attracted to Northern Ontario. There is not time, in this century, for the settler to do the heartbreaking pioneer work in the bush as in days of yore. Nor is it good business. The government should do the rough work, so that the settler may become a producer at once.

The events of the last five weeks have made a wonderful impression on the people of neutral countries. Some observers believe that the Russian victories have convinced the Roumanian government that it is time for Roumania to join the Allies, but as yet there has been little to indicate that Roumania is prepared to abandon its neutral course. However, the complexion of the whole situation is likely to be materially changed before the autumn, and it is possible that by the time the snow flies the Allies may not need Roumania's help. Just now they are doing very well without it.

Montreal Gazette: Sir Robert Borden, speaking at Halifax, said that if any man knows of any graft or scandal in relation to the Government of Canada, he should bring the charge, and if investigations or proceedings in the courts should be required, they would surely follow. Then, referring to the Davidson commission, which has investigated many charges in many parts of Canada, the Prime Minister asked: " Did you ever hear of any government that kept for nearly two years an open public commission to which any man might report any malfeasance he might discover? " The answer to such a question is a justification of Sir Robert Borden's good faith.

Current Comment

America has long been looking for the arrival of the Bremen, and Germany may have as long a wait for the return of the Deutschland.

Canada's trade is now more than a billion and a half. The big increase is in exports to the allies, but our exports to the United States also have doubled. Imports from Europe have of course, fallen off on account of the war. The readjustment of trade after the war will be a big problem.—Toronto Star.

Home Secretary Herbert Samuel announced to-day in the Commons that 3,829 rifles were seized by the British military authorities during and since the Sinn Fein uprising in Ireland.—London despatch. It would be interesting to learn how much German money was spent in the purchase of those 3,829 rifles.

Wonder is expressed in prohibition quarters that Premier Hearst has seen fit to endorse Norris in the coming contest in South Toronto as the government candidate, in face of his stand against prohibition and in favor of wine and beer licenses. The premier's attitude is described in temperance circles by such adjectives as "vacillating" and "wobbling."—Kingston Whig. The difficulty with the Liberal element is, it does not understand Governmental practicability—and don't want to.

Russia has apologized and expressed regret to Sweden for the action of Russian submarines which sank a German steamer in Swedish waters and tried to torpedo another. It is explained that the commanders made a mistake as to latitude. As their error hurt only the enemy, it is probable that it will not be remembered too severely against them.—Montreal Gazette.

When Mr. Hughes entered Canada at Niagara Falls by automobile his machine was searched by British soldiers to see if it carried explosives. On his return to the American side there was an examination by customs officers who were on the lookout for liquors and tobacco. As nothing compromising was found in either case, there seems to be no reason why the campaign should not proceed on the theory laid down by the Republicans at the outset that President Wilson is a suspicious character.—New York World.

The Poets' Corner

KICKED OUT OF HELL

There's a story now current, though strange it may seem,
Of the great Kaiser Bill, and a wonderful dream:
Being tired of the Allies, he lay down in bed,
And, amongst other things, he dreamt he was dead,
And in a fine coffin, he was laying in state
With a guard of brave Belgians, who mourned for his fate:
He wasn't long dead till he found to his cost,
That his soul, like his soldiers, would ere long be lost:
On leaving this earth to heaven he went straight,
Arriving up there, gave a knock at the gate,
But St. Peter looked out, and a voice loud and clear
Said: "Begone, Kaiser Bill, we don't want you here."
"Well," said the Kaiser, "that's rather uncivil.'
So he turned on his heel and away he did go
At the top of his speed to the regions below.
But when he got there he was filled with dismay,
For while waiting outside he heard Old Nick say
To his imps: "Now, look here, boys, I give you all warning,
I'm expecting the Kaiser down here in the morning,
But don't let him in, for to me it's quite clear
He's a very bad man, and we don't want him here:
If once he gets in there'll be no end of quarrels,
In fact, I'm afraid he'll corrupt our good morals."
"Oh, Satan, dear friend," the Kaiser then cried,
"Excuse me for listening while waiting outside.
If you don't admit me, say where I can go."
"Indeed," said the Devil. "I really don't know."
"Oh, do let me in, I am feeling quite cold,
And if you want money, I have plenty of gold,
Let me sit in a corner, no matter how hot,"
"No, no, said the Devil, "most certainly not,
We don't admit folks here for riches or pelf.
Here are sulphur and matches, make a hell for yourself."
Then he kicked Wilhelm out and he vanished in smoke.
And just at that moment the Kaiser awoke.
He jumped from his bed in a shivering sweat
And said: "Well, that's a dream I shall never forget;
That I won't go to heaven I know very well,
But it's really too bad to be kicked out of hell."

TRENTON BOY AMONG EXCHANGED PRISONERS

Among a party of exchanged wounded, who arrived in London, Eng., four days ago after fifteen months' residence in Hanland, was one M. E. Heagles of Trenton, Ontario, who is once again enjoying the delights of British liberty and freedom.

With one exception all of the party were wounded and made prisoners in the second battle of Ypres, and have since April, 1915, been "doing the continent." They all seem to be in excellent spirits, but make most bitter complaints about the supply and quantity of food, and against the medical treatment in German prison camps.

Alkali In Shampoos Bad for Washing Hair

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

CLAIRVOYANT'S VISION

Downfall of House of Hohenzollern Foretold Years Ago

(London Correspondent)

Some decades ago, when the present Kaiser was a youth, he was on a visit to his grandmother, Queen Victoria, and, while walking in the grounds of a certain royal residence, he was boasting of the rise and the future greatness of the Hohenzollern house. Among the ladies in the party was one whose powers of clairvoyance had often greatly astonished her friends. Shortly after the prince had made this boast, this lady, pointing to the ornamental lake by the banks of which they were standing, said: "When they cut hay from the bottom of this lake, the Hohenzollern dynasty comes to an end."

For certain reasons the lake has been drained since the war began, and this year grass has grown plentifully, and hay has been cut.

THE TEMPLE OF CHRISTIAN CIVILIZATION.

The writer had been setting forth the principles, the rudiments and primary elements of a course of instruction, and such simple verities as might be taught to children, or beginners in methods of learning.

Beginning this chapter, he seems to have assumed that the Hebrew believers were now ready, and desirous to receive higher teaching. It was time, in his opinion, that they should take a step forward toward completeness of Christian manhood, which implies power to deal with abstruce and difficult subjects concerning Christian living.

There is no problem, nor puzzling condition of life, the solution of which may not be found in the principles promulgated by Christ, as we study His person, His works, and His word, and follow on to know the Lord by the teaching of the Holy Spirit in the Epistles.

Questions affecting our relation to social, religious, political, industrial and commercial interests may all be satisfactorily answered by the study of the New Testament Scripture, giving heed to the Holy Spirit who has come to take of the things of Jesus and show them unto men.

Questions of money and its use, or abuse; questions of civic righteousness and municipal reform; questions of public vice and greed of gain that makes merchandise of the bodies and souls of the people, young and old. All questions which have to do with right or wrong in relation of man to man, and man to God, may find solution in the principles of the doctrines of Christ as given in the gospels and epistles.
epistles.

Not the precepts, but the principles of Christ are here: we are to work them out in daily life if we shall ever demonstrate their value for solving life's problems.

The principles of the doctrine of Christ, according to this Scripture, were acknowledged, and attested to, by submitting to the ordinances of baptism and the laying on of hands with confessed faith in the efficacy of His death and resurrection.

These ordinances expressed "repentance." This word here and elsewhere in Scripture has a wider meaning than Christians of to-day seem willing to give it. In its full significance it serves equally to denote the turning away from what is opposed to God and righteousness, and a turning to God and to all that pertain to right doing.

The beginning of repentance is in the conscious spirit-life of the individual; the result is a distinct powerful effect produced upon the will by means of the Divine ministry of the grace of God through our Lord Jesus Christ.

With these elementary principles there must be a going forward into the responsibilities and maintenance of a Christian life. Only those who build life and character upon the foundation principles of Christianity, can proceed toward Christian perfection. Only the man who thus builds can realize the Divine idea for himself, and worthily bear the name of a disciple of Christ Jesus who said: "Be thou holy as I am holy."

Let us not stumble at this command of our Lord and say it is an impossible attainment; rather let us honestly strive to reach the ideal, remembering that where we come short His perfection shall fill up our scanty measure to the required fullness. By a knowledge of Jesus Christ through the study of the gospel we may obtain distinctly correct conceptions of God.

What are they? "He is righteous in all His ways." He is "Light" and "Love." He is "True and Faithful."

For God to be inconsistent with these attributes of Himself must ever be a moral impossibility. The same consistency should be the ideal of everyone who adopts, by profession of faith, the "principles of the doctrines of Christ."

The question is: How shall the believer in Christ and His teaching maintain a life of spiritual activity consistent with his profession of faith? The "Advanced Civilization," so-called, of to-day is so absolutely materialistic, with tendencies most perillous to all supernatural faith, and to the denial of all power of godliness in Church or State, that the counsels of the Most High fail upon both ear and heart. Environed by such influences the spirit born must live his life and do his work. Where shall he find that fellowship in prayer and faith necessary to spiritual growth?

Though one embraces the principles and doctrines of Christ, how shall he go on to perfection in the midst of a civilization demoralized by the greed of gain, made prayerless by Sabbath desecration, mad for pleasure and nightly spent by excessive sport? For decades these conditions, made easy by prosperity and peace, have so increased that the masses have become dead to the voices' warning of coming adversity, danger and death.

The strong wind, the earthquake and fire have not been absent, but each have failed to move men to listen for the still small voice of Jehovah; and so the prosperity and godless living which crumbled Greece and shattered Rome continued to lull us into a false security and to cry peace—peace, where there was no peace.

Now, for over two years, war has roared with a voice that rends the clouds, stirs the deeps, and shakes the cities and the strongholds of men! Its engines in air, and sea, and on the land send forth sweeping death—vertically, horizontally and transversely. Its red light has not only lit the war-scourged and ruined countries of Europe, but it has illumined the civilization of Christendom, and laid bare the realities of national life, and also pressed upon the people a sense of individual responsibility.

We are beginning to see that this terrible war is the result of almost a universal departure from the path of life marked out for Christian people. The disregard for human life, the devastation of country, the wanton destruction of great cities, beautiful buildings, works of art, monuments of achievements, are not simply the vandalism of the persons engaged. Outraged decency, the mutilations of the sacredness of the bodies of men, women and children are no mere accident of men run "amuck." These outrages upon Christian civilization are the logical result of a long period of national prostitution of the said civilization to a refined quality of paganism, which degrades all the higher faculties of mind and soul.

How far we people of the British Empire, upon whom the ravages of war has fallen, are free from such charges by precept and example is a question worthy of our most serious consideration!

The invention of men—the achievements of iron nerve and subtle brain—have been for the sake of gain, put to uses that intoxicate and inflame the passions of humanity. It may be that the British have sown to the wind as well as others—and we must not feel unjustly dealt with when having to reap the whirlwind.

There may be much to repent by us regarding civic and social unrighteousness. In the minds of many, the Lord of all the earth, to whom the battle belongs and who can win the victory by man or by few, is calling the people of our Empire to confession of our sins, and to prayer, and to repentance, and to faith.

The temple of a righteous civilization must be built on the "principles and doctrines of Christ," from foundation to dome. Instead of boastful pride of power, wealth and imperial resources, we need to humble ourselves before Him whose throne is in heaven and whose kingdom ruleth over all; and Whom we, with all nations,

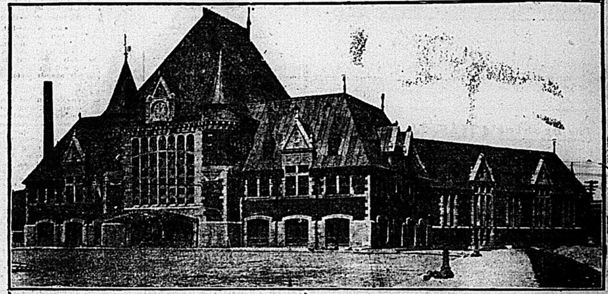
NEW STATION AT QUEBEC



(1) New Station.
(2) Train Platforms.

THE new C.P.R. station at Quebec, which was declared open to-day. Thursday, by the Mayor of Quebec is a triumph of modern railway station construction and is admirably located at the corner of St. Paul and Henderson Street just north of the old station. The latter will be removed to make room for the plaza, 350 ft. x 285 ft., which will form a beautiful fore-ground with a large grass plot planted with shrubs and a sixty-foot roadway, flanked by sidewalks, planting spaces, Lombardy poplars, ornamental lighting standards, and two ornamental flag-poles, transforming a once ugly portion of the city to an attractive beauty spot which will not only be appreciated by the residents of Quebec, but will give the visitor a favorable first impression of the city.

The building, which consists of a central block with two wings, is a modern adaptation of the old French Chateau Style of architecture and admirably harmonizes with and helps to perpetuate the quaintness and historic traditions of the city. The exterior is faced with Argenteuil granite, Deschambault limestone and Citadel brick, all local products, with steep, sloping, copper covered roofs. The main facade, which faces the plaza, is dominated by a central motif containing the main entrance which is flanked by two tourelles and protected by a glass and iron marquise the full width of the sidewalk. Over the main entrance is a large window, above which is an illuminated clock with a seventy-two inch dial, which forms one of the principal features of the facade. The pediment over the clock bears the arms of the City of Quebec.

In plan, the building is L shaped, the main block being 142 ft x 65 ft., the concourse wing extending along Henderson Street, 142 ft x 65 ft., and the baggage and express wing parallel to St. Paul Street, 130 ft. x 44 ft. Entering the building through the 24 ft., wide main entrance and vestibule, one is agreeably impressed with the spacious, light, ticket lobby, 45 ft. wide x 65 ft. long, which rises to a height of 60 feet. This lobby is finished with grey tapestry brick walls with Lepanto marble base, faience cornices, cartouches and balustrades and sloping mosaic ceiling with leaded glass ceiling lights, the rich colorings of the faience and leaded glass lending an attractive tone to the decorations. The faience clock dial set in the balustrade at the first floor level with its flanking lion and unicorn is a feature of the room. On the right side of the ticket lobby are the information wicket, four ticket wickets, the entrance to the women's restroom, and the news stand. On the left, are the baggage and parcel checking counters, customs office, public telephone booths and telegraph counter, while the Transfer Company's office opens off the entrance vestibule. Opposite the main entrance is a series of seven doors opening into the concourse.

The concourse, 125 ft. long x 62 ft. wide, and 40 ft. high, is similarly finished with grey brick walls, with faience inserts, marble wainscot, faience cornices and tinted ceiling, while the huge iron trusses, elliptical in form, which support the roof, spring from ornamental faience cartouches. On the left side of the concourse three sets of gates open to the midway and track platforms. On either side of each gateway is a mechanical indicator, which shows the track number, time and destination of the departing trains. A splendid train bulletin board has been provided on which the time of arrival of all incoming trains will be posted, while glass-covered bulletin boards have been provided for special announcements and posters. On the right hand side of the concourse is an exit to Henderson Street, while at each end is a handsome faience dial clock. Comfortable seats have been provided, as the concourse serves also as the main waiting room of the station. The men's smoking room and lavatories are located at the North or far end of the concourse wing. The women's rest room is attractively furnished with rugs, table, chairs, and couch, and is conveniently located and easily reached from both the ticket and lobby concourse. The smoking room and women's room are wainscotted with wood panelling and the lavatories with marble. A feature of the lavatories are the pay toilets and dressing rooms which are provided with all the accessories necessary for the comfort of the traveller and equipped with coin locks which automatically operate by the insertion of a ten-cent piece.

Ample accommodation is provided for handling the baggage and express in a separate wing which has a covered trucking platform on each side. Everything necessary for the comfort and convenience of the travelling public, as well as the efficient operation of the train service, has been provided. The second floor of the main building, which is reached by a stairway from the main entrance vestibule, is devoted principally to the Company's offices and a museum in which an interesting and instructive exhibit of Canada's natural resources will be open to the public. The office corridors and museum surround the ticket lobby and are separated therefrom by open arches and balustrades which afford a splendid view of the lobby as well as provide an abundance of light and air. Rooms for the conductors and trainmen with stairway direct from the midway are also provided on this floor. The decorative scheme of the interior is simple and artistic. The motifs in the richly-colored faience depict and symbolize emblems of the national life, and the Tudor rose, shamrock, thistle, fleur de lys, dolphin and trident are freely used and intertwined. The ceiling light over the ticket lobby contains the provincial shields and a map of the North American continent showing the Canadian Pacific Railway lines from coast to coast. The large window over the main entrance, which helps to light the ticket lobby, contains the arms of the seven great men of Canadian history, viz.:—Montmagny, the first Governor of Canada—1636-1647; DeTracy, Viceroy of Canada—1665; Beauharnois, Governor of Canada—1726-1747; Montcalm and Wolfe, the famous French and English generals whose names are familiar to all; Frontenac, Governor of Canada—1672; and Talon, the first Intendant of New France—1665-1672.

The building was designed by H. E. Pringle, architect, of Montreal, and erected by the Downing Cook Company of Montreal, under the supervision of D. H. Mapes, Engineer of Buildings of the C.P.R. In the construction of the building, which rests on 430 concrete piles, 400 tons of structural steel, 3,000 yards of reinforced concrete, 400,000 common brick, 75,000 exterior face brick, 125,000 interior face brick, and 10,000 cubic feet of exterior cut-stone, were used. Local labor and materials have been employed wherever possible; the concrete pile foundations were driven by the McArthur Pedestal Pile Company; the structural work was furnished and erected by the Eastern Canada Steel Company; the exterior face brick were made by the Citadel Brick Company; the granite came from the Argenteuil quarries and the limestone from the Deschambault quarries. The interior marble and terrazzo work was done by the Missisquoi Marble Co.; the ornamental iron by the Dominion Architectural Iron Works. The plumbing and heating were installed by Vandry and Matte, the electrical work by the L. K. Comstock Company, and the clocks by the Self Winding Clock Company. The woodwork throughout, of which, however, there is but little, is Canadian birch, the railway company having recently adopted the policy of using Canadian woods exclusively for the finish of its buildings and cars. While the Station is the dominating feature of the improvements made by the Canadian Pacific, notice should be taken of the new freight office building and sheds constructed north of the station last year, the new power house located just west of the station and the re-arrangement of the coach yard, all of which has been done on the same comprehensive scale as, and in keeping with, the station building. Quebec can well be proud of its new station, which in design, finish and appointments is second to none in Canada.

have dishonoured with our inventions to please the flesh and intoxicate with pleasure, degrading in its forgetfulness of our loyalty to God and the service of His holy temple of worship.

A suffering, crucified Saviour must be the foundation on which we build our temple of Christian civilization, with a risen, reigning, ruling Christ as the Head of the corner. There can be no victory for us by the ending of the present awful war worth the price we have paid—with money which should have been expended for the extention of Christ's kingdom, and by the slaying of our young men who ought to have been trained as pillars of truth in the temple of God! No victory is worth the price, unless this generation is set round again toward heaven and its righteousness.

Are there any signs that we are calling Christ back to our hearts, to our homes, to our social functions and to our churches? Let us remember that those are the things more to be desired than crushing the enemy of the righteous cause which Britain is fighting for. Then shall we, as a people of a great Empire, make righteous progress in building a civilization which shall abide—unshaken by the winds that rend the mountains, the quaking earth and devastating fire, and be illumined by the white light which shines from the face of the Captain of our Salvation.

Thus, learning the principles of the doctrines of Christ, shall we go on unto Perfection.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

THE SUMMER RESORT

BEFORE GOING to a place for your summer vacation it is well to be sure that the water-supply is not likely to give you or the members of your family typhoid fever. Get a sterilized bottle from the Provincial Board of Health Laboratory at No. 5 Queen's Park, and have the water examined. If you have a cottage of your own, take particular care that the contents of your water-closet is screened against the entrance of flies which may carry disease to your family or the families of your neighbors. Besides, if you take these precautions, you will have a right to demand that your neighbors take like precautions. If you use a closet, be particularly careful that its contents do not get to any source of water supply.

If there is a good supply of sand near your cottage it is a cheap and simple matter to instal a system of subsurface sewage disposal. The Provincial Board of Health will supply you with a pamphlet telling all about how to establish a plant of this kind. If there is no sand or gravel the safest system to use is a closet with buckets, using dry earth or ashes to cover the excreta each time of using. Have close-fitting lids to the closet holes and a screen door to keep out the flies. It is a good plan to get your doctor to inoculate you against typhoid and paratyphoid fevers.

If you are not satisfied that the drinking water is pure, either get a safe supply or boil all water used about your place.

BIRTH REGISTRATION

Some of the doctors are complaining because the Registrar General is prosecuting them for not reporting births. Well, they cannot complain that they have not had warning. For years doctors and parents have been repeatedly warned that they must obey the law regarding notification and registration of births. Some few of the doctors say they should be paid for this service. In the opinion of the writer they should NOT be paid for doing what is a plain duty, and for obeying the law. Any physician who does not think enough of his patient to register the birth of her baby does not deserve to have the baby's mother for a patient any longer. The Government demands that physicians shall forthwith notify the Division Registrar of the birth of a baby at which they attend. The Division Registrar will provide post-card forms for this purpose. These are carried post free. The neglect of the doctor does not relieve the parent or householder where the birth occurs. They too are supplied with post-free cards for this purpose. It is the duty of the Division Registrar if these returns are not promptly made to him to get after both parents and doctors and obtain the information. If it is not supplied to him promptly he should notify the Registrar General, giving the names and dates. The Department will do the rest.

FINGERS, FOOD, FLIES

These are the three most common means by which diseases are spread from one person to another. How can these means of contagion be prevented? Fingers must be kept out of the sources of disease. Children must learn not to put their fingers into their noses or mouths; if the hands, as they invariably do, become dirty they must be washed before each meal. Dirty fingers may carry infection to toys, pencils, etc., often used in common by children, and to cups, spoons, and other table utensils which may be used by other members of the family. In the large concentration camps one of the important measures taken to prevent the spread of disease among the men is to have all the food utensils, such as cups, plates, knives, forks, etc., boiled after each meal. Boiling is a convenient and certain means of destroying disease germs.

WATER

Food and water carry many diseases, the former because it is often exposed to dirty fingers and to flies; the latter because sewage containing the discharges of human bodies is allowed to get to the source of supply, be it spring, river, well, or lake. Such a food as milk may be handled by people who are nursing typhoid, diphtheria, or scarlet fever patients and thus be the path whereby these diseases are transmitted to others. Or the milk may be the product of cows affected with tuberculosis. This is the cause of the greatest proportion of tuberculosis in children in whom it often lies dormant until the age of 15 or 20 years.

ITALIANS ARE NEARING TRIEST

Take More Trenches and 1,600 More Prisoners—Austrians Quitting Tolmino

LONDON, Aug. 16.—(Special.) —The Italians are vigorously pressing their advance on the Carso plateau and have captured several sections of Austrian trenches and more than 1,600 prisoners. Unofficial despatches from Italian sources claim that General Cadorna is now within thirteen miles of Triest and that the Austrian fleet has left the harbor.

The Austrian official statement reports the repulse of Italian attacks on the Vipacco Valley, about eighteen miles east of Goritz, but the official statements from both sides are very meagre and leave the general situation vague.

Press despatches from Geneva and Paris declare that Tolmino, considered one of the most formidable barriers between the Italians and Triest, is being evacuated by the Austrians and, that the Italians are already in the suburbs of the town.

According to a message from Buchs to-day, the southern and western suburbs of Tolmino are burning and the fall of the city is expected at any moment.

Tolmino lies eighteen miles northeast of Goritz. It is a town of 2,000 persons, and is one of the strongest defensive points established by the Austrians all along the Isonzo River. The bridgehead there is regarded as second in importance to that at Goritz.

The Italians are attacking the Austrian fourth-line defences several kilometres east of Oppacchiasella. The Austrians have called up all their reserves to retard the Italian advance, which proceeds nothwithstanding. Fighting continues with intense fury.

The Italians have already placed artillery on Sabotina, Podgora, San Michele, Debeli, Cosisch and other heights, and the Italian aeroplanes are bombarding trains of provisions and munitions behind the Austrian lines.

FOURTH DIVISION READY TO TAKE PLACE IN FIRING LINE

OTTAWA, Aug. 15—The Canadian Fourth Division, commanded by General David Watson of Quebec, is now in France, ready to take its place in the firing line along with the veteran First Division, and the Second and Third. This announcement was made to-day by the Militia Department. With four Divisions in the field, Canada has roughly 100,000 men in the forefront of the great Allied offensive.

The composition of the Fourth Division is not known at Ottawa, as recently, before leaving England, it was completely reorganized.

It is not even certain who are the Brigade commanders, although it is known that Brigadier-General W. Hughes, brother of Sir Sam Hughes, is the head of one of the Brigades. General Victor Odlum, a brilliant young officer from Vancouver, and former student of Victoria College, Toronto, is commander of another Brigade.

General Turner is now head of the First Division, General Currie of the Second, and General Lipsett of the Third, succeeding General Mercer.

General Watson, commander of the Fourth Division, is a well-known newspaper man, and is proprietor of The Quebec Chronicle. He commanded a battalion in the First Contingent.

CANADIANS MOVED TO THE SOMME FRONT

Valiant Fighters are Now in the Great Offensive in Latter Region—Have Held Salient Since They First Went Over to France

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—The Canadians have been withdrawn from the famous blood-soaked Ypres salient, where so many sons of the Dominion have lost their lives in the past year. Word to this eeffct has been received by the Militia Department.

This does not mean that the Ypres salient has been abandoned nor that the Canadian troops have been withdrawn from the fighting line. As a matter of fact the Canadians apparently will now be taking part in the general British offensive, as they have been moved to the Somme district, where the great push is taking place

The Canadians have been in the Ypres salient almost from the time the First Division landed in France. The salient will be always associated with the name of Canada, as it was here the First Division won undying fame by holding back the whole German onrush in April of 1915. When the Battle of Verdun became serious and the British took over part of the French line the Canadians were moved to the most dangerous part of the salient, the apex, subject to a constant crossfires from three sides. The Canadian casualty list since then has been terrific.

A special effort was made early in June by the Germans to force the Canadians out of this apex, when they were subjected to a bombardment worse than that at Verdun. It failed, as did the German onslaught of a year previous.

There is some speculation as to whether General Hughes did not advocate the withdrawal of the Canadians, but the abandonment of the salient. It is thought that the shift of the Canadians is due to the development of the Battle of the Somme, which requires in ever growing numbers the very flower of the Allies' forces in France.

SPECULATORS CORNER WHEAT IN LONDON

Times Declares That Arrivals of Grain are Being Taken off Market

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Special—The attack on the Chicago wheat pit, which the London papers have accused of conspiring to force up the price of wheat, was directed against the English dealers to-day when the Times asked if there was not a corner in wheat in London as well as in America.

According to the Times, certain wheat arrivals are being taken off the market as soon as they reach it, and are being held back indefinitely so as to compel millers to purchase and use the most expensive grades. "According to the latest reports from the "English wheat market,'' says the Times, "only one grade and that of the finest quality was offered for sale. Ordinarily our wheat market summary quotes' 12 types of imported wheat, but the current issue quotes only one of these types and that the most expensive."

To Extend Life of The British House

Bill Introduced by Premier Asquith Receives First Reading — A Franchise Problem

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The decision of the Cabinet that the undertaking of new franchise and registration reforms in the midst of a great war was too complex and controversial a problem was announced by Premier Asquith in the House of Commons today.

At a time, said the Premier, when the war had reached a happy, promising stage, and when it more than ever required the absolute concentration of the Government, it was impossible to consider the larger questions involved in a revision of the franchise. He further implied that any new bill for franchise reforms in the future must of necessity include women.

After a brief criticism by Sir Edward Carson, who urged that every combatant, irrespective of age, was entitled to vote, and contended there was no reason why the women's claim should stand in the way of giving all combatants a vote, the House passed the first reading of the bill extending the life of the present Parliament. A separate bill, bringing into force a new register, on the basis of present qualifications, on May 21 next, will be introduced in the House to-morrow.

There is no doubt that one of the main reasons for the Government's avoidance of the franchise problem was the threat of the women that they would refuse to recognize any change in the francise in favor of the fighting men which failed at the same time to recognize women's rights to the franchise.

KING ON FIRING LINE

Visits Gallant British Troops in Dusty Picardy — Lauds Service Corps

With the British Army in France, Aug. 16.—King George has been at the front for a week. He left yesterday for England, and his departure was the first intimation that his Majesty's troops had of his presence. As a matter of precaution the visit was kept a secret, and there was no display or big reviews as on the occasion of his visit last fall.

The King simply went about seeing all sections of the army at work and the fields it had won. The flutter of a bit of bunting bearing the Royal coat of arms as a motor sped along the roads in clouds of dust caused motor-truck drivers and passing battalions to look around, exclaiming, "The King!" The Prince of Wales was with the King all the time. The Monarch was dressed in khaki, with the crossed batons of a Field Marshal on his shoulders, and the Prince wore the uniform of a Lieutenant in the Grenadier Guards. Neither wore any decorations, and, but that their features were immediately recognized everywhere, they might have been taken for two of a party of officers making a round of inspection.

RUSSIA'S WIDE SWEEP DRIVING HOME WEDGE

Southern Army Reports the Capture of Jablonitza Gateway to Hungarian Plains — Brussiloff Making Supreme Effort to Cut off Army of Von Bothmer

LONDON, Aug. 166.—(Special.) —A Russian success in the Carpathians, officially announced by Petrograd last night, and admitted by the Vienna War Office, is the outstanding development of the last 24 hours' operations in the East.

The army of General Pflanzer-Baltin, which forms the extreme right wing of the Austrian throne heir, has been driven about ten miles back from the Pruth. The towns of Worochta, Jublonitza and Ardjeluz have fallen the Muscovites, who thus have accomplished the first step toward the realization of their long-fought-for aim—the definite separation of the Pflanzer-Baltin army from the northern army chain. Worochta lies on the railway to Stanislau, where General Lechitzky's army is already established. If the success in the Carpathians is followed up by the Russians, one of the two dangers retarding their Galician drive, namely a flank attack from the south, will have been eliminated.

Thirty-two Teuton officers and 1,000 men were captured in the Pruth fighting, according to Petrograd. Vienna to-night officially admits the reverse thus: "South of Tartarow we withdrew to the Tartaren Pass (west of the towns reported captured by the Russians.)

A Telling Blow.

The Russians have delivered another telling blow against the right flank of General von Bothmer's retreating army at Tustoby, three miles west of the Zlota Lipa and north-west of Monasterzyska.

Dugouts Filled With Corpses

Austrian Trenches Described as Unbroken Line of Cemeteries

MILAN, Aug. 16.—(Special.) —The Austrian trenches on the rocky heights of the Carso from Cosich to Nad Logem (Hill No. 212) are described as unbroken lines of cemeteries. The gruesome ditches, gullies and dugouts are filled with corpses in some places up to the [illegible]. Horrible traces of battle are visible everywhere, and the effects of the terrible artillery fire. It is one vast field of death. Skeletons of soldiers fallen more than a year ago lie side by side with the corpses of those killed last week. On Frasche, Tazzi and Mori bodies lie pell-mell, unburied and unburyable, on the arid rocks.

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE

BY

NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XVIII.—Continued

Using every precaution to prevent an exposure of his death ruse, the journey was made in a public auto cab, and at precisely half-past eight both detectives alighted at Judge Packard's residence. A huge wreath hanging on the door told that the funeral of the murdered jurist had not yet been held.

Nick Carter had not called to view the corpse, however. He sent in a request to see Mrs. Packard, stating that he had come from the courthouse and was acting under the instructions of the coroner. This subterfuge had the desired effect upon the bereaved wife, who naturally desired that her husband's assassin should be brought to justice; and, after a brief argument, mingled with a grave display of authority, Nick obtained permission to examine the contents of Judge Packard's roll-top desk—in search, he stated, of letters or papers that might point to the identity of his murderer.

This was not strictly true, however, as was implied by a quiet remark to Chick, when they were seated at the desk, and left alone in the library.

"If he was engaged in any crooked work, and received any communications relating to it, he would have had them sent here, instead of to his law office, where a clerk or secretary might possibly open them. We'll have a look, at all events, since the game is worth the hunt."

The contents of the desk were in good order, however, and the search proved to be an easy one, also seeming likely to prove equally futile. For an examination of several packages of letters, a few legal documents and numerous insignificant papers brought nothing to light that appeared to have any bearing on the crime.

A communication finally discovered by Nick would have appeared equally insignificant to one less impressionable, yet it at once received his careful attention. He found it thrust carelessly into a pigeon-hole, among some unpaid bills; so many of them, in fact, and some so old that Nick promptly inferred that Packard must have been very short of money.

The envelope containing the brief missive had been mailed on the day preceding the murder and the address was typewritten; also the few lines on the sheet within. That the letter was otherwise blank, and had been received so near the day of the murder, first aroused Nick's interest. Yet the communication read merely as follows:

"My Dear Packard: Inclosed find check, as requested. You will find no trouble in obtaining the goods, and they are exactly what you required. No more need be said. Yours as ever, "J."

"H'm!" Nick thoughtfully murmured.

He studied the communication for several moments. It seemed entirely natural that Judge Packard should have been the recipient of a check. There should be nothing strange in that. What goods were referred to, however, that there might have been a difficulty in obtaining? What were the exactions in regard to them and imposed by him? No more need be said—about what? Why was the signature, instead of a name, an initial only?

Nick felt increasing misgivings while he asked himself these questions.

He could not answer them then and there, nor make anything more of the missive, and he reverted to the address on the envelope.

Incidentally, he discovered in the lower right corner a faint semicircular line, unobserved before. It was not a line drawn with a pen or pencil. It was in the paper itself. It was, in fact, as if something about the size and shape of a half dollar had been inclosed in the envelope, and as if the pressure of a thumb and fingers, presumably those of the letter carrier, had caused a slight semicircular ridge in the paper, where it was pressed over the edge of the coin.

Nick Carter's brows knit a bit closer. He passed both the letter and envelope to Chick, saying quietly:

"Here's something worth keeping. I'll leave them in your care."

Chick examined them closely.

"Rather oddly worded and signed," he remarked, looking up. "Packard evidently received a check, possibly sent to him to purchase the goods mentioned."

"No."

"Think not?"

"The check Packard received was not a bank check."

"Not a bank check?"

"Not by a long chalk!" Nick quietly declared, pointing out the discovery he had made. "The check mailed in this envelope was of metal, Chick—presumably brass, or nickel."

"A trunk check?"

"More likely a check for—the bag brought to the Hotel Royal," Nick impressively whispered.

"Holy smoke! You think it contained the goods mentioned?"

"Exactly."

"Money?"

"As sure as you're a living man," Nick nodded, with eyes gleaming. "Money, Chick, that bought the Packard decision. Bribery, Chick, as sure as death and taxes. Money, for which he became a crook—and for which he afterward was slain. Yet the question still remains—slain by whom?"

When the two detectives left the house a few minutes later, Chick Carter carried both the missive and the envelope in his breast pocket.

They departed in the cab, which Nick had retained, but Chick alighted a block below and now started for the district attorney's office.

Nick leaned from the cab window and gave the driver his instructions.

"Drop me in front of Trinity Church, Broadway, he said curtly. "Double fare, cabby, if you make good time."

He was bound for Percival Fenno's office in Wall Street.

It then was nine o'clock.

CHAPTER XIX
The Rat In The Meal

The curtains were drawn to exclude the morning sunlight from Percival Fenno's private office. Glancing into the room, one would have said that he was the only occupant. A tall Japanese screen of bamboo and figured silk was drawn across one corner of the room, a portion inclosing the table, typewriter and desk of his private secretary and stenographer—Miss Janet Bolton.

She was idle just then, lolling back in her chair and manicuring her nails—a tall, auburn-haired girl, in her twenties, with a striking rather than pretty face, and a slender, sinuous figure, in natty attire. Her brows were drawn and she was gazing moodily at her finger tips.

Fenno sat at his desk against an opposite wall. It was literally covered with papers, checks, stock certificates, and the like, which he was hurriedly signing. He looked pale and haggard, his eyes feverish, his lips gray and drawn; yet the iron will of the man was reflected in every feature.

The private office was a commodious one. There was a wardrobe closet in one corner. A door near Fenno's desk led into the main office. An opposite door opened into a corridor leading to the stairs and elevators of the building. Both doors were closed. From the outer office not a sound could be heard, yet a dozen clerks were working as if for dear life. A man who battles for supremacy with millions for his ammunition knows no rest.

A clock on the mantel struck half-past nine.

A clerk, first rapping on the door, stepped in and said:

"An old gentleman wishes to see you, Mr. Fenno."

"Impossible!" Fenno replied curtly without looking up, without ceasing his hurried work. "I can't see him—can't see anybody."

The clerk withdrew, only to return presently and tender a sealed envelope.

"The old gentleman insists that you read this, sir."

Fenno dropped his pen, frowning impatiently, then broke the seal, and read the name written on a slip of paper that fell into his hand—Nick Carter.

"Oh!" The ejaculation was involuntary.

Dropping the slip of paper on his desk, Fenno sprang up and hastened into the outer office.

Peering through a crevice between the sections of the folding screen, Janet Bolton saw the door close behind her employer. She arose quickly, on the slip of paper.

"Nick Carter!"

She caught her breath, merely gasping the name, then recoiled, hesitated for an instant, with eyes ablaze and lips twitching. Moving with the rapidity and sinuous grace of a rattlesnake, she then snatched her hat and jacket from the broad sill of the window, seized from the office table several letters ready for the mail, and darted into the wardrobe closet and—held the door ajar.

Fenno returned ten seconds later, followed by the man in disguise.

"By Jove! I've been hoping you'd call," he said, hurriedly closing the door. "I've telephoned twice to your office, Mr. Carter, but——"

"Careful!" Nick cautioned him. "Don't speak my name again. Are we alone here?"

Fenno glanced back of the screen, then at the table on which the letters had been lying.

"Yes," he said quickly. "I was alone with my stenographer. She has gone out with some mail."

He dropped into the chair at his desk, to one corner of which Nick drew another.

"How did you quit yesterday?" he asked curiously.

"Two millions to the good?" said Fenno. "If I can hold the price down at the opening this morning——"

"Don't try to," Nick interrupted.

"Not try? But——"

"There aren't any buts," Nick insisted. "I wish to know what the stock will do in the first hour, if left to Todd's manipulation."

"He may bull it back to seventy."

"I hope he will. It will clinch my suspicions."

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

For further information apply to the nearest Canadian Northern Agent, or write to R. L. Fairbairn, General Passenger Agent, 68 King St., East Toronto. tues, thurs, sat.-tf

Those who have already made the trip by water will find a pleasant change, as this route is one of exceptional scenic charm, passing many beautiful Lakes and Streams, among the most notable being the Nipigon, famous to the world over for the wonderful trout fishing to be had in its waters.

Trains leave Belleville, Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

FAMOUS RURAL CLASSIC AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

Local photoplay lovers will be delighted to learn that Creighton Hale, who portrays the role of the secretary in The Iron Claw series, portrays the role of Reuben Whitcomb in Denman Thompson's immortal rural classic. "The Old Homestead," which has been converted into a paramount picture, thus truly immortalizing what may be justly termed the greatest single triumph of the American stage. It was the irresistible simplicity of the human play and its tender story which bases its appeal upon real heart interest and on its depiction of every day character, which everyone recognizes, that have made its popularity endure for more than three decades. Besides the above 5 part offering, The Pathe Weekly, which includes a review of events the world over, and "The Hash Magnate," this being the title of the third episode of the escapades of Mr. Jack comedy series, featuring the superlative comedian Frank Daniels, will also be exhibited.

38 HOTELS ASK LICENSES

Only Eight out of Forty-Six Have Decided to Close in September

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—Prohibition, or rather the prospect of it, does not seem likely at present seriously to reduce Ottawa's hotel accommodation. Applications for "standard hotel" licenses under the Ontario Temperance law closed last night and 38 Ottawa hotels out of 46 applied, leaving eight hotels who apparently do not intend to remain open after September 16th. These applications will be forwarded to Toronto and it remains with the Ontario License Commissioners whether all are granted licenses under the new regulations.

The standard hotel regulations have been sent round to the various hotels in the city. They are lengthier than the old regulations, which were made by the commissioners. The fee is $1 a year, which is a big difference from $1,200, which was the fee for a hotel with a bar as last year.

LOOKS LIKE SHAKESPEARE.

Hall Caine takes no great pains to conceal his remarkable likeness to Shakespeare. Once in Philadelphia he met Ignatius Donnelly, the well-known Bacon-Shakespeare controversalist. Donnelly gazed reverently at the novelist's broad brow, pointed face and beard, and then, removing his hat with a flourish of mock astonishment, said: "Lord Bacon, I presume?"

THIS IS THE 683RD DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

A POLITICAL GENERALISSIMO.

Mr Dewart, the gentleman who is seeking a seat in Parliament from the Toronto electors, appears to have no fixed opinions upon any question He is anything and everything to anybody. At the nomination he, having been discarded by the Globe and Star, declared that he was not a candidate of any " individual clique or class," but would " represent fully and " fairly the various diverging views " that exist in this constituency and " deal fairly with everyone in the " riding, be he prohibitionist, anti- " prohibitionist or engaged in the " liquor traffic."

At the nomination he asked the support of all, as he said " whether " you are prohibitionist, teetotaller, " a supporter of beer and wine " licenses or a man absolutely in " favor of the liquor traffic."

Who will say he is not a generalissimo in politics, ready to command all the varied views held by a mixed community.

One thing he has in his favor, he is repudiated by the Globe and Star of Toronto.

A DAMNABLE ACT.

The Pope is said to be about to protest publicly against the German infamies at Lille, from which two thousand French women and girls have been transported into Germany, says the Toronto Mail and Empire. The story of the tragedy is one of the ugliest in the war, and only a Cardinal Mercier could adequately present it. In the latter part of April a poster was issued in Lille warning the inhabitants, " without any regard to sex, age or health," to be prepared to move on short notice. The notice declared that the military authorities would make house-to-house visits, that all the occupants must assemble outside the door with their identification cards, and an officer would select those to be removed. The night after Good Friday the order to assemble came at three o'clock in the morning. An officer with ten soldiers passed along, brutally separating mothers from their children and wives from their husbands. Young girls of good family were forced to mix with women of bad character, and make the journey to Germany in cattle cars. On the night following Easter Sunday the tragedy was resumed. Girls who had resented attentions from soldiers and officers were specially selected, along with boys of thirteen and men up to fifty-five. All of them were herded into filthy cars, and sent nobody outside of Germany knows where. The German military commandant at Lille issued a proclamation in which it was declared: " The attitude of England makes more and more difficult the feeding of the population. To lessen the misery the German authority recently asked for volunteers to work in the fields. This offer has not had the success expected. In consequence, the inhabitants will be removed by order and transported into the country." In what respect is this hurried abduction of Lille women and girls different from the scattering of the Armenian women into the wildernesses of Mesopotamia? The excuse is the same as slave-traders and traffickers in evil have advanced for centuries.

REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE.

The statement of the revenue and expenditure of the Government of Canada for the four months of the fiscal year, April 1 to July 31, is satisfactory in that it shows an increasing income and, save for the war, a reduced outlay, says the Montreal Gazette. In the matter of the revenue the figures for the period of 1915 and the present year compare as follows:—

	1915.	1916.
Customs	$27,467,544	$43,369,485
Excise	6,612,316	7,624,235
Post Office	4,700,000	5,550,000
Works and Railways	4,550,546	8,376,811
Miscellaneous	2,517,944	2,718,402
Total	$45,848,352	$67,638,935

The increase during the current year over the vgures of 1915, was $21,790,000. While the chief gain was in customs taxes, amounting to almost $16,000,000, all the items show improving results. That of works and railways, which includes all the revenue producing public works, shows an advance of $3,824,000, and suggests that the Government railways are sharing in the growth of traffic which is generally noted on the continent.

The figures of the expenditure are given as follows:—

	1915.	1916.
Ordinary Services	29,376,327	$28,212,341
Public Works, etc.	8,883,364	6,489,281
Railway Subsidies	357,297	185,298
	$38,616,988	$34,886,920

With a goodly increase in the revenue there was a reduction in the expenditure on all regular accounts, so-called capital outlays included, of some three and three-quarter million dollars. The war outlay charge during the current year of $51,324,460, however, more than consumed the apparent surplus of $32,000,000, and accounts for the need of a new loan The four months covered by the figures include the period for paying the half-yearly subsidies to the provinces. There may be changes in the situation before the fiscal year is completed that will upset present calculation. On the face of the record, however, the country is paying the interest on the money borrowed for the war, and some of the cost of the war out of its regular revenue. That means good financing, and if it can be kept up to the end both the Government and the country will be open to congratulations.

Hamilton Spectator: Sir Robert Borden, instead of going to England this season, will take a trip through the West Most of the business which might have called him abroad has been attended to by the Minister of Commerce, who for a few weeks has been acting as Canadian High Commissioner in London. The Premier has been unable to visit the West since the beginning of the war, and there is much he might profitably say regarding Canada's part in the mighty struggle, in which that part of our country has taken so creditable a share. So short an absence from the capital will enable him to be back in time to represent the people of the whole Dominion in saying good-bye to the retiring Governor-General, and welcoming his successor

Montreal Star: From the Berlin point of view, the present is probably a period when they are selling back to the Allies the territories won from them in previous campaigns, and selling them back at as high a price as possible. It would be surprising if Berlin were not comforting herself with the belief, true or false, that the offensive is costing us more than the defensive is costing them. That is the belief with which we comforted ourselves through many a weary hour. Our big gun offensive may render this theory untrue. The trenches under shattering fire lose more than the trenches merely sprinkled with a view to discouraging attack. Our wealth of munitions should enable us to kill far more men with artillery than the enemy can. But the Germans are very likely taking the other view. This is indicated by the fact that the sections of the American advices from Berlin which the British censor would not permit to pass, were lies about Allied losses on the Somme front

Amazing, indeed, is the speech of the British Chancellor of the Exchequer giving in detail the financial measures which have enabled Great Britain to shoulder the colossal monetary burdens of the war with such miraculous ease.—Montreal Herald.

The decision of the British Cabinet that the undertaking of new franchise and registration reforms in the midst of a great war was too complex and controversial a problem has been announced by Premier Asquith in the House of Commons.

The aim of the Laurier forces in Ontario is to drive as many wedges as possible into the Conservative ranks, setting one section against another, and profiting by their own party cohesiveness. "Divide and destroy" is an ancient motto the Southwest Toronto Conservatives should remember when they scan the Rowell tactics.—Mail and Empire.

The German national committee recently organized under the presidency of Prince von Wedel for the preparation of the minds of the German people for an "honorable peace" will soon meet and begin its work. Meanwhile events on the southern and western fronts are fast converting the Austrians to the desirability of peace on the best terms possible.—N. Y. World.

The New York Independent seems to lend the weight of its influence to an argument by Prof. Fisher of Yale that "a more durable peace will be assured if the war stops while it is still a draw than after victory has been achieved by either side."—Toronto Globe. Peace will be assured only when Germany is whipped to her knees.

The Folkething, or lower House of the Danish Parliament, on Monday voted in favour of selling the Danish West Indies to the United States, if a plebiscite favored the sale. The vote was sixty-two for the proposition to forty-four against it, one member being denied a vote and six being absent.

The British treasury has given notice that the capital and interest of any treasury bills and war expenditure certificates issued henceforth will be free from the British income tax and from any taxation now or in the future, while held by persons neither domiciled nor ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom.

For the first time since July 8, a heavy rain fell in the battle area Monday, August 14, breaking the long drought, and one of the longest heat waves in recent years. The transport, which had been operating in clouds of dust, was washed clean by the generous downpour.

NEW STRENGTH FOR LAME BACK.

Letter Tells of Long-looked-for Prescription.

Dear Mr. Editor—I suffered form lame back and a constant tired, worn-out feeling. At times I was unable to stand erect and scarcely able to get around. It would usually come on at first with crick in small of my back. I took one box of Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets and my back commenced to get better soon after starting to take them. I did not have to walk doubled over as I did before using the "Anuric." It is the best remedy I have ever taken for what it is intended to relieve.

I hope those who are in need of such a remedy will give the "Anuric Tablets" a trial.

(Signed) A. G. DRAKE.

NOTE: Up to this time, "Anuric" has not been on sale to the public, but by the persuasion of many patients and the increased demand for this wonderful healing tablet, Doctor Pierce has finally decided to put it into the drug stores of this country within immediate reach of all sufferers.

Simply ask for Doctor Pierce's Anuric Tablets. There can be no imitation. Every package of "Anuric" is sure to be Doctor Pierce's. You will find the signature on the package just as you do on Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the ever-famous friend to ailing women, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, proven by years to be the greatest general tonic. Send 10 cents to Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for large trial package.

The Poets' Corner

WE'VE GOT THEM GOING NOW

We will shout the well earned laurels
Of our Boys across the seas,
Who are battling German Kultur
For the cause of liberty.
Our enemies are desperate,
Of this we must allow,
But Kaiser Bill has got his fill
For we've got him going now.

So come, boys, get together,
Remember there's a call
For liberty and freedom,
And equal rights for all.
To the Empire ties lure us,
We made a solemn vow,
For Kaiser Bill is desperate still,
But we've got him going now.

Oh, when this struggle is over,
There'll be encomiums galore
Bestowed upon Colonials
From every Empire shore.
We are bound to do our duty
With our Allies to subdue them,
And we're proud of our Canadians
With the maple leaf their emblem.

So come, boys, get together,
It's either stand or fall
Beside the British Empire
Which offers homage to us all.
So the time has come to halt the Hun
And we are bound to show them how
For Kaiser Will must pay the bills
And we've got him going now.

Span Lifted Boats Passed No Accident

At Campbellford on Sunday the Hamilton Bridge Co. raised the span of the G.T.R. bridge at Campbellford and allowed the tugs J. Canuck, derricks, dredges and pontoon gate hangers to enter the river between that point and Healey Falls.

It is expected that in a short time the work will have progressed to such an extent that boats will be able to go from Peterborough to Lake Ontario.

Quite a number of Peterborough citizens motored to Campbellford to witness the move, which was successfully carried out by the Hamilton Bridge Co.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

FLAG PRESENTATION THURSDAY

Lieut Col. T. C. D. Bedell, commanding 156th Battalion, has issued an invitation to all staff officers to attend the presentation of the colors ceremony to the battalion which takes place on Thursday.

The big event will be, as previously announced, in Brockville on the exhibition grounds where there is seating accommodation for all who will attend. It is expected that hundreds from the camp will go to the eastern city to witness the ceremony which with such a good battalion should be a model one.

The colors are being presented by the Brock Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire and were purchased by a subscription fund.

A great many of the men of the 156th who have been on farm furlough have returned and will be in shape for the trip. They are drilling constantly and rapidly picking up the training lost during their month or two weeks on the harvest furlough.

WORTHY OF PROMOTION

The name of Lieut.-Col. Barragar is prominently mentioned as a possibility for the command of the new battalion which it is intended shall be organized in Hastings and Prince Edward counties. Lieut.-Col. Barragar is at present commandant of the Infantry School of Instruction, and in his present position is doing excellent work. If given command of an overseas unit, he will make a good officer under whom it will be a pleasure to serve.

THE NEW BRAID

Lieutenant Adams, and all officers and men who have just returned from the front are wearing, according to Imperial regulation, if they have been wounded, a piece of narrow gold braid on the left arm, below the elbow, just two inches long. For each wound received in different battles all will add a piece of gold braid, so that it will be easy to know if a returned soldier or officer has been wounded ,and how many times.

NOTES

Captain Lumb of Queen's Field Ambulance, is in Belleville after recruits.

Lieut.-Col. Putman, is in command of the 155th Battalion during the absence of Lieut.-Col. Adams.

Lieut.-Col. Adams has been granted leave of absence, and has gone with Mrs. Adams and son to Picton for a few days.

Captain Gilmore, adjutant of the 155th, and Lieut. Porter have been granted special leave of absence by Colonel Ogilvie, A.A.G.

Lieutenants Trumbull, Scott, Harder, Webb, Cole, and McGie of the 155th Battalion have been sent to Petawawa to observe for a few days the effects of shrapnel fire on the ranges of the artillery.

Lieut. H. L. Wallace, of the 155th Battalion, has been called to Belleville through the death of his uncle who has two sons serving in the 155th. A short time ago Lieut. Wallace was called to Belleville through the death of an aunt.

There is a rumor going around camp that it is intended to send the artillery brigade to Petawawa within a few days. As far as the Press is in touch with military movements it can find no concrete foundation for the rumor, beyond the desire of some fellow to play the intelligence marvel.

Dr. Scott, pastor of Bridge Street Methodist church. Masonic services were also conducted. At Belleville cemetery the interment took place. The display of floral tributes was numerous and beautiful. The bearers were members of the Masonic Society, namely, Bros. J. A. Borbridge, J. Newton, W. C. Mayo, F. M. Tait, A. McGie, C. Ashley.

LETTERS FROM OVERSEAS

MACHINE GUNS IN ENGLAND

Two interesting letters have been received by the Secretary of the Quinte Chapter, I.O.D.E., Belleville, from England, one from Col. Preston, 29th Battalion, and the other from Col. Ketcheson, 80th Battalion. They state that the Lewis Machine Guns which were donated to the two battalions by the people of Belleville have been included in a number which the Canadian Ordnance Officer is receiving from Canada, and they will soon be handed over to the regiments. The grateful appreciation of the O.C., ,the officers, the N.C.O's and men is expressed, and they are delighted to think that the interest of the people of this city shown in such a striking and particularly practical manner. The letters state that there is nothing in the way of armament which has proven of greater importance in the present struggle than the machine gun, and that the most effective step has been taken to assist the troops towards attaining the goal which is so much desired by all.

The officers and men will never forget the kindness of the residents, and particularly that of the ladies who did so much to encourage and assist at a time of considerable difficulty. Col. Preston goes on to say that the gun will be of the greatest possible use in the work now being carried on, even though it is one among hundreds of others, and in it the men will have a constant reminder, not only of how much they owe to the ladies, but also of the further obligation which it has imposed on them of doing their duty in such a way that they may prove worthy of those who have entrusted their safety and honor to their keeping.

These letters have proved very gratifying to the members of the I.O.D.E., as they are now assured that their gifts have been received, and that through them they are fully doing their bit in the great adventure. The Canadian forces are amply provided in England with machine guns, and it is gratifying to know that the cost of at least two of them has been provided by people resident in Belleville.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS TO THIS CITY

Belleville was visited yesterday by Mr. L. B. McFarlane of Montreal, President of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada and by Mr. Kenneth Dunstan of Toronto, now the Ontario manager of the company, who has been an official of the "Bell" since its first organization. They expressed themselves as delighted with Belleville as a progressive and residential centre, and the new telephone building and district equipment were favorably commented on by those citizens whom the chief executive of the company met. So pleased were they with Belleville that they will return here to-night after a brief visit to Kingston to-day. Mr. Dunstan has just had the great misfortune of losing his son, Captan Guy Dunstan of the Border Regiment who as A.D.C. of the general was killed when carrying dispatches during the first days of the great forward movement in France last month.

Lindsay Now Boasts Young Lady Blacksmith

While Many Girls Have Turned Farmers Down Belleville Way.

(Toronto Telegram)

"I was given the afternoon off to come to Belleville to get some feed and grist," said a bright young lady the other day who is giving able assistance on her home farm in harvesting the crop. The scarcity of men in the country to do the farm work has called out a large number of women in Hastings Counties, who are apparently ready and willing to take up these added duties in order that they may leave more men free to fight the Empire's battles. The same can truthfully be said of Victoria, Durham, Northumberland and other counties.

Lindsay possibly can go one better than most places, for this thriving town boasts of a young lady who has taken her place in a blacksmith shop, having donned the apron and taken up work at the forge, where she swings the anvil to good purpose. In another town in this district a young girl has taken a chauffeur's place and every day may be seen driving tourists to and from points of interest.

With the grain ripening so fast and coming so close upon the immense crop of hay, many farmers at the present time are sorely in need of help and are offering wages that were never before heard of on the farm. However, prices are good for their produce and it is the only way out of their dilemma.

In an Ontario county town, it is stated that the farmers have discussed making a raid upon the factories, or rather of requesting them to close down for a few days and let their employes assist in saving the crops The question of co-operation, which is opened up by such a suggestion, presents a wide field for thought.

The Joy of a Vacation may be turned to the sorrow that comes from indigestion. The battle with hotel menus is a losing one for the man with a weak stomach. Happy is the man who listens to the call of the wild—who goes fishing, hunting and canoeing—who takes with him Triscuit, the Shredded Whole Wheat wafer. Triscuit is made of the whole wheat, steam-cooked, shredded and baked. A tasty Summer snack, supplying the greatest amount of nutriment in smallest bulk. Delicious with butter, soft cheese or marmalades.

General Smuts Moving Onward and Has Cleared Principal Difficulties

Canadian Press Special

LONDON, August 17. — General Smuts reports that on Tuesday our forces, advancing from Nguru mountains, after overcoming slight opposition, reached a junction of principal tracks leading to Mrogoro and Kilossa says an official statement. Our columns are now clear of the difficulty of hilly country, and in this direction are separated from the Central railway by only twenty-five miles of open steppe. Further west Lt.-Col. Vandeventer, having occupied Thahula yesterday morning toward Kilossa. On Tuesday the important town and military coastal station of Bagamojo, thirty-six miles north of Dares, Salaam was occupied by naval forces. Naval 4.1 gun was captured.

Ran Plump Into Her Arms

Burglar Caught Bed-Handed by Two Sisters—Was Loaded With Jewelry

VALPARAISO, Ind., Aug. 16.—Herman Lang, aged 22, an electrical engineer, walking from his home in Cleveland, Ohio, to Chicago to find work, walked into the arms of Miss Carrie Hollett, aged 30, a buxom country lass, and was walked into the county jail here to await trial on a charge of burglary. Lang entered the Hollett home, loaded up with jewelry and silverware and departed through an open window. Just at that moment Miss Hollett appeared around a corner of the house, espied Lang coming through the window, threw her arms around him and gathered the startled burglar into a tight embrace, in the meantime shouting for help.

Her older sister, Miss Elva, responded, took in the situation at a glance, hurried into the house and returned with an empty double-barreled shotgun, which she leveled at Lang and held himprisoner until Carrie had telephoned to Sheriff Lindall to come and get the burglar.

"Believe me, that was sure some hugging," laughingly remarked Lang as the jail door closed behind him. Miss Elva says she would have clubbed Lang with the gun stock had he tried to escape.

WILL ITALIANS MAKE A SEPARATE PEACE?

Two Cabinet Meetings in Vienna Show Anxiety of Teutons

LONDON, Aug. 17—Special— Two important Cabinet meetings were held at Vienna yesterday, at which the possibility of a separate peace with Italy was discussed, according to an Exchange Telegraph despatch from the Austrian capital. The plan under discussion is said to have been considered with a view to enabling Austria-Hungary to make an undivided effort against Russia.

A report by Field Marshal von Hindenburg of the requirements for defending the Austrian lines and the Polish question also were discussed, the despatch adds.

TAKE TRENCHES ON BOTH SOMME BANKS

Assisted by British, French Makes Important Advance on Aggregate Frontage of Three Miles in Picardy Battle and Take Many Prisoners

PARIS, Aug. 17.—(Special.)— The French attacked the enemy in three sectors on both banks of the Somme River and in Picardy yesterday and they carried trenches of three quarters of a mile and a quarter frontage at each of the places, taking an unstated number of prisoners and machine guns. The gains extend north and south of Maurepas village to the Maurepas-Guillemont and east of the Maurepas-Clery roads, and the French regard the progress as important. In the fighting the French report that they were assisted by the British. The total frontage taken was about three miles.

The gains are recorded in the French night official communication as follows:—

"'On the Somme front this afternoon, after an intense artillery preparation, we launched an offensive which brought up important gains. North of Maurepas, assisted by the British, we captured one entire line of German trenches on a front of 1500 metres, reaching at certain points the Guillemont-Maurepas road.

"South of Maurepas on a front of two kilometres and to a depth of 300 to 500 metres our infantry occupied all enemy positions east of the Maurepas-Clery road after a sharp attack which cost the enemy heavily. These two operations, brilliantly and rapidly conducted, resulted in the capture of a considerable number of prisoners, whose numbers are not yet obtainable.

"At the same time south of the Somme our troops, attacking with a rush, captured a powerfully organized system of German trenches on a length of 1200 metres south of Belloyen Santere, capturing 60 prisoners. There was an intermittent cannonade on the remainder of the front."

Women Replace Eligible Men

Lt.-Col. C. G. Williams Addresses Women in Montreal Y. M. C. A.

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.—At a meeting of women interested in the furthering of recruiting, called by the Local Council of Women at the Y.W.C.A. yesterday afternoon, and addressed by Lieut.-Col. C. G. Williams, chief recruiting officer for the Dominion, and Mrs Manning, it was decided to call a big meeting in the immediate future to establish a Women's Emergency Corps. The purpose of the corps will be the registration of women who are willing to qualify themselves to fill positions at present held by men eligible to wear the khaki.

In introducing the speakers, Mrs Henderson, in the chair, said that the members of the Local Council of Women had done their best to help the cause of recruiting, but that they were prepared to do better. The women, she thought, were not holding the men back from joining the colors.

Lieut-Col. Williams said it was true that the patriotic women were not hindering but rather encouraging their men folk to enlist, but in the rural districts the women were interfering with recruiting. He had absolute proof of it. Up till last March there were 263,000 Canadians in uniform, and of these but 17,000 gave their employment as farmers. He had done considerable recruiting work in the country districts, and had heard the women plead that they could not spare their men. This was where the women could do much to better conditions. They could encourage the men to enlist, and replace many eligible men who would go to the front if some could be found to do their work.

RUSSIAN FORCES CAPTURE MEN AND MUNITIONS

Counter Attacks Along The Way are Repulsed—Zeppelin Drops Bombs — 7,308 Men, Fourteen Thousand Shells, Machine Guns and Bomb Throwers Among The Trophies

Canadian Press Special.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 17.—The Russian advance is still being held up in the face of counter-attacks. These assaults, the War Office reported today have been repulsed. Artillery and rifle duels are proceeding along the front, the statement says. The enemy at some places resumed his counter-attacks. These were frustrated by our fire. A Zeppelin dropped bombs on a region of Kemmern, directly west of Riga. Supplementary reports show that General Bezobrazoff in a recent operation captured 198 officers 7,308 men, 29 light field pieces, seventeen guns, seventy machine guns, 29 bomb-throwers and more than fourteen thousand shells. These are in addition to those reported yesterday.

Steamer Burned At Big Bay

Formerly Owned at Peterborough Was Favorite With Excursionists—Loss 17,000

PETERBOROUGH, Aug 16.—The old steamer Otonabee, formerly the property of the Peterborough Navigation Company and for many years the favorite excursion vessel out of Peterborough, was destroyed by fire at the wharf at Big Bay, where the boat was lying.

Terrific explosions from acetylene tanks at the lighthouse shook the cottages and Peninsular Parry Hotel and gave the people a bad scare. It was with difficulty that Capt. Campbell, the cook and the purser, who were sleeping aboard, escaped. The Otonabee was brought here in 1911 by the Lake Simcoe Navigation Co., being purchased from the Peterborough Navigation Co.

The fire was noticed by the engineer of the steamer Modello, E. W. Cooley, of Peterborough, just a few yards away, and by the time he could arouse Campbell and Hughes the flames were licking up the upper deck, and they had to scramble through flames and smoke, and jumped over the side. As soon as Capt. Campbell climbed out he set to work getting the Modello towed to a place of safety. About one-third of the wharf was burned and with it the lighthouse. When the fire was in progress considerable alarm was caused in the vicinity by several explosions of gas tanks stored in the lighthouse, the concussion being felt for miles. The cause of the fire is unknown.

The boat was valued at $17,000, and the loss is partly covered by insurance.

For the past six or seven years the steamer had been plying on the Lake Simcoe waters, but for many years previous was on the Kawastha Lakes.

Meatless Day For Germans

Commanders to Report How Men Receive New Order Cutting Down Food Supplies

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The German military establishment has now brought down its meat allowance for the fighting troops in the front line to 10.5 ounces for six days in the week. On the seventh day no meat can be served or eaten. For troops not of the first line the six days meat ration is only 7.7 ounces.

This information, discussing for the first time cutting down of the food supply of the fighting soldiers of the Kaiser is contained in an order issued to the Fourteenth German Reserve Corps by its commander, General von Stein, on May 31, last, a copy of which came into the possession of the British forces in France two weeks ago.

The order was found on a captured German officer. Subsequent to the issuance of this, another order was issued, dated July 6, calling upon troop commanders to report back to headquarters how their men had taken the cutting down of their rations.

TRIEST DRIVE PUSHING ON

Menace to Adriatic Metropolis May Bring Germany Against The Invaders

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Special—The rapid advance of the Italian army towards Triest, Austria's chief Adriatic port, threatens to clear up the puzzling relations between Germany and Italy by bringing them formally into a state of war with each other.

According to a Milan newspaper Germany will take over the defence of Triest, in an effort to stay the Italian attack, and is sending troops specially organized for that purpose.

The relations between Germany and Italy have been strained seriously for weeks.

Italian forces continue their advance east and southeast of Goritz, Rome reports. Austrian trenches on Monte Pecinka, on the Carso Plateau, and near San Caterina and San Marco, east of Goritz, have been taken, with 352 prisoners, including eleven officers.

A squadron of fourteen Caproni aeroplanes, escorted by Nieuport pursuit machines, yesterday bombarded railway and military establishments near the important stations of Pivacinat and Dornberg. Ninety high explosive shells, weighing about two and one-half tons, were dropped, and good results were observed. In spite of the heavy fire of numerous anti-aircraft batteries our machines returned safely."

Canadian Press Special.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Full text British statement—As a result of fighting undertaken yesterday evening in conjunction with the French advance on Maurepas, we have pushed forward our lines both west and south-west of Guillemont. West of the high wood we captured some three hundred yards of hostile trench, about three hundred yards in advance of our previous line. East of Mouquet farm our machine gun fifire nipped in the bud a German attack. West of Vimy we exploded a mine and occupied the crater with only slight opposition. Both we and the enemy blew up small mines south of Loos, causing us neither casualties nor damage.

Cheaper School Text Books

Considerable Reduction to be Made in Ontario Writing Courses

A striking reduction in the cost of school text books has been secured for the people of the Province through the recent action of the Department of Education.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Acting Minister of Education, announces that the retail price of the writing course books will be two cents each, with a discount of 25 per cent. to any purchaser at the place of publication. The new price is scarcely half that now in effect. The Ontario Writing Courses now consist of three books graded to meet the needs of the various courses, from the first form of the elementary schools to the lower schools of the continuation and high schools. The retail prices are respectively five cents, four cents and four cents.

The contract to publish the art manual has been let for forty cents retail with the usual discount of twenty per cent. to any purchaser at the place of publication. The price is a remarkably low one as the art manual will contain fine illustrations in color as well as in black and white, and will be one of the most attractive books yet published in Canada for the schools.

This is practical work. During the Liberal reign in Ontario all school books were double in price to what they are now.

OPEN DRIVE IN BALKANS

British, French and Serbians Engage Bulgarians on Hundred Mile Front

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Special—The allied forces on the Saloniki front have captured the railroad station at Doiran and four villages at other points on the front, according to an official statement issued by the French war office last night. The statement covers continuous fighting, extending from Aug. 1 to the present time.

The statement shows that the Bulgarians are being engaged along practically 100 miles of the Serbian-Greek frontier.

This announcement is the first official news of the launching of their offensive from Saloniki by the Allies. Fighting, consisting chiefly of artillery preparation, is still proceeding with the Allies, making their chief effort in the region of Doiran.

The text of the statement follows:

"Operations of the army of the Orient, Aug. 1 to Aug. 15: Frequent engagements of advance posts and patrols on the whole front have marked this period, notably on Aug. 4, when the Serbians took the Village of Rempi near Lake Presba. On Aug. 7, detachments of the allies drove the Bulgars from the cemetery at Ljumnica. On Aug. 10 French units took by assault the railroad station at Doiran and the neighboring Hill 227, which the enemy evacuated, leaving several dead behind him.

"On Aug. 13-15 French detachments took the villages of Polka, Palmis, Sokovo and Matnica, at the foot of the chain of Beles. Artillery actions, often very vigorous, have taken place almost daily, particularly in the region of Doiran. Our aviators bombarded concentrations of the enemy at Nicolic and Velove and military works at Stretmica Station. Enemy airmen bombarded an ambulance at Vertekop.

"A German statement on Aug. 4 said that the Bulgars had had successful engagements south of Bitolji. In reality they occupied this locality without fighting, following the departure of a Greek detachment which was in garrison there and had no conflict with the Serbs."

WHITBY, Aug. 17.—Special—Coroner Charles F. McGillivray opened the inquest into the death of Mrs Samuel R. Pennock, who died from swallowing poisonous pill at her home in Whitevale on the evening of Wednesday of last week. During the session many witnesses were heard by the coroner and jury, and the evidence all pointed to the fact that Mrs Pennock had taken the pill in mistake for some pills which she had been taking regularly for some days prior to the fatality. As the Crown desired to hear other witnesses an adjournment was made for a week.

Alkali In Shampoos BadFor the Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

William O. Wardhaugh Gives up Business in Washington to Serve the Empire

Mr. William O. Wardhaugh of Washington, D.C., accompanied by Mrs. Wardhaugh and three children, who has just arrived in this city, today signed up with the 155th Battalion, and will shortly report at Barriefield. In company with Recruiting Officer Henry Foltz, also an old resident of Belleville, Mr. Wardhaugh visited the Intelligencer Office this morning and expressed his determination to do his bit toward defeating the Germans. He is a splendid specimen of the perfect athlete, and was passed without hesitation by Dr. MacColl. Mr. Wardhaugh is a son of Mr. Oliver Wardhaugh of Front street, this city, was born here, and fifteen years ago left for the United States, settling finally in the American Capital, where he has been following the occupation of a contractor, with prosperous results. Like many another full-blooded Canadian, his loyalty came to the surface, and he now gives his best energies for his countries' cause. He is 31 years of age. The act of this loyal subject should be an incentive for other local young men to follow.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

SPLENDID PRODUCTION OF "THE OLD HOMESTEAD"

Those who have a love for the old farm life—and there are many of us—could not but enjoy the far-famed story so well, for years, portrayed by Denman Thompson, which was presented in picture form at Griffin's Opera House last night to a large audience. Uncle Josh Whitcomb, the whole-souled ruralist, his old-maid sister, the two aged admirers, who never had the courage to propose, the son of Uncle Josh, splendidly represented by Mr. Creighton Hale, of Iron Claw fame, his sweet little promised wife Ruth, and other famous characters made up a cast that was worthy the well known drama. The production throughout adhered closely to the original story. How the young man, Reuben Whitcomb, charged with theft from a bank of which he was the trusted cashier; his escape and flight to the great city; the discovery of the real culprit by the servant in the home of the Whitcomb's; the search for the runaway; young Whitcomb's downfall; his discovery some time later by a young man of wealth who had been befriended by Uncle Josh; the anxious father's departure for the city; his unique experiences; the finding of Reuben; his return home later; the neighborhood welcome; the affecting meeting of Reuben and Ruth, the country dances; the arrival of the high bank official, desiring to make amends, and the final scene—Reuben and Ruth joyously feeding from a big pan of pop-corn, was most realistic. The picture is one that grips the heart and worth, if possible, more than the original drama, in that the scenes are so vividly portrayed. Other films, all pleasing, are worth while. Be sure and see the full programme repeated this evening.

VALLI VALLI AT GRIFFIN'S OPERA HOUSE TO-MORROW NIGHT

There are scores of interesting and intense situations in the big five part Metro wonderplay, "The Turmoil," which will be seen at Griffin's Opera House, To-morrow night, and Saturday, matinee and night. Valli Valli, the noted star of, "Queen of the movies,' 'and other stage successes, is seen in the stellar role in this elaborate photodramaization of Booth Tarrington's great novel of the same name. It is easily the best role she has ever had in her successful career on the speaking stage or in the silent drama. George Le Guere, who has played the juvenile lead in half a score of stage successes will be featured with Miss Valli Valli in this production. The story shows how James Sheridan, a hardheaded, dynamic man of affairs, achieving great wealth in the middle Western city where he lives, seeks the social prestige for his family, which the stress and turmoil of his own life has denied him, and how, after many bitter disillusionments, he finds happiness and peace in the love of his son, "Bibbs," a dreamer and idealist, who has never shown any aptitude for his father's strenuous business activities, and the beautiful and aristocratic, but poor, Mary Vertrees. A story which has in it all the elements of supreme human appeal. Besides the above offering. The Pathe Gazette, which includes a review of all the important English events, and the first of the lonesome Luke comedies which are to be offered every Friday and Saturday, and which are said to create one continuous roar of laughter.

SUB. SEEN IN ATLANTIC

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 17.—(Special.)—Capt. Olsen of the Norwegian steamer Alf reported to the hydrographic office here today passing a submarine in mid-Atlantic in the lane from Norfolk to the mouth of the English Channel, on Aug. 5. The German underwater liner Deutschland passed out the Virginia Capes on the night of August 2, but hardly could have gotten so far as the position Capt. Olsen reports on Aug. 5th.

LOAN OF $250, 000,000

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Westerr Canada Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

At The Canvas Tabernacle

Interesting Theme Discoursed by Evangelist Last Evening

A theme of lively interest was dealt with last evening by Evangelist Johnston in the canvas tabernacle on the corner of Victoria Ave., and Pinnacle Street. Taking for his text, Rev. 14:9, where it says, "If any man worship the beast of his image, the same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God," he explained from other portions of the same prophetic book, what is meant by the "beast," and also the "image of the beast." The means of identifying the beast, he declared, was very explicit. The points of identifications outlined in the previous chapter being sufficient to enable to draw the unavoidable conclusion that the beast power is ecclesiastical Rome. Many points of interest were advanced in this connection to support this identification, and among them all was a unique explanation of the number 666 of Rev. 13:18, where it says, "Let him that hath understanding count the number of beasts, for a man and his number is six hundred three score and six." The point of interest was numerically outlined on a chart and made very clear by the speaker.

After explaining what is meant by the beast he then explained the "image," and reasoned that an image of anything is a likeness or similarity, and not a duplicate of the original. Therefore, he declared, since the beast kingdom has been proven to be the papacy what only could an image of this system be but another great religous system that would look very similar. This image of likeness of Rome, he declared, was found in apostate Christiandom to-day, and why? Because that part of the Christian church to-day who still retain many of the errors of Rome, leads us to draw the conclusion that it looks like her, and is therefore her image.

A splendid crowd was present and saw the force of the evangelist's points. The tabernacle itself is in a very favorable location, nicely seated with camp seats and lighted up well with electricity. On the whole it is a very pleasant place to spend a summer evening listening to an interesting study.

Party Failed to Honor The King

Unpleasant Incident at Nationalist Party Dinner — Striking Protest by Guest

LONDON, Aug. 16.—An unpleasant incident occurred at a dinner given by the Nationalist party at Mansion House, Dublin, last night, in honor of the overseas Parliamentary delegates. John Dillon, presiding, after finishing his address of welcome, concluded by toasting the party, mentioning particularly the names of Patrick Glynn and Sir James Carroll. The company honored the toast and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Then Mr. Orchard rose, observing that in assemblies of this kind, in Australia, it was customary to first toast the King. As the loyal toast had not been honored he begged to withdraw. He accordingly left the room and the incident caused immediate perturbation amongst the Nationalist leaders, who were not slow to realize the damaging effect that such an omission and the striking protest would have upon the loyal Dominion whose representatives were their guests, and the hurried effort was made to straighten out matters.

The Solicitor-General, James O'Connor, said there was no one there who would hesitate for a moment to drink the toast of the King, and he was sure the chairman would be the first to drink the King's health.

Mr. Dillon said he thought it right to say he had explained at the opening of his speech that there were to be no toasts as it was a social gathering.

The toast of the King, however, was then proposed by the Solicitor-General and drunk by the gathering singing "God Save the King." After this the deputation, headed by the Solicitor-General, proceeded to an adjoining apartment whither Mr. Orchard had retired, and having explained what had taken place in his absence that gentleman returned to the dining hall.

Small Boat Rammed Sank In 4 Minutes

Quick Work Saved the Crew of Wooden Steamer Topeka

DETROIT, August 16.—While coming up the Detroit River near Mullen's coal dock at Sandwich at 2.20 yesterday morning the small wooden steamer Topeka was struck by the steel steamer Christopher and sank in about 40 feet of water inside of four minutes.

Quick work on the part of the crew of the steamer Christopher, who put a ladder on the decks of the Topeka, and by First Mate Charles Wash, of the Topeka, no doubt saved some of the members of the boat from going to a watery grave.

About 11 members of the Topeka's crew were asleep when she was struck and Mate Wash ran to the sleeping quarters calling at the top of his voice for everyone to get to the decks.

Seventeen of the crew managed to get up the ladder that had been placed on the decks of the Topeka. Chief Engineer G. C. Olson, of Milwaukee, Second Engineer Hunter and Steward Palmer Houl were thrown into the water. They were soon picked up in a lifeboat from the Christopher. The accident is being investigated by the Government inspectors.

The steamer Topeka left Sandusky on Monday afternoon with a load of coal for a Lake Michigan port.

The bow of the steamer Christopher is damaged and she will likely make repairs here before leaving for Lake Erie.

Lights will be put out on the wreck by W. J. Westcott's, marine reporters, till the wreck is removed.

PUT IN A CORK

Pat went to a druggist to get an empty bottle. Selecting one that answered his purpose, he asked:

"How much?"

"Well," said the clerk, "if you want the empty bottle it'll be one cent, but if you have something put in it we won't charge anything for the bottle."

"Sure, that's fair enough," observed Pat. "Put in a cork."

HATCHING BASS FRY

ONTARIO'S RESTOCKING WORK IS FULL OF DIFFICULTIES.

Artificial Methods Pursued With Most Fish Will Not Work With the King Fighter—Culture of Black Bass is a Science Which Has Only Been Recently Developed—Male Fish Guards the Eggs.

TO the expert the reports from the Ontario hinterland that "the bass ain't bitin' so awful good this season" mean only one thing, namely, that such-and-such lake or river is getting fished out. Luckily our wealth in bass-ground is so considerable and the number of anglers who exploit them so small, comparatively, that the depletion of a lake or two is no crying matter, says Thomas Millsburgh in The Toronto Star Weekly. Yet the Government will very shortly find itself obliged to go into the distribution of bass fry on a scale to which their present operations are negligible. They do it in Michigan. Thirty years ago Muskoka's three picturesque lakes were a fisherman's paradise. Then the summer tourist started coming, and, yearly, the supply has dwindled while the demand increased. Think what additional popularity Lake Joseph or Rosseau would acquire if the bass were always "bitin' good this year!" It will come to that; for every extra fisherman who hies northward accounts for so much money taken out of hoarding and put into circulation, where it does most good.

Black bass culture (small-mouth) is a science which has only very recently been successfully elaborated. The small-mouth black bass is a nest-builder. It makes its nest by cleaning up a circular patch of gravel two to three feet in diameter, in shallow water, and the female lays her eggs thereupon. But experience has shown that if artificial nests are provided in suitably sheltered places the male fish, which attend to the business of nest building, will occupy them on their own account. It took an immense amount of experimenting to arrive at the best style of nest, but it was worth it all to solve the problem of propagating artificially, "inch for inch and pound for pound, the gamiest fish that swims."

In a state of nature the male black bass picks out a place for his nest where there is coarse gravel, in shallow water. Standing upright, with a sweeping movement of his tail he brushes away all the sediment from an area two or three feet across. Then, standing on his head, he roots over the gravel, and alternately he roots and sweeps until all the sand and smaller stones are swept to the edge of the saucer-shaped nest, so left perfectly clean. When the nest is thus prepared the male stands guard, but makes frequent circles into deeper water in search of a female bass, fetching her home with him, and remaining at hand until she has deposited her eggs on the clean gravel. If she attempts to run away she is pursued and brought back, but directly the spawning is completed he no longer detains her, and he may even drive her away.

It now devolves upon the male bass to care for the eggs and "fry." As for the female, she takes no part in the subsequent proceedings. He remains over the nest, guarding it until the eggs are hatched and the young fry are ready to leave the nest. Swimming slowly back and forth, he fans the eggs with his pectoral fins and tail to keep them free from sediment. At frequent intervals he leaves them and circles about the nest to assure himself no enemies are nigh. If another fish approaches it is attacked. When the eggs are hatched the young bass remain for some days hovering over the nest, and then leave it accompanied and guarded by the male. Usually they seek very shallow water along shore, and the parent swims back and forth in a half circle outside his "school" of young hopefuls. This care is taken until the fry are an inch to an inch and a quarter long; then they scatter.

Unless cared for thus, comparatively few of the bass would live to grow up. Both eggs and young fish have numerous enemies — various kinds of minnows, sunfish and young bass of larger growth—which are ready to attack during even a brief absence of the parent. The same description would apply to the large-mouth bass throughout, except that their eggs usually are laid on the fibrous roots of water plants, dead leaves, or other such materials on the bottom.

To accommodate all these vagaries then was the endeavor of the artificial propagator. It was soon found that methods employed with other fish would not work; one male bass must by no means be able to see another; it always disturbed him, he generally wanted to fight. With other fish they "strip" the females of their eggs, let the males fertilize the eggs, and place them in a continually flowing current of water in trays or glass jars to hatch. It cost thousands before it was found this would not work with black bass.

According to figures given out recently by Building Inspector Cahusse of Montreal, the building record for the first six months of the current year shows a decrease of one million dollars as compared with the same period of last year. For the first half of 1915 the value of permits issued was $3,419,000, while for the first six months of the current year the figures were $2,434,900.

"It is not easy," continues the Star, "to understand how a candidate can promise so much to so "many classes and interests."

Well described. If the Star had added it is a fraud and humbug it would have completed its character "to a dot."

Mr Dewart says he is not "running a Pie Campaign." That is true, it's a salamagundi campaign.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL BIGGAR

A telegram from Ottawa of the 15th inst. says:

> Colonel J. Lyons Biggar, director-general of transport and supplies in the Militia Department, has been promoted to the rank of brigadier-general, it was announced to-night.
> General Biggar has done good work for Canada since the war began, having directed the transportation and supply of Canadian troops during the whole time since August 1914, and has done it with thoroughness and distinction. The fact that of 250,000 Canadian soldiers sent overseas not a troopship has met with mishap or a train come to grief is one evidence of this. General Biggar is a South African War veteran. He was made deputy adjutant-general for the Army Service Corps in July 1901; deputy quartermaster-general in the same year and director-general of transport and supplies in 1904.

Accept congratulations, Brigadier. It is a pleasure to note the honor conferred upon our Bay of Quinte boy.

TURKEY'S INTERNAL ERUPTION.

If late despatches are to be relied on there is substantial foundation for the rumors that Turkey is experiencing internal unrest, and that the peace faction, growing stronger and more threatening, would complete the disentegration of the once mighty empire. The Young Turks and their German paymasters are keeping control only by the liberal use of the bowstring, or whatever may be its modern equivalent in Turkey.

But a separate peace is improbable, unless Turkish troops meet with defeats which are completely demoralizing, or the Russians win Constantinople. Germany will bend every effort to keep Turkey in the field.

Russia is to get control of both sides of the Dardanelles. That is a foregone conclusion, and intelligent Turks must realize it. Great Britain must have Mesopotamia. It should also have territory which would command the Suez Canal, or at least prevent attacks on that waterway. By British possession of Mesopotamia and vantage ground on the northern side of the canal the doorways to India would be placed in safe hands.

ROUNDING UP GERMAN PROPERTY.

The suggestion that Great Britain should seize German money and property held within the United Kingdom as a reprisal for such atrocities as the cold-blooded murder of Captain Fryatt is being received with more or less favor. Reprisals of this nature are often open to objections, but in the case cited the only point to be considered is that of expediency. No question of humanity is involved in the seizure of German property.

The question that would have to be thrashed out before Great Britain took the proposed action would be whether Germany could seize more British property than the British could find in the United Kingdom. Probably it could not. In addition to money Great Britain might confiscate German ships which lie in British ports, but which were not captured as prizes. They are certainly more numerous than the British ships lying under similar conditions in German ports.

The great advantage of the Dalziel proposal is that it would hit the pockets of Germany's financial magnates. They would not care to pay a few million dollars for every atrocity their country commits.

Toronto Globe: When the present war broke out the Grand Duke Nicholas, Commander-in-Chief of the Russian armies in Poland, with the approval of his cousin, the Czar, promised the Polanders that after the war Poland would be raised to the position of an autonomous State under Russian auspices, with a Government of its own and the right to manage its own affairs. The obvious purpose of this announcement was to make the Polanders favorable to Russia, and it seems to have had that effect, if one may judge from the present joint effort on the part of Prussia and Austria to outbid Russia with the Polish people. Of course the Allies expect the Russian armies to sweep the Austro-Hungarian and German armies, not merely out of Russian Poland, but out of Galicia in Austria, and out of most, if not all, of the Polish region in Prussia. In either event it seems likely that when the time comes for a peace congress to find a permanent peace settlement the interests of Poland will be well looked after. This will be some compensation for the awful sufferings inflicted on her people by the war.

Journal of Commerce: Mr McKenna, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, in a review of the successful manner in which the tremendous cost of the war has been financed by the Imperial Government, bears testimony to the considerable part that has been played by the contributions of the working classes. The British workman has not usually been remarkable for thrift. Many thought that an attempt to teach him to be thrifty for the purpose of lending his savings to the nation would fail. But it did not fail. The small savings of the working classes proved a material help to the Treasury, and the contributing of them gave the workmen a new interest in the war. So it will be, we believe, in the case of the new Canadian loan soon to be floated, if facilities are afforded for the co-operation of the men and women of small means

Current Comment

The Kaiser now says he might be partly to blame for the war. Every time a Hun army is backed up a little, we get a new Hun admission.

Captain Fryatt's crime was that he endeavored to kill Germans who were at the time under orders to sink without warning his ship, with passengers and crew.

A cable says the Kaiser reviewed the field army and navy in Flanders, which confirms the impression that the navy has been put on wheels.—Montreal Mail.

Free transportation back to Northern Ontario has been arranged for settlers driven out of the district by the recent fires, and the Government will supply timothy and clover seed free, to assist the settlers in making a new start.

The liquor men at the coast are hiring spaces in the newspapers to tell the public that "Billy Sunday is irreverently familiar with God." Think of the wounded feelings of those coast whisky people. In the words of the inspired bard, "Can you beat it?"—Calgary Albertan.

Mr Dewart's declaration of love for "the people" is so sudden. Why should he have concealed his affection until he was far into the fifties? It is difficult to avoid the suspicion that Mr Dewart needs "the people" more than "the people" need Mr Dewart.—Toronto News.

It is announced from Vienna, says an Exchange Telegraph Company despatch from Copenhagen, that it has been decided to establish a system of self-government among the towns and communities in Polish territory occupied by the Austrians.

A three-day ploughing match, which Mr J. Lockie Wilson described as the greatest ever held on the continent, is to take place at the farm of Mr R. J. Fleming, between Pickering and Whitby, on November 1, 2, and 3. Almost every agricultural society in the Province is entered, and an attendance of from 7,000 to 10,000 is expected. Gasoline tractors will be among the competitors, and some of these will race down the field, turning ten furrows at a time, harrowing and seeding, all in one operation.—Toronto News. And yet, there is nothing like going at it with a single-point plough and team of oxen. It takes one back to old times, and the job lasts longer. These new-fangled ideas——?

The Poets' Corner

THE CLASSICS

Let me always read the classics,
There are bardings of a day,
Fames from twilight unto twilight;
But the classics ever stay,
And the classics are the voice
Of the mountain and the glen
And the multitudinous ocean
And the city filled with men,—
Voices of a deeper meaning
Than all drippings of the pen.

Yes, the mountains are a classic,
And an older word they speak
Than the classics of the Hebrew
Or the Hindoo or the Greek.
Dumb are they, like the classics,
Till the chosen one draws near,
Who can catch their inner voices
And the ear behind the ear;
And their words are high and mystic,
But the chosen one can hear.

And the ocean is a classic.
Where the scribe shall read its word,
Word grown old before the Attic
Or Ionian bards were heard,
Word once whispered unto Homer,
Sown within his fruitful heart,—
And he caught a broken message,
But he only heard a part,
Listen, thou; forget the babblings
And the pedantries of art.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 14.—A tremendous break took place in all markets today, with the local market leading the way. October closing 6¼c lower, December 7⅛c lower, and May 6⅝c down. Oats were 1¾c down for October, and 1⅝c lower for December. Barley dropped ½c. Flax was 8c down for October, and 7½c for November, with 7¼c lower for December.

A big trade developed on the sharp break today. The public were caught by their stop loss orders, and early the selling developed. The news was bearish all day with a good report from Saskatchewan.

Exporters were good buyers on the break, and the big firms also bought well, but the public was panicky.

The cash demand was good for wheat, indifferent for oats, and fair far barley.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Lambs declined 75c to $1.25 per 100 pounds. There was a good demand from local packers and quite a few lots were also bought for shipment to the U. S. consequently an active trade was done in Ontario stock at $9.75 to $10.75, and in Quebec stock at $8.50 to $9.50 per 100 pounds. The tone of the market for sheep was also easier, and prices were 25c per 100 pounds lower.

Good to choice milk fed calves ruled higher at 10c to 11c per pound, but the supply of grassfed was ample to fill all requirements at 5c to 7c per pound. The strength, which has characterized the market for hogs for some time now, continues to be the main feature of the market, and prices for choice selected lots averaging 150 pounds each scored a further advance of 25c per 100 pounds with sales of such at $13.25, but prices for ordinary selected lots were unchanged from a week ago at $12.75 to $13 for long run stock, while short run lots of heavyweights and rough stock sold at $11.50 to $12.50, with sows at $9.50 to $11, and stags at $5.25 to $6.50 per 100 pounds weighed off cars.

"And possibly turn the tide of sentiment so strong that I shall be unable to break the price again," protested Fenno, aghast at what Nick was proposing. "Do you realize what you——"

"I know what I'm about," Nick again interrupted. "I'll give you, at noon to-day, Fenno, a big stick with which you can smash the stock worse than ever."

"Good heavens! What?"

"Another injunction, restraining the company from further construction work, pending a hearing on the validity of Packard's decision and an inquest upon his death. Before those come off, Fenno," Nick impressively laid his forefinger on his hearer's knee— "before those come off I'll have these fellows nailed to the cross."

"Are you sure?"

"Absolutely."

"I cannot doubt you,' said Fenno, with eyes lighting; but don't keep me in the dark. What have you learned?"

"Too much to be told in the short time I can remain or you can afford to lose," Nick forcibly replied. "I cannot go into explanations, but you must do what I advise. I am thought to be dead by certain persons, and I wish to learn whether information to that effect will reach the Todd crowd. The action of the stock, if you remain comparatively passive for an hour or two, will show me."

"I understand," Fenno nodded. "Yet I am at liberty to act consistently, am I not?"

"Yes, certainly."

"I will, then, do what you require."

"But don't under any circumstances reveal our relations, or the fact that I am alive," Nick said warningly. "I wish certain persons to feel convinced of my death for the present. They'll find me lively enough later, however. I have Patsy, one of my assistants, in the very midst of the gang, and on a friendly footing with them."

"Good! You amaze me—amaze me! How can you have accomplished so much in so short a time?"

"There is, as I have said, no time for explanations," Nick insisted. "You must act blindly on my advice, Fenno, and follow my instructions to the letter. On my word, however, the results shall be all you can ask."

"You may depend upon me."

"Now one more thing," said Nick: "After noon today, when the news of the injunction reaches Wall Street, I want you to break the market wide open. Smash United Transit to a single figure, if you can."

"I can and will," Fenno declared, and his face looked it. "I will risk my entire fortune in the effort. I'll break it, Nick—or break myself!"

"If you succeed—mark me, Fenno!" The voice of the great detective fell lower. "We shall have the Todd crowd in a financial corner, in a hole, driving them to the utmost extremes, the most desperate measures I have reason to believe they will, in order to support the market, appropriate the funds of the Ironclad National Bank, in which Todd is the most influential figure, barring not even its president."

"That's right."

"Lo what I have commanded, Fenno—and note my next move," Nick added, in his intensely impressive fashion. "I'll plug half a dozen bank examiners in there the instant the bank opens to-morrow morning. If I find there is a deficit—faugh! I shal then have these fellows in the palm of my hand, where I can crush them like eggshells."

Though as pale and grave as if his life hung upon the work required of him, Fenno's dark eyes reflected an admiration he could not verbally express.

"You are a general one should be proud to follow, a support that would make a giant of a pygmy," he said warmly. "I marvel at your ability, your energy, your invincible courage. I will do what you require, as I have said, for I have unbounded faith in you."

"Good!" was the hearty repoinder. "You shall find it is not misplaced."

"I am convinced of that."

Nick glanced at the clock—twenty minutes of ten; and, incidentally, he noticed a cabinet photograph standing near it on an easel. The subject struck him as being a bit fancy, dashing in appearance. The face was striking, yet did not please him. The impression came in an instant, and remained recorded in his brain.

"That one of the family, Fenno, or your sweetheart?" he lightly inquired, with a toss of his head in the direction of the photograph.

Fenno laughed a bit nervously.

"Neither," he replied. "It's a picture of Miss Bolton, my stenographer and private secretary."

"Ah!"

"She has been with me for two years," Fenno added. "Her father was Bolton, the Broadway haberdasher. He was thought to be wealthy, but died deeply in debt. I was acquainted with the daughter, who was rather a bright, fashionable girl in those days, and I gave her employment. It had become a case of hustle for her living."

"I see," nodded Nick. "I may rely upon you to follow my instructions?"

"As surely as I live and breathe."

"That's all then. It is now a quarter of ten. You must soon leave for the Exchange. I have work elsewhere."

Nick abruptly started up while speaking and Fenno arose and accompanied him to the outer office.

The door no sooner was closed than the other opened—Janet appeared again.

Her cheeks were pale, her lips as gray as ashes. She was trembling from head to foot. As if wild with excitement, or in a frenzy of haste, she put on her hat and jacket and started for the door leading into the corridor—only to halt abruptly, beating her brow with her hand, as if to quell the riot in her brain. Then she turned sharply and darted to the telephone on Fenno's desk.

With the receiver in her hand she hesitated again, staring wild-eyed at the door through which Fenno would return. She heard his approaching steps while she gazed. As quick as a flash she replaced the receiver, then darted to her own desk, thrusting into one of the drawers the letters she had taken from the table. When Percival Fenno entered she was removing her hat and jacket, like one who had just come in from the street.

"I have been out to drop your mail, Mr. Fenno," she remarked, with a composure in vivid contrast with her recent agitation.

"Very well, Janet. I saw you had stepped out."

He spoke without a glance at her, resuming his seat and his writing.

"Are you going to the Exchange this morning?"

"Yes."

"It is nearly ten. I thought I would remind you."

"Quite right, Janet. Thank you."

Still, he did not look at her. She stood gazing at him from under her, knit brows, with her lips jerking spasmodically at times, and her slender white hand rigidly gripping one of the vertical bamboo rods of the figured screen.

"By the way, Janet——"

"Yes, sir."

"You must help Mr. Ashley this morning." Fenno referred to the bookkeeper. "He has more than he can do. These are troublous times. He will give you a stool at his desk and tell you what he wants."

"Very well, sir."

Janet's voice was unchanged, but her frown had become a scowl of bitter hatred, of deadly determination She resumed her chair, thrust the letters deeper into the desk drawer, and quickly locked it.

"It must be done—quickly done!" she muttered the words through her teeth inaudibly, fiercely twining her slender fingers and staring vacantly at the work on her desk. "Done—yes! or there'll be the devil to pay. But if I insist on going out, I shall incur suspicion. If I telephone, I may be heard. If I—bah! I'll find a way! I'll invent a way!"

The clock on the mantel struck ten.

The bookkeeper appeared at the door, but Fenno had sprung up and seized his hat.

"I'm going to the Exchange, Ashley," he said. I have spoken to Janet. She will assist you at once."

He was out and away while he spoke. Janet arose, white and moody, and followed Ashley to the outer office, taking a stool beside him at his desk and awaited his instructions. The work required their laboring together, and he plunged into it at once, necessitating her doing likewise.

It was a situation from which she could not easily escape. She grew pale while she worked. Her lips were pressed, her eyes dilated.

A ticker in one corner began clicking noisily. Half a dozen clerks leaped down from their stools and ran to look at the tape. One of them threw up his hands and staggered.

"Up ten points!" he gasped, with a stare at the hearers. "Heavens, what an opening!"

"What's that?" cried Ashley. "United Transit higher?"

"Yes, ten points."

"The deuce! What has happened?"

Janet kept on writing—a mute, ghastly white girl bending over the huge ledger.

At half-past ten United Transit crossed 50, with a terrible up-swing, and at eleven was being bought in huge blocks at 55, still steadily advancing.

The inmates of Fenno's office were in feverish excitement.

At half-past eleven the stock crossed 60 with no sign of a break.

ROADS WORK GOES AHEAD.

Ontario Government is Completing Organization of Big Scheme.

One of the significant signs of stability in the midst of the war struggle is the manner in which the different departments of the Ontario Government are continuing the ordinary routine of administration, and at the same time laying careful plans to deal with the added problems that are sure to arise as the war draws to a close.

The war necessarily called a halt to several important projects that had reached a stage when actual work was about to commence. Not one department of the Government but was obliged to suspend or curtail operations to some extent. This was particularly so in the case of the highway improvement program.

It might be pointed out that the scheme initiated by Sir James Whitney three years ago for a province-wide system of highways had been enacted into law. A million dollars has been set aside to start the important work. The former Highways Branch of the Public Works Department has now been enlarged into a Department of Highways under a Deputy Minister, who has taken over the administration of the Motor Vehicles Act and the licensing of automobiles as logically coming within the scope of this work. The failure of the Senate at Ottawa to pass the Highway Aid bill has not affected the policy of the Provincial Government towards highway improvement. The new department has gone ahead completing its organization and making a survey of the situation all over the Province.

Until the dislocation caused by the war has passed away and monetary conditions become normal it is not expected that many counties will embark upon a program of highway construction, especially while their money raising efforts are absorbed with war grants. But this will not prevent much necessary and good work being done on the township roads. These roads are feeders to the main county roads, and unless they are properly maintained the efficiency of the whole scheme will be impaired.

W. A. McLean, Deputy Minister of Highways, has prepared for distribution an admirable pamphlet road construction for township road superintendents and overseers. This manual, as it is called, sets out in simple plain language the important principles which should be applied to township road maintenance and improvement. The essential features, it is pointed out, are: (1) thorough drainage of the subsoil, natural or artificial, making a strong, unyielding foundation; and (2) a wearing surface, forming a smooth, hard, compact crust, which sheds water readily, and distributes the concentrated wheel load over a greater area of subsoil.

With this as a beginning it goes on to show that a good earth road is the first step towards a good gravel or stone road, and the various stages in this development are briefly described. Separate sections are devoted to earth roads, tile drainage, gravel roads, and working diagrams are included to make plainer the descriptions given.

After all highway betterment is largely a matter of common sense and co-operation. The Government has come forward in a large handed way to assist the rural communities to improve their roads. It will bear a considerable portion of the cost of construction in counties; it will pay part of the salary of a township road overseer; and it will contribute a portion of the annual cost for maintenance of improved county roads. But to insure the best return to the people for this investment those having to do with road maintenance must be instructed in their work. For two years now a conference of road overseers and superintendents has been held early in the spring in the Parliament Buildings where instructive papers were read and road problems discussed. The best experience in road construction and maintenace has been reduced by the department to available form for these men, and the next few years should witness a great movement towards highway betterment in Ontario. This is in harmony with the general advance that is taking place in agriculture. The labor problem has forced the farmer to use more machinery, the Hydro-Electric as it is extended will further simplify this difficulty, the motor car and telephone brings the farmer nearer the centre of population, and the centres of population as well nearer the farm, and the connecting link is good roads. That is the economy of the whole thing.

He Saved His Quarter.

To salvage a twenty-five-cent piece for a five-cent fee, George Storey, a ten-year-old London lad, crawled through a small, murky, gas-laden, rat-infested sewer for a city block the other day. He brought the quarter out, and was hauled out in a weakened condition by his companions. He was in the drain for a considerable time.

The Deal Was Off.

"Hoot awa'," replied Donald; "it's far ower dear! I'd rather walk!" and off he started.

He had not proceeded far when the train came tearing along, whistling as it neared a station.

"Ye needna whistle for me!" said Donald. "I made ye an offer since, and ye wadna tak' it; sae ye can gang on. I'm no comin'."

ONE WHO UNDERSTANDS CHILDREN

James Whitcomb Riley, who died a few days ago, loved children and children loved him. They loved him because he understood them. No other poet has appealed more to the heart and imagination of childhood. "I have just stayed a child," he once said to Zona Gale, and he thought most other persons have "stayed a child," too, only they do not realize it. Riley never married, and it is often said that those who have no children of their own do not understand children.

In his talk with Zona Gale a few years ago, which was published in Success magazine, the poet referred to the fact that people who have no children always think they know most about managing them, and Riley confessed that he was one who thought so. Riley was not boastful, but he took pride in his sympathetic relations with children. "There are such a lot of other people's children whom I love to think belong to me that I am sure I know how to manage them," he said.

He was sure for another reason, too. "I never go about in the world alone as just Riley—the Riley I am now. There is always beside me the little lad who used to be I, and I can think his thoughts and live his hopes and his tragedies now, just as much as I could when I looked like him. We have great times together—this little lad and I—and we are never more intimate than when some other child is near us."

It would be putting it too coldly to say that Riley was a careful student of child psychology. The big word seems to take the heart out of the relation between the poet and children. His feeling for children was instinctive. In his talk with Zona Gale he said:

"Why, I have sat here by the fire, or by somebody else's fire, and have seen a little strange child come into the room when it seemed as if he must know how much alike we were, and that I must go and talk with him right away. But I never did go to him right away, or call him to me. Why? Because the little lad I used to be was at my elbow, and I remembered very well how he used to like to have people treat him. Was it the people who made an affectionate rush at him and caught him up and covered him with kisses who won his heart? No, it was the people whose hearts he thought he had won. So with this little strange child in the room, I would sit still and pretend to be talking with the grown-up people. But I never ceased to be conscious of him for a minute—only I wouldn't have let him know that for the world. I wooed him instead as subtly as ever a lover wooed a sweetheart—and, when you consider it, a lover woos as if his sweetheart were a child, undervaluing what is too easily won, and overestimating what is hard to possess. . . So I would hold out my hand to the child with all the absent-mindedness I could muster and I would keep on talking. The little strange child would watch like a little shy rabbit, and come a little nearer, and a little nearer, and finally he would be standing with my arm around him, and all the while I would be talking with someone else, and not seeming to pay him the slightest attention. Then at length he would begin to make timid efforts to attract my notice, and finally—I would let him. After that, we would be fast friends."

It was in the interview with Zona Gale that Riley spoke so beautifully of shadow-children. He recalled Tennyson's "In Memoriam." Arthur Hallam, who was to marry Tennyson's sister, died. Tennyson pictures the home that might have been, happy children

"I see their unborn faces shine
Beside the never-lighted fire."

After quoting these lines, Riley said: "I believe there is no one childless who does not sometimes long for the shadow faces 'beside the never-lighted fire.'"—Tacoma Ledger.

CHOCOLATE CAKE

Kindly let me have a good recipe for a very light chocolate cake. Thanking you many times and hoping to always have the Woman's page in The Intelligencer, as we would miss it very much now.

LITTLE TIDDLER.

Ans.—Very many thanks.

Chocolate Cake—One-half cup butter, one cup sugar, two small eggs, one-half cup milk 1½ cups flour, 2½ teaspoons baking-powder, two ozs. chocolate melted; one-half teaspoon vanilla. Cream the butter, add sugar gradually, yolks of eggs well beaten, then whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Add milk, flour mixed and sifted with baking powder, and beat thoroughly. Then add chocolate and vanilla. Bake forty minutes in a shallow cake pan.

IRISH MOSS BLANC MANGE.

For "Nippy's Mother":

One-third cup Irish moss, four cups milk, one-quarter teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla. Soak moss fifteen minutes in cold water to cover, drain, pick over, and add to milk; cook in double boiler thirty minutes. The milk will seem but little thicker than when put on to cook, but if cooked longer, blanc mange will be too stiff. Add salt, strain, flavor, re-strain, and fill individual moulds, previously dipped in cold water. Chill, turn out on glass dish, surround with thin slices of banana, and place a slice on each mould. Serve with sugar and cream. To flavor with chocolate: Melt 1½ squares chocolate, add one-quarter cup sugar and one-third cup boiling water, stir until perfectly smooth, adding to milk just before taking from fire. Serve with sugar and cream.

HOT BATHS.

If you must have a hot bath—place a pan of hot water under a cane-seated chair. Cover yourself completely from head to foot, as good as a Turkish bath.

PETER IN THE FAMILY CIRCLE

Little family fetes do much to strengthen family affection. Take advantage of any occasion that may prompt a gathering of the family; let not one slip away unnoticed. Graduations, marriages, births, no event of special interest should be neglected.

No anniversary is more personal than a birthday, be it in youth or old age. Everybody likes to know that people are glad he is here. In the companionship of their friends, young fo'ks are forming ties that the coming years will strengthen. And when the young people help to celebrate the birthday of a parent or elder person, they learn thoughtfulness and unselfishness, and find happiness in making others happy.

As the years fly by and a life of joys and sorrows is left behind, the aged person looks eagerly forward to the celebration of each coming birthday. The fewer occasions like this one may look forward to, the more each anniversary means. One who has lived many years has found how fleeting is the joy in mere material things and has learned to value more and more love, affection and the good-will that comes from the heart.—Milwaukee Journal.

ALDERMEN HURL TUMBLERS ABOUT

A bombardment of glasses, in which Ald. William A. Wilson of London, Ont., sustained scalp lacerations and injuries about the head that required medical treatment, brought Monday night's session of the City Council to a riotous termination.

The battle, which assumed the proportions of a free fight between Ald. Wilson and Ald. Adam Palmer, was provoked during a discussion on the appointment of a successor to City Auditor Frank Jewell. Palmer asserted that it appeared to him that Ald. Ashplant had tried to "frame things up" to put one over the City Council, and when remonstrated with and told that his language was "impertinent," he agreed that that word designated his statements properly.

Ald. Wilson thereupon arose, charging Ald Palmer with having made an attack upon him. Pointing at Palmer he declared: "That man is a coward, the kind that sticks you in the back. He's the kind of man that went into a foundry to take other men's jobs during a strike. He scabbed it."

Ald. Palmer, jumping to his feet, shouted to the Mayor demanding a termination of such discussion, but as he did so Wilson settled in his chair and reiterated, "He's a scab."

As the words left his lips, Palmer wheeled and hurled a heavy glass tumbler, with all his force. Wilson was struck fairly on the side of the head, and reeled momentarily, while blood gushed over the table and chair from an ugly wound.

Regaining his strength, Wilson arose and volleyed tumblers and other missiles after Palmer, who had retreated into an anteroom, while other Councillors and officials sought to prevent a close engagement. Fire Chief Aitken, who was in the line of fire, ducked to escape one of the tumblers, but was struck on the knuckles. The next missed Palmer's head by a hair's breadth and buried its fragments half an inch deep in a pine door beside him.

City Engineer Brazierr clinched with Wilson, and, with assistance, brought the injured legislator to a halt, after a wild tango through the Board of Control room, in which chairs were upset, and the turmoil was general.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

THEY JUST BLUE INTO THE CAMP

"Lost or at least strayed" is the unhappy fate of twenty-five expert automobile mechanics now at Barriefield Camp.

The story dates back to many weeks ago, when strenuous endeavors were made in Vancouver and Victoria, B. C., for mechanical transport men for overseas services. Without delay 100 of the best men of that trade enlisted and were immediately notified to hold themselves in readiness for overseas service. Nothing, of course, was given to the local military district headquarters, as each military district works directly with Ottawa through the officer in command.

Last week, twenty-five of that 100 walked into Barriefield Camp to report. No one knew what they had come for and why they came to Kingston. The men themselves reported that twenty-five had been sent on to Valcartier and fifty to Camp Borden.

Efforts have been made to find out why these men came to Barriefield, but so far, according to the men, no word has been received. All that they know is that they had tickets to Kingston and were on their way overseas.

Recognizing the opportunity, the men were immediately put at work overhauling vehicles of the motor transport at the camp, but as for a permanent need for them no such necessity exists. They can be used to advantage now, but in the course of a few days there will be little or no work for them.

The question is now being asked around the camp, "Why are we here and when do we leave for the front? It does not seem an easy one to answer, but the men hope that the tangle will be straightened out so that their transportation arrangements for overseas will not be interfered with.—Kingston Whig.

NOTES

The Bank of Toronto has arranged to have a representative on the ground to cash the cheques for the men of the 156th Battalion.

The date of the presentation of colors to the 154th, after much deliberation, has been fixed definitely as August 24th. The question now is, where is it to be made?

Major R. D. Ponton, instructional cadre, is making himself responsible for personal instruction of one company a day of the 154th Battalion, and splendid progress is being made as a result of his lectures, etc.

The Y. M. C. A. at Barriefield camp is now selling tobacco and cigarettes to the soldiers for the first time since the institution of the popular "Y" at the camp.

The band of the 155th Battalion will play on Monday night at a garden party on the Y.W.C.A. lawn in connection with the Crusaders' campaign.

Rev. and Mrs. Cook of Selby, Ont., were visitors to camp yesterday and and lunched with the officers of the 155th Battalion.

Mrs. Williamson of Toronto, and Mrs. Putman, wife of Captain Putman of the "Rapids King," Deseronto, wer visitors to camp yesterday and were the guestst of the mess of the officers of the 155th to lunch.

The 154th took about 550 men to Brockville for the presentation of colors to-day.

155th Battalion, Barriefield—2 recruits, 41 appointed officers, 7 attached officers, other ranks, 1113. Total strength, 1166.

Next Sunday morning the camp Protestant service will be conducted at nine oclock. The sermon will be preached by Captain Fitzgerald, and Captain Dodds and Captain Hagar, chaplains of the 155th and 156th battalions will take part in the service.

The 156th Battalion left camp this morning (Thursday), at five o'clock, and the R.M.C. wharf at 5.30 for Brockville on the return trip 55tah11 Brockville. The battalion will leave Brockville on the return trip about seven oclock this evening, reaching camp about midnight.

A board of enquiry met in the orderly room of the 155th Battalion Tuesday for the purpose of investigating and reporting upon the injuries sustained by Captain Doyle, who was hurt by being thrown from a horse several weeks ago.

A board of officers proceeded to Trenton Wednesday for the purpose of inspecting a site and building for Armouries for that place. The president of the board is Lt.-Col. Wilson, A.A. and Q.M.G. Third Military District.

NO HURRY ABOUT IT

An old farmer who had been henpecked all his life was about to die. His wife felt it her duty to offer him such consolation as she might, and said:

"John you are about to go, but I will follow you."

"I suppose so, Maria," said the old man, weakly, "but so far as I am concerned you needn't be in any blamed hurry about it."

WANTED TO BUT COULDN'T

Jim Smith was notoriously slow pay. He owed quite a bill at the grocery for pork. One day as his credit was becoming strained, he walked calmly into the grocery and said: "Mr. Black, I want to pay you for the pork I have had, and I want some more."

"Certainly," said the delighted proprietor, as he hastened to wait on his customer.

Taking the package of pork, Jim Smith started to go.

"Wait a minute," said the proprietor. "I thought you wanted to pay for the pork."

"I do," remarked Jim, as he resumed his homeward way, "but I can't."—Christian Herald.

FINE BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Sixteen players, composing of 4 teams of crack bowlers, came up from Kingston yesterday and played 2.15-end games each, with 4 rinks of local players. The day was ideal in every way, and there was a large "gallery" of spectators, including many ladies, at both the afternoon and evening games. The visiting players came to Belleville on "The Flyer", reaching town at 3 p.m. They were met at the G.T.R. station by 4 autos, kindly provided by Messrs. Geo. M. Simmons, F. A. Anderson, W. B. Riggs and Chas. Sulman. Mr. H. Ackerman also loaned his car to help convey the players back to the train at midnight. After the afternoon games the Kingston players were dined at the Hotel Quinte, and then enjoyed a spin in autos about the city. The evening games started at 8 o'clock. At their conclusion ice-cream and cake were served to the players, and guests on the spacious porch of the local club house. BASEBALL

CLOTHIERS DEFEAT BARBERS

The Clothiers added another victory to their credit yesterday afternoon, the victims being a team composed of various barbers of the city, the score being 22 to 10. It was a good game, in spite of the score, and the Clothiers, were kept hustling, to keep the Barbers from gaining a lead.

The line up was as follows:

Barbers—Smith, c.; LaPalm, p.; Skinner, s.s.; Belnap, 1b.; Bennett, 2 b.; Sullivan, 3 b.; Kelly, c. f.; Waters, r.f.; Burke, l.f.

Canadian Leaguers are making their mark in baseball Shocker, Ross and Tyron, three pitchers who have been starring in the international this season, are slated for trials in the majors next year. Ross will follow Shocker to the Yankees, while Tyson, who is probably the most effective of the Buffalo twirlers, is billed to perform for the champion Red Sox. Outfielders Koff, also of the Buffalo club, and formerly of London, has also been bought by the Red Sox. Neale once with London, is playing regularly with Cincinnati.

St. Louis Fan Sues American League Club For That Sum.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 16.—The St. Louis Browns were defendants in a $15,000 suit here to-day, brought by a fan, who says he was wrongfully accused of stealing a baseball batted into the stands. While the ball was being passed out, he alleged, a park watchman grabbed him by the wrist and led him to the club's office, where, he claims, he was detained for twenty-five minutes and greatly humiliated.

THE TURF

Keep up Speed

That a race is not won until the wire is reached was illustrated to a nicety Tuesday at Hillcrest in the mile and sixteenth affair. Fifty yards from the finish Frontier apparently held his company safe, and Jockey Dennier relaxed his efforts. It was a disastrous move on his part, as Mike Cohen, a trailer throughout, came along at this juncture like a baby cyclone and nipped Frontier by the slightest of margins right on the post. There were several other finishes of a similar kind during the afternoon, Jockey Deavenport figuring in two. He is the best boy at the track, and his win with Chitra was a masterly effort.—Toronto News.

BOTH LEGS BROKEN

Mrs. E. B. Sprague, 78 North Front Street, has received a very interesting letter from her son Melburn, of the Canadian Mounted Rifles.

Stuttgart, July 5th, 1916.

Dear Mother, Father and Ida—I am now at a big German Hospital at Stuttgart, which is in Germany. I arrived here at this hospital on July 1st. The first hospital I was in was in Belgium, where I stayed for three weeks and one day. They told four of us that we were going to be sent to Deutchland, so we started on the 29th of June and ended our journey on the 1st of July at about 6 o'clock, so you see we sure had some trip. I had both legs broken on June 2nd, and I have gone through a lot of suffering and it still continues. I will have to lay in one position in bed for two or three months which will not be any pleasure. I had to borrow this paper and envelope from a good friend of mine, as I have none and we are not issued any.

You do not have to pay any postage on parcels so that will be a big help. I am getting along very well as far as my legs go. Save all the papers relating to the battle of June 2nd. Send a good sized parcel every two weeks, as I need it more than you think. Be sure and write to me every week and tell me the news. I am very lucky to be alive. Do not think I am asking too much, for I do not. I am more seriously hurt than you think. So I will end by hoping you are well and happy. Do not worry as I am going to pull through all right.

RANKS OF GERMANS WITHERED BY BRITISH

Terrific Enemy Counter-attacks End in Enormous Losses—Teutons Advance Six Deep, but Break and Run Before They Reach Haig's Positions—More Ground Taken From Foe Northwest of Bazentin-le-Petit

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Special—The nightly despatch from British Headquarters on the Somme front describes the sanguinary defeat of powerful German counter-attacks yesterday. In one of these attacks the Germans advanced so deep, but were taken under so heavy a fire that they fled in retreat before even reaching the British lines. Their lossses are described as enormous.

General Haig also announced the capture of a 100-yard trench northwest of Bazentin-le-Petit, at the prow of the British advance toward the Martinpuich heights. Counter-attacks delivered from the latter region he asserts, were unsuccessful.

Only south of the Somme, in the sector of Belloy-en-Santerre, does the German General Staff admit the allies were able to hold the conquered terrain. Against the German version, the French last night announce that they spent the day in consolidating the captured ground, while General Haig reports the further penetration for 300 yards of the German front west of the High Wood.

The British night official report says: "Last night and early this morning the enemy delivered a series of determined counter-attacks on our trenches northwest of Pozieres on a broad front and with considerable forces. Six lines of his infantry advanced and attacked, but fan back, suffering heavy losses. Our guns and machine guns did great execution. In no case did he succeed in entering our lines.

Northwest of Bazentin we captured a hundred yards of trenches. A counter-attack made from Matinpuich yesterday was repulsed and some prisoners were taken by us."

"The operations on the Somme yesterday were a mere detail of the offensive, and had merely a local bearing," a high French military officer explained yesterday in Paris to the Associated Press, "but significance is derived from the fact that the Germans did not counter-attack as usual. Never before have they failed to react when successfully attacked, and their failure to do so in this case is either a sign of weakness or, more likely, because of confusion of orders.

"The precision with which the French offensive has been carried out is shown by the fact that every objective designated in advance of an action has been reached. At Maurepas a certain number of houses were selected, and every one of them was captured and occupied; it never was intended to attempt the occupation of the entire village.

Woman Kicked Conductor's Shins

Passenger on Hamilton Street Car Becomes Enraged and Makes It Hot For the Fare Collector

HAMILTON, Aug. 17.—In the police court this morning Elmer Neff, a street car conductor, charged Mrs. Nellie Tunkey, 155 West King street with assault. The conductor stated that Mrs. Tunkey placed two ten cent pieces in his fare box for herself and two other women and demanded five cents change. He told her he couldn't give it to her, as he had no way of opening the box. On this Mrs. Tunkey told him he had lots of money in his money belt. Neff replied that he would give her the first five cent fare he collected. The next five cent fare being long delayed, Mrs. Tunkey became annoyed and addressed such remarks to the conductor as: "Why don't you enlist?" Mrs. Tunkey then stood up while the car was in motion and the conductor put his hand on her shoulder and told her to be seated, on which, according to Neff, she slapped him on the face and kicked his shins.

A witness of the incident swore that Neff behaved in a most gentlemanly manner.

At the corner of King and James streets Neff locked the doors of the car and called the traffic constable to secure Mrs. Tunkey's name and address.—The case was adjourned to give time for securing several important witness.

WATCHING FOR BREMEN

Fleet of Allied Cruisers Accompanied by Airmen

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., August 16.—French Cruiser Admiral Aube, which was recently at Pensacola, and other allied cruisers are keeping a close watch over Florida ports for the arrival of the German underses liner Bremen, which is said to be waiting for a chance to come into some gulf port.

During last week no less than a dozen aeroplanes have been sighted at various places along the coast, all of them flying low and evidently making observations at harbor entrances. At Punta Gorda, St. Petersburg, Tampa, Tarpon Springs and other points these machines have been observed. It was stated by observers at St. Petersburg that they have flown over American territory, which is a violation of neutraliy. Machines are now sighted daily and seem especially watchful at night.

Sale Is Still Hanging Fire

Disposition of West Indies to The United States Not Yet Agreed to COPENHAGEN, Aug. 17.—During the Landsthing's closed meeting yesterday, the Landsthing postponed discussion of the treaty providing for the sale of the Danish West Indies, and the United States and the parties called separate meetings. The supposition is that no settlement of the questin of selling the islands will be made for the present, as it must be taken for granted that a new cabinet of such character as is desired by the King only can be formed on condition that the sale is sanctioned. The new phase of the situation causes general surprise. Separate meetings to discuss the new situation will be held, but a result is expected before Saturday.

IN FAVOR OF SALE

ST. THOMAS, Danish West Indies, August 17—Apparently the inhabitants of the Island of St. Croix are in favor of the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States. Unofficial balloting was held yesterday, and of the votes cast 5,000 were in favor of the proposition and only 11 against it.

The population of St. Croix in 1901 was 18,590.

FRENCH MAKE ADVANCES AND CAPTURE PRISONERS AND GUNS

Canadian Press Special

PARIS, Aug. 18.—(Afternoon statement.)—North of the Somme, several attempted counter-attacks by the enemy against our new positions southeast of Maurepas failed under our fire. We took some prisoners. South of the Somme we recovered four machine guns in trenches taken by us south of Belloy. On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) an attack by our troops enabled us, after a violent combat to drive out the Germans from a portion of the village of Fleury which they were occupying.

Some enemy troops are still maintaining themselves in small clumps of ruins on the eastern edge of the village. Between Thiaumont and Fleury our troops also made appreciable advance. Fifty prisoners, including an officer remained in our hands. We also captured a machine gun. Everywhere else the night was relatively calm.

ALLIED GAINS IN BALKANS

French and Serbians Launch Heavy Attacks on The Macedonian Front

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(Special.)—Heavy attacks by French and Serbians on the Macedonian front in the Balkans have resulted in further gains, according to information reaching here last night. In addition to the five villages reported captured in yesterday's review of operations issued by the French War Office, the town of Dolzeri and a fortified work known as "The Turtle," have now been taken. Official announcement to this effect was made to-day by the French headquarters staff in Saloniki and cabled here.

Hun Officer Reaches Berlin From States

First One to Escape British Vigilance During The War—Sends Message to Wife

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Lieut. Walter R. Ives, of 480 Park avenue, formerly a member of the Royal Prussian Thirteenth Dragoons, and since the war began a writer on German strategy is in Berlin. He disappeared from this city two months ago. His wife received a wireless message by Sayville a few days ago announcing that he was safely in Berlin.

How he got past the British is unknown. Mrs. Ives, who was Miss Dorothy Redfield, of this city, said yesterday that she did not know how her husband had made his way to Berlin, and that she was unwilling to say whether he would join the army or not, although she did not expect him to get back to this country before the end of the war.

"I took pains,' 'she said, "to learn nothing about his plans for getting back to Germany. I wanted to be able to answer all questions about it by saying that I did not know and I did not want to be in a position where I might let anything slip by accident. All that I know what was contained in his brief wireless message that he had arrived safely in Berlin."

Lieut. Ives is one of the first, if not the first, German officer to make his way from this country back to Germany since the first of the war, with the exception of privileged diplomatic officers. He spoke English without the slightest trace of an accent, but he had flaxen hair and features characteristically German, which he had probably to disguise, if he had to pass inspection of any British naval officers.

QUEBEC MEN COMPLAIN

Dissatisfied With Treatment of the Provincial Gov't

LONDON, Aug. 17.—French-Canadian officers who hold provisional Government offices in Quebec are complaining about the treatment meted to them respecting their salaries. Under a recent order-in-council it is provided that the full salary allowance shall be reduced to the extent of their military pay, which means in one officer's case that he is receiving just the amount he earned before enlistment and yet he has considerable extra expenditure arising from his status as an officer, and upkeep at home. Further as a militia order usually cuts off the separation allowance of a Government official who enlists, these Quebec officers are actually penalized. Seven Province of Quebec officers are affected by the new order.

ALLIES LEAD IN AIR WORK

Many of The Best German Aviators are Killed—Foe Artillery is "Blind"

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY ON THE SOMME, Aug. 18.—Special—Perhaps the clearest and most important advantage the Allies have had in the Somme offensive is the dominant superiority of their air services. It was an essential part of the plan of the French General Staff that this advantage should be gained at the outset, for the enemy driven out of the sky is half blinded. When big guns commenced their destructive cannonade of the German trenches, therefore, squadrilles of aeroplanes were sent forward to bring down or drive back enemy aviators and destroy the sausage observation balloons. Both sorts of raid were carried out with the utmost daring and success before the infantry advance began. Familiar Drachen had been either destroyed or hurriedly hauled down, and the once formidable German pilots dared not show their noses over the French lines. In five days on the British and French fronts fifteen captive balloons were destroyed. Meanwhile our other squadrons were ceaselessly engaged in their several tasks of bombardment or observation over the enemy's positions.

Reports of Bad Western Crops Fully Denied

Investigation Shows That Average Crops of Prairie Provinces are Good

Special to The Intelligencer.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 18.—Much indignation is expressed in Winnipeg over reports telegraphed American and English papers to the effect that the wheat crop of Manitoba is badly ruined. Honorable Edward Brown, Provincial Treasurer, Manitoba, reports: "Quite untrue. Have personally examined in several districts and have absolutely unbiased information, obtained through the most reliable channels, that the damage to the wheat crops in Manitoba is pretty well confined to the southern part of the Province, and with a good crop in many other districts, do not look for yield to be much below the average; and from reports received would expect the deficiency in Manitoba to be more than made up in Saskatchewan and Alberta. The yield of other grains are reported excellent."

"David Horn, President of Fort William Elevator Company, and for many years chief grain inspector for the Dominion Government, stated that the reliable reports he had would indicate that the crop would run from twelve to eighteen bushels per acre, and that the numeral result would be much more satisfactory than the pessimists would lead us to believe. He also expects the deficiency in Manitoba will be made up in Saskatchewan and Alberta. Edward James, of the Imperial Elevator and Lumber Co., expressed the opinion that the damage reports were quite unjustified. He stated his company, which had extensive lines of credit out of farmers, had not reduced it a credit by a single dollar, as they were of the opinion, crops in volume and financial return would be a most satisfactory one. Their confidence is based on reports from the correspondents all over the Western Provinces.

S. J. Smith, of the Smith & Murphy Company, formerly president of the Grain Exchange, stated their company, who were largely interested in the export business, were laying their plans to handle at least an average crop, and that as far as the Province of Manitoba was concerned, they expected it to go little if any below the average, and any shrinkage was undoubtedly made up in the other Provinces.

William Moffatt, Secretary Treasurer Grain Growers Company, which handled very large proportions of the grain crop in Western Canada last year, has just returned from a personal inspection of the crop in Southern Manitoba, and states that the damage reports are very greatly exaggerated, and that any statement to the effect that the crop is a failure in this Province are unworthy of consideration. The Manitoba crops will be a surprise to the pessimists, he says, and Western Canada as a whole will do exceedingly well.

CANADIANS FOR IMPERIAL NAVY

Men Are to be Recruited in the Volunteer Reserve, on Canadian Pay

OTTAWA, Aug. 18.—(Special.)—The Department of Naval Service wants recruits for the Royal Canadian Volunteer Reserve for service on Imperial ships in the European war. This is the result of the negotiations which Hon. Rupert Guinness has been carrying on for the past three months in Canada on behalf of the Admiralty.

Capt. Guiness wanted to recruit men for the British navy in Canada, but struck a difficulty when the question of pay came up. The British pay is somewhere in the neighborhood of a shilling a day, and it was obvious that such a rate would not attract many recruits here. The question of the Dominion Government supplementing it was then discussed with the following result:

It is proposed to enlist the men in the Canadian Navy Volunteer. Reserve, giving them Canadian pay, and then to place them at the disposal of the Admiralty. No officers will be enlisted.

Prices Worry The Printers

Fear Thousands Will Lose Jobs Through Advance of Paper

BALTIMORE, M., Aug. 17.—The danger that thousands of printers may be thrown out of work because of the high cost of white paper was said to be a question seriously concerning the delegates to the sixty-second annual convention of the International Typographical Union, which opened here.

John W. Hayes, secretary and treasurer of the union, said the alarming shortage of print paper is making it difficult for many newspaper corporations to continue business. In some cities, he said, there was talk of consolidating plants to reduce working forces and expenses.

That the union probably will decide to co-operate in a Federal investigation to determine whether there is a conspiracy among paper manufacturers was the belief expressed by union leaders.

BRITAIN MUST AVENGE THE FRYATT MURDER

Premier Aspuith Expresses the Determination of the People

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Replying to a question in the House of Commons today, Premier Asquith said the Government was determined that "this country will not tolerate a resumption of diplomatic relations with Germany after the war until reparation is made for the murder of Captain Fryatt.

"Some of our allies," continued the Premier, "have suffered by brutalities even more gross and on a more extended scale than ourselves by action of the German authorities. We are in consultation with them as to the best, most effective steps to be taken, and as to what conditions should be expect in the terms of peace to secure reparation that will satisfy justice."

A member asked if the Government was "prepared to make a statement that Emperor William is wanted for wilful murder in this case." No answer was returned to this.

BERLIN MAY DEMAND RECALL OF U. S. ENVOY

ROTTERDAM, Aug. 18.—Special—Germany is seriously considering the advisability of asking for the recall of United States Ambassador James W. Gerard, according to reports in diplomatic circles here. Mr Gerard's approval of the British censorship and his criticisms of Germany are said to have displeased the German Government.

LOSSES UNPARALLELED

Canadian Press Special

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—A cable to the Sun says Epich von Saltzmann, military critic of Vossische Zeitung, makes the following remarkable admission regarding the Somme battle: "We can admit without hesitation that a certain regiment came out of this fighting with total of losses hitherto unknown in the history of war.

CLEARING THE ENEMY IN GERMAN EAST AFRICA

Ring Around The Defending Forces is Being Drawn Closer, Gen. Smuts Reports Station of Bagamojo Occupied by Naval Forces

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Special—The ring around the forces defending German East Africa is being drawn closer. An official statement received yesterday from Gen. Smuts, commander of the British forces in German East Africa, reports that the British have cleared the difficult hilly country and captured several important positions, being separated from the Central Railway by only 25 miles of open country.

The statement follows: "Gen. Smuts reports that on Tuesday our forces, advancing from the Ngura Mountains, after overcoming slight opposition, reached the junction of the principal tracks leading to Mrogora and Kilossa. Our columns are now clear of the difficult hilly country, and in this direction are separated from the Central Railway by only 25 miles of open steppe.

"Further west, Lieut.-Col. Vandeventer, having occupied Tpapula, is moving toward Kilossa.

"On Tuesday the important town and military coastal station of Bagamojo, 36 miles north of Dar-es-Salaam, was occupied by naval forces. A naval 4.1 inch gun was captured."

REBUILDING NEXT WEEK

Mr. Fred Dane, the northern loan commissioner, has made arrangements to open four distributing stations for lumber and building supplies for the settlers and will go north next week to take charge of the work. The stations will be at Cochrane, Porquis Junction, Monteith and Matheson, and the settlers will be ableto secure supplies for rebuilding, as loans against their farms.

WOODSTOCK MAN DIES AT THE AGE OF 102

Maurice Egan Was The First Roman Catholic Resident of Oxford County

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Aug. 17.—Maurice Egan died here early yesterday morning in his 102nd year. He was born in Ireland March 14, 1815, and came with his parents to Canada when a mere lad. He was the first Roman Catholic resident of Oxford County and was instrumental in building the first Roman Catholic Church here. He spent most of his life in Woodstock, but lived in Toronto for a time many years ago.

TAXIDERMIST BITTEN WHILE SHOWING SNAKES

PITTSBURG, Aug. 17.—Bitten on the hand while showing a den of rattlesnakes to a class of students from the University of Pittsburg yesterday, Gustav Link, for nineteen years taxidermist at Carnegie Institute here, died here to-day. Link concealed the fact that he had been bitten until after the class had left his room, when he told his assistants. He was hurried to a hospital, and there being no serum in the city to counteract the poison two tubes were ordered from New York. It did not arrive until Link was dying.

TRENCHES FULL OF HUN DEAD

Attacks by Enemy Repulsed—Allies Extend Their Lines

Canadian Press Special.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—German artillery became more active last night along the Somme front. A small British gain is reported in the official announcement of to-day, which says, "Last night the enemy's artillery generally showed increased activity. To the northwest of Bazentin Lepetit by small local tactics, we further extended our gains in the lines. German trenches in this area were found to be greatly damaged and full of the enemy's dead. A further hostile attack from Martinpuich last night was repulsed as completely as were the former attempts yesterday.

LARGE GRAIN SHIPMENTS

Intelligencer Special.

MONTREAL, Aug. 18.—The enormous increase of grain yield last year over 1914, is shown by shipment over the Canadian Pacific Railway from September, 1914, to last September. Shipments from Alberta totalled sixteen million, eight hundred and nineteen thousand. From last September to the 1st of August this year. This shows nearly five times the amount of grain shipped over the C.P.R. from the Province this year, estimate of nearly two hundred cars a day now being shipped out over the Canadian Pacific.

DAMAGE BY EARTHQUAKE

Four Killed and Thirty Injured at Rimini.

ROME, Aug. 17.—The chief damage resulting from the earthquake which shook dozens of cities and towns in Central Italy yesterday morning was at Rimini, where four persons are dead and thirty injured. The military and civil authorities are caring for the injured and homeless.

The earthquake caused a panic among the population of many of the central cities and villages.

BELGIAN FORCES ACTIVE IN GERMAN E. AFRICA

Canadian Press Special

HAVRE, Aug. 18.—An official Belgian announcement says a brigade of Belgian troops have captured the port of Karema on the eastern bank of Lake Tanganyika, German East Africa.

RUSSIANS ARE MOVING FORWARD SUCCESSES GENERAL IN THE EAST

Canadian Press Special

PETROGRAD, Aug. 18.—The Austro-German effort to throw back the Russians in Galicia has resulted in great losses, and met with no success, the War Office announced to-day. The Russians have pressed forward in several sectors.

On the front from Zlota Lipa, west of Podhaytz, the enemy resumed the offensive with considerably heavier forces, without success. The enemy sustained great losses. On the River Bystritza Solotvina we occupied Lysiets, seven miles southwest of Stanislau, on the western bank of the river. In the direction of Ardzeluz our troops occupied a series of heights. In the region of Korosmezo (Carpathians) our troops, continuing their advance, approached the summits of the mountain in the vicinity of Korosmezo.

On the Caucasian front the Turkish offensive in the region west of Lake Van was repulsed easily by our troops. In Persia, in the region of Kala Pasova, encounters took place with considerable Turkish forces.

CALLED BY DEATH

CLARA L. BROWN

Many friends this morning learned with regret of a most popular young lady of this city, Miss Clara L. Brown, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Brown of this city. The deceased young lady was born in this city, and received her education in the local Public and High Schools, taking up the profession of school teacher. For the last five years she was engaged as a teacher in the Berlin Public Schools, but owing to ill health was compelled to relinquish her duties. Those left to mourn her loss are her parents, and two sisters, Mrs. F. J. MacKay of High River, Alta., and Mrs. J. A. Jervis, of Ottawa, Ont. The Intelligencer extends deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

"WHY WOMEN CANNOT SLEEP."

The highly organized, finely strung nervous system of women subjects them to terrors of nervous apprehension which no man can ever appreciate.

The peace of mind, the mental poise and calmness under difficulties, which are necessary for happy womanhood, are only possible when the sensitive organism is in a perfectly healthy condition. If there be any derangement in this respect no remedy in the world so completely restores womanly health as the wonderful "Favorite Prescription" invented by Dr. R. V. Pierce.

Chatham, Ont.—"A few years ago I suffered a general break-down and got very weak and thin. I was in an awful state. I was very much discouraged and at times thought I would lose my mind. I knew of Dr. Pierce's medicines so I got his 'Favorite Prescription.' It gave me immediate relief, and completely cured me in a very short time. My sister used it with good results also. She was in a very delicate condition. I got her to take it and two bottles cured her completely.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Pierce's medicines; they are all that is recommended of them."—MRS. MARGARET BRYANT, 87 Park Ave., Chatham, Ont.

MR. C. W. TURNER SUDDENLY PASSES AWAY

Was Native of Belleville and Well Known Throughout Hastings County

Residents of the town of Campbellford were shocked on Tuesday afternoon to learn of the death of Mr. C. W. Turner at Trent River, where the family had been camping for a couple of weeks.

Mr. Turner was up as usual on Tuesday morning and, with his son, Eric, went out fishing. About 9 o'clock he was taken suddenly ill while in the boat and was removed as soon as possible to the cottage. Medical aid was summoned, but all efforts to assist the patient were unavailing and he passed away early in the afternoon.

Deceased was born in Belleville in 1858. He came to Campbellford with his father, the late J. B. Turner, in 1878, when they entered the hardware business. Some years later he took over the business himself and in 1898 he sold to Messrs. Morton & Owen. Since that time he lived a life of retirement.

Mr. Turner was for many years an official of the Quarterly and Trustee Boards and for some time was Treasurer of the Methodist church. He also very ably filled the position of choir leader of the church for a long time. He was a generous supporter of all good objects and was possessed of a genial nature.

The late Mr. Turner was twice married, his first wife being a daughter of the late Rev. Arthur Browning. From this marriage one son, Harry, a missionary in South America, and two daughters, Miss Lily of Norwood, and Miss Nellie at home, survive. About twenty years ago he married Miss Huycke, who, with a son, Eric, and a little daughter, Cherrie, survives.

Much sympathy is felt for the family in their sudden bereavement.

FORESTERS IN ANNUAL SESSION AT KINGSTON

Committee Makes Recommendation to Convention — Would Have Gatherings Every Two Years — Reduction in Liens For Securing New Members Was Proposed

(From Kingston Whig)

The second session of the High Court of Eastern Ontario I.O.F. was opened Tuesday afternoon by H. C. R. Farrington. The roll was called, and all the officers were present.

Bro. Willoughby, chairman of the committee on constitution and laws, reported that they were convinced that the rates as adjusted were sufficient to place the Order on a safe basis, and that part of the constitution would not require any further amendment.

The committee agreed with H. C. Ranger's suggestion that sessions be held oftener, and recommend that they be held every two years instead of three. The committee also recommended that the constitution governing initiation be strictly enforced.

The report was considered clause by clause. The clause referring to the holding of biennial sessions instead of triennial was referred to the finance committee, and the report was adopted.

Bro. G. E. Bayley, High Secretary of State of New York, was presented by Dr. Clark.

The committee on new business recommended that the Supreme Court continue to pay $5 per $1,000 and the veteran Foresters $10 in reduction of lien on their policies for each new member they bring in. The committee also recommended the appointment of an enthusiastic Forester in localities where court meetings are neglected, to stimulate the courts in holding their meetings regularly and assist in holding the members.

HELPING ENLISTED FORESTERS

The Companions added to this report that the different courts were progressing and stated that they were assisting the Foresters who had gone to the war.

Dr. C. D. Clark, Assistant Supreme Physician, was called upon to address the court. He gave a lengthy address, touching upon the general state of the Order, and quoted interesting figures, showing the number of Foresters who had enlisted, the number who were killed, the amount paid for death claims, disability, etc. He also explained the reduction of liens on policies, and urged upon members the bringing in of new members now that confidence was restored in the Order, and which was worth one hundred cents on the dollar.

EVENING SESSION

At the Wednesday evening session Bro. Hayley, Supreme Auditor and High Secretary of State of New York was introduced and addressed the convention, giving a brief history of the work and standing of the Order. He explained very fully the operations of the Rainbow Lake and California sanitariums for tubercular Foresters, and declared that no other institution could or would offer such advantages to its members. He also dwelt on the orphans' home and the care of deceased members' children at their home.

CONVENTION CONCLUDES

The concluding session of the convention of the Easten Ontario High Court, Independent Order of Foresters, was held Wednesday morning. An invitation from Peterboro to hold the next triennial convention there was accepted.

The committee on Constitutions and Laws had recommended that the conventions be held every two years instead of three, as at present, but the Finance Committee, to whom the matter was referred, advised against making any change, and this advice was adopted by the convention.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The election of officers resulted as follows: High Chief Ranger, J. S. Eagleson, Ottawa; Past High Chief Ranger, G. M. Farrington, Picton; Vice Chief Ranger, R. S. Graham, Kingston; High Secretary, G. L. Dickinson, Manotick; High Treasurer, J. S. R. McCann, Kingston; High Physician, Dr. Baskin, Ottawa; High Counsellor, A. L. Smith, Cornwall; High Auditors, T. Lambert, Kingston and J. W. McElroy, Ottawa.

The only contest was for the office of High Physician, Dr. Crain, the retiring official, and Dr. Baskin being the candidates, the latter winning out

HONORARIUM REDUCED

The annual honorarium of $200 voted to the High Chief Ranger was reduced to $100 and the sum of $120 allowed for office rent was struck out.

The financial statement showed a surplus of $1,200 after all the expenses had been met.

A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring High Chief Ranger, Mr. Farrington, for his valuable services to the order. Mr. Farrington made a suitable reply.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Dr. Clark representing the Supreme Chief Ranger, asked Bro. Baley to assist him in installing the new officers, who included the following appointed by the High Chief Ranger:

High Orator, E. B. Vandusen, Smith's Falls; High Secretary, J. W. McElroy, Ottawa; High Organist, Comp. Eva Clelland, South Mountain; H. S. W., D. H. McDairmid, Avonmore; H. J. W., J. A. Ethier, Ottawa; H. S. B., M. B. Kennedy, Perth; H. J. B., R. Carruth, Renfrew; H. M., W. H. Bishop, Ottawa; H. Con. W. G. Brown, Ottawa; H. Mess.; Evan Jones, Picton.

The new H. C. Ranger, Bro. Eagleson, then addressed the new officers and the members of High Court. He tendered thanks for the honor conferred upon him and asked the good will and assistance of the officers and hoped that the next term would prove a success.

MOTHER LOST HOLD CHILD WAS DROWNED

In Fright at Fire in Launch She Jumped Into River

SARNIA, Aug. 18.—Special—The five-months old baby of Mr. and Mrs. George Clydesdale of Froomefield was drowned in the St. Clair River last night when their launch caught fire as a result of an explosion from the exhaust. The Clydesdales had driven up to an Indian reserve, where the husband, who is a farmer, had some business to transact. While he was in the house of one of the Indians, the wife continued to drive the launch up and down the river. When the explosion occurred Mrs. Clydesdale jumped into the river with her baby, but in her battle for life lost her hold on the child, which sank. The husband succeeded in getting the wife to safety, while the launch, which was not seriously damaged, drifted farther down the river.

SPECIAL FISH TRAIN WEEKLY TO MONTREAL

Government Will Establish one Leaving Canso, N. S., Every Monday

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 17.—The Department of Marine and Fisheries has arranged for a special fish car to leave Mulgrave, N.S. for Montreal every Monday. It will load with fish from Canso and Halifax. This is a regular express car divided in two, one half insulated to carry six thousand pounds of iced fish and the other half to serve the regular fish business. Carrying fish in the ordinary express car has been very unsatisfactory and this experiment has been arranged. This car will give special accommodation to points west of Montreal.

The wonder is, that this was done long ago.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McCill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE
BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

The clerks were aghast, speechless, nervous, and at times unable to work at all. Suddenly one of them cried:

"What's the matter with Miss Bolton? Look out—catch her, Ashley! She's fainting!"

The warning came too late—the girl had slipped from her stool with eyes rolling, and collapsed in a heap on the office floor.

"Bring water!" Ashley shouted, bending over her. "She's ill, and must be sent home. One of you call a cab."

Janet had found a way.

"I feel dreadfully ill," she moaned, when they had revived her. "It must be the excitement. I have been out of sorts for days. A cab—yes! But I will return later—if possible."

Yes, Janet had found the way.

At one o'clock that day, entering the Hotel Royal on a mission presently to appear, Nick Carter saw a young woman hurriedly departing, having come from the side corridor in which the elevators were located. He saw her face plainly—as plainly as he had seen the photograph on the mantel in Fenno's private office.

No ordinary circumstance, or rather, the full significance of it, could stagger Nick Carter. Yet, when he beheld this woman, the steel-nerved detective reeled as if suddenly dealt a blow with is heart momentarily shaking and his cheeks turned strangely white.

"Good God!" he mentally exclaimed, staring after her as she hurried down the vestibule steps and passed into the sunlit street. "That girl here! I'll swear that's the face I saw in the photograph on Fenno's mantel. His private stenographer, eh?" A rat in the meal tub, rather! That's what—a rat in the meal tub!"

No layman unfamiliar with the subleties of fine detective work could appreciate what this simple incident meant to Nick Carter, what a shock it had given him, what disaster he saw confronting him.

CHAPTER XX
The Apple of Discord

In attempting to clinch with absolute evidence the several theories he had formed, based almost entirely upon the only rational deductions he could make from the circumstantial evidence he had discovered, Nick Carter made several important moves before his arrival at the Hotel Royal, just in time to see Janet Bolton emerge.

No man could have appreciated more keenly the strenuous need of haste. The battle in the stock market, the imperiled millions Fenno was flinging into the fight at his command, the fact that his own ability and judgment were on trial—one of the most momentous trials of his long experience—the possibility that the slightest error might prove disastrous, that the least needless delay might enable those he suspected to make some move, or obtain some advantage, that would culminate in his own abject and irretrievable failure—no man could have appreciated these more keenly than Nick Carter, nor have realized more forcibly the imperative need of haste.

Emerging from Fenno's office at quarter of ten that morning, Nick sprang into the auto cab which he was retaining for his various missions, and twenty minutes later he alighted at an imposing Fifth Avenue residence and rang the bell.

The door was opened by a staid old butler.

"Is Miss Annie Elmore at home?" Nick inquired.

"Yes, sir." The butler bowed sedately and invited Nick into the reception hall. "I will take her your card, sir."

"She does not know me by name. You may say that a friend of Mr. Fenno wishes to see her."

"Very well, sir."

Nick had not long to wait. Hurried steps, the rustle of skirts, a momentary shadow in the sunlit hall—these were quickly followed by the entrance of Annie Elmore, a tall, light-complexioned girl of remarkable loveliness, hardly out of her teens, whose pretty face evinced not only her culture and lofty character, but also an affectionate and exceedingly lovable nature. She appeared pale and nervous when she entered, however, and Nick at once arose, saying kindly:

"Miss Elmore?"

One glance at her graceful figure had convinced him that this was the girl who had fainted, who had fled from the scene of the Packard murder—the girl in navy blue.

"Yes, sir." Miss Elmore spoke tremulously, with nervous earnestness, regarding him inquiringly. "You are a friend of Mr. Fenno, I am told?"

"Yes, a friend in need," bowed Nick, smiling. "You know of the circumstances in which he is involved?"

"Alas, yes! I am dreadfully anxious. He has tried to reassure me, but——"

"Have you seen him since the murder?"

"No. He telephoned to me, saying he could not possibly call at present. His business just now——"

"Requires every moment of his time," Nick put in, still smiling. "I understand perfectly, Miss Elmore. I am trying to assist him."

"You, sir?"

"He has great faith in me, by the way, and I imagine that you will be glad to aid me. I have called in order that you may do so."

"That I may do so?" Miss Elmore looked awed, puzzled, and apprehensive. "Aid you, sir?"

"Exactly."

"In what way?"

"By telling me all about the lady from whom you parted in the office of the Hotel Royal fifteen minutes before the murder of Judge Packard, also why you were in the corridor adjoining the scene of the crime, and why you fled so hurriedly after reviving from your faint. I think I already know, yet your confirmation of my belief will preclude any possibility of error."

Miss Elmore swayed a little and grew pale while he was speaking. She seemed impelled to interrupt him, to deny what he alleged, but she restrained herself and heard him to a finish.

"What do you mean, sir?" she demanded. "You assume too much, when you make such assertions."

"On the contrary, Miss Elmore, you are very anxious to give me the information I desire."

"I, sir! How dare you say such a thing?"

"Because you can have no other reason for wishing to see me."

"Wishing to see you?"

"Precisely."

"Impossible! You are a total stranger. Are you mad, Mr.——"

"Carter—Nicholas Carter." smiled Nick. "Pardon so tardy an introduction, Miss Elmore."

The change that came over her was startling. She echoed his name with a gasp of surprise, a low cry of relief, then impulsively ran to the door and closed it. When she turned back her cheeks were aglow, her eyes shining.

Oh, Mr. Carter," she cried feelingly. 'I have been so anxious to see you. I have telephoned repeatedly to your office."

"I know it, Miss Elmore."

"You do?"

"That's partly why I came here."

"You know it? How can that be? I gave no name or address."

"Very true," smiled Nick. "But my assistant knew the voice was that of a young lady, and you are the only lady who, under the existing circumstances, could be so exceedingly anxious to see me. I have a faculty of putting this and that together, Miss Elmore, and drawing correct conclusions."

"Did Mr. Fenno send you here?" she apprehensively asked.

"No. He does not know of my visit."

"Yet you say you are in his service?"

"Very true," Nick admitted. "I have an idea, however, that you have information which, for some reason, you do not wish to impart to him, but desire very much to confide to me. Hence, I did not tell him I was coming here."

"Dear me, Mr. Carter, that was very good of you," said Miss Elmore, coloring with confusion. "Indeed, sir, one could keep no secrets from you."

"I see I am right."

"I will not deny it, sir."

"I hope you will do something more, and with as little delay as possible," said Nick, more gravely. "I can now give you only ten minutes, for I am working against time for Mr. Fenno this morning. His fortune, possibly his life, may depend upon my immediate efforts. Tell me briefly and frankly, Miss Elmore, why you want to see me?"

"I will do so," she replied, with intense earnestness. "I did not know you were in Mr. Fenno's service, Detective Carter, and I wanted to employ you in his behalf at my own expense, and to confide something to you which I am averse to telling him, except as a last resort. I felt that I must engage the best detective in the city, Mr. Carter, one in whom I could safely confined, and I know you by reputation."

"I shall be governed by your wishes, Miss Elmore, as far as possible," Nick bowed. "Now, what can you tell me?"

The first few applications stopped the burning. Gradually the inflammation was drawn out, and before long the sores began to heal. AYLESWORTH ON PROHIBITION

Sir Allen Aylesworth, Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Minister of Justice described himself as "a dyed-in-the-"wool, hard-shelled, crusty old "Liberal," and as such was opposed to Prohibition, and declared:

> That anybody who drank to excess had only himself to blame and that he would be punished in time just as a boy would who ate too many green apples. He did not think that the Legislature should have the power to frame a measure telling a man what he should drink. People should not be sent to jail because they drank liquor; they might as well be imprisoned for not regularly attending church.
> That might have done well 300 years ago; that might do in Germany; that might do for the Conservatives, but it would not do for the Liberals. When he thought of it, his blood rose. How dare anybody tell him that he must not do what he wished to. It was not a Liberal principle that one man should be dictated to by his neighbors.
> "There was too much legislation these days," said Sir Allen, "such as legislation for selling cigarettes to a boy; legislation governing horse-racing; legislation over the consumption of liquor, etc."

How does all this tally with the declaration of the Globe that Prohibition is the principal plank in the Liberal platform? The truth is, all this agitation is for power. Liberals were in office for about thirty years and did nothing.

THE PRESIDENT TO DICTATE

The railroad men in the United States appear to be at a standstill as regards a strike. In reality there will be no strike. Both the railroads and the labor unions have laid their cause before the President of the United States, and the case is no longer between the roads and the men, but between them both and the public. The President, embodying the authority of the entire nation, has undertaken to see that justice is done to both the railroads and the unions without the sacrifice of the public interest. In that capacity his word will be supreme. It is as unthinkable that either side should refuse to obey the President's mandate as that either party to litigation should refuse to obey the decree of the Supreme Court of the United States. Not to accept would be to defy all constituted authority. Neither capital nor labor in this controversy will do that.

The President is not merely a mediator. As such he may fail, but at the point at which he fails as mediator he steps into authority, which is superior to both capital, represented by the railroads, and labor, represented by the brotherhoods. Acting for the public, he will prescribe the manner in which these two, if they cannot compose their differences, shall at least work together because the public interest is not overridden, if either side were disposed to override it. Knowledge of this will keep either side and both from committing the supreme folly of refusing to hear the President when he speaks in the interest of and with all the authority of the nation.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, acting minister of education, speaking at a south-west Toronto meeting on Wednesday night, said the bilingual question was the one great issue of the campaign. The French people to the east were swarming over Ontario's borders, and French-speaking teachers had been in control of the schools. He had "sniffed the atmosphere," and in 1911 suggested a resolution in the Legislature requiring English to be the language of instruction and communication. From that time the minister detailed the steps taken, the investigation of Dr Merchant and the adoption of regulation 17. The Government, he said, had been "slandered all over Quebec." He had offered to discuss the situation in Ottawa, but had "never found a Frenhman get on the platform and discuss the situation fairly, for they have no case at all."

Montreal Gazette: Vancouver bakers have met the dearer flour situation by making the loaf of bread two ounces smaller, while maintaining the old price. The fact recalls some former reductions in the size of popular comestibles. The one-cent bun of to-day is about half the size of its ancestor, a fate which its brother, the doughnut, has shared. The mutton pie, which used to be a meal, is now but a bite in comparison. And where is the molasses hand that retailed at two for a cent? It would seem that the size of things to eat decreases while the population increases. If Canada ever has fifteen million people the bakers may be delivering little turnover rolls instead of loaves of bread.

When the war broke out many Americans were caught in Europe and a goodly number were soon in desperate straits. The United States Government appropriated $2,750,000 for their repatriation, most of which was used. It is now announced that about 70 per cent. of the rescued have reimbursed the public treasury. The rest are to be sued for the debt, which is in the nature of an honorable one. Perhaps some are not in a position to pay, but it is quite probable that most of the shirkers are of the class that does not regard it as a crime to get ahead of the Government.

HARD AT WORK.

Engineers Are Busy Putting in Big Harbor Improvements.

To-day Lower Halifax presents a scene of strangely incongruous activity, as a result of her new harbor work. Back of the city steam shovels and drills are cutting a young Culebra through the virgin woods of the Northwest Arm and the dump trains are rattling back and forth to the made ground of the freight yard just under the guns of the Inflexible or Sydney, or whichever of the cruisers is now hanging off the Ambrose Light. Down on the point one of the largest locomotive cranes ever built is shifting from casting board to storage stack block after block of concrete, each one heavier than the heaviest interurban street car, while little trains run back and forth loaded with full or empty buckets en route from concrete mixer to moulds.

Off shore two huge drill boats continually bite their teeth into the rock, making way for the blasts and the jaws of two dipper dredges, and behind them both the tilted chimney of the big diving bell lifts out of the water bubbling with the escape from the air chamber fifty feet below, where the sand hogs are leveling up the rock building the little concrete posts on which the big blocks rest.

To an engineer it is a most engrossing sight because it is so rarely that all of the operations of a seven-million dollar job are in view at once; a layman would probably not think so much of it until he learned to what purpose the work is directed.

Aside from local considerations, the Halifax terminal as a problem in transportation economics is not easily analyzed. Against its success two things will work—the long railway haul to reach its docks, and the possibility that the prevailing fogs will so cloud the entrance as to discourage big shipping. In answer to the first objection its advocates admit that for grain Montreal will continue to have the call in summer, and the New England ports in winter, but for bulk goods and for express and passenger service, Halifax is sufficiently superior to maintain a prosperous existence. Terminal charges on bulk freight loom much larger than carriage charges; in fact, it costs just about as much to tranship a ton of freight through an inadequate terminal as to transport it 1,000 miles over a modern railroad. In this respect Halifax will be manifestly superior to its competitors, for the design of the terminals is such as to reduce terminal charges to the lowest possible figure.

One point is worth mentioning. An important factor governing the adoption of the Halifax scheme was the assumption that the whole trend of ocean-freight carriage is toward the huge, deep-draught liner, which cannot navigate such a river as the St. Lawrence. The saving in ocean freight charges of such a vessel docking at Halifax is expected to more than counterbalance the extra charge of rail handling. And the attractiveness of the Halifax facilities is hoped to draw to it not only new vessels of this type, but also to make it a port of call for the Europe-New York route, which now monopolizes the steamer of over thirty-five-foot draught.

Settled.

"What profession do you think your boy Josh will choose?"

MUSIC AND DRAMA

STAR OF THE TURMOIL HAS BROTHER AT FRONT

VALLI VALLI COMES FROM OLD AND ARISTOCRATIC FAMILY

Valli Valli, the gifted and versatile artiste of screen and stage, who is starred in the five-part wonderplay, "The Turmoil," which is being exhibited at Griffin's Opera House, To-night, and Saturday matinee and night was chosen for the role of Mary Vertrees because of her aristocratic bearing, for Miss Valli is an aristocrat to her finger tips. While she comes from an old English family, she has lived in America long enough to catch the true American spirit, which she so pleasingly portrays in her characterization of Mary Vertrees. One of Miss Valli's brothers is a captain in the Royal Fusiliers, now fighting at the front in France.

"The Turmoil," is a picturization of the novel of the same name by Booth Tarrington, America's foremost living writer. The picture is produced on an elaborate scale, and the charming atmosphere of the book is retained. George Le Guere, the noted juvenile actor, is appearing in support of Miss Valli. In addition to the above offering, Pathe's Gazette which includes a review of all the important English and European events, and a highly amusing lonesome Luke comedy.

DR. EMBURY HOME AGAIN

After a year spent on the battlefields of France, Dr. Embury, accompanied by Mrs. Embury, who went to Ottawa to meet him, arrived at Bancroft on Monday, and was accorded a most enthusiastic reception by the citizens when he stepped off the train. Business was suspended for the time being, and scores of his old friends crowded the platform to shake his hand and express their pleasure at seeing him safe home again.

The doctor, who was attached to the R.A.M.C., is looking the picture of health, and dodging "Jack Johnson's" and "whizz bangs" does not appear to have affected his nerve to any great extent. He spent some time in the immediate vicinity of the trenches but later on was placed in charge of a brigade of artillery, where the element of danger was not so great. However, he had some close calls, but fortunately escaped without a scratch.

He is just now taking a much-needed rest with his family at Trout Lake, and has not yet decided whether or not he will return to the front.

LOOKS LIKE INCENDIARISM

A barn on the farm of Mrs. Dave McDonald, on the town line, was destroyed by fire on Monday night. Mrs. McDonald has had a good deal of trouble lately with berry pickers coming onto her premises although forbidden to do so, and she had some of the offenders in the police court recently. Her cattle have been mutilated, she says, and one partly threatened to burn her buildings. It looks like a matter that should be investigated by the Provincial police.—Bancroft Times.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

156TH PRESENTED WITH COLORS

Made Trip to Brockville on Steamer America—Given a Warm Reception.

At 5 o'clock on Thursday morning, the 156th Battalion paraded for the purpose of proceeding to Brockville, where colors were presented. The whole battalion embarked at the King's wharf, Royal Military College, and arrived at Brockville shortly after eleven o'cock. After disembarking the battalion was formed up in column of route, and marched to the Court House Square, where a civic address of welcome was read by Mayor G. A. Wright. Following the address, the battalion marched through the city streets, which were thronged with cheering people, to the fair grounds, where the midday meal was served to the men.

After having a sumptuous meal, the men were allowed to rest for a short time, and at 2 o'clock formed up in battalion mass. The presentation was then made by the Daughters of the Empire, and many compliments were made on the manly and soldierly appearance of the men, while they were on parade. Shortly after 3 o'clock the ceremonies were completed and the battalion was dismissed until 7.30, when they would fall in at the Market Square and after marching through the streets will embark at 8 o'clock. It is expected that the battalion will arrive back in the city after midnight tonight.

The problem of Reeve Fennell's game was played between a picked team from the battalion and the senior baseball team in Brockville.

The following was the detail for the color party in the presentation: Lieut. K. C. Rowe, Lieut. G. D. Woodcock, Sergt.-Major A. N. Clark, C. S. M., C. H. Fox, C. S. M. Claxton, and and C.S.M., G. C. O'Srea.

NIGHT TRENCH WORK

It is now being planned to have a company of men occupy the trenches at the camp for a night so that they may become accustomed to what will be their lot after reaching the fighting line.

The night will be filled by action from an opposing force in the opposite line of trenches, and with blank cartridges should certainly be interesting.

"B" Company of the 155th are on the gallery ranges under Captain Swaine.

A most successful corn roast was held at Major R. D. Ponton's cottage on the river front Monday evening.

The promotion of Brig.-Gen. Hemming dates from the 24th of May last, the official announcement states.

Lieut. Biggar, A.S.C., Supply Officer, left on Wednesday night for Brantford, and will be succeeded temporarily by Lieut. Steacy.

Lieut. Brown of the 156th battalion, has been detailed to take command of the base company, vice Lieut. Kincaid.

Whitewash is being used lavishly in camp to make a better appearance and add to the sanitary conditions.

The Salvation Army Women's Band gave a most enjoyable concert in the 156th Battalion tent on Wednesday evening.

Lieut.-Col. M. K. Adams, commanding the 155th Battalion, and son, Lieut. E. A. Adams, who have been in Picton, arrived back on Thursday morning.

The 154th are getting ready for their big day in Cornwall, when they will receive their colors. The battalion will be given a good work-out every afternoon until the 23rd.

Lieut. C. T. D. Bedell, commanding the 156th Battalion, is an enthusiastic golf-player, and still holds several championships. He has challenged Capt. Norwell to decide the champion for the opening series.

The many friends of Capt. J. V. Doyle, Quartermaster of the 155th Battalion, will regret to learn that he has had to have a minor operation at the hospital as a result of a recent accident in which he was thrown from his horse.

Wednesday evening a most delightful concert was given in the Y.M.C.A. tent when Miss Phyllis Devlin, Miss Frances Devlin, Miss D. Craig, Mrs. Dodds, Miss A. Sutherland and others took part. Mr. Mains of the "Y" staff occupied the chair.

Objection is being taken by soldiers at the camp to the habit of peddling through the camp grounds goods which are offered for sale in the battalion canteens. The goods sell for a higher price and instead of the profits going to the soldiers they go outside.

Escaped From Prison Farm

Dashing Young Artillery Officer a Fugitive From Justice

The police have been notified to be on the lookout for John E. Nolan, a dashing young artillery officer who visited in Brockville last winter for a time and then suddenly left town with jewelry valued at several thousand dollars, the property of his hostess, and who again emerged into the limelight by escaping from the Guelph Prison Farm. Nolan, after stealing the jewelry, went to Toronto, where he disposed of some of it, then took a train for Montreal, where he was arrested and brought back to Brockville. He was placed on trial and pleaded guilty, received a sentence of 18 months in the Central Prison.

Circulars and photographs have been sent to the police in all parts of Canada in an effort to apprehend the fugitive.

Nolan is a young man of 20, of respectable parentage in England, is nice-looking, and has had every opportunity to make good, but for an unfortunate tendency toward criminality, which has been his undoing.

ESTABLISHED A FISHING RECORD

Mr. J. Harry Sager of Rochester, who with his wife and daughter are staying at Roblin's Cove, Prince Edward county, has established some record as a fisherman.

Last week Mr. Sager captured a masculunge weighing 16 lbs. But this was only a beginning, for on Monday of this week he caught one 42 inches long weighing 32 lbs. This only seemed to give Mr. Sager a real good start at the business, for on Tuesday he caught two, one weighing 10 and the other 20 lbs., and on Wednesday morning he kept up his record of the previous day by catching two more, but bigger fish, weighing respectively 13 and 26¼ lbs.

These fish were all brought to Picton and exhibited at Carter Bros., hardware store, where many of the citizens of the town had the opportunity of seeing them.

Mr. Sager also had them photographed and will thus be able to exhibit to his Rochester friends the evidences of his skill in landing these specimens of this splendid game fish which abound in the waters of the Bay of Quinte.

Mr. Sager is a former Hastings County boy, his early home being near the city of Belleville. He has been coming to the bay for the last four years. He is extremely fond of fishing and caught these lunge while trolling in a row boat with motor attached. He uses a copper spoon from which he says he gets best results.

Reeve Resigns Cheques Unsigned

Havelock Finally Decides to Consult Solicitor in Regard to Town Affairs

(Havelock Standard)

The problem o fReeve Fennell's resignation again loomed largely on the horizon of the Council's troubles, and in an endeavour to break up the Council decided to do what they should have done at first—to consult a solicitor as to their action in the matter, and to hold another special meeting on Friday night.

In the meantime the finances of the village are held up. The Bank refuses to loan money without the Reeve's signature and there is no money wherewith to pay outstanding cheques.

That disinterested parties should suffer from all this turmoil is decidedly wrong. Reeve Fennell took the oath of office at the beginning of the year and he should, in duty bound, conduct the business of the town until his successor is appointed, and not refuse to exercise his powers of office to the extent he has. On the other hand the members of the Council have no business not to accept his resignation until their sense of dignity and pride is appeased. If they wish to protest against the tenor of the Reeve's letter of resignation they can do so, but they too, have no semblance of right to hold up the business of the village by refusing to accept the resignation. They, like the Reeve, are the servants of the people and should govern themselves as such.

The relatives and friends of Mr. Wesley and Joseph Weymark were invited to take part in a picnic given in their honor, to Long Point Thursday. Three motor boats owned by Mr. Wilfred and Sam Lamo conveyed the party down the bay. The gentlemen present went out fishing and returned with 16 bass, while the ladies laid the table and soon had a relishable dinner ready, as everybody went with full baskets. After cooking the fish they all stood around the festive board and sang grace in the good old-fashioned way. Mrs. John Lamo, of Oswego Co., was of the party. Everybody came home tired but declaring they hoped "Joe and Wess" would come back from the front, where they expect to go shortly, to enjoy as many such days.—Communicated.

CHOOSING UPWARD.

Consider Well Before You Open One of These Doors.

"All the beauty and wonder of life lie in the choice we make and all the tragedy too."

Every moment of our lives some choice confronts us, and we are called upon to use our judgment, our experience, our faith, our self confidence, in making our decision.

Going through life is like traveling down a long corridor which constantly presents closed doors on either side—alternate doors—one of which we must open and pass through, irrevocably. We cannot make use of both doors, nor can we retrace our steps, nor even reconsider our choice, once the latch has been lifted. We must abide by our decision. There are no exchanges. We must do our considering before we choose, not after. And the choice once made, whether for good or ill, for better or worse, we must pay the full price.

This is well expressed by an old Persian proverb: "'Take what you will,' said the gods to mortals, 'but pay for it.'" This world is like a great balance sheet, and the man has not been born who has found a way to tamper with the totals or to get around God. Life holds us inexorably to our accounting and carries out the final reckoning to the uttermost farthing.—From the Nautilus.

Quaint Coins.

Among the strangest coins in the world are those used in certain out-of-the-way towns and villages in South-West Algeria, on the West Coast of Africa, and called manilas. In shape they resemble a horseshoe, with the two extremities flattened out like a camel's foot. Being made of solid copper, ⅜in. thick, they weigh over 8oz. each. In "face value" seven of these queer coins are equivalent to one shilling, so that a crown's worth would be an uncomfortably heavy load!

Love will find a way, but it is more important to find something more substantial with which to pave the way.

SPORTING NEWS

THE TURF

There were several very tight fits at Hillcrest Park, Toronto, though the winners in the majority of the events had yards to spare at the finish. Perhaps it was as well this was so on one occasion when two horses came home practically dead-locked the judges gave the verdict to the wrong nag. At least that was the opinion of many of those in the immediate neighborhood of the wire and the disgruntled betters, who were deprived of a chance to augment their bank rolls as a result of the apparent error didn't hesitate to express their disapproval. They hurled such pet names as "robbers," "thieves," "burglars" and "bandits" at the judges and would no doubt have carried the matter much further but for the presence of several policemen. The trouble occurred in the third race. Uncle Dick won quite handily, but Tolson d'Or looked to have lasted long enough to hold the place from Palm Leaf. However when the numbers were displayed the latter was placed second and then there was a fuss.

BASEBALL

In a little over four weeks the International League campaign will come to a close. The indications at present are that the pennant fight will last right to the finish. Buffalo and Providence are now running one-two, but they are being closely pressed by Baltimore and Montreal and the Leafs are not so far in the rear that they cannot make the grade. Unless the Grays pick up in the next few days their chances will be considerably lessened as they finish on the road, while the Bisons and Royals, like the Leafs, wind up at home. The Grays come here on Monday for a series, and their games will have an important bearing upon the race.

Over twenty-five thousand spectators saw the Boston Red Sox raise the world's championship flag and also defeat the White Sox in two games Wednesday. The first went sixteen innings and Manager Carrigan used up nearly every member of his squad before he could down the White Sox by a score of 5 to 4. Fabre, Williams and Cicotte pitched for the White Sox, while Leonard, Mays and Shore worked for the Red Sox. In the second game, which was called at the end of the fifth, Boston led by a score of 2 to 1.

CHALLENGE CUP RACES PETER PAN VII. WINS THE FIRST RACE

ALEXANDRIA BAY, Aug. 17.—In the first day's races for the Thousand Island Yacht Club motor championship challenge cup Peter Pan VII. won the event. The races started at five o'clock yesterday over the twenty-nine mile course. P.D.Q. IV. was the first to go over the line. It made the first lap around the Thousand Island Yacht Club course at 5.17.18; the second lap at 5.34.50, the third lap at 5.50.07 3-5. P.D.Q. VI. was the second over the line.

Peter Pan made 5 points, Hawkeye 4, and P.D.Q. IV. 3. The water was very rough and was blowing down the course at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour, which made it very choppy at the time of start. Hawkeye's speed was 38.004 miles per hour. Peter Pan's speed, 46.8 miles per hour. The Hawkeye slowed down appreciably after the first lap.

AN ASTOUNDING FEAT

(Ottawa Free Press)

There is something for every Britisher to ponder seriously in the statement made in the Imperial House of Commons yesterday on Britain's munitions production by Hon. Edwin Montagu, Minister of Munitions. We have marvelled at Britain's ability to raise in two years the army of four million men that was mobilised by Kitchener. It was an accomplishment the like of which the world had never before seen. Britain did in two years what Germany spent half a century in doing. But even this great undertaking is little more marvelous than that which Britain has done in producing munitions of war. The production by industrial Britain of the necessities of war since the formation of the munitions ministry is truly astounding.

By herself, without help from outside, in her own factories, Britain in turning out all the rifles and machine guns for her armies—armies that total between four and five million men. So thoroughly is she doing this that the Minister of Munitions was able to announce that very soon Britain's own needs would be entirely filled and her machine gun factories would be able to devote themselves exclusively to the manufacture of guns for her allies. Already she is supplying large numbers of these guns and large quantities of ammunition for them to the army headquarters of the nations allied with her in the war—this in addition to sparing to France a third of her shell steel, and to the allies generally thirty million dollars worth of munitions metal monthy.

Other war implements, heavy guns and ammunition for them, are being produced in British factories at a rate never before attempted in any country. In four days as much howitzer munition is being produced as was produced in the whole of last year, while every month as many heavy guns leave British factories as were owned by Britain when the government organized the munitions department. How tremendous is this production may be gathered from the statement that, during the week preceding the beginning of the great offensive in July, as much ammunition was shot at the Germans as was produced during the first eleven months of the war.

In addition to supplying munitions for her own army of four million men, and supplying huge quantities to her allies, Britain has to keep up the supply for her navy. Hon. Mr. Montague declared that half the engineering resources of Britain were devoted to the needs of the navy. Her marvelous production for her own army and the armies of her allies therefore, is the work of half of her engineering resources.

Not even the raising of her great army in the period of two years surpasses in the grandeur of accomplishment the manner in which the industrial resources of Britain have been turned to war work in about one year. One can only marvel at this ability of the nation to turn its whole efforts to the one cause.

British statesmen have declared that there was not the slightest possibility of defeat for Britain in the war if only she devoted her whole strength and energy to the one task. Britain has done this. Men of allied countries have declared that with Britain in the war, Germany could not win. What Britain is doing now demonstrates the truth of that statement. Germany began the war two years ago in the belief that Britain would not and could not fight, that she would not have to be contended with. Now, Britain has sent to face her an army of four million men and she is supplying that army with munitions at a rate that permits of its using as much ammunition against German troops in one week as Britain produced in eleven months after the commencement of the war.

The greatest mistake the Kaiser has ever made was that of counting Britain out of the war when he began it. His fifty years of preparation for world conquest is made futile by what Britain has done in two years.

CARVING UP THE TEUTONIC GOOSE

(From the New York Evening Post)

The treaty recently entered into by which England and Russia settle all questions outstanding between them with regard to Persia is only one of the insurance policies written recently by the entente powers to provide against mutual dissension at the ultimate peace conference. The entente powers want to present a united front when the end comes, so they are very wisely carving up the Teutonic goose now, even if they are not sure, as yet, that it will shortly be done to a turn. If all points of difference are settled beforehand, Germany will have no opportunity at any future time to take advantages of mutual suspicions and jealousies, upon which it is perfectly plain she has already been figuring, with what mockery she greeted the announcement in the Duma that Russia was to have the Dardanelles with England's free consent, and with what delight hailed the Russo-Japanese treaty as a slap at the Anglo-Japanese alliance! And now comes Russia quite willing to complete the international ring-around-the-rosie of goodwill. No doubt France has a pretty good understanding with England as to the division of Germany's African colonies, and Italy by now must know exactly what she is to expect in the way of expansion on her northern frontier. It looks, very much as if the entente nations were waging a preparedness campaign in the direction of mutual good understanding that would leave the central powers face to face with a stone wall of unity on the other side of the conference table.

Abentminded Lord Derby.

Lord Derby could be very absentminded, and once on a time be walked with Lord Clarendon, his opponent, and told him all the secrets of the cabinet. Lord Clarendon listened amazed, but thought it too large an order when he was asked for his advice. It was not for him to counsel his political foes. At this intimation Lord Derby woke up, saying, "Really, I thought all the time I was talking to a colleague!" He had continued, hardly recognizing the fact, a controversy he had been having with other ministers at the foreign office. Of course Lord Clarendon honorably preserved the cabinet secrets, but he told his story against Lord Derby and made a laugh.

Stella called on her newly married friend, Bella, and found her attired in a businesslike overall, while her arms were full of fashion papers and cookery books.

"Hello!" she exclaimed. "What are you going to make?"

"Some cakes," replied the young wife proudly.

"But why have you got out those fashion papers, as well as the cookery books?"

"You see," confessed Bella, rather shamefacedly, "I'm a bit of a novice at cooking. Tell me, do you make cakes from a recipe or a pattern?"—London Answers.

ter understand contemporary Norwegian art.

Temperamentally they are the same. We find in both the same characteristic forthrightness of expression, the same bold, uncompromising design and color. Moreover, both are alike in that the aim of each is to fill a given space with a design that will form a decoration. Much of modern art is in this direction, and contemporary Norwegian art is no exception to this.

If this art appears somewhat rough and crude, more forceful and original than polished and ingratiating, it is the fault of the national character rather than of the art itself. We are not a suave people; we are somewhat blunt and direct, and these racial qualities are expressing themselves more and more in our art as it gradually emancipates itself from foreign influences and returns to its basic character.—J. Nilsen Laurvik in Century.

Goethe on Books.

It is with books as with new acquaintances. At first we are delighted if we find we agree in a general way, if we feel a friendly influence upon any of the chief sides of our existence. It is only upon closer acquaintanceship that the points of difference become apparent, and then the value of reasonable conduct lies not in shrinking back at once, as is often the case with children, but in holding fast to the things in which we agree and arriving at a clear understanding about the things in which we differ, without on that account wishing to come to an agreement upon them.—Goethe.

Toronto Man is Congratulated By The King

Joseph Rogers Receives a Letter From His Majesty on Loyalty to Empire

TORONTO, Aug. 18.—Mr. Joseph Rogers, 144 Boon avenue, Earlscourt, has received a letter from King George congratulating him on the fact that he has the proud distinction of having seven sons wearing khaki. The letter written August 2nd and just received by Mr. Rogers is signed "F. M. Ponsonby, keeper of the Privy Purse" whom the King commanded to express to Mr. Rogers his congratulations and "to assure him that His Majesty much appreciates the spirit of patriotism which promoted this example in one family of loyalty and devotion to their sovereign and Emperor."

Letters of congratulation from the Duke of Connaught and Premier Borden have also reached Mr. Rogers.

FIND GREAT FIELD OF NATIVE COPPER

This is One of Results of Stefansson's Present Expedition—Problem for Scientists

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The discovery by the Canadian Arctic expedition headed by Vilhjalmur Stefansson of a great field of native copper in the vicinity of Copper Mine River, in the neighborhood of Prince Albert Island, will prove of great value to the business world, says Dr. Chester A. Reeds of the American Museum of Natural History. Dr. Reeds believes also that it will afford scientists an opportunity for displaying their ingenuity in finding an outlet from a region that is still unopened in a commercial sense.

The work of the party which arrived in Nome, Alaska, on Tuesday, is expected to prove valuable in determinating the direction of winds and the movement of tides in the Polar region. Dr. Reeds said this work might go on a long way to prove or disprove the theory that an unknown continent exists in the great unexplored region north of Alaska and west and northwest of Greenland.

Not Deserters Till Regt. Goes

A Militia Enactment Produced in Police Court at Ottawa

OTTAWA, Aug. 18.—A man who enlists in a Canadian battalion and then absents himself without leave for any period, cannot be charged as a deserter, unless the battalion has left for overseas. Although very few people are aware of this, it is in accordance with a special enactment to the militia act passed by an order-in-council recently, which was specially asked for by the military authorities themselves. Dr. Gordon Henderson, by producing this enactment in police court, succeeded in having Albert Thibert, charged with desertion from the 207th Battalion acquitted yesterday.

At the same time Magistrate O'Keefe criticized the military authorities for the slack manner in which they had concluded the case and suggested more care would be beneficial in future.

VICTORIOUS OFFENSIVE IS PUSHED BY THE ALLIES

British and French Attack on Eight Mile Front From Ancre to the Somme—Fighting Proceeds and Progress is Reported

With the British Army in France, Aug. 19.—Special—With the skies clear for artillery observations following the heavy rains, the British and French attacked the German lines this afternoon along the entire front from the Ancre to the Somme, where their blows during the past six weeks have broken the German line everywhere and the second line at many points.

From the ridge above Pozieres, where the battered stone ruins of a windmill stand, to the highest point on the horizon, along the edges of bloody High Wood and thence along Delville or Devil's Wood to the lower levels of the river valley, where there has been no cessation in the fighting or the pounding of the guns day after day, there was a continuous cloud of smoke from the bursting shells yesterday afternoon as the British and French guns united in their thunders.

The British made gains on their side of Guillemont where the Germans still hold the fortification of their old second line and have their heaviest concentration of guns, and also toward Ginchy.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Special— The French and British yesterday again launched a general attack on the eight-mile front from Pozieres to the Somme, the second in three days. As a result the British report further gains beyond the German second line towards Guillemont and Ginchy, while the French have captured practically all of the village of Maurepas, and are in complete control of the village cemetery. More than 400 Germains were taken prisoners.

Meanwhile, continuing their strong counter-offensive northwest of Verdun, the French, completing their command of the village of Fleury, have pressed home their attacks on Thiaumont-Fleury front, capturing two strong field forts northeast of the former point. About 100 prisoners and three machine guns were taken in this fighting.

Delegates From Ontario City Confer at Ottawa

OTTAWA, Aug. 18.—A deputation of Berlin ratepayers waited on Hon. T. Chase-Casgrain, Postmaster-General, yesterday and urged that the name of the post-office be changed from Berlin to Kitchener. It was pointed out that this was the wish of the ratepayers as expressed by a popular vote. The deputation was told that no action could be taken by the postal authorities until the Ontario Government had proclaimed the change in the name.

The deputation to show their belief that Berlin no longer existed signed on the Chateau Laurier register in bold hand as from Kitchener, Ont.

Canadian Tariff Second to None

Agents General Pelletier, of Quebec, Reid, of Ontario, Howard, of Nova Scotia, and Reid, of Alberta, were among those present.

RAILROADS WARNED BY WILSON OF GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(Special.) —The Chairmen of the Big Four Railway Brotherhoods, by a vote of approximately three to one, yesterday accepted President Wilson's plan to avert the threatened railway strike.

Thirty-one Executives, representing as many individual railroads, heard this plan outlined by the President at the White House this afternoon. The Executives declared they stood by the Managers' Committee and were opposed to settlement by any means other than arbitration.

President Wilson, in a spirited reply, warned the railroad chiefs that they were risking Government ownership of all railroads. He added that he personally did not favor Government ownership, but public opinion might demand the reform.

The President in vigorous terms advised the railroads to accept his plan—the eigh-hour day and investigation by Commission of collateral issues—if they wished to avert Government intervention by force.

He reminded them of the threatened strike in France two years ago when the French Government called the employees to the colors and then detailed them to operate the railroads.

The Presidents more specific suggestion was that the railroads operate under the eight-hour day plan for a year, pending investigation by a special committee.

Hale Holden, President of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, acting as spokesman fo rthe railway Executives, told the President that the whole principle of arbitration was at stake in the controversy.

British Blockade Becomes Tighter

Arrangement Between Great Britain and Sweden Regarding Certain Supplies

LONDON, Aug. 18.—That the new measures with regard to trade with Sweden may pave the way to the strengthening of the blockade, was the hope expressed to-day by officials of the Foreign Office, who are well informed concerning Anglo-Swedish relations. The present trade agreement between the two nations applies strictly to exports from the United Kingdom and Sweden has declined positively to make any agreements with regard to imports from other nations. Imports from other nations into Sweden, however, must still pass through the blockade, and in the event that Sweden is not willing to grant additional guarantees, it is said at the Foreign Office that further measures may be necessary.

The Foreign Office admitted there was some justification in the view taken by the English press that the new measure was to some extent retaliatory, but stated that it was more correct to describe it is legalizing the positions of both nations.

As foodstuffs, metals and other raw materials are excluded from the list covered by the guarantees, it is estimated that only from 21 to 25 per cent of the total exports from England to Sweden are affected by the new measures.

This great total will be further increased by close to 20,000,000 pounds when the new mill at Britannia is completed. At average copper prices the yield of 130,000,000 pounds will be about $30,000,000, nearly double the prroduction of 1915."

RUSSIAN FORCES PENETRTAE HUNGARIAN TERRITORY

Big Battle Raging—Teuton Positions in Carpathians Being Battered by Czar's Artillery — Turks Officially Reported by Berlin to be Fighting in Galicia

LONDON, Aug. 19— Special—The supreme test between Russians and Teutons in the Carpathians has begun.

A battle of great ferocity is raging in and around the Jabonitza or Tartar Pass. The initiative continues on the Russian side. The Muscovites, continuing their advance, approached the summits of the mountain in the vicinity of Korosmezo. This places the Russians already inside Hungary, Korosmezo lying five miles west of the Galician border. The mountain in question is 657 metres high. The Teuton positions on it are being battered by the Czar's big guns from the mountain south of Jablonitza, four hundred feet higher. While the artillery duel rages across the border from these two mountains the commander is hurling his infantry legions into and through the Tartar Pass, possession of which is to open to the Muscovites the road to the Hungarian Plains.

The town of Korosmezo lies on the railway from Stanislau to Maramaros Sziget, the immediate Hungarian objective of the Russians. It is seven miles south-west of Jablonitza, which fell to the Russians four days ago. The pass of the same name, however, is still stubbornly defended by the Austro-German forces under General von Koevess. Once it is staken the Russians can sweep from Korosmezo, three and one half miles from the pass, down toward Maramaros Sziget astride the railway.

Canadians Face An Active Foe

Artillery Duels and Trench Raids Constant Occurrences—Enemy Morale Unbroken

LONDON, Aug. 19.—(Special.)—Once again the Canadian newspaper representatives are privileged to visit the Canadian portion of the front. The eyes of the world at large, of course, have lately been more closely directed to larger operations than the Canadian sector; nevertheless, when one is enabled to go along the Canadian line to see and hear for oneself what is being done there one realizes immediately how the Canadian forces, though not now directly in the limelight, are helping to bring success to the allied arms as surely as the brave fellows on the Somme. While we have been here there has been an attack on the Canadian trenches completely beaten og. Our bombers more than once have made raids against the Germans by night, laying about them right and left with their deadly missiles, during their brief stay, and even bringing back some Germans at the point of the bayonet across No Man's Land.

BRITISH ZEPPELINS ATTAIN GREAT SPEED

New Airships Are Superior to the German Dirigible

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Special—The Daily Express features an article by its naval expert on "our new Zeppelin", which says:

"During the past week I have watched the great British airships at work, and, although I am unable to make practical comparisons with the German Zeppelins, our new airships certainly seem marvellously rigid and beautifully designed. Mariners who have made close observations of German dirigibles consider our new airships capable of being handled more readily, of finer model and altogether less cumberson than the German type. The British airships, moreover, attain an amazingly high speed."

"The pursuit of the enemy was maintained until the 12th, and it is now possible to form a more accurate idea of the enemy's strength and losses. The enemy force amounted to probably 18,000 men. We took prisoner 49 officers and 3,871 men; the known killed amounted to 1,251, and the wounded are estimated at 4,000, aggregating in round numbers about 9,000.

Said Dr. Davies, health officer of Bristol port, to the correspondent: "The three cases have been traced to rats, which it is supposed, were inoculated purposely with bubonic plague.

"There is no evidence that the disease was brought here on a ship nor that the infection came from America.

"The method by which the disease was introduced is obscure, but is being investigated carefully."

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Major Hamilton Gault, of the Princess Patricias, received a Press correspondent today in the hospital where he recently underwent a second operation. The firemen answered a still alarm this morning, about 11 o'clock, sent in from a residence at the corner of Albert Street and Victoria Avenue, it being alleged smoke was seen issuing from a cellar window. Their services were not required, however, there being no sign of fire when they arrived upon the scene.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"THE TURMOIL" ENJOYED AT GRIFFIN'S LAST NIGHT

Booth Tarkington made no mistake, from a standpoint of public interest, when he wrote "The Turmoil," one of the most popular novels of recent years; and that nothing was taken from the beauty of the story was admitted by all who witnessed its picturization last night, with Miss Valli Valli, the winsome film star, as the leading lady. And yet, this popular actress was but one of a superb cast. James Sheridan, Senior, Jim Sheridan, Junior, and "Bibbs" Sheridan, characterized by the famous George LeGuere, the good-for-nothing bookworm, who shot ahead of the family when the time came for merit; and then, there was Edith Sheridan, ambitious for society, and Mamma Sheridan, all shing lights, as depicted by the screen. But Miss Valli Valli, as Mary Vertrees, the daughter of a broken down aristocratic family, was the real lady, around whom the attraction centered. James Sheridan was a mechanic who had made good; the family aspired to lofty conditions, and money flowed to that end. One of the Sheridans (Jim Junior) wanted Mary for a life partner, but the honor was declined; and when Jim was killed in an accident at the works, Bibbs, accidentally meeting Mary, and being the scrub of the family so-to-speak, her sympathies went out, and out, until love resulted, which culminated according to the desires of all concerned. It is an entrancing production, holding the closet attention from beginning to end.

A minor, but catchy Pathe Gazette's feature preceded the principal play, both of which will be reproduced this evening.

PAULINE FREDERICK IN NEW GUISE.

Eschews Role of Siren to Play "Audrey" in Famous Players Adaptation of a Great Novel.

Pauline Frederick, whose beauty and powerful emotional histionism have made her the foremost dramatic actress on the screen today, is the star of the Famous Players-Paramount picture, "Audrey," an adaptation of the celebrated novel by Mary Johnson, adapted into dramatic form by Harriet Ford and E. F. Boddington, which is the feature at Griffin's Opera House on Monday and Tuesday evenings. In "Audrey," Miss Frederick abandons the sirenic roles which she has so wonderfully presented in "Zaza," "Bella Donna," and several other powerful dramatic Famous Players productions in which she has starred.

"Audrey" is the innocent cause of a serious duel, when, despite her unsophistication reflections are cast upon her character by the brother of the girl with whom Lord Haward, her guardian, has been in love. Haward resents the imputations concerning Audrey's conduct and the duel in which he is severely wounded results.

The false impressions concerning Audrey's character have spread rapidly throughout the town and the situation reaches a climax when she is denounced from the pulpit on Sunday. As a result of this, she is turned out of the home in which she has been a drudge ever since she was old enough to work and seeks refuge with an old woman who is reputed to be a witch. The towns-folk, enraged at the thought that she is under the influence of the "witch," attempt to kill them both.

Audrey escapes drowning only by the narrowest margin and it is the news of her peril that awakens in Lord Haward a realization of what this wild, carefree girl means to him. Despite his wounds, he rushes to her rescue. There is another lover to be reckoned with—a half-bred Indian, whose methods of wooling are picturesque in their crudity.

"Audrey" differs from Miss Frederick's previous screen characterizations in the great feeling of sympathy which she arouses. This is the dominant note in "Audrey" as we see this poor girl made a mere slavey and later accused of conduct of which she is entirely innocent. The persecution of Audrey, her battles against poverty and the narrow-minded gossips of her little community, develop one of the strongest and most lovable characters that Miss Frederick has played on the screen.

Robert Vignola directed "Audrey," in which Miss Frederick has among her supporting cast Charles Wadron, Margarete Christians, E. Fermandez, Helen Lindrith, Henry Hallam and Jack Clark.

In addition to the above special 5-part offering, a novel and very amusing Bray Cartoon will be exhibited, along with the 16th episode of "The Iron Claw" series, which is the most thrilling and interesting chapter so far revealed of this popular serial, the title of this episode being, "The Unmasking of Davy."

BEFORE THE MAGISTRATE

ACCUSED OF ASSAULTING WIFE

Peter Moteck, an Austrian, was last evening arrested here on a charge of assaulting his wife and occasioning her grievous bodily harm. It appears that the parties had been living for some time at Point Ann, but a few days ago the wife came to Belleville and made her home with friends who live near Albert College. Yesterday afternoon Moteck came to the city and called upon his wife, and it is stated that they had a wordly argument, which resulted in Moteck striking her upon the head with some instrument, inflicting, it is alleged, grievous bodily harm. Moteck, after the alleged offence, skipped out, and was finally apprehended by Mr. J. M. Truiasch, G.T.R. constable, being found hiding in the grass in the old Roman Catholic cemetery, on the eastern city limits. This morning Moteck was brought up before Magistrate Masson, and the case was enlarged until Wednesday next, as the Crown was not prepared to proceed. In the meantime the accused was liberated upon furnishing substantial bail.

That auto drivers make Charles street a regular race course.

That the stonework about Victoria Park is sadly in need of renewal.

That the washouts on Victoria Avenue, from Front Street to the brow of the hill would look better if they were repaired.

That motor launches running in the dark without lights are liable to a fine. A word in time may save a dime—or more.

That young ladies who drive automobiles should be careful about racing down Victoria Avenue A collision at the junction, with Front Street, might prove expensive.

That when young girls drive autos on our main thoroughfares they should keep their eyes on the task of steering the machine and not on the young men on the sidewalks.

That those weeds which property owners were ordered to have trimmed down by August 10, are still in their fulness. Consequently some parts of the city is a sight—not for the gods, but for the authorities to get after.

A Shampoo Scheme.

The possibilities of the hot water bottle as an adjunct in drying the hair after a shampoo have just been discovered by one woman. Half filled with hot water and applied to the scalp and hair it dries both rapidly and pleasantly. With a second bottle applied to the length of the hair it is possible to recline luxuriously with a book while one's hair is almost drying itself.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

RENT AND FOOD PRICES ARE LOWER

High Cost of Living In Canada Showing Downward Tendency

Ottawa, August 18.—Cheering news for householders appears in the advance proofs of the Labor Gazette, issued today by the Labor Department. It is to the effect that prices are showing a downward tendency, and that the high cost of living, despite the war, has lately been some what on the wane again.

"The cost of a budget of staple foods was $8.46, compared with $8.51 in June," states the report. "The department's index number of wholesale prices are still much higher than in ante-bellum days, when the index number stood at 134.6, this being the month before the war started."

In retail prices mutton, salt, pork, milk, butter, potatoes, beans, evaporated apples and prunes declined slightly, but beef advanced somewhat.

In wholesale prices, fodder, cattle and beef, sheep, tallow, metals, chemicals and raw furs averaged lower, but grains, hog products, dairy products, vegetables, breadstuffs, woollens, cottons, flax products, leather, implements, paints, oils and glass, iron beds, and sundries averaged higher.

Retail prices of coal and wood also averaged higher.

As compared with July last year, prices were higher in all groups except grain and fodder.

In the retail prices of foods all commodities were higher than in July, 1915 and 1914, except milk. Rent, however, averaged lower.

Hughes Warned That Progressives Will Bolt Party

California Republicans Make Footstools of 500,000 Roosevelt Adherents

ASHLAND, Ore., Aug. 18.—As he was speeding toward California, to open his campaign at San Francisco, Chas. E. Hughes, Republican nominee for President, was told that there was a real danger of the state going Democratic next fall unless something was done, and done quickly, to satisfy the Progressives, who have been almost completely disregarded by the old guard Republicans in staging the fight.

Chester H. Rowell, Progressive, and a member of the campaign committee appointed to co-operate with the Republican National Committee, joined the Hughes party in Portland last night and he had a long conference with the nominee late this evening. Mr. Rowell told Mr. Hughes that the fate of the Republican national ticket in California lay in the hands of 500,000 Progressives, who were being insulted and humiliated by the old guard crowd.

Further than that, Mr. Rowell said that because of the situation which had been created, Francis J. Heney, a radical Progressive, who came out in support of President Wilson when Col. Roosevelt refused, the nomination in June, was doing effective work. Unless something was done Mr. Rowell was afraid that Heney might swing thousands of votes to the Democratic column. Mr. Rowell was pretty well satisfied that Mr. Hughes would carry the state, but he admitted that a dangerous situation had developed.

As far as could be learned, Mr. Hughes took no definite stand to-day as a result of the conference with Mr. Rowell and it is doubtful if he will meddle in the factional fight.

He will be in San Francisco from noon until eight o'clock Saturday night.

When the arrangements for his meetings were announced, it was found that Governor Hiram Johnson and Mr. Rowell had been eliminated and that the only Progressive given any part in the meetings were on a committee selected by the old guard leader, Crocker. Such a situation has proven intolerable to Governor Johnson, as he is a candidate for the nomination as United States Senator in the Progressive and Republican primaries.

Died on Farm She Helped Clear

Mrs. Mary Smith of Lobo Township Passes Away in Her 104th Year

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Mary Smith, in her 104th year, died at her home, lot 17 con. 9 of Lobo Township, on Wednesday. She had resided in Lobo continuously for 83 years, and was known all over the district as the grand old lady of the township.

Away back in 1832 Mrs. Smith, then Miss Mary McFarlane, came to East Williams from Scotland. This whole district at that time was a dense forest and the young woman commenced her life in the new country among pioneers, who were hewing clearings for themselves in the woods.

The following year she married Malcolm Smith. He and his bride moved to Lobo and made for themselves a clearing, on which Mr. Smith erected a log house.

They went through all the hardships of the pioneer days, but eventually won from the forest one of the finest farms in the whole countryside.

One Sunday, while attending the old Baptist Church at McGill's Corners, Mr. Smith suddenly fell over dead. Mrs. Smith, left with eight little children, not only raised her family, but by her thrift and industry won for herself the highest esteem of her neighbors.

Of her family only four now survive, John, Peter and Miss Florence, and Mrs. John Munn, all on the old homestead. Other sons were Duncan, Malcolm, Donald and Archie.

The funeral was held on Friday and interment was in Ivan Cemetery.

THIS IS THE 686TH DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

SOUTH-WEST TORONTO ELECTION.

The Toronto Star of the 17th inst., one of the most prominent Liberal journals in Ontario, while unceasingly finding fault with the general policy of the Hearst administration, says of it, in relation to the temperance question and the different candidates now contesting the Riding, that—

> It is unfortunate that almost all the platform discussions so far in the South-West Toronto election should evidence such an incomprehensible disregard of the motive and purpose of the liquor legislation that has been the theme of a great deal of the speaking done.
> The Hon. Mr Hearst introduced into the Ontario Legislature a bill to prohibit the liquor traffic during the war and until the electors of the Province have an opportunity to say whether or not they desire to have that prohibition made a permanent policy. It was voted for unanaimously by the members of his own political party, and the members of the Opposition. This was done deliberately, with the high purpose of helping to conserve the Empire's resources and increase the efficiency of the Empire's fighting men.
> The Premier did the right thing. If his name should never be associated with any other great public movement, he will be spoken of with pride and gratitude by generations to come, as the man who was wise enough to see his duty and courageous enough to do it, in his country's greatest emergency. Prohibition is on the statute books of Ontario as a patriotic measure, enacted for the welfare of the people, and for the maintenance of the principles to which Great Britain is to-day writing down her declaration of allegiance in the life-blood of her bravest and her best.
> It is criminal, disgraceful and unpatriotic to talk about any weakening of the legislation enacted for this reason, while the nations are still in deadly conflict over the great issues that are at stake.

These are timely and sensible remarks, yet it is difficult to define from the general tone of the Liberal press in Toronto which of the candidates they prefer, and would like to see elected.

Dewart is non-committal, waiting, Micawber-like, for something to turn up. Norris states distinctly what his opinions are, and the other two are anti-prohibitionists. The prohibitionist pure and simple party have put no candidate in the field, and therefore should support the least objectionable of the four.

Dewart is evidently a liquor candidate, but he is what is known to be, a Grit of the Grits, and therefore many of the prohibition howlers are supporting him. Such is party politics.

"NO POPERY" CRY.

"Is Norris running the South-West Toronto election on the old "No Popery!" cry? Common decency should have restrained the Tory speakers from such offensive sectarian animus over the grave of Hon. J. J. Foy."—Globe. Has the Globe forgotten its old-time "No Popery" cry, or is it desirous of renewing it? If it has forgotten, The Intelligencer can refresh its memory by quoting a few extracts from a carefully selected number preserved in an old scrap-book now resting upon the shelves of the Editor's sanctum.

NICKEL.

The Liberal campaigners in South-West Toronto are just now howling incessantly against the Dominion Government for not preventing the exportation of nickel, and the Ontario Government for not levying a higher tax upon its production. The Liberals were in power in Ontario for nearly 30 years, and over 15 years in the Dominion. Why did they not act? may fairly be asked. The answer is easy. They had power then, now they want it, hence their agitation.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.

That the policy of the Federal Government, under the administration of the Hon. Mr Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, in providing a subsidy of ten million dollars, spread over a period of ten years, towards furthering agricultural education in the different provinces, is bearing good fruit is abundantly proven by the second annual report of the Commissioner of Agriculture. This report is for the year ending March 31st, 1915, and tells in detail how the money has been applied. It shows that while much remains to be done before the work is perfected in rural schools a great deal has been achieved. Teachers have had to be trained, and for this purpose short courses have been held in connection with all the agricultural colleges, generally in the summer vacation, and the attendance has everywhere been satisfactory. Funds for this purpose came out of grants made by the Dominion under the Act. New buildings have been erected, old buildings enlarged, schools better equipped, higher salaried and more experienced instructors engaged, teachers specially trained, college extensison work greatly extended, boys' and girls' competitions encouraged, the district representative system widened and improved in scope and character, and women's work at home and abroad aided institutionally and otherwise. In short, there is not a branch of agricultural education or of home economics in any of the provinces that has not been beneficially influenced by the operation of the act in providing more funds than could otherwise have been available for these activities. The provinces having been left free to use the grants, which have increased from $700,000 in 1914 to $900,000 in 1916, and will be $1,000,000 each of the succeeding six years—as they thought fit within the purposes intended, the applications have not always been identical, but in the Report every item in detail is set forth. The story of every province is told, furnishing interesting reading for every well-wisher of the agricultural industry and every member of the farming community. A letter to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, will bring the Report free of all charge.

Few know of the really splendid work that Sir George Perley has done as acting Canadian High Commissioner in London during the war. As the chief representative of Canadian affairs in England, the duties of the High Commissioner have been most arduous in the past two years Sir George Perley has not only devoted his whole energy to these duties, but he has brought distinction to the country he represents. The occasion of the Ottawa Canadian Club luncheon to Sir yesterday, not only afforded the citizens of the capital an opportunity to show some small appreciation of his services, but the subject of his address, "Britain in War Time," assured a most interesting and profitable hour. Sir George has been in the very centre of things and has been able to view "Britain in War Time," in a perspective denied to but few.

Hamilton Herald: The South-west Toronto by-election, which will be held next Monday, is a political maze. The poor elector must feel that he is hopelessly lost. The candidates, the party leaders and newspapers are doing nothing to help him find himself. All the old signposts in the way of party traditions are being torn down, and he is being left to grope his way to the polls in a verbal windstorm that has been raised to throw dust into his eyes. A Liberal rally Tuesday evening furnished the spectacle of one of the leading speakers making a demand for the Liberal organs to make their stand known.

Montreal Star: The statement that a special German corps will undertake the defence of Trieste, would imply a previous declaration of war by Germany upon Italy. That may come, of course, any day. The reasons which have delayed it are pretty well removed. Germany would certainly regard the loss of Trieste to a hostile nation as an irreparable loss—a far different thing from granting the Trieste district autonomy, as the Austrians offered to do. The Pan-Germans want to possess the head of the Adriatic as well as the Aegean, the Bosphorus and the Persian Gulf. Then, if Italy had accepted the terms offered by Austria, she would have practically returned to the Triplice. Now she belongs definitely to the other group. Germany might easily make a special fight for Trieste, even at the cost of tearing down the tissue-paper formality which separates her from war with Italy.

Current Comment

Mr Hughes, the Republican candidate for the presidency, in an address at Seattle, Wash., advanced the doctrine of firmness in the nation's foreign policy, even to the length of going to war to ensure that the lives of United States citizens are respected by other countries. The attitude doubtless is the popular one.

A newspaper correspondent in Amsterdam reports that the total number of Belgians shot on treason charges by the Germans to date is five hundred. Their offence was probably that they persisted in seeking to aid their own country, thus bringing down on their heads the vengeance of its despoilers.

Mr Connor, the working man's candidate in South-west Toronto, in the bye-election for the Legislature, now announces that he is in favor of prohibition. As he is the only one who has so declared himself, it will be interesting to see where he stands after the ballots are counted. — Montreal Gazette.

Nine of the fourteen German officers and sailors who escaped from interned warships in American jurisdiction remain unaccounted for. Two have been caught or returned to those vessels, two managed to reach Germany, and one is a prisoner detained at Edinburgh Castle, in Scotland, according to information disclosed in the third supplement issued of diplomatic papers as part of the American White book on the European war.

The most advanced ghost story that we have seen in a long time is the report in La Presse of Montreal to the effect that a delegation from various cities—including Kingston—were to wait on Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister, at Ottawa and demand the resignation of Sir Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, failing which the Lord only knows what they would or wouldn't do.—Kingston Standard.

MUD PIES.

Sweetened with sugar and sprinkled with spice,
Apple turn-overs are really nice;
But make-believe pies are a great deal more fun,
When little cooks bake them out here in the sun.

With soft, coaxing touches they mix up the dough—
Brown flour is said to be wholesome, you know;
And if little fingers shall gather a stain,
Why, water and soap will soon wash them again.

And, after the wonderful baking is done—
The droll, jolly baking out here in the sun—
The sweet little cooks will be happy to take,
If somebody gave it, a good slice of cake.

Canadians in London.

The Canadian element is very predominant in London nowadays. Canadian Red Cross ambulances meet one in every street, Canadian nurses pass along every thoroughfare or are to be seen in every teashop and place of amusement or utility—Canadian soldiers throng the streets and the busses, while the "Canada" badge and maple leaves so large as to rival the breadth of an ordinary teaplate, adorn the frontage of women of all ages and types. As for the Hotel Cecil, one jumps straight into the Dominion the moment you step over the threshold. Canadian uniforms predominate entirely here and the soft Canadian drawl which has so familiar and so homelike a sound meets one at every turn. Here General Carson and his staff have their permanent abode and here the Canadian officer on leave or stationed in London lives and entertains and generally infuses Canada and Canada's optimism and spirit into the atmosphere.

Orders for Canada Car & Foundry.

Advices from Montreal report that the Imperial Munitions Board has awarded a contract to the Canadian Car & Foundry Co. for 100,000 steel billets, to cost $700,000. Negotiations on the Russian car order are still pending, owing to the fact that the questions of delivery, in view of the present large demand for other orders, is being discussed.

BELLEVILLE BRANCH—J. G. MOFFAT, MANAGER

A FATAL BARGAIN

OR

THE MAN WHO DARED FATE

BY

NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XX.—Continued.

"To begin with, Mr. Carter, I am engaged to Mr. Fenno," Annie went on to explain, with some embarassment. "I love him very dearly, and have been guilty of something of which I am very much ashamed, and which I wish to hide from him, if possible. A girl, you know, should have complete faith in her betrothed, in his honor and integrity; but I, alas! have in my nature a jealous streak which impelled me to the unworthy conduct mentioned. It was brought about by another, however, and in this way."

"I am all attention," Nick nodded.

"Some months ago," continued Annie, "a girl whom I have always regarded as a friend, who is also an old acqaintance of Mr. Fenno, hinted to me that he has been calling on other women since our engagement, their relations being more friendly than mere social functions would permit. I ignored these hints at first, for I could not really believe them; but instead of frankly questioning Mr. Fenno, I continued to endure this girl's insinuations, until I found myself in a jealous and nervous state."

"I appreciate your feelings," said Nick. "Was that the girl who was with you in the Hotel Royal?"

"Yes, sir, and I will tell you why we were there," Annie proceeded, now quite pale again. "Claiming to be my friend, and that it was an outrage for me to be imposed upon by Mr. Fenno, she resented my incredulity by saying she would prove his infidelity if I would accompany her to the hotel; that she would give me irrefutable evidence that Mr. Fenno was frequently visiting an old flame of his, now a married woman, and debasing himself even to the extent of going to visit her in disguise. I was so wrought upon by this girl, that—"

"That, to make a long story short, you went to see for yourself," Nick interposed.

"I admit it with shame, Mr. Carter."

"You have been imposed upon, Miss Elmore, and I appreciate the sentiments that occasioned your conduct, as well as your remorse," said Nick. "I can remain only to learn the essential facts, however. Now, who is this treacherous friend of yours?"

"Her name is Janet Bolton. She is Mr. Fenno's private secretary."

"H'm! is that so?"

"She claimed to know all about his conduct," added Annie, "from letters and telephone messages he received."

"And easily imposed upon you therefore. Do you know with what motive?"

"I cannot imagine. I never have wronged her in any way."

"Was she ever in love with Fenno, or he attentive to her?"

"Well, I have heard remarks to that effect."

"The married woman mentioned is Mrs. Patrick Selkirk?"

"Yes, sir."

"Also an old friend of his," Nick said dryly. "Men of millions, Miss Elmore, when they dash the hopes of their lady friends, incur bitter enmities. This looks like a scheme on the part of both of these women to gratify feelings of resentment and hatred. Be that as it may, I cannot stop to discuss it. What were you discussing in the hotel office, Miss Elmore, when talking with the Bolton girl?"

She was telling me that Mr. Fenno was then in Mrs. Selkirk's apartments and that I could convince myself by listening at her door, that I could easily recognize his voice and also see him depart, if I waited long enough."

"Yes, yes, I see," Nick grimly nodded. "With that design in view, you asked the clerk where Mrs. Selkirk's rooms were located, and then went up to the corridor."

"I did, sir."

"Do you know anything at all about the murder, Miss Elmore, or who committed it?"

"I do not, Detective Carter, absolutely nothing. Whenever I heard or saw any one in the corridor adjoining those rooms, I immediately fled to the side corridor to wait till they departed."

"Did you hear Fenno's voice in Mrs. Selkirk's rooms?"

"Yes, yes, Detective Carter, I did, and that is why I felt sure he could not reasonably have committed the crime," Miss Elmore earnestly answered. "That is why I have felt that I must see you, must inform you of these facts, and implore aid in his behalf. Yet I am so ashamed, lest he shall learn of my distrust, of my unworthy conduct——"

"I may be able to avoid exposing that," Nick kindly interposed, seeing the tears welling to the girl's blue eyes. "I will try, at least. As for yourself, Miss Elmore, you have made amends by voluntarily appealing to me and frankly telling the whole truth."

"I have telephoned twice to your office this morning, Mr. Carter."

"I have been absent since eight o'clock," Nick replied, rising to go. "Now you will pardon my abrupt departure, Miss Elmore, if I leave, after asking you only one more question."

"I will answer it, sir."

"Why did you hurry away after reviving from your faint?"

"Alas! what else could I do?" replied Annie, wringing her hands in memory of the distressful moment. "I felt so alarmed, so ashamed of my conduct, so terrified lest I might be detained against him in some way—oh, Mr. Carter, I hardly know what I did, I hurried away in order to have time to consider the situation. Having done so, I determined to appeal to you. I resolved to tell you all, and ———"

"And I think you will not regret it. Miss Elmore. "I shall see you again, very likely, but now must go at once,' Nick replied, extending his hand.

"The apple of discord, he said to himself, as he rode away, after having added a few encouraging words and acknowledged Miss Elmore's expressions of gratitude. "An inexperienced girl bunkoed by two jealous jades of decidedly evil character. She's afraid she may lose Fenno, if he hears of her distrust, yet would sacrifice herself to save him, if necessary. Well, one can hardly blame her. He's a fine fellow, a catch not often made. I didn't half like the face of that stenographer, even in a photograph, where it should appear at its best. Cunning lurked in one eye and treachery in the other. She has even deceived Fenno, and—well, I'll fix her later. There's more to her knavery, I'm inclined to think, than this alone."

It was half-past ten, and Nick, not dreaming how soon and under what circumstances he was to see Janet Boltn, rushed his driver at top speed, to be ready to make his next move.

This was to the office of an expert accountant, named Randall, with whom he quietly gave his instructions. Briefly stated, he directed Randall to get legal authority for at once beginning an expert examination of Judge Packard's books, funds, and securities, with a view to ascertaining whether there had been any falsification of his accounts, and whether any deficit existed in the numerous estates and bequests he was holding in trust.

As may be inferred by this move, Nick now suspected Packard of having been an embezzler, and having designed to square himself by accepting a large bribe from the United Transit Company, in return for the decision he had rendered in its favor.

This step having been taken, and a report by Randall promised on the following day, Nick next took up the curious clew found in the Packard library—that of the missing check inclosed with the letter already quoted.

Nick felt sure that it was a check given by some baggage or parcel room, either that of a hotel or railway station for taking temporary charge of the black bag he had seen brought into the Hotel Royal a quarter of an hour before the murder of Packard and by the gray-haired man whom he now firmly believed was Packard himself in disguise.

Nick further reasoned that, if the check had been sent to him in order that he might get the bag from some parcel room in which it had been left, it would be in a hotel comparatively near the Hotel Royal there being no near railway station providing the same accommodation.

"If the bag contained a large sum of money, he naturally would have wished to avoid lugging it a very long distance," Nick mentally argued. "He did not look at all exhausted, moreover, when he passed through the hotel office. The check having been sent to him the day before the murder, the bag must have been left as early as that, at least, for its subsequent removal

It looks very much to me," Nick continued to reason, on the assumption that his suspicions were correct, "as if Packard, before giving his decision, wanted the bribe money deposited in some place where only he could get it. This would have been insured by leaving it in some hotel and sending him the check for it, only the holder of which could get it.

"Upon receiving the check, and the letter stating that the goods, probably meaning money, were exactly what he required, he would have felt comparatively sure that he could secure the bag immediately after rendering his decision. He would have known that the crooks with whom he was dealing, and whom he was evidently inclined to distrust, would surely not attempt any treachery until after his decision was known.

Curbing the Fire Fiend

(Farm and Dairy)

The Canadian Forestry Association has given out the statement that the fire in New Ontario has not been the blessing in disguise that some newspaper reporters and others would have us believe. Even if it were, it is not likely that the settlers affected would care to have their blessings disguised so thoroughly. To the statement that the fire has done a great deal toward clearing the land, and Association replies, through its secretary, that far from the fire increasing the value of the land the assets of the entire district visited by the flames have been decreased materially. Much of the district burnt over was non-agricultural, and about all that the fire succeeded in doing there was to destroy merchantable timber. In strictly agricultural sections the work of clearing has not been assisted. The blackened trunks still stand. Those of us who have had experience in the clearing of such land know that the work is not rendered easier or more pleasant by a premature visit of the fire fiend.

The latent agricultural resources of Ontario's great hinterland remain undoubted. In order that they may be realized upon, however, it is necessary to take all possivle precautions against a repetition of the holocaust that has recently occurred. Settlers in a new district, and especially a wooded one, have discouragements enough to contend with without the risk of losing their property and perhaps their lives in such a conflagration. The accumulation of tinder in the form of slash that is left in the wake of our lumbering operations should be prevented. Clearing fires may have to be confined to those months of the year when there is the less danger of their getting away. Fire guards around towns in the form of wide clearances, kept free from inflamable material, should be one of the first precautions taken so that neighboring settlers would have a refuge in case fire should again get beyond control. To re-establish confidence in the great Northland in the minds of prospective settlers by making a repetition of this disastrous fire impossible, is manifestly one of the first duties devolving upon the Provincial Government.

WISHING AND GETTING.

An Old Man's Realized Day Dream and the Moral It Teaches.

They had started in the most primitive way, the man and his wife, back in the little log house, but they were dreaming of the day when they would own a farm of their own and not have to work so hard. After a time their hard toil was rewarded, and they owned a farm. Then it seemed desirable to add to this tract, and they worked a little harder. A new house seemed a necessary accompaniment to the large farm, so the work could not stop.

A son came to the age when he must be educated and have his chance in life, and they toiled on. All the time the old man dreamed of the days ahead when he could stop work and take life easy. Somehow the days did not come, or he did not recognize them when they came, for he kept on working until he had grown old and worn. Then his health failed, and he had to stop work.

The son for whom they had given precious years out of their lives now showed his gratitude by his gentle, unfailing love and care. It seemed to others that the goal had been reached—that the old man could now enjoy life, surrounded as he was by every comfort and attention. But he was quiet and sad, sitting with head bowed on his toil worn hands.

A neighbor, stopping in for a little visit, asked, "How are you getting along, grandpa?" Then the secret of all his sadness burst forth as he answered earnestly, "Oh, if I could only get out and work!"

What queer things our dreams are after all!

Quaint Coins.

Among the strangest coins in the world are those used in certain out-of-the-way towns and villages in South-West Algeria, on the West Coast of Africa, and called manilas. In shape they resemble a horseshoe, with the two extremities flattened out like a camel's foot. Being made of solid copper, ¾in. thick, they weigh over 8oz. each In "face value" seven of these queer coins are equivalent to one shilling, so that a crown's worth would be an uncomfortably heavy load!

To Pave the Way.

Love will find a way, but it is more important to find something more substantial with which to pave the way.

Kitchener Heir in Navy.

The new Earl Kitchener's only son and heir, Commander Henry Kitchener, will be styled Viscount Broome, after the family seat near Canterbury, Broome Park. Viscount Broome, who is nearly 40, has been a commander in the navy for several years and has acquired a reputation as a gunnery expert. He has an only sister, Norah, the wife of a captain of artillery. As Viscount Broome is unmarried the second in succession to the Kitchener peerage is now Lt. Henry Kitchener, of the Royal Flying Corps. This young officer, "K. of K.'s nephew, was engaged to be married last March, and the announcement of his betrothal was made on the same day as that of his sister, Philippa.

Senator Belcourt Took Air Trip.

Senator Belcourt, while visiting Aldershot, was given what was called a "joy ride" in an aeroplane. The pilot treated him to an extra assortment of thrills, going through all the hair-raising aerial manoeuvres he could think of, short of looping the loop. Senator Belcourt was apparently relieved to find himself once more on terra firma, and remarked, that, while he could think of several phrases which would describe his experience, "joy ride" was not one of them.

GERMAN HAND IN ISLAND SALE

(New York Sun)

What is the reason for the sudden interest of the Administration in the purchase of the Danish West Indies? Though that project has been before the country in times past it has been in abeyance for fourteen years. And why twenty-five millions for the purchase price? The United States could have had the island for one-fifth of that in Mr. Roosevelt's term. Has West Indian real estate increased so much in value in the interval?

The Journal's Washington correspondence throws light on this matter. In 1902 Germany blocked the sale of the islands to us by bringing influence to bear on the upper branch of the Parliament at Copenhagen. And she has long had it in mind to take a favorable opportunity to secure them for herself, for a naval base. As an entering wedge the Hamburg-American Company made a large investment at Sam Thomas. This coaling station proved useful during the early months of the war for German commerce raiders in the South Atlantic, until they were destroyed by the British patrol.

But a better base has now been found. It is in course of development on the Dutch island, Curacao, off the coast of Venezuela. Of course, no station in the Caribbean could be employed except as a base for submarine operations. The advantage of the Curacaco plant is that it is relatively isolated, while the Danish West Indies lie close to British and French islands. The British Admiralty may be left to take care of the enemy as well in one place as the other, but it is evident that the base at Saint Thomas is of no further value to the Germans.

German Naval Base.

As the Journal's correspondent points out, in the changed situation Germany may not care to make another fight against the sale of the Danish islands to the United States. She is through with them, and has something better. Even if her influence has not been used to work up the interest of the Administration in the transaction, she is perfectly willing to have it go through. And herein may lie the explanation of the twenty-five millions. How much of the money will go to Denmark—how much to Germany, perhaps to be shared with the Hamburg-American line in satisfaction for the costly plant it will permanently abandon in favor of the better-located one in the Dutch West Indies?

Are the islands really worth as great a sum as that to the United States? No such price has ever before been considered, and the Danes have never put their figures anything like so high. So far as Denmark is concerned, indeed, her Caribbean possessions are administered at a loss every year. They are worth less than nothing to her. Before the Senate acts, assuming that the plenipotentiaries are in agreement on the terms and will soon sign the papers, the whole transaction needs to be looked into. The Treasury has no money to spare, and neither dignity nor good sense justifies the payment of a dollar to buy off the pro-German lobby at Copenhagen. We should not allow ourselves to be hoodwinked in this business, nor held up for bribe money.

JAPAN ARMS AND CLOTHES RUSSIA

The extent to which Japan is clothing, shoeing, arming and munitioning the Russian army was forcibly presented to a military observer recently who has just returned from a trip along the Russian front.

"I was astonished," he said, "to find great numbers of Russian soldiers clothed from head to foot in uniforms made in Japan, not only, the tunic and trousers, but eve nthe leggings. They carried on their shoulders Japanese guns. Their cartridge belts were filled with cartridges made in Japan. Their leather belts and buckles were from Japan. And the stout hobnail shoes they wear are from hides gathered in Korea and made into shoes in Japan. So that, there you see a Russian soldier, in Japanese clothes, Japanese shoes, with Japanese gun, ammunition and Japanese acoutrement.

Supplies From Korea.

"It is strange," he went on ,"that Russia went to war with Japan over Korea, and now Korea the source of all trouble, is supplying Russia with the shoes in which her soldiers are marching to victory. Korea is a great grazing country and is proving a vast reservoir of raw hides which the Japanese are rapidly turning into boots, shoes, saddles and leather furnishings."

"How did these supplies get from Japan to the Russian front?" the observer was asked.

"It was noted," said he, "that about the only vital point where the Germans had not been able to send their submarines was in the waters of the East China Sea, the Straits of Korea, and the Sea of Japan. These are the waters separating Japan from Russia and the Asiatic mainland, and the routes over them, commercial and military, are open and without menace."

Furnish Deadly Gun.

"What sort of arms and munition is Russia getting from Japan? was asked.

"All sorts," was the reply, "from the service rifle and small field pieces up to the big 12-inch guns. The Japanese 12-inch is a terrible weapon, and they are concint not to make any of the 14-inch and 16-inch guns, as they consider a military standpoint that the imnobility of the monster gun effects its advantages, whereas the 12-inch is a mobile gun and very deadly."

"It is said that French and Japanese officers are now furnishing the expert direction of the Russian artillery fire, which has made it so effective. Did you see any of these officers? was asked.

Operated by Russians

"No, and the report is not correct" said the observer. "The Russian artillery officers are directing their own fire, and are getting splendid results. The only Japanese and French officers are those temporarily assigned to explain the workings of a new piece, just as an expert is sent along to explain any complicated piece of machinery. Japanese experts accompanied the big 12-inch guns, not to manoeuvre them in action, but to explain how it was to be manoeuvred. That is the extent of their help, and the Russinas should get full credit for what they have accomplished in operating their artillery. No, the Japanese have done remarkably well in arming, clothing and munitioning the Russians, but they have not had a chance to do the fighting."

Moving to Town

More Contentment on The Old Farm,

Jas. M, Price, Publisher Iowa Homestead.

There is hardly a mail reaches me but brings some letter from the farm full of human interest, revealing the intimate soul of the writer. These are the letters I like to receive. They are full of confidence. By means of them I am kept in touch with the sincere, innermost thought of the men and women of the grain belt in whose interest I am striving.

Now and then a letter, or even a brief note, touches me deeply. Today there came to my desk a newspaper clipping telling of a farmers' celebration in a little town of 1,000 in the grain belt. The celebration had been attended by some 2,000 people, and according to the local paper was a glorious success. To read the account one would never think that anyone present could possibly have been sad. But written on the margin of this newspaper clipping, with its story of joy and gaiety, were these words:

"Why leave the farm? Sent by one that was foolish enough to be persuaded to leave the farm more than a year ago and who has not had a moment's real peace since."

A Heartache in Every Word.

It brought the tears to my eyes to read those few simple words. Isn't there a heartache in every word? Isn't there a tear behind the smiles that the celebration elicited? Isn't there a regret lurking behind every line in every column of the newspaper's story of funmaking? "Perhaps you can find something in this article worthy of space," wrote the sender. Indeed, I did find something there; I found a human-interest story there, a story which has a great big moral.

I want to take this occasion to preach just a little sermon against leaving the farm in one's old age. There is a certain street in a grain-belt town where I am well acquainted that is called Widow's Street, because every other house is occupied by a widow; in one block there are nine widows. Three-fourths of these widows are farm women who came to town, with their husbands, in their old age or after prosperity had come. The husband was accustomed to hard work, he thrived on it. In a life of idleness he pined away and it was not long before there was crepe hanging on the front door and another farmer had left the farm, not for the city, but for the cemetery.

Old Age at Home.

It is a good thing to pass our declining years where we are best known and most content. Human life is not easily transplanted after it has attained its growth. It is like tearing a sturdy oak out by the roots and hauling it across country to transplant it in barren clay. We should no more expect a rugged farmer, accustomed to farm life and surroundings, to be at home and to thrive in the city than we should expect a forest tree to do well after it is carted across country and planted alongside some hot city pavement.

"Who has not had a moment's real peace since," so wrote the wife of the farmer who had left the old home place and moved to town. What her lot in life is I do not know. She may have much of this world's goods, but she has none of that greatest of all things: Peace and contentment. Yes, the newspaper clipping had much of interest to me, much that was worthy of comment, though I read but little of it. The story, for me, was in the few words written on the margin. They tell a story that you and I—all of us—must never, never forget if the dusk of life is to find us lying down to the last long sleep in peace.

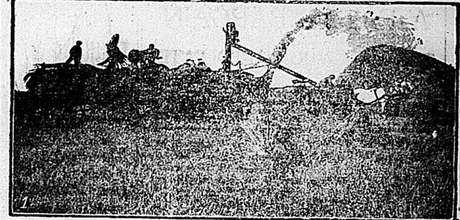
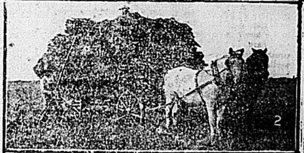
SAVE THE CROP OF WESTERN CANADA





(1) Threshing Wheat, Carman, Man.
(2) Loading Wheat in Manitoba.
(3) Reaping at Carberry, Man.

STATISTICS from the Government authorities show that the wheat crop this year promises to be greater than ever but the problem that is troubling the minds of the farmers in Western Canada is how can the crop be harvested? That is the predominent problem of to-day in Canada apart from recruiting for overseas. The railways are providing special excursions to carry the men to their destinations but the effort will almost be fruitless if the labor does not come forward for the work in view. There is no disguising the seriousness of the situation this year so many men having gone to the front or are on their way. Despite this fact, however, there should be no lack of men to gather in Canada's greatest asset if the country is to still continue the good work of the past two years in helping the Mother Country in the greatest war the world has even known. While Canada has sent some hundred thousand men to the war there are still hundreds of thousands more left who have not enlisted and who are not assisting in the making of munitions. These have now an excellent opportunity of doing a little bit at home to help the war abroad. Canada's crop is of vital necessity to Great Britain and her Allies so that everyone who helps in gathering in the harvest will in some measure be assisting in carrying on the war to a successful issue. The effort will not only be a health giver but give excellent remuneration.

You who are not helping your country directly are invited to take the trip West for a couple of months and not only earn three dollars a day and board but also feel that you are helping the powers to end the war successfully for our side. Any railway agent will furnish you with all the information to enable you to go to Western Canada and do your little "bit" by helping the farmers to harvest the great crop on which so much depends.

IN & ABOUT THE CITY

NO BOARD MEETING

Owing to the fact that a number of the members of the Board of Education are at present absent from the city, the Board did not meet last evening.

PRODUCTIVE RESOURCES

The Secretary of the Board of Trade, Col. W. N. Ponton, has received from the Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce an outline for the convention on National Trade and Commerce to be held in October in the business interests of the country. This call to action, by the Dominion Government is for the purpose of dealing with both increased production and wider markets and industrial problems. Belleville should be represented in the movement, and the Board of Trade invite correspondence and suggestions from all willing to contribute to and concern themselves in the success of this forward step in practical patriotism.

SUCCESSFUL LAWN SOCIAL

Under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society in connection with Holloway Street Methodist Church, a lawn social was held last evening at Mrs. F. Herity's premises, Lewis Street. There were a large number present and a most enjoyable time was participated by all who attended. The spacious lawn was most appropriately decorated with bunting, flags and Chinese lanterns, and when the latter were lit in the evening presented an inviting appearance. The ice cream booth provided was liberally patronized. During the evening an appropriate programme of vocal and instrumental selections were rendered.

ONE THOUSAND ACRE PLAIN ON FIRE

A fire has been raging in the Haldimand plains, for some miles from here.

These plains, consisting of a thousand acres, are covered with a scrubby growth of trees and produce large quantities of huckleberries which parties drive miles to gather. It has never been under cultivation and is known as the huckleberry Plains.

Farmers in the vicinity have been out fighting the fire as the fields of grain adjoining and buildings are in danger. It is stated that the greater part of the plains have been burned over.—Tweed News.

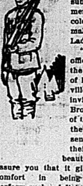
MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

PRESENTING THE COLORS



Following the consecration of the colors, at Brockville, on Thursday, Lady White, wife of the Minister of Finance, and Mrs. Jackson, Regent of the I.O.D.E. of Brockville, took up a position in front of the altar of drums, each handing to a kneeling subaltern, the regimental and King's colors. In the formal presentation, Lady White said:

"Colonel Bedell, officers and men of the 156th Battalion of Leeds and Grenville, I have been invited by the Brockville Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire to present to you on their behalf, these beautiful flags. I assure you that it gives me much comfort in being selected to perform such a delightful duty. These flags represents the loyalty, the devotion, and the affection of all who have contributed towards their production, and I am sure they will ever be prized by you, and cherished by your battalion. It is my earnest hope that these colors may accompany you always in honor and victory, and float proudly over you when you return to Canada, which we shall so joyfully look forward to. I have very much pleasure now in formally asking you to accept these colors for the 156th Battalion."

As Lieutenants Rowe and Woodcock rose from their knees with the beautiful colors waving in the slight afternoon breeze and faced the battalion, they were given the Royal Salute, and then in the usual way marched slowly through the lines of the 156th, and were saluted again by each company.

COOKERY SCHOOL OPENS

Ten officers and thirty N.C.O.'s of battalions in various training camps will report to Lieut. V. C. Kerrison at Barriefield Camp on Saturday for a course in the School of Cookery.

The officers will be in attendance for a week, while the N.C.O.'s. will take a course of thirty working days, beginning on Monday.

Object of the plans that will be changed will be that of bringing into the course a knowledge of interior economy and its relation to the messing of a company. The school will be conducted as a unit with sections of a company. There will lbe a duty roster with an orderly sergeant by detail as in a company of a battalion Lieut. V. C. Kerrison will command the school and Sergt. Major Rolfe will be regimental sergeant-major. Each day an officer will be detailed to take command of the company.

Another part that will be emphasized will be the out-door work accomplished by the school. On every possible occasion the class will cook their meals in the field, so that those in attendance may gain an insight into what conditions face the active service volunteers.

Officers at Wellington

Major G. I. Campbell, Chief Recruiting Officer, with Capt. T. Dodds, chaplain of the 155th Battalion, and Lieut. Sandford, formerly assistant adjutant of that battalion, conducted a recruiting meeting at Wellington on Wednesday night. Lieut. Sandford, it is now understood, will be very valuable in addressing recruiting meetings where his experience at the front will be of interest.

Misfits Cause Trouble

In discussing the probability for more battalions to be authorized for the winter, a medical officer said, "Hope the medically unfit men have sense enough to stay out of the recruiting offices and not cause any more trouble for us as well as for those in other departments."

Thrown From Motor Cycle.

While coming down Princess street on Thursday. Lieut. V. C. Kerrison, Royal Military College staff, had the misfortune to be thrown off the motor cycle he was riding and dashed to the pavement. He was fortunately not seriously injured, although his clothes were torn. The cause of the accident was the wet pavement, and one wheel of the motor cycle catching in the groove of the street car rail.

NO NEW BATTALIONS TILL NEXT MONTH

It is learned on excellent authority that no new battalions are to be authorized until September. In this District there will be Lindsay, Belleville, Kingston and possibly Brockville districts to be allotted battalions for over seas. From this source it is learned that no announcements may be expected for the next four or five weeks at least. The reason may possibly be the revision of the recruiting system which is now being worked out.

Big Tent of 155th Battalion

The big tent of the 155th Battalion which was blown down in the big wind a few days ago will be ready for erection in a few days. In the storm it was badly ripped and torn and tentmakers of the battalion have been busy repairing the damage. In the meantime the soldiers are getting anxious for more concerts and entertainments.

NOTES

Flemish Women Wash for Soldiers.

In huts at the Canadian Headquarters in Flanders seventy-five Flemish women, young and old, gathered from the countryside for five miles around, wash, iron, and mend the soldier's underwear as he throws it off, after a spell in the trenches. Their supervisor is a smart young Flamande and Sergeant Crotty, of the 24th Battalion, takes charge of the whole, reporting direct to a staff officer.

A godsend this Canadian incursion must be to the locality, for these Felmish women earn their three and four francs a day in the Canadian laundry the old women of the village who make lace all through the day have to be happy on one-tenth of that, or even less.

Unfermented Grape Juice.

Wash the grapes, free them from the stems, reject all that are not sound and place in a kettle. Add only enough water to cover, bring slowly to the boiling point, cook until the fruit is well softened, then drain as for jelly. Place the drained juice in an earthen dish and keep well covered in a cool place. The next morning bring to a boil, let it boil up well, then drain through a jelly bag. Continue this for three successive mornings, rejecting all sediment each time. The last morning measure the juice and to each quart allow a pound of granulated sugar. Boil four minutes, strain through a cheesecloth, bottle, cork and seal immediately. Dilute with water when ready to use and serve in glasses half filled with cracked ice. This is not only very refreshing, but very nourishing as well. Seltzer water can be used instead of the clear water with most excellent results.

ABOUT VEILS.

An Expert Tells How to Manage This Accessory.

Most of us when we pick out a veil choose one that we have admired on some one else or the mesh most becoming in the saleswoman as she holds it up, regardless of whether it suits us, and let it go at that.

"Some women wear the prevailing mesh of the moment without a thought as to its becomingness," says a veil expert. "Take the square or filet mesh recently worn. Despite its popularity, there was never a mesh that accentuates wrinkles as it does. It gives most faces a hard line that makes many women look older than they really are.

"On the other hand, the commonplace hexagon in a large, fine mesh is perhaps the most youthful of all. Despite its cheapness, many well dressed women find it so becoming and satisfactory that they rarely wear anything else.

"Most women can wear a wide range of veilings, however, provided they keep a few general hints in mind. For instance, the woman with a long, slender face or sharply defined features should avoid heavy meshes or large designs or lines, for they accentuate the features. Simple thin meshes with small figures or designs have a softening effect that she will find far more becoming.

"It is usually the woman with high color that looks best in the more pronounced veiling, especially if her face is round and full. But then the woman with a full round face can generally wear anything.

"In putting on a veil with large, sprawly figures in the design care should be taken in placing them on the face. In spite of the chic which such a veil can give to a commonplace hat nothing is more disfiguring than designs so placed across the features that they look like facial blemishes. Keep the figures as far away as possible from the eyes and if possible away from the corners of the mouth.

"In picking up a veil to put on the hat take it by the corners and after shaking it to straighten it out place it against the face on the hat. Most people then draw the veil back snugly and tie it on the hat before pinning the lower edges in place behind the ears.

"The way I recommend is to hold the veil over the hat as described before the mirror and then as the first step after getting the veil the correct length at the chin, lightly pinning at the top in the center of the brim. Then pin the lower edge snugly behind the ears with a small invisible hairpin before even gathering the ends together to tie the knot. In this way you have the face section perfectly adjusted before the pull or strain of tying it in the back. Being already held in place, lightly tying the veil does not affect it, and then, too, it eliminates that unsightly pulled effect over the nose and eyes.

"Veils should never be rolled, despite the embroidered holders that come for that purpose. Keep them flat, with as few creases as possible. Never rumple into tight little pinned wads, as I have seen otherwise fastidious women do.

"To wash a veil use lukewarm water and a small amount of castile soap. Lightly swish it about the soapy water and rinse several times in lukewarm water. Squeeze with great care and lay out flat to dry, pinned in shape like a curtain on a curtain drying frame."

OIL IMPORTS.

Canada in a Year Uses Two Hundred and Fifty Million Gallons.

General indications are that the higher price of oil in Canada has not appreciably diminished the use of the automobile. Roads are as alive with them to-day as they have ever been, and the licenses being taken out in Canada are on the increase, as they are in the United States. The motor car has come to be regarded as the chief agent in the consumption of oil, and rightly so, but there are other purposes to which it is put that are at the present time making great demands upon the supply. By-products of oil are very numerous, and have become articles of very general use. One of them, paraffin wax, is the principal constituent of some of the most generally used chewing gums, and much of it is used in the making of matches. One oil company delivers about forty thousand pounds monthly to one Canadian match factory, and another delivers, according to information furnished by The Toronto Globe some time ago, one million pounds a year to an explosive company. These figures will suffice to show that the by-products of the oil industries of the Dominion are of some consequence.

The total imports of coal oil, petroleum products, gasoline, crude oil, and lubricating oil in 1916 was 238,151,648 gallons, valued at $9,563,588.

If we add to the foregoing figures the quantities of vegetable and animal oils consumed in Canada, the aggregate will not be very much less than 250,000,000 gallons.

Very few realize that, per capita, Canadians consume annually about thirty-five gallons. This does not include vegetable oils brought into the country; only mineral oils are taken into account.

The different uses to which the products of crude petroleum are being put multiply almost every year. Many years ago the ardent promoters told the public that eventually the engines which drew freight from the Atlantic to the Pacific would be propelled by oil. Scientists confirmed these statements with the condition as to supply attached to their findings. Some of the prognostications made have come true, but many were made as to profits from the exploitation of oil wells that very properly led the over-sanguine to jail. It is true now that oil is used for hauling big trains over our mountains and for a hundred other purposes that were not thought of in the years which do not seem to be long past. Many thought that the old-fashioned paraffin lamp was doomed to pass away, but the oil companies to-day tell us that as much is being used as ever. The farmers not within reach of the gas and the electric current utilities are still very numerous and they are better off than they used to be. Moreover appliances for the use of oil have vastly improved. For illuminating purposes oil has been adapted to produce results that would astonish the age of fifty years ago. To-day far more cooking is being done by oil stoves and the accidents resulting therefrom are less numerous and the general results are very much better. Advances of this character have served to maintain the demand for oil and which fully explains the development within the Dominion of a very large and successful industry.

Quebec Men in Ontario Factories.

One of Canada's agricultural implement industries provided for service in khaki no less than 600 men. Some of these it was, of course, not difficult to replace, but a large proportion of them knew the run of their work. They were trained to different processes and machines, and were an important factor in the measure of the output. Those obtained to replace them, of which some 300 were brought from Quebec, had to be trained, and they could not be classed as competent for some weeks after they were put to work. Conditions at present, and as they for some time have been, are such that men such as could be got were put to work. In Ontario especially the shortage of men has been most marked. Bringing men from a distance is in itself an expensive undertaking. Only higher wages and other considerations can bring men away from their home environment. To-day, in every part of industrial Ontario, permanent signs are fixed over the offices of iron-working plants reading, "Men Wanted." The announcement is not qualified by the term "experienced" or that skill of any kind is required.

Canada's New Rifle.

Details which have been received in Ottawa in regard to the new Canadian service arm, which replaces the Ross rifle, indicate that it is, as a matter of fact, not a Lee-Enfield at all, but a new weapon on entirely modern lines. It might properly be called the new Enfield rifle, as it is being manufactured at the Enfield arsenal, but it is not a Lee-Enfield, since Lee was not its designer.

The new rifle, according to what has been heard here, is practically what was planned before the war to have been the new British service arm of 276 calibre. When the war broke out, however, it was thought unwise to change to a different calibre with so much 303 ammunition on hand, and accordingly a rifle embodying all the features of the new arm, but of the usual 303 calibre, has been adopted. It is said to have some features of the French, German, and even of the Ross rifle, including the straight pull, and to be a very modern arm in every particular. Samples of the new rifles have been received already at the Ross Rifle Works, and their manufacture will be commenced as soon as possible.

An Anxious Time For All Parents

CHILDREN OFTEN SEEM TO PINE AWAY AND ORDINARY MEDICINE DOES NOT HELP THEM

The health of children between the ages of twelve and eighteen years, particularly in the case of girls, is a source of serious worry to nearly every mother. The growth and development takes so much of their strength that in many cases they actually seem to be going into a decline. The appetite is fickle, brightness gives way to depression, there are headaches, fits and dizziness, palpitation of the heart at the least exertion, and sometimes fainting. The blood has become thin and watery and the sufferer must have something that will bring the blood back to its normal condition. At this stage no other medicine can equal Dr Williams' Pink Pills. Their whole mission is to make new, rich blood which reaches every part of the body, bringing back health, strength and energy. Miss Helena Taylor, West Toronto, says: "Two years ago I was so badly run down with anaemia that some of my friends did not believe I would get better. I could not go upstairs without stopping to rest, suffered from headaches, loss of appetite, and for two months of the time was confined to the house. I was under the care of a doctor, but the medicine I took did not help me in the least. A friend advised my mother to give me Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I did not expect they would help me after the doctor's medicine had failed, I thought they might be worth trying. After taking two boxes there was such a marked change for the better that people asked me if I had changed doctors, and I readily told them the medicine that was helping me. I continued taking the pills until I had used eight boxes, when my health was fully restored, and I have since enjoyed the best of health. I hope my experience may be the means of convincing some sickly person that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can restore them to health."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Millions of Dollars Given— Millions of Belgians Fed— Yet Millions More Are Needed

Nothing else has ever so roused the indignation and practical sympathy of the English-speaking world as the fate of Belgium.

At the first call for help some of the leading business men of neutral United States organized the Belgian Relief Committee, arranging with the British Government to co-operate, and with the Germans to keep their hands off—and the work of feeding the starving Belgians began.

Since then many million dollars have been contributed to the Belgian Relief Fund, chiefly in the British Empire and the United States, about half of it coming from Belgians living in these countries. The wonderfully efficient Relief Committee have spent this money so carefully that an average of $2.50 has fed each dependent Belgian family a month. Thus the nation has been saved alive—so far.

But only so far! The number of Belgians dependent on the Fund is steadily growing as their little hoards of food and money run out. Help is needed now more than ever before—and will be till the Germans are driven out. If it is not supplied, all that has been done cannot save the country from wholesale starvation for two weeks!

If you have been contributing to the Belgian Relief Fund, and so keeping some woman, child, family or families alive, don't leave them to starve! If you have not done much yet, spare a little of your plenty for some of the hundreds who are daily forced to join the bread lines at the Relief stations. The Relief Committee appeal particularly for regular monthly contributions sufficient to feed one, or better still, several Belgian families.

Refused to Make Munitions.

Canadian prisoners in Germany were sentenced to a year in jail by the Germans for refusing to make war munitions, according to a letter received in Ottawa from Corporal Ian A. Simons, formerly a prisoner in Germany, and now transferred to the internment camp in Switzerland. He writes that Corporal Harry Hogarth, of Ottawa, is one of those who refused to make munitions, and it is expected he will have to serve the year's sentence which has already been imposed upon him. Steps have been taken to bring it before the authorities, so that it can be investigated, as, according to The Hague tribunal, prisoners of war are not to be called upon to make munitions

SPORTING NEWS

BASEBALL

The batting of the Toronto team shows a marked improvement over that of a week ago. The Leafs still have three regulars in the 300 class. Some of the leading batsmen have slipped somewhat in their work with the stick, but the team average is much better than it was, some of the lesser lights having found their batting eyes. It is a pecular fact that the Toronto team have hit harder and to better effect on their several road trips than they have at home.

LINERS

It is rumored that Washington will not be in the American League next year. The Senators will be lucky if they do not drop out this season, as only the weak-fibred Mackmen prevent them from falling through.

The Highlanders defeated Cleveland again, rallying strongly in the last three innings and winning in the ninth, 5 to 4. Coveleskie was knocked out of the tieing and winning runs were scored off Morton.

Chicago pounded Mays for eight hits in the four and one-third innings he was in the box, scoring all their runs in that period and defeating Boston, 7 to 0. Six of the hits went for extra bases, five doubles and a triple.

Baker and Pipp each have eight circuit punches to their credit, while the next two in the American League are Felsch and Graney, with five each. In the National League, Williams, of the Cubs, leads the home run count with ten. The once mighty Cactus Cravath is no longer among the first ten sluggers of his corral.

Richmond won the only game in the International Thursday, when they defeated Montreal by a score of 7 to 4. In the eighth inning Richmond walloped Goodbred's offerings all over the lot, and scored five runs. Keating was also hit hard by the Royals in the ninth, but managed to finish.

LAWN BOWLING

Toronto lawn bowlers did themselves proud in the main competitions of the Dominion Tourney, which were concluded Thursday. Though the best green knights from all parts of the country lined up in the two big events, not an outside rink reached the semi-finals in either of the chief contests, which is quite a feather in the cap of the Toronto stalwarts.

The features of the Ontario and Walker finals games in Toronto on Thursday in the Dominion Lawn Bowling Tournament was the playing of Charles Bulley, the third man of the Page quartette from Lawrence Park, and the magnificent leading of Charles Wallace, for the Atkinson, High Park rink at the Granite lawns in the evening.

London, Aug. 18.—The entries for the Derby and Oaks of 1918 closed during last week, when 287 nominations for the Derby and 205 for the Oaks were received. King George has five nominations in each big classic, and entries have also been received from the stewards of the Jockey Club and all the leading owners and breeders throughout the country.

HARD LUCK FOR NAT RAY.

Goshen, N.Y., Aug. 18.—A new world's record was established here in the two-year-old race when the Brook Farm filly Emma Magowan, owned by Richard Delafield and driven by Budd Murray, stepped miles in 2.13½ and 2.15½. Nowaday Girl held the record, made at Monroe, N.Y. It was 2.16½.

Nat Ray, the Toronto horseman, fared badly with his horses, being seventh with Jayworthy and being distanced in the second heat with Tredell.

FAST TIME MADE AT MOTOR BOAT RACES

The motor boat races at Alexandria Bay this week furnished exciting sport and the Hawkeye won the third and final race in the Thousand Island Club's Challenge Power Boat Competition, negotiating the 29 mile course at the rate of forty-four miles an hour. The Hawkeye is owned and driven by A. L. Judson of Lake George N.Y., president of the American Power Boat Association.

Peter Pan VII. owned by James Simpson and S. P. Becknell of the Columbia Yacht Club was second.

P.D.Q. VI. owned by A. Graham Miles, New York, was third.

AWNING STRIPES.

What a Woman May Do With This Interesting Summer Fabric.

Awning stripes are one of the vogues of the season. They are used not only in clothes, but for household furnishings as well. They are striking, and with anything striking there is danger that the vogue will not last. But they are worth immediate consideration nevertheless.

Awning striped skirts were worn with much effectiveness last summer. They are worn, naturally, for sport skirts and are really better when worn with a blouse, jacket or sweater of plain color, the color of one of the stripes. Sometimes the jacket is made of stripes and the skirt is of plain material, and this arrangement is equally effective.

There are hats covered with linen or silk in wide stripes that are decidedly striking worn with light frocks. The stripes are sometimes arranged by means of plaits to radiate from the crown; sometimes they run straight across crown and brim.

Then there are lawn parasols and tents, too, in the same gay stripes, and these give a most festive and holiday air to the surroundings of the house decked forth in awnings. Needless to say, all stripes about a house should be of the same color to give the best effect.

Awnings themselves are made for the summer cottage or house in the widest stripes imaginable. They are usually in bright shades, too, of green, red or brown.

Cushions for the porch and lawn are covered with awning stripes. There are some interesting new square cushions—cubical, about eighteen inches high. These are quite hard and firm and are good to sit upon on lawn or porch.

For the girl who wears a skirt or jacket of awning stripes for tennis there are racket holders of the same material that make the sport suit more effective.

Parasols, too, for beach use and country use generally are made of awning stripes, which come in silk as well as in linen. They are especially pretty in the new shades in pongee, used in combination with the plain silk.

The stripes, too, come in some of the fabrics for summer window curtains and are quite as good as awning stripes in other fabrics for other uses.

PEANUT STRAW.

Here's a Sport Hat Built to Keep Off the Sun.

Outing hats are taking on huge circumferences. This knockabout straw is trimmed with a wreath of padded fruit and velvet foliage tinted in natural colors. This is the kind of hat we may expect to see on young ladies all this summer.

LUSCIOUS FRUIT.

THE RAGE FOR STENCIL.

Hats, Shoes and Frocks Are Now Treated With Designs In Paint.

Hats, shoes, frocks and all the dainty accessories of milady up to the minute are stenciled or painted. Many a frock that otherwise would be uninteresting is made to become a gown of individuality. Materials that otherwise would be impossible are made most effective when treated to a design in color that draws attention to the design rather than the material. Hats are accompanied with bags of straw and both decorated with a painting or stenciled in contrasting colors.

Now comes the panama hat hand painted with a Japanese design. This hat is faced with velvet. Carried with it is a parasol of linen in the same design. There seems to be no end to the combinations of articles treated with this artistic decoration. A caution should be sounded though, for there are many atrocities on the market, and one is wise in sticking to the same design or allowing an artist of reputation to select a design that would be suitable to material or the fair wearer's own color scheme. One thing greatly in favor of designs of this type is that surely here one can depend on the fastness of these colors and this at a time when no one's word is believed as to the permanence of any color. There is another side to this question too. Many an unusual design is created by women who otherwise would not have designed patterns for materials. This would indicate employment for the young woman who has an inclination in this direction.

Colorful Blouses.

One of the advantages of blouse buying is that the average woman can get half a dozen to suit her different needs and moods. This season they are unrolled before her like a brilliant, never ending carpet. The design and the color constantly change. They have reached a degree of variety and gayety that has not been touched in several seasons. One must really go back two decades in sartorial history to find the equal of the blouses of today, as far as color is concerned.

A Silent City.

No industry brings the village of Giethoorn, Holland, into touch with the world. It is almost wholly inaccessible except by water, and the inhabitants are shy and keep within doors, betraying not the slightest interest in visitors. Indeed, Giethoorn has been likened, empty and silent in its green picturesqueness, to a place visited in a dream.—Argonaut.

Progressive.

"When did you commit your first fatal extravagance?"

"When my boss referred to my wages as my 'salary.'"

"And when did you perpetrate this latest folly?"

"The day my wife called my salary my 'income.'"—Cleveland Leader.

Richest in Europe.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland is said to be the richest sovereign in Europe in her own right, her income being enormous from the crown lands and from her vast colonies.

TOOK SIX FIELD GUNS

Violent Artillery Actions on Somme Front—Huns Make Powerful Attack

Canadian Press Special.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Afternoon statement—North of the Somme in addition to important captures of material mentioned yesterday, we took six field guns in the wood which our trops carried yesterday between Maurepas and Guillemont.

During the night there were very violent artillery actions on the Somme front.

On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) the Germans yesterday toward the close of the day delivered a powerful attack, accompanied by the use of flaming liquids, against Fleury. Our curtain of fire and infantry fire obliged the enemy to stop short and inflicted serious losses on them.

YOUNG GIRL ATTEMPTS TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Claims She Was Refused Admission to Home of Her Parents

WINDSOR, Aug. 21.—Special—Margaret Crewes, nineteen years old, a Windsor girl, who was detained in the County Jail, Detroit, for two months and recently deported to Windsor, made an attempt to end her life early Saturday morning in Windsor Jail. Sergeant Giles, attracted to her cell by choking sounds, found her hanging from the top bars by a rope fashioned out of her clothes. After being cut down the girl sobbed that she would rather die than be sent to Sandwich Jail on a charge of vagrancy.

Margaret was deported from Detriot last week. After being taken to the Children's Aid Society here she was refused admission to her parents' home, she said, and compelled to sleep on a bench at Riverside Park, Walkerville, where she was found and arrested as a vagrant. She was removed to Sandwich Jail after being remanded for sentence.

THREE AUTOS STOLEN SNEAK THIEVES ABROAD

Police in Three Cities Are Looking For Missing Cars

KINGSTON, Aug. 19.—Not only are thieves at work stealing auto tires, but they are also running off with automobiles.

It would be a hard job to steal some automobiles, as the owners keep too close a tab on them. They work overtime, and a thief would have to work pretty hard to get away with his game.

However, the trick has been pulled off in three cities recently, Toronto, Windsor and Hamilton. The local police have been communicated with in regard to these automobiles being stolen.

Tracing automobiles is about the hardest job the police are up against as the autos are coming and going so fast, that it is almost impossible to keep track of them.

DESPERATE ENEMY HELD BY HAIG AND FOCH

Allies Take Strong Positions and Hold Them—British Advance From Thiepval to Guillemont and Repulse Heavy Assaults Capture About 800 Prisoners—French Take Strongly Fortified Positions

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Special—Both on the Somme and before Verdun fighting of the most desperate character continued yesterday, marking the fourth day of the renewed grapple in the former theatre and the second day of terrifice clashes in the new Meuse action.

They carried a ridge southeast of and overlooking Thiepval, northern slopes above Pozieres, hold the western edge of High Wood, and enemy trenches extending half a mile to the west. The line has been extended half way to Ginchy, and the outskirts of Guillemont. with the station and a quarry of considerable military importance were won. On Saturday further progress was made on the Pozieres-Bapaume road.

On Friday the British advanced on an eleven-mile front from Thiepval to Guillemont, taking important positions and 800 prisoners.

A slight lull during the late hours of Saturday and through the night in Picardy yesterday was broken by a series of terrific attacks on the new British front west of the Delville Wood. The Germans swept forward in their first assault just about the noon hour, and succeeded in breaking into the newly consolidated British trenches. They were immediately taken under a heavy fire and beset by infantry attacks, with the result that they were driven from the positions. Other attacks which followed failed.

Meanwhile, to the south, the British and French, in hard-fought actions, scored local successes on short front. The British pushed forward for some distance north of Bazentin-le-Petit, further increasing the menace to Martinpuich, which is now under the continuous fire of their guns.

Gen. Foch's French troops also were busy. Quickly recuperating in the short respite granted them following their stupendous efforts of the previous two days, they resumed this afternoon their campaign to isolate Guillemont. Their success was marked by the capture of a strongly fortified wood between that village and Maurepas, together with a great quantity of war material which it contained.

The German artillery fire is increasing in intensity all along the front between the Ancre and the Somme, and the British positions especially are under almost continuous bombardment. From all indications the Germans have greatly strengthened this arm by new batteries, and are replying in almost even ratio to the British.

A War Office statement from Berlin yesterday brings out the fact that the great effort of the French and British on Friday was launched with fully 200,000 men, more than 16,000 men to each mile of the front of attack—a soldier to every yard.

At Verdun the battle reached a high pitch of fury during the night, with both armies alternately launching great attacks on the shell-swept Thiaumont-Fleury front the Germans admit that the French "penetrated" Fleury. The French War Office had already reported the complete capture of the town, and to-day announces the repulse of terrifice attacks directed against it by the Germans Crown Prince. Neither side gained on the rest of this front, although thousands of men met in continually hand-to-hand clashes throughout the hours of darkness.

ALONG THE ENTIRE FRONT

Canadian Press Special.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—No further details of operations on the Saloniki front are given in the report to-day from the French army of the east, which shows that fighting is still in progress along the whole line. The announcement says operations are proceeding along the entire front.

TWO BRITISH CRUISERS ARE SUBMARINED IN NORTH SEA

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Special— The British Admiralty last night issued the following statement:

"Reports from our lookout squadrons and other units showed that there was considerable activity on the part of the enemy in the North Sea Saturday, the 19th.

"The German high seas fleet came out, but learning from their scouts that the British forces were in considerable strength the enemy avoided an engagement and returned to port.

"In searching for the enemy we lost two cruisers by submarine attacks—H.M.S. Nottingham, Captain C. B. Miller, and H.M.S. Falmouth, Captain John Edwards.

"All the officers of the former were saved, but thirty-eight of the crew are missing. All the officers and men of the Falmouth were saved, but one leading stoker, Norman Fry, died of injuries.

"An enemy submarine was destroyed and another rammed and possibly sunk.

"There is no truth in the German statement that a British destroyer was sunk and a British battleship damaged."

The presence in the North Sea of a German squadron of some fifteen warships, including large cruisers, was reported by trawlers arriving at Ymuiden, Holland, a Reuter despatch from that point says. The squadron was sighted early yesterday morning in the region of Whitebank, and was accompanied by two Zeppelins. It was taking a northwesterly course.

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—The Admiralty statement announced to-day.

"A German submarine off the British east coast on August 19 destroyed a small cruiser and a destroyer of the enemy. Another small cruiser and a battleship were struck by torpedoes and damaged."

Thirty Thousand Troops Untented

Severe Storm Strikes National Guard Camp in Texas—Down-Pour Four and One-Half Inches

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 19—With army wireless reports stating there had been comparatively little damage and no known loss of life in the Brownsville district, chief anxiety centered early today on the situation at Corpus Christi and that vicinity as the result of a tropical storm yesterday. Only loss of life so far reported was in the sinking in the Gulf of Mexico of the small steamer Pilot Boy, plyping between Galvetion and Corpus Christi. The vessel carried a crew of twelve only three of whom have as yet been saved. These three where washed ashore alive at Port Aransas, Texas.

The last telegraph wire into Corpus Christi failed at 2.30 yesterday afternoon and the last telephone line went out shortly before seven last night Last reports from Corpus Christi placed the velocity of the wind at 79 miles an hour, and it was stated the storm was expected to incerase in intensity until midnight. The storm had abated somewhat at Brownsville at 11 last night, according to wireless reports to army headquarters at Fort Houston, the only means of communication with that city. The message stated, however another storm was reported approaching from on easterly direction.

The storm played havoc among the army camps in the Brownsville district, virtually half of the tents being blown down by the storm, and loss of considerable army equipment was reported. Fully thirty thousand National Guardsmen and regular soldiers, it was stated were sleeping in public buildings in Brownsvville last night. Their camps were either destroyed by the wind or flooded with water from a four and one-half inch rain.

HOSPITALS UNDERGROUND

Full and Entire Units Found Under German Trenches

LONDON, Aug. 19—Trenches captured byp the British within the last week over the new territory in which they are now fighting and which is several miles inside the main German fortified line, which stood for so long a period intact, give every proof of the most thoughtful and careful preparation imaginable

Many of these trenches are concrete lined throughout and are fitted up with practically underground houses with every conceivable kind of accomation, drainage water sypstems laid out in pipes, etc.

"The general commanding the division of British troops which are at the front of the advance has just transmitted to London the report of his medical staff, which makes the following statement; In the German trenches which we captured yesterday we found two completely-equipped emergency hospitals, one of them thirty feet underground. These are great rooms with every possible convenience, exhaust and direct fans, operating tables and walls lined with box board and floored with cement In these places operations can be carried on with nothing to disturb the underground quiet. With thousands of shells bursting overhead, it is impossible to hear a sound. Such perfection of detail compels our admiration. It is also the proof of the positive opinion of the German General Staff that their lines could not be successfully attacked or taken.

We have seized thousands of pounds worth of operating material and table instruments and entire outfits of medicine and anaesthetics, not emergency camp equipments, but full hospital units.

MR. ANDREW CARNEGIE IN FEEBLE CONDITION

BAR HARBOR, Maine, Aug 21.—Special.)—Andrew Carnegie arrived here yesterday in such feeble condition he found it difficult to walk without support.

He arrived on his yacht The Surf, which he boarded two weeks ago off Noreton Point, Connecticut.

Mr. Carnegie and friends came ashore and took an automobile ride around Mount Desert Island. The steel magnate had great difficulty in stepping out of the launch to the float of the New York Yacht Club's landing. As he walked toward the automobile he leaned heavily on the arm of his attendant.

His exertions in getting into the automobile seemed to exhaust him. He told friends he was not sick. "I only feel tired," he said.

Mr. Carnegie's daughter, who accompanies him, declined to talk about her patient.

The Surf will lie at anchor here over night. Her captain said she might not sail for several days.

ROME, Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Information from Albania is to the effect that the whole country is in a state of revolt. Taking advantage of the weakness of the Austrian garrisons the Albanians have formed numerous bands, which overrun the country, robbing and killing and laying waste.

The Austrian garrisons are in a critical condition, all communication being broken, and help by sea being difficult on account of the watch kept by the allied fleets in the Adriatic. Sanguinary fighting is continually taking place between Austrians and Albanians. The Austrian commander in Albania has asked for reinforcements.

Kelly Refused A New Trial

WINNIPEG, Aug. 19.—Thos. Kelly is refused a new trial. The court of appeal by a majority of three to two refused the application of the defence. Chief Justice Howell and Justices Cameron and Perdue sustained the conviction of the Parliament buildings contractor, and Justices Richards and Haggart favored a re-hearing of the charges. The defence will appeal to the supreme court.

W. A. T. Sweatman, counsel for Kelly, served notice that he would appeal to the supreme court.

EASTERN ENTRANCE TO THE CANADIAN NATIONAL EXHIBITION

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—The new Eastern entrance to the Canadian National Exhibition has been inspected and finally approved by the traffic police and Street Railway officials and pronounced capable of caring for the greatest rrowds ever handled at the Exhibition with a minimum of trouble and congestion. With the inauguration of the service over the new route on opening day, Monday, August 26th, will come the solution of a traffic problem which has been the despair of the city for fifteen years past. The new railway route will be through the picturesque Old Fort, the historic battleground of 1812. A steel bridge and two trestles were required to span the gaps and in all $250,000 has been spent on the undertaking, which will serve only until the Harbor Improvement plans are completed. The Exhibition Terminal will have a platform 500 feet long by 80 feet wide so divided as to simplify to the greatest degree the handling of the crowds coming and going by street car.

LIBERAL PARTY DOOMED

Unless Pribibition is Removed as Chief Plank

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—Speaking at a meeting held last night in Templar's Hall, Queen street west, in the interests of Mr. Gordon Waldron, Sir Allen Aylesworth, predicted that unless prohibition was removed as the chief plank in the Liberal platform, the party in Ontario was doomed to be wrecked on the political sea.

Prohibition, he said, was an unfair interference with the rights of the people. The Government that passed such a measure, he believe sto be deserving of the strongest condemnation. He strongly urged the voters of South-west Toronto to cast the ballot for Mr. Waldron, who is an out-and-out anti-prohibitionist.

Sir Allen attacked The Globe because, while it had announced it was prepared to support a temperance Tory in preference to an anti-prohibitionist in the campaign, it had failed to do so. "Inconsistent" and "insincere" were the terms he applied to The Globe.

The candidate and Mr. C. E. Bachly, also addressed the meeting, the largest and most enthusiastic yet held by Mr. Waldron.

Reports from Banff, Cochrane, and points west are to the effect that considerable snow has fallen. Occasional snow flurries were reported from other places in the district.

A MISSIONARY TO ONTARIO.

Western Man Tells What Has Been Done by Grain-Growers.

"The subjects which proved most interesting to our audiences were direct legislation and sane methods of taxation," said Mr. John Kennedy, Vice-President of the Grain Growers' Grain Company, Winnipeg.

The audiences referred to by Mr. Kennedy were those that assembled at Palmerston, Woodstock, Petrolea, Forest, Brechin, Belleville, Chesterville, Stouffville, Orillia, and Beaverton, under the auspices of the United Farmers of Ontario, to hear Mr. Kennedy and other speakers deal with subjects of special interest to farmers.

"Despite the fact that farmers were in the midst of haying from 100 to 300 turned out at each meeting," Mr. Kennedy continued.

By way of introduction, Mr. Kennedy usually began by telling of the work accomplished by the organized farmers of the western Provinces. And it was a wonderful story he had to tell. "To begin with," he said, "it was the farmers' organizations of the prairies that made the west dry. It was the resolution adopted at our local and Provincial conventions which crystallized the sentiment that banished the bar from the western limits of Ontario to the foothills of the Rockies. It was our organization that secured the enfranchisements of women in Manitoba and obtained the pledge of the same for Saskatchewan and Alberta. In Manitoba, again as the result of our efforts, a direct legislation act has been passed that is to be brought into force by proclamation, and in Saskatchewan and Alberta an incomplete system of direct legislation has been provided for, with an assurance of completion of the work at the next session of the Legislatures of those Provinces. The principle of direct legislation has already been applied in Manitoba, Provincial prohibition having been brought about by a popular vote, the reform being carried by three to one.

"In a business way the organized farmers of the west have created the largest grain commission business on the continent, and what is said to be the largest grain exporting business in America. Through our commission business we will handle 40,000,000 bushels of western grain for the year ending with August. Through our export organization we will handle 60,000,000 bushels, largely American grain. We are financing the elevator system of Alberta, where there are seventy-five elevators, and handling the grass passing through these elevators. We operate the two C. P. R. elevators at the head of the lakes. By means of our activity in the grain business we have created real competition in the western grain business, and so have added literally millions of dollars to the returns of western farmers. We have handled five million pounds of the binder twine purchased by the prairie farmers. That is not over 10 to 20 per cent. of the requirements of the west, but by our activity in this line we have created real competition here, too, and by so doing have saved our people 2 to 2½ cents per pound on their twine purchases. We have bought farm machinery and vehicles in wholesale lots and for cash, and have thus saved our people 30 per cent. in the cost of the same. By all this we have made all the difference between tolerable and intolerable conditions for the western farmer."

Having told what western farmers have done, Mr. Kennedy drove the lesson home to his Ontario audiences. "Who accomplished all this?" he asked. "Men who went from Ontario and settled in the west. You have thousands of farmers still in Ontario who are just as intelligent as those who have gone to the prairies. What western farmers have accomplished in the way of improving their conditions, Ontario farmers can do in improving conditions here.

Ottawans in England.

Talking of Canada, on my way up to London, while waiting for a connection at one of the big Midland Railway stations, a train pulled in bearing reinforcements for the Ottawa Regiment, says a writer in The Toronto Mail and Empire. They had just landed in England and were on their way to camp, preliminary to being despatched to the front. They stopped for about fifteen minutes and were let loose from their cages, so for that brief space the big, silent, sombre station swarmed with a cheery, laughing, chaffing crowd of khaki-clothed men, who looked the absolute embodiment of good spirits and vitality. They swarmed round the bookstall and I was amused to hear the discussions which resulted over a sixpence and half crowns. Owing to the liquor restrictions the refreshment rooms were only open for the sale of buns, tea, and such like, harmless and nourishing commodities, and as the recall sounded and the compartments filled again men and officers scurried back to their seats carrying paper bags in one hand and steaming cups of tea or coffee in the other. As for the penny-in-the-slot machines, which provided chocolates, cigarettes, and matches, I imagine anyone who wanted either after that train moved out of the station would have been disappointed, for they clicked incessantly under the influence of a continual stream of pennies.

A Real Dilemma.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McCill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE
BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XX.—Continued.

"Just why he took the bag to a room engaged in the Hotel Royal the obvious. He may have feared to take a large sum of money home, of that, if he did so, an attempt might be made to rob his house by the very rascals who had bribed him. He must have engaged the room in advance in order to avoid a delay, or possible recognition, when he brought the bag to the hotel. His object must have been to count the money, for the subsequent of which, no doubt, he had planned. There seems to be no other way of sizing up the circumstances, as far as his conduct is concerned."

While not positively confirming these shrewd theories, Nick soon found evidence in support of them. Hurried enquiries at the parcel rooms of the three hotels nearest the Hotel Royal proved futile; but at the Grand, two blocks below, Nick found the man he was seeking—a parcel-room clerk who recalled checking a black leather bag about noon the day before the murder, and that it had been reclaimed about four o'clock the following day by an older gentleman with grey hair and beard, who volunteered the explanation, entirely needless in view of the fact that he presented the proper check for the bag, that the latter had been left for him the previous day by his son.

Nick detected not only nervousness and apprehension in this inclination to explain matters, but also a partial confirmation of his theory; yet the clerk could give him no description of the man who had left the bag, and recalled the order only because of the circumstances mentioned.

Dismissing his cab, Nick now telephoned to his business office and inquired whether any information had come from Patsy. He learned that only a few lines had been received by mail, scribbled on a leaf from his notebook, giving the address of Kane, the cobbler, and a hint at the designs Patsy had in view. Nick knew that this communication must have been made before his meeting with Cullen, and several hours before the episodes which had occurred in the tool shed.

"He is still with Cullen and some of his gang," he said to himself, as he left the telephone closet. "No report sent in, eh? Probably he has not discovered his identity. It will be all his life is worth. By Jove, there's a mob! I guess the cat is out of the bag."

The last remark was occasioned, not by his apprehensions concerning Patsy, but by an excited group of men gathered around a ticker in one corner of the hotel office.

Hastening to join them, Nick eagerly examined the tape, drawing it through his fingers and quickly noting the action of United Transit stock since the opening of the market. It was easy for him to read between the lines.

It was then one o'clock, and the terrific advance in the stock during the first two hours had been followed by a sudden furious break, appalling in its volume and violence.

In twenty minutes the price had been cut in half, from seventy to thirty-five. Blocks of from five to ten thousand shares were being hurled upon the market with the abandon of absolute assurance. While Nick was still studying the tape, the stock broke to twenty-six under another terrific drive by Fenno, and then came a report that the Exchange was in a panic.

The strong, clean-cut face of the great detective wore a look of grim satisfaction when he returned to the street and started for the Hotel Royal, where he had agreed to meet Chick in time for lunch with him.

"Precisely what I have expected," he said to himself, as he neared his destination. "Todd and his crowd boomed the stock this morning on the strength of my supposed death. They can have been informed only by the gang I encountered last night, and with whom, therefore, they must be in league. Chick got out the injunction this morning, as I directed, and at noon the news reached Wall Street, giving Fenno the big stick I promised him. He is using it to good advantage. He is smashing the stock for fair, and will drive it under ten before three o'clock, as he promised. Then, by Jove, we shall see whether——"

What Nick saw at that moment, however, struck him mentally dumb, and for a moment turned him weak in the knees and sick at heart.

It was Janet Bolton, as she passed him while he entered the Hotel Royal.

CHAPTER XXI.
A DESPERATE CRISIS.

Only the mind of Nick Carter could appreciate in a single instant the full significance of Janet Bolton's presence in the Hotel Royal. Like a flash, blinding in its intensity, staggering for a moment, all that it signified leaped up in Nick's mind.

She had been to visit Nora Selkirk. She was concealed in Fenno's office during his talk that morning. She had heard all, discovered his identity, his death ruse, his suspicions, his designs. His indirect work in the market, his attack on the Todd crowd, his plans to force them into a corner, to utter desperation, his suspicion that they would steal the bank funds with which to meet the crisis, his plan to expose them by springing a bank examination on them the next morning, the fact that Patsy was then a spy among some of their gang—that Janet Bolton knew all these flashed across Nick's mind in an instant.

With them, moreover, came the conviction that this traitor in Fenno's office had come to inform Nora Selkirk, that the latter might hasten to warn Todd, and to reveal to him the precise situation.

Nick instantly realized, furthermore, the disastrous effect of all this. It would crumble to dust the very foundations of the edifice he had built at such tremendous cost. His every design would be met with a countermove and possibly perverted. Patsy, whose location was then unknown and immediate rescue impossible, would be exposed, revealed as a spy, and slain without compunction. These were the threatening possibilities that at once occurred to the detective and momentarily staggered him.

Knowing before that there was imperative need of haste, he now realized that only cyclonic work could save the day. In another twenty-four hours all might be lost.

To appeal to Fenno was out of the question. He could not be spared for one minute from the Stock Exchange.

Nick appreciated every contingency, in fact, and felt that he must tackle the situation single-handed, when, giving him a thrill of relief, he saw Chick hurrying toward the hotel to keep their appointment.

Nicked rushed out and met him on the sidewalk, quickly pointing out Janet, who was hurrying away.

"Get after that girl, Chick," he cried softly. "Hold her until I come. Watch her constantly."

Chick at once read in Nick's face that some grave crisis had arisen.

"I'm wise," he nodded, starting after Janet.

Nick did not wait for the answer. Bolting into the hotel, he rushed to Mrs Selkirk's appartments. To head off the work of these two women, if possible and prevent their communicating to others the information of which he now felt sure they were possessed, were of paramount importance.

A sharp knock on Nora Selkirk's door brought no response, and Nick did not stand on ceremony. Finding the door securely closed, he opened it with a picklock and strode into the parlor—only to presently find that the entire suite was deserted.

"Gone!" he mentally muttered. "The question is—when did she go? Did that Bolton girl fail to find her here? If so, I yet may baulk her designs."

Hurried inquiries of the elevator boys, and of those in the lower corridor, proved futile. None had seen Nora Selkirk leave the house, and Nick was in the dark as to when she departed. There was left only Janet, who could give the information he wanted—yet who might be much too crafty to be caught napping.

Before leaving the hotel an afterthought struck Nick—that Janet's visit might have been only incidental, that she might not know of his call upon Fenno that morning, after all, and that the situation was not as threatening as he feared.

"There's one way to settle that," he said to himself. "I'll phone to Fenno's office."

He did so, and asked for Miss Bolton. The answer he received dashed his brief hopes and clinched his suspicions. Miss Bolton, he was informed, had been taken suddenly ill about twelve o'clock and had been sent home in a cab.

"I'll be hanged!" Nick grimly muttered, starting for the street. "She was ill, eh? Not by a long chalk. That was only a subterfuge to get out of that office. We'll see about her."

Chick Carter, in the meantime, had arrested Janet. She turned like a flash when he touched her shoulder, saying curtly:

"Stop a moment, young lady. You're wanted."

"How dare you!" Janet demanded, with eyes flashing. "What do you mean by speaking to me on the street, by addressing me in——"

"Just what I say," Chick interrupted. "You're wanted."

"Wanted by whom? For what?"

"A friend of mine. He'll tell you all about it."

"I guess not," Janet sneered, with lips twitching resentfully. "I shall do nothing of the kind."

"Wait a bit."

"I'll not! You insult me. I'll——"

"You'll do what you're told," Chick said sharply, grasping her arm when she turned to go. "You're under arrest. Don't make a scene now, or you'll get the worst of it. I'm not to be trifled with, nor given any bluff by—— Here, what's that? Spit it out, or I'll throttle you!"

Finding escape impossible, and quick to see peril ahead, Janet had thrust something into her mouth and was trying to swallow it.

Chick immediately seized her by the throat, resolved to thwart her obvious design, and the girl quickly began to gag and struggle violently, evidently in a frenzy of utter desperation.

Several men, observcing the startling scene, rushed to Janet's rescue.

"Fall back—all of you!" Chick sternly shouted, as they approached "I'm an officer—a detective! I'll arrest the first man who interferes. Spit it out, you jade, or I'll not leave a breath in you! Out with it, or——"

PAULINE FREDERICK DENOUNCED FROM PULPIT

Stars as Celebrated "Audrey" in Famous Players Adaptation of Mary Johnston's Novel.

Can there be anything more humiliating, more crushing, than for an innocent girl to be forced to sit in church and be made the subject of a scathing, bitter denunciation from the pulpit? Because of her very unsophistication she has been unwittingly led into a compromising situation, and now the accusing finger of the minister points scornfully at her as a horrible example to the young girls of the community.

That is one of the great scenes of the Famous Players-Paramount adaptation of Mary Johnston's celebrated novel, "Audrey," adapted for stake production by Harriet Ford and E. F. Boddington, in which beautiful Pauline Frederick is being starred at Griffin's Opera House To-night and Tuesday night. It is a different role from those which have won Miss Frederick her title as the greatest dramatic actress on the screen, for Audrey is a bare-footed girl of the woods—a glorious child of nature, with never a thought of her physical charms.

Lord Haward, her gdardian, who is miliation at the hands of the minister and of the congregation, she is at least spared the suffering which comes to Lord Haward, her guardian, who is wounded in a duel while defending her good name. There is a half-breed trapper who is in love with Audrey, and his insistent attentions to her, despite her hatred of him, causes her endless worry. As the trapper becomes enraged by the girl's disdain, her very life is endangered and Audrey is in constant terror of the man.

So great is the effect of the minister's denunciation of Audrey upon the congregation that she is turned out of the Darden home in which she has been working as a general drudge. Rejected by her supposed friends, Audrey seeks refuge with an old woman who is believed to be a witch. When the neighbors hear of Ahdrey's flight to the "witch's," their rage knows no bounds, and they form a mob with avowed intention of killing them both.

With the crowd yelling in its fury, Audrey safely conceals the old woman but is herself thrown into the water. She swims to safety, but not until Haward has risen from his sick-bed to come to her rescue, upon hearing of Audrey's danger.

Besides the above offering, a novel and amusing Bray Cartoon will be exhibited along with the 16th episode of "The Iron Claw" series, the title of this episode being, "The Unmasking of Davy."

THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

The latest Ottawa telegram says the contracts for the rebuilding of the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa were based upon the "Liberals' Resolutions" and that "since the statement on the plans was issued by the architects, Hon. Charles Murphy has been especially busy in trying to secure Sir Wilfrid's cooperation in forcing the resignation of the Liberal members, Messrs Pugsley, Lemieux and Senator Watson. Mr. Murphy's proposal to Sir Wilfrid is that he should insist on his representatives on the committee demanding that work be let by tender, and if this is refused request them to resign. Sir Wilfrid has not yet acceded to Mr Murphy's request.

"Messrs Pugsley and Lemieux were responsible for the resolution that called for the rebuilding on a percentage of cost basis and Senator Watson for the resolution awarding the contract to Lyall & Company in accordance with the Pugsley-Lemieux resolution.

"If Sir Wilfrid adopts Mr Murphy's proposal then Messrs Pugsley, Lemieux and Watson must repudiate their own proposals. It is considered unlikely they will do so, and it is expected that at the next meeting of the committee they will publicly announce their adherence to the policy they advocated and which was adopted by the committee.

USING PRINTERS' INK.

The dairymen of the United States have decided to find out what can be done to improve their business by extensive advertising. They have seen what the double page spread has done for the automobile and for chewing gum, and they see no reason why it should not do as much for the dairy cow. Under the direction of the National Dairy Council, which has a membership of 280,000, they have launched an advertising campaign with the object of stimulating the consumption of milk and its products. By the time it has been completed it is hoped that this will more nearly approach the amount their food value warrants than it does at present.

There is nothing half-hearted about the manner in which the campaign is being udertaken, says Farm and Dairy. About $50,000 has been subscribed to meet the expenses of the preliminary work. It is proposed to spend approximately $20,000 a month for the next three years, and it is estimated that the complete campaign will cost at least $750,000. Advertisements are appearing in the national magazines and in many of the large city dailies. The dairy papers are advising dairymen that it is their duty to back up the campaign by producing only products of high quality. Everyone connected with the industry, from the farmer to the ice cream vendor, is being called upon to contribute to the war chest. Enthusiasm and optimism have characterized the opening of the campaign, and there appears to be no reason why it should not be carried to a successful conclusion.

Canadian dairymen will watch with interest the progress of this campaign. If the results justify the hopes of the promoters, it will point to the desirability of conducting one of a similar nature on this side of the boundary line. The consumption of dairy products in Canada might be stimulated with advantage to all concerned. We, no less than our cousins of the United States, have failed to realize fully their food value. Should American dairymen succeed in educating the people to increase their consumption of dairy products to such a degree that the expenditures in connection with their advertising scheme will be justified the possibility of conducting a similar campaign to a successful issue in Canada will be strongly indicated.

Karl.H. von Wiegand, the special war correspondent of the New York World in Germany, in a recent despatch told of a visit to the front lines. He declares that the Germans have built another series of trenches behind the present front, which is nothing short of a powerful fortress stretching for miles. There are bomb proofs thirty or forty feet deep, with subterranean connections and extensive barb wire entanglements. He does not see how the British or French can break these defences, although he considers it probable that they will here or there drive the Germans back a little. He admits at the same time that the Allies' artillery is doing tremendous destruction, for he has seen the results and does not see how men can withstand such a hail of death. "Numerically," he writes, "it would seem, both in artillery and troops, the Germans are greatly inferior to the Allies."

Montreal Herald: Then the fact that successful attacks by the French have not been followed promptly by counter-attacks is rightly regarded as significant. Time is now so thoroughly on the side of the Allies that there is no occasion for hurry. They can afford to wait, being in the enjoyment of ample rations and constantly increasing supplies of munitions. The Germans are naturally in a greater hurry because not only the German people, but the German troops are getting stinted in food. This kind of thing is not food for the morale of the army, and no wonder that when the officers swear their picked men never to surrender they chain them to the guns to prevent them from doing as German officers have been known to do—break their parole.

A Winnipeg newspaper reports that illicit whisky traders have discovered a new method of selling their wares. Automobiles are employed, in the false bottoms of which the beverage is carried. The customer, it appears, is charged for the drive, and not for the drink, the price ranging from $2 to $5, according to the length of the "constitutional." This is an advance on the ancient custom of the bootlegger selling from his bag or pocket, or from a canoe or rowboat, where a river or lake was convenient. It should not be so very difficult for the authorities to suppress the enterprising itinerant merchants, if they so desire.

Montreal Gazette: A report from the headquarters of the German army group on the Somme front says that the expenditure of artillery ammunition by the Entente Allies has reached a prodigious volume, often striking the rate of 32 shells a second during drum fire. No fewer than 90,000 shells have been dropped in an hour, while the average for the 24-hour period is more than a million shells. This is convincing proof from the enemy of the effectiveness of the Allies' organization, and of their superiority in the matter of big guns and ammunition. Their manufacturing resources have been developed in extraordinary degree and there is the word of Premier Asquith and Mr Lloyd George that the present rate of supply can be kept up indefinitely and will even gradually increase. It is to be remembered also that in the eastern field the Russians are using up shells as never before. They have the aid of Japan, which is invaluable, and are receiving supplies from America also.

BAITING FOR BASS.

Reverse of the Usual Form Answers Well.

The following advice for Canadian fishermen regarding the best methods of baiting for the king of our game fishes:

When using minnows for bass (shiners are the only reliable ones), pass the hook in at the mouth, then out through the gill, and finally bed the barb in the flesh just above the tail. This is the reverse of the usual way, but answers very well. Keep the bait moving in a natural headforemost manner by means of a slight turning of the wrist. A bass seizing this bait, will either grab it crosswise or by the tail, and then bore toward his stronghold before swallowing. If given plenty of time he will flirt the minnow around so as to take it head first in swallowing. This is natural, but do not wait for it.

Upon the first twitch strike sharply and trust to luck. The bass has the minnow either crosswise or tail first in his first grab, and in either event the hook has two chances of taking hold. Two to one is good odds. If given time the bass will reverse the bait, and in so doing he may find the hook and promptly reject the imagined dainty. When hooked head upward the minnow plays in a natural manner; if hooked merely through the lips it may be taken without giving a chance to plant the barb firmly, and good minnows are scarce. If hooked first through the lips and then through the skin of the back, or the back fin, there is still a goodly portion of it at which a fish may grab with impunity. Therefore, hook the bait as described, and strike at the first sign, without giving any chances for gorging at leisure and subsequent trouble in removing a fairly swallowed hook.

When using white grubs pass the hook in at the mouth, or just below it, and on to the tail. This gives a natural curve, which few bass can resist. When the bait is crayfish pass the barb in at the mouth and through to the tail. This also gives the important natural curve, and a bait so rigged and sent down with Mr. So-and-So's compliments, is well nigh irresistible.

Another important thing is that baits so rigged may serve two or three times. This is no trifling matter, when fish are biting freely. As a rule, crayfish, frogs, minnows, and so on, are difficult to secure in numbers and the more service one can be made to render, the better. And furthermore, a bait so rigged will almost invariably slide up the gut, at the fish's first rush and so be preserved to do another turn.

When using a frog pass the hook first through the lips and then through the skin at the juncture of the legs with the back. In this position the frog can kick out and swim more or less, and in so doing make himself the more attractive. The grasshopper and the bee may be hooked crosswise behind the wings, and so serve their purpose.—All Outdoors.

Alberta's School Survey.

With a view to relating the Provincial Institute of Technology at Calgary not only to the existing educational system, but also to the commercial and industrial situation, the Principal and staff of the Institute have been charged by the Minister of Education with the responsibility of making a careful pre-vocational survey of the boys and girls in the Province between the ages of fourteen and eighteen, whether in attendance at school or not, with a view to vocational guidance and educational adjustments.

Also with the making of a careful industrial survey of the Province with the assistance and co-operation of the various departments of the Government, the local school and municipal authorities, and the commercial and industrial organizations of the Province; co-operating with the Military Hospitals Commission in the retraining of disabled soldiers, and, as far as may be, in the supplementary training of returned soldiers, whether disabled or not, who desire technical instruction; the organization of the Department of Mining in the Institute on the basis of the need as found in the experience of the past two years in developing technical instruction in the mining centres; the provision of such course in the School of Trades and Industries of the Institute as the limited staff of the first year may be able to provide over and above those involved in the retraining of returned soldiers; and the provision of special classes for teachers in technical subjects in Calgary, and, where feasible, the organization and supervision of similar special classes in the other two cities of the Province.

Nova Scotia's First Coal.

Garrulous old Samuel Pepys writing in 1667 mentioned that there is "Newcastle coal" in Nova Scotia, but it was not discovered in Pictou County till 1798. In that year the outcrop of the seam still known as the MacGregor and still being worked, was found on the bank of a brook at the rear of Dr. MacGregor's farm near the old Middle River road. For a time nothing was done to exploit the discovery, but the Doctor and his neighbors dug what they required for their own use. But in 1826 the General Mining Association obtained a lease of the mines and minerals in Nova Scotia, and next year they began work on the East River. The spot chosen for their first operations was close by Dr. MacGregor's house. It was soon apparent that his farm was necessary to the association. A sum that now seems small, but then was princely 1,150 pounds was offered for it and accepted.

There will be no leisure in which to repent for those who marry in haste.

GRAND TRUNK'S EXHIBIT.

Interesting Display at Toronto Exhibition.

This year the Grand Trunk are having a more than usually effective and interesting exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto. The exhibit is installed in the Grand Trunk's own building on one of the main thoroughfares in the Exhibition grounds, and covers the territory served by this great system, including the Transcontinental Line between Toronto and Winnipeg, the Grand Trunk Pacific between Winnipeg and the Pacific Coast, the Grand Trunk Pacific Coastal service from Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria to Alaska, the Highlands of Ontario, and the many other districts that are of interest to the travelling public. In addition to a series of enlargements from direct photographic negatives there will be a series of beautiful paintings in the Canadian Rockies, Yellowhead Pass Route, (through which the Grand Trunk lines have been laid.) Model of the Grand Trunk Pacific Steamships; Mounted fish and game; Topographical map; Effective Grain Display from Western Canada, all go to make up a most interesting tout ensemble that will be extremely attractive. The Exhibit covers 5,000 feet wall space and 3,000 feet floor space.

SEPTEMBER IN ALGONQUIN PARK.

One of the most beautiful months in the year is September in Algonquin Park. It is situated 205 miles north of Toronto and 285 miles west of Montreal, 2,000 feet above sea level, and being the highest point in the province of Ontario; the air is pure and bracing. Good hotel accommodation at the Highland Inn. Write Miss Jean Lindsay, Manager of the Highland Inn for illustrated booklet, and all information as to reservations, or to H. C. The mineral baths at Mount Clemens, Michigan, are noted for the treatment of rheumatism and kindred disorders. Mount Clemens has eleven bath houses and many hotels and boarding houses. Mount Clemens baths and hotels are open the entire year; but the autumn is a delightful season to take the baths, when to the benefits of the baths may be added the charms of a delightful environment. MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

THE ARTILLERY TRAINING

Battery Sergt.-Major Peppiatt, R. C. H. A., Petawawa, was in the city on Thursday and reported that the artillerymen at the northern camp have become remarkably well trained.

The 13th Kingston Artillery Brigade is second to none, and has been doing splendid work. The men are well tanned and healthy, and as for military training do the work like veterans.

The R. C. H. A. band is also on leave in the city and enjoying a visit with friends.

The artillerymen at Barriefield Camp, brigaded here with Major E. C. Barrett, are also making splendid progress. The dummy guns brought in a short time ago have added to a small extent to the equipment, and every available moment that is not used for specialist course is taken up in field work with the guns. There are four officers at the school of signalling, with a large number of men, and this condition somewhat interfere with constant training, but nevertheless, due probably to Sergt. Bramah, the field artillery work is excellent. Sergt. Bramah, who has been drilling recruits for years at Tete de Pont Barracks, takes a class every afternoon and applying the old permanent force experience he has done excellently, and the men thoroughly enjoy his instruction.

155TH MAY BE NEXT

It is understood that Barriefield Camp is soon to lose at least one more battalion on a call for overseas service. The Militia Department has asked as to the condition of the units training here, and at least one is quite ready for the long journey. The rumors are to the effect that the 155th Battalion is billed to go.

MAY BE IN KILTS

Lieut.-Col. A. G. F. MacDonald, commanding the 154th Battalion, is busily engaged in making preparations for the big excursion which will carry his battalion to Cornwall next Thursday, and there receive the battalion colors. It promises to be an excellent outing as well as an impressive ceremony. Included in the scheme now being arranged is a bivouac on St. Lawrence Park for the men.

There is reason to believe that the 154th Battalion may be a kiltie battalion by next week. The application for this equipment has been favorably received, and if the necessary papers are sent through in time for the issuing of the clothing, Cornwall may have a real Scotch equipped battalion to welcome.

DUKE INVITED TO PRESENT COLORS

Arrangements have been finally made to have the presentation of colors to the 154th Battalion, Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry "Counties' Own," take place at Cornwall on Thursday afternoon next, 24th inst. His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught has been invited to make the presentation and it is hoped that he will be able to do so. Col. Hemming, O. C. Barriefield camp, and some members of his staff will be present.

NOTES

The 19 subalterns selected to fill the overseas draft from the Third Military District left at noon yesterday for the east.

Ensign Smith of the Salvation Army spends a part of his time each day in camp working among the men. The Ensign is interested in the boys, and the boys like the work done by the S. A.

John Brown, a big New York city policeman, who some years ago was converted, and is now spending his time doing evangelistic work, is coming to the Y.M.C.A. next week. John Brown has a great story to tell of life on the New York police force, and he has the reputation of being an earnest religious worker.

The 156th Battalion has received 12 recruits from Brockville within the past week. Lt.-Col. Bedell continues recruiting efforts in Brockville in the interests of his battalion.

Captain Dodds, chaplain of the 155th Battalion, has returned from a trip to Wellington where he took part in a big recruiting rally under the auspices of the Women's Institute. Mrs. Dodds accompanied the captain to Wellington, and sang a number of patriotic songs at the recruiting rally, which completely captivated the large gathering.

Children's Shelter Enjoy Mot Bus Trip to the Sand Banks—A Happy Event

Through the kindness of several citizens, in answer to an appeal by the agent of the Children's Shelter, a large motor bus and a spacious car were provided to convey the children at the shelter, to the Sandbanks on Friday afternoon. It was a joyous happy crowd, that left the city at 1.30 being accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, and the agent, Captain Ruston and Mrs. Ruston. After a fine run, through Prince Edward County, the party arrived at their destination. While tea was being prepared, the children amused themselves in playing games and bathing in the lake.

As is usual at this time of the year, a large crowd of visitors were at the Banks, and the children became the centre of attraction and many words of commendation on the work of the Children's Aid Society were frequently heard. No party of children enjoyed themselves as much as these and the time to leave came far too soon. After giving three cheers for the jovial landlord, M. Whattam, the happy but tired youngsters started for home, reaching here about seven-thirty.

Royal Farewell September 5th

Planning a Programme Demonstration on Grounds of the National Exhibition

Toronto Aug. 21 —The city is planning a Royal farewell to the Duke of Connaught, the Duchess, Princess Patricia and party on Tuesday September 5th on the occasion of their farewell visit before returning overseas. They will spend both afternoon and evening on the grounds and a big demonstration is being arranged in their honor. The afternoon programme has not yet been completed in all its details, but in the evening arrangements have been made for 26 bands from camp Borden. These with the ten bands already on the grounds, will make 36 in all or over 1200 musicians, who will take part in tattoo, the biggest thing of its kind ever attempted in Canada. One thousand Boy Scouts from Toronto and an equal number from Ontario points will also take part, together with members of the local militia, Overseas troops and the 1200 performers who appear in the regular spectacle. It will be one of the greatest night in Exhibition history.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Belleville, Aug. 19th, 1916.

Dear Editor:—

Will you permit me through the columns of your paper to thank everybody who contributed to the outing of the Shelter children at the Sandbanks. I can assure them all if they had had the pleasure, as I had, in seeing them enjoy themselves they would have had the greatest joy. For is it not more blessed to give than to receive, and especially in this case, the babies' faces wore a brighter smile as if they understood better the loveliness of God's nature and He who said "Suffer the little ones to come unto me and forbid them not," will give you your reward. We are especially indebted to His Worship, Mayor H. F. Ketcheson, for seeing to the transportation, also our esteemed President's wife, Mrs. A. E. Bailey, for the plentiful supply of good things, and my, how they did enjoy them. Did you ever stop to think what an asset to the Dominion these children are. The best we can do is none too good for them. Again thanking you all on behalf of the children for so pleasant an outing,

I remain, your obedient servant,
THOS. D. RUSTON, Agent.

The 24th Forestry Battalion In England

The following, received from Lieut. W. E. Schuster, will prove of interest to local readers:—

The Forestry Battalion under Lt.-Col. Alexander McDougall of Ottawa, is doing great work in the Old Land. Seven camps are running full blast day and night in England and Scotland, and when one reflects that this battalion did not start recruiting until the 5th of March, and on the 13th day of May ten weeks later, deliveries of timber, ties, etc. were actually being made to the War Office for military operations at the front, one is forced to conclude, that this is a record which stands unique in connection with Canadian Overseas Forces since the outbreak of war, and that it will always stand as a monument to the energy and organizing ability of Lieut. Colonel Alexander McDougall, and his able assistant Major B. R. Hepburn, M. P. for Prince Edward County.

FORESTERS ENOUGH.

Three Battalions Have a Total Strength of 3,600 Men.

It is expected that the two Forestry battalions now being raised in Canada—the 238th and 246th—will provide all the lumbermen that will be needed for the operation in the Old Country, in addition to the 1,550 men already there, members of the 224th Battalion. The three battalions will have a total strength of over 3,600 men, who will be able to cut a lot of wood.

The 238th Battalion, under Lieut.-Colonel Smythe, is well over the 700 mark, while the 246th is just being organized. The commander of the 246th, Lieut.-Colonel John B. White, is in Ottawa, buying equipment for both forestry battalions. He has already been overseas looking over the timber limits, and knows the needs of the new units.

The 224th is doing most of its work in the North of Scotland, cutting Scotch pine. There is a company at work in the park at Windsor Castle, cutting trees there, and a third company at New Forest.

There is a party in a camp near Diver, and some men still at Bramshott. The new battalions will likely be sent to France. Lieut.-Colonel White was over the ground there, and found a great deal of timber suitable for lumbering, so that it is likely, if not all, at least the majority of the men now joining will soon be laying low the trees in France.

Eight sawmills have been sent from Canada to England, six for the 224th Forestry Battalion and two for the Forestry Committee in England, which has supervision over the lumbering operations there during the war. They are mills typical of the Canadian lumbering industry, and are generally known in Canada as portable mills, although they cannot be transported with the facility of most mills which carry the name "portable." They are entirely new to the British Isles, and their wonderful efficiency is said to be causing much interest. They each have a capacity of from 15,000 to 20,000 feet a day, and include the edger, slash saw, saws for making railway ties, etc., in addition to their big 56-inch circular saw. They have 40-horse-power locomotive boilers.

DEFAULTING CASHIER

Louis Macdonald, a former employe of the Dominion Permanent Loan Company, Toronto, was captured in Buffalo, and brought to Toronto and committed for trial on the charge of embezzlement. The sum stated as having been subtracted from the coffers of the company was $24,545.22. An officer of the corporation, Mr. Walter M. Gimmel, stated that the alleged fraud had been in operation from 1908 to the present year. "The entries of the sums missing never went into the company's cash book," Mr. Gimmel said. "The entry was made in the customer's passbook and then into the company's ledger while the money went straight into the man's pocket."

THE RING

CHAMPION BOTHERED

If Jess Willard happened to be a younger man by eight or ten years he might not have to be quite as guarded as he is of his physical self. At the age of 30 the world's champion boxer finds that he is apt to take on weight alarmingly any time he remains quiet for a while and does nothing of an active nature.

Willard just now is the big athletic star of the circus. Willard must ride a horse many miles a day, to say nothing of taking on sparring partners twice a day.

Yet he finds that the weight piles on rapidly and to keep it off he walks often as far as 15 miles a day, always winding up with a fast sprint. He has trainers with him constantly for rubbing purposes.

"When I get through with a day's work I usually am so tired out that I never need a rocking chair to get me to sleep. But I have found that I take on weight rapidly.

"For reducing purposes I find that riding a horse is about as good as anything, but in my case it does not ward off the flesh that piles up on me at times. I am a hearty eater, but do not eat often. Frequently I go to the table only twice a day, and never once do I eat between meals.

"The boxing I do every day keeps my eye good and furnishes me with enough ordinary exercise to keep me physically fit. But by that I do not mean that I am fit to enter the ring offhand."

BASEBALL

George Gibson, veteran Canadian catcher, who was released last Tuesday by the Pittsburg National League baseball club, is out with a statement that he will not join the New York Giants, but will return to his home in London, instead. Gibson claims that the Pittsburg club violated a gentleman's agreement in declining to declare him a free agent.

Andy Kyle, the well-known pro. hockey player who plays baseball in the summer, is having a great season with the Bloomington club of the Three Eye League. His batting has featured the Bloomer's climb to second place in the league. In seven games recently Kyle made 15 hits in 25 times at bat and fielded sensationally. Kyle had a trial with the Leafs several seasons ago, but though he fielded well his batting was not up to the mark. He has also been up in the majors, playing for a short while, with Cincinnatti. Bloomington reports say that he is sure to go up into higher company next season.

TOO MANY ORDERS.

Canadian Implement Makers Cannot Keep Up With Sales.

Canadian implement manufacturers are not able at the present time to handle all the business available to them, not because of lack of plant, but of labor and certain classes of raw material. In some cases it has been possible to assemble all the parts and all the material up to 95 per cent. of the actual requirements, but neither "love or money," as one manufacturer put it, would get the balance. Even under this handicap the Canadian manufacturers have been able to send abroad, during the past fiscal year, as many implements and of as great a value as in the fiscal year which ended March 31, 1915. This, however, is below normal. When war broke out the hopes of implement men were not bright. In Russia and Germany they had a large outstanding, which is still outstanding, and for a time it was doubtful if trade with other countries could be carried on. This uncertain condition followed, or came at a time when no responsible concern would push business in Canada. Our own farmers at that time, speaking now more particularly of the west, had bought more than they could pay for, and the manufacturers had to wait for their money before they could either go ahead and make stock, or, in some cases, make peace with their bankers. As the implement trade now sends half its output abroad the demoralization of the home and foreign market at the same time looked disastrous.

It was very soon evident, however, that the British navy would keep clear the road to Australia and to Argentina, with which countries trade has on the whole been normal. To the former shipments have been heavier, and to which reference will be made later on. The road was open to Russia, but there was another obstacle to trade with that country, and it was the value of the Russian rouble. During the week the price has ranged around 30 cents, as compared with a mint par of 51.45 cents. The exchange value is therefore at a discount of about forty per cent. Since the outbreak of the war Russian exchange has suffered most and has been altogether out of line with both the commercial reputation, which the Russian business man has earned for himself, and also with the resources of that great nation. It was impossible for the Canadian manufacturer to take orders, or fill them, under such conditions, and in consequence business fell off for a lengthy period.

But the Russian Government realized that it was as necessary to have the grain crop harvested as it was to maintain the trenches on their western front. Implements of agriculture were as essential as those of war, and this explains why the Russian Government detached vessels employed in carrying munitions of war to carry Canadian-made implements to Vladivostok. Still more effective steps were taken to procure necessary implements. Realizing that the Canadian manufacturers or those of the United States could not depend upon the value of the Russian rouble, the Government itself agreed to buy the implements needed and then resell them to the Russian farmers. After taking this step it was then found that to deliver them at Russian ports was a matter of time—a lot of it—which too frequently resulted in the needed implements reaching their ultimate destination when the harvest had been past without crops being garnered. To avoid loss in this respect very large orders have been placed with a view to having a supply ready in advance of the need for distribution.

Change in Shell Steel.

A halt in the manufacture of shells in Canada for the Allies has temporarily been called, as a result of changes in the specifications of the steel required, which have just been made by the Imperial authorities.

The change is the requirement of steel of a higher tensile strength than had hitherto been specified. It will, of course, be quite possible to manufacture this steel in Canada as hitherto, but as large orders for steel of the quality formerly suitable have been given, and there is a large stock of manufactured shells on hand, some inconvenience will be caused if these have to be made over again.

Large orders for shells of 95 and other high calibres have recently been placed in the United States, and it is understood that others will be distributed in Canada.

The first samples of time fuses produced at the loading plant established in Montreal by the Munitions Board have successfully passed the tests. No shipments have yet been made, however, it is understood, and it is not altogether likely that the board's expectations as to early delivery, expressed during the fuse contracts enquiry, will be realized.

Hand grenades, the weapons which are proving so regular and effective in the present war, are now being manufactured in Canada. They are being loaded, however, in Great Britain.

Sharks Off Nova Scotia.

Sharks, said to be as large and numerous as those which recently raided the bathing beaches and inlets of New Jersey, are now in the coast waters of Nova Scotia. There has been no boastful reference to the presence of these man-eaters from points in Nova Scotia, but it was learned in Ottawa recently from Parliamentarians that the sharks are there in considerable force, and that they are distributed all along the coast. Old inhabitants who have followed the sea, etc., have offered the explanation that the Gulf Stream has slipped its cable and is now wandering in pastures new, bringing the sharks along.

A Western Marching Song.

The war has taken toll of the west; scarcely a rural neighborhood but mourns, or boasts, according to its disposition, its dead on the field of honor.

"Didn't get much more'n half the farm planted this spring," complains one man. "First my son enlisted; then the hired man. War time is a hard time for the farmer, all right."

Another tells you the same story, but tells it as some wear their rue, "with a difference." "Yes, we miss our men, but what we'll lack in crop we'll more than make up in glory. The Kaiser wishes we'd kept 'em home, I bet a cent; he knows by this time what the homestead lads can do when they start in. Sure thing!"

Out in a settlement beside the Saskatchewan Valley we came upon a little company of volunteers in training. The members have not uniforms yet, and there is no band or bugle. They have a marching song, though, and as they pass us, fine upstanding lads, they sing it lustily. It sounds good, a little strong maybe, but good. It was composed for the company, so these same volunteers tell us later, by the mother of the Armenian minister, and, translated into English by the interpreter over at the land office; and here it is:

"Ho! lads of the west, we must do our best
Wherever we happen to be;
We'll march against evil, and fight like the devil
For Britain, the land of the free!"

Did we say a little strong? We take it back, and wave our handkerchiefs wildly as the soldiers give the author three rousing cheers, following them with, "What's the matter with mother? She's all right!" The minister tells us gently that he asked to have the second last line altered to read, "We'll march against evil, and fight like true soldiers," but the two parties most interested objected. His mother said there was no rhythm to it, and the men said there was no "pep" in it. "So," he concludes with a smile. "I let it go at that—after all it is their song, and they're the ones to be suited." Just so.—Jean Blewett in Toronto Globe.

Little Cock and Hen Prove Too Smart For the Wily Beast With a Bushy Tail—Things of Interest to Little Folks

Now, kiddies, said Uncle Ben, I'm going to tell you a story about

SLY FOX AND HIS DEFEAT.

Once upon a time Master Red Fox was walking along, searching for a dinner, for he had eaten a very scant breakfast.

Soon he spied a cock and hen scratching around in a field.

"The very thing I need," said he to himself. "They will make a fine meal for me."

So he stole along very quietly until he had almost reached the two birds.

"There's many a slip 'twixt cup and lip," says the old proverb, and just as Red Fox had put forth a paw to grasp the cock the hen chanced to see him, and, with a loud "cluck, cluck," to warn the cock, up she flew into a tree near by, closely followed by the cock.

The fox was a cunning fellow, however, and began to converse with them in very friendly terms.

"I hope you are not afraid of me, my dear?" he called up. "I feel so very friendly. I was just coming to ask you to take a walk with me; it is such a beautiful, fine day."

"You are very kind," answered the hen, and the fox was sure he heard her chuckling to herself, "but we prefer flying to walking. We have so much more of an outlook."

For a long time they sat thus until the hen became very anxious to go home, but was afraid to venture for fear of being pounced upon by the fox.

"My dear," she exclaimed at last to the cock, "please look over there by the roadside and see if that is not our master with his gun and his dogs."

"It is, indeed, my dear," answered the cock, "and they are coming straight toward us."

"Oh, indeed," said Master Red Fox. "Then must I go. It is getting late, and if I wait until the dogs come I fear I will be detained too long. They are so very agreeable."

And away trotted the fox and never stopped until he reached his den.

The cock and hen then flew down and soon sought their home in the barn.

But the fox, weary and hungry and angry, lay in his den, thinking hard.

"I wonder if the master and the hounds were coming?" he said to himself. "It would be like those saucy birds to deceive me. Never will I trust them again."

SHE HAD STUDIED THE SPECIES

A maiden lady of uncertain age entered a shop with the idea of purchasing a parrot. She inspected several, and at last decided upon one of particularly bright hue. "That's a good bird, ma'am," said the dealer. "But he has one fault. He always grumbles a lot if he doesn't like his food." The spinster's faded eyes brightened. "Then I must have him," she said promptly. "It will be almost like having a man in the house."

VIOLENT ARTILLERY BOMBARDMENT IN FLEURY SECTOR

A Norwegian Vessel Passes Down Canal

One of the 57 Being Built in Cleveland for Freight Service—On Way to Norway

CORNWALL, Ont., July 21.—A boat attracting a good deal of attention and an unusual sight to Cornwall was the vessel that passed down the canal yesterday bearing the flag of Norway, and in large conspicuous lettering amidships the names of the owner, Johan Myelde Norge with the Norwegian colors on it. The vessel which was laden to full capacity is of full canal size, and is one of 27 being built in Cleveland, so that there will in all probability by others following it. Another vessel belonging to the same firm passed down at an early hour this morning. They will go to Norway. This vessel will be tied up until the break in the Lachine Canal is repaired.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hunter have received a letter from their son, Lieut. Frank H. Hunter, informing them that he is now at the front in Flanders. The name of Lieut. Percy Brockle, Bank of Cornwall, appears in the list of officers who have gone to the front.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tyo, Burtons Lane, received a telegram from Ottawa this morning, informing them that their son, Pte. Geo. Tyo, 5906 Battalion, had been wounded in the ear on July 6th.

Private Allan Masterson, Esplanade Avenue, Montreal, whose family have many friends in Cornwall and vicinity, is reported in the casualty lists as being seriously ill.

SQUIRREL FORCES SMALL CHILD FROM CARRIAGE

WATERTOWN, July 21.—When grey squirrels get so independent that they take charge of a man's household, even to the extent of forcing the baby to forfeit its carriage, then it seems to some that it is time the rights of men should be placed above those of the squirrel. But this is just what happened at the home of Philip H. Belch of 735 Gotham St. He claims that the squirrels gnawed a hole through the attic and finally ended up by taking possession of the baby's carriage.

"How can I defend myself?" queried Mr. Belch, when asked why we did not see that they were deterred from such an imposition. "The law seems to think that the squirrels have first rights here, and should I take a gun and shot one I would be liable to a fine."

His friends advise him to disregard the law in this case where the comforts of the baby are at stake, and put a permanent end to the little imposters.

CAVALRY FROM CANADA NOW READY FOR ACTION

Waiting in Their Saddles Anticipating an Order at Any Moment—Horses Not Quite Accustomed to Roar of Artillery A Great Number of Prisoners

LONDON, July 22.—Special—A letter from the Canadian front line says:

"The incessant roar of guns has become necessary to us now. We would wonder what had happened if they stopped. We thought one day our chance had come, as we were right up behind our trenches waiting all day with the saddles on ready to move off in five minutes, but the time was not yet. Where we halted was in a valley with guns on every side. I have never been in such noise. Our poor horses for the first hour did not know what was happening.

"The firing kept up all day. Before we came away the horses had got quite used to it.

"Four of us in the afternoon were having a little session. I held four sixes, had just made it two francs to draw cards when an anti-aircraft shell whizzed down a few yards off. I hunched my shoulders and bet five francs, which made them all quit but one. He raised me five and I saw him. He saw four nines. We live in the open absolutely, sleeping on the ground, having the sky as our roof. Everyone seems more contented and bright.

"There are hundreds of prisoners coming through here every day. They are put into big wire enclosures until the trains can take them back. I saw about 300 officers and men yesterday. It reminded me of a big stockyard, officers in one corral and the men in the other. They wandered aimlessly about the enclosure just like I have seen cattle doing at home. Our doctors were dressing the wounds of prisoners. There is one young officer who, at a distance, is the very image of 'little Willie. For sure they get well fed and looked after."

Says Farewell To 109th Batt.

Marched Through Kingston Streets Before Taking Train—Number Collapsed From Intense Heat

KINGSTON, July 22.—(Special.) —Barriefield camp is the poorer to-day for the loss of nearly 1,000 of the finest soldiers that ever paraded on the historic old commons. Thursday the 109th Battalion, of Victoria and Haliburton, folded their tents, packed their belongings, and as the sun was setting in the crimson west, marched out of camp for the city in response for the demand for more troops to keep the fiendish Hun on the run.

Before leaving camp, the 109th were drawn up in front of the administration building where Col. Hemming addressed the unit, and complimented them on their conduct during their stop in camp, and their smart and soldierly appearance at the hour of their marching out Col. Hemming said that he regretted to part with the 109th, but duty demands, that they obey the order which called for leaving Barriefield camp, and going to some other place where they would continue to do their duty and play their part as soldiers really should.

SUICIDE TRIED BY DESPONDENT LOVERS

MONTREAL, July 21.—Two attempted suicides, the victims of both of which will recover, took place last night. One was in Lachine, the other in the city. Both are said to have been caused by affairs of the heart.

Nicholas Nikas, a Greek laborer at Lachine; was standing on 4th avenue when he put a revolver to his chest and pulled the trigger. A friend who had just left him rushed up, and had him taken to the hospital. The bullet was taken out this morning. A week ago Nikas had a quarrel with a girl, which resulted in her having a warrant issued for his arrest, and in his leaving town. He came back last night, had an interview with the girl, at which his friend was present, and then left her at her house.

Joseph Alex is a Syrian who keeps a little store at 85 De Courcelles St., also shot himself in the chest. The return of a woman who once lived with him is said to be the cause of his readiness to end his life. He was taken to the Western Hospital, and is doing fairly well.

GOES TO SISTERS RESCUE AND BOTH LOSE THEIR LIVES

Mrs. Edgar Fletcher and Miss Ola Ellis, Both of Toronto, Perish While Swimming in St. Clair River; Bodies Not Yet Recovered

TORONTO, July 27.—Two days before her husband was to join her for a two weeks' outing, Mrs. Rita Delametter Fletcher, wife of Edgar S. Fletcher, Secretary of the Fletcher Manufacturing Company, 29-41 Hayter street, met death by drowning in the St. Clair River near Corunna. With her perished her sister, Miss Ola J. Ellis, 673 Euclid avenue, a teacher in Park School. The accident occurred while both were bathing in the river.

News of the tragedy sent Mr. Fletcher to Corunna yesterday. He was to have left Toronto on Saturday for his holidays, which were to have been spent with his wife and sister-in-law in Corunna.

Mrs. Fletcher, while enjoying a morning swim, got beyond her depth and was caught in a swift current. In response to her cries, Miss Ellis started to the rescue. On the way she dropped into a deep hole and did not reappear. Mrs. Fletcher maintained her struggle for fifty rods, then perished in view of her aunt, Mrs. Edith E. Clemens, with whom she had been staying.

Mrs. Fletcher, 27 years old, was born in Toronto, and had spent her entire life here. She had been visiting in Corunna for two weeks and was to have remained there a month. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Bessie, three years old. The family residence is at 97 Hilton Avenue.

Miss Ellis was 25 years old. She had taught in Toronto schools for several years. Surviving her are her mother, one sister, Mrs. E. A. Steiner, 106 Admiral road, and a brother.

The bodies, if recovered, will be brought to Toronto for burial.

Young Bank Clerk Fell Under Train

Melvin H. Smith, of Stratford, Ont Seriously Injured at Valcartier Station

QUEBEC, July 21—Melvin H. Smith, of Stratford, Ont., employed here in the Bank of Montreal, was crushed beneath the wheels of a Quebec and Lake St. John train at Valcartier station, 15 miles from this city, yesterday afternoon. He was on his way to Lake St. Joseph and, having alighted at Valcartier, was running to catch the moving train when he slipped and fell under the wheels. His left shoulder, arm and leg were badly crushed. His left arm may have to be amputated.

Mr. Smith, who is summering at Lake St. Joseph, had left the city on the 4.15 train, with a number of his friends. On the arrival of the train at Valcartier, he alighted and ran over to one of the ice cream booths. Ordinarily the train stops for fifteen minutes or longer, but to-day the delay was shorter and the train started on as Mr. Smith was completing his purchases. With the cones of ice cream in one hand, he spurted to catch the departing train and as he neared the platform of one of the cars he slipped and fell headlong. His head struck the side of the car and he rolled over his left side on the rails, where the wheels crushed his shoulder, arm and leg.

A physician was secured at Valcartier camp and Mr. Smith was placed on the next train to Quebec. The victim was unconscious all the way to Quebec. His friends, Messrs. E. Savard, T. Delaney and R. Hammill, accompanied him to this city, and on the arrival of the train Mr. W. W. Symonds, accountant of the Bank of Montreal, was waiting with Dr. Geo. Ahern. They had the victim taken to the Hotel Dieu Hospital in the ambulance. He regained consciousness at the hospital and in spite of his suffering he spoke cheerily to his friends, saying that he was all right.

While Mr. Smith's injuries are serious, Dr. Ahern does not entertain immediate apprehension for him.

Mr. Smith, who belongs to Stratford, Ont., where his parents still reside, came to this city three years ago and has been in the employ of the Bank of Montreal here since that time. He is 27 years of age and had taken an active part in the bank league hockey matches.

PIT FULL OF SKELETONS

Bones are Unearthed at Griffiths Island

OWEN SOUND, July 21.—Men employed in shovelling gravel to be loaded on a scow at Griffiths Island about twelve miles from town, have come upon a pit containing the remains of fifteen or twenty skeletons. The bones were well preserved, but in many cases the skeletons were not complete. No trinklets or articles of any nature were found with the bones, which were found in a pit about six feet deep and about 100 yards from the shore. There were evidences of fire having been laid at the base of the pile, and some of the bones were charred. Capt. Long of the tug Loon, reported the find to T. L. Dates of the Union Cement Company, who is getting the gravel from the pit, and he will bring the matter to the attention of the archaeological authorities.

ALLIES IN WEST ARE HOLDING ALL THEIR GAINS

Stronger German Counterattacks are All Repulsed — Heavy Enemy Losses—Teuton Troops With Grenades Succeed in Penetrating a Part of the Leipzig Redoubt, But Are Driven Out—Forced Back in Disorder

LONDON, July 22.—(Special.)—Despite the fact that the Germans are developing a strong counter-offensive against the new front won by the Franco-British troops in Picardy, Gen. Haig's forces have further increased their gains, carrying the greater part of the strongly-fortified Foureaux Wood, north of the Bazentin-Longueval line. The Germans to-night are delivering violent attacks against the ground won in the forest.

The latest encounters have been almost entirely of a local nature, Gen. Haig wires to-night. His report tells of strong fighting around the Leipzig salient and the Bazentin-Longueval line. By grenade attacks the Germans penetrated a part or the Leipzig redoubt, but were at once driven out.

Teutons attacking the newly-won French positions were hurled back in disorder.

The French gains in the new attacks on the Somme have aroused great joy in Paris, the despatches add. They have served to increase confidence that the results will be great.

That the German losses in the last few days of fighting have been terrible is indicated by to-night's statement. Thirteen battalions of Germans attacked on a 200-yard front in the Delville Wood on Tuesday, it is stated, in the face of a terrific British machine gun fire. "The enemy's losses were correspondingly great," says Gen. Haig.

PARIS, July 22.—(Afternoon statement.)—Between the Oise and the Aisne we disposed of a strong reconnoitring party of the enemy in region of Moulan Sous Toutvent. In Argonne we exploded a mine with good results at Bolonte. A surprise attack of the enemy against a small position at Fillemort was repulsed.

On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front), there was violent bombardment of the sectors of Fleury and Fumin Wood. An attack by the enemy on a trench south of Damloup was beaten back by our fire.

In Vosges, after a spirited bombardment, the Germans delivered an attack at eleven last night against our positions northwest of St. Die. It was repulsed with heavy losses.

One of our aeroplane squadrons yesterday bombarded three times a railway station at Metz Sablons, throwing 115 large bombs on railway, buildings and tracks. The bombardment must have caused great damage. In the course of these expeditions a German aviator who was pursuing our squadron, was brought down. One of our machines was compelled to land after an accident and has not returned.

Will be Settled On Western Field

Canadian Press Special.

PARIS, July 22.—Senator Berenger, returned from British field headquarters, quotes Sir Douglas Haig as saying: "We must impose a peace that is realy valid, as we shall have paid for it."

He describes Haig as a commander who leaves nothing to chance, and says the British commander believes the war will be decided on the Western battle field. The technical skill of British general staff, said the Senator, is on an equality with the heroism of the British troops."

Boy Killed Crossing Street

John Stephenson, Aged Fourteen, Struck by an Automobile

TORONTO, July 21.—Another automobile fatality was recorded when John Patrick Stephenson, aged 14, of 316 Berkeley street, died in the General Hospital last evening. He was struck by a motor car near his home. The car was driven by Robert Russell, of 35 Prospect street, who was not held however as witnesses of the occurrence stated that he was not to blame. The boy was crossing the road when he was struck by the car. He was taken home but as his condition become worse he was removed to the hospital, where he died a short while after his admittance.

FELL TWO THOUSAND

Lieut. Macdonald Returns to Home in Guelph

GUELPH, July 21.—Lieut. Norman J. MacDonald, of the Royal Flying Corps, who was seriously injured on April 1 in an areoplane accident, has arrived home. On April 1st he was making a practice trip near Dover. When the machine had risen to a height of 2,000 feet the engine suddenly went "dead" and the machine crashed to the ground. Lieut. MacDonald received a compound fracture of both bones in his right leg and a fracture of two or three bones in his left ankle. He was also badly bruised all over.

Lieut. MacDonald expects to remain in Guelph for about two months.

WILD TIME ON A PORT HOPE STREET

Cattle Crazed by Heat Make Things Lively For Residents

PORT HOPE, July 21.—Four cattle being driven to the station this morning created quite a stampede on Dorset street caused no doubt by the intense heat. They tore across lawns and through gardens levelling everything in their path. One of the cattle became so wild that it had to be tied to a tree, while the other three were taken to the station. In the absence of the men the poor thing threw itself over the embankment, the rope tightened and before help could arrive, it had chocked to death.

Some better and safer plan of taking cattle through the town should be adopted. Fortunately no children were about otherwise we might have several fatalities to relate.

Satisfied in Nickel Matter

British and Canadian Governments in Close Touch on the Matter

HAMILTON, Ont., July 21.—That the British and Canadian Governments have been in close touch with one another on the nickel question was the statement of Hon. Arthur Meighen, solicitor-general for Canada, at a banquet tendered the Life Underwriters of Canada to-night.

During his speech he read the following cablegram from the Secretary for the Colonies in the Imperial Cabinet: "His Majesty's Government are fully aware of the arrangements made for assuring the destiny of the nickel refined from Canadian ore in the United States,, and are satisfied with the precautions that have been taken to prevent such nickel from getting to the enemy.

Mr. Meighen also dwelt upon the attitude of the Canadian Government towards the question and defended Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues. He affirmed that had the export of ore being tampered with international complications with the United States would have resulted, and many Canadians would have been thrown out of employment. Also had the Canadian Government undertaken the refining of ore a dangerous delay would have resulted, and the Allies deprived of a rush delivery of munitions.

He further assured the audience that "not one pound of Canadian nickel has reached Germany since the outbreak of the war."

Bring Trouble and a Circular

Military Reporters at Camp Borden Get in Wrong — Letter Gives Instructions

The newspapers at Camp Borden have been sending out articles that have finally brought down a censor on all messages sent over the wires and a circular letter that effects every military camp in Canada. The letter states that newspapers are to be allowed every facility for gathering reliable information, but any wrong reports published must be either retracted by the newspaper so doing or circulating of that paper in the camp may be cancelled.

The order cannot possibly affect Barriefield Camp and officials, while not commenting, seem more than satisfied with what the Kingston press has been trying to do in assisting the recruiting and giving reliable information of the soldiers' movements to the people at home.

The policy of the press has always been to keep the highest of patriotic ideals and help rather than hinder, what the officers in charge are trying to do in making the men of the C.E.F., in their hands as efficient as possible so that they will be a credit to this part of the country when they go into the trenches.

TWIN OF DEUTSCHSAND CAPTURED BY BRITISH

Craft Was Caught off The Coast of Ireland on Her Trial Trip

WASHINGTON, July 21—Before the German merchant submarine now in Baltimore harbor had so much as started for this country, her predecessor, the first submarine of the Deutschland type, was captured off the Irish coast by the British navy, on her trial trip, so naval authorities here state.

This first undersea craft of the Deutschland type is now in England, according to a report on file here. On board her when she was captured by the British warships were several scientists, expert mechanics and sailors, all of whom are now interned in England.

The capture of the initial merchant submarine intended for trans-Atlantic service was effected because of engine trouble, which developed off the Irish coast. For reasons of policy the fact had been kept secret by the British Admiralty, but the facts are on file with the United States officials in Washington, it is said.

The chances of British destroyers or other types of craft catching the Deutschland depend largely, according to expert opinion in naval circles, on whether the wake of the submarine is sighted as she attempts to slip out

MONTREALER KILLED IN CALIFORNIA

The telegram, dated July 17th, does not state in what manner the man met death. It is thought that he is a victim of an accident in the mountains.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

NAT GOODWIN IN "THE MASTER HAND"

Famous Actor in a Sensational Photoplay Plot and Counterplot

The five-part photoplay, "The Master Hand,' based on Carroll Fleming's drama of the same name, is to be exhibited at Griffin's Opera House on Monday and Tuesday night. Nat C. Goodwin, the famous actor, appears in the film.

"Nat" is welcome in pictures. As an actor he is versatile; his name and personality are familiar to millions. Any picture in which he appears is assured, in advance, of special attention.

"The Master Hand" is a strong drama, if ever there was one; with a trio of villains just as villainous as villains can be. There are (1) a husband who marries a rich widow, wants her money and stops at nothing short of slow murder to gain his ends; (2) a female accomplice, a lady doctor, who drugs the unsuspecting woman and plans to marry hubby when the wife dies; (3) a rascally doctor who keeps a private sanitarium and conspires with hubby and the lady doctor to have the wife committed to his sanitarium.

This prologue of evil-doing is followed by four thrilling acts of plot and counter-plot; throughout all of which Mr. Bigelow, played by Nat C Goodwin, appears as the instrument of good. He rescues Mrs. Rallston from the sanitarium; restores the fortune which her cowardly husband squandered; and rounds off everything else happily, even after Rallston has done himself to death by reckless automobile riding.

PALACE CLOSES FOR IMPROVEMENT

During the next two weeks, to give oportunity for interior improvements, the Palace Theatre will be closed. During this time special programmes will be screened at Griffin's Opera House, where every effort will be made to please the theatre-going public. A catchy program is on at the Palace this evening.

"THE FAMILY CUPBOARD AT GRIFFIN'S LAST NIGHT

When a man finds home life a trifle uncongenial, he is tempted to blaze out a course all his own that is more than likely to culminate in his downfall. This was the state of Charles Nelson's life, as vividly portrayed by Holbrook Blinn in the attractive play of the above title. His wife was alright, but since prosperity had come to the home, she assumed an air of extravagance that more than balanced the income. The daughter, charming Alice, was also a society young lady, and Kenneth, the son, had developed into an almost hopeless tippler. The father went wrong—with the aid of an attractive but unscrupulous young woman, and thus the money flew. Things went from bad to worse until the family became divided, Miss Alice standing by her father, and the mother shielding the son. Then, when this same girl inveigled Kenneth into deep, dark ways, trouble became rampant. The young man drew on his mother for funds, only to throw it away—the female vixin profiting accordingly. Finally, following a series of thrilling episodes, the young woman eloped with a third lover, the father and son came to their senses, the family was again united, and harmony reigned. There were many incidents which drew forth excellent acting. The scenes were well laid, and throughout interest was held. In a word the play was of high grade, with impressive personalities, rich settings, and costumes of an attractive nature. Several other pleasing films made up an excellent evening's programme, which will be reproduced in full tonight.

Good Rich Blood Means Good Health

JUST A LITTLE MORE RICH, RED BLOOD CURES MOST AILMENTS.

The lack of sufficient rich, red blood does not end merely in a pale complexion. It is much more serious. Bloodless people are tired, languid, run-down folk who do not enjoy life. Food does not nourish; there's indigestion, heart palpitation, headache, backache and nearly always nervousness. If this bloodlessness is neglected too long, a decline is sure to follow. Just a little more rich, red blood cures all these troubles. Then you have new health, new vitality and pleasure in life. To get more rich, red blood the remedy is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. No other medicine increases and enriches the blood so quickly or so surely. This is not a mere claim. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done this over and over again throughout why thousands of people always have a good word to say for this medicine. Miss Gertrude Haffner, Kingston, Ont., says:—"About two years ago I was suffering greatly with anaemia, so much so that I had to give up my situation. I became so weak that I could scarcely walk without help. I had no ambition, no color, no appetite and was constantly troubled with headaches and dizzy spells. I was taking medicine from the doctor, but it did not do me a particle of good. One day a friend asked me if I had tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Though as the result of my condition I was greatly discouraged, I began the use of the Pills, and thanks to that good friend's advice after using a few boxes I began to feel much better. Under the continued use of the pills I gained in weight, my color came back and I grew gradually stronger. I looked so much better that people would ask me what I was taking and I had no hesitation in giving the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I am so grateful for what this medicine has done for me that I will do all I can to extend its use."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Prince Edward Organizes Board Of Agriculture

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Belleville, Ont., July 21, 1916.

Dear Sir:—Will you kindly allow me to appeal through the columns of your paper to those who are interested in children. We have now about twenty-five under our care in the Shelter, and we all know how unbearable hot it has been, and those of us who have been able to get a few moments on the Lake Shore know how we enjoyed the refreshing breezes; so we wondered if some of our generous citizens, who own auto cars, would be so kind as to take these children and give them a run to the Sand Banks next Thursday afternoon at twelve o'clock, so that they can enjoy for once in their lives a picnic by the lake, and I know many of our friends would send along something special in the way of cakes, etc., to make it a time to be remembered. I shall be glad to hear as soon as possible from those who can volunteer, so that final arrangements can be made. Phone 836, or Mail Box 46, P.O. Thanking you for your kind favor.

I remain yours sincerely,
THOS. D. RUSTON,
Agent.

THIS IS THE 641ST DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

NOT WITHOUT HONOR SAVE IN HIS OWN LAND.

One is in a quandry as to what gain can be effected by the reckless criticism of the Borden Government, which is leaving no stone unturned to make good our country's part in the terrible conflict that is now raging overseas. It is only necessary to examine the press of the United States and Great Britain and of the more honest Liberal journals to expose the rank injustice of the partizanship which masquerades in the columns of the Globe under the name of patriotism. Take, for example, the New York Sun, one of the powers of American newspaperdom. This is what it recently had to say of Canada's contribution to the war:

> Sir Sam Hughes, the target for so many political shafts, has proved himself one of the most formidable men in Canada. He overrode the law, the expert advice of army men, and engineers and extemporized the great army training camp at Valcartier whence soldiers by the hundred thousand have gone forth since August 1914 to fight England's battles. He organized the Canadian war industry that has produced millions of dollars worth of shells in the past eighteen months. Whether or not he showed the same contempt for rules here as at Valcartier, he produced results everywhere, and made Canada's participation in the war a glorious one.

The Christian Science Monitor, referring to the work of the Canadian Government, says:

> The marvellous results of this devotion have been recorded. They have won the unconcealed admiration of the United States and they have earned the praise and gratitude of the Empire and its Allies.

The Boston Transcript, in paying a remarkable tribute to Sir Robert Borden, declares that:

> Canada's debt to him will only be realized when the full story of the war comes to be written.

These wholesome appreciations of Canada's efforts are more than re-echoed in the British press. They are found in great organs of public opinion—the London Daily Chronicle, the Daily News, the Pall Mall Gazette, the Times and the Morning Post. And even here in Canada there are Liberal newspapers and Liberal politicians who can rise sufficiently high above party to pay tribute to the Government's work. The Ottawa Free Press has time and again borne testimony to the Administration's energy, far-sightedness and patriotism. Speaking in the House of Commons last spring, Dr Michael Clark voiced the views of fair-minded Liberals when he declared:

> "When this war is over history will record that, whatever the petty political fortunes of the parties happened to be, the present head of the Government has since the war cloud burst kept an eye single to the winning of the war and has not been turned aside by any improper purpose or small consideration."

And yet, in spit of all that these tributes convey, in spite of the fact that the Empire is fighting for its life and that the Government is carrying a weight of responsibility such as has burdened no other Government in the history of Canada, a certain class of mad party papers and politicians conceive no better service to their country than denunciation and abuse of those who are at its head.

The wonder is that we have done so well. Despite unpreparedness and inexperience in war, we have placed an army of 350,000 men under arms. We have withstood the financial shock of the conflict in a manner that has in reality surprised the world, and to-day we are not only paying our own war expenditures, but are granting credit to the Motherland as well. And despite the failure of the Province in which Sir Wilfrid Laurier is supreme to recruit, we shall raise the 500,000 men which Sir Robert Borden pledged. After all the people of Quebec are not altogether to blame if many of them would "resent fiercely" fighting in a "European war." Too long they have been led to believe that it is none of their affair what happens outside of their province. Even in the midst of this world war Sir Wilfrid Laurier raises the sinister flag of racialism, and preaches in Quebec that the English-speaking people of Canada are warring upon the French race and language.

Montreal Herald: The best testimony we have yet seen to the efficiency of the British air service comes from a French officer just back from the Somme, who describes the British flying champions as "Lords of the Air." "Your brave aviators," he said, "have come into their own at last, and France to-day salutes them as the lords of the air. Even the Bosche fliers, who have been captured by us have had the chivalry to admit that the British airman have accomplished some noteworthy performances. Not only have your intrepid aviators flown far over the German defences and defied the anti-aircraft guns, but single-handed they have fought and beaten off as many as three and four Fokkers at a time. The Bosche fliers, who, a very few months ago, looked with contempt on your airmen, to-day respect and admire them as the result of bitter experience. That great young British aviator who sent Captain Immelman to his death, has become a terror to the Bosche. You ought to have him on all your picture-postcards. Like all your men he is a real hero, and France is proud and gratified for their invaluable co-operation. 'Oui, ils sent magnifique.'" Evidently the reassurances given in the British Parliament at the time the Fokkers first appeared were well founded.

Whether prompted by inherent pomposity or unadulterated cussedness, the Vossische Zeitung persists in expressing the opinion that "there is in this war no room for a compromise with England. England is the enemy who has raised up and is still keeping against us a world of enemies. We can expect from England's goodwill nothing. . . . for our national future. We must for the sake of a reconciliation with England abandon none of the war-aims which we have achieved by conquest and which we deem it necessary to retain in the interests of our country. The only important thing is to weaken England's power and to strengthen our own to an extent that would allow us to impose peace upon England, willy-nilly, and to make her recognize our right to existence, our right to the future, our right to access to the world and to the world's oceans." And yet, as the slaughter goes on in France and Russian successes continue in the east, is it not more likely that such bombast will, ere another winter appears, be turned to a spirit of pleading for mercy? The fall must come, and when it does the drop will be heavy.

Enjoy What You Eat

More cases of Indigestion are due to habitual Constipation than to imprudent diet. Unless the bowels and kidneys are regular, there is an excess of poisonous matter which remains in the system and is bound to affect the stomach and interfere with complete digestion.

To correct this tendency to Constipation—to have the bowels move regularly every day—to keep the stomach sweet—and to enjoy what you eat without fear of pains, "heartburn" or heaviness, take a cooling, refreshing, pleasantly invigorating glass of Abbey's Effervescent Salt every morning.

This famous household remedy will put your whole system in its normal, active condition, & "make you forget you have a stomach". Take it in warm water.

Current Comment

German shipyards are reported to be working overtime in repairing the warships damaged in the Jutland battle. They do well to make haste, for it is a safe prediction that the next fight on the sea, when it does come, will mean still more work for the same yards.

"Teach your children to swim," is good advice, and opportunity should be afforded to all to learn this most important art. If suitable bathhouses were established at convenient points within the city limits it would be a step toward acquiring the necessary accomplishment.

The fact is now well established that Germany and her allies have lost the initiative—lost it probably never to regain it. The tide has turned against them. However furiously they may strive against it, they cannot hope to stem it now. Coming slowly or coming quickly, surely their defeat is coming.

It is said that man is a fighting animal. So he is. But he is also a grower and a builder, and it is because he is a grower and a builder that man is made the lord of creation, because his most powerful instincts are those of growth and construction, not of death and destruction.—Toronto Star.

The apparent willingness of the Government that this anti-Imperial crusade shall proceed in the midst of the war, possibly means that the rulers of Germany desire to prepare their people for very modest terms of peace. We may be sure that the gag has not been taken off the German platform and press for nothing.—Montreal Star.

PAINFUL SWOLLEN VEINS QUICKLY RELIEVED AND REDUCED

Mrs. R. M. Remler of Federal, Kansas writes an interesting account of her success in reducing a severe case of enlarged veins that should be encouraging to others similarly afflicted. She suffered with badly swollen and inflamed veins (in fact one had broken), for more than seven years before she became acquainted with Absorbine Jr., and used it. Absorbine, Jr., was faithfully applied for several weeks and, to quote from her letter. "The large knots in the veins left, it was all nicely healed, and has not bothered me since."

Absorbine, Jr., is an antiseptic liniment—healing cooling and soothing. Safe and pleasant to use. $1.00 and $2.00 at your druggist's or postpaid. Liberal trial bottle postpaid for 10c. in stamps. W. F. Young, P.D.F., 457 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Can.

The Fatal Bargain
OR
The Man Who Dared

By NICKOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written.

CHAPTER VIII.—Continued

Lying on the bureau, was the key fitting the door of the room, where Judge Packard had evidently placed it.

Observing the overcoat and hat on one of the chairs, Nick also examined them. The overcoat pockets were empty. Looking into the soft felt hat, however, thinking that it might contain initials that would absolutely prove it was that of the dead man, Nick made an unexpected discovery.

Sticking to the sweat leather was a single hair, the more noticeable because it was alone, and most remarkable because it was of considerable length, and—gray.

Judge Packard was a man not yet sixty, and his hair, cut quite short, still retained the raven-black hue of youth.

Nick Carter's eyes lighted a little when he discovered this bit of evidence. He took it from the hat and placed it between two pages of his notebook. Then he held up the coat, surveying the back of it, and glanced at the garments of the dead man.

He was not thinking of him, however. He had recalled the elderly man with gray hair and beard, with black leather bag and ebony cane, with nervous haste and unsteady steps, whom he had seen pass through the hotel office in the direction of the elevator, a quarter of an hour before the murder had been reported.

Glancing around, Nick again observed the indenture and soiled spots on the bedspread, previously mentioned. Taking a lens from his pocket, he leaned over the bedspread, previously mentioned. Taking a lens from his pocket, he leaned over the bed and examined the spots, and Holman ventured to ask, with his curiosity stirred:

"What have you found there, Mr. Mouser?"

"Nothing," Nick tersely said.

There was no opportunity to say more, for the door was opened at that moment by Soley, who entered in company with Jackson, a tall, cadaverous young man clad in a servant's livery.

Nnck saw him shrink and turn pale upon viewing the scene in the room, and he rightly judged that he had not the nerve to have committed this crime, even if there had been any material evidence of it.

"Your name is Jackson, I'm told," he said, approaching him.

"Yes, sir; it is," was the reply, huskily made.

"Did you bring a drink to this room about twenty minutes ago?"

"I brought up a drink, sir, ordered from the telephone," said Jackson, pointing to a small instrument on the wall. "A glass of plain whisky, sir, without a chaser."

"Was that the order?"

"Yes, sir."

"Who was in this room when you entered?"

"I did not enter, sir," Jackson quickly replied.

"How was that?"

"As I was nearly to the door, sir, a gentleman stopped me and said, 'That's the drink I ordered, isn't it?' and he mentioned the number of this room and glanced toward the door."

"Well?"

"I told him it was, sir, and he slipped me a half dollar and said, 'All right, waiter; I'll take it in. I have a lady calling to see me on business, and she is mortally afraid of being seen here, even by one of you chaps. So I told her I'd step out and get the drink, instead of admitting you.' He laughed and winked, sir, and I supposed it was all right."

"You gave him the tray and the glass?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you see him enter this room?"

"Yes, sir, just as I started down the stairs."

"Did you see anybody else in the corridor?'

"No, sir. There wasn't anybody."

"Was this the man who intercepted you and took the tray?" asked Nick, pointing to the body on the floor.

"No, sir, nothing like him," Jackson quickly declared. "The man I saw was younger and larger, with a black beard and mustache. He wore a dark suit, but no overcat, and had on a derby hat."

"Do you think, Jackson, that you could identify him?"

"Yes, sir; I'm sure I could."

"Holman, where is that disguise?" asked Nick, turning to the detective.

"Here," cried Holman, quickly producing the disguise belonging to Fenno. "I reckon you've got the same idea that I have, Mouser."

z Nick did not reply to this remark. Instead, he turned and said rather curtly:

"Stand up, Mr. Fenno. I wish to see how you look in disguise. There you are, and a capital fit. Now, Jackson, what do you say?"

Without the slightest protest from Fenno, Nick had adjusted the disguise to his face. His design in so doing was obvious to all, and Jackson, the moment he saw the change in Fenno's appearance, cried confidently:

"That's the man, sir! I'll swear that he was the man!"

"You are very sure of it, then?"

"As sure as a man possibly could be, sir," Jacksoin stoutly insisted.

Fenno gazed at him darkly, but did not speak.

"It's just as I thought," cried Holman impulsively. "There's really nothing more to it. I've felt sure of him from the first."

There was an odd light in Nick Carter's eyes, however, as he removed the disguise and tossed it upon the table. While doing so, he said quickly, but in too low a tone to be heard by the others:

"Take a tip or two from me, Fenno. Don't open your mouth until we meet again. That will be at the Tombs within an hour. Meantime, keep a stiff upper lip. I'll bring Nick Carter along with me. He'll pull you out of this scrape, or lose a leg in trying it."

Then, without awaiting a reply, he turned and added in offhand fashion:

"It looks bad for him, Holman, I'll admit. "You'd better call an officer and have him removed to the Tombs. I'm much obliged for the privilege of looking into the case. I am now done with it as far as anything here is concerned. It is now up to you, and I reckon you'll handle it all right. So long, Fenno; I'll see you later."

Nick saw plainly that Holman had questions he wanted to ask, but he did not wait for them. Apparently oblivious of the fact, he took his hat from the table and hurried from the room.

Making his way through the throng in the corridor which had become a dense crowd of morbidly curious people anxious to get a glimpse at the tragic scene, Nick hastened down to the hotel office. There also, though less than half an hour had passed since the crime was discovered, it now was the chief topic of discussion, as was evidenced by the grave faces and subdued voices of nearly all. Of Todd and McNulty he saw no more, however, and supposed they had left the house.

As he passed through the office, Nick saw several policemen entering, followed by the district coroner and Central Office men, and he knew that the hotel managers had lost no time in sending for the proper officials.

"I reckon both Holman and Fenno will receive a shock if they mention Mouser to those two detectives," Nick thought dryly. "Yet Fenno will know enough to keep quiet—I'm sure of that—and they'll lose no time in running him down to the Tombs. By Jove! there's a mix-up here, and no mistake.'

Approaching the office inclosure, Nick beckoned to one of the clerks, who hastened to join him.

'I'm the Central Office man who has been looking into this affair upstairs,' he said quietly. "I want you to answer a few qpestions for me, and then forget that I asked them."

"I understand," the clerk nodded. "Mum's the word."

"I saw you speak to a young lady in navy blue, who was looking over the register about half an haur ago."

"I remember her."

"Do you know her?"

"I think not, yet am not sure. She was veiled."

"She asked you a question, didn't she?"

"Yes. She asked which apartments Mrs. Selkirk has, and on which floor they are located."

'You informed her?"

"Yes, and offered to send some one to show her. She declined, however, and said she could find the rooms."

"That was all?"

"Yes."

"Who is Mrs. Selkirk?"

"She's the wife of Mr. Patrick Selkirk, the brewer. They have lived here since their marriage, more than a year ago."

"Any family or servants?"

"No."

"Now," said Nick, "when was Judge Packard assigned the room in which he was killed?"

Tenacious Tires—of black "Barefoot" Rubber

"LIKE a Pup to a Root," do they hang on to the Earth, when you throw in the Clutch, or throw on the Brakes.

But,—instead of merely grinding against said Earth,—for Traction,—they CLING to it, much as your bare foot clings to slippery surfaces.

This new and wonderful Goodrich "Barefoot Rubber," is as stretchy almost as a pure Rubber band,—Light-weight as Rubber in its native amber color, but stronger, tougher, longer-wearing (in Tires) than pure Rubber could ever be.

That Lightness, Stretch, and CLING-quality is due, in part, to the absence of the heavy and inert white substances which, in other Tires, provide the gritty texture designed to give effective but grinding Traction, when Clutch or Brakes do their work.

To provide its maximum Traction with minimum Friction (which means minimum Heat, minimum Tread-Wear, and lessened Strain on the rubber adhesive between fabric layers.)—

MEDICAL INSPECTOR GIVES WARNING

(Ottawa Free Press)

Dr. P. H. Bruce, medical ispector of the immigration branch of the Interior Department, has issued a warning to parents concerning poliomyelitis of infantile paralysis now prevalent in New York.

Detecting It.

"Under the heading "Early detection of infantile paralysis," Dr. Bruce, says:—

"The present very serious outbreak of this disease in New York city, which is especially marked by an inflammatory condition of the interior part of the spinal cord and is caused by an ultra miscroscopic germ (that as yet cannot be actually seen under the miscroscope, although its poisons produced in the blood are present) makes it very desirable that the public should be acquainted with the fact that 25 to 50 per cent. of the cases do not cause paralysis or are mild and therefore become sources of infection to other persons through the germs which are carried on the mucous membrane of the nose.

"Every mother of a family should therefore be on the outlook for any of the following symptoms which may exist for a few days or even two or three weeks before recovery or later paralysis takes place.

The Symptoms.

"These symptoms are: fever, unusual nervousness, irritability, drowsiness, headache, vomiting with varying degrees of stiffness of the neck. When such symptoms occur, the wise mother will at once send for the physician who is in a position nowadays to have the nature of the disease diagnosed by taking a little fluid from around the spinal cord and having it examined.

"Especially should mothers be careful to at once place children in bed in a well ventilated room during the warm weather and carry out in the completent way possible the physician's instructions. As has been shown in very many cases the paralysis follows slowly the other symptoms so that early care of this sort will help to avoid such most serious effects.

Flies Dangerous

"The screening of the bedroom and indeed all parts of the house where sickness exists against flies will be a most important factor in preventing the spread of the disease to other persons of the household and outsiders. Physicians may similarly greatly assist in protecting the public should any such cases occur by promptly getting in touch with the medical officer of health.

THEY DON'T LIKE DROWNING A SUB.

Men of the British navy have taken many submarines of the enemies out of their wire traps. That they make these undersea boats over and send them out as English submarines to torpedo other craft of the enemies is taken for granted though it is not admitted in the official reports. Worcester men may have made some of the wire in the traps which have captured the German and Austrian submarines, and there may be some satisfaction in that part of the work. Englishmen whose duty it is to take in the trapped diving boats, do not like the work. It is the most grewsome of all the ghoulish business of the great war in Europe, they claim.

An English doctor who has been with the "rescue" crews, tells the story, but he admits there is no sense of rescue about it, for nothing is done to raise the submarine from the trap until all on board are dead, and it is the most horrible of all the deaths of war, the doctor claims. When a submarine strikes one of the thousands of wire nets set all around the British Isles, there is no known means of escape. Every move of the boat means more mixing up with the enmeshed wires. And the wires also telegraph the capture to a naval station automatically. Then a destroyer boat hurries to trap like a hunter who discovers game has been caught in his deadfall. The destroyer takes a position above the submerged boat.

And the doctor is still more graphic in further description. "Then there is nothing to do but wait, sometimes for hours, some times for days. Officers and men of the waiting vessel know what's going on down in the green depths. They know that in time bubbles will come to the surface and oil will spread over the sea. The destroyer waits for the bubbles, 'death bubbles' they call them, for they tell of death struggles going on in the submarine.' That may seem simple to people who never tried it, and of course an Englishman should not bother about how much an enemy of his country suffers in war time.

Still men are al lmore or less human in their thoughts, if not in their acts, and the doctor says it is frightful there over an expiring corps of men who are experts in the worst kind of warfare practiced. They suffer until the horrible end, and in some cases it appears that the more and longer until the death bubbles rise to the top and show through the oil, and then the hoisting crane comes and lifts up the submarine and the net and the disentanglement takes place.

And you may expect to read what the English naval men find in the German submarine. On that point the doctor says: "Seamen who fought through the maelstrom of Skager Rac will tell you their story, but no sailor speaks of the sights seen in a recovered submarine. Those sights make strong men weak and drive sensitive men delirious with horror." Then there is something about the war which is not allowed even to get as far as the censors. It is too horrible for the observers to talk about. And sailors are not as a rule squeamish. For that reason and some others, it is probably not true that for months, as the cable reports have it, the German people have been urging the imperial government to turn the submarines loose to do their worst with the peaceful shipping of all nations.

Plucky Rescue Of Drowning Man

Montrealer Saved Drowning Man and Superintended Work of Resuscitation

MONTREAL, July 21.—Mr. E. J. Ryan, of 182 Ottawa street, a member of the Royal Life Saving Society of Canada, made capital use of the knowledge which entitles him to the certificate and medal of the society yesterday afternoon at Chateauguay Basin, where he saved the life of another Montrealer, Armand Brisebois. The rescue was effected at 6 p.m. Brisebois had gone for a swim and, being a strong swimmer, had gone out a considerable distance beyond any of the other bathers in the vicinity. He was heard to cry out, and the onlookers saw him making feebly for shore, apparently in distress. He made but little progress and was presently seen to throw up his arms and sink beneath the surface.

One or two swimmers started toward him and cries were set up for boats. Ryan, who had just finished dinner in a cottage near the scene, heard the cries and ran out. He stripped and swam out toward Brisebois, who had reappeared, struggling frantically. When Ryan reached the spot, Brisebois had gone down for the third time. Ryan dove and located the victim, but was unable to bring him to the surface at the first attempt. A second trial was successful, and Ryan kept the unconscious man's head out of water and swam shoreward until picked up by a boat. Brisebois was apparently lifeless when shore was reached. Work of resuscitation under the direction of Ryan was carried on for a full twenty-five minutes before Brisebois showed signs of life. He recovered rapidly and was reported last night as being out of danger.

Military Matters at Barriefield Heights

MUSKETRY VERY IMPORTANT.

Musketry must be considered as the first and most important branch of training soldiers for service at the front, and to bring this about Lt.-Col. W. J. Brown, G.S.O., makes every available man go on the ranges until he has passed the efficiency examination to make him fit for the front.

The ranges at the camp, under the able direction of Captain W. E. Swaine and a competent staff, are in use practically all of the time. Every possible attempt is made to give the tion in musketry that time will permit.

The staff colonel has been paying particular attention to those who go to the ranges and has men even assigned to light duty to get this branch of the training completed. Cooks and every person that holds even an noncombatant position in the battalion must become familiar with the rifle, and the staff officers are making it as thorough as inoculation, which, like death, seems never failing.

At present the 154th Battalion occupies the ranges, the 109th having been completed. The next will be the 155th, which will commence next week.

Musketry has been given to all of the men in these battalions, but the ranges at the camp not being available at the outlying points during the organization, preliminary training in this work could not be carried on when the instructional staff were conducting the preliminary course in the work during the winter.

NEW MACHINE GUN COURSE.

A machine gun course of three weeks' duration has started at Barriefield camp under Lieuts. Young and McGie. There will be twenty-one in attendance when all report.

The value of the machine gun in warfare, particularly of trench warfare, has been increasing by leaps and bounds, and it shows the good sense of Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, G.S.O. when so much attention is paid to this branch of the work.

Before this war the machine gun was a novelty, and few men had ever seen it let alone operate it. Now these guns are common, and the knowledge of their mechanism is becoming more widely known. To make every officer commanding a machine gun section and a number of other officers of every battalion thoroughly acquainted with the working of this deadly machine these courses are proving of great value. It is planned to have every officer qualified, and if this can be accomplished the battalion will be far advanced for the firing line.

TO RUN EXCURSION.

Arrangements are being made to run an excursion for the presentation of colors to the 155th Battalion on July 29th. The Argyle Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire have been getting the colors and making the arrangements. The reasons given for having the presentation at Belleville rather than at Kingston are the assistance such a gathering would be to recruiting, the holiday for the boys of the battalion and the opportunity it would give the residents of that district to see their battalion as a unit. The expenses of the trip to Belleville would be borne by the soldiers themselves.

NOTES.

The 155th Band has returned from Belleville.

The 155th will return to camp on the 30th.

The 155th Battalion are getting ready for work on the ranges.

The 155th Battalion has received the necessary permission to go to Belleville on the 29th for the presentation of colors by the Argyle Chapter, I.O.D.E.

The annex to the officers' mess of the 155th Battalion has been made neat and cosy with the addition of new furnishings.

The Band of the 155th Battalion played for officers' mess dinner Thursday night, and as usual gave an excellent programme.

Capt. Gilmore left Thursday night for the east on command. He will be away from the 155th Battalion for about a week. This is his first trip as far east as the coast.

Capt. J. A. Harper, 155th Battalion, is detailed as a member of the ration board, to report to the field officer of the day at the C.A.S.C. supply depot.

The Machine Gun Section of the 155th Battalion have been given very handsome green and gold sweaters with the crest of the battalion in colors on the chest. "Verily, Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

Prof. D. A. Cameron, until recently of Albert College, Belleville, was in camp Thursday, the guest of the officers of the 155th to lunch. Prof. Cameron was chorister of the Bridge Street Methodist Church. He has completed a course in the I.S.I. and expects to go overseas.

The camp dentists have completed the work on the teeth of the men of the 109th Battalion, and have commenced with the 155th Battalion.

The 154th, 155th and 156th Battalions are arranging concerts for the men, each battalion furnishing talent for the other.

Major R. D. Ponton, headquarters staff, who received a machine gun bullet in the knee while at the front, was unfortunate enough to have a recurrence of the old knee trouble on a trip to Halifax. He is again under medical treatment.

NO MEETING

Owing to the fact that a number of the members of the Board of Education are out of the city, the regular meeting which was to have been held last evening, was called off.

LARGE HAY CROP

The work of harvesting the hay crop is nearing completion. Farmers throughout the country are taking advantage of the fine weather and are hustling the crop under cover as fast as labour conditions will permit. This year's hay crop is excellent and will exceed last year's by a substantial amount.

ELECTRICAL STORM

During the electrical storm which passed over this vicinity yesterday morning no particular damage was done. A large elm tree situated in front of Mr. H. Huff's place, Massassaga Road, Prince Edward county, was struck and split in two. The downfall of rain was general, and did a vast amount of good.

NURSING SISTER HAMBLY

An officer of the British Army who came from duty at the front unheralded for a brief leave at home with her father, Lt.-Col. P. H. Hambly and family, returned to active service yesterday. Nursing Sister Mary Hambly was one of our first to enlist and serve, and her skill and enthusiastic work have earned her official commendation. No honor can be too great for our lifesaving sisters. Colonel Ponton, President of the Veteran's Association, saw her off at the noon train, and Col. Stewart, Secretary, presented her with a bouquet of roses on behalf of the Veterans.

TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT EASILY AND QUICKLY

If you are overstout the cause of your over-stoutness is lack of oxygen-carrying power in the blood and faulty assimilation of food. Too little is being made into the harder tissue of muscle and too much into little globules of fat. Therefore you should correct the mal-assimilation and increase the oxygen-carrying power of the blood. To do this, go to any good druggist and get oil of orilene, only sold in original packages and in capsule form, and take one capsule after each meal and one at bedtime till your weight is reduced to what it should be on all parts of the body. The effect of oil of orilene in capsule form is remarkable as a weight reducer and it is perfectly safe.—E. J. T.

SHELLED BY SUBMARINE

LONDON, July 21.—The British steamer Virginia, which was sunk by a German submarine, several days ago, was first shelled by the submarine in a half-hour chase, according to Reuter's Malta correspondent. The Virginia was finally compelled to halt, when her funnel had been blown away, making the engineroom and stokehold untenable.

The submarine immediately torpedoed the vessel, the correspondent adds, and continued shelling her while the men were getting into the boats. Twenty-five of the crew got off safely, but twenty-five others went down with the ship. The captain of the Virginia was saved after being in the water for nearly an hour.

PICKING A WIFE FOR BOB

(Eugene Pier in the Boston Globe)

"Oh, dear, I suppose it won't be long now," sighed ma, as she passed Bob a cup of coffee.

"Sure it won't," replied pa. "But why the sigh? We will be going on our vacation very soon now."

"I wasn't thinking of that," said ma, with another sigh. "I was thinking of Bob calling on that girl last night. I wonder if she will—but of course she wont."

"Won't what" asked Bob. "If you mean return the call, I should say not. They are not doing it now."

"It isn't that," replied ma. "I was just wondering if she could darn socks But of course she can't. They are not doing it now."

"Why do you want to know that for?" asked Bob. "If you are especially interested I will ask her the next time I call."

"Interested—wouldn't any mother be? Haven't I kept your clothes mended and your socks darned all these years? And then to think that you will soon be leaving me for some girl who doesn't know how to darn socks."

"Great Scott, is it as serious as that?" exclaimed pa. "I never heard of this girl until Bob said he was going there to call last night, and I thought she was a new acquaintance."

"So she is," said Bob, "and I hadn't any idea of asking her to darn my socks. What on earth are you thinking of, ma?"

"Why, about your getting married," replied ma. "I am just all upset when I think that you will probably get a wife who is not capable, and who won't be able to look after your clothing, nor cook proper food for you."

"Gee, this is sudden," remarked pa. "Here Bob is still in high school, and you are worrying about the kind of wife he will have."

"That's right, make sport of it," said ma. "You can't realize how a mother worries about such things. So few of the girls now are trained to do housework. I just know the girl you marry will not know how to make beds, or dust properly, or bake bread, or cook anything as it should be cooked. Now if a boy would always let his mother pick out his wife there would be fewer misfits in matrimony. A mother knows just the kind of a wife her boy ought to have."

"Gee, pa, what a pity you didn't have a mother to pick out your wife," said Bob with a grin.

"Well, the one who did the picking qualified as a mother later," observed pa. "My mother had nothing to do with it, but yours had. She just decided who would be a suitable wife for me, and that settled it."

And pa winked at Bob.

ECONOMY AND CLOTHES

"Remember your husband's pocketbook."

That doesn't sound much like the beginning of a style review, but it proved to be just that at the headquarters of the National Housewives' League in New York.

Mrs. Ruth Butts Carson, of Boston, had announced she would lecture on the art and economies of dress. Hundreds of women were there to hear her.

"Some one earns the money you spend," Mrs. Carson declared. "You have no right to squander it on clothes. No woman has. Study what you husband likes to see you wear, and then dress simply in a way that will show you have an individual taste. Above all, have your money. Your husband will appreciate it. He will take more pride in your appearance if it costs him less financial anxiety."

The women applauded. Mrs. Carson then demonstrated how simplicity and economy could beat fashion in clothes designing. She appeared in the one-piece "Penelope" gowns and wraps that she had designed. The first dress was a straight mohair cut on Princess lines with numerous pockets. It slipped over a simple little blue shirtwaist Mrs. Carson declared that the dress was built to outlast the styles for ten years to come.

Here are some "don'ts" that Mrs. Carson insisted the well dressed woman should remember if she would make her wardrobe a really personal affair—an exponent of good taste.

Don't wear tight corsets. Follow the line of least resistance if you are too fat. Diet and exercise will do what corsets never can.

Don't wear what every other woman does simply because it's the style. Make your clothes as individual as your friends are.

Don't forget that the first question you should ask yourself when you buy clothes is—"Do I need it?" Learn to be honest with yourself.

Don't attempt to standarize your clothes the way men do. It won't be good for your morals. Adopt the simplicity of masculine attire without its severity.

Don't forget that a well dressed woman is never plain.

Hetty Green is dead. "Next to Henry Ford she was the richest woman in America," says the Kincardine Review.

NO BILINGUALISM IN THE MANITOBA SCHOOLS

Backers of The French Element Threaten Trouble, But Germans and Ruthenians Are Quiet

WINNIPEG, Aug. 22.—With bilingual teaching in French, German and Ruthenian wiped off the curricula, the public schools of Manitoba opened today, making a new step in the school and language struggle in the Province. Very little information is available to-night as to the outcome of the change, as the majority of the schools were in session for only an hour or so for the registration of pupils and other work of organization.

Backers of the French language in St. Boniface and in other French-speaking districts throughout the Provinc announced to-day that they were prepared to put up a struggle for their language. They refused to discuss their plans, stating that they were waiting for the Department of Education t oshow its hand. It will be two or three days before the situation clears itself, as the department will take a look around and see what is being done before mapping out a further course of action. It is probable that there will be a good deal of leniency at first in the administration of the act. No reports of trouble have been received from the German and Ruthenian districts, ane the department is hopeful that any threatened trouble will die out.

TRAIN KILLS MAN ON ORILLIA CROSSING

Gates Down and He Paid no Attention to Gateman's Warning Shout

ORILLIA, Aug. 23.—Special — An unknown man was killed on the Grand Trunk Railway tracks about 7.30 last evening. He attempted to cross the tracks on West Street when the gates were closed. The gate-keeper called to him, but he gave no heed. There are several tracks at this point, and as he was crossing one on which freight cars were standing he was struck by the tender of a shunting engine, fell under the wheels, and his body was severed at the waist.

Coroner McLean held an inquest this afternoon, but after the jury had viewed the body, and the evidence of Constable Wright was taken, an adjournment was made until Friday, when the gateman and the train crew will testify. Nothing was found on the deceased to reveal his identity, and it is believed he was a tramp, and probably deaf. He was about sixty-five years of age.

ONLY FIVE BATTALIONS

KINGSTON, Aug. 23—Special— Major G. I. Campbell, Chief Recruiting Officer for the third Military District, states that he was wrongly reported in the west when it was said he stated that ten new battalions were to be organized in this military area. There will be ten batalions altogether, he says, five of which wi'l be those now mobilizing and training. There will be five new ones.

GEN. HAIG ACHIEVES A DOUBLE PURPOSE

Relieves Pressure on Verdun and Aids Russian Drive — Holds Big Foe Force—German Accounts of The British Losses in The Somme Offensive are Ludicrously Exaggerated

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Special—David Lloyd George in the House of Commons yesterday contrasted what he termed the extraordinary change in a couple of months in the relative positions of the Entente Allies and the Central Powers on all the fronts except Mesopotamia, where climatic conditions had kept the British forces quiescent. Mr Lloyd George said the criticisms of the British operations on the Somme front, on the ground of their failure to break through the German lines, were unjustified. The Germans, having two alternatives, said Mr Lloyd George, chose the alternative of bringing troops and guns from Verdun to prevent the British from breaking through.

"That suited our purpose," the War Secretary continued. "It relieved the pressure on Verdun, and prevented the enemy from pouring his forces into the Russian theatre to support the Austrians against Gen. Brusiloff's thrust.

"The German accounts of our losses on the Somme are ludicrously exaggerated. Our losses, though deplorable, have been relatively low as compared with those of the Germans. The French and ourselves have captured positions on the Somme front whence the course of the campaign is visible, and I think in the dim distance we can see the end.

"France is equipped, and Russia is rapidly becoming equipped. Italy's equipment has amazed her best friends. Germany has missed her chance, and she knows it.

NORTHERN FIRES AGAIN RAGING

Nine Farms Destroyed Near New Liskeard — Flames Near Latchford, Too

COBALT, Aug. 23—Special—Bush fires are raging in the district around New Liskeard. The court in Haileybury was adjourned to-day at noon so that New Liskeard people in attendance could return to protect their homes. Eight farms have been destroyed on the north road—namely, Hayes', Waters', Hobbs', King's, Peebles', Stevens', Male's and McFadden's. On the west road Hoover's farm has been burned. The big swamp near the Casey Cobalt Mine is burning fiercely, and there is no communication with the mine at the time of wiring. Bush fires are also raging between Latchford and Gillies Depot. A large number of men are out fighting the fire.

After the continued dry spell the fires assumed serious proportions around Schumacher and Timmins, but the heavy rainfall last night put an end to the danger.

U. S. RAILWAY STRIKE MAY BE AVERTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(Special.) —Eight presidents of important railway systems, who have been designated to draft the railroads' reply to President Wilson's appeal that they accept his plan for averting a nationwide strike, were in almost continuous session today and tonight without solving their problem.

So far as the presidents would discuss the situation to-night they still are insistent upon a arbitration of the eight-hour day and all other issues with the employes. As the conference continued there was less talk of action which would lead to a strike, but some of the executives are expected to fight to the last ditch any plan which would force an eight-hour day upon the roads without some form of arbitration.

Turner, which returned to-day from the North Sea, reports that on the morning of Saturday last she made a successful torpedo attack upon a German battleship of the Nassau class. The commanding officer reports that while the ship was being escorted by five destroyers back to harbor, in a damaged condition, he attacked again and struck her with a second torpedo, and believes she was sunk."

Two Eskimos Are Caught

Officers Sent In Search Round Up Murderers of Two Priests

OTTAWA, Aug. 22.—In the far reaches of the copper mine country of the Arctic regions two missionary priests, Fathers Leroux and Rouvier, were murdered in November, 1913, by Eskimos. Since that time the long arm of the law has been after the murderers.

A Northwest Mounted Police patrol, headed by Inspector Ianause, set out in pursuit, and word has been received by way of Nome, Alaska, that they have succeeded in apprehending the two Eskimos guilty of the crime. They are now at Herschell Island and will be brought out to one of the western cities for trial.

MONTREAL Aug. 23—Specal—The capture in Detroit of Alphonse Foucault, the bandit who has been wanted by the Montreal police for more than two years on a charge of murdering Constable Bourdon on the Cote des Neiges road when the latter attempted to arrest the accused on a charge of robbery, was the outcome of a quarrel with his sweetheart. She gave him away to the detectives.

He was standing in the doorway. His chums, while stunned, escaped uninjured.

Times Applauds Papineau's Letter

London Daily Says Bourassa's Nationalism Stands Rebuked

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Special—"The Soul of Canada," "True Nationalist and False," are captions to a column in the Times to-day, wherein Captain Talbot M. Papineau's letter to Henri Bourassa, his cousin, is extensively quoted. Captain Papineau's statement that he would repudiate the idea of a Canadian nation if that meant antagonism to the spirit which unites the Empire to-day is singled out by the Times as a remarkable declaration, showing the effect of the war on one who, by birth and opinion before the war, was closely allied to the high priest of Canadian nationalism.

Commenting editorially, the Times says: "This remarkable document is a magnificent vindication of the case for Canadian participation in the war. Mr Bourassa's creed is posed with a dilemma from which there is no escape. Nothing has been written since the war began so fine in its stern insight and emotional eloquence as the passage in which the writer states his conviction that had Canada stood aloof it would have shared in winning the whole world at the price of the loss of its own soul."

Long, Difficult War, Says The French Minister

Victory Is Certain and Justice Will Triumph Says Viviani

PARIS, Aug. 23.—(Special.) —A difficult and prolonged struggle before the war is ended was prohesied yesterday by former Premier Viviani, who is Minister of Justice in the present Cabinet. In an address before the General Council of the Department of Creuse, held at Gueret, he said:

"Although victory is certain, it will require hard and prolonged efforts to break Prussian militarism and prevent recurrence of its crimes. There can be no peace before the attainment of victory, before adequate reparation is made and before justice triumphs."

In an address before the General Council of the Department of Aube, Bienvenu Martin, former Minister of Justice, said:

"The French will not submit to the peace of the German Emperor, who boasted he would force his adversaries to accept peace on bended knees. They will accept only such a peace as assures them legitimate reparation, as well as their independence and security, and they will bear patiently all sacrifices in order that, in conjunction with the efforts of their faithful allies, such a peace may be imposed."

Struck by Engine Skull Fractured

TORONTO, Aug. 22.—(Special.) — John Dissett, an employe of the Grand Trunk Car Recording Department, was struck by a light engine while crossing the railway tracks at the foot of Spadina avenue shortly before midnight. He was thrown some distance and was picked up in an unconscious condition. The police ambulance was summoned and after receiving medical attention from Dr. Gordon Rice, he was removed to Grace Hospital. An examination showed that Dissett was suffering from a fracture of the skull and was badly cut and bruised about the face and body. His condition is serious.

NOTABLE GAINS MADE BY BRITISH TROOPS

Carry German Positions on a Half-mile Front — Closing in on Thiepval—Also Capture 100 Yards of Trench Between Martinpuich and Bazentin

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(Special.) —A new gain of great tactical importance has been won by the British on the Pozieres-Thiepval front in their "yard-by-yard" offensive. Not only were German positions on a half-mile front near Pozieres carried during the night, but the British troops have pushed their way to a point within less than a mile of Thiepval, taking further sections of the powerful Leipzic salient. In a local action during the day a further advance toward Martinpuich was registered, the British capturing 100 yards of trench between that village and Bazentin. The new successes bring the British front in the Pozieres sector to a point just outside the fortified Mouquet Farm, and for some distance along the right of the Miraumont high road.

The War Office at Berlin admits the loss of positions on the Thiepval salient, but declares that at other points the British were repulsed. The claim is also put forward that trench positions south of the Somme, lost in an attack by the French, were regained by a counter-attack. Following some progress during the night in the outskirts of Clery the French to-day report that the artillery duel has been resumed. Military critics warn the French public not to expect any rapid advance on the Somme front.

"The violent cannonade has been resumed in preparation for new attacks," reads a despatch, "but the people are advised not to look forward to a speedy advance, as the forward movement of the allies is necessarily slower than in the beginning of July, when the Germans had on the Somme front no greater number of troops than on any other section of the fighting line.

"The important reserves they have massed there since have brought the number of effectives about equal on both sids. The British are also advancing very slowly, their formidable expenditure of ammunition enabling them to successfully check the Ger-

"The saem conditions prevail at man attacks.

"The same conditions prevail at Verdun, where the Crown Prince's army is marking time, while the French are advancing by feet and yards."

ALLIES VICTORIOUS ON THE MAIN BALKAN LINE

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Special—Both wings of the Allied line on the Saloniki front, where the soldiers of at least seven nations are locked in battle, have been bent back by the Bulgarians. In the centre, however, where the main effort of the Allies is being made at the entrance to the Great Vardar Valley, Paris reports important gains for the Anglo-French forces. Nothing is said in the official reports about the share in the fight of the Russian or Italian contingents, and no information has been given as to the strength of these reinforcements. The Serbians have apparently been the heaviest losers in the initial phases of the offensive, and have been forced back on their extreme left, about five miles from the Serbian-Greek frontier. They claim, however, continued progress on the other sections of their front.

Russian troops, which have reinforced the Serbians, are engaging the Bulgarians on the left wing. About 80,000 Russians are reported to have reached the Sanoliki theatre.

There is no official information of the story that Greek troops of the Seres district are fighting the Bulgars, though the report is repeated from several sources.

Strong Allied Forts Protecting The Wings

PETROGRAD, Aug. 23.—Special— The official organ of the Russian General Staff describes the movement of the Bulgarians against the Allies' flanks as a repetition in miniature of the great Austro German assault on the Russian front last year, and adds:

"At the same time the Allies have assumed the aggressive against the Teuton centre. In the event of a break through by the Allies the Bulgarian army would be split in two, at the same time forced back a great distance, while the Bulgarian attack on the Allies' flanks may be expected to dash itself to pieces on the strongly prepared fortifications and the Allied heavy artillery at the Saloniki positions. The Bulgarians can no longer hope to help the German or the Turkish troops."

Train Hit Cart Gateman Arrested

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—(Special.) — William Walker, a railway gateman at the Royce Avenue crossing, who lives at 150 Lippincott street, was arrested last night by Detective Todd on a warrant charging him with criminal negligence. The arrest of Walker was the result of an accident which occurred at the crossing at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, when a train struck a milk wagon driven by David Muir, of 223 Osler avenue. The wagon was smashed into splinters and thrown a distance of about 80 feet, although Muir fortunately escaped with only a few burises. It is alleged that Walker failed to lower the gates when the train approached and allowed Muir to drive over the crossing, directly in front of the oncoming train.

ALLIED MARKSMAN WINGS FOURTH HOSTILE AEROPLANE

Canadian Press Special

PARIS, Aug. 22.—(Afternoon statement.) North of the Somme the enemy during the night bombarded our first lines and our lines of communication to the north and south of Maurepas. Our artillery replied energetically. The enemy did not follow up his bombardment with infantry action.

South of the Somme, after intense artillery preparations, the Germans toward the end of the day made an attack south of Estrees and west of Soyecourt on trenches which we captured on August 21st. He gained a footing at some points. There was fairly active artillery duels in the suctors of Belloy, Assevillers and Lihons.

In Vosges we repulsed, by means of grenades, a surprise attack against one of our trenches south of Hartmans Weller Kopf.

The night was relatively calm on the remainder of the front.

On the Somme front Warrant Officer Dorme brought down his fifth German aeroplane, which fell in the direction of Moislains, northeast of Peronne. Four other enemy aeroplanes fired on by machine guns from our aeroplanes, came down within their own lines severely damaged.

80,000 RUSSIANS ON SALONIKI

Censor Let Loose Their Arrival Yesterday, For The First Time

Canadian Press Special

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—An associated Press despatch from Saloniki dated July 19th, says the offensive of the Entente Allies was being delayed until Russian forces arrived there. This arrival on July 30th was passed by Censor for the first time yesterday. Some eighty thousand Russians were expected, the despatch says, of whom a division would be from France and the remainder from the Persian Gulf. The moral effect of their arrival upon Bulgarians, more than the numbers they add to the Entente forces, is what the allies are looking for.

HOSTILITIES RIFE DURING NIGHT

Enemy Gains Temporary Footing, But Are Generally Repelled

Canadian Press Special

LONDON, Aug. 23.—A British official statement says:—"The enemy made two determined counter-attacks last night on our new trenches south of Thiepval. By the first attack he gained a temporary footing in our trenches, but was immediately driven out. The second attack was repulsed completely. The enemy's losses in these two attempts were heavy. Last night there was rather more hostile artillery fire, especially in the regions of Highwood and Bazentin Lepetit. Opposite Lens we carried out a small raid successfully. On other parts of the British front there was the usual trench warfare."

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

.. UNIQUE EMERGENCY CASE ..

Lieut. Adams has brought back from the front a most unique emergency medicine case supplied to all officers by the Imperial War Office.

The case is about the size of the average Canadian card case, and contains a number of small envelopes with the name of the drug printed plainly on the same. Inside the envelope is a sheet of gelatine, marked off in squares, and each square containing a regular dose of the drug named. The drug is in concentrated form in the gelatine square. All that is necessary, is to cut off one of the squares, and swallow the gelatine in a little water. The drug squares are called "Lamels" and it is certainly a new and convenient form for carrying drugs on active service. The more dangerous drugs, such as opiates, have a red label on the corner of the container.

NOTES

There will be a concert in the big tent of the 155th Battalion this evening. The Misses Devlin, Mrs. Dodds, Mrs. and Miss Telgmann, Miss Kuhns, Miss Dell Craig and others will take part.

Lepine, 155th; W. A. Shaw, 155th; C. E. Meiklejohn, 155th; F. P. Baldwin, 156th; H. L. Burmester, 207th; L. Murray, 154th.

A letter received by Captain Wilson from Major Carew of the 109th Battalion says that the people of England are very much taken up with the excellent band of the Lindsay Battalion, and permission has been granted by Sir Sam Hughes to increase the band to 50 members. The 109th are reported as being in the best of health and condition in general.

Lieut.-Col. Scobell has a most unique method of recruiting in course of preparation. He is going to start out on a trek all over the recruiting area of the 235th Battalion, taking with him his entire battalion. They will live and drill among the people every day, and give all a chance to see what it means to belong to an overseas unit.

Lieut.-Col. Scobell, commanding the 235th Battalion, was in camp on Monday and among other things proudly displayed the new cap badge of this unit. The badge is one of the prettiest yet made for the purpose and the designers should be given credit for showing originality as wel las an artistic sense in making it up.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

NEW YORK DEPARTMENT STORE FORMS SETTING FOR HAZEL DAWN FILM

Famous players use great department store in "The Saleslady"

For the department store scenes in her next Famous Players-Paramount production, "The Saleslady" Hazel Dawn actually spent many hours behind the ribbon counter in one of the most celebrated department stores in New York. Over three hundred employees of the establishment, and the entire store were placed at the disposal of the star and her director, Frederick Thompson, in the making of this unusual drama which is the attraction at Griffin's Opera House, Tonight and Thursday night.

It is the tale of a country girl whom poverty forces to try her fortune in New York. Upon her arrival in the city her beauty attracts the attention of a band of white slavers and the woman in the party persuades her to the house at which she is boarding "where she will be perfectly safe". But when Helen refuses to join in the "little party" which the rest of the girls in the house arrange, she immediately becomes unpopular.

Meanwhile Helen has met Bruce Kerwin, a wealthy yuong chap who has taken one opportunity to befriend her and who is smitten by her beauty.

The boy is disowned by his father for becoming intimate with the "shop girl" and finally becomes so enamored of Helen that he marries. He has obtained employment as an auto demonstrator and is severly injured. In order to support him, Helen goes on the stage and makes a great success of the venture.

Her performance appeals very strongly to Bruce's father who makes her acquaintance without suspecting that she is really his daughter-in-law. It is not until Helen is very sure of having won his heart that she takes him home and reveals her true relationship to him.

The fact that this is the first great metropolitan department store to be reproduced upon the screen lends particular interest to this story. The entire building, which comprises the department store in question, was placed at the disposal of the Famous Players for the taking of the scenes in the store. Great quantities of powerful lights were transported from the studio to the store in order to permit the producers to get a comprehensive sweep of the broad expanse of the interior.

In addition to the above special five part offering, Frank Daniels, the maker of a million laughs a day appears in the fourth whirl of The Escapades of Mr. Jack series, the title this whirl being, Mr. Jack's Dukeship The Pathe weekly offering a review of the important events for the week is also annouced for exhibition.

"Food Is Its Own Best Digestant"

"All too frequently, we prescribe medicines for patients who suffer from indigestion, when, as a matter of fact, what they actually need is a simple course of dietetic training, and the proper food-stuffs to train on.

"This is the famous "reason" for the popularity of Grape-Nuts as an article of diet, viz., that it furnishes this very course of training for the digestion. It not only furnishes the natural diastase for the process of digestion, but it favors a return to normal digestive function because the firm, crisp kernels compel thorough mastication.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE
BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XXII—continued

"See that he doesn't," Coyle repeated. "Selkirk will go with me to see Todd. He must be informed Carter's death as soon as possible. He'll boom the market to beat the band on the strength of that. We'll probably find McNulty at Todd's house and can put them both wise. Pat can then return to his wife and tell her what we have done. She helped us turn a clever trick. I'll be hanged if she didn't."

"And I'll breathe much easier," growled Cullen, "knowing that that infernal meddler is down and out. Get me, will he? That's what he said in the tunnel, blast him! I nearly did him then and there."

"He'll trouble us no more, Dan" said Coyle, with grim satisfaction. "As for you, you must look after Hogan tonight and until we have a meeting of all hands. That will be tomorrow evening in the crib back of this brewery. You'd better go over there with Hogan in the morning, where I can reach you by telephone. There may be instructions to give you."

"Nothing doing here, then?"

"Not until we find out how things are going to turn," Coyle replied. "Fenno is still out, you know, and Todd may decide its best to get after him again before starting up the work here. I'll phone you at the brewery during the morning."

"All right," Cullen growled indifferently. "As for Hogan he's welcome to run double with me for a time.

Only for him I'd be in limbo, dead sure. That's all for now?'

"Yes," Coyle nodded taking out a key and unlocking the gate

Maulty and Greer took another direction in order to get their team, and the detective saw no more of them that night. Upon emerging into the narrow street, Coyle and Selkirk at once hastened away on the mission mentioned, and Patsy was left with only Cullen for his companion.

Barring his anxiety concerning Nick he was well pleased with what he had thus far accomplished He had overheard all that was said, learning the indentity of the three chief rascals of the gang—Coyle, Selkirk and Cullen—also that they were in league with McNulty and Todd, as Nick had suspected and he now felt sure that he was in a fair way to locate and rescue the missing attorney as well as to discover all the essential facts in the crimes under investigation.

Patsy was much too shrewd, however to attempt to question Cullen that night. He knew that any display of curiosity might arouse suspicion. Constantly playing the crafty part he had assumed he accompanied the ruffian to an inferior boarding house only a few block away, where he roomed with him that night, of necessity rather than choice.

Cullen arose early the following morning, and Patsy could find no opportunity to secretly communicate with Nick's office. They breakfasted together, which no sooner over than Cullen announced that he would start at once for the crib mentioned by Coyle the previous night.

"Whereabouts is it, pal?" Patsy asked with friendly familiarity as they were leaving the lodging house.

"Oh, not far," Cullen agreeably growled. We can walk it, D'ye know where Pat Selkirk's brewery is?"

"Pretty near," nodded Patsy.

"Well it's back of that," said Cullen. "It's owned by Pat, along with a building he stores the hops in; but Tony Greer lives in the house. They work for the Selkirk,s and mind you charge of the hops and some of the work in the brewery. There isn't anything doing now or we could get enough booze to float a batleship, or make a covey fit to fight like one."

"Nothing doing, eh?" quired Patsy with a leer. "That's bad pal, in case a bloke gets thirsty. Wasn't the booze factory paying?"

Cullen grimly shook his head.

"Pat was on his uppers," he replied. He's a high roller, mind you, and spends more dough in a day than I make in a month. His wife like him too, in that way. She had some long green, quite a wad of it but it was tied up so she could not get it and the bloke of a judge who handled it for her didn't do a thing but blow in the whole boodle. That's how we got him foul and forced him into the game we've been playing. He didn't need any forcing though. He was ready enough to take half a million for what Todd wanted. D'ye know Todd?. He's the big Wall Street gazabo. You heard us speak of him last night?"

"Sure, nodded Patsy. "But half a million what?"

"Bucks! Simoleons! D'ye think I mean toothpicks?"

"You don't mean half a million dollars?" inquired Patsy, in a way well calculated to lead the ruffian on to further disclosures.

"Sure thing I do! What else would I mean?"

"Whew! The game must be a big one."

"So 'tis Hogan. The biggest ever."

"Did the judge get all that dough?"

"Sure he got it — then we got it back.

"He didn't keep it, eh?"

"We didn't let him keep it,' ' Cullen replied, with a grim laugh.

"How was that pal?" inquired Patsy, as if much perplexed. "Hang me if I can see through it.'

"Oh, I don't mind telling you, Hogan, since you're in the same boat along with rest of us," said Cullen after a moment. "Twas like this, d'ye see? Todd's a big buck in Wall St. and the high muckamuck in the United Transit Company that McNutly, Cassidy and Coyle are doing that big river job for. The firm is deep in the company, too, with a big bundle of stock. That's why they wanted some outside help, such as I could give them, so they rung me into it. I've worked for them a good while, and they knew they could trust me, d'ye see?"

'Sure I see,' Patsy nodded I see that much."

"'Twas like this," Cullen went on; "Todd was in a big lawsuit and wanted a certain decision from the judge I speak of, and Selkirk's wife, who couldn't get her dough, put Todd wise that the judge was in a bad hole. She got next, mind you, and found out that he'd blown in barrels of other people's money.'

"Isn't that what is called a defaulter?x"

"I reckon that's the word," Cullen grimly allowed. "Knowing he had him in a hole, Todd got next to the judge and offered to buy the decision he wanted. The bait was swallowed, all right, but the judge wouldn't do the trick less than half a million. Todd suirmed, and kicked, but gave in at last, mind you, and then we got our heads together and framed up a scheme to get the dough back after Todd had got his decision."

"Gee! that was a swell job," Patsy declared, with affected admiration. ' How could you work it, pal?"

"Dead easy." Cullen growled with a shrug. "Or would have been, only for that cursed meddler, Nick Carter He queered us like thunder first and now he is down and out for it.'

"What was the game, Cull?" asked Patsy, as tickled with those disclosures as a baby with a feather.

"'Twas like this," Cullen repeated in his grim fashion;;"The judge was a ffoxy gabazo, and knew he'd got to hand out some pretty phony stuff."

"A wrong decision.'

"Surd."

"I see."

"A lot of papers had to be got out of the way, he said before he could do it. He didn't want them raked up against him, in case there was any law fight afterward about the decision He had the documents, then, all right, but he wouldn't destroy them, nor let any one of us. They must be got rid of in some other way he said."

"I'm on pal."

"So he agreed to set a fellow in the district attorney's office to work on them, just to make things look on the level, and have him take them home with him the same night. But a gang of us was to hold him up and nail the papers," Cullen added, "and then get the chap out of the way, so he couldn't testify later what the papers were, d'ye see?"

"Sure," said Patsy, "that's plain enough."

SUCCESS OF A NEW REMEDY FOR BACKACHE, KIDNEYS, RHEUMATISM.

Dear Mr. Editor—I suffered for years with backache. Last March I tried "Anuric" and have used this new kidney medicine recently discovered by Dr. Pierce, and it was wonderful the way it eased the pain and gave me relief in such a short time. I have tried several medicines, but "Anuric" is the only one that gave satisfaction. I feel it my duty to recommend "Anuric Tablets" to any one who suffers as I did.

(Signed) MRS. MARGARET E. SNIDER.

NOTE: Folks in town and adjoining counties are delighted with the results they have obtained by using "ANURIC," the newest discovery of Dr. Pierce, who is head of the INVALIDS' HOTEL and SURGICAL INSTITUTE, in Buffalo, N. Y. Those who started the day with a backache, stiff legs, arms and muscles, and an aching head (worn out before the day began because they were in and out of bed half a dozen times at night) are appreciating the perfect rest, comfort and new strength they obtained from Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets. To prove that this is a certain uric acid solvent and conquers headache, kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism, if you've never used the "Anuric," cut this out and send ten cents to Doctor Pierce for a large sample package. This will prove to you that "Anuric" is thirty-seven times more active than lithia in eliminating uric acid—and the most perfect kidney and bladder corrector. If you are a sufferer, go to your best druggist and ask for a 50-cent box of "Anuric." You run no risk for Dr. Pierce's good name stands behind this wonderful new discovery as it has for the past half century for his "Golden Medical Discovery," a general tonic made from roots with pure glycerine which makes the blood pure, his "Favorite Prescription" for weak women and "Pleasant Pellets" for liver ills.

TIRED, ACHING FEET AND LIMBS

are promptly relieved by applying Absorbine, Jr., the antiseptic liniment. It is soothing, healing, and invigorating—puts vim and energy into jaded muscles. One of the many enthusiastic users writes: "I received the trial bottle of Absorbine, Jr., all right and at that time was unable to walk without a cane, just around the house. I used it freely and inside of two days could walk without limping, something I had not done in two months. I went to the drug store and procured a $1.00 bottle and today can walk as good as ever. I'll never be without it. I am recommending it to everyone I can, for I am a living witness."

Absorbine, Jr., should always be kept at hand for emergencies.

At druggists, $1.00 and $2.00 a bottle or sent postpaid. Liberal trial bottle for 10c. in stamps.

New Name for Berlin Still Undecided

After a period of three weeks the civic authorities at Berlin have received information from the Postoffice Department at Ottawa stating that the question of whether the department would permit the use of the name of Kitchener was deferred until the return of Hon. T. C. Casgrain, Postmaster-General, who is returning from England this week. The letter also drew attention to the fact that there is at the present time a postoffice named "Kitchener" in Canada, and that in view of representations from the Boards of Trade and business firms throughout the country a regulation of the department has been formulated forbidding the repetition of names, which leads to confusion and delay in the delivery of mails. Further consideration of the request is promised.

New Ontario Exhibit Lost.

As a result of the disastrous forest fires last week there is no New Ontario exhibit at the Exhibition this year. The Government had decided upon a new departure—an outdoor exhibit—and had arranged for space at the corner of Lansdowne avenue, just across from the grand stand. Here it was planned to erect a settlers' cabin on a miniature model farm. The logs had all been prepared and fashioned into a dwelling, and the whole was to be shipped to the Exhibition in sections. The fire, however, destroyed the exhibit, and Timiskaming district for this year at least will depend upon the mineral display as sufficient evidence of the marvellous resources of Northern Ontario.

Hay Crop Remarkable.

Not only is this year's hay crop in Ontario a phenomenal one in point of yield, but it has been saved with the minimum of labor. There has scarcely been a case of "turning," and in numberless cases the hay has been lifted to the wagon direct from swath by a hay-loader.

THIS IS THE 690TH DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

WHO TURNED THE TABLES?

Referring to the results of the South-West Toronto bye-election, the Hamilton Spectator asserts that the liquor interest was responsible for the defeat of Mr Norris, throwing its whole weight on the Liberal side. "Moderate drinkers did likewise," says our contemporary. "The temperance vote, as usual, was divided. Among extreme prohibitionists Mr Norris's chance was destroyed by his leaning toward beer and wine licenses. How temperance Liberals could support Mr Dewart—still less satisfactory from their point of view—remains a puzzle. Hydro and nickel were mere blinds to hid the real issue. A large section of Tory Toronto does not want even temporary prohibition without a referendum. Whether temperance men or liquor men wanted a referendum or not, the Ontario Government needed it. Had the onus been thrown on the people, only themselves would the people have had to blame for anything that might happen."

PRESENT-DAY NAPOLEONS.

When the special war correspondent of The New York Times asked General van Mackensen—if it is Mackensen who is in command on the Somme front—what he thought of General Haig's leadership, he replied sagely:

> "Haig has had no chance to show what he can do in the way of strategy. No General has had in this war, with the possible exception of Hindenburg. Consequently the war has discovered and developed no great strategic genius. It is all tactical now."

It was such an answer as a professional soldier might be expected to make, but leadership and strategic genius are not always the same thing. Mackensen has military chess-playing in his mind. When a professional soldier speaks of strategy he has Napoleon in the back of his mind. Wars are many and Napoleons few, and there are many wars in which Napoleons are not needed. Not until the Union commanders had got Napoleon out of their heads did they get a workable plan of campaign. The late General Grant was accused of being a "hammerer," a "butcher," who had no strategy at all. His strategy, however, was the thing needed in that particular war. The move which ended the American Revolution was Washington's dash to the South, masked until after it was under way. It was simply a feint on a large scale, but it was the thing needed in that particular war. When Admiral Schley was before his court of inquiry, his prosecutors, naval officers with professional minds, cross-examined him and all his witnesses to find out what his strategy was at Santiago, what his plans and orders for the ships of the squadron, knowing that he had none. Cervera was running to the west, and the only thing to do was just to run after him and shoot. No commander, not Nelson himself, could have devised any other strategy; even the professional mind should know that.

Leadership is another thing, suggests The Times. Not all wars give an opportunity for Kriegspiel, but very few wars can get along without great Generals, whether they have any chance to play chess with their armies or not. Mackensen is too modest. His campaigns, especially the one in Serbia, make his fame as secure as that of the Generals who fought similar campaigns, not of Kriegspiel, in the ante-Napoleon years of the French Revolution. Perhaps Brusiloff is no more a chess-player or a Napoleon than Grant, but he has a genius for doing the thing needed. And even in this war there has been at least one opportunity for a man who could use the chess-board, besides the opportunities of Hindenburg. Mackensen, as a professional man, should admire that move by which Joffre blocked the Germans and saved France at the Marne. If he does not think that was great strategy, he must admit that it was more than tactics. If it had been only tactics, the Germans would have foreseen it and possibly profited by it.

London Chronicle: Some years ago Lord Kitchener's name was given to a kind of wheat that was introduced by him into South Africa. While Kitchener was in India some of the acquaintances he had made in South Africa wrote him that their wheat was suffering from rust and that they had heard that Tibetan wheat was immune from the disease. Could he send them a few bushels? He sent the wheat, and that was an end of the matter, as he thought. Some years afterward he was at Nairobi, and saw a few acres of growing wheat, named Kitchener wheat. He learned that the seed had come from a part of South Africa, 200 miles distant—the offspring of the marriage of his Tibetan wheat with a native variety. "So," said Lord Kitchener, "just as my grandfather, Dr Chevalier, gave his name to a famous barley, mine is now attached to a special kind of wheat."

Montreal Gazette: President Wilson has come out strongly in favor of the eight-hour work day, to which, he says, "the whole economic movement of the time seems to point." Mr Wilson is "the scholar in politics," and has been referred to by opponents on occasion as a schoolmaster or a professor, not in a spirit of praise. Now that a campaign is developing, however, the President is showing himself to be an astute politician, who makes bids for votes in a way that a ward statesman might envy.

Kaiser, a small place in the Qu'Appelle district of Saskatchewan, has had its name changed to Peebles, thus following the example set by Berlin, Ont., which has voted to be the second Kitchener in Canada. There are numerous other place names of German origin in the Dominion, and there may be agitation yet for a renaming of at least some of them. The moral is evident. Those upon whom devolves the task of christening villages and districts should give the preference to native names, as not calculated to be a possible cause of worry and distress in time of war.

Current Comment

Apparently Liberal politicians cannot overcome a life-long habit of jockeying prohibition.—Toronto News.

A London paper says in a riot at Berlin the women fought with fists, nails, teeth and shoes. To say nothing of hat pins and language.

British naval strategy in the North Sea is aimed at finding and holding the enemy as well as destroying him. The task is peculiar because, in this case, the German navy is anxious to escape action.

And now Hartley Dewart, the new member for South-West Toronto, will see to it that Palestine is soon wrested from the Turk and handed over to the Jews for settlement, according to his pre-election promises.—Hamilton Herald.

Another Austrian statesman declares that Britain is blocking the way to peace. Of course she is, just as a policeman blocks the way to peace when he undertakes to put an end to the activities of a gunman on the warpath.—Montreal Star.

President Wilson's strenuous exertions to prevent a dislocation of railway traffic all over the United States owing to a strike of the railway employees has called attention sharply to the fact that there is no machinery in the country for the taking care of important labor disputes.

The Poets' Corner

KITCHENER.

O'er England's wall a mighty pall
Of gloom and sadness came;
He, loved and worshipped more than all,
Sank with untarnished fame.

The lightning message brought the word,
From off the Orkney coast,
That England's Lord and great war board
Of which she loved to boast,

Had sank beneath the stormy wave,
Lashed to a raging foam,
Within full view of Albion's graves,
And speaking range of home.

Hushed is the breath, flushed in the cheek,
As subjects rushed the Strand,
In eager anxiousness to seek
News of that famous band.

Lord, is it so, that he is gone?
Our idol, more than King;
He whom our land depends upon,
A world-wide peace to bring.

One voice was heard, and but one word,
Grief moving, shuddering—drowned.
Then, like a staggering, dazed herd,
The British roamed the ground.

And this is war! Shall it prevail!
Shall Earth to slaughter bring?
The Sons of Men 'mid shout and wail,
The peasant and the King.

Is there no better way to swing
The balance of all wrong?
If not, then doff the crown of kings,
Let night ring out her gong.

But must the race of men lose heart,
And hope forsake the breast?
Shall justice grant no feeling part
While anger flames the breast?

Is God nowhere in all this world?
Must brutal force e'er sway?
And savagery of lust unfurled
Wipe out a living day?

'Twere better that we all should die,
The coward's grave to fill
In one dim, useless memory lie,
An everlasting chill.

But no! The Militar must go,
The Sun must shine again,
The heat must lick the winter's snow,
The Earth must feel the rain.

The brain of man must not be taxed
To find the road to peace,
The butcher's arm must be relaxed
And loot—find her surcease.

Shall this world in her balance hold
A mine of offset skill,
And raise to summits yet untold,
A Kitchener to kill?

The sword into a plowshare turn,
Great cannons melt for aye,
Bright uniforms like mountains burn,
Ring in a living day.

OLD "MAC" RETIRES.

After Thirty Years, Famous G. C. I. Caretaker Gives Up Post.

"If any of you gentlemen desired to put Mac out, you have put Mac in," was David MacGeorge's cryptic jest when a new janitor was appointed at the Galt Collegiate Institute, of which MacGeorge had been caretaker for more than 30 years.

In rewarding MacGeorge's long and faithful service, the trustees, intentionally or otherwise, had appointed a brother Scot, and they laughed heartily at MacGeorge's pawky humor and his national pride of birth.

"Old Mac" will remain as florist and landscape gardener, and one hopes that still another generation of the G. C. I. will admire his flowers, scan his poetry, and listen to the school's anecdotal past.

Born in Scotland, he married a Highland lassie, and, ultimately, crossed the sea to Canada and to Galt, then the auld Scotch toun, and now a city.

In April, 1864, he became caretaker of "Tassie's Grammar School," known in later years as the G.C.I.

Eminent Canadians have graduated from the old G. C. I. in MacGeorge's day, and, according to the loyal old man, few schools, if any, have produced more useful ones. In peace and in war, they have played a creditable part.

Years ago, MacGeorge found a very young lad with torn knickerbockers, and, with deft needle, the caretaker-gardener-poet-theologian stitched him up in time for his classes.

Mac can relate schoolboy tales by the mile, and the subjects of these reminiscences have affection for the relator.

A pailful of new Canadian coppers went to MacGeorge on his thirtieth anniversary, the students proceeding on the theory that a true philosopher would prefer sonsie cents to sordid siller, even if he was Scotch. Then, too, the total was a tidy one.

Mac has evolved a beautiful rose, he has written books, and he has angled for bass in the Grand River at the foot of the G. C. I. hill these many years.

Of his six children, five have homes of their own. His busy, rational life is written on his face in lines benign. May his declining years be tinged with the mellow light that heralds the approaching eventide.

ROADS AND OIL INDUSTRY.

Refineries Busy Meeting Demands for Asphaltic Preparations.

Demand for good roads has had an important result in that it has created a demand being met in Canada by oil refineries for preparations for the treatment of road surfaces. At the oil plants to-day will be found special appliances for loading wagons specially constructed to oil roads, and the treatment is becoming more general as a result of the experiments of quite recent years. Approximately the cost of oiling a sixteen-foot road at present is $425 a mile. This is on the basis of half a gallon of oil per square yard. The first treatment requires this amount, and the second a quarter of a gallon, which would cost $225. The increased demand for road oil from year to year is in itself an indication that the difficulties incident to the use of oils for road surfaces have been overcome. Mr. John Jackson, the Superintendent of the Queen Victoria Park, Niagara Falls, says:

"A perusal of engineering magazines and the articles published in their road sections of ten years ago, and even less, discloses the remarkably different attitude displayed by road officials of the present day as compared with the views then held on the subject of road oiling. As late as 1907 or 1908 it will be observed that for the most part the use of oil is spoken of as experimental, and while it is hoped that the results will be satisfactory, some hesitation and doubt is expressed about anything more than a partial solution of the dust problem. It was soon discovered, however, that the cost of oil was very much less than that of continuously sprinkling water upon the surface of the road during the dry and dusty season, and this fact probably had a great deal to do with increasing the popularity of the use of oils; for it is well known that a saving in money values is often welcomed when increased efficiency at the same price is not accepted with enthusiasm. These early days, too, were not without their difficulties, and one can well remember the storms of protest which followed the sprinkling of oil in altogether too large quantities per square yard. Suits indeed were often threatened against the municipalities for damage to carpets, clothing, etc., in this period of the history of oil. The difficulties were due very largely to the use of distributing apparatus totally unsuited to the purpose for which it was being used, the original intention being that of sprinkling water, and not oil."

Maples Around Graves.

Canadian maples are to be planted around the graves of Canadian soldiers in France. Seed of the red and silver maple, ripened at Ottawa, has been sent to London by Dominion Horticulturist W. T. Macoun and planted in Kew Gardens. After the war the little trees from these seeds are to be transplanted in France. Seeds of the large-leaved maple of British Columbia are to be sent to London for the same purpose, as soon as ripe.

Your Dollars Go a Long Way

—In the Hands of The Belgian Relief Committee.

NEVER before has relief work been done on such a huge scale, or with anything approaching the efficiency with which it is being carried on in Belgium. Faced with the appalling task of feeding a starving nation, the Belgian Relief Commission has done magnificent work.

Scores of the ablest and highest salaried business men of the English speaking world have given their time free, to perfect the organization and carry on the work. Operating expenses are phenomenally low. Business methods are applied to every feature of buying, shipping and distributing food—and accounting for every dollar.

The result is that millions of Belgians are being fed at an average cost of around $2.50 per family per month! Compare that with your own meat bill and you will begin to realize what it means.

But even this provision is possible only through the generous and sustained contributions of thousands of people. Canada has been doing nobly, as she should. Many have been regularly giving enough to feed one—or several—Belgian Families. How many can you afford to support?

Whatever you feel you can give, send your subscription weekly, monthly, or in one lump sum, to Local or Provincial Committees, or,

UNCLAIMED BANK BALANCES

Provisions of the Dominion Statutes require all banks doing business in Canada to report to Parliament all "Certified Cheques, Drafts or Bills of Exchange, Dividends remaining unpaid, and unclaimed balances in all Charter Banks, in respect to which no transactions have taken place, or upon which no interest has been paid for five years and upwards." The last report gives the names of all delinquents prior to and on the 31st of December, 1915.

The last volume published by the Dominion Government, of date 1916, contains no less than 666 pages. As these Government official reports are not for general circulation, and will therefore come under the eye or notice of few, if any, of those having unclaimed balances in the various banks with which they did business, we give to our readers the names, etc., of those interested in those unclaimed balances that are on deposit in the banks doing business in Belleville. They are as follows:—

Name of Shareholder or Creditor or Purchaser and Payee of Certified Cheque.	Deposit balances	Last known address of beneficiary.	Date of last Transaction.

CROPS WILL BE THE BEST IN HISTORY OF DISTRICT

Loss by Frost Estimated at Less Than a Total of Five Per Cent. Depreciation All Round in Vicinity of North Battleford, Sask.

(From North Battleford Optimist)

The song of the binder has broken the spell of anxiety which hung over the district during the full moon period of last week-end. Each morning for two or three days fears were entertained that considerable damage would follow the depredations of Jack Frost. Particularly on Thursday morning last, after a very cool day, followed by a cooler night did the thermomoter cause considerable anxiety. Old "Sol" when he began to throw his search-light upon the gardens and fields quickly disclosed the extent to which vegetation had ben nipped. Here and there a potato patch showed that freezing point had been reached, and that the danger zone of temperature had been encroached upon. However this condition was confined to localities and was not by any means general. From north, east and west, farmers arrived with authoritative information regarding their crops, and with their assurance that no damage had been done to the standing grain, consequently fears were quickly dissipated, and with the bright sunshine of the last few days optimism runs high.

The Optimist has made extensive inquiries from every available source and we consider that an estimate of 5 per cent. in depreciation of crop value through the frost of last week would amply cover all losses. Not a case has been brought to our notice where the crop was damaged sufficiently to destroy it as marketable grain. Even in the Meeting Lake country, one of the first to feel a fall frost, very good reports have been received, placing the losses at a very small percentage.

In a few cases the grade will be affected, but taking the district as a whole the loss is infinitestinal. No damage throughout the entire district has been reported from hail.

The concensus of opinion is that this year's crop is the very best in the history of the district and better than the bumper crop of last year. Already cutting has started, and by next Wednesday should be general.

If good weather continues throughout the harvest season, North Battleford district can boast of harvesting one of the best crops in the entire country. Neither east nor west do the crops compare, and with the absense of rust, hail and frost, excepting a very few isolated cases, it can be accorded the most bounteous harvest in the history of the district.

"The Souls Under The Altar" Discussed by Evangelist Johnston Tuesday Night

A theme of special interest was considered last night at the Canvas Tabernacle on the corner of Victoria and Pinnacle Streets. In connection with the subject of the Fifth Seal, that speaks concerning "the souls under the altar," Mr Johnston examined many texts that bear upon the subject of the soul itself. He said it is commonly believed by a large majority of people that man is endowed with a certain immaterial, immortal and invisible soul that soars to its coveted freedom in the regions of supernatural bliss or else descends to regions of eternal destruction. Such a position, he declared, was unwarranted, right in opposition to the teaching of God's word. The soul he said dies and goes to the grave and remains there until the resurrection. But the spirit alone returns to God (Eccl. xii. 7). In support of the statements that the soul dies and goes to the grave, he advanced the following texts. For instance, Ps. lxxviii. 50 says: "He spared not their soul from death." Ezek. xvii. 4. he said, proves that the soul of the sinner dies. The soul of Christ also was made an offering for sin (Isa. liii.10, 12). But though His soul died and went to the grave, yet it says, in Acts ii. 31, that it wasn't left there. His soul was raised from hell (hades, the grave) and His flesh never saw corruption. Job said his soul drew near to the grave in chap. xxxiii. 22. The psalmist said: "No one can keep alive the soul" (Ps. xxii. 29), and right along this line of thought he read a question on the soul from Ps. lxxxix. 48, and answered it from Ps. xlix. 15, shewing that though man has no power to raise the soul, the Lord would redeem it from the hand of the grave at the resurrection. These and many other texts were placed upon the blackboard, offering strong convincing proof that the soul dies. But Mr Johnston promised to prove later what the spirit is which does return to God. A deep interest was manifested by all present.

A TRENCH DOG STORY

(London Daily Telegraph)

"The other morning," writes a West Hartlepool R. A. M. C. man who is stationed at one of the hospitals near the front in France, "we had an unusual patient. A little white terrier came trotting in with rather a nasty gash in his side. He went straight into the receiving-room and practically asked to be dressed. An officer turned twice at different times during the day to have his dressings changed. The next morning he again turned up, and, for a joke, a sergeant made out a proper sick report and sent it in with the sick reports of the chaps who had reported that morning.

"In due course the medical officer came to this report, and called out 'Trooper Gyp, 8th D. L. I.'—the heading the sergeant had put on the report (the initials in this instance being intended to stand for Doggy's Light Infantry.) Of course, there was no answer. The medical officer glanced around at the sick chaps sitting waiting for attention, and again called, 'Which of you men is Trooper Gyp?'

"Just then the sergeant entered and explained matters. The medical officer took the joke in good part, dressed doggy's wound and entered him in proper fashion. 'Shell wound in side; admitted into hospital.' Doggy has now taken up his quarters in the pack store, and nothing can persuade him to move. He goes out for a stroll every morning, but always returns. He has, however, been promoted, and is now 'Captain Gyp, 8th D.L.I.'"

The Manitoba Trial Draws To Its Close

The report of the great criminal trial to date covers 750,000 words and more than 300 exhibits have been placed in evidence and two hundred more are to come. The stenographic fees amount to over $10,000. It is said one of the strong cards that may be introduced by the defence will be the cost of the Parliament Buildings at Regina, compared with that of the work done here. The theory of the Crown is that it is of no consequence what other buildings have cost in contrast to that of the Manitoba capital, but wholly one of the methods adopted by the accused in granting payment to Contractor Kelly for work and materials which the Crown claims were not furnished. The jury has now been locked up 27 days.

Address of counsel will occupy three days and Mr Justice Prendergast is expected to consume one day in summing up and instructing the jury.

Much interest surrounds the character of the evidence to be offered by the defence. It is said that if the accused ex-Ministers take the stand Dr Simpson, also indicted as one of the conspirators, but now superintendent of medical work at Camp Hughes may also go on the stand in their behalf. In that event it is possible that Kelly, the convicted contractor, may also be urged to give evidence and cast complete light on the entire transaction.

Rumor Says Sir Sam Resigns

Ottawa on Edge Over Unconfirmed Rumor

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—The militia offices were agog with excitement today over a rumor that General Sir Sam Hughes had sent in his resignation as Minister of Militia to accept a command at the front. No foundation of the rumor could be discovered. At the Prime Minister's office it was stated that nothing had been heard of the alleged resignation.

The rumor has doubtless arisen from recent English press despatches that General Hughes might take a command. It is well known that he would like to see active service before the war ends and it would not be surprising if he were given some high staff appointment before he returns to Canada. General Hughes is in France inspecting the Canadian troops.

INVASION BY BULGARIANS OPPOSED BY GREEKS

Gallantry of Troops at Fea Petra Commended—Six Hundred of Nation's Forces Come Forward at Saloniki in Answer to Call For Defence of Country

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Special— The Greeks are preparing to resist in force the advance of the Bulgarians toward Seres and Kavala. Before the pressure of Czar Ferdinand's troops the Greeks have fallen back, but they do not purpose to permit a Bulgarian advance to the Aegean without disputing it.

The Daily Chronicle prints the following despatch from George Renwick, its correspondent at Athens:

"The heroic struggle of the Greek troops against the Bulgar invaders at Fea Petra has stirred the national imagination. Col. Christodoulos, commanding in the Seres region, reports that the Greek garrison at Fea Petra put up a splendid resistance, and, though not numerous, fought with valor, disputing every inch of ground. Christodoulos believes the fight kept up until the last man fell dead, and also reports valiant resistance by the Starchista garrison, where only two wounded soldiers were left at the conclusion of the combat.

"The latest news states that the Colonel's division was still fighting. Yesterday morning there were 400 men of the division at Seres ready to defend it. The town is being bombarded by the Bulgarians. Christodoulos declared he would not at any price permit the entry of the Bulgars into the town. If the attempt is made he will fight to the last.

"It is also announced that the 150 men defending Kilkitch resisted magnificently and suffered heavily by the attacks of vastly superior Bulgar forces. Exact details of the losses of the Greeks at Demir-Hissar are not known. It is feared they have been isolated after a glorious resistance.

"Six hundred volunteers came forward at Saloniki at the call of a committee for the defence of the country against the Bulgar invaders. Yesterday it was reported on good authority that the Bulgar invasion of the Struma region had been brought to a standstill.

Chinese Gamblers Are Rounded Up

Caught When Police Raided Toronto Gambling House

TORONTO, Aug. 23.— Thirty-five Chinamen appeared in the police court yesterday, charged with gambling at 16 Elizabeth street. At one o'clock on the morning of Civic Holiday, Detectives Warden and Scott raided Mark Clahung's premises and found a crowd of Chinamen around a number of tables on which were dice, dominoes and money. As the foreigners scattered, the detectives gathered in $62.05 and also the paraphernalia with which the money was lost and won.

The evidence showed that the men were playing games of chance for money and that the keeper of the premises was getting a "rake-off of 10 per cent. The points for which the Chinamen played were five or ten cents.

Each offender was fined $4 and costs or five days in jail, while the keeper. Mark Clahung suffered a fine of $25 and costs.

STORM FLOODS CELLARS AND DEMOLISHES BARN

Trees Also Destroyed and Other Damage Results

HAMILTON, Aug. 23 — A heavy electric storm broke over this city yesterday afternoon and the lightning and the rain worked havoc. Trees were broken down and cellars flooded in various sections. The residents on the mountain were the chief sufferers. D. A. Barton lost an $8,000 metal barn struck by lightning and torn to pieces. The building contained the season's crop of grain unthreshed, and hay which owing to exposure to the downpour of rain was ruined. Two houses owned by Mr. Gallagher, and occupied by himself and his brother Raymond, respectively, were also struck and the chimneys knocked off. On the east end mountain trees and fences in large numbers were leveled by the storm.

ANGLO-FRENCH FORCES MAKE MATERIAL ADVANCE AT SALONIKI

Canadian Press Special.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—The French War Office gave out an official announcement on the operations in front of Saloniki. In front of the right wing of the Allied armies the enemy is entrenching himself on the left bank of the River Struma, and on both sides of the highway to Seres. Between the Struma and upper valley of the Moglenica the Anglo-French forces have repulsed without trouble several attempts of the enemy to recapture positions occupied by Anglo-French forces to the north of Palmes, in the sector of Doiran and in the direction of Ljumnica.

Along the entire mountainous front to the west of the Moglenica, the Serbian troops are developing an offensive. On the extreme left they have occupied, as the result of a vigorous counter-attack, Hill 1506, three miles to the north-east of Ostrovo Lake, which position they lost Wednesday morning.

ANOTHER MILLION YEAR

TORONTO, Aug. 24—Canadian National Exhibition officials are begining to entertain thoughts of another million year, basing their rosy anticipation upon the record demand made by the railroads all over the continent for literature dealing with the fair. Travel from the United States gives every indication of being unprecendentedly large, one special excursion of 500 people having been booked from Pittsburg over one line, while the other connecting lines from that district say that they, too will bring large delegations. The Ontario visitors should be unusually numerous, the only drawback there being the scarcity of help on the farms, which may delay the harvest and threshing operations. The west is showing more than the usual interest.

Canada's Bond Collateral in British Loan

One Hundred Million Dollars of Issue to Imperial Treas ury to be Employed

OTTAWA, Aug. 24. Special—One hundred million dollars of the collateral by which is secured the British Goverment issue of $250,000,000 now being offered in New York will be in Canadian securities. The arrangement made by the Minister of finance for funding the Canadian war indebtedness to Great Britain by the issue of Canadian long term dollar bonds to the Imperial Treasury has made possible the British Government issue and, as stated, part of it will be in these securities. Canadian Government bonds are regarded as the highest class and most attractive collateral that could be used in connection with such issues in New York. Canadian Government bonds will not be sold, but used only as security by the Imperial Government.

Seven Perish In Bush Fire

About Twenty Settlers Were Burned Out in Fires in North Country

COBALT, Aug. 24.— Special— At least seven persons have perished in the flames which, revived by strong winds yesterday afternoon, swept over a large area of bush country along the T. and N. O. Railway. About twenty farmers have been burned out, and the reports are still very incomplete. The victims of the flames were Mrs Alex McKenzie and her six children, who lived near New Liskard. Other deaths are rumored, but no details have been received. Women and children from several towns in the path of the flames have been removed to safety.

Reports indicate fires at Diver, Kenney, Bushnell, Latchford and between Earlton Junction and New Liskeard. Thornloe and Earlton have asked for assistance.

The T. and N. O. agent at New Liskeard reports seven families burned out west of New Liskeard.

A special train from Elk Lake got through to Earlton Junction, bringing in a number of women and children. The conductor reports no fires on the right-of-way, but a number of fires could be observed in the distance.

Woman Miner Strikes it Rich

Mrs. Cleveland Will Clean-up a Round Million This Season

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 23—Mrs. Cleveland, the famous woman miner of Fairbanks, has "struck it rich" on Woodchopper Creek and will certainly clean up $1,000,000 or more this season. Mrs. Cleveland came to Alaska during the Klondike rush and started a supply store on Gold Run, where she became comparatively wealthy within a year or so. With this stake she began mining on Eureka Creek and went broke. Her credit enabled her to start another store in which she partly recovered her fortune. From that time to the present she has grubstaked more prospectors than any other two people in this territory combined. She has participated in scores of mining ventures, some of which brought her great fortunes and others crowded her to the verge of bankruptcy.

$1,300,000 EXPENDITURE BY PROVINCIAL HYDRO

Will Duplicate Transmission Line From Dundas to Toronto and Enlarge the Toronto, Dundas and Niagara Stations—Big Extensions Up North Also

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—Special— Sir Adam Beck announced last night that the Provincial Hydro Commission has decided to spend $1,300,000 at once in duplicating the transmission line, with an additional double circuit line from Dundas to Toronto. All plans and specifications have been completed and the work of acquiring right of way is being proceeded with. The Toronto station equipment will be doubled and the Dundas interswitching station will also be duplicated. The Niagara Falls station is to be increased to take care of the 50,000 horse-power now available, 25,000 horse-power of which is being supplied at the present time. It is inticipated that the maximum load for this year to meet the requirements of the Niagara district will be from 140,000 to 150,000 horse-power.

At first it was intended putting off these improvements until conditions were normal again, and the price of material and labor not so high, but with the increased demand for power and repairs necessary in view of mishaps—the damage to the Dundas interswitching station, for instance, by lightning—it was decided to go on immediately.

In the northern district — Owen Sound, Collingwood, Barrie and Beaverton locality — important work in connecting lines is also going on. This includes tieing up Eugenia Falls at Collingwood by building a transmission line thirty-five miles in length. This involves tapping the Eugenia-Owen Sound line to Collingwood. Another feature is the tieing up of the Wasdelle line at Orillia with the Big Chute line. There has been an increased demand in the district and the changes will meet a total supply of 15,000 horse-power, the ultimate development including Big Chute, Saugeen and Severn systems. When this supply is exhausted the Niagara system can be connected at Mount Forest by building a six-mile line.

ENEMY ATTACKS BEATEN BACK TRENCHES OCCUPIED BY ALLIES

Canadian Press Special.

After a short struggle the attack was repulsed everywhere with heavy loss to the enemy. After midnight the enemy delivered a further intense bombardment, but no other infantry assaults.

Near Hohenzollern redoubt the enemy shelled our lines heavily and attempted a raid, which failed completely. In no case did he reach our lines. North-west of La Bassee the raid by us was successful in entering the enemy trenches.

British Houses Adjourn to Oct.

Bill Adopted Extending Life of Parliament For Seven Months

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(Special.) — Both Houses of Parliament adjourned yesterday until October 10, after adopting a bill extending the life of the present Parliament another seven months.

Not since the outbreak of the war has Parliament adjourned upon a situation such as the present and which was described by David Lloyd George, Minister of War, and other Ministers, in debates during the last few days, as giving so little cause for anxiety or so hopeful an outlook for the future. The debates, which covered all aspects of the war, reflected a feeling of confidence, although expressing the realization that heavy tasks are still ahead and that there is no prospect for hostilities coming to a speedy end.

It is the general belief that before Parliament reassembles a further important stage of the Entente allied offensive will have been developed in the Near East which may have the weightiest influence on the whole field of operations.

CAPT. FRYATT.

(Chicago Tribune.)

The execution of Captain Fryatt, of the British steamship Brussels, by order of a German naval court was one of the blunders that is worse than a crime. It is hardly worth while to consider the allegations and arguments in the case. It will have such preposterous consequence that it is sickening to consider it.

Opinion had somewhat steadied down. We know that here in America there was less bitterness against one side or the other. Rationality was coming out of passion. Even in the nations at war there was less of seeing red. If there is hope for the re-establishment of reason it is not found in the jurisdiction of fury.

At the time when there was a chance to think that passion would subside and that the reason which must prevail when the readjustment comes was asserting itself, even if timidly, a German naval court blows expectations to pieces.

It is beyond comprehension that so little appreciation of the human emotions and the consequences of emotions could have prevailed in the German administration. The death of Fryatt in the manner in which he died and for the cause he was shot will be more important than the slaughter of 10,000 men.

It will have greater consequences to the world. It is in the power of an individual treated as Captain Fryatt to affect humanity more than thousands of men also dying could affect it.

The stupidity of not perceiving this and of not perceiving that the decision of the naval court threw the whole German submarine issue out of court and out of the consideration of neutral opinion was colossal, destructive and incomprehensible.

THE VEGETABLE INDUSTRY.

Nation's Production in This Field is Away Ahead of That in Fruits.

Few persons have any conception of the amount of actual value of the vegetable-growing industry to Canada, says F. B. Housser in an article in The Toronto Globe. The following figures, taken from the Dominion Government Agricultural Census Report of 1911, though not up to date, the latest report I have been able to obtain shows some interesting facts.

In the year 1910 the vegetable-growing industry saved Canada $18,806,544. In 1910 the Province of Ontario alone profited by this branch of agriculture to the extent of $6,043,617.

This is to say that the Canadian public would have sent over to the United States, or some other foreign country, over eighteen and a half millions of dollars in order that they might have ordinary, everyday vegetables on their dining-room tables had it not been for the fact that our own growers supplied our needs. Of this amount Ontario contributed almost one-third.

The vast majority of people, city and country, are under the impression that fruit-growing forms a greater part of the nation's trade than the vegetable industry, yet from the same report we may observe that, in the same year, the actual cash value produced in vegetables in Canada was $6,025,419 more than of orchards and small fruits combined. When we recall that it required less than half as much land for the vegetable-growers to produce this enormous difference (206,011 acres) as was necessary for the fruit men we may form some conception of the tremendous possibilities this almost unrecognized field of agriculture has pent up within it.

Strange as it may seem, although vegetable-growing is the most scientific branch of agriculture; although five years ago it had outstripped the fruit industry by more than six million dollars as a business proposition to the country, it still holds only a secondary place in the experiments and scientific investigations of our agricultural colleges and experimental stations

Under the general head of "Horticulture" vegetable growing is carried on as the most unimportant branch. On the horticultural files you will find forty bulletins issued by our Agricultural Department on apples, pears, peaches, grapes, plums, cherries, raspberries, currants, and almost every Canadian-grown fruit. You will find not more than half a dozen on vegetables.

In stating these facts I do not for a moment wish to throw any reflection on the work and methods of any of our agricultural colleges or experimental farms. A more able set of men could not anywhere be found to carry on this work. I merely wish to point out that a new industry has grown up in this country which calls for a new field of scientific investigation and experimental work, and I am convinced that the Governments not only of the Dominion, but of all the Provinces, are beginning to recognize this fact.

Work Goes East.

"Our St. Catharines plant is not doing the work it ought to do, because we cannot get men. For that reason we are sending all the work we can to Sherbrooke, where there is no trouble getting what labor we want, and; moreover, we can get it at less cost."

The foregoing is one Ontario manufacturer's position in the present labor situation. Here is what another says:

"We took our first order for shells at $4, which was completed to the satisfaction of the board. The next order came along and the price was $3. Our plant, of course, is not a large one, and we could not turn out the quantities that some of the larger plants are doing, nor at as low a figure, but what we did was done right, and if the need of shells was very urgent the price should not stand in the way. But, as we could not do the work at the price paid to the Quebec manufacturers, because of the lower-priced labor and the abundance of it, we had to decline the order at the lower prices. Our men to a very large extent enlisted. That's why I sold what machinery I had and dropped out of the business, and it is likely that the machinery I used for shell-making has gone to Quebec."

Apple Crop Poor.

With the apple crop of Ontario approaching maturity it is possible to make a reasonably accurate forecast of production in this line. That production in eastern Canada will be small admits of no doubt, according to the August report of the Dominion Fruit Commissioner. It is equally well assured, according to the same authority, that in Ontario and Quebec at least the quality will be very poor.

In the Lake Erie district it is only well cared for orchards that show a good crop, and the general yield is not placed over forty per cent. normal, with ten per cent. No. 1. About Cobourg, in the centre of the Lake Ontario district, only a fifty per cent. crop is looked for, and that badly damaged by scab and hail.

The report of the Fruit Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture is in entire agreement with that of the Dominion Fruit Commissioner. Going more into detail the Ontario report says that in the Goderich district apples are almost an entire failure. In Lambton Baldwins alone promise a full crop, other leading varieties being light to medium; in Kent and Norfolk crops are only mediums in quantity, and scab has greatly reduced quality.

A Certainty.

"What would you do if you had a million pounds?"

"Oh, I don't know! Just sit down and watch my wife spend it, I suppose."

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McCill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

LOW FARE TO PORT ARTHUR

In conformance with its ever Progressive Policy, The Canadian Northern Railway has inaugurated a low fare from all points east of Sudbury to Port Arthur, Ont., which makes the trip practically as inexpensive as the Boat Service on the Great Lakes, and being quicker, is bound to meet with considerable favor among busy men.

Those who have already made the trip by water will find a pleasant change, as this route is one of exceptional scenic charm, passing many beautiful Lakes and Streams, among the most notable being the Nipigon, famous to the world over for the wonderful trout fishing to be had in its waters.

Trains leave Belleville, Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE
BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

"Sure," said Patsy. "That's plain enough."

"I held up the lawyer and nailed the papers all right, while McNulty and Coyle picked up the body and got away with it in a hack belonging to Todd, with Mauley driving it. They scattered drops of blood along the centre of the street, when driving away, so as to make it appear that Allen—that's the lawyers's name—had vamosed right after the scrap with me. We had another reason for wanting to get him out of the way: We tried to fix a covey named Fenno and make it look as, if he had bribed Allen to bolt with the papers."

"They got away with him, eh?" quired Patsy.

"Yes, dead easy," answered Cullen. "Coyle plugged a couple of bullets at Nick Carter, too, who happened to see me do the job. He nearly got me for all that, but I took a long chance and jumped into the tunnel with him after me. We got it out down there, for fair, but I soaked him at last and got away. That was when I lost the heel off my boot."

"'Twas dead lucky I got wise in the cobbler's shop, pal, and gave you a tip."

"Well, you bet!" Cullen declared, with grim warmth. "I'll not forget that, Hogan."

"Where's the lawyer now?" asked Patsy carelessly. "He's where we're going. You'll see him maybe." "Why don't you put out his light?" That would be safest."

"We'll do that later, if things go as we've planned. They're in kind of a bad mess just now but Todd will fix them all right, and then—Hold up a bit," Cullen broke off. "Let's stop here for a drink."

Patsy followed him in to the saloon, too well pleased with the progress he was making to cross him in any way, yet to shrewd to question him with a persistency that might cause distrust. Cullen did not seem inclined to continue his disclosures at this time, and said but very little more till after they had arrived at their destination.

Instead of going directly to it, howevr Cullen entered the stable yard of a brick brewery nearly down at the water front. The place appeared to be deserted, the stables closed, and business in the brewery suspended. Cullen led way around stable and back of the brick building, then passed through a gate in a board fence and entered the adjoining yard.

There several beer wagons were backed against the fence, evidently out of use, also the covered wagon used by the rascals the previous night Near by was a square frame building of quite large size, and beyond it a faded old house, fronting on a narrow street below that on which the brewery was located, and divided from the street by a high picket fence.

Furtively noting these surroundings Patsy asked with affected indifference.

"Is this the crib."

"Yes," Cullen nodded. "Mauley and Greer are alone here. 'Tain't safe to trust women, you know, so their housekeeper was bounced when this job was planned."

"Was it planned out here?"

"Yes, last week. Todd framed it all up, and the rest of us followed his directions. He's got a long head for crooked work, this same Todd. He may be out tonight, along with McNulty and the others, in case things look bad and there is still more work to be done."

"What's that wooden building."

"That's where Selkirk stores hops when the brewery's running. It's empty now."

"That's where the lawyer is?"

"He is in the cellar," Cullen nodded as they approached the house. "He's been there since we nailed him. Here is Mauley now, on the lookout."

The face of the latter had appeared at one of the windows. Though divested of the disguise worn the previous night. Patsy readily recognized him, and he responded to a nod from the fellow and followed Cullen into the house.

It was after nine o'clock, about the time Nick and Chick were getting in their work in town. Aside from sizing up the interior of the house, however, and engaging in conversation with the three crooks, Patsy was unable to accomplish anything more during the morning. Neither of them appeared inclined to discuss their knavish business, -- Patsy continued his discreet course, content to bide his time. One or more of them were constantly with him, moreover, which prevented any secret move on his part.

About seven o'clock Cullen went over to the brewery to wait a telephone call from Coyle, as promised the night before, and he returned half an hour later and reported, with grim satisfaction, that Todd had been informed of Nick's death and was boosting United Transit for all that he was worth.

Patsy joined in the elation manifested by the others over this promising news, but he consoled himself with the thought that Nick, if alive and at work, would have made sure that none of the rascals discovered it.

Early in the afternoon Mauley provvided an apology for a dinner, and announced that he would take out a pan of grub to their prisoner.

"If you like, Hogan, you can come with me and have a look at him. Mebbe you know, you'll be called upon to turn him down," he added with a grim wink at his confederates.

Nevertheless, Patsy accepted the invitation little dreaming there would be a serious change in the situation before he returned. He followed Cullen out to the hop house, the key of which the ruffian had obtained from Mauley. The building was nearly empty and Cullen, after lighting a lantern opened a trap door leading into a dry, dark cellar.

Patsy followed him down the wooden steps, a groan falling upon his ears as he descended. Looking in the direction of the sound, he beheld a sallow, dark-eyed man seated on a quantity of burlap on the floor, whose haggard face evinced his mental if not actual physical suffering. He was handcuffed, and secured with a chain and padlock to a ringbolt in one end of the wall.

Patsy would never have known him at once from the description given him—Henry Allen, the missing assistant from the district attorney's office. He did not dare give him any encouraging word or sign, however lest his own exposure might follow.

Hardly a word was spoken, in fact, for Allen had learned that appeals were useless and he appeared to be in a state of abject despondency. Cullen set down the pan of food and a jug of water within reach of the man vented a growl at him for the trouble he was causing and then signed for Patsy to lead the way up the steps.

"What d'ye you think of him?" Cullen asked after closing the trap in the floor.

"Think of him, is it?" said Patsy. "Faith, I think his light'll go out all right, if he's kept down there. There will be no need of me or anybody else to put it out."

"The sooner he croaks the better," Cullen growled, while he extinguished the lantern. "Come on. We'll go back to the house and send Greer out after a tub of suds. I'm as dry as smoked fish."

Patsy's eyes lighted, as the ruffian turned toward the door while speaking.

"By Jove, here's my chance!" thought Patsy. I'll offer to rush the growler myself, instead of having Greer go out. That will give me a chance to telephone to Nick or Chick. Gee! I'd like to have a word with one of them."

He was following toward the rear door of the house while these thoughts passed through his mind.

Apparently nothing had occured since their departure from it ten minutes before. Cullen led the way to the back entrance and into a cheaply furnished dining room.

Mauley and Greer were engaged in clearing off the table — or appeared to be.

Patsy had hardly entered the room, however, before both of them sprang upon him, Greer grasping him from behind, confining his arms, while Mauley grasped him by the throat thrust a revolver under his very nose.

"Not a move!" the latter fiercely snarled. "If you wink blat you I'll blow your head off."

THE SHOES I CAN'T WEAR
All Because of a "Touchy" CORN

But you can wear them, Madam—and now. Simply place on that corn a little Blue-jay plaster, and never again will you feel it. In two days there will be no corn. It will disappear for good. Millions of women know that. They don't pare corns. They don't use old-time methods. And they don't suffer. When a corn appears they end it. We are urging you to join them. Corns are needless since Blue-jay was invented. So they are absurd. You can prove in one minute that Blue-jay stops corn aches. You can prove in two days that it ends them forever.

MOORE BARRACKS HOSPITAL A DOMINION PRODUCT.

In Many Ways It Is the Most Important Hospital in England for Canadians Because the Entire Staff and All the Patients Are From This Country—Dr. Wallace Scott is in Charge.

MOORE BARRACKS HOSPITAL does not occupy a large enough place in the minds of the people "back home," says Florinda writing from England to The Toronto Star Weekly. It is, so far as Canadians are concerned, the most important hospital in England, because it is so essentially Canadian. In that the O. C., his medical, surgical, and nursing staff and patients are all Canadians.

The officer commanding, Colonel Walker Scott, is one of the well-known Toronto surgeons, who has for so many years been a member of the university as well as the St. Michael's Hospital surgical staff.

Moore Barracks ought to hold first place in the hearts of all Canadians because, as I have before intimated, it is so essentially a Canadian military hospital, which Cliveden and Beachborough, although receiving such generous—and perhaps more than their just share of—attention, are not. It (Moore Barracks) is the hospital which looks after the camp sick, and when one stops to consider that there have hitherto been from 25,000 to 40,000 Canadians in camp in and around Shorncliffe, one must realize the importance of such a hospital.

Moore Barracks is peculiarly fortunate in having as its O. C. Colonel Scott. The discipline of this hospital is most exemplary, maintained, perhaps a little at the expense of his popularity by that element of his staff—and there are always a few—who are afraid of work. An untiring and indefatigable worker himself, he is a strict martinet in demanding that his staff live up to his standard, but by those who do live up to his standard—and they are the large majority—he is most genuinely liked and respected, and by many loved. Many are his acts of kindness, not only to his staff, but his patients, and certain stories have come to my ears of his sympathy for and goodness to the stricken relatives and friends who come—perhaps too late—to see husbands, sons, and brothers who have been so tenderly ministered to and cared for at Moore Barracks Hospital.

Moore Barracks is also singularly fortunate in having Miss Russell as matron. Miss Russell comes from Hamilton, and her war experiences have been many and varied. This is her third war—she having seen service in both the Spanish-American and South African campaigns.

When it comes to speaking of Colonel Scott and Miss Russell, I hesitate to become too eulogistic—remembering the innate modesty of both—but as an ex-patient of Moore Barracks Hospital, where I received such excellent care and individual attention, I cannot speak too highly of the O. C., the matron, and the nursing staff, as judged from first-hand experience. Miss Russell's vivacity, sound judgment, and individual and indiscriminate interest in her nurses, combined with a zeal for work that makes of her so unselfish and tireless a matron, has made of Moore Barracks for the nurses one of the most popular of all Canadian hospitals in England or France. The nurses are reluctant to leave and glad to return.

The hospital is equipped for 1,000 patients, and has of late been taxed to its utmost capacity. Colonel Scott has many times had to reluctantly discharge patients who he realized were not yet fit to be discharged, and they were sent to convalescent homes every bit as well intentioned, but unfortunately not as well equipped as Moore Barracks. If the Canadians at home could realize as I realized through seeing it at first hand the self sacrifice of the O.C. and his surgical, medical, and nursing staff, who, owing to the exigencies in France, were left at about one-third their strength, to struggle with one of the biggest emergencies of the hospital when measles and pneumonia were rampant. If I repeat—you could have witnessed their devotion to duty when—as the matron herself told me—her nurses came to her imploring her to allow them to remain overtime on duty, which she was many times reluctantly compelled to allow them to do, and how unselfishly they gave themselves up to the meeting of the emergency—going oftentimes without sufficient sleep and without hours off, there, would you realize something of what it means to be an army nurse, and realize, too, that such devotion to duty meant the bringing safely through the crisis many young lives that would otherwise have been prematurely snuffed out instead of being restored to health, and eventually to the fighting line in Flanders.

The situation of Moore Barracks as a hospital, is ideal, topping as it does the crest of the beautifully wooded hill that lies to the east of Folkstone—the same hill that was used for hospital purposes during the Crimean War—with a magnificent and commanding view of the English Channel from which blow those health-restoring breezes which make of it such an admirable location for a hospital. It is on what military authorities would doubtless call a salient.

A POLITICAL MIX-UP.

The Toronto News in its comments upon the result of this contest says:

The Daily News cannot express any surprise over the result in South-West Toronto. It knew that the constituency was opposed to prohibition and that no other question would be considered. The opponents of prohibitory legislation voted for Mr Dewart or would not go to the polls. Thousands of Conservatives disfranchised themselves who ordinarily would have been glad to support Mr Norris. They would not endorse prohibition, nor would they support a Liberal candidate. On the other hand, the bulk of Liberal prohibitionists voted for Mr Dewart, although he was the candidate of the organized opponents of prohibition. When the first Patron candidate was elected to the Legislature to represent North Bruce he was described as "the rebuke to Mowat," Mr Dewart is "the rebuke to Hearst." Unquestionably the object of Conservative opponents of prohibition was to punish Mr Hearst rather than to defeat Mr Norris.

The election of Mr Dewart places Mr Rowell in a curious position. Mr Rowell is the official mouthpiece of the Ontario Temperance Alliance and has the confidence of the Committee of One Hundred. Mr Dewart, selected and elected by opponents of prohibition, cannot have the confidence of either organization. Next to Mr Rowell, however, Mr Dewart will be the most conspicuous Liberal member in the Legislature and will express convictions and principles to which Mr Rowell has been resolutely opposed, Is it the deliberate intention of the party managers to establish Mr Dewart in the Liberal leadership for Ontario? Is it settled that Mr Rowell will go to Ottawa as successor to Sir Wilfrid Laurier? Or are there to be Rowell and Dewart factions in the party in Ontario? It is certain that Mr Rowell's intimate bodyguard did not want Mr Dewart in the Legislature. Are the opponents of prohibition organizing against both Mr Rowell and Mr Hearst? The Government has lost a constituency, the Opposition has acquired a dual leadership.

There is nothing in North Perth or South-West Toronto to suggest that Ontario is ready for a general measure of prohibition. As the emotion over the war subsides the feeling for prohibition will be still less active. As we have said again and again, the opponents of prohibition will unite against any Government which enacts prohibitory legislation. If prohibitionists do not also unite in some reasonable degree neither the Government nor the legislation can survive. Prohibitionists divide and lose; the opponents of prohibition unite and prevail. We were making substantial headway against the abuses of excessive drinking by local option. Was it wise to abandon that method? There are cities and communities in Ontario in which prohibition cannot be carried. If the law is forced upon these communities, and freely disregarded, prohibition will be more or less discredited over the whole Province. Nothing is more definitely established than that prohibition cannot be effectively enforced unless there is a strong body of public opinion behind the legislation. We admit all the abuses of the open bar and would be glad to have that prolific source of evil abolished forever But in sumptuary legislation no Government can go far in advance of public opinion, and unquestionably North Perth and South-West Toronto have thrown prohibition back into party politics.

A NEW LEADER?

The Toronto Globe has much to say this morning of a conjectural conspiracy within the Ontario Ministry to get rid of Mr Hearst as Premier. It would be more to the purpose if the Globe would tell what it knows on a subject on which, in the nature of the case, it ought to be better informed: the very real conspiracy among Ontario Liberals to get rid of Mr Rowell as their leader.—Hamilton Spectator.

Since the days of the Ross referendum, which brought about an indignant response from the non-drinking people of this Province with a view to putting down Liberal chicanery, and recognizing Conservative fairness, the Grits of Ontario have been looking for a leader of the mosaic type. The Spectator continues:

"Mr Mackay suited the drinking element of that party well enough, but he did not suit the temperance element. Conventions were held, and attempts made to convince the party as a whole that its simple duty was to implement the promise of Sir Oliver Mowat to introduce prohibition—on the strength of a preceding plebiscite—to the fullest extent of the power of the Province, whenever that power should be definitely ascertained, as it was by the decision of the Imperial Privy Council on the Macdonald Act in 1902. But the party had been so long hand-in-glove with the liquor interest—giving licenses and winking at infractions of the law in exchange for political support—that the only result of these efforts was a more distinct marking of the line of cleavage between the anti-prohibitionist and the prohibitionist element of the party. Finally, Mr Rowell became leader and took the plunge. But he took it in the wrong way. He tried to win Conservative temperance votes on the cry against the three-fifths requirement in local option contests, and on his proposal to introduce prohibition, whenever he had the power, as a Government measure. But he did not get the Conservative temperance votes. The temperance element of the Conservative party was very well satisfied with the Whitney policy of constantly improving existing laws, fearlessly and impartially enforcing those laws, giving the people every chance for immediate results through local option, and keeping pace with public opinion regarding the more distant goal of Provincial prohibition. In the general election of 1914, Mr Rowell's attempt to corral the whole temperance vote of the Province proved a dismal failure.

"And so, in Liberal circles, Mr Dewart is more and more talked about as the man of the hour. To the extent to which he resembles Mackay and differs from Rowell, he seems to be available as a party leader. What the drinking Liberals want is to restore the old alliance between the Liberal party and the liquor power. Mr Dewart is doing it."

President Wilson has intervened with the hope of bringing about a settlement in the United States railroad strike. He proposes to the railway companies that they grant the eight-hour day. In doing so he made a statement which seems remarkably injudicious coming from so careful a statesman. "If it should prove through experience," he said, "that the eight-hour day imposed a new and heavy added burden to the cost of operation, I will lend by influence, personally and officially, to influence the rate-making body of the government to grant an increase in freight rates if the findings of the federal commission show that such a course would be just."

The Toronto Star insinuates that "J. Wesley Allison loses his title of hon. colonel, but keeps the dividens." To which the Hamilton Herald adds: "The inference being that Allison was deprived of his title because he took dividends—that is, commissions—on war contracts. But doesn't it strike the Star that if Allison did wrong in accepting commissions on war contracts every manufacturer of munitions who made profits out of munition contracts must have done wrong also? Allison was condemned, not because he accepted commissions, but because he pretended that he didn't."

Current Comment

The Supreme Court Act prevents Justice Duff from accepting any remuneration for his public service as commissioner in the investigation of the Kyte charges It might be well in future to select all royal commissioners from the Supreme Court Bench.

"There be brave men everywhere," said the old guide, when asked who were the bravest troops at Waterloo. And this is one of the things that this war has amply shown. Teuton or Briton, Frenchman or Turk, all have shown a contempt for death that challenges the admiration even of foes.—Ottawa Journal.

Hartley Dewart may not be a Liberal, but he isn't a Conservative, and there will be doings in the Legislature when he gets busy. If he is still a Liberal, then probably there will also be doings in the Liberal caucus. Whatever he is not, he is a live wire, and has a likeable personality.

Brantford has followed the example of Hamilton and has gone back to the regular schedule after a trial of "daylight saving." Daylight saving is all right in theory and might be all right in practice when applied over a sufficiently large area. It does not seem to be a success in merely individual cases. —Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Mr Conner, the prohibitionist candidate in South-West Toronto, polled 445 votes. The anti-prohibitionist and the two candidates who wobbled on the question polled about 5,000 votes. There must be thousands of prohibitionists in the constituency. Their desertion of their candidate throws doubt upon their sincerity.—Hamilton Herald.

Speaking of recruiting at once suggests the remarkable conduct of the council of St. Boniface. A French-Canadian officer recruiting in behalf of a French-Canadian battalion asked the St. Boniface city council to contribute $100 towards covering recruiting expenses. The council replied by denying the request. It made as its excuse for refusing to comply, the statement that the city's financial condition made such a contribution impossible. A few days later the same council voted $150 to a baseball team!—Winnipeg Post.

The Poets' Corner

THE LARK AND THE BATTLE.

Came a lull in the din of battle;
The cannon had ceased to roar;
When up from the field of carnage
We saw a skylark soar.

And, as though from a peaceful meadow,
Flower-starred and unstained with blood,
He poured forth his rapturous music
In a sweet, unbroken flood.

As higher he mounted, and higher,
Into the limitless blue,
We found ourselves eagerly watching
The tiny bird as he flew.

For the wondrous notes he was singing,
Each clear and sweet as a bell,
Touched hearts that were blunted with fighting
And turning earth into Hell.

Forgotten our lust for the killing,
Forgotten our hate of men,
As the happy song was repeated,
Over and over again.

But soon from our foe came more shrapnel,
And men all around us fell;
No more could we hear our lark singing—
Alas, we again were in Hell.

The Alberta Scandals

The Commission, appointed to inquire into the charges made by J. E. Bradshaw, Conservative member for Prince Albert in the Saskatchewan Legislature, against the Scott Government and a number of Liberal members, has presented its report, and the result is an exoneration of the Government, as a Government, of any member of the Government, of the Board of License Commissioners, of the Liquor License administration by the Attorney-General's Department of the Liquor License Inspectors, and of the Provincial Police of wrongdoing by the Government or any of the departments of the Government in their relations with the liquor interests. Private members of the House are, however, found guilty of the charges laid against them.

The Commissioner's report find that large sums were withdrawn from the bank account of the Licensed Victuallers' Association to influence members of the Legislature, but state that there is absolutely no evidence to implicate Nolin, Totzke, Loughead and Sheppard. They decline, on the unsupported evidence of the main witness, Frank Brunner, oneo f the most active agents in the distribution of the funds, to make a finding against Simpson. They find that Cawthorpe received a large sum as a bribe in connection with the liquor legislation, and that Pierce also received a large sum and acted as an instrument to defeat the legislation. In the case of Ens, the Commissioners differ, Commissioner J. T. Brown holding that there is not evidence enough to convict him of receiving $500 from Brunner, and Commissioner Elwood holding that he did receive such sum.

On the charge that J. A. Sheppard received $700 on behalf of an applicant for a license at Limerick, the Commissioners are unanimous in finding that Sheppard handed $200 of this amount to the Secretary of the local Liberal Association, and deposited 1500 in his own name.

In regard to the charge that Sheppard received money at Moose Jaw from applicants for a liquor license, the Commission finds that Sheppard did not receive any of the $1,000 paid, but that it all went to the Liberal campaign fund. No effort, however, was made to influence the License Commissioners.

The Commissioners absolve Loughead and Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon of wrong-doing in securing the withdrawal of a charge against a Gull Lake license holder, and the former of stifling a complaint against another Gull Lake hotelman.

Cawthorpe is found guilty of receiving $100 from a Biggar hotelman to stifle prosecution.

On a charge against Hon. A. P. McNab that he was a party to having charges against William Robertson, an Alsask hotelkeeper, dropped in consideration of political support, the Commissioners differ, Commissioner Brown finding the charge not proved, owing to the unreliability of the witnesses, and Commissioner Elwood holding that the charges against Robertson were withdrawn as a result of a conversation between McNab and Robertson, in which the latter promised to support the Government if he retained the license.

S. R. Moore, M.P.P. for Minto Creek, is held culpable as being involved in two hotel deals, in which he received a share of money which changed hands.

The Commissioners differ in the charge against J. F. Bole, a member of the Legislature in 1913, that he received money from the George Velle Co. to procure a license, Commissioner Brown, holding the charge not proven, and Commissioner Elwood holding that the evidence, though unsatisfactory, indicated that Bole was a party to the obaining of the money.

Regarding the chtarges that a conspiracy was entered into by liquor associations and agents to bribe members of the Legislature in connection with the liquor policy, the Commission holds that while the evidence offered indications that suggestions were made along this line, they fall short of proving any conspiracy.

AWNING STRIPES.

What a Woman May Do With This Interesting Summer Fabric.

Awning stripes are one of the vogues of the season. They are used not only in clothes, but for household furnishings as well. They are striking, and with anything striking there is danger that the vogue will not last. But they are worth immediate consideration nevertheless.

Awning striped skirts were worn with much effectiveness last summer. They are worn, naturally, for sport skirts and are really better when worn with a blouse, jacket or sweater of plain color, the color of one of the stripes. Sometimes the jacket is made of stripes and the skirt is of plain material, and this arrangement is equally effective.

There are hats covered with linen or silk in wide stripes that are decidedly striking worn with light frocks. The stripes are sometimes arranged by means of plaits to radiate from the crown; sometimes they run straight across crown and brim.

Then there are lawn parasols and tents, too, in the same gay stripes, and these give a most festive and holiday air to the surroundings of the house decked forth in awnings. Needless to say, all stripes about a house should be of the same color to give the best effect.

Awnings themselves are made for the summer cottage or house in the widest stripes imaginable. They are usually in bright shades, too, of green, red or brown.

Cushions for the porch and lawn are covered with awning stripes. There are some interesting new square cushions—cubical, about eighteen inches high. These are quite hard and firm and are good to sit upon on lawn or porch.

For the girl who wears a skirt or jacket of awning stripes for tennis there are racket holders of the same material that make the sport suit more effective.

Parasols, too, for beach use and country use generally are made of awning stripes, which come in silk as well as in linen. They are especially pretty in the new shades in pongee, used in combination with the plain silk.

The stripes, too, come in some of the fabrics for summer window curtains and are quite as good as awning stripes in other fabrics for other uses.

PEANUT STRAW.

Here's a Sport Hat Built to Keep Off the Sun.

Outing hats are taking on huge circumferences. This knockabout straw is trimmed with a wreath of padded fruit and velvet foliage tinted in natural colors. This is the kind of hat we may expect to see on young ladies all this summer.

LUSCIOUS FRUIT.

THE RAGE FOR STENCIL.

Hats, Shoes and Frocks Are Now Treated With Designs in Paint.

Hats, shoes, frocks and all the dainty accessories of milady up to the minute are stenciled or painted. Many a frock that otherwise would be uninteresting is made to become a gown of individuality. Materials that otherwise would be impossible are made most effective when treated to a design in color that draws attention to the design rather than the material. Hats are accompanied with bags of straw and both decorated with a painting or stenciled in contrasting colors.

Now comes the panama hat hand painted with a Japanese design. This hat is faced with velvet. Carried with it is a parasol of linen in the same design. There seems to be no end to the combinations of articles treated with this artistic decoration. A caution should be sounded though, for there are many atrocities on the market, and one is wise in sticking to the same design or allowing an artist of reputation to select a design that would be suitable to material or the fair wearer's own color scheme. One thing greatly

A NEW "REJECTED" BUTTON

Standard For Military District No. 3 To Be Issued.

In the immediate future residents of this military district are to see a standard button being worn. It has been decided that there are too many munition buttons and exemption buttons and that the honor of wearing one of these should only be granted on military recommendations so that they would not be scattered around promiscuously.

At the present time almost any person can obtain a medically unfit or honorably exempted button which indicates that the wearer has done his part by volunteering to enlist. Some are worn that absolutely belie the idea behind them.

To eliminate all this, a standard button, issued by officers of the Army Medical Corps acting with the recruiting officers, is to be used. Every button is to be numbered, and the name of the person who is entitled to wear such a button will be kept on file at headquarters. The whole scheme is but part of the national registration soon to come into force.

A FINE CONCERT.

Tuesday night another of the fine concert programs which have been arranged by The Standard ror the benefit of the soldiers in camp, was given in the big tent of the 155th Battalion, with Capt. Dodds in the chair. The following took part in the program:—Miss Phyllis Devlin; recitation, Mrs. Telgmann; solo, Mrs. Dodds; violin selection, Miss Norma Telgmann; duett, Mrs. Dodds and Miss Phyllis Devlin; song, Miss Dell Craig; violin secletion, Miss Norman Telgmann; song, Miss Kuhn; Highland fling, Miss Marie Beynon, Toronto. Every number on the program was enthusiastically applauded and encored, and the boys asked the participants to "come again." For the Highland fling of Miss Beynon, one of the pipers of the 154th Battalion furnished the music, and the little dancer gave a most delightful exhibition of Highland dancing.

HAZEL DAWN DRAWS BIG CROWD AT GRIFFIN'S

Famous Film Star Captivated a Capacity House Last Night in "The Saleslady."

Advance articles announcing the coming to Griffin's of this dainty screen favorite read very enticing, but no pen-sketch could compare to the picturized experiences in a great city, where Helen Shirly, an innocent County lass found herself in search of work, following the loss of parents, home and money. Caught in a trap upon her arrival at Central Station, New York, and rushed to a doubtful rooming house by a woman professedly of religious proclivities, she is on the brink of being turned into the street in her night apparel, but saved by the timely appearance of Bruce Kerwin, so splendidly characterized by Irving Cummings, one of the leading film stars. Temporarily assisted through a young lady in his company, Miss Shirley is reinstated into the good graces of the grasping landlady, only to be later in want, but assisted by the whole-souled Lizzie McCarthy, a shop-girl, who secures the stranger a position with herself in a big department store, taking the inexperienced girl under her own strong protection. Friendship springs up between Bruce and Helen, and when driven out by his own father, a wealthy banker, who is none too careful of his morals, the young people marry, and all goes well until Bruce is injured at his work, when Lizzie, who has changed her occupation to that of a stage character, secures work for the young bride on the stage, where her prepossessing appearance attracts the eye of an aged gentleman, who proves to be her father-in-law, when there begins a series of artful manipulations that only a bright mind could conceive, culminating in the bringing together of father and son, to the happiness of all concerned. The friendship of Lizzie was good to behold, signifying the worth of a friend in need, and the reliability of a strong, honorable character. The settings of the play are elaborate throughout; the large department store in which Helen and Lizzie were at first employed showing to advantage, and other luxurious surroundings including rich stage attire making up an elaborate production. Miss Dawn's beauty and conscientious work brought the entire audience to her feet.

Be ides this, two shorter but attractive films were well received. The programme will be repeated this evening.

"It is with great pleasure that I write to tell you of the wonderful benefits I have received from taking "Fruit-a-tives". For years, I was a dreadful sufferer from Constipation and Headaches, and I was miserable in every way. Nothing in the way of medicines seemed to help me. Then I finally tried "Fruit-a-tives" and the effect was splendid. After taking one box, I feel like a new person, to have relief from those sickening Headaches".

THE SONG OF THE WAGE SLAVE AT GRIFFIN'S TO-MORROW

The Song of the Wage Slave, will be the next Popular Play and Players photoplay to be exhibited at Griffin's Opera House, to-morrow night and Saturday (matinee and night). Edmund Breese, the distinguished dramatic actor, appears in the stellar role of this five part photodrama, a part that fits him better than any he has assumed since his remarkable success as "John Burkett Ryder" in "The Lion and the Mouse." The drama is based on the poem of the same name, by the brilliant Canadian poet, Robt. W. Service, who is now "doing his bit" in France, and who is the author of "The Spell of the Yukon," and other verses. The story is a distinct innovation in treatment and theme. The story deals with the almost superhuman love of a strong man for the woman of his choice, and the supreme sacrifice which this love ultimately entails. The character of Ned Lane is a part peculiarly suited to the distinctive dramatic gifts of Mr Breese, who is supported by a sterling cast. Besides the above special offering, the Pathe Gazette, offering a review of all the important and European events, will be exhibited along with a highly amusing Lonesome Luke comedy.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A SLAM FROM LITTLE NAPOLEON

Belleville, Aug. 23, 1916.

Dear Sir,—I was somewhat amused, as no doubt many of your readers would be, with the Intelligencer's brief account of Toronto's bye-election, as given on the editorial page of yesterday's paper. This article consisted almost entirely of a slam at the Grits, and also your old friend the Toronto Globe; but you do suggest that "the Conservatives of Toronto and elsewhere have received a lesson. Let them profit by it, if they desire to continue in power, a progressive and honest Government."

Then from the returns you give we are told that Dewart, Liberal, received 2,680 votes, while Norris, Conservative, received 2,070, a majority for Dewart of 608.

You also tell your readers that the total vote cast for the four candidates was only 5306 votes, as compared with 9,000 votes at the general election of 1914, at which election the late Hon. Mr Foy was elected by a majority of 3,763.

Now, it is reasonable to assume that all the bad Grits voted on Monday last at South-West Toronto's bye-election, but the question arises, why was it that nearly 4,000 good Conservatives positively refused to vote for the Conservative candidate, Mr Norris, who was so "ably" assisted by three members of the Provincial Cabinet.

Was it that Conservatives to the number of nearly 4,000 were disgusted and so resented the utterance of the said Cabinet Ministers? If so, then I say, congratulations to the noble 4,000. Or was it that they did not approve of "the progressive and honest Government" as now constituted in this Province?

I am sure your readers would be pleased to have the secret of the lost 4,000 explained to them by so eminent authority as the Editor of the Intelligencer. Respectfully yours,

D. V. SINCLAIR.

Editor's Note.—We give the above place in our columns for the reason that it will please our good natured friend, who, as a jolly Hibernian would say, is a "dacent man, but as full, as an egg-shell is of mate, of political egotism," but lamentably deficient in judgment upon political matters. As the publication of his effusions, written while under the exhilaration of a political victory, will amuse our readers, and please him, we give it space in our columns, but don't repeat them too often.

A QUESTION OF DECENCY

Dear Sir:—Is it not about time some notice was taken of those thistles and rank weeds that stand in all their defiance at the back end of the St. Michael's Academy grounds, facing on Hillcrest avenue? Those thistles are in full bloom—even over ripe—and blowing all over the neighborhood, to the detriment of everything they touch. If there is a law calling for the care of such places why do not the city officials enforce it? In the name of decency let some one in authority get busy.

THE CANADIANS AND THE YPRES SALIENT

Coming to Canada for the first time since the early days of the war, it is quite a surprise to find the impression current that Canadian troops have been given an undue share of the strenuous work on the British front. This is perhaps due to the fact that people are prone to remember various active operations in which our men have been engaged, and to forget the long periods of comparative inactivity that have come between them. They also are apt to forget that all the principle offensives, Neuve Chapelle, Loos, and so far, the Somme, have been conducted without the assistance of Canadian troops.

Another factor in creating wrong impressions is the imaginative letters that occasionally come from unreliable men at the front describing actions that never occurred, and which are sometimes taken seriously here. A classic example is the hoax perpetrated on a certain M.P.P. last spring.

I point this out with no wish to disparage the work done by our men on various parts of the line. I know them and it, too well for that. But the work should be viewed in some sort of perspective and not allowed to hide from our view the equally good and much less trumpeted work done by the Imperial forces.

That Canadians have had the honor of holding parts of the Ypres salient at times is a matter for pride, a pride that the casualty lists should not dim for us. But we must not, in fairness to our own men attempt to exaggerate that honor. The Canadian force in Flanders is one corps in a very large army, and the people and press of Canada can do them no greater disservice than to make them ridiculous in the eyes of their fellows by foolish and exaggerated ideas and assertions as to their doings. Then men in the trenches who read your papers (including the advertisements) with considerable thoroughness, will laugh heartily, though perhaps somewhat sarcastically at your statement.

Perhaps you will forgive me for reminding you that the 1st Canadian Division was in the salient in 1915 for one or two weeks and not again for eleven months. The Canadian corps moved into the salient again this spring, and has held part of it for some four and a half months—a total for Canadians of five months. I do not, of course, refer to the P.P.C.L.I. who were with an English division and got into rather more fighting.

POLICE AND BARBERS CLASH

An Exciting Game of Baseball Results in a Tie — Both Teams Did Good Work at Bat

The baseball fans of the city of Belleville, and there are a number of them who did not see the game yesterday afternoon between the policemen and the barbers of the city, certainly missed the event of the season. It was some game, and will long linger in the memory of those who witnessed it. At the Agricultural Park, the stunt was pulled off in the presence of hundreds of excited and expectant spectators. Of all games of ball played in Belleville for some years it was without doubt in many respects the only game. Both teams had a number of rooters present, and did they root. Well we should say they did. Although the park was a little out of the regular beat of our Finest, all players were on hand when the game was called at a few minutes after 2 o'clock. At this time the excitement was almost at fever heat. Mr. J. L. R. Gorman was unanimously selected as umpire, and what Robert does not know of the game, is not worth knowing. The finest points of the game did not escape his notice. On two or three ocassions players entered a protest against his decision, but it was of no avail. When he called a strike it was a strike whether the batter hit the ball or banged at the wind, and there was some banging at the latter. When the coin was tossed to decide which team should go to bat or out in the field, the face scrapers and hair croppers won with the result they sent the bobbies to the bat. Bennett did the twirling for the barbers, and the first man to face him was the genial turnkey of the jail, who, let us whisper, is also a County Constable. The second ball pitched he hit, and it was a safe hit. Smiling Donovan was next at bat, he had too, made a hit, and not to be outdone, the policeman that needs no hair cut on the top of his cranium landed the leather out in the field for a two-bagger. It was however, no means the first hit that Edgar has made. John M. Truiasch, who by the way, is a pincher of trespassers, also landed a hit, and runs were coming in at a more livelier gait than the majority of the people usually enter the presents of the police station. Richard Arnott, the stage and inspector of the force, and other places, made his appearance at the bat, and it was soon apparent that Dick was in his element, and is certainly some ball player. He not only made in this innings a two-bagger, but in the succeeding inning, made a home run, nearly losing the ball. The scorer when the third man was out in the first innings which the police had, only figured out 3 runs, but to an unbiased onlooker at least double that number of cops passed over the place. There was, however, no use disputing the count.

DONOVAN, PITCHING

The barbers then went to bat, and the way some of them lathered the ball was actually cruel. Donovan, pitched for the blue coats, and whilst he had fairly good control of the ball, at times he must have imagined the judge's stand was the batter, as the ball went in that direction. In their first innings, all members of the barber team faced the apposing pitcher. When the tally was made five runs were to their credit,

TRUIASCH, CATCHING

Owing to the fact that another game was to be played between the Clothiers and Shoe Clerks only five innings were played, and the result was given as a tie, although some disputed the score. All bets were declared off. During the progress of the second innings Ellis, the new police benedict, made a hit, and after reaching first base ran towards the bay in search of the second base. He was certainly off his beat, to a considerable extent, but George was by no means disconcerted. Once he was hit on the head by the ball, and of course, owing to this gentle reminder, was allowed to take first base. The veteran player on the police side was William David Ketcheson, who has reached the three score and ten years, but is some boy yet. Although he was called out at first base he refused to be moved, and there you are, he had authority on his side. He continued to make the circuit with the assistance of a fellow compatriot. L Soule is an old ballplayer, and he did good service for his brother police, by trying to help them out of any difficulty they were in.

SKINNER, SKINED

For the barbers the old reliable, James Warham, was as usual on hand where there is any excitement. Jim can certainly play ball, even though he has to stop the ball once and a while with his feet. That is part of the game to kick. Bennett is a fairly good pitcher, but a little practice would not by any means make him any worse. Osborne is some catcher, that is when the balls come within reach of him. At times he needed a step ladder, but one was not handy. Jim is a fine manly sport, and he plays the game well, cutting the air like the blower upon a threshing machine. He will improve with age as will some of the other players.

SULLIVAN AT BAT

At the end of the 5th innings the game was called, and the score was announced as 5 to 5. It was a close shave for the barbers, and the police could not beat up their opponents.

E. GEORGE

The players and their positions were as follows:—

Constables.—Truiasch, c.; Donovan, p.; Deshane, 1st. b.; Corrigan, 2nd b.; Collings, s.s.; Arnott, 3rd b.; Ellis, c.f.; Ketcheson, r.f.; Soules, l.f

Barbers.—George, r.f.; Bennett, p.; Sullivan, 1st. b.; Watts, 2nd b.; Skinner, s.s.; Smith, 3rd b.; Warham, c.f.; Osborne, c.; Langabeer, l.f.

CLOTHIERS vs. SHOEMEN

At the Agricultural Park yesterday afternoon, a baseball match took place between teams representing the Clothiers and Shoe Clerks of the city. The result was a win for the Clothiers by a score of 12 to 7. Both teams played a good game, and at times the game was exciting. There are several players upon each team who are excellent ball players, and whilst the Shoe Clerks were defeated, it was by no means a disgrace to them. During the game two umpires were used, namely, Messrs. R. Collings and C. Bawden, and both endeavored to the best of their abilities to do their duty. Nine innings were played, and the game was not completed until after 6 o'clock. The players and the positions played were as follows:—

Clothiers.—Martin, s.s.; Bell, 1st b.; Stacey, r.f.; Wolpe, p.; Thompson, 2nd b.; Fahey, 3rd b.; O'Brien, c.f.; Sills, l.f.; O'Nell, c.

THE PASSING OF BILLY KELLY

The passing of "Billy" Kelly will cause considerable regret in Toronto fandom. He was the last of the famous aggregation assembled by Manager Joe Kelly which included Rudolph, Jordan, McConnell, Lush, Vaughn, Bradley, O'Hara and others. Kelly was secured from Pittsburg, and he made his reputation as Marty O'Toole's battery mate. When this erratic southpaw was purchased by Pittsburg for $22,500, Kelly was also bought for $4,500. He was subsequently turned over to Toronto, while O'Toole remained with Pittsburg. O'Toole never turned out to be worth the money expended for him, and drifted back to the American Association, and then to the Class A western league, where he is now. Kelly caught good ball for Toronto for several seasons, but he was injured early this year and has been of little use to the club. He is still a first clast backstop and his baseball career is not by any means ended.

THE LEAGUE CLUBS

With only about a month to go in the National and American Baseball Leagues, there is one grand scramble among at least six teams in the American League for first place, while in the National the fight seems to have narrowed down to Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia, with still, an outside chance for the New Lork Giants.

In the American League Boston Red Sox are still leading the profession, but their margin over Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, and New York is so small that a couple of games would easily change the whole complexion of the situation. Boston Red Sox, despite their loss of the great and only Speaker, manage to keep out in front. They have a grand pitching staff in Leonard, Shore, Ruth, Foster and several other lesser lights, while Hooper and Lewis are batting in the form they displayed during the last two years. Ruth has been very effective in the last two weeks in the box, and the world's champions will take a lot of beating.

Chicago White Sox, with their grand aggregation of ball players, including a wonderful array of pitching talent, are now showing their real worth, and while they have been a disappointment for a couple of years are liable to come through.

Cleveland have slumped a little and the other teams are improving, but they manage to hang around and aided by good pitching and the wonderful batting of Speaker, are still in third position.

Detroit are still able to slug out enough games to keep them in the race, and "Ty" Cobb is gaining on Speaker's batting average every day. The Tiger pitchers are doing better now and if they can keep up the good work a good bet is to "Watch the Tigers."

New York, despite the crippled condition of the team, have won five out of their last six games, and there is little doubt that Shocker, the ex-Leaf twirler, will be a big asset to them in the last month. If the Yankees get several of their cripples in line look out for them.

SPLENDID ACHIEVEMENTS ON SOMME AND FLEURY FRONT

GREEK PEOPLE INDIGNANT AT THE BULGARIAN INVASION

OPEN PULPITS TO WOMEN

London Clergyman Says They Would do Much Better Than Many Men

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Special— Rev. Percy Dearmer, one of London's most prominent clergymen, makes a novel contribution to the controversy which has been hotly raging some time past over the question: Should women preach? A great national mission is being organized by the Anglican Church, and, in view of the fact that so many clergymen are away doing chaplaincy work, it was suggested that women might conduct certain parts of the services, including delivering addresses. A majority of the Bishops, however, vetoed the proposal.

Dearmer, whose first wife held a great position in artistic and literary circles in London, and died a few months ago nursing in the Balkans, remarried recently. He has now written an article advocating preaching by women, in the course of which he says: "Women ask to be treated on equal terms with men. Their powers and gifts, it is true, are different, but they ask for equality of opportunity so that their different gifts and qualities may be used in the best possible way. We let them do heavy manual labor for which they are not suited. We have no right to prevent them from speaking and teaching in public, a task for which they are eminently qualified. Indeed, I never heard a woman make a really bad speech. On the other hand, when I think of men I have heard on the platforms, at dinner tables, and in the pulpit, a dumb feeling of despair overtakes me, especially when I think of sermons that are listened to every Sunday, which, indeed, a majority of our population refuses nowadays to listen to."

GERMANY IS BUILDING 780-FOOT ZEPPELINS

Each Can Carry Five Tons of Bombs and Cruise 3,000 Miles—Two Already Completed

LONDON, Aug. 24.—In a speech, delivered at Bury St. Edmunds last night, Baron Montagu of Beaulieu, former Vice Chairman of the joint Naval and Military Board, told of new monster super-Zeppelins which Germany was building.

"We have obtained some details of the super-Zeppelins which Germany is now building," said Baron Montagu. "The principal features of the craft are a capacity of 2,000,000 cubic feet, a length of 780 feet, a beam of eighty feet, and a maximum speed of eighty miles an hour, a cruising speed of thirty-five miles an hour and a radius of action of 3,000 miles. The engines, six or seven of them, have a total of 18,000 horse power.

"The airships can carry a load of bombs of five tons, and are able to ascend 17,000 feet. They are armed with machine guns at bow and stern and on top of the envelope. They carry a crew of thirty-five men.

"These particulars show how largely the Germans are relying on Zeppelins as a means for harassing us. Two of these new craft, have already been completed and four will be available in October."

ZEPPELINS MAKE RAID ON SOUTHEAST ENGLAND

One Went Far Inland, and Others Remained Near the Coast—Dropped Bombs on Ships at Sea — Nine Persons Injured on Land and Two Horses Killed

Canadian Press Special

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Official statement says six hostile airships raided the east and southeast of England last night between midnight and three o'clock. One went far inland, others remained near the coast. Several bombs are reported aimed at ships at sea. Nine persons were injured as far as reported, several fatally. The damage caused was slight. In one locality a railway station and some houses were damaged, and two horses were killed. Zeppelins were fired on by aircraft guns and one aeroplane succeeded in firing on one at close range but she eluded pursuers in the clouds.

The Exchange Telegraph Company says three persons were killed and several injured in a southeast coast town.

A German aviator, flying over the French lines, dropped the curate's answer saying that the favor had been accomplished.

Suspicious Moves By Hun Liners

Activity Is Said to Presage Her Joining the Bremen via Cape Cod Canal

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—Activity among some of the German ships at this port, and various reports concerning them, attracted the attention of the water front yesterday. The steamer Willehad of the North German Lloyd Line emerged from a drydock, took aboard several hundred tons of coal, a large quantity of ice and stores, and added sailors from other vessels to her crew. The ship then moved back to her pier.

Officials of the steamer and of the line who were questioned regarding a report that the Willehad was going to New London in connection with the expected arrival there of the merchant submarine Bremen said they had no knowledge of such plans. All the German steamers, it was said, would be placed in drydock for cleaning soon, request having been made of the Navy Department for permission to float the Kropprinzessin Cecilie into the navy yard dock for this purpose.

Application has been made also for permission to allow two steamships approximating the size of the North German Lloyd's vessels here to pass through the Cape Cod Canal. Permission was given in the case of one of the vessels, corresponding in size to the Willehad, but passage for the other was refused because its greater dimensions.

Four Girls In An Auto Plunge

Machine Skids and Goes Through Side of Bridge, Dropping Thirty Feet

PLATTSBURG, N.Y., Aug. 24.—Four New York women who have been attending the Catholic Summer School at Cliff Haven are in the Champlain Valley Hospital here recently suffering from injuries caused by their automobile plunging through the railing of a bridge over Au Sable Chasm this afternoon. Miss Aayes, sister-in-law of Thomas W. Churchill of the Board of Education, had both legs broken. The others are the Misses Muldoon, Mulligan, and McGovern. Their full names and addresses could not be learned either at the Summer School or at the hospital. They are suffering from shock.

Frank W. Judge, a Plattsburg insurance man, was driving the car. It skidded on a turn to the bridge and he lost control of it. It crashed through the railing and fell without turning over thirty feet into the Au Sable River. Mr. Judge cut a hole in the top of the machine and dragged the women out.

EFFECTIVE ARTILLERY WORK AT VERDUN AND FLEURY

Canadian Press Special

PARIS, Aug. 25.—(French official announcement.)—On the right bank of the Meuse, (Verdun) the enemies artillery displayed great activity, as did ours, in the region of Thiaumont work. Toward two o'clock this morning the Germans made an attempt against the village of Fluery, which failed utterly.

In the forest of Apremont there was a rather lively bombardment of our trenches. This was followed by an attempt to attack, which was stopped by our curtain of fire.

Near Chauvencourt an enemy surprise attack against one of our small posts failed under our fire.

One of our pilots yesterday brought down a German biplane, which fell near Germany, northeast of Nancy.

GREAT PLAIN IN HAIG'S GRIP

Latest Gains Around Pozieres and High Wood of Great Importance

With the British Armies in the Field, Aug. 24.—(Special.) —We are getting a stronger grip upon the ridge from Pozieres to High Wood. Last night the Australians gained a little more ground ,so that they pushed out a line to the northeast of Mouquet Farm ,and the Scottish troops to their right gained another hundred yards of that famous switchline into which I took a walk the day before yesterday to see how we held the enemy's last line of defence on the way to Martinpuich. The switchine exists only as a name, and is in reality nothing but a series of shell craters in which our men have to get what cover they can after chasing out the Germans before digging and strengthening an effective trench; but it is the position that counts, and if we can hold it, as I am now certain we shall, it puts the enemy at a great disadvantage, of which our guns are already making full and terrible use.

The enemy's endeavors to counter-attack—he made two last night—have broken down under our fire with great bloodshed, and now it is not in the least likely that he will succeed in wresting back from us any of the high ground.

CLOSE ATTENTION TO CANADA'S WAR LOAN

Finance Minister Sir Thomas White Studying Matter Carefully and Seeking Advice

OTTAWA, Aug. 24—Sir Thomas White is giving his close personal attention at the present time to the subject of the terms of the new war loan which will be issued shortly. It involves the most pains taking consideration on the part of the minister.

Market conditions are carefully studied, advice is sought from experts in the financial and investment world and no detail is overlooked which has any bearing upon the question of price and attractiveness to the investing public. The Department is receiving inquiries respecting its terms which cannot be announced until the prospectus is ready for publication, about the middle of September.

STILL IN ABEYANCE

Question of New Contract for Parliament Buildings

OTTAWA, Aug. 24.—There were no new developments at today's meeting of the Parliamentary Buildings Reconstruction Committee, adjournment being taken until September 1st, when the corner stone will be laid by the Duke of Connaught. It is understood, however, that the motion formulated by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux calling for paying off the Lyall firm and the granting of a new contract by public tender was before the meeting, but was not voted on because of the absence of the Senatorial members of the committee, Senators Lougheed and Watson. Predictions that Liberal members of the committee would resign proved not to be justified, and it is still intact.

Volunteers Rush to Colors to Repel Bulgar Invader — Ignore Their Monarch — Battle Rages Along the Entire Front, With Enemy Still Heavily Pressing the Allied Wings

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Special.— The Russians have concentrated a large number of troops on the Roumanian frontier and on the banks of the Russian Danube for the purpose of invading Bulgaria by way of Dubrudja, according to a Budapest despatch to the Morning Post, quoting The Azest. The Azest also reports powerful Roumanian forces gathered on the lower Danube and the Pruth.

LONDON, Aug. 25.— Greek volunteers are rushing to the colors to resist the Bulgar threat. While Czar Ferdinand's troops continue to advance east of the Struma, the battle at Seres is still in progress, according to advices from Athens. The Greek garrison at Seres has been reinforced by officers and men assembled at Saloniki. To them has been added a corps of Albanians. Many of the Greek troops are reported to have taken places in the Allied ranks, and a furious struggle is promised.

Thus the issue between the Teutonic allies and Greece has come to a head. King Constantine and his Ministers are making great efforts to prevent trouble, but the situation is getting beyond their control rapidly.

The General Staff at Athens has ordered that the Greek troops at Seres retire before the Bulgars. But the commander of the town has rallied around him a strong force, and seems determined to dispute the Bulgar advance. Meanwhile the Venizelists at Athens and throughout Greece, realizing that their opportunity has come, are agitating for intervention on the side of the Entente. Their task is made easier by the intense feeling aroused in Greece over the heroic resistance offered by the Greek garrisons to the Bulgars.

Interned Huns Saluted Duke

HALIFAX, N.S. August 24. — An interesting episode in the visit of the Governor-General to Halifax occurred to-day when His Royal Highness was in the citadel. Interned there are about three hundred German prisoners all officers, the rank and file being in the detention camp in much greater numbers at Amherst.

The Duke was escorted into the enclosure, where the prisoners are kept at the citadel, and was introduced to the officer who is looked upon as their leader.

His Royal Highness conversed for some time with this German, and passed up and down the lines, where the other prisoners could see him and he them. They raised their hats and saluted as the Governor-General passed.

This is the second time within a few years that Mr. Sparks has lost his barns by fire. Considerable other damage to buildings and orchards was caused by the storm, which was accompanied by hail.

GALLANT TERRITORIALS IN A THRILLING ADVANCE

Attacked Maze of German Trenches and Carried Them by Assault—When Held Up by German Guns They Laid Flat and Held on Until Aid Came

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Aug. 25.—(Special.) —The successful advance south of the Leipsic redoubt was due mainly to the gallant work of the Territorial troops who attacked the maze of German trenches and carried them by assault. Linked with the redoubt itself, already in our hands and immediately below the Thiepual, we are getting closer to the garrison there.

The men who captured the great dugout and took nearly six hundred prisoners were the Royal Warwickshire Regiment, and they accomplished that great achievement with an extraordinarily slight loss to themselves.

One of the most thrilling episodes of the attack was when they were held up on the right by a German strong point from which there came a stream of machine gun fire. The men lay down in front of it and held on until our Lewis guns could get to work.

Four times the message came over the telephone asking whether the heavy guns should shell the place, but the colonel was afraid his own men would be hit and refused to offer each time. Then when it seemed impossible to stop the deadly hail of bullets, the German machine guns suddenly ceased fire and the white flag fluttered up.

The colonel of the Warwickshires expected to see about twenty men come out of the bomb-proof hiding place. To his amazement six officers and 242 unwounded Germans' emerged.

There were many acts of great individual gallantry among the Warwicks, all of whom acted splendidly under the fine leadership of the officers.

One sergeant jumped on to the parapet of a German trench and kept the machine gun team away from their weapon until the British bombing party could arrive, thereby saving the lives of many Warwickshire lads and helping to secure the victory.

EXTENDED OFFENSIVE MOVEMENT FRENCH AND BRITISH CONSOLIDATE

Much Hard Fighting East and North of Delville Wood — Lines Advanced Several Hundred Yards—Over 500 Enemy Prisoners Taken

Canadian Press Special

Paris, Aug. 25.—North of the Somme our troops consolidated themselves during the night on the ground captured north and west of Maurepas. South of the village the Germans made a sharp counter-attack against Hill No. 121, occupied by our troops. Mowed down by our artillery and machine gun fire the enemy was unable to approach our lines at any point and suffered heavy losses. Sixty prisoners fell into our hands, making the total of unwounded prisoners in this sector since yesterday, 350. Between the Avre and the Aisne artillery fighting was rather spirited during the night in the regions of Roye, Lassigny and Moulin Sous Toutvent.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—To-day's British official statement says: On our right we joined up with the French, who made important progress yesterday through Maurepas: Much hard fighting has taken place in the eastern northern edges of Deville wood, and we have now advanced our lines several hundred yards on each sides of the Longueval-Fieres road. As a result of these operations eight officers and 179 men of other ranks had been prisoners by 8 o'clock this morning. The length of the enemy's trenche's captured south of Thiepual yesterday reported in last nigth's communique, extends across the Leipsic salient for a distances of some 700 yards; still further progress has been made in this sector.

In this sector by bombing attacks and with very small loss to ourselves, we have taken 500 prisoners in addition to the 62 reported last night.

Near the quarries east of Hulluch we exlpoded a mine, the crater of which we are now consolating. Last night we made several successful raids. Entering the German lines north of Neuville Stvaast near Hulluch and west of Aubers, inflicting some loss on the enemy. Near Cuinchy a small hostile raiding party which entered one of our saps was easily bombed out.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

EDMUND BREESE APPEARS AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

Edmund Breese the eminent dramatic star, in "The Song of the Wage Slave". is the offering of the popular Plays and Players on the programme at Griffin's Opera House, Tonight and Saturday, matinee and night. Not since Mr. Breese played the role of John Birkett Ryder in the "Lion and the Mouse" has he a part better suited for his unusual talents. Throughout the picture runs a story of the remarkable love of a man who is called upon and willingly makes the greatest sacrifices possible for the woman he loves. He not only marries her to save her name after which she has been compromised by another, but disappears so he is believed dead, in order that she can marry the sweetheart of her youth. Ultimately he sacrifices his life to save her after series of intense dramatic situations. The picture is one of sharp contrasts, showing the wide gulf between capital and labor portrays the story in convincing fashion. In addition to the above 5 part offering, a very amusing Lonesome Luke comedy will be exhibited along with the Pathe gazette, which includes a review of all the latest and important English and European events.

A Company From Belleville Spends Day With Soldiers to Great Profit—A Hearty Welcome Tendered

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Mayor Ketcheson, J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., W. C. Mikle, K.C., and Messrs C. N. Sulman and G. A. Bennett, motored to Barryfield Military Camp yesterday and paid a visit to Col. Adams, officers and men of the 155th Battalion, and were, they inform us, right royally received and entertained. These gentlemen speak in the highest terms of the courtesy and kindness of the Col. officers and men of the battalion in showing and explaining all that pertains to the life and duties of a soldier, from the baking of a loaf of bread to the intricacies of a hand and field grenade. It were well, says these gentlemen, if some of the fault-finders at the cost of the munitions of war to the country would study and examine the mechanism of these apparently simple instruments of warfare and the necessary machinery to manufacture them there might be less growling and fault finding.

The party informs us they made a halt on the road down and visited the Cataraqui Cemetery for the purpose of paying a visit to the grave of the never-to-be-forgotten statesman, Sir John A. Macdonald, and express no little surprise at the simple and unostentatious granite cross that marks the resting-place of one of Canada's greatest men.

BURNING MOTOR BOAT FIRES A LUMBER PILE

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 25 Special—Down the river early this morning a motorboat ablaze from bow to stern drifted into the wharf of the Klondyke Lumber Co. on the American shore, and the flames spreading to the lumber started a big fire which was extinguished with difficulty. It was said that about the time the burning boat was first observed cries of help were heard, but no trace of any passengers the boat might have had can be discovered. The boat was burned to within three inches of the water's edge before it sunk, and all marks of identity were obliterated. It was reported that the launch hailed from Brockville, but enquiry fails to locate any missing.

SIR SAM TOUCHED BY HIS RECEPTION ON FIRING LINE

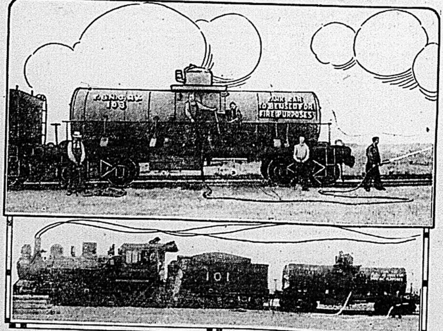
Throughout the visit to the front there was this personal touch, and when the Anzacs were met Gen. Hughes renewed acquaintance with officers and men he had met in South Africa.

The CONSERVATION of the FOREST



The Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway has been adding steadily to its equipment for fighting forest fires. It now possesses four of the most modern type of tank cars for use in this work and is equiping two more for service. Lower picture shows engine coupled to car ready to make speed trip to scene of fire. One of these cars has been stationed at Porquis Junction, one at Nushka, one at Earlton Junction, and one at Osseo, on the Elk Lake Branch of the line. Each car holds between 7,500 and 8,000 gallons of water and carries 150 feet of hose.

In swimming, Walter Asselstine took first prize, pulling off many daring feats on and under the water.

In the fishing competition the contest was keen and prizes awarded as follows:—Wm. Hart, heaviest fish; Dave Lees, largest catch; Jack Weese, smallest fish. Jack McFee and Phil Allore fished on land. They caught a can of salmon.

Mr D. Green and Sergt. Chas. Gibson were judges of the many events and their decisions were satisfactory to all. The submarine race was easily won by Mr E. Monk, though he came nearly being torpedoed. Mr Bob. Blaind the veteran bandsman won the rifle shooting contest. The bun eating contest called for 6 p.m. was cancelled the bun supply having become exhausted.

In the evening the band played a concert at Allisonville, where the presentation of prizes took place, presentation being made by Mr Nelson Parliament, M.P.P. Other talent taking part in the concert was Mr E. Monk and Sergt. Chas. Gibson. The proceeds amounted to $133.00.

CANADA'S TRADE IS SOARING HIGH

The aggregate Trade of Canada in four months has increased by more than 100 per cent.

The July trade as shown in the monthly summary issued to-day by the Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Customs, showed the phenomenal rise of 141 per cent., or $139,860,450. The total trade for the month amounted to $238,860,488, and for the four months ending July 31 it reached the total of $766,872,882, as against $371,646,906 in the corresponding period of last year.

The statement shows that both exports and imports have contributed to the aggregate increase, with the larger figures in the export column. Imports for consumption amounted in value to $63,622,587 in July as compared with $36,622,190 in July last year, while in the four months period they rose from $134,729,377 to $249,867,767. The July exports reached a value of $104,964,270 compared with $45,590,038.

Given in Four Months.

In the four months the exports have risen from $159,168,259 to $350,235,205. These are the figures for domestic imports and exports only. In the movement of coin and bullion there has been a sharp decline as regards imports and, for the four months, of exports also, although the gold exports last month were slightly larger than in the same month of 1916.

In the export of foreign merchandise there has been a notable increase, nearly one thousand per cent. The volume of these exports rose from $11,494,467 in the four months of last year to $122,827,072 in the same period this year. In the month of July they jumped from $2,916,682 to $55,637,540.

An interesting feature of the statement is the substantial rise in the imports of free goods; there has been, however, a corresponding increase in the imports of dutiable merchandise, and the duty collected in the four months has risen from $28,085,471 to $46,063,507.

The detailed statement of exports shows that the shipments of Canadian manufactured products trebled in July amounting to $38,264,136, while the exports of farm products amounted to $38,585,809, or five times the total of July last year. Exports of foreign mine products, which were less than a million in July last year, reached a total of over fifty-four millions last month.

BRITAIN AND SWEDEN HAVE SERIOUS JANGLE

Latter Persisted in Blocking Parcels to Russia—Former Then Retaliated

LONDON, Aug. 25.—(Special.)—The British Government, following the lead of Sweden, has made public the entire correspondence with Sweden concerning British seizures of the Swedish parcelpost with the United States and Swedish retaliation in stopping all British parcels in transit to Russia.

The correspondence disclosed that the situation has not yet been satisfactorily adjusted. Some of the letters and notes teem with language so sharp as to indicate that the relations of the two countries at one time approached the breaking point. As a result of the negotiations Sweden recently released 60,000 parcels to Russia under agreement with the British Government to submit the matter to arbitration after the war.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

A FATAL BARGAIN

OR

THE MAN WHO DARED FATE

BY

NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XXIII

Nora Scores a point

For a moment Patsy felt as if every drop of his blood had turned to ice He knew that something had occurred to expose him. Then with characteristic nerve, instantly pulling himself together, he said, coolly·

"Oh, I'll not wink while that shooting iron looking me in the face. What's it all about?"

"Yes what's it all about, Mauley?"

The last came from Cullen, who already feeling for Patsy, had swung round with a wolflike snarl.

"Keep back Dan," Mauley quickly cried. "We've been fooled, done brown. I'll tell you after we—

"If he dosen't, Cullen I will," came the sharp interruption.

It came from Nora Selkirk , while she was hurriedly entering from an adjoining sitting room. She had arrived five minutes before, having dismissed her hired automobile in the next street, a block from the brewery and taken the same course Cullen had taken to reach the house. To explain matters to Mauley and Greer, and to prepare to hold up Patsy, had required hardly a minute.

"Good God!" Cullen cried, when he beheld her.

"You here."

"Very much here, you'll find, and lucky I am," cried Nora, white with excitement. "Look out for him Mauley. Kill him if he moves a hair. Get a rope Dan and tie him hand and foot. He's a detective ane of Nick Carter's force. Janet has been arrested, and Nick Carter himself may show up here any moment. Tie this fellow up at once. We must be ready to do the same with Nick, or he'll land the whole bunch of us."

"But he's dead, gasped Cullen. "How the devil can——"

"Dead be hanged!" cried Nora angrily. "You do what I say Cullen and then hear how we've been duped. Get a rope, do you hear?"

Cullen required no more than this display of anger and authority. Though staggered by the disclosures, he now rushed into the kitchen and presently returned with several length of rope with which he and Greer hastended to bind Patsy arms and legs behind him while Mauley continued to cover him with the revolver.

Patsy made no resistence nor uttered a word. Though much annoyed by this turn of the situation, it was not without its favorable features. He knew, at least, that Nick was alive, and had made discoveries informing him of these headquarters of a part of the gang, while this woman's remarks convinced him that Nick must be somewhere in that locality. To deny what she said, while ignorant of her source of information, appeared only foolish and Patsy decided to take his medicine and say nothing.

He was given no opportunity to say much, in fact he no sooner had been bound by the ruffian that Nora Selkirk whose impatience plainly indicated the need of haste, ordered him quickly gagged and placed in a chair. None questioned her authority moreover, and in less than five minutes Pasty was rendered mute and helpless as could well be imagined, yet not in the least terrified by the threatening situation.

"To a front window, Greer," Nora then cried sharply. "You Mauley, watch the rear yard. Keep your eyes open botlt of you. I'll tell Cullen what has happened, and speak loud enough for you all to hear. We must contrive to secure Nick Carter without fail. Sing out, either of you, if any man shows up who appears to have an interest in the place. I'll think out a way by which we can land him."

Th two men hastened to obey darting the adjoining rooms, while Cullen now frowning like a thunder cloud, glared first at Patsy then at the woman, and harshly commanded.

"Out with it, now, Mrs. Selkirk. What's it all about? Are you sure you're right?"

"You'll find I'm right," Nora replied more calmly now taking a chair. "You have been duped, fooled to beat the band, by this fellow. His cobbler shop story was only a yarn. A detective was after you alright, Cullen, but he's the dectective He just laid for you, after fixing things with the cobbler, in order to get next to us and our game."

"It doesn't seem possible," Cullen snarled, with an oath.

"It's true just the same," Nora went on. He's woolley-eyed you completely and all of the others. He fooled you in the shed, and must have cut the rope from Carter's hands when he shoved him off the dredger."

"That's a positive cinch, Cullen for Nick Carter was in Fenno's office this morning, and Janet Bolton hid in the closet, heard all that was said. He told Fenno the whole business and said that a fellow named Patsy, one of his assistants, had made friends with some of our crowd. Who can that be but this fellow?"

Cullen glared at Patsy again, with murder in his eyes, but did not speak.

"Janet managed to get a word to me about twelve o'clock so that I could warn Todd, and the others," Nora continued. "I gave her the address of this place on paper, and told her to hurry out here and wait till I came. But Nick Carter was already onto us, with another detective. I saw him arrest Janet as she left the hotel. She tried to swallow the paper I had given her, but they got it away from her; then one of them took her away in a cab—to Meulberry Street, Cullen, as sure as you're alive. I knew Carter's figure all right, and that he'd head for this place at once. I saw him reading the address, and then giving his instructions to the other detective. It was nip-and-tuck then to get here first. I came out in an automobile, in order to be ready for him, after nailing this fellow. You see what you're up against now, I reckon."

Cullen's face had turned as hard as flint.

"Have you notified, Todd?" he demanded.

"Notified nobody," Nora curtly answered. "Where's your head, Cullen? Can't you see that I had to fly out here at top speed? What if Nick Carter had come first got word with this assistant of his, rounded up you fellows and rescued the lawyer? It would have been all over but the shouting."

"I guess you're right."

"I know I 'm right, Cullen — no guesswork about it."

Nora declared flatly. "We've got to get Nick Carter first of all. Then I'll phone to Todd or McNulty and make them wise. They'll have to come out here tonight and decide what to do with all three We can't go on in this way. Things looked good this morning and Todd made the market show it, but there was an awful break soon after noon. Even Todd, with the Ironclad bank back of him couldn't check the smash. It's Carter's work with Fenno to help him with his millions."

"That's just what it is," Cullen admited, glaring at the floor.

"But Todd will turn the tide again" Nora quickly added, "If he learns that we have Carter in our clutches, despite his clever ruse, and that Fenno has been depending on the results of his investigations. We must get word to him before the market closes, too, or Fenno may break it wide open and put Todd on the rocks for keeps. It is now after two o'clock. I suppose Cullen, you've told this spy the whole business, haven't you?"

Nora added the last with a vicious glance at Patsy, and Cullen snarled quickly, as he came out of a mental effort to grasp the desperate situation.

"I've told him so much that he can——"

The ruffian did not finish saying what Patsy could do with the information confided to him. As if infuriated with the thought of how he had been duped, he suddenly strode toward the helpless young detective, with his huge fist upraised to fell him from his chair.

Before the blow could be dealt, however a low cry came from Mauley in the kitchen, and Nora sprang between Cullen and Patsy and stayed the ruffian's hand.

TOWN CELEBRATES UNDER NEW NAME

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 24.—The inhabitants of this newly-named city last night celebrated the issuing of the order-in-Council by the Ontario Cabinet changing the name of Berlin to Kitchener. A monster automobile parade was formed at the City Hall square at 8 o'clock, and, headed by the 108th Regiment Band, which occupied a large Dominion Tire Co. motor truck, made a tour of the principal streets of the city. Thousands of people crowded the sidewalks, and after the procession an immense throng gathered at the City Hall to hear the addresses delivered by Mayor J. E. Hett and Alderman J. A. Hallman. Both speakers expressed their pleasure that the name had been finally changed, and expressed the hope that, while there had been strong differences of opinion during the campaign, there would now be a reunion of all classes with a determination to make Kitchener a greater city than it has been under the old name.

There were no disturbances of any kind and harmony prevailed on all sides. The formal christening of the city will probably take place next Thursday night, August 31st, at which it is expected Hon. T. Chase Casgrain, Postmaster-General, will be present to perform the unique ceremony.

Definite arrangements will be made by the special committee of the City Council within a day or two.

Official information of the action of the Ontario Cabinet was received by City Clerk A. H. Millar about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Acting Attorney-General, stating that the name of the city had been changed from Berlin to Kitchener. The ringing of the city bell was the announcement to the residents that the order-in-Council had been issued by the Cabinet. In a few minutes the bell of the Zion Evangelical Church was ringing and the chimes of St. Peter's Lutheran Church pealed forth patriotic airs, including "Rule Britannia" and the National Anthem. Scores of factory whistles were blown during the next half hour and the news of the change was known throughout the city within the hour. Thousands of Kitchener pennants were brought up as souvenirs during the afternoon.

The agitation to change the name of the city started shortly after the commencement of the war and grew steadily in popularity until last February, when the first public meeting was held to discuss the question. At this meeting the City Council was requested to make application for the changing of the city's name to one more in keeping with the British sentiment. The Council adopted the recommendation and forwarded the request to the Legislature. The bill to change the name was thrown out by the private bills committee, after a petition had been presented requesting that the matter be voted upon by the electors before a change is made. The action of the private bills committee was objected to by the supporters of the movement and at the request of a representative delegation the Ontario Cabinet reconsidered the question with the result that the special Act was passed providing for the changing of the name if the assent of the majority of the electors was secured. The vote was taken on May 19th, after a strenuous and exciting campaign and carried by a majority of 81, the vote polled being the largest ever recorded in a municipal election.

The by-law to change the name to Kitchener was passed by the City Council on July 4th, and sent to the Cabinet the following day for ratification.

Last evening after the celebration, an informal conference took place between prominent citizens of the two towns in the Waterloo Club, at which the question of joint management of the public utilities was discussed. It is conceded that these enterprises could be more economically managed by the united control without the identity and one of them giving up their world-famed names "Kitchener" and "Waterloo."

THIS IS THE 682ND DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

A SPIRIT OF UNITY.

According to advices from Montreal a movement to promote a more harmonious spirit between the people of Ontario and Quebec is being advanced in that city, and with a view to effecting a unity of feeling a meeting of business men representative of the two provinces was held this week. The gathering was the outcome of action taken on behalf of commercial bodies in the two provinces. Merchants doing an interprovincial business have felt the effects of the boycotting talk that some prominent men have been so free in putting forth. "It can be said, indeed," says The Gazette, "that if the promoters of factionalism and distrust were to be judged by a tribunal of French-speaking Montreal business men and their travellers their punishment would be swift and severe. The merchants see the mischief. It may not be practicable to do much by effort to improve the situation, which, also, may not be as serious as it seems. The good sense of the people will be the great force that will operate to restore better conditions. Those who help to spread the mischief are not all in one province or of one tongue. People in Quebec are fairly familiar with what is said here to create the idea that it is unpatriotic to deal with people in the persecuting province of Ontario; they do not, perhaps, know how this same stuff is used in Ontario to spread the impression that all the people in Quebec are cranks and reactionaries. The situation, however, is not new. There have been repeated occasions when reckless and unthinking men have used racial appeals in efforts to advance their own causes. A political party in Ontario once cheered itself to victory with a hymn of hate, which called on the people to "Beware of the French-Canadian horde." If the spirit of the appeal is reversed to-day it is an incident that need not create undue alarm or anger. The better sense of the people prevailed before; it will prevail again. The disturbance is on the surface; the deep stream of trade and social relations goes on, and will go on its course to the mutual advantage of both divisions of the people. If the new effort draws attention to this and helps to show all concerned what the facts are it will be useful."

A MATTER OF PRINCIPLE.

There is a trend of straightforwardness in the after-election summing up by the Toronto Star. While it accepts with complacence the defeat of Mr Conner, its especial candidate, it does not withdraw one iota from its set principles at stake, nor does it allow that the election of Mr Dewart is a victory for the Liberal party. The Star is still standing upon its own doorstep, proclaiming its accepted policy, and firmly charging that its future confidence in the successful candidate will be governed entirely by his course in the Legislature to which he has been elected. Its expressions, as given herewith, should be heeded by those Liberals who are jubilating over what they are pleased to term a weakness in the Conservative ranks and a moral victory for the Liberal party. Referring to Mr Connor, The Star says:

"We supported the candidate who, though not calling himself a Liberal, advocated the policy of prohibition, the policy for which the Liberal party in Ontario stands. We supported the man who advocates The Star's policy of Canadian ownership and control of nickel, who believes that Canadian nickel ought not to go into the hands of the enemies of Canada and the British Empire. We supported the man who is for The Star's policy of public ownership and control of electric power. If he had polled only four votes, instead of 445, we should not have moved one inch from our position. We believe to-day, as we believed before the election, that our views are sound. We are not ashamed of being on the side of a man who is right, though defeated.

"Our attitude toward Mr Dewart will be governed entirely by his course in the Legislature to which he has been elected. He is right on nickel and on the question of public control of electric power. On the question of prohibition he is doubtful. Undoubtedly he obtained the vote of the opponents of prohibition. But anyone who seeks to tamper with the law will have to deal with all Ontario. In the Legislature he must declare himself either for or against the policy advocated by Mr Rowell and accepted by Mr Hearst. We are for that policy to-day and always. The Liberal party in Ontario is for that policy to-day and always. Our attitude is not weakened in the slightest degree by Monday's election or by any speech made before the election.

"Mr Dewart is, of course, entitled to his own opinions. But the Liberal party is not bound or compromised by anything he has said. It is bound in honor to uphold the policy which it urged upon Mr Hearst. If the result of Monday's polling is a reverse for prohibition, it is not a triumph for the Liberal party, nor a discredit to the Liberal party. The Liberal party had no responsibility for the result. It had no candidate in the field. Mr Dewart's views on prohibition, whatever they may be, are his own, not those of the Liberal party."

If, as The Star intimates, the Liberal party was in no degree responsible for the results; that temperance was flatly turned down; and that the anti-prohibition element put Mr Dewart to the fore, then the attitude of South-West Toronto voters is clear — the majority are opposed to the Temperance Act. Is the next step a referendum?

A Dutchman who visits Russia for the first time meets with many surprises and has numerous illusions dispelled, says a Dutch correspondent, who proceeds to point out that "enormous works have been constructed during the past twenty-five years." He mentions railways and seaport improvements. The Russians themselves are kindly, have pleasant manners, are fond of animals, and are noted for their religious tendencies. They have a remarkable love for music and the stage. As for cleanliness, "a good many more baths are taken in Russia than in Holland, and even a laborer indulges in this luxury at least once a week." This from a Dutchman is a compliment indeed.

The arrival of a brigade of Russian soldiers at Saloniki may be taken to indicate that the movement of the Entente Allies against the Bulgarians and their Austrian friends is to be serious. It also suggests that the Turk's European capital will be Russian if the war ends as now seems probable, that there will be no greater Bulgaria as a result of the fighting, that Greece has reached the limits of its continental development, and that the Balkan States will not again have a chance to trouble Europe. They will be Russian satrapies.

The barbers having gone on strike in New York, those citizens who do not care to shave themselves, and whose wives and mothers refuse to cut their hair once a month, might solve the problem by forming a union to let nature take its course. Why shouldn't every chap let his hair and whispers grow without interference? Many male faces would be improved without a doubt if the better part of them were covered with a luxuriant growth. It is to Candidate Hughes's credit that he is setting a good example in the matter of whiskers. As for the head part, many prominent statesmen wear plumes like Henry of Navarre, and are quite proud of them.

Current Comment

The Chicago wheat pit is more scared about Canadian crop conditions than are the Canadian farmers. There is money for the grain bear in creating pessimism.

Last Sunday no fewer than 350,000 persons went to Coney Island and bathed in the ocean. New York is lucky in having this splendid sea beach at its very doors. What is more, the citizens fully appreciate the resort, as the records show.

The Conservative policy is to give votes to the soldiers on active service. The Liberal policy at the Vancouver bye-election was to bring in pluggers from Seattle to vote in the names of the absentee soldiers.—Nelson, B.C., News. Western Liberalism must be at a low ebb.

Writs have been issued for a provincial election in Rupert's Land, where polling will take place on October 20. The constituency is the largest and least populated in Manitoba. There are four candidates, Conservative and Independent Conservative and Liberal and Independent Liberal. If the voters are comparatively few in number they surely have quite a choice of candidates.

It would be a crime, the ghastliest and most murderous crime of the war, no matter what the excuse or what the cause, were General Sir Sam Hughes given a real command of living soldiers in a genuine engagement anywhere on the war's battlefront.—Toronto Globe. With its well-known ranting disposition, the frenzied expressions of the Globe are taken by the public for what they are worth—mere chaff. Someone should see that the Globe man is confined in a place of safety—to himself; a padded cell, for instance.

TORQUAY'S RABBIT-WARREN.

Towns Which Have Literally Gone "Back to the Land."

The Government appeal to us all to grow, as far as possible, what foodstuffs we can, and otherwise provide our own "rations," has already been forestalled by certain towns in the country. Torquay owns a big rabbit-warren and a fine lot of sheep. It brought about two thousand acres some years back far up on Dartmoor, to get water for the town. By chance there was a good rabbit-warren on the land, and Torquay had the sense to keep this going, and one year recently it sold no less than 10,000 rabbits, at an average of sixpence each, from its very own rabbit-farm!

As there was too much grass there, Torquay also began by buying fifty sheep, and now it has quite a yearly income, too, from its sheep-farms on Dartmoor.

Leeds has stocked the splendid lakes at Roundhay Park, and also the big reservoirs at Fewston and Eccup, with fish, so that anglers from the woollen towns can enjoy an excellent day's sport for the sum of one shilling a day.

The city makes quite a nice little sum annually from this source—for what Leeds does not know about making money is certainly not worth knowing.

Edinburgh owns several meadows in the heart of the city. These fields are put to good use. In the spring they are hayfields, the crops selling for very respectable sums, too, each year. After the hay-harvest is over Edinburgh lets out the meadows for other purposes connected with cattle and farming, and adds a bit more to the money thus acquired by the canny Scottish rulers of the town.

Not satisfied with the milk coming in for its sickly children and indigent families, the Corporation of St. Helens some time ago decided to try its hand at providing better milk from municipal sources. So successful was the experiment that St. Helens continued to increase its supply in this way until to-day quite a large business is done in milk by the council.

Tunbridge Wells had the foresight to buy a hop-garden several years back, and from the very first this has been a notable municipal success. The garden extends over eleven acres, and £500 worth of hops were sold from this the first year the town owned the garden.

Twickenham, having much land bought for hospital and sewage-works, with a view to future needs, has at present set out several acres of this for gardening, and nets a nice little sum every year as the proceeds thereof.

Colchester, some years ago, purchased the oyster-fisheries near it which are so famous, and now it proves that a town council can do as big a trade in oysters, and this as successfully as can the wholesale fish-salesman at Billingsgate or Grimsby.

Surely there must be many other towns which could follow these examples with equally happy results?
—London Answers.

Painted in Seventy-two Hours.

There is a picture in this year's show at the Royal Academy which has a singular history. It was painted by an artist who is now a captain on active service, but the picture is not the one which he showed to his friends as this year's contribution. The original was of a sunset over a ploughed field, a fine landscape in a style which has distinguished the artist. Five months ago the painter was home on leave, and he spent it working over his picture. To-day the canvas shows the ploughed field and the sunset; but it also shows six soldiers fallen about a cannon, into the breech of which one survivor is placing the last shell. It is a fine picture, and by no means a pot-boiler. The captain witnessed the incident he depicts. The fortunate thing was that the landscape was ready for the figures—for no Academy picture could be painted during seventy-two hours' leave.

Feats of Beefsteak Champions.

Champion Fried Egg Eater of the Berkshires was the title of Louis Morris of Housatonic, Mass., before he entered into a recent egg-eating contest on a wager. He had a record of twenty-one eggs, and the wager was on his contention that he could easily increase this record to twenty-five. When he reached seventeen eggs he was seized with an attack of acute indigestion, and the doctor worked over him for an hour before he was restored to consciousness and pronounced out of danger. He also has a record for fifty-four ears of green corn.

No Wonder.

In a certain provincial art gallery there is a picture entitled "Saved," representing a large Newfoundland dog standing over a child whom it had rescued from the river.

On market days many people from the country find their way to the picture-gallery, and nearly all admire this life-like painting.

The other day an old country woman stood gazing at it for quite a long time, and as she turned to go, exclaimed:

"No wonder the child fainted, after dragging that big dog out of the water."

Proof.

Two pitmen, members of the Northumberlands, were walking along the streets of Cairo one day when one remarked to his pal:

"Yon's a fine smart chep: yon Canadian."

"Get away, man," replied his mate, "he's no Canadian, he's an Australian."

"Hoo de ye knaa he's an Australian?" asked Geordie.

"Why, canna ye see he's got a kangaroo's feather in his hat?" replied the pal.

LESS SPENT ON CLOTHES.

Fall in Incomes Has Enforced Economy.

In a recent issue of the Manchester Guardian the following interesting discussion is found. It has a bearing on the conditions that are being forced by the high price of wool in that country. The article says:

The need of economy in the use of wool has been strongly emphasized of late, and an appeal has been made to the public to buy fewer clothes. Tailors in Manchester are not able to say that their trade has been affected appreciably by the appeals made quite recently by the War Savings Committee and other bodies, but they do say that since the beginning of the war there has been an enormous reduction in the number of orders for civilian clothes. Much of their loss in this regard has been recovered by trade in officers' uniforms. Although this new business has not been sufficient to restore the balance, it is giving the tailors as much work as they can do with the depleted staffs which recruiting and the Military Service Act have left them. It takes longer now to turn out a suit of clothes than it did in the busiest season before the war. The tailors, therefore, are not despondent.

That people have been spending less on clothes is beyond doubt. A large percentage of the tailors' customers have left civilian life, and therefore ceased to wear civilian clothes. A fall in the incomes of many middle-class families has enforced economy; and the rapid rise in the price of cloth has helped to guide the effort to save in this particular channel. One tailor draws attention to the case of a customer who formerly gave substantial orders at regular intervals, but who since the outbreak of war has bought nothing. The case is an extreme one, but it does not stand alone.

In the cheaper class of clothing trade the condition of things is much the same except that the losses on one set of customers are being mainly recovered from the extra purchases of munition workers, instead of from officers' uniforms. It is said to be a fact that while comparatively well-to-do men are spending less on clothes, some working class families who are doing well out of war work are spending more. This of course is not an unexpected result, and it does not carry any serious reproach against the latter class.

The rich man has usually a more or less extensive wardrobe out of which in a time of scarcity he can pick clothes which require only cleaning and pressing. The workman has no reserve. In normal times he has only just enough, and he cannot be blamed for buying a little extra when times are good for him.

The attempt to make a fashion of shabbiness during the war is not likely to succeed. And it is not necessary. Few people in the past have realized what wonders the cleaner and repairer can effect in a suit which has lost its shape and perhaps even got frayed. There are well organized businesses now which will look after a man's wardrobe by contract, and it is not surprising to learn that this industry has received a stimulus from the war.

Few German Roses.

Our French Allies and ourselves are apparently supreme in the cultivation of the rose. A study of the roses shown at Chelsea indicates that a few have German names, and therefore are probably of German origin. The majority bear English or French names. Russia is apparently not represented, though we are aawre that John Parkinson in 1640 spoke of the rose from Moscovy. This was probably the one seen by John Tradescent the Elder, who in August, 1618, made a voyage round the North Cape to Archangel to the region round the mouth of the Dwina. There he saw at least four or five acres bedecked with roses, which he compared with the cinnamon rose of his own land. He seems to have brought a plant home, for in the catalogue of the Tradescent Garden at South Lambeth there appears Rosa Moscovita. We hear of it as late as 1656, and then there comes a blank. — London Chronicle.

Recognized Her Own.

An offering was taken not long ago, in one of the churches in Scotland, for the Red Cross Society. The people gave cordially of their savings and the session clerk, as usual, took the offering to the bank and remitted by cheque to headquarters. One old woman who kept a small shop, moved by the appeal, had given a keepsake—an old crooked threepenny piece. On the following Tuesday that identical threepenny bit was offered in payment by a schoolboy. It roused her wrath not a little.

The minister happening to call was greeted in such sharp tones that he demanded an explanation. It came with an outburst:

"I gied my siller to the sojers on Sunday, and I saw it gang into the ladle. And yet there it is agane, hantit in tae ma ain shop on Tuesday. I doot the puir sojers has got nane o' the siller."

British Workshop Holidays.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, M.P., in his address to the delegates of the Engineering and Shipbuilders' Federation at Aberdeen, made an amusing reference to an old workshop custom, which has been restored to popular favor. Speaking of extended holidays, he said that in spite of an extra day given this year at Easter, some of the men came back at the time fixed and went off at breakfast time. Others turned up at breakfast time and went away at 11—for another day. They even reverted to the practice which the moulder resorted to when he was in the foundry of throwing the brick. They threw it up to see if it came down. If it came down that was an intimation to them to extend their holiday.

Little Things as an Index.

"Here," said an observer, "was a machine upon which appeared the name plate of the manufacturer, a small and not essential feature. But this plate had been set on true, and then the screws by which it was held in place had all been turned up until the slots in their heads all showed in precisely the same position, alike, uniform.

"Whoever put this plate on made a nice, finished job of it, and I should be inclined to think that a shop that had such pride in even the minor details of its work would do good work throughout."

Discourtesy.

Discourtesy does not spring merely from one bad quality, but from several—from foolish vanity, from ignorance of what is due to others, from indolence, from stupidity, from distraction of thought, from contempt of others, from jealousy.—La Bruyere.

Kiss Producers.

"I wish mistletoe were in season all the time," said he.

"Why?"

"It means kisses."

"Orange blossoms are never out of season," hinted the girl.

Sharks Off Nova Scotia.

Sharks, said to be as large and numerous as those which recently raided the bathing beaches and inlets of New Jersey, are now in the coast waters of Nova Scotia. There has been no boastful reference to the presence of these man-eaters from points in Nova Scotia, but it was learned in Ottawa recently from Parliamentarians that the sharks are there in considerable force, and that they are distributed all along the coast. Old inhabitants who have followed the sea, etc., have offered the explanation that the Gulf Stream has slipped its cable and is now wandering in pastures new, bringing the sharks along.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

"NO 3 SPECIAL SERVICE"

Company is now Organized on a Company Basis.

"The Special Service Company in Military District No. 3 will be attached to the 155th Battalion, entitled Special Service Company near the number of this district—that is, No. 3 Company, attached to 155th Battalion."—District Orders.

The Special Service Company is now established on a definite basis. Owing to the fact that the whole scheme was an experiment at first, it was called a battalion, being directly responsible to headquarters. There are three officers, one of whom takes the dual position of quartermaster and paymaster. Since this is now only a company, special arrangements for the continuance of this plan have had to be made. The attachment to the 155th will eliminate the company drawing rations directly from the Army Service Corps except that special arrangements have also to be made on this point.

It will be an improvement, however, as there are only about 100 men in the unit, and this small body can become more efficient when attached to a larger unit than if it continued to work by itself.

Great credit should be given to Capt. Thorne and officers who have made this the success it is. At Camp Borden, according to reports, there has been no end of trouble when soldiers were "forced" to enlist in this unit. At Barriefield the whole plan is shown to them, and in every case the men have consented to a transfer. At first some objected, but with the prospect of going overseas eventually after complete recovery from their present defeat, they are more than content to carry the work as guards, etc., about the camp.

ANOTHER FOR HASTINGS

Hastings and Prince Edward counties will also have another battalion, and it is believed that this one will be commanded by Major Allen, now junior Major of the 155th Battalion at Barriefield camp. The Major has large business interests in Belleville, is popular with all classes, and all who know him feel confident that his ability will give Belleville and vicinity another good battalion.

NOW WITH 155TH

Captain Ringwood formerly gunnery instructor of the R.S.A., is now adjutant of the 155th Artillery Brigade, and will soon leave for overseas. Both Captain Steacy and Captain Ringwood are now with their brigades in Petawawa camp.

NOTES

Captain McManus lectured to the officers of the 155th last evening.

The staff of the dental corps are working on the men o the 155th Battalion.

Yesterday afternoon 21 men were transferred from the 155th Battalion to No. 3 Special Service Company.

John Brown, the ex-policeman, of New York, spoke in the tent of the 155th Battalion last night to a large and appreciative audience.

Captain Harper, medical officer of the 155th Battalion has returned to camp after a leave of absence which he spent in Madoc.

At a military church service during the South African war some recruits were listening to the chaplain in church saying, "Let them slay the Boers as Joshua smote the Egyptians," when a recruit whispered to a companion: "Say, Bill, the old bloke is a bit off; doesn't he know it was Kitchener who swiped the Egyptians?"

Several farmers from South Bay, Prince Edward County, visited the camp yesterday and watched the 155th Battalion drill during the afternoon.

No. 3 Special Service Battalion has only been attached to the 155th Battalion for pay, and not for discipline, as no authority has been granted for the organization of such a battalion.

Capt. Vermilyea and Lieut. Scott, of the 155th Battalion, will take the next musketry course, beginning at Rockcliffe on Monday next.

Civilians are no longer allowed in the vicinity of the Bayonet Fighting School. Orders have been given to strictly enforce this prohibition.

NORTHERN ONTARIO FIRE RELIEF

The Northern Ontario Fire Relief Committee has opened a clothing receiving station at 40 Melinds street, Toronto, where all donations of clothing will be received, sorted and shipped to the points in the burned areas where most needed. Several merchants have given quantities of slow moving stock in the nature of garments slightly out of syle. They are most acceptable.

In response to an urgent appeal for clothing for families in the neighborhood of New Liskeard who were burnt out in the fires of Wednesday morning all donations of this kind received at the Committee's station in Toronto were shipped north.

These new fires have left hundreds more people without food, clothing or shelter and so much warm apparel will be required by the fire sufferers in all districts as the fall and winter months approach, further donations of this nature are urgently needed. Mr. F. D. Tolchard, Secretary of the Committee, Royal Bank Building, Toronto, will be glad to arrange for free transportation of clothing upon request.

A Japanese Merchant Who Looks to Canada For Increased Trade

The following are extracts from a communication received this week by Col. Ponton, Secretary of the Board of Trade, from a business man who is reaching out for wider trade as a citizen of Japan, one of the staunch allies of Britain. The English is quaint but it serves well as a vehicle of communication for the purpose intended. They have no bilingual troubles in Japan. The circulars enclosed are most interesting.

Kyoto, August, 3, 1916.

First of all, I beg to take liberty of introducing myself of what I am. My firm has been established very old and have had experience for long time of over two hundred years.

As a matter of course, my forefathers were not engaged in Foreign Trade but expending by degrees, at the present period of my generation, I might say to be doing tolerably extensive Foreign Trades.

Stimulated by necessity, the industrial art of our manufacturers has greatly advanced in a comparatively short time, and at present their products are never inferior to those of European market.

Having been long acquainted with your esteemed fame in the business line I herewith beg to have the honour to inform you of my services and shall be glad to enter business connection with your firm.

Since the great war most of the European manufacturers have been absolutely closed up out of the market and as the result, great want of daily necessities have been keenly felt in every market over the world.

Though we are also a member of the alliances, our markets have been camparatively less affected by the war than other fellow countries. Hereby all things from us and here at every kind of orders were thrown upon our factories.

We are now ready for large orders.

When you are in need of something in this class of articles, please do not hesitate to make an inquiry toward us.

Re my financial standing I beg to refer you to the undermentioned bank or to any other bank first class in Japan.

(Sgd.) Cohei Iwataubo.

Oldest Resident Of Prince Edward County Dies

Mrs. Annie Mills, Who Lived to The Great Age of 100 Years, Passes Away

The death occurred at Big Island this week of Mrs. Annie Mills, who lived to the remarkable old age of one hundred years, five months and twenty-seven days.

The late Mrs. Mills was born on Big Island on February 25, 1816. She was the daughter of the late Cornelius and Annie Badgley, who were the first settlers of Big Island. Her entire life was spent within two miles of the home where she was born. On March 17, 1835 she was married to Thomas Mills, who was a local preacher for seventy-five years and held the position of class leader for many years in the Wesleyan Methodist church.

Mrs. Mills was converted in one of the old time revival meetings at the age of fifteen years and was noted through her long life for her strong Christian character.

Of a family of six children, four boys and two girls, three of the boys are still living: E. A. on the old homestead, Big Island; L. E., Shannonville, and T. A. of Latta, Hastings county.

Mrs. Mills retained the use of all her faculties up to the time of her death and enjoyed meeting her old friends and associates with whom she loved to converse. She had been in her usual health until only about an an hour before her death when she passed quietly away without a struggle.

The funeral was held on Tuesday at her residence on Big Island. Services were conducted by Rev. W. Weatherall. Interment in Glenwood Cemetery, where a number of her friends assembled to do honor to one who had passed a long and useful life and was honored and respected by all.

Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Applications for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections or legal sub-divisions of sections and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

Blames Winston Churchill For Freight Rise

British Member Says Government Should Have Commandeered Wheat With Canada

LONDON, Aug. 24.—During debate in the House of Commons last night on the high prices for foodstuffs, Ellis Griffith said that if the British Government, in co-operation with the Canadian Government, had commandeered Manitoba wheat, grain prices here would not now be so much at the mercy of Chicago speculators. A great amount of Australian wheat was, he asserted, held up for the want of ships. He insisted that every farm in the United Kingdom should be under Government control.

Richard Houston, a Liverpool shipowner, contended that while wheat has gone up in price in the last few weeks fully fifty per cent. in Canada and the United States, yet here it had only risen ten per cent. He urged the establishment of national granaries to "save us from fluctuations in prices."

Defending the shipowners, Mr Houston declared that Winston Churchill,, during his tenure of office as First Lord of the Admiralty, was more responsible than anyone for the rise in freights. It was, he said, largely due to Churchill's wasteful use of British shipping.

Secretary Prettyman, replying for the Board of Trade, said the Department was daily negotiating with both producers and sellers, but the prices which they had to consider were applied the world over.

A Western Marching Song.

The war has taken toll of the west; scarcely a rural neighborhood but mourns, or boasts, according to its disposition, its dead on the field of honor.

"Didn't get much more'n half the farm planted this spring," complains one man. "First my son enlisted; then the hired man. War time is a hard time for the farmer, all right."

Another tells you the same story, but tells it as some wear their rue, "with a difference." "Yes, we miss our men, but what we'll lack in crop we'll more than make up in glory. The Kaiser wishes we'd kept 'em home, I bet a cent; he knows by this time what the homestead lads can do when they start in. Sure thing!"

Out in a settlement beside the Saskatchewan Valley we came upon a little company of volunteers in training. The members have not uniforms yet, and there is no band or bugle. They have a marching song.

Wild Animals Were Friendly.

Close to the bodies of eight prospectors found near Matheson after the big fire was the body of a large bear with its paw up as if it had been clawing the air. Nearby a moose was found dead. A prospector who was able to escape from another part tells of a wildcat which came and rubbed up against his legs in friendly fashion and lay down beside him while it rested and took breath.

SPORTING NEWS

BASEBALL.

A CHALLENGE

The College Hill baseball team challenges any junior ball team in the city to a game of ball on Labor Day, Monday, September 4th. The game to be played on the Albert College Campus, in the afternoon of the above date. Answer through the columns of this paper.

Washington do not look to have the goods, and Clark Griffith is busy getting rid of some of his veterans. Walter Johnson still pitches good ball, but does not win as often as he did, and the Senators will be lucky if they finish in the first division.

The once great Philadelphia Athletics are now only a stepping stone for the other teams in the American. Every one of the other seven clubs welcome a series with "Connie" Mack's aggregation, as they generally result in a big upward climb for their opponents.

Brooklyn are going along nicely in the National, although they did drop two in Pittsburg on Saturday. They are a steady if not brilliant lot of players and with a good pitching staff and the leading batter in the league, "Jake" Danbert, are sure to be there or thereabouts at the finish.

Boston Braves are still a good bet, and they are keeping pace with the leaders, even when Evers was out of the game. They are strong all the way through, and have in Manager Stallings a man who is sure to get the results if they are to be had.

New York Giants have been and are still a disappointment. With the addition of Herzog they improved for a few days, but they slid back in the same old rut. "Benny" Kauff, the Federal League king, is not coming up to expectations, and has slumped badly.

Chicago Clubs are on the backward trend, while St. Louis and Cincinnati do not look to have a chance. Pittsburg are not doing so badly, owing to the good work of Mamaux and Cooper and the hitting of the veteran Wagner.

TOLD BY THREE FIGURES.

A Sum In Arithmetic That Would Take Many Lifetimes to Work Out.

What is the highest number that can be expressed with only three figures? Such is the question put by the Journal of the Astronomical Society of England. At first glance it would seem that the number was 999. But it is nothing of the sort; 999 is far away too small. What, then, is the number? 9^{9^9}—that is to say, the ninth power of the ninth power of 9.

To ascertain what this number actually is we must refer to a table of logarithms, for it would take several lifetimes to do the multiplication. The number contains 369,693,100 figures. To write it out we should have to fill 23 volumes of 800 pages each, with 14,000 figures to a page, and the number would be greater than that of all the atoms in creation.

Henri Coupin points out in La Nature that there are stars so distant that their light, traveling at 186,320 miles a second, takes a million years to reach the earth. Astronomers have taken this as a unit and called it a "million light year." The number of atoms in a sphere of platinum that had that radius would be 225, followed by 88 zeros. Now, a sphere that contained the number of atoms expressed by the ninth power of the ninth power of 9 would have to have a radius (in million light years) of 1,239, followed by 123,231,000 zeros.

And yet this colossal number can be expressed by three figures.

Found Dead in Chair.

TORONTO, Aug. 22.—Sitting in a chair in a room at 167½ Richmond street west, a man whose identity is unknown was found dead Sunday morning. The discovery was made by Henry LeBeau, who keeps the rooming house. Le Beau told the police that the dead man had been rooming there for about a week, but that he never volunteered any information regarding himself. Nothing was found in the dead man's effects which gave any clue to his identity beyond a Prudential insurance policy, numbered 39,572,317, which was made out to Mrs Susan J. May, and dated November 8th, 1915. The body was removed to the City Morgue.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

Eggs That Can't Be Found.

The eggs of some common birds of the present day have never been found. There is the robin snipe; its eggs have never been seen. An English zoologist kept a man going up and down the coast of Labrador for weeks purposely to get a robin snipe's egg, but it was in vain. The bird is known by thousands of people, but it breeds so far north and so remote from any civilization that no scientific observer can ever get to its nest ere the young are hatched and have taken to wing. The frigate bird that is so commonly seen at sea on the Pacific and off the West Indies is such a solitary bird and is so seldom seen in its nest during the hours of daylight that its egg is rare.

Will Not Stand For A Patched Up Peace

Times' Military Expert Is Very Optimistic, But It Expects Lengthened War

LONDON, August 25.—The Times' military expert, in an optimistic review of the present military situation, points out his reasons for believing the was is not yet near its end, and discusses the arming of the Allied armies for the campaigns of 1917 and 1918.

"Our superiority in the field," says the writer, "is not yet adequate, hence it does not give us that annihilating preponderance which is necessary for victory. Next spring, having completed our own supplies, we can set to work to arm Russia with a will. We can fit out the armies for 1917 and 1918 which must in the end crush the most frantic efforts of the Central Powers, and, as soon as we can last so long, or longer, if necessary, we can be satisfied with nothing but the complete satisfaction of our demands.

"The Allies will end the war as such formidable military powers and so superabundantly supplied with weapons and material, that failure would be gross negligency on the part of our governments during the peace parleys; Germany will never be able to face a war again in our time.

"Many soldiers firmly believe the politicians will sell out in the end. But this opinion is certainly wrong, for the force of public opinion behind the war is now so strong that the public would think nothing of taking all the members of the government and hanging them in a row if they showed any inclination to throw away at the peace parleys the fruits of our stupendous war efforts."

GIRL LEAPS TO DEATH

Plunges From New York Hospital Window While Delirious With Pneumonia

NEW YORK, Aug. 25— Miss Violet Bishop a pneumonia patient in the Presbyterian Hospital, Madison Avenue and Seventieth Street, leaped from the fourth floor window early yesterday morning and died half an hour later. To get out of the window she climbed over a four foot wire screen.

Miss Bishop, the hospital physician belives was delierous. There was nothing to indicate that she had contemplated suicide. She was 21 years old, the only daughter of Mrs. Emily Bishop, of 2 Caenova Street, Boston, and was a graduate of the Sargent School of physical training. In New York she made her home at the Varick Street House, at 11 Dominick Street, and was employed as an instructor at a playground in Edgowater.

BULGARIAN'S HARD PRESSED BY THE ALLIED TROOPS

British Cavalry Patrols Destroy Bridges Over the Angista — Serbs, Aided by Russians, Advanceto Attack on West End Line—Force Foe Back on Centre

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(Special.)—Official reports from Saloniki say that British cavalry patrols have pushed beyond the Struma on the right flank of Sarrail's army and destroyed three bridges over the Angista, east of Tahinco Lake. This would seem to indicate that the passages of the Struma are still held by the allied forces, and that an attack in this sector may prove ultimately to force the retirement of the Bulgars moving toward the Aegean coast.

The Serbs, aided by the Russians on the western end of the line, are also advancing to the attack. They have succeeded in winning more ground in the neighborhood of Lake Ostrovo, and have halted the Bulgar offensive south of Florina. In the centre of their line they are forcing the enemy back toward the border.

The following statement was issued in Paris:—

"East of Lake Tahinos British cavalry patrols, outmanoeuvring the enemy, have crossed the River Angista and have blown up several bridges.

"In the Struma region there has been somewhat vigorous fighting between the advanced corps of the two armies, and skirmishes have occurred in the Beles Mountains. Towards Lake Doiran and on the right of the Vardar vigorous artillery struggles are in progress. Our troops are organizing the territory conquered in the neighborhood of Liumica.

"On our left wing the Serbian troops have made appreciable progress in the region of Kukuruz. Violent counter-attacks directed by the Bulgarians against our positions northwest of Lake Ostrovo have been repulsed by the Serbians, who have taken several hundred prisoners."

"The towns of Kavala and Drama, which have always been occupied by Greek garrisons, have not been attached by the Bulgarians.

PROMINENT PRESCOTT PEOPLE DROWNED OFF OGDENSBURG

Mrs. Whitley and Micheal Powell The Victims — Motor Boat Exploded—Mrs. Whitley was Wife of Captain Whitley, of 156th Batt.. and Both Were on Their Way West

KINGSTON, Aug. 25. — That Mrs Whitley, a prominent resident of Prescott and wife of Capt. Whitley, quartermaster of the 156th Battalion, at Barriefield camp, and Michael Powell, a well-known and wealthy resident of Prescott, lost their lives when the motor boat owned by the latter burned to the water's edge and sank off Ogdensburg harbor on Wednesday night was admitted late this afternoon by relatives in Prescott, according to a telephone message received in this city.

An investigation carried on with the utmost carefulness brought to light the fact that a watchman at one of the Ogdensburg wharves saw the motor boat on fire on Wednesday well into mid-stream, and plainly heard cries of a man and a woman apparently coming from the boat or from the water in its vicinity. This afternoon the hull of the burned boat was located and raised and identified as that owned by Powell. Reluctantly Prescott friends were compelled to recognize this mute evidence of the disaster, and hope for either of the missing people was given up. Search for their bodies is now proceeding.

The finding of the boat ends the suspense which for the past sixty-five hours possessed the relatives and friends of the unfortunate man and women. It is now known that Mrs Whitley was on her way to visit her husband at Barriefield when the regrettable accident happened. It is thought that something went wrong with the mechanism of the boat, causing an explosion, precipitating such a condition in the boat that the unfortunate occupants were unable to seize anything which would sustain their weight until help could reach them.

Much sympathy is felt for the unfortunates and at Barriefield camp, where Capt. Whitley is a most popular officer and where Mrs Whitley is well known and deservedly popular, extreme sympathy is expressed for the family. Capt. Whitley left last night for the east and was accompanied by a number of friends.

CATCH A 7-FOOT SHARK

Man-Eater Landed After Fierce Fight at Ziegler Estate

STAMFORD, Conn. Aug. 24 —William Ziegler, jr., of Great Island, Noroton, has a seven foot man-eating shark that was caught this afternoon off the bathing beach at his estate. It was one of the school of twelve which has broken many shark hook and has shed 45-calibre bullets which were fired at it by Mr. Ziegler and his employees.

Joesph Crane, Mr. Ziegler's stable manager, yesterday had a hook made of horseshoe iron, and last night he baited it with a number of blackfish. A seven foot shark swallowed the bait and tried to run off with the rope and chain. The shark was brought ashore after an hour's fight. Just as the Ziegler employes were landing it the heavy steel hook straightened out, slipping out of the shark's mouth. The shark however, was almost exhausted and Crane jumped into the water and caught it by the tail. He held on while the other employes pulled him and the shark out of the water, and killed it with an anchor.

PRESIDENT CALLS RAILWAYMEN TO THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—President Wilson summoned representatives of the employers and employees involved in the threatened railroad strike, to the White House to-day for conferences to discuss proposals which have developed out of his original plan of settlement.

Arrangements were made for the representatives of employees to see the President first and for the representatives of the employers later.

The four brotherhood leaders said on entering the White House they did not know why they had been called by the President. It was understood President Wilson wanted to get their views on legislation under consideration to prevent such a controversy in the future.

Would Stop Money Fight In Election

One U. S. Senator Says Million Dollars Was Spent to Elect President Wilson

WASHINGTON, August 25.—Accusations flew thick and fast in the Senate today when Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, asked unanimous consent to take up the Corrupt Practices Bill after the passage of the Revenue Bill. Senator Smoot, of Utah, acting for the Republican steering committee, objected. Senator Owen then proceeded to describe the Corrupt Practices Bill, and in doing so made statements that were resented by the Republicans.

Mr. Owen said he had introduced the bill on the first day of the session, and it was now on the calendar as substitute for a similar bill passed by the House. The bill limits the total amount to be expended by national campaign committees to $400,000, and individual contributions to $5,000, prohibits the buying of votes by direct or indirect means, forbids all contributions by corporations for political purposes, and imposes heavy penalties for violations of the law. The general purpose of the measure is to strengthen the present law, which is regarded as being very defective in its limitations on the use of money in elections.

Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, interrupted Senator Owen to ask if the Oklahoma senator's anxiety to pass the bill was due to conditions of corruption in Oklahoma, which he had been told were the most corrupt in the country. In reply, Mr. Owen said that the Lumber Trust had spent $40,000 in his state to defeat him for re-election because he had voted to unseat former Senator Lorimer, of Illinois.

Senator Saulsbury, of Delaware, asserted that some years ago $50,000 was spent in Delaware the night before election to influence voters. The Delaware senator said this money was spent by a Republican candidate for the Senate. This brought from Senator Penrose that he had heard that a million dollars was spent to elect President Wilson.

At this, Senator O'Gorman, of New York, asked if the amount spent to elect President McKinley in 1898, was not $9,500,000. Senator Owen said that it was this rivalry between the two parties in making enormous campaign funds to buy elections that he desired to stop.

BRANTFORD'S MAYOR WOULD BANISH NOISE

Starts Campaign to Enforce By-Laws Against Whistles and Bells

BRANTFORD, Aug. 25.—Factories will have to stop blowing their whistles. No bells shall ring, horns be blown or unnecessary or unusual noises be made in the city of Brantford if Mayor Bowlby carries out a campaign for the upholding of the law which he now has in mind. All the above things are contrary to city by-laws, and it is the chief magistrate's wish that they cease. Factory men state that the custom has always been in vogue here and that a large number of workmen depend entirely on the whistles to keep in touch with starting and quitting time.

MORE ADVANCES MADE BY HAIG'S GREAT DRIVE

British, by Strong Attack, Drive Their Front Forward Several Hundred Yards on Both Sides of Guillemont-Flers Road Bringing it Up Even With French Gains at Maurepas

LONDON, Aug. 26.— Special— A new success was won by the British army during the night on the Somme front. By a strong attack in the Guillemont sector they advanced their front several hundred yards on both sides of the Guillemont-Flers road, bringing it on even terms with the French advance through Maurepas. The German salient which was left at the point where the British and French fronts join was flattened out, and several hundred prisoners taken In addition, to the north the British extended their trench progress along the Leipzic talient, taking an additional 300 yards of strongly defended positions.

Meanwhile, the French, by strong artillery fire, were repulsing German counter-attacks south of Maurepas, especially in the region of Hill No 121. This height is now completely in the hands of the French troops.

Military experts attach great importance to the capture of Maurepas by the French. Not only does it put into their hands one of the principal supporting points of the German front between the Somme and the Albert-Bapaume highroad, but it brings their advance within two miles of Combles, which powerfully fortified town they are steadily flanking.

Quiet Week Spent in The Canadian Zone

Small Raid of German Trenches, Dummy Attack, Visit by Sir Sam Chief Events

OTTAWA, August 25.—The following communication has been received from the Canadian general representative at the front:

Canadian Army Headquarters in France, via London, August 24. — There were few outstanding features to the trench warfare of the past week. The bright moonlight interfered with the activity of our patrols.

One night, after a preliminary bombardment, a small party from the Royal Canadian Regiment, under Lieutenant Bole, approached the German trenches, but, finding that the enemy was alert, our party threw bombs among the garrison and returned to their own trenches with the loss of only one man.

Upon another occasion a dummy raid in co-operation with the artillery was successfully carried out by a Toronto battalion. The enemy were led to believe that a raid was about to take place and when they had manned their trenches in expectation of the attack, our guns and trench mortars opened upon them a short but destructive bombardment.

During the week a visit was paid to the Canadian corps by Major-General Sir Sam Hughes. He addressed a number of the battalions on parade and visited the various points of interest within the corps' area..

Thrilling Rescue By Montreal Man

Mr. A. Demott Dives Into River and Saves Handkerchief Dropped by Bride

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Spectators watching the docking of the Hudson Navigation Company's steamboat Berkshire at pier 32, North River, today were treated to a thrilling rescue. They say Alfred Demott, a passenger, leap overboard and save——a sinking handkerchief.

The handkerchief belonged to his day-old bride, but what made it even more valuable was the fact that knotted in one end was a diamond engagement ring. The ring had been too large for her solitaire finger, so she had worn it on her handkerchief.

The young woman, who was Miss Underwood, of Albany, was married to Mr. Demott, a druggist, of Montreal, on Wednesday at Grace church at Albany, and then they fled from their friends for a honeymoon at Suffolk Downs, Long Island.

Coming into the slip, Mrs. Demott waved her handkerchief so enthusiastically at the crowd on the pier that the piece of linen flew from her hand. Mrs. Demott gave a horrified gasp, but her husband heroically vaulted over the rail and grabbed the handkerchief just as it was going down for the last time. His efforts to keep the handkerchief afloat exhausted him so much that he had to be towed ashore by a boatman.

Bremen Taken Says a Rumor

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. — The New York City News Association quotes "An officer of the British merchant marine," who arrived here to-day aboard the White Star steamship Baltic, as authority for the statement that the German submarine Bremen has been captured by the British and 33 of her crew of 35 made prisoners of war. The Bremen, according to the account, was captured in the Straits of Dover in a steel net on August 2. The other two members of the Bremen's crew lost their lives.

The Bremen, it was said, while enmeshed in the net, was sighted by a British patrol boat, her stern under water and her bow high above the surface. After endeavoring for a time to extricate the wreck from the net, the patrol boat steamed away for Dover with her prisoners.

According to the efficer quoted the British Government has maintained silence in regard to the capture, as another German transatlantic submarine, the Amerika, was said to be on her way here, and it was hoped to capture her also.

HUNDREDS OF DEAD FISH IN MOIRA RIVER

In the vicinity of the C.N.R. and C.P.R. bridges, which spans the mouth of the Moira river, there are hundreds of dead fish floating upon the water, and their removal should be accomplished at once, as they are certainly not conducive to health. The general impression is that the pollution of the water coming down the river is responsible for the death of the fish. There are various kinds, namely suckers, mullets, rock fish, perch and even a few bass. This is certainly a matter which should be investigated by the proper authorities, and if refuse is being placed in the river at Corbyville, where it is alleged, it is, it should be stopped at once.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS HONOR THE CAMP

Spent Large Portion of Thursday on Barriefield Grounds,—Expressed Delight at Conditions.

(Kingston Standard)

Thursday afternoon, Barriefield camp was honored with a visit from Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and party of friends from Belleville. Hale, hearty, full of vigor, with a proud erect head held as straight on a pair of shoulders as that of any soldier in camp, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, went in and out of the lines and places of interest in camp yesterday afternoon for four hours, and was immensely pleased with everything he saw. In the party with Sir Mackenzie were J. W. Johnston, M.P.P.; Mayor Ketcheson, of Belleville; W. C. Mikel, K.C.; G. A. Bennett, and C. N. Sulman. Sir Mackenzie is in his 93rd year, a fact that no stranger would ever suspect. In 1892 Sir Mackenzie was Minister of Militia. He is a Fenian Raid Veteran, and honorary colonel of the 49th regiment, including the 155th Battalion C.E.F. When Sir Frederick Borden was Minister of Militia, he conferred on the old knight an honorary colonelcy, who finds pleasure among soldiers, especially since the present war began.

Mr. Johnston was four times Mayor of Belleville, and Mr. Sulman three times the chief magistrate of his home city. Sir Mackenzie thought that he would like to visit Barriefield, so the party was hastily organized, and motored to the camp in the fine car of G. A. Bennett.

LUNCHEON WITH THE 155TH

Sir Mackenzie Bowell and party were the guests of the officers of the 155th Battalion to lunch, and it was one of the most pleasant luncheons the officers have enjoyed since coming to Barriefield. The Standard was added to the number, and with their usual generous and hospitable spirit, the officers of the 155th made every guest feel at home. During the lunch the fine band of the 155th discoursed a most delightful program of music which won well deserved applause from guest and officer. Following the program, Lt.-Col. Adams rose and said:—"Officers of the 155th Battalion, I know that our time at this lunch table is very limited, but I think that we have time to listen to some of the guests we have with us today. We are peculiarly honored in having with us Sir Mackenzie Bowell and a party from Belleville, and I am sure that you want to hear something from them. I therefore have much pleasure in introducing to you Sir Mackenzie, who I am sure will take this opportunity, on his first visit to the camp to say something of interest to you all."

Sir Mackenzie Bowell.

The old Knight on rising to speak received a splendid ovation from the officers of the 155th and said:—"Col Adams and officers of the 155th Battalion, I am pleased to be with you in your camp to-day. Ever since you came here I have contemplated this pleasure, and now it is mine, I want to assure you that I appreciate this great privilege. Canada, as a part of the Empire has done nobly in this great war. I have no sympathy with those who seek to separate Canada in her great work from the Empire as a whole. When I was Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Dominion Government, I visited Australia, and there they referred to me as "an uncompromising Imperialist." But I am an Imperialist of that type that believes in the Empire being one, and when we speak of our accomplishments, it must be in the language which means the whole. The marvelous achievements of our troops on the battle front elicit the unstinted praise of all, and I am confident that when you men get a chance to face the enemy, you will be no less brave, no less efficient, than those who have preceded you. In our own county, and in the adjoining county of Prince Edward, we have contributed men of which we are justly proud, and we still believe it possible to give more to the cause that we are anxious to see victorious.

J. W. Johnston, M.P.P. for W. Hastings, Mayor Ketcheson and W. C. Mikel, K.C., also spoke briefly, referring in an eloquent manner to the accomplishment of the Canadian troops in France and Flanders.

Dr. J. G. Evans, the Military Editor of The Standard, was the last speaker.

At the Bayonet Fighting School

Sir Mackenzie and party then visited the Bayonet Fighting School and were received by Lieut. Bews who took pains to explain the work of the school to all the visitors. Sir Mackenzie's eyes fairly flashed as he saw the fine vigorous types of Canadians using the bayonets on dummies, and burying the cold steel deeply into models made for the purpose.

Bombing and Trenching School

The next place visited was the Bombing and Trenching School where Captain Sharpe received the visitors and took them through this interesting part of the camp. The hand grenade and bomb were explained, and a rifle grenade thrown from a rifle to allow the party to see its effects. All were amused at the school when they heard Sir Mackenzie refuse a plank across the trench, declaring that any young fellow could jump across without any such aid, and this young fellow certainly did.

In the absence of Brig-General Hemming, Colonel Ogilvie received Sir Mackenzie and party, and they all met Lt.-Col. Brown, G.S.O., Lt.-Col. Wilson, D.A.A., Q.M.G., Captain Wilson, A.D.D.S., Captain Richardson, D.A.D.M.S., Captain Turner, paymaster, and others. Then the party visited Lt.-Col. Barragar and the Infantry School of Infantry, and at five o'clock left the camp. Although this remarkable man of 93 years walked the camp for four hours he made no complaint of being tired, and gave no evidences of it. Barriefield camp will long remember the visit of Sir Mackenzie Bowell and his party, and express the hope that they will come again.

NOTES

The 154th Battalion returned to camp early this morning from Cornwall where they received their colors yesterday afternoon.

Major Newman of the 155th Battalion has returned to camp after a visit to Ottawa and other points.

Lieut. Dugle of the 156th Battalion, has been granted a certificate of qualification in machine gunnery.

Successful Students At St Agnes School

In the recent matriculation examinations three pupils Esmee Aylmer, Isabel Benjamin, and Jean Hamilton were candidates. They all passed with honors in English, and Jean Hamilton, honors in French as well.

This shows that, although small last year, the work done was equal to that of any other school in the Province. Did any other school pass 100 per cent. of its candidates?

The school reopens this year under new auspices, the Advisory Board being composed of some of Belleville's best known and most influential citizens, viz. The Honourable Senator Corby, His Honor Judge Wills, Mayor Ketcheson and J. Elliott, Esq. With the interest and support of these gentlemen, increased success and prosperity is assured.

Several new, highly-qualified teachers have been chosen, and the prospects for the coming year are bright. Belleville people do not appreciate the value of such a school in their midst, or the day school would be larger.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

EDWARD BREESE IN THE SONG OF THE WAGE SLAVE

This pleasing Photodrama, full of action, was witnessed by a large audience at Griffin's last night, and while of a different cast from films of recent local presentation, was nevertheless well received. It had to do with the working element, suppressed by an iron hand, and, once aroused there was ample trouble. The sacrifices experienced by Ed Breese, characterizing Ned Lane, the labor leader, were very thrilling, giving his life as he did for the woman he loved. But his work had its effect for good, in that the once grasping head of a big industry, partially through the instrumentality of his wife, was brought to see his selfishness, seeking thereafter to uplift rather than downtread his subordinates. There was much to learn in the drama, and Breese, with his co-acters did their work well. One of the most exasperatingly funny sketches was a Lonesome Luke comedy, depicting scenes in a photographic gallery, which were extremely amusing. There were also other attractions which made the programme worth while. See it repeated in full this evening.

THE GOLDEN CHANCE AT GRIFFIN'S MONDAY

Widley known to motion picture devotees throughout the country. Cleo Ridgley and Wallace Reid, both of whom frequently have appeared in the principal supporting roles of famous stars will make their first appearance as co-stars in the Lasky Feature Play Company production, "The Golden Chance" which will be presented at Griffin's Opera House on Monday and Tuesday evening. This is a play of modern life in its various shades written by Jeanie MacPherson and produced by Cecil B. Demille.

Both Miss Ridgley and Mr. Reid for some time have been members of the Lasky organization and have won great popularity in the Paramount Theatres. Miss Ridgley's last appearance and most notable one was the title role of the Lasky picturization of the famous stage success "The Chorus Lady." Mr. Reid appeared in this production, but his chief claim of popularity has been by reason or his remarkable performance as Dan Jose in support of Geraldine Farrar in the Lasky production of "Carmen."

In "The Golden Chance" these two exceptional artists will be seen to the best advantage. Miss Ridgley as a poor seamstress suddenly confronted with an opportunity to enjoy for a brief period the luxuries of life and to forget her own poverty jumps at the chance. Cinderella like she meets a rich prince, Wallace Ried who falls in love with her. Circumstances compel the seamstress to hide her real identity and refuse her golden chance. Subsequently, however, these complications are overcome after a series of exciting and dramatic situations and the audience is given to believe that all ends happily.

In addition to the above five part part offering the 17th episode of the popular Iron Claw series will be presented, the title of the this episode is, The Green eyed Monster & another of those popular comedy Bray Cartoons are also announced for presentation.

Mr. W. C. Mikel Replies to Globe

Lays The Blame For Laxity in Recruiting Where it Belongs

The Toronto Globe of Wednesday, August 23rd, contained a letter from Mr W. C. Mikel, K.C., of this city, showing clearly that the blame for the poor showing made in Quebec in recruiting is in the Liberal leaders, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Lomer Gouin, that the principles advocated by Bourassa were those advocated by the Liberals in Quebec. We give Mr Mikel's letter below, and commend it to our readers

To the Editor of The Globe: Your editorial columns have contained a number of unfair attacks on the Conservative Government since the war, notwithstanding the Liberal party's pretended war truce, but your recent editorial, "Canada's Call for Men," is the limit of unfairness. In it you blame the Conservative Government and also the Roman Catholic Church for the unsatisfactory recruiting result in the Province of Quebec.

The two most influential men in the Province of Quebec, the two men who have to the greatest degree the confidence of the people of that Province, are the two Liberal leaders, the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Hon. Sir Lomer Gouin. No two men have enjoyed more prosperity in this country than they. Few have been so highly honored by the King. These men openly pretend to believe that Canada ought to take part in this war. What have they done? An announcement was made in the public press a few days ago that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had spoken seven times in Quebec Province since the war—seven times in over one hundred weeks. Sir Mackenzie Bowell, twenty years his senior, has done better than that. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has spoken oftener than that in the House since the war. We have not heard of Sir Lomer Gouin making recruiting speeches in Quebec at all, though he has found time to make many political speeches. It is politics first with these gentlemen. Many men would hestitate to retain a title from the King and serve him so poorly.

Is it any wonder that Quebec has men of the type of Bourassa, Lavergne and their followers when the great Liberal leaders of the Province act on the motto (political) "safety first."

Bourassa in an article in Le Devoir of the 9th of January last openly says that the doctrines he advocates were taught him in the school of the Liberal party under the direction of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and he cites the following among other instances in support of this assertion:—

In 1890 Laurier took the ground that "never would Canada take part in the wars of England."

In 1896 Laurier attacked the Conservative Administration for its military preparations, and the Liberal doctrine in Quebec at that time was "why should we fight for England? They consider you good to serve as cannon flesh. They will send your children to Africa, to Asia, whence they will never return. Vote for Laurier and his candidates if you want to see your country enjoy tranquility and do not wish to expose yourself to be called one of these mornings for other countries, leaving behind you your wives, your children, and all that is dear to you."

Laurier and the Liberal party have sown the poisoned seed, and it ill becomes the Globe to blame the Conservative Government or the Roman Catholic Church for the harvest.

Pte. Thomas E. Dawns Saw Kitchener Downs For First Time

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—When Pte. Thomas E. Downs arrived at the Military Convalescent Hospital on College street yesterday, having been invalided home from Salonica, his wife presented him with a little chubby bundle of humanity named Kitchener Downs, and that was the first the father had seen of Kitchener and that was the first Kitchener had seen of his father. It was a happy meeting, even though Kitchener gave expression to his pleasure only by waving his pink little fists and striking out with his fat little legs. But the father took the child to him and tears coursed from his eyes as he kissed and fondled him.

Opposition To Third Track

Ontario Government Expected to Turn Down The Promoters From Windsor

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—Provincial Treasurer T. W. McGarry stated yesterday that representatives of the promoters would wait on him to-day from Windsor with a request to license a third race course that it is proposed to build near that city. In view of the fact that many objections have been received from citizens to establishing a third track, it is understood that the Government will most likely be opposed to granting the permission.

The original track in Windsor has been in existence for more than a quarter of a century, and was itself quite sufficient for the needs of the district. The second, however, is now near completion, and its proprietors are making it a substantial institution on 137 acres of their own land, so that there is little local objection to this addition. It is to be operated under the amended charter of the Northern Riding and Driving Association, issued to Mr. R. R. Gamey, M.L.A., some years ago, incorporated with a capital of $1,500 to promote races at Gore Bay on the Manitoulin Island, and the name of Mr. Gamey appears as president of the meeting to be opened a week from to-day.

The third promotion is a bit of a mystery to Windsor people, who see some lumber dumped on leased land just across the road from Mr. Gamey's track. The promoters are understood to be Montreal people, who have been conducting the syndicate betting ring in connection with the Mount Royal track, but announcement was sent out from that city a few days ago that "Charlie" Henshall, the manager and founder of that track, was not connected with the Windsor scheme. Efforts were made recently by promoters, none of whom are residents of Ontario, or even Canadians, to purchase a charter held by a Windsor man, Ed Glassco, which further increased the mystery that operations in the building line should be begun without the backing of authority to operate.

In this connection the Minister of Jusice, Hon. Mr. Doherty, was quoted the other day as declaring that there was an essential difference between charters which simply constituted a joint stock company and those which carried with them also the legal right to operate under the provisions of the Miller Bill and its amendments.

New Inspectors Being Chosen

License Board Will Recommend Fifty Men to The Provincial Secretary

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—Having picked out about fifty of the best of the present large staff of license inspectors in the Province, the Ontario License Board is now busy meeting the men personally, explaining the work to be done, the salary residence, etc., decided upon. The board is calling in a few of the inspectors each day.

One of the requirements of the board is that the inspector named shall be prepared to give his whole time to the work. He must also be ready to move to a central point in his county in order to be more closely in touch with conditions. The board has arranged a salary list, with salaries ranging from $800 to $1,800 a year. Only a few men—those stationed in small counties where the work will be light—will receive under $1,000, the average being about $1,200. In the districts and in big counties where the inspectors would have to be continually on the go, the $1,800 will be paid. In addition to their salaries the men will be allowed their actual sworn expenses. Under the old system a certain amount was allowed for salary and another amount for expenses—a plan that did not encourage the inspector to spend much in moving around his district.

The plans of the board call for a decided reduction in the number of inspectors. At present except in the cities, there is an inspector to a riding.

For the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act, there will be but one inspector to a county, except in the large cities, which need their own inspector. This means that in some counties there will be only a single inspector where there are now employed. The new inspectors, giving all their time to the work will, of course, be able to cover the ground better than the majority of them can do now with salaries that permit them to spend only a portion of the time "inspecting."

Colors Were Presented to 154th Battalion

Cornwall En Fete When Gifts Made to Soldiers Who Paid Their Own Fare For Event

CORNWALL, Ont., Aug. 25.—The presentation of colors to the 154th overseas Battalion, known as "The Counties Own," took place on the Cornwall lacrosse grounds yesterday afternoon, being witnessed by an immense throng, representations being present from every village and hamlet in the counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

The presentation was made by Miss Una Stewart, regent of St. Lawrence Chapter, I.O.D.E., through the instrumentality of which the colors were produced, assisted by Misses Daphne Duquette and Lillian Phillips. Mrs. John McMartin, regent of Longe Sault Chapter, I.O.D.E., presented a handsome flag to the Highland pipe band. Lieuts. Prendergast and Morrison carried the colors and Lieut. J. R. MacDonald accepted the flag for the band. Rev. H. C. Sutherland, moderator of the Presbytery of Glengarry, conducted the consecration service, which was held on an altar made of the battalion's drums. In a capital address Miss Stewart presented the colors to Col. MacDonald, O.C. of the battalion, who acknowledged the thoughtfulness of the young ladies in an eloquent speech. He also spoke of the magnificent gift of Mrs. John McMartin of the flag for the pipe band. This was a splendid completion of equipment for the band, Mr. McMartin having contributed the entire cost of the kilts and pipes some time ago.

Other speakers were General Hemming, O.C., Military District No. 3; Lieut.-Col. C. G. Williams, of Kingston, chief recruiting officer of the Dominion; Hon. Andrew Broder, M.P. for Dundas; Dr. D. O. Alguire, M.P. for Stormont; Hugh Munro, M.P. for Glengarry.

It is estimated that close on 9,000 people were in town for the occasion, but many were unable to witness the ceremonies to advantage.

The soldiers paid their own railway fare to come to Cornwall for the presentation. The singing of the National Anthem and three cheers for General Hemming and the Regent and members of St. Lawrence Chapter closed the ceremony. The soldiers then marched uptown and saluted Genearl Hemming and his staff at the Post Office and then proceeded to St. Lawrence Park, returning to Kingston at 3 p.m.

Wives Should Stay in Canada

Women Who Went Across to be Near Soldier Husbands Now Without Proper Support

OTTAWA, Aug. 25.—Word has been received here from people engaged in relief work in London and elsewhere in England that a number of wives of Canadian soldiers now fighting in France are suffering distress because of lack of means of support. In a number of cases the wives of Canadian soldiers left for England without notifying the military authorities, and they as a consequence are now without their separation allowances. The wives of officers who have gone to England usually know how to look after themselves, but many of the wives of Canadian soldiers who are stranded in London are totally ignorant of what to do. The Soldiers' and Sailor's Families' Association have given aid in some cases. The military authorities here state that it is most unwise for the wives of soldiers to think of going to England unless they have private means of support.

THIS IS THE 683RD DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

THE BALKAN CONFLICT.

It begins to appear that the conflict along the Balkan front was not of the Allies' initiation, whatever may be the outcome. The Bulgarians and whatever other troops are with them undertook to anticipate the drive by striking before it was fully ready. The drive had been so long looked for that when the announcement was made on Aug. 19, "the Allied forces are in contact with the Germans and Bulgarians along the entire Saloniki front," it was taken for granted that this was the drive. That announcement, however, was delayed until the news dribbling out from German sources made it impossible to keep it any longer. Even then the fact that the Russians and Italians were in the Balkans was not hinted at, though they had arrived three weeks before. The Bulgarians seem to have forced the fighting and to have bent back the flanks of the Allies, though they are straightening out now.

All this was done to forestall the drive. The presence of the Russians and Italians was probably known to their enemies, and no doubt they expected more to arrive. The purpose of the Bulgarian attack, for such it plainly was, was like that of every other military operation undertaken in the Balkans — as much political as military. The long delay in beginning the drive was political, the combining of all the principal Allies in it was political, the Bulgarian attempt to hurry it up was political. There is no military reason why troops from each of five nations should join in the drive, but the chief political reason is evident, and we may suspect others. Whatever the agreement between the Allies for the division of Balkan territory, no one and no two of them must reoccupy Serbia or crush Bulgaria. The other political reasons, the ones we can as yet only guess at, lie behind the negotiations at Bucharest—and perhaps at Sofia. The long delay, the inactivity on the Balkan front while there was activity on all the others, was surely political and probably for purposes explained in Bucharest. The attempt to break up this inactivity and end this delay was to block the moves in the game, and hence we see the singular spectacle of the Teutons and Bulgars hurrying up an atack upon themselves by a forehanded dash at their foes.

A HOT PLACE IN STORE.

A famous Irish alienist of Belfast, Dr William Graham by name, declares that the war, instead of increasing insanity, as many persons claim, has a tendency to lessen the evil. This is in harmony with a variety of theories which have been advanced to the effect that the raging conflict really is of vast benefit to humanity. Certain clergymen of various denominations have preached that men are being made holier by the war, and that all the bloodshed will make for friendlier relations between nations, excepting that the enemy lands must be hated more than ever, as they deserve, for many years to come. It is Christianity's battle, they insist, and believers will be more than ever confirmed in their faith, while the doubters will have all their doubts removed and be drawn into the fold.

The force of this argument is hurt somewhat by the fact that the speakers for Christianity and humanity in Germany are shouting from their pulpits that the German nation and its allies are fighting for the right, and with the Lord's assistance. Which is admitted elsewhere to be rank blasphemy. It is hyprocrisy without a doubt. Economists, not all, of course, are also pretending that the struggle, with its wreckage and restrictions, is materially benefitting the nations they speak for. If all these men, who argue the way they like to see, are right, then the war lords who planned the upheaval should be exalted instead of being denounced. They should get iron crosses instead of condemnation.

The experts may talk along whatever odd lines they like, but they will never convince the generality of mankind on this war question. The view of the majority everywhere is that the highly cultured gentlemen of Europe who brought the slaughter about are the world's worst enemies. The ordinary man's belief is that they have worked physical, mental and moral harm that it will take the world a long time to recover from.

Pulpit orators, Christian workers, alienists and scientists may vary in opinion as to the future state of participants in the present European conflict; but the writer's views are, and he challenges contradiction, that the fellow who initiated the murderous contention, and caused untold suffering in Belgium, France and the Balkans, will find a place awaiting him with a flame seven times hotter than the fiery furnace into which Shadrack, Mecback and Abednego were cast, and the form of the Fourth will not be there to comfort or extricate him.

Montreal Gazette: If Mr Courtland Penfield, the United States ambassador to Austria-Hungary, said, as reported in a Vienna newspaper, that the Monarchy would emerge from the war without loss of territory, he must have had in contemplation a deadlock in the field. The Entente Allies express confidence in the outcome of the fighting, and if, as they with reason expect, the enemy's defeat is decisive, there will be big changes in the maps. Russia intends to have Turkish and Austro-Hungarian territory, and France and Great Britain hope to hoist their flags in some spots over which the Prussian eagle now soars. The status of Egypt has already changed and Persia is being placed out of reach of the enemy's control. The extent of the geographical alterations depends on the extent of the victory.

There are still instances of things inhuman being done in other parts of the world than those which are done in Belgium by those whom we now designate Huns, suggests the Stratford Beacon. At Newberry, Florida, a mob recently hanged four negroes, two of whom were women. They were accused of aiding the escape of another negro, who was wanted for shooting a white man. The many instances in which the victims of lynching have afterwards been shown to be innocent shows how unsafe that method of trial and execution is, but the deep-seated prejudice in the south against the colored race distorts the judgment of the white people there and tolerates a custom which may justly be considered barbarous and almost on a par with what has been done in Belgium.

London Chronicle: Those who believe printing to have been invented in Europe during the 15th century may have been surprised to read of Cambridge University having acquired "the works of the Chinese philosopher, Liu Tsung Tuan, printed in 1167." China has been credited with anticipating not a few modern inventions, but her claim to have discovered the art of printing centuries before its first adoption in Europe is beyond dispute. An edition of most of the Chinese classics was printed by means of wood blocks in A.D. 922, and movable type is said to have been devised by a blacksmith, Pi Shing, in the eleventh century.

Brantford Courier: In the recent Toronto contest we had the spectacle of Dewart, the Grit standard-bearer, openly side-stepping Rowell's pet scheme, the "abolition of the bar"—a very clear evidence of the fact that he does not give a rap for the views of his supposed leader. That he will aim to supplant Rowell in the job is quite generally thought. He is not the man to take orders from a chief whose main plank he has ignored and thereby won success. Look where they will, the Grits of Ontario and of the Dominion are out of leadership material and they know it.

PAINFUL SWOLLEN VEINS
Quickly Relieved and Reduced

Mrs. R. M. Remler of Federal, Kansas writes an interesting account of her success in reducing a severe case of enlarged veins that should be encouraging to others similarly afflicted. She suffered with badly swollen and inflamed veins (in fact one had broken), for more than seven years before she became acquainted with Absorbine Jr., and used it. Absorbine, Jr., was faithfully applied for several weeks and, to quote from her letter. "The large knots in the veins left, it was all nicely healed, and has not bothered me since."

Absorbine, Jr., is an antiseptic liniment—healing cooling and soothing. Safe and pleasant to use. $1.00 and $2.00 at your druggist's or postpaid. Liberal trial bottle postpaid for 10c. in stamps. W. F. Young, P.D.F., 457 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Can.

At Verdun in over five months, the Germans have occupied 120 square mile of territory, pierced a twelve-mile front to a depth of five miles, and have captured two of the nineteen permanent positions of the enemy. To do this they have lost 500,000 men. They have attained none of their objectives.

The Toronto Weekly Sun, ar organ of agriculture, assumes that under the new scheme of registration recruiting officers will be kept off the farms of Ontario. That the World is built only for right-handed people is the sad plaint of left-handed gentlemen who have been gathering data on the subject according to the Fall River News. We don't believe a word of it. When Israel, once upon a time, was in deep trouble, and surrounded by invaders, the Lord raised up a left-handed man who whaled the enemy clear of the country. And no one but a left-handed man could have accomplished the job. Right-handed men forsooth! Why, the writer of this comment is left-handed and he—enough said.

Increased Business With Russia

Canada's neighbors as well as other neutral countries are watching very carefully the trend of their exports, and they are giving particular attention to making a permanent line of articles now being handled for war purposes. For instance, Russia is taking from the United States a large quantity of steel rails for military purposes but which it is anticipated will still be in request for expansion which is looked for in that country following the peace settlement. Canada is participating in the increased export business to Russia, but not to so great an extent as the United States. The latter's exports for the fiscal year ended June 30 last are estimated as being ten times greater than for the year ending June 30, 1914, whereas Canada's are less than four times greater within the same period.

HER CROSS

A cry went forth for men, for men;
A mother looked at her son, and then,
"O God, must I lose him, must he go?"
Then bending her head, she murmured low—
"Is this my cross?"

A cry went forth, 'To arms! To arms!'
And men flocked in from cities and farms,
Her boy was eager, yes, anxious to go;
So bending her head, she murmured low,—
"Is this my cross?"

The cry went forth to charge, to charge,
Her boy was wounded, the list was large;
And waiting home for news was slow;
She bent her head and murmured low,—
"Is this my cross?"

The message came. "He's dead, he's dead."
Nor was this all the message said,
They sent his cap, his cross, his sword
The mother dazed, sobbed out, "O Lord,
This is my cross."

The next thought came, "'Tis proud, 'tis proud,
To have a son whose name is loud
And widely sung o'er land and sea,
'Tis glad, not sad, that I should be,
At this, my cross."

LADY DRUMMOND'S WORK.

Her Efforts for the Soldiers Have Aroused Wide Admiration.

In a recent letter to The Toronto Globe from London the following tribute was paid to Lady Drummond's work, which brings to all who come in contact with her the marvellous never-failing inspiration that life means service and the spending of self.

Lady Drummond's method of fulfilling tasks undertaken attracts not cold admiration, but warm, devoted love. Canada should know that from her has come one who, amongst the women gathered here from diverse countries for the work of the war, is recognised as a leader of large-minded sympathies. No soldier in the field, no sister at the outposts, has given himself or herself more wholly at the call of country than has Lady Drummond.

When many organizations in London are approached, a secretary or under-secretary must satisfy the applicant, and only matters of importance will secure a personal interview with the head. Not so with Lady Drummond. Whoever waits has her sympathy, interest, and help. The door is open wide, and he is received with a smile of genuine welcome. From early morning till gathering dusk Lady Drummond is ready to give her whole mind to him who asks for it, and he leaves her presence strong in the knowledge that hers is an interest which will not fail, and that her belief in his powers must be justified.

To leave London—to rest a while in the reawakening English country—for this Lady Drummond finds no spare time. Nevertheless, I found a lad of nineteen from a humble home in Toronto, who had been lying in a corner bed of a ward in a military hospital, paralyzed since last May, happy and proud because of a personal visit from her. The boy's mother, his only living relation, was in Toronto, and Lady Drummond desired to bring mother and son together. He had given the strength of his youth in exchange for a bed in a hospital, three thousand miles from home, and so Lady Drummond took time in her leisureless life to go to the lad and show him her gracious appreciation.

"Her ways are ways of pleasantness." Who knows how far down the years her work will extend?

In character, in manners, in style, in all things, the supreme excellence is simplicity.—Longfellow.

Senator Belcourt Took Air Trip.

Senator Belcourt, while visiting Aldershot, was given what was called a "joy ride" in an aeroplane. The pilot treated him to an extra assortment of thrills; going through all the hair-raising aerial manoeuvres he could think of, short of looping the loop. Senator Belcourt was apparently relieved to find himself once more on terra firma, and remarked, that, while he could think of several phrases which would describe his experience, "joy ride" was not one of them.

A FATAL BARGAIN

OR

THE MAN WHO DARED FATE

BY

NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XXIII continued

"Quit that Cullen" she said sharply "No bloodshed here and now. There'll be time enough for that. What is it, Mauley?"

"There's a man in the brewery yard prowling back of the building," said Mauley, appear for a moment at the door. "I saw his head and shoulders over the fence."

"Let me have a look."

"He's got red hair and whiskers, and acts as if——"

"Red whiskers!" Greer cried, hurrying through the entry. "I saw that fellow go through the front street, but he didn't look toward the house, so I judged he was all right. I'll bet he's gone round that way to size up the—"

"Keep back, all of you!" Nora said sharply, while she peered cautiously through the kitchen window. "He's at the gate in the fence and looking this way! That's Carter all right. "I know his figure."

"I'll drop him with a bullet," Cullen growled.

"Not for your life," snapped Nora. "The report would be heard, the body discovered before we could hide it. He's sauntering this way. Be ready to go out and meet him, Mauley. He'll not know you."

"What'll I do."

"Get him into the house and we'll be ready for him. You, Cullen lug that spy into the cellar, out of sight and hearing. Listen to me Mauley, and give us time to make ready. Find some way to lure him in here, or else hold him up with your gun. We'll be on hand in case he shows fight."

Of them all the woman had the quickest wit and strongest nerve of them all. They obeyed her instinctively. While Cullen ran to carry Patsy into the cellar, Nora added a few hurried words of instruction to Mauley, who appeared willing to undertake the task required of him.

Nora was right, moreover, as to Nick's identity, despite that he had changed his disguise after leaving Chick and starting to investigate the Harlem address found on Janet Bolton.

It was not in the least to Nick's discredit, however that Nora had arrived there before him. He had no reason to think that she had witnessed the arrest of Janet, who was the one presumably on the way to Harlem. It would have been only a blind assumption to have supposed that another was to rush out there and to make such preparations to receive him It was rather to Nick's credit, in fact, that he arrived so soon after Nora Selkirk, who alone knew the need of desperate haste.

Easily locating the house Nick had walked by it bestowing upon it only a furtive glance, unobserved by Greer, who was then looking cautiously from a front window. One glance was enough to show Nick that the house yard, and hop house was a part of the brewery property.

"Pat Selkirk's place". This was Nick's mental comment at the time. "That Bolton jade was sent out here by his wife for some purpose, and it's long odds that there's something doing here. I'll have a look at the front of the brewery. This may be the headquarters for the whole gang, when they meet to plan their rascally work. If any one of them are here now howeer, they should be in that old house, that being the address given the girl. H'm! Nothing doing, eh?"

Arriving at the front of the brewery Nick saw at once that business had been suspended. This fact, together with the deserted appearance of the place seemed to confirm his suspicions. Bent upon looking further, He sauntered into the stable yard, remarking to himself.

"If I run foul of anybody, I'll pretend I'm looking for a job. I'll leave him to guess what more I'm looking for."

He met no one, however, but discovered the gate leading to the adjoining yard, from which he could see the rear of the house.

"Nobody in sight," he muttered. "I'll raise some one all the same, or batter down the door."

Assuming the air of a man who felt that he was trepassing, Nick slowly crossed the yard and had nearly reached the house when Mauley came from the back door, hatless in his shirt sleves, and with a pan of potato parings and other refuse in his hand.

Divested of his disguise and outside garments, Nick did not recognize him as one of the men seen in the tool shed the previous night, and when Mauley looked a bit sharply at him while he turned the refuse into a firkin, near the door, Nick approached and asked with affected diffidence not dreaming what he was up against; "Is the boss around, mister."

"What boss d'ye mean?" asked Mauley, drumming on his knee with the empty pan. "I'm the boss of this shanty."

"I mean the boss of the brewery," Nick explained. "Can a fellow get work there? I'm out of a job."

"Tain't running just now, but they are going to start in again next week. Ever worked in a brewery?"

"Yes for two years out in Milwaukee If I could see the boss——"

"He isn't here just this minute." Mauley interrupted. "But I know he wants some new men next week He'll be hear in half an hour though to meet his wife and another woman who are coming out to look over the brewery. The woman's going to put some money in the business. You can talk with him then, I reckon."

I'd like to very much," said Nick, with more truth than before.

"That'll be all right," Mauley nodded. "You can come in and take chair, if you like. I've been alone here since they quit brewing, and I have to do my cooking. Come on in and have a seat. Poor company is better than none."

Knowing that Janet could not of betrayed him, and feeling reasonably sure that his identity was not suspected, Nick accepted the invitation, bent on sizing up the interior of the house. with an eye to the latter work, and upon seeing what more Mauley had to say for himself.

With eyes and ears alert, thinking that the rascal might not be alone in the house, Nick followed him into the kitchen quickly shifting his revolver to the side pocket of his coat when he passed through the dim hallway. Seeing and hearing nothing to increase his distrust, he took a chair that was standing against the wall, to preclude an attack from behind.

"Brewing ought to pay good money, but this place never paid," Mauley remarked as he put his pan back in the sink.

"Who owns it? asked Nick, as if interested.

"A man named Selkirk runs it. I reckon he hasn't enough money to swing the business that's why he is trying to interest the woman I mentioned. She's got capital money to burn."

"What's her name?"

"Radley," said Mauley, drawing out a covered tub from under the table and taking up a dish containing about two quarts of flour, as if returning it to the tub. "She wants to invest some of it in——"

The rascal did not finish the remark, which he was making without appearing to look at the detective who was seated within an arm's length. As quick as a flash however he turned and threw the contents of the dish squarely in Nick Carter's face, filling his eyes with the flour, blinding him completely and covering him from head to foot.

At the same moment, Mauley's voice rang fiercely through the room.

"Sit still, Carter! If you move foot or finger, you'll be a dead one! There is a dozen bullets ready for you.'

Though Nick could not see, he quickly realized the truth of these assertions. He heard the closed door thrown open, the quick tread of men's feet in the kitchen and hallway and almost instantly felt his arms firmly grasped by two men, and the cold muzzle of a revolver pressed against his forehead—a weapon in the hands of Dan Cullen.

"You keep quiet or out goes your light!" he fiercely snarled. "Hang on to his right hand, Tony. There's a gun in his pocket. You move a finger Carter, and I'll blow your brains out."

Only a madman could have ignored the threat—while the chill of so deadly a tube touching his brow.

Though he felt a hand drawn to each side, and his body then bound with stout ropes to the chair on which he was seated, Nick made no resistence. In reply to Cullen, however, whose voice he quickly recognized, he said cooly, clearing his throat of the flour.

"All right, Cullen since you insist. Stow that gun and I'll agree to sit quiet. You were right here with the goods I see."

BABY'S GREAT DANGER DURING THE HOT WEATHER

More little ones die during the hot weather than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum and stomach troubles come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in homes where there are young children. An occasional dose fo the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will cure the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, upon the value of the Russian rouble, the Government itself agreed to buy the implements needed and then resell them to the Russian farmers. After taking this step it was then found that to deliver them at Russian ports was a matter of time—a lot of it—which too frequently resulted in the needed implements reaching their ultimate destination when the harvest had been past without crops being garnered. To avoid loss in this respect very large orders have been placed with a view to having a supply ready in advance of the need for distribution.

Change in Shell Steel.

A halt in the manufacture of shells in Canada for the Allies has temporarily been called, as a result of changes in the specifications of the steel required, which have just been made by the Imperial authorities.

The change is the requirement of steel of a higher tensile, strength than had hitherto been specified. It will, of course, be quite possible to manufacture this steel in Canada as hitherto, but as large orders for steel of the quality formerly suitable have been given, and there is a large stock of manufactured shells on hand, some inconvenience will be caused if these have to be made over again.

Large orders for shells of 95 and other high calibres have recently been placed in the United States, and it is understood that others will be distributed in Canada.

The first samples of time fuses produced at the loading plant established in Montreal by the Munitions Board have successfully passed the tests. No shipments have yet been made, however, it is understood, and it is not altogether likely that the board's expectations as to early delivery, expressed during the fuse contracts enquiry, will be realized.

Hand grenades, the weapons which are proving so regular and effective in the present war, are now being manufactured in Canada. They are being loaded, however, in Great Britain.

Wild Animals Were Friendly.

Close to the bodies of eight prospectors found near Matheson after the big fire was the body of a large bear with its paw up as if it had been clawing the air. Nearby a moose was found dead. A prospector who was able to escape from another part tells of a wildcat which came and rubbed up against his legs in friendly fashion and lay down beside him while it rested and took breath.

WATCH your alert, keen-eyed, clear-headed business man at breakfast. You never see him eating heavy, soggy foods that clog the body and slow up the mental processes. No, as a rule, he selects some appetizing, easily digested cereal such as Kellogg's, for he knows that these thin, crisp, toasted corn flakes supply all the nourishment that the ordinary body needs without dissipating his energy in digesting and absorbing them.

Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes go well with fresh or cooked fruits in place of the usual milk or cream.

If YOUR family were living in Belgium NOW

You'd Look on the Belgian Relief Fund As the Finest Thing in the World.

King Albert's war-worn soldiers, holding the line at the British left, certainly look on it in that light. It gives them courage for the fight, and hope for the future, for it is saving the lives of their loved ones.

The work which the Belgian Relief Commission is doing for humanity has never been equalled. For nearly two years now, from two to three million destitute Belgians have been fed, and horrible wholesale starvation averted. While the Relief Fund has only been sufficient to provide the barest necessities, these people, who have absolutely nothing else, have been saved by the three slices of bread and the pint of soup dealt out to each one daily.

Can it be kept up, on a steadily growing scale, till Belgium is free again?

That depends largely on Canada, and partly on YOU.

The demands on the Fund are steadily growing, as more and more Belgian families reach the end of their resources. More money must be given to keep up even the slender rations now possible. But the end of the war does not seem so far off now, and if we can keep up and even increase our givings for a little while longer, we shall be able to save the heroic Belgian people for a new and regenerated Belgium.

Will you do your part? Will you undertake to feed one—or several—Belgian families till the war is over, by contributing $2.50 per family per month?

Whatever you feel you can give, send your subscription weekly, monthly, or in one lump sum to Local or Provincial Committees or

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

The Same Tremendous Power and Strength—

Greater Luxury of Comfort and Appearance.

EVEN GREATER VALUE

We couldn't improve on the wonderful Planche motor—that veritable giant of power in the Gray Dort. The sturdy, rugged heavy frame stood the severest tests. Mechanically the Gray Dort was, and is correct. In the searching investigation we did not find a Gray Dort owner who was not enthusiastically satisfied—even amazed—with the performance of his car.

We have added some final refinements to the car—made it bigger and it is now the roomiest car at anywhere near the price. A larger windshield—an ammeter—dashlight—roberail and footrail—in every way the sturdiest and most mechanically perfect car is now the most refined and comfortable car.

Read the specifications. Remember that in three days motor experts bought up the entire 1916 output of this car.

Cares For 9 Grandchildren As Fathers Fight

Mr. A.W. Brown of Oshawa Doing His Bit—Looks After "Wee Bairnes"

On his little farm in Oshawa, Ont., Mr. A. W. Brown is having a jolly time with his nine sturdy grandchildren while their soldier fathers are abroad in the trenches fighting in the King's gallant forces for freedom and liberty. The nine youngsters represent four families and Mr. Brown is keeping an eye on them all "until the boys come home."

"In addition to my two sons and three sons-in-law who are at the front,' said Mr. Brown to The Press. "I have also two brothers-in-law and four nephews on the fighting line, and a near relation of mine who went to the front with the first Canadian contingent was blown to pieces. I have his three little children staying on the farm, so you see that while I am unable to get to the front myself I am doing my bit in looking after the wee bairns until the war is over."

Mr. Brown is an old soldier, having seen military service in England. He was at the grand review before the German Emperor in London in 1889. Twenty seven years ago he became associated with the Salvation Army and is an enthusiast in religious work. In addition to looking after his farm at Oshawa he travels rather extensively on evangelistic missions. He is Envoy at College Hill, South Oshawa, and is widely known as "Envoy Brewer Brown." Throughout the district he is highly regarded.

5 BABIES IN 7 MONTHS

Triplets and Twins Born in That Period.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 23.—A remarkable record for childbirth has been established by Mrs Julius Cojenski, who lives in Glenville section of this town. Although only 27 years old, she is the mother of thirteen children, eight of whom are dead. She has given birth to five children within the last seven months. Triplets were born seven months ago at the Cojenski domicile, and the stork has just arrived with twins. The triplets lived several hours and the twins survived only a few hours. The mother is in good health and able to take care of her household.

OBSEQUIES.

MRS. (REV.) HUBLY.

Yesterday afternoon Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church of Belleville was crowded to the doors by all classes of citizens who had assembled to not only pay the last tribute of respect to a departed one, but to express in this manner their sincere sympathy to the bereaved. A number of the city ministers were also present. It was the obsequies of the late Mrs Rev. A. M. Hubly. The body was conveyed from the Rectory adjoining the church to the sacred edifice, where the impressive burial service of the Reformed Church was held. Col. Rev. J. B. Donaldson of Ottawa conducted the services. After the singing of an appropriate hymn prayers were said and the Rev. Col. gave a brief address eulogistic of the deceased. During his few remarks the divine said that upon one memorable occasion the Saviour in referring to a woman, said she had done what she could. How appropriate those words were upon this occasion. They were words of comfort and cheer. Mrs Hubly in her life had done what she could for the Master and had entered into her reward. We should all do as the departed had done, do what our hands find to do. When this has been done we have met our responsibilities. If God had angels upon earth, Mrs Hubly was one. Her place is vacant and who will fill it and continue the good work she was doing. It is as necessary that her place be filled as it is that the gap in the army be filled. She was in the army of God fighting for His cause. She was engaged in good work and did what she could. One society, the Bible Society, was a grand society and doing a grand work and the deceased was greatly interested in its welfare as she was in all good works. She is gone, but those who mourn are comforted by the words of the Saviour, who said, "I will never leave or forsake you."

At the conclusion of the service the remains were conveyed to the Belleville Cemetery and laid away in the tomb to await the resurrection morn.

The floral tributes were numerous and most beautiful in design, a silent memento of the many friends the deceased had.

The bearers were Messrs J. Taylor, F. S. Wallbridge, Thos. Thompson, S. A. Large, J. W. Barlow and Wm. Cook.

Will Insist On New Contract

If Overruled Liberals Will Resign From Parliament Building Committee

OTTAWA, Aug. 25—The story of the burning of the Parliament buildings will be preserved in the corner stone of the new structure. An illuminated copy of the report of the commision which inestigated the disatser is being prepared, and will be deposited together with the other documents, in the corner stone on Sept. 1, the date of the laying of that essential part of the structure. There will be thus preserved in the fabrics of the new Parliament buildings an accurate history of the event.

As regards the contract for the construction of the new building, a Liberal member of the committee which has supervision over this work was authority today for the statement that Sept. 1, the date of the next meeting of the committee, would see the handing in of the resignations of himself and his liberal colleagues. The motion calling for the letting of a new contract by public tender, which was proposed by the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux will be introduced once more and pressed. If it is not carried the Liberals will step out of the committee. They attempt to justify such action by the contention that while "restoration" of the old building was the end in view and the opinion was expressed that it could be got ready for next year's session, there was force in the argument that the work of restoration might best be done on the cost plus percentage system but that when an entirely new building is to be erected the only safe way is to proceed by public adveertisement and tender.

ANOTHER LITTLE FAD KILLED

(New York Evening Post.)

It could not have been much more than a year ago when a vehement lady writer in a vehement magazine declared that the obstetrician who refused to make use of the Twilight Sleep was guilty of murder or something of the sort. People who disagree with a militant magazine writer are always guilty of something not far short of murder. This week the virtual demise of Twilight Sleep was chronicled in a quiet statement to the effect that the experiment had been abandoned in every hospital except one, among them the leading institutions in the country. This is quite in accordance with the law of evolution and the American temperament. When Twilight Sleep or Denatured Alcohol or the Conservation of our National Resoruces first breaks on the horizon it is the beginning of a New Age and a new Promise to the extent of several million words in the Sunday supplements and the magazines, and every one who fails to discern the New Promise is guilty of something like murder. Then come silence and oblivion, and after some years people are diverted from the passionate pursuit of a newer Age and Promise to learn that Twilight Sleep has been quietly tested and disproved, that Denatured Alcohol is being successfully manufactured in large quantities without revolutionizing life, and that Conservation is making headway without a bass drum.

OLD ASHIONED WALTZ RETURNS TO FAVOR

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—The old-fashioned dreamy waltz will supplant the acrobatic tango in the ball rooms of the nation, if the National Assoiation of Dancing Masters has any influence. In convention here the professors decreed that the tango must go. The waltz, the one step and the fox trot will be fashionable favorites this season.

Why pay more for Less Value in some other car

NEVER in the entire history of the motor industry has there been a 6-cylinder car that offered such GREAT value for the price as this Studebaker SERIES 17 Six at $1450. To approach it in POWER and SIZE, you must look among cars priced hundreds of dollars higher. And none of the cars closer to its price give as much power, size, room, luxury of finish and fittings and basic quality of materials.

Here are the essentials of this magnificent "MADE-IN-CANADA" car on which to base comparisons—FIFTY horse power—motor 3½-inch bore x 5-inch stroke; comfort for SEVEN passengers; 122-inch wheelbase; 34 x 4 tires that give not only tire economy but riding ease; genuine straight-grain, semi-glazed leather upholstery; and quality of materials and workmanship in every detail that are unexcelled at any price.

Why pay a higher price for a car that gives LESS than this? We urge you to let us demonstrate this wonderful SIX before you buy any car.

SPANISH QUEEN A NATIONAL IDOL

Victoria Ena Has Conquered the Hearts of Her People.

UPSET THE OLD TRADITIONS

Rumor That King Alfonso Will Act as Arbitrator When Peace is Discussed Brings His English Wife Again Into the Limelight—King's Faith in Queen's Ability.

SINCE it was rumored that King Alfonso XIII. of Spain would probably be chosen as an arbitrator in the peace conference that will follow the ending of the war the royal family of Spain has been in the public eye. The portrait of Queen Victoria, here reproduced, is the latest of her royal highness and just received. Queen Victoria was an English princess, daughter of Prince Henry of Battenberg and Princess Beatrice, who is a sister of the late King Edward VII. of England.

Victoria Ena was born an English Princess, was brought up in the strictest simplicity, and when she became the Queen of Alfonso XIII. she carried that wholesome freshness and freedom of thought and action to which she had been accustomed all her life straight into the heart of ultra conservative, haughty Spain.

Of course, her behaviour to the Spaniards was almost unseemly, and they didn't mind saying so, behind closed doors. They were positively shocked, and they could not understand how their proud King could bring home such a bride as that, and she so beautiful, too, mercy! It was awful.

QUEEN VICTORIA OF SPAIN.

At last, one or two of the King's intimates told him frankly of the surprise of his people at Queen Ena's eccentricities, to use a mild term. His friends' complaint fell on deaf ears, for the King happened to be very much in love with his charming Princess of his own choice; he has a sense of humor and he is wise.

So with the very finest smile the young monarch could give from that naturally rather doleful face he said:

"Wait! and see what they will say in a year or two."

Meanwhile Victoria Ena was profiting by the lessons given her in international diplomacy by that wise and tactful uncle of hers, the late King Edward VII. of England. She was not his niece for nothing, and the end certainly justified the means, for Victoria came out with flying colors. Spain to-day speaks with pardonable pride of her as the most popular Queen it ever had.

She was well prepared for any emergency, and, Heaven knows, her first experience was an awful one and happened within five minutes after the marriage ceremony had been performed. As the Royal carriage was passing, the two acknowledging the salutes of the troops drawn upon both sides of the streets, amid the boom of cannon and the huzzas of the people, a bomb exploded near their carriage, partly wrecking it and killing a few soldiers.

When the smoke had cleared away there was the King standing, holding his Queen's hand, both still smiling and unafraid. It was a terrific ordeal even for a seasoned soldier to undergo. Think what it must have been to a slip of a girl of eighteen, just made the Queen of her husband's country, and at that very moment, of course, her own as well.

The Spaniards have never forgotten that dastardly attempt upon the lives of their King and Queen. Naturally, they expected bravery from their King, but to see that beautiful young girl facing the frenzied crowd without a sign of fear in her face was enough to make them swear allegiance for ever to both.

They have kept the oath. No king and queen go about all parts of the country practically unattended as they do. Victoria, however, had made up her mind to do this, anyhow. She abhors pomp and ceremony. She never was accustomed to it, and she did not intend to suffer it.

Victoria has the gift of wearing her clothes well. Madrid was mightily proud of this, and rather ungraciously, some thought, gave her the sobriquet of "The Peacock," on account of her exquisite taste.

Overtaken.

Some people come to grief and some wait for it to overtake them.

TWELVE DIE IN BUSH FIRE

Blaze Near New Liskeard Reported Out

COBALT, Aug. 25.—Twelve known deaths have resulted from the disastrous forest fire of Tuesday near New Liskeard. Heavy rains are reported to have fallen, and all danger of a spread of the fires is believed past.

The names of the dead are: Mrs Arthur McKenzie, Casey township; Norman McKenzie, ten years old; Muriel McKenzie, seven years; Grace McKenzie, five years; Ralph McKenzie, four years; Mina McKenzie, three years; Baby McKenzie, two months old; George Coutts, employee of Casey Mines; Robert Woodall, farmer, Casey township; Mrs Woodall, Casey township; Miss Wellwood, nurse, Toronto; John Thomas, farmer, Casey township.

There is nothing left of the many buildings of the Casey Cobalt Mining Co., and the hundreds of acres of bush which stood to the west and north of this property are pretty well cleaned up.

SYNOPISIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territories, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Applications for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5, which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Afent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

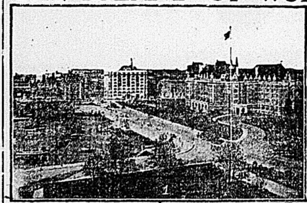
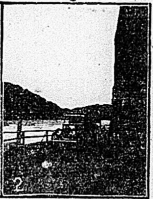
THE ISLAND OF WONDERLAND





(1) James Bay Embankment and C.P.R. Hotel, Victoria, B.C.
(2) On the Way to Cameron Lake, Vancouver Island.
(3) Fishing on Cowichan River, Vancouver Island.

EVERY year a larger and ever increasing number of autoists, and those who wish to spend their vacations in an entire change of environment, make their way to the Island of Vancouver—the gateway of which is Victoria, the capital city of British Columbia—the best known tourist resort in the Pacific Northwest. It is entirely different from any other territory known to automobilists. True, it is in Canada, and reached by the Canadian Pacific via road and magnificently appointed steamers, but it is as British as if it were one of the British Isles. This is realized immediately one lands from the steamer in Victoria, and by the way this very landing is interesting and affords an excellent example of the courtesy of Canadian customs officials, and the extreme ease with its automobilists, who are residents of the United States, can enter into this, to them, foreign country.

But to return to one's first impressions upon leaving the steamer at Victoria. As the steamer glides to her berth through the unique Inner Harbor, considered one of the most picturesque in the world, there immediately looms up on the right, the magnificent Parliament buildings of British Columbia—one of the architectural features of Canada. They are situated overlooking the harbor, facing James Bay embankment and the City of Victoria.

The six-horse tally-hos and the thirty-passenger and smaller sight-seeing cars lined up on the side streets, all competing for business in a vigorous, and somewhat unfamiliar manner, is another indication that we have within a short space of five hours, been transplanted into a new and invigorating environment. The City of Victoria is the starting point of the Island highway, which brings the automobilist in close touch with the main portion of Vancouver Island, and all its summer and fishing resorts; its quaint villages, enterprising towns, agricultural settlements, wonderful forests, reached by tributary highways, and, the commencement of the Canadian highway, the terminus of which is at Alberni.

It is an easy matter to spend a week in the City of Victoria, and to take an entirely separate and distinct, and at the same time most interesting tour, every day. In fact, during the past summer, enthusiastic autoists from California, Utah, Washington, Oregon, and even Eastern Canada spent from two to five weeks in this city and island, and left with the greatest possible regret.

Mr. Frederick Wagner, in the Seattle Times, thus describes his first visit to Victoria and the Island:

"Picturesque and rugged in its matchless beauty of unlimited variety; wealthy in magnificent driveways and offering unsurpassed hotel accommodations, with lavish hospitality ever conspicuously present— that is Vancouver Island, in the Canadian province of British Columbia, paradise of motorists and nature lovers, and destined to rank as one of the world's greatest touring fields.

"Nature painted the gorgeous setting for this scenic wonderland, and the people of Vancouver Island have capitalized it by constructing a system of splendid highways that is dotted with attractive hotels where excellent accommodations are to be obtained. And they have supplemented this work by a display of genuine hospitality that is justly entitled to be classed as a valuable asset in the exploitation of their country.

"The chain of mountains that penetrates Vancouver Island and the beautiful valleys, with their numerous streams, lakes and luxuriant vegetation, combine to set before the eyes of the traveller a variety of scenic splendor that beggars description.

"Go where you will on Vancouver Island and you will find scenery that causes you to marvel at the lavishness of nature.

"The coastline of the island is very beautiful, being indented with deep bays and fiords. The western coast differs somewhat from the eastern coastline, for on the ocean side a number of canals reach far inland, as if to aid the miner and the lumberman to get his product to market with ease; while on the other side of the island there are many pleasant bays and several beaches, where summer homes and resorts are to be found."

Hostile Shelling Develops Against Allied Lines—Delville Wood Scene of Activity

Canadian Press Special.

LONDON, Aug. 28. — No large actions on the Somme front are reported in the official announcement of to-day, although the British made further progress east of Delville woods. In spite of indifferent weather, some progress has been made east of Delville Wood and in minor successful enterprises near Mouquet farm, this statement says. Last night there was much hostile shelling against parts of our line, especially in Delville Wood and on our trenches north of Pozieres. Our artillery also was active.

A SIX-HOUR DAY NEXT

Henry Ford's Plan Will Stir Up More Wall St. Wrath

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—For a man of peace and quiet. Henry Ford undoubtedly possesses the most unique gift of publicity of any American, unless it be Andrew Carnegie. Henry Ford is not liked by the financial community any better than he in turn likes the financial community. And the next sensation which it is whispered in high automobile circles, Mr. Ford is about to spring will release a lot of Wall street wrath that has not expressed itself since "out of the trenches by Christmas" became such a joke.

It is understood that Mr. Ford has again determined to do something for labor. He is planning to run his big factories twenty-four hours a day, just as at present, but with four shifts instead of three, which means six hours for each shift. Further than that each workman is to receive $1 per hour in wages. This knocks the $5 day into a cocked hat, and sets another unhealthy standard in labor, already inflated in some industries almost to the limit of endurance. But a company with $2,000,000 of stock and $50,000,000 of net profits for 1916, can afford things which less affluent properties could not attempt without a short trip to the bankruptcy courts.

To Consider Sub-Merchantmen

Allied Ministers Will Meet to Deal With Various Points of International Law

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 26.—The Ministers of France, England, Italy and Russia, have arranged for a joint conference with the Minister of Foreign Affairs at which it is understood they will present a note dealing with different points of International Law and other matters treated at the conference of the Allies in Paris.

It is stated in official circles that one of the points which will be considered will be the question of classing merchant submarines as vessels of war.

An international economic conference was held by the Allies in Paris last June. Resolutions were adopted providing for a trade war on Germany after the war, and taking of steps to render the Allied countries independent of the Central Powers in regard to both raw materials and manufactured goods.

SPLENDID ACHIEVEMENT OF KING GEORGE'S TROOPS

Infantry Capture Trench Which Took The Germans Eighteen Months to Construct—New Batteries of Heavy Guns From Britain

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 27.—Special—"It was a week of gains, and the kind of gains we want," said a British Staff officer Saturday, reviewing the result of the week's British offensive.

"A thousand yards here and there," the officer continued, " but every time it has meant an advantage on ground we wanted for future purposes. The German atacks have only been counter-attacks to recover ground they have lost. Not an attack that we made this week but has been a gain. As a matter of soldierly efficiency, the British army has never done better work than this week."

At the end of what might be called Thiepval week the British are more jubilant than at any time since the offensive began, except on the occasions when they broke the first line July 1 and the second line July 14.

The correspondent, while watching the curtain of shell fire, saw phlegmatic veterans as excited as school boys in their rejoicing. Under these curtains of fire the British by two attacks rushed up to within 300 yards of that patch of ruins which was once the village of Thiepval. The correspondent saw the British infantry capture trenches which it had taken eighteen months to build, and with no more casualties than he had witnessed in a small fight in the Philippines. Every prisoner taken who had been to Verdun said there was nothing at Verdun like it.

Instead of widening the front of their offensive, the British seem to be concentrating more and more guns on their present front. They are using shells as freely as machine guns use cartridges. New batteries of heavy guns keep on arriving from Britain.

In order to hold Thiepval, the Germans, too, must bring up more guns and try to blast the British out of their new trenches. Last night the German counter-attack was the heaviest the Germans had made since the offensive began. Until this offensive it was said that they could take any trench at any time with gunfire enough, but that you could not hold it if the enemy concentrated enough guns. Of late this rule has been broken, and the British are jubilant at their success in holding the ground.

The Germans sent the Prussian Guard in wave after wave against the new British trenches held by the Wiltshires and Foresters. Nothing fiercer ever occurred in the western front than the struggle of the British to keep what they had gained. Shell flashes lighted up the forms of the Germans pressing the charges, making targets for numerous British machine guns with which the trench was manned. There was an unceasing fire on the heads of the Worcesters and Wiltshires holding the positions, which the Germans expected to take at any cost. Dawn this morning found the British battalions still in possession of the trench, and all day, thanks to the position which the offensive gained for them, the British guns have been searching out positions and new batteries the Germans have brought up and then concentrating their guns on them to force them out of action.

GREEKS ARE UP AGAINST AN EMBARRASSING SITUATION

ATHENS, Aug. 28.—Special— The French and British Minister have asked Premier Zaimis how far the Greek Government purposed to countenance the Bulgarian advance without resistance, pointing out that it would be of no military interest to the Entente Powers to defend central Thessaly from invasion, as Saloniki was supplied from the sea, and could not be cut off by land.

The embarrassment of the Greek Government grows hourly in the face of popular resentment against the Bulgarian invasion. The Venivelist organs criticize the inaction of the Government, the Cretan declaring that the hour has come for action similar to that taken in 1909. M. Pachitch, former Serbian Premier, has arrived here on his way to Saloniki.

Stocking The Lake

A few days ago Messrs. R. H. McGhee and T. H. Thompson of Madoc, conveyed to Moira Lake a consignment of 10,000 black bass fingerlings from Ivanhoe station, which arrived there by special car, directed by the Department of Fisheries. On arriving at the lake Messrs. Wallbridge and Embury assisted in the distribution to the different fishing bars on both upper and lower lake. Moira lake has been noted for its advantages as a fishing and summer resort and the delivery of fish to its waters mentioned will, no doubt, in a few years hence make it possible for the angler to make away wearing the smile of satisfaction. The thanks of the fishermen in Madoc and surrounding district are due to Mr. Sandy Grant, M.P.P., for the consignment.

The Day Letter Begins Today

The C. P. R. Inaugurates a New Telegraphic Message Over Its Dominion Lines

MONTREAL, Aug. 28.—Mr J. McMillan, who has initiated many notable improvements since he became General Manager of the C.P.R. Telegraph eighteen months ago, has decided to inaugurate to-day (August 28th) an important service largely new to Canadians over the hundred and ten thousand miles of wire under his immediate control, namely, the "Day Letter," which may now be sent between points in Canada on the Canadian Pacific system at a rate very much reduced as compared with the usual commercial rush telegram. Mr McMillan is convinced that many of those who send telegrams would be quite satisfied if these arrived on the same day, whereas as a proportion of the cost of the rush telegrams is due to the cost of speedy delivery. The "Day Letter" of fifty words will be rated at one and a half times the cost of a regular message of 10 words, and still bring an answer the same day, which is as quick as many people desire. There are sixteen hundred C.P.R. telegraph offices throughout Canada, at each of which the new service will be in force, so that this will be a Dominion-wide service stretching from Louisburg, N.S., to Victoria, B.C. Messages will be taken in whether French or English, code words not being permissable.

Inspected Docks at Halifax and Expresses Himself Highly Pleased With Entertainment

HALIFAX, Aug. 26.—The Duke of Connaught spent an hour today inspecting the new ocean terminals at Halifax, now under construction, and in which three berths will be available for service in November. The Duke expressed surprise at the magnitude of the works and satisfaction at the progress made in building them. He was escorted on his tour at the terminals by J. MacGregor, superintending engineer; J. P. Porter, representing the harbor dock contractors; and Andrew Wheaton, who built the line connecting the terminals with the main road of the I.S.R. This afternoon H.R.H. attended a garden party given by Governor David MacKeen on his grounds at Maplewood, North West Arm., Miss Evelyn Starr, a noted Nova Scotia violinist, played three numbers. After her second number, the Duke complimented Miss Starr on her playing, telling her how much he had enjoyed it and asked her as a special favor to give a third number.

The Famous Palazzo di Venezia in Rome, Property of The Austrian Government Since 1797 is Confiscated.

ROME, Aug. 28.—Special—The famous Pallazzo di Venezia, property of the Austro-Hungarian Government since 1797, has been seized by Italy as an act of retribution for the violations of international law by Austria, it was announced here to-day.

The Palazzo di Venezia, a magnificent structure dating from the year 1455, when it was begun by Cardinal Piestro Barbo, who later become Pope Paul II., was presented in 1560 by Pius IV. to the Republic of Venice, with which it came, in 1797, into the possession of Austria. Since then, up to the break between Italy and Austria, it served as the residence of the Austrian Ambassador to the Vatican.

Italy Has Declared War On Germany

Formal Announcement is Made Through Swiss Government—To Send Troops to France

ROME, Aug. 28.—(Special.)—Italy to-day is at war with Germany.

The declaration of hostilities was made by Italy. Following information that it had reached the Imperial German Government through Switzerland, announcement of tne Government's action was made here late yesterday.

The intolerable situation created by the fact that Italy was at war with Germany's ally and the fact that Germany loaned all possible support to that ally, Austria-Hungary, against Italians and their interests, led the Government to its decisioin. That decision was made public in the following announcement:—

"The Italian Government declares in the name of the King that Italy considers herself to be in a state of war with Germany as from August 28, and begs the Swiss Government to convey this information to Imperial German Government."

The complete cessation of all communication between Italy and Germany brought about by the Austro-Italian war, made it nescessary for Italy to convey through Switzerland her declaration of war to Germany.

Many Dead Fish Elsewhere Beside Belleville

Hamilton Also Troubled by Unusual Occurrence—Cause is Unexplained

TORONTO Aug., 28—Special—Reports that hundreds of dead fish of different varities have been seen at the mouth of the Moira River, Belleville and along the bay front at Burlington Beach, were received last night from Belleville and Hamilton respectively. Neither city knows tne cause for the unusual condition, but at Belleville the impression is that the waters of the Moira have been poluted with some substance emptied into the river. Hundreds of dead fish had to be removed from the river mouth on Saturday, and at Burlington Beach conditions were so bad yesterday that the residents have asked that immediate section to be taken to find out the cause of the trouble. The medical health authorities are investigating the trouble at Belleville.

No general complaint regarding dead fish at other points on Lake Ontario have been received at the Department of Fisheries and Game, and Mr Alfred Sheriff, Deputy Minister, when questioned concerning the matter last night, was of the opinion that local causes were probably responsible for both cases reported. He stated, however, that similar trouble as reported from Belleville quite recently and that polution of the water of the river was found to be the cause, but that the conditions responsible had been corrected.

STRIKE OUTLOOK IN UNITED STATES MAKES SLOW PROGRESS

WASHINGTON Aug., 27—President Wilson's efforts to bring about peace between the railroads and their employees seemed to be confronted with failure at a late hour last night.

Early in the day the 640 representatives of the four brotherhoods decided to leave further negotiations in Washington to a special committee of twenty-four. The remainder of the men were ordered to return to their home districts. Each carried with him final instructions in the event of a strike.

This in itself was convincing that a crisis was imminent, and the gravity of the situation was further emphasized when late last night President Samuel Rea of the Pennsalvania issued a statement that was construed as meaning the railroad managers deemed a strike inevitable.

President Wilson alarmed over the failure of his efforts, summoned chairman Newlands of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee and Secretary of the Interior Lane to the White House and renewed his request for legislation he desires passed at this session of Congress.

The railroad Executive still demand arbitration. President Rea of the Pennsalvania system issued a statement pointing out the main reason why they are insisting. He said:

"The heads of the railways have been forced to the conclusion that it is better to face the alternative of a strike than to surrender."

BILLY SUNDAY IN A BETTER LIGHT

Stories are Told of His Charities Which Rather Offset the Campaign of "Pitiless Publicity" Made Against Him.

"Pitiless publicity" has not failed to reach the "business methods" of Billy Sunday, the evangelist, says a writer in the London Advertiser. The famous soulsaver has never felt that he is responsible for explanation to anyone as to the disposition of the tens of thousands of dollars he receives at each gathering, and as a consequence many cynical journalists have been wont to refer to his "saving souls at $62 per" and similar comments, suggesting that the public should regard his great revivals as so many theatrical appearances with "fat" box office receipts.

That Sunday has gathered hundreds of thousands of dollars in his quest for sin is undoubted. That he has kept to himself the whereabouts of his wealth is also true. But this much may be said, that the money was given freely, without compulsion, without questions asked; it has been a free-will offering to Sunday, not to the Lord. His extensive organization costs something, and usually the society under whose auspices he appears gets a considerable share of the receipts.

But skepticism persists in the minds of many. What sort of evangelist is he who becomes rich as Dives, while he professes to serve only one Master? It is refreshing to those who believe Sunday is a man inspired, to read the following from the Philadelphia North American:

"A letter reached Billy from a young woman in a little town near Camden. She wrote how she and her mother, a helpless invalid, delighted in reading about the wonderful meetings and what a sorrow it was to them they could not hope to be present, even once. Would he not write to them?

"The next morning he slipped away from his house in Spring Garden street and went over to New Jersey and found the poor little home. For an hour he talked with the mother and daughter, prayed with them and read the Bible to the sufferer, and left them radiant with happiness. That night the sick woman begged her daughter to read again the chapters Mr. Sunday had read. When the book was opened there lay between the leaves a cheque for $100.

"In Pittsburg he secretly paid a $4,000 mortgage on the house of a faithful assistant in the revival. In Ohio a woman sent him a cheque for $50. One of the committee, knowing her circumstances, told the evangelist it was more than she could afford, and was rather hurt when the sum was not returned. But a week after the party had left the town there came through the committeeman's bank a cheque payable to the woman for $850—the amount of the mortgage on her home—and it was signed 'W. A. Sunday.'

"In Scranton he persuaded an employer to take back a defaulting bookkeeper—and then, having inculcated the lessons of repentance and forgiveness, made good the $700 defalcation."

This sort of "leakages" put the evansort of benefactions a good man does sort of benefactions a good man doeh not care to talk about, and it is a pity that the silence he maintains invites the cynics to pillory him. At any rate, he seems to have the confidence of the American people, and Canada has quiet frequently sought to have him conduct his "clean up" campaigns.

The writer was in a Pennsylvania mining town shortly after a visit from Sunday. Every saloon had been forced to go out of business; every home seemed prosperous; the miners swore by him, and any man who said he did not accomplish great good was stingy with his praise indeed.

The Corby Co. And The River

A Spirit of Fairness Asked by Those Interested, Until Investigation is Completed

From what has developed it is only fair to ask the public to suspend judgment pending investigation as to the cause of the dead fish in the River. The company deny that anything poisonous, alcoholic or otherwise injurious to health is being deposited by them. The Provincial authorities are investigating. The Corby Company are manufacturing only for the high explosives for the Allies in the present war. Apart from this, it would be too bad if Thurlow were to lose such a large industry through its being sent down. We hope the official enquiry will clear the company and will also result (with the co-operation of the manufacturers) in doing away immediately with any possible cause of complaint.

CARD OF THANKS

On behalf of my family and myself I desire to thank the ministers and the many citizens of Belleville for their gracious expressions of sympathy in our sore bereavement.

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE
BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XXII continued

"You close your trap till we get you tied as we want you," Cullen retorted.

"Then you can wag your tongue as much as you like."

"Anything you say,' replied Nick with apparent indifference.

Not until he was securley bound, however, with his arms ,and legs tied fast to the chair was he able to clear his eyes sufficently to plainly see the three men who had been working over him with such vicious energy. He now knew they were the rascals he had seen in the tool shed the previous night, and he quickly inferred that Selkirk must have been another.

"But what the deuce has become of Patsy?" Nick asked himself. "Have the scoundrels got wise to him and done him up? They were expecting me out here—that's a cinch— and had their plans all laid down to me. But who the dickens could have given them the tip? Someone of their gang must have seen me arrest the Bolton girl, and then headed for Harlem." Nick needed no explanation, however, when Nora Selkirk appeared at the door a moment later. She entered with a look of malicious triumph on her dark face, remarking quickly:

"Well done Mauley. Bind him fast Dan, for he's a tricky hound, as you have already learned. Glad to see you Mr. Nick Carter, or as much of you as I can see through the flour.

I told you when we last met, that I'd be better prepared for you when we met again."

"Oh, you're here are you?" Nick cooly retorted. "That does explain

"Puzzled were you?" Nora sneered confronting him. Well the next time you take in a girl on the street make sure that none of her friends are looking."

"Ah, that was the way of it. I suspected as much."

"Dust him off a bit, Cullen, and take off his disguise. He looks better without it," Nora commanded with mocking tones, when the three men had finished binding Nick and deprived him of his weapons. "Bring up that meddlesome fool from the cellar, also, before he can contrive to play us any trick. One of you watch them constantly with a gun handy, while I run over to the brewery and phone to Todd. Let me have the key Mauley. I'll return as soon as I have said my little verse. Ta-ta Carter! I'll have it out with you a little later."

"Don't hurry." said Nick dryly. "I prefer your room to your company."

"Your wishes will not be consulted," Nora sharply retored as she turned to leave the room. "You've had your say, your turn at the bat, in the game we've been playing. It is now ours—and that means your finish."

Cullen did not hurry to obey her instructions. For half an hour the three men grimly discussed the situation, a discussion in which Nick did not deign to take part, and two of them then brought Patsy up from the cellar and seated both detectives against the wall in the dining room.

Nick smiled and nodded when they met, but presently with a look that he wished Patsy to remain silent, Greer having set about removing the gag from his mouth.

It was half past three when Nora Selkirk returned from the brewery, and her face plainly showed that she had heard bad news.

Cullen noticed and quickly asked: "What's wrong?"

"Wrong enough!" snapped Nora with a fiery glance at Nick, There's been an awful smash in the market since one o'clock. I couldn't get Todd till after the stock exchange closed and that was too late for my information to be of any help to him. United Transit broke to nine at the closing and——"

"Nine!" roared Cullen, with eyes half starting from his head. "The stock down to nine! The devil take it! That'll sweep Todd off the earth!"

"Dry up!" Nora sharply answered. Haven't you common sense? He phoned that he would come out here tonight when I told him the haul we have made. That seemed to encourage him. He said he'd fix things yet, and——Oh, you needn't smile, Carter" she suddenly added wheeling upon Nick with tigerish ferocity. Then are your doing not Fenno's. We knew it, all right. But you'll pay the price. It will cost you your life before another sunrise!"

"Possibly," Nick rejoined indifferently, then added with caustic dryness. "But it will cost the Todd crowd a trifle for all that"

The Todd crowd eh? A trifle, eh?" The woman crouched and fairly hissed her words in the detective's face. "You'll learn what it means to trifle with the Todd crowd. Your life—That is what it will cost you! Your life before another sunrise!"

CHAPTER XXIV
Tracked to cover

There was a very good reason for Nora Selkirk's ugly aspect after she had talked over the telephone to Andrew Todd. She had received a hint at the truth.

Chich Carter read indications of it in Todd's face about half-past two that afternoon when, in executing Nick's instructions, he picked up the traction magnateas he was leaving his office and shadowed him to the Ironclad National Bank where Todd made a brief call. His face looked haggard and drawn. His eyes where sunken and had an abnormal glitter. Yet his jaw was hard set and his step firm.

Men who knew him however, who saw him witness with no outward emotion the terrific slashing given United Transit that day—a slashing that brought wreck and ruin to hundreds of Wall Street gamblers that day—delarded that nothing on earth could shake Andrew Todd or put him on the rocks.

Chich Carter read deeper, however, and came nearer the truth.

"By Jove he looks desperate!" was Chick's mental comment, as he saw Todd emerge into Broad Street. "He is up against it for fair, or I'm no judge of human eyes. His eyes glare like those of a beast at bay. Bound for the bank, eh? More money wanted precisely as Nick expected. I wonder how much of the bank roll is left."

Chick watched him enter, caught a glimpse of him through the screened window of the president's office, and five minutes later saw him appear in the street again and return to his own place of business.

Chick shadowed him as far as the building which was less from a block from the bank and on the opposite side of the street, and there he prepared to wait on the steps until Todd should again put in an appearance.

Half an hour passed.

Incidently glancing up the street, Chick saw a policeman entering the bank, an officer wearing the uniform of a precinct captain. He wondered what this might signify, and the duration of the officer's visit made him saunter nearer the bank, though he still kept an eye on the exit from Todd's business quarters.

The police captain remained in the bank about twenty minutes, when he came out and hastened up Broad St., and Chick then had a better view of him.

"I'll be hanged if I place that fellow," he said to himself. "He is not the captain of this precinct, unless he is wearing a disguise. In that case, by Jove, there must be something doing that I am not able to fathom at this stage of the game."

Chick's impulse was to overtake the officer and question him If he did so, however, he knew Todd might depart before he could return, and he decided to stick to Nick's instructions, recalling with what impressiveness they had been given him.

Five o'clock came, with no sign of Todd, yet Chick was sure he had not left his office.

In comparison with them for an hour after the closing of the stock exchange, Broad and Wall Streets now appeared deserted. Wearied brokers, excited speculators, hurrying messengers, men with pale faces and anxious eyes, others reflecting success in the awful market of that day—all of these had disapeared from the scene of the bitter battle.

It was half-past five when Chick, still waiting saw Todd leave his office nd head for Broadway, where he tok a surface car and rode to the City all Square, then crossed the bridge ed went to his residence in Brooklyn.

Chick shadowed him there without ny difficulty, yet was a bit dissappointed with the conduct of his quarry He wondered if this was to be the end f his espionage, if Todd had come ome to dinner and retire for the ight with no further designs before the morrow.

GERMANY IS READY FOR OCEAN COMPETITION

COPENHAGEN, Aug 25—Germany is ready now for the competition on the sea which will take place after the war, declared Philip Hienekin, director of the North German Lloyd Steamkenship Line in an interview in the Politiken today. Every ship destroyed during the war has been replaced and the North German Lloyd Line has built four new passenger boats named the Zeppelin, Hindenburg, Kolumbus and Muenchen respectively. The company, he added, also intends to build a large number of 4,000 ton steamers of a uniform type in order when the war is over to enable the company to send out a swarm of steamers with great rapidity.

The submarines Deutschland and Bremen, said Herr Heiniken would not be used after the war as the cost of operation was too great.

CHRISTIANITY AND ICE CREAM

"A young Japanese girl on her graduation from an American school was asked what she intended to do when she returned home," says the Christian Advocate.

She replied: "Teach my people Christianity and how tomake ice cream." The former had proven the joy of her soul, the other the delight of her taste.

"No one for a moment bid her disassociate Christianity and ice cream. The conventional freezer had long been a money-maker for the village church. They are old friends.

"Maybe it was under circumstances of this kind that the Japanese girl first came to think of Christianity and ice cream. Both are delectable. The more we have of them the better off the race will be, specially during this hot weather."

Great plans have been made to welcome the nurses, and already 70 from France have accepted the Swiss hospitality, and were accorded welcome by a committee of women. Railroad fare is cut in half, and all the people of Switzerland are welcoming the nurses.

THIS IS THE 685TH DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

CANADA'S TRADE.

For the twelve month's ending in June last, the total trade of Canada, exclusive of bullion and coin, was valued at $1,565,436,000. Of this, imports of merchandise represented $595,921,000 and the exports $969,514,000. The difference between the value of our imports and exports of merchandise in that period was therefore $373,000,000. After making allowance for the payment of $187,000,000 interest charges to Great Britain and the United States, there is a balance of trade in favor of Canada amounting to $186,000,000.

Of the exports, totalling $966,514,000, says The Monetary Times, only $96,000,000 represented the export of foreign produce, the remaining $873,413,000 being exports of Canadian produce. These were made up as follows:—

Mine	$ 71,834,835
Fisheries	23,248,778
Forest	53,259,354
Animal Produce	108,147,108
Agricultural Produce	323,510,530
Manufactures	284,495,047
Miscellaneous	8,917,802

Comparing these figures with those for the similar period of 1914, it is found that our exports of mineral products have increased during the year 22 per cent.; fisheries exports by 15 per cent.; exports of forest products, 23 per cent.; agricultural produce, 75 per cent.; exports of manufactures by 365 per cent.; and miscellaneous classes by 4,426 per cent.

Agricultural products represent the biggest item in our exports and probably will always do so. But the fact that Canadian manufacturers have been able to increase their export trade to a volume nearly five times as great as it was two years ago, gives an idea of the productive power of Canadian factories. The present unusual demand for Canadian manufacturers' goods is due to the war. The problem which confronts them is to measure and encourage, at home and abroad, the demand for their goods after the war. Something substantial has to be found to take the place of war orders. How many manufacturers are allowing to-day's prosperity to shadow to-morrow's problems?

CORRUPTING ELECTIONS.

On Thursday of last week the United States Senate took up the subject of spending money on election campaigns. In the course of the talk Senator Owen said the Lumber Trust had spent $40,000 in Oklahoma to secure his defeat. Senator Saulsbury asserted that on one occasion $50,000 was spent in Delaware the night before an election in an effort to influence voters. Senator Penrose referred to a report that it cost a million dollars to elect Mr Wilson to the presidency, and Senator O'Gorman asked if in 1898 the amount spent to elect Mr McKinley to the same high office was not $2,500,000. The advancement of these charges grew out of the discussion of a bill which proposed to limit to $400,000 the sum that might legally be spent by a party organization in a presidential campaign, to restrict to $5,000 the amount of individual contributions, to forbid contributions to campaign funds by corporations, to prevent the buying of voters, and to impose heavy penalties for violations of the law. The charges will have a familiar sound in Canadian ears. This country and the United States have to face similar problems in connection with the working of their political institutions, and in striving to get solutions they seem to meet the same failures. Perhaps the weakness is less in the law than in the people, for whom the law is made. There are certain offences against individuals and society, the commission of which turns every man's hand against the culprit. There are others on which the community looks with a lenient eye. Unfortunately men who break the laws against fairness at elections are generally included in the category of light offenders. Each party knows that there are black sheep among its flock, and the indignation expressed over an exposure is designed more for moral effect among good people than as a rebuke to the sinners. The remedy may be secured in time, says the Montreal Gazette. In both Canada and the United States in recent years men have been sent to jail for acts of electoral corruption, and every additional case of the kind means an advance in the education of the people on right lines. No one of self-respect now defends the electoral corruptionist, and the number who are ready to excuse his acts grows smaller. Once this could hardly have been said. It is possible, also, that the mischief caused by corruption is local rather than general. When a great issue stirs a people the campaign fund loses its force. If it could be put out of existence it would be well.

Ottawa Free Press: The wide publicity that has been given to the epidemic of infantile paralysis in New York has led to fears being expressed in London and Paris of the infection being carried to those cities, just as there has been undue apprehension in Canada of the disease being brought to this country. The statement made by Professor Arnold Netter of the French Academy of Medicine, however, to the effect that infantile paralysis is "a malady as old as the world" and that it has been successfully treated for years confirms the opinion held that too much alarm has been raised about the disease. There is no evidence that the disease is more prevalent this year in Canada than in other years, although the frequent printing of newspaper despatches reporting isolated cases in widely separated districts might create the opposite impression.

At Weston, Ont., according to newspaper reports, the recruiting officers got some queer replies on the application cards which had been personally handed to all the eligible men of the district. Some of the answers to "Reasons Why I Cannot Serve My Country" were: "Too many casualties," "Folks won't let me off," "Latter Day Saint, so do not believe in killing people," "Have good reasons, but won't give them," "Family finances and am working on munitions," "Wife won't let me," "Our Bill is indispensable," "Taking out a patent for a new rifle sight," etc. Evidently the registration was not taken seriously by quite a few in the locality.

Canadians who have been fighting in Mesopotamia, like the Anzac brothers, agree in praising the Turk as a brave and honest opponent. Yet the Turk is the man responsible for the Armenian massacres. It would seem that the hatred the true son of Turkey bears for the Armenians impels him to treat those Christians in a way he would not dream of where any other enemy was concerned.

Up to date no one has suspected ex-Hon. Col. J. Wesley Allison of pulling down the walls of the Parliament Buildings.—Ottawa Free Press. No chance. There are too many Liberals fussing over those walls.

Nearly $100,000 changed hands in a day at the Windsor race track. It was registered by the betting machines. The province gets $1,200 a day from the track, and 1c. per ticket sold. Its share of the gambling should be larger, when it sanctions the racing—during the war.—Kingston Whig.

The Poets' Corner

THE PUREST JOY.

If I can live
To make some pale face brighter, and to give
A second lustre to some tear-dimmed eye,
Or e'en impart
One throb of comfort to an aching heart,
Or cheer some wayworn soul in passing by;

If I can lend
A strong hand to the fallen, or defend
The right against a single envious strain,
My life, though bare
Perhaps of much that seemeth dear and fair
To us on earth, will not have been in vain.

The purest joy,
Most near to heaven, far from earth's alloy,
Is bidding clouds give way to sun and shine,
And 'twill be well
If on that day of days the angels tell
Of me: "She did her best for one of Thine."

CONSTRUCTION CORPS FULL.

Lieut.-Colonel Ripley's Battalion is Ready to Go Overseas.

No. 1 Construction Battalion, which started recruiting in Toronto on May 12, has already filled its ranks to the number of 1,050 men, and is now in camp at Valcartier for a short period of training before going overseas. In the ranks are a number of graduate civil engineers who are qualified as lieutenants, but have resigned their rank in order to go overseas with the battalion. In this category are Lieutenants Jupp, Mitchell, Lindsay, and Nicholl, all of whom have completed courses at the School of Practical Science here, and a number of graduates in engineering from McGill University. There are also a number of men who have filled important positions as construction men for the Canadian Pacific, Canadian Northern, Grand Trunk, and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways, and on the new Welland Canal. Mr. E. P. Muntz, who had charge of a section of the Welland Canal, for instance, was taken on the strength the other day as a supernumerary lieutenant.

An analysis of the first 600 men recruited shows the wide range of callings represented in the battalion. They were classified as follows: Blacksmiths (general) 14, bricklayers 21, carpenters 72, concrete workers 33, cooks 17, construction foremen 17, civil engineers 7, draughtsmen and surveyors 4, drivers and teamsters 24, dynamite men 2, farmers and drovers 19, firemen 15, iron workers 26, laborers (railway construction) 91, locomotive engineers 5, machinists 68, miners 11, plumbers and steamfitters 19, stationary engineers 11, stationary engineers (cranemen, drillers, etc.) 23, sailors 3, shoe workers 3, timbermen 8, tradesmen 72, tailors 3, trackmen and section men 12.

Some 57 men were taken on the strength of the battalion in a single week at St. John, N.B., where the officer in charge of recruiting is Lt. Frederick G. Cross, who has been engaged in construction work for the Canadian Pacific Railway in Western Canada for the past seven or eight years. During the same period 59 men were secured at Montreal, and others have been enlisted at Fort William, Sudbury, Parry Sound, Pembroke, Windsor, London, St. Thomas, and other places.

Lieut.-Colonel Ripley, the officer commanding No. 1 Construction Battalion, has had much experience as a railway construction engineer. He has had charge of railway building in every province of Canada, and has done work in the United States. The unit is not yet known as a railway construction battalion, but, with the experience of the commanding officer and the railway engineers among the officers and the class of men being enrolled, it will be able to carry on high-class railway work, including tunnelling and bridge building in France.

Got His Answer.

An inquisitive gentleman, riding in a Belt Line car in Toronto, noticed that a man opposite him carried upon his knees a small black box of somewhat peculiar construction.

The inquisitive one eyed it furtively for a brief while, then, unable to restrain his curiosity, he leaned forward and remarked:

"You seem to take great care of that box, sir. May I ask what it contains?"

"Certainly. It contains a mongoose," was the reply.

"Oh, indeed," exclaimed the other, his curiosity still unsatisfied. "A mongoose! And pray what is that, sir?"

"Well, the fact is," explained the owner of the box, lowering his voice, "I have got a friend who has got delirium tremens, and he fancies he sees snakes. Now, the mongoose, you know, kills snakes, so I am taking it to him."

"Dear me!" cried the surprised recipient of this piece of information. "But—but"—here he thought hard for several seconds—"but surely you do not want a real mongoose to kill imaginary snakes?"

"Of course not," was the reply. "This is only an imaginary mongoose."

Maples Around Graves.

Canadian maples are to be planted around the graves of Canadian soldiers in France. Seed of the red and silver maple, ripened at Ottawa, has been sent to London by Dominion Horticulturist W. T. Macoun and planted in Kew Gardens. After the war the little trees from these seeds are to be transplanted in France. Seeds of the large-leaved maple of British Columbia are to be sent to London for the same purpose, as soon as ripe.

Private Clark Of The 155th Passes Away

Private James Clarke, who was an efficient and much respected member of the 155th Battalion, died on Saturday night at Ongawonda Military hospital at Kingston. Deceasd was a resident of College Hill, Belleville, and the remains were brought here after being prepared for burial. Mrs. Clarke was at the bedside of her husband when the end came, and she is most profuse in her thanks for the treatment accorded her husband by the officers of the 155th and the hospital attendants. Inflammation of the kidneys was the cause of death.

Pte. Clarke, who was 43 years of age, was born at South Shields, England. Six years ago he came to Belleville, and was employed as a boiler maker at the G. T. R. shops here. Although he had a lucrative position the call to arms was louder, and in March last he enlisted with the 155th Battalion to fight for King and Country. He was taken ill at Barriefield some days ago, and everything possible was done by military and other physicians to save his life, but of no avail. Deceased was a member of Oxford Lodge, Sons of England, in this city, and was a member of the Tabernacle Methodist Church. In England, he joined the Boiler Makers Association, retaining a membership up to the time of his demise. The widow and a military escort accompanied the remains to Belleville. In addition to the widow a young son, George, survives. To them will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of all citizens. Pte. Clarke was deservedly popular with his fellow workmen whilst working in the G. T. R. shop here. The funeral will be held under the auspices of the Sons of England and a military escort will also be present.

Sunday At The Canvas Tabernacle

Evangelist Johnston Takes Up The "Seal of God and the Mark of the Beast"

A large crowd was present at the canvas pavilion last night on the corner of Victoria and Pinnacle, to hear Evangelist Johnston on the "Seal of God and the Mark of the Beast." In developing this theme he proved from the scriptures that these were two great rival institutions, one in direct opposition to the other. After defining what a seal means that according to 1 Kings 21:8 and Esther 8:8 it 's something attached to a written document to make it valid and that such is also true of the seal of Great Britain; he showed that the same must be true of the "Seal of God." But where is this seal he enquired? The answer is given in Isa. 8:16 where it says to "Seal the law among my desciples." If therefore the seal is found in God's law, the ten commandments, how are we going to know it? After analysing each precept he proved that the seal of God was found in the fourth command concerning the observance of the Sabbath; for it alone, contains the three distinguishing points of a seal—the name, authority and territory. But the Sabbath, he declined, is not Sunday, but Saturday, the day that the Lord commanded, the day that he kept and also the day that was kept by the apostles. Nor is there any command he declared for keeping holy the first day of the week called Sunday. After referring to many texts to prove the binding claims of God's law and the seventh day, he then proceeded to show what the mark of the Beast is referred to in Rev. 1419. After showing the Beast to be Roman Catholicism according to the identification in Rev. 13:5-8 and also Ver. 18, he then enquired as to what is their Mark. It must be something which they claim themselves as a Mark of their authority and power. What is it? He opened up their Catechisms and proved that the one thing claimed by them as a mark of their power was the changing of the Sabbath from Saturday to Sunday. Sunday keeping he said was proven nowhere except in their catechisms, and yet Protestants who claim to take the Bible as their guide are keeping a Catholic holiday, when they keep Sunday instead of the true Sabbath or Saturday. He spoke of the offer of Father Enright, where he offered $1,000 to anyone who would prove from the Bible alone that we are bound to keep Sunday. That offer has been made for years and no one has yet attempted to win it. The service was an interesting one all the way through and at the close of the sermon an excellent duet was rendered by Mrs. Farrel and Mr. Kelly.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

AN ABSOLUTE NEED

Dear Sir:—Kindly permit me space through your valuable paper to draw the attention of the council to the very unsafe, and unsightly condition of the sidewalk on Patterson street. The residents along this street cannot walk to and from their homes in safety, as well as the general public. The attention of the council has been called to remedy this very bad walk several times, and all that would be done is patch work of old planks, that would not be tolerated in any town or village in the country—Where is there in the city, such a street, that has such good property, where rents are so high, with such a disgraceful sidewalk? There is none other in the city. The street also, is in a very bad condition, but perhaps that cannot be avoided on account of the recent wash out by the heavy rains, but surely the residents and public generally might be protected from some severe accident which will surely happen to some one, if the condition of this old board walk is not permanently remedied, and thus save the city extra expense, and insure the public safety, and also add beauty to our already beautiful city.

Thanking you Mr. Editor,
I remain,
Yours truly,
Taxpayer.

It has been ascertained that no less than three churches in Belleville were broken into on Friday night, but no money was secured and nothing missed. The sacred edifices entered were St. Thomas', St. Andrews' and St. Michaels'. The impression prevails that the party or parties guilty of the offence are outsiders.

HORSE FELL ON PAVEMENT

A man named Trumpour, reported on Saturday evening that his horse, which was left standing at the curb on the west side of Front street, had been knocked down by an auto. Upon investigation it was learned that an auto being driven close to the animal startled it and in making a sudden move slipped and fell. No damage resulted.

"What assassins!" exclaimed the shocked Frenchman. "Would that I were safely back in France!"

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

MAKING A PROTEST

(Kingston Standard)

There is considerable dissatisfaction over the fact that North Hastings has been turned over to Peterboro to form a partof the recruiting area for the 247th Battalion to be commanded by Lt.-Col. Johnston, with headquarters at Peterboro. A strong protest has been made against the division of Hastings by the recruiting officer, and this protest will be maintained until North Hastings is returned to the fold of the county in which it is expected that a new battalion will be recruited and trained for the coming winter with Major Allen, now of the 155th Battalion in command. The headquarters of the new battalion which will be recruited in Hastings and Prince Edward counties, will be Belleville, and in view of the fine showing that Belleville and Hastings have made in recruiting, it is claimed that a divison of the county of Hastings, and the part given to Peterboro, is unfair and will result in injury to both Peterboro and Belleville in recruiting. Men of influence from Hastings who have visited the camp at Barriefield since the announcement was made a week ago stating that North Hastings would be given to Peterboro, seemed determined that the change shall not take place, as they are anxious to keep the whole of Hastings for the recruiting of their own new battalion. Since the war began Hastings has done well, for out of it has gone men for the 2nd battalion, and many of the departmental corps at the commencement of the war. It raised the 39th Battalion, the 80th, and the 155th. It recruited a complete ammunition column, and has contributed to the 21st, the 59th, and quite liberally to artillery units and other infantry units now at the front, and the people feel that if permitted to keep their county as a whole, they can recruit another battalion.

A SAVING OF 53 CENTS

While visiting the Grenade and Trench School on Thursday, Sir Mackenzie Bowell was shown by Captain Sharpe the various kind of British and German hand bombs and grenades, and when Sir Mackenzie saw the fuse-block, he gave the information that these were formerly made of bronze, and cost the Government 55 cents each. These heads are now made of wood by an American firm at a cost of two cents each, thus making a tremendous saving in the manufacture of these much-used parts of shells and grenades.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR 156TH MEN

In spite of the fact that Capt. A. E. Hagar, chaplain 156th Battalion, is very busy with work qualifying as an infantry officer at the school, he nevertheless finds enough time to keep the boys of the battalion in good spirits. The concert given on Thursday evening was one of the best yet held at the camp. Those taking part included the following: Miss Parrott, Miss Timmerman, Messrs. J. Saunders, Wiskin, Greaves and Lance-Corpl. Battey. Solos, recitations and readings made a very enjoyable evening.

WARRANTS GRANTED

All the men of the 155th Battalion band have been granted warrant rank in the 15th Regiment, which is commanded by Lt.-Col. Barragar of Belleville. The promotion is a most deserving one, and all will be pleased to know that the bandmaster has received the rank which will allow him to place W.O. to his name. Bandmaster Hinchey has made the band of the 155th a credit to the battalion, and wherever they play they secure praise and compliment for their good work.

NOTES

Fifteen men have been transferred from the 155th to the Special Service Battalion.

The band of the 155th Battalion will give a concert in the Salvation Army Citadel about the 11th or 12th of September.

Among those granted certificates of proficiency in machine gunnery (Lewis and Colt) in connection with the School of Machine Gunnery, are Corp. H. J. Levitt and Pte. F. L. Dollin, of the 155th Battalion.

The 154th, 155th and 156th Battalions were turned out yesterday afternoon to search for the escaped prisoners from Fort Henry. The boys all relished the job of hunting Germans.

John Brown, ex-policeman of New York City, told the story of his life in the big tent of the 156th Battalion last night. The tent was crowded, and all listened intently to the thrilling story of this man's remarkable career. Mr. Brown knows how to drive home the truth with sledge-hammer blows.

All of the officers and men of the 154th were on parade Friday morning, as usual, and none seemed any the worse for the trip to Cornwall and the strenuous time they had for two days at the presentation of their colors. Just a few of the men of the 154th complain of sore feet.

Private Clark Of The 155th Passes Away

Private James Clarke, who was an efficient and much respected member of the 155th Battalion, died on Saturday night at Ongawonda Military hospital at Kingston. Deceasd was a resident of College Hill, Belleville, and the remains were brought here after being prepared for burial. Mrs. Clarke was at the bedside of her husband when the end came, and she is most profuse in her thanks for the treatment accorded her husband by the officers of the 155th and the hospital attendants. Inflammation of the kidneys was the cause of death.

Pte. Clarke, who was 43 years of age, was born at South Shields, England. Six years ago he came to Belleville, and was employed as a boiler maker at the G. T. R. shops here. Although he had a lucrative position the call to arms was louder, and in March last he enlisted with the 155th Battalion to fight for King and Country. He was taken ill at Barriefield some days ago, and everything possible was done by military and other physicians to save his life, but of no avail. Deceased was a member of Oxford Lodge, Sons of England, in this city, and was a member of the Tabernacle Methodist Church. In England, he joined the Boiler Makers Association, retaining a membership up to the time of his demise. The widow and a military escort accompanied the remains to Belleville. In addition to the widow a young son, George, survives. To them will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of all citizens. Pte. Clarke was deservedly popular with his fellow workmen whilst working in the G. T. R. shop here. The funeral will be held under the auspices of the Sons of England and a military escort will also be present.

Sunday At The Canvas Tabernacle

Evangelist Johnston Takes Up The "Seal of God and the Mark of the Beast"

A large crowd was present at the canvas pavilion last night on the corner of Victoria and Pinnacle, to hear Evangelist Johnston on the "Seal of God and the Mark of the Beast." In developing this theme he proved from the scriptures that these were two great rival institutions, one in direct opposition to the other. After defining what a seal means that according to 1 Kings 21:8 and Esther 8:8 it 's something attached to a written document to make it valid and that such is also true of the seal of Great Britain; he showed that the same must be true of the "Seal of God." But where is this seal he enquired? The answer is given in Isa. 8:16 where it says to "Seal the law among my desciples." If therefore the seal is found in God's law, the ten commandments, how are we going to know it? After analysing each precept he proved that the seal of God was found in the fourth command concerning the observance of the Sabbath; for it alone, contains the three distinguishing points of a seal—the name, authority and territory. But the Sabbath, he declined, is not Sunday, but Saturday, the day that the Lord commanded, the day that he kept and also the day that was kept by the apostles. Nor is there any command he declared for keeping holy the first day of the week called Sunday. After referring to many texts to prove the binding claims of God's law and the seventh day, he then proceeded to show what the mark of the Beast is referred to in Rev. 1419. After showing the Beast to be Roman Catholicism according to the identification in Rev. 13:5-8 and also Ver. 18, he then enquired as to what is their Mark. It must be something which they claim themselves as a Mark of their authority and power. What is it? He opened up their Catechisms and proved that the one thing claimed by them as a mark of their power was the changing of the Sabbath from Saturday to Sunday. Sunday keeping he said was proven nowhere except in their catechisms, and yet Protestants who claim to take the Bible as their guide are keeping a Catholic holiday, when they keep Sunday instead of the true Sabbath or Saturday. He spoke of the offer of Father Enright, where he offered $1,000 to anyone who would prove from the Bible alone that we are bound to keep Sunday. That offer has been made for years and no one has yet attempted to win it. The service was an interesting one all the way through and at the close of the sermon an excellent duet was rendered by Mrs. Farrel and Mr. Kelly.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

AN ABSOLUTE NEED

Dear Sir:—Kindly permit me space through your valuable paper to draw the attention of the council to the very unsafe, and unsightly condition of the sidewalk on Patterson street. The residents along this street cannot walk to and from their homes in safety, as well as the general public. The attention of the council has been called to remedy this very bad walk several times, and all that would be done is patch work of old planks, that would not be tolerated in any town or village in the country—Where is there in the city, such a street, that has such good property, where rents are so high, with such a disgraceful sidewalk? There is none other in the city. The street also, is in a very bad condition, but perhaps that cannot be avoided on account of the recent wash out by the heavy rains, but surely the residents and public generally might be protected from some severe accident which will surely happen to some one, if the condition of this old board walk is not permanently remedied, and thus save the city extra expense, and insure the public safety, and also add beauty to our already beautiful city,

Thanking you Mr. Editor,
I remain,
Yours truly,
Taxpayer.

IN & ABOUT THE CITY

TWO ARRESTS MADE

Two arrests were made on Saturday, the victims being a drunk and a vagrant. The latter is an old man who has been about the city for some time.

THREE CHURCHES ENTERED

It has been ascertained that no less than three churches in Belleville were broken into on Friday night, but no money was secured and nothing missed. The sacred edifices entered were St. Thomas', St. Andrews' and St. Michaels'. The impression prevails that the party or parties guilty of the offence are outsiders.

HORSE FELL ON PAVEMENT

A man named Trumpour, reported on Saturday evening that his horse, which was left standing at the curb on the west side of Front street, had been knocked down by an auto. Upon investigation it was learned that an auto being driven close to the animal startled it and in making a sudden move slipped and fell. No damage resulted.

WANTED MORE SAFETY.

A Frenchman was waiting at a railroa dstation in Ireland when a couple of natives sat down beside him. Said one:

"Sure, Pat, it's down to Kilmary I've been and I'm on me way back now to Kilpatrick."

"Ye don't say," said the other. "It's meself that's just after being down to Kilkenny and I stop a bit before I go to Kilmoor."

"What assassins!" exclaimed the shocked Frenchman. "Would that I were safely back in France!"

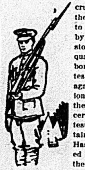
MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

MAKING A PROTEST

(Kingston Standard)



There is considerable dissatisfaction over the fact that North Hastings has been turned over to Peterboro to form a partof the recruiting area for the 247th Battalion to be commanded by Lt.-Col. Johnston, with headquarters at Peterboro. A strong protest has been made against the division of Hastings by the recruiting officer, and this protest will be maintained until North Hastings is returned to the fold of the county in which it is expected that a new battalion will be recruited and trained for the coming winter with Major, Allen, now of the 155th Battalion in command. The headquarters of the new battalion which will be recruited in Hastings and Prince Edward counties, will be Belleville, and in view of the fine showing that Belleville and Hastings have made in recruiting, it is claimed that a divison of the county of Hastings, and the part given to Peterboro, is unfair and will result in injury to both Peterboro and Belleville in recruiting. Men of influence from Hastings who have visited the camp at Barriefield since the announcement was made a week ago stating that North Hastings would be given to Peterboro, seemed determined that the change shall not take place, as they are anxious to keep the whole of Hastings for the recruiting of their own new battalion. Since the war began Hastings has done well, for out of it has gone men for the 2nd battalion, and many of the departmental corps at the commencement of the war. It raised the 39th Battalion, the 80th, and the 155th. It recruited a complete ammunition column, and has contributed to the 21st, the 59th, and quite liberally to artillery units and other infantry units now at the front, and the people feel that if permitted to keep their county as a whole, they can recruit another battalion.

A SAVING OF 53 CENTS

While visiting the Grenade and Trench School on Thursday, Sir Mackenzie Bowell was shown by Captain Sharpe the various kind of British and German hand bombs and grenades, and when Sir Mackenzie saw the fuse-block, he gave the information that these were formerly made of bronze, and cost the Government 55 cents each. These heads are now made of wood by an American firm at a cost of two cents each, thus making a tremendous saving in the manufacture of these much-used parts of shells and grenades.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR 156TH MEN

In spite of the fact that Capt. A. E. Hagar, chaplain 156th Battalion, is very busy with work qualifying as an infantry officer at the school, he nevertheless finds enough time to keep the boys of the battalion in good spirits. The concert given on Thursday evening was one of the best yet held at the camp. Those taking part included the following: Miss Parrott, Miss Timmerman, Messrs. J. Saunders, Wiskin, Greaves and Lance-Corpl. Battey. Solos, recitations and readings made a very enjoyable evening.

WARRANTS GRANTED

All the men of the 155th Battalion band have been granted warrant rank in the 15th Regiment, which is commanded by Lt.-Col. Barragar of Belleville. The promotion is a most deserving one, and all will be pleased to know that the bandmaster has received the rank which will allow him to place W.O. to his name. Bandmaster Hinchey has made the band of the 155th a credit to the battalion, and wherever they play they secure praise and compliment for their good work.

NOTES

Fifteen men have been transferred from the 155th to the Special Service Battalion.

The band of the 155th Battalion will give a concert in the Salvation Army Citadel about the 11th or 12th of September.

Among those granted certificates of proficiency in machine gunnery (Lewis and Colt) in connection with the School of Machine Gunnery, are Corp. H. J. Levitt and Pte. F. L. Dollin, of the 155th Battalion.

The 154th, 155th and 156th Battalions were turned out yesterday afternoon to search for the escaped prisoners from Fort Henry. The boys all relished the job of hunting Germans.

John Brown, ex-policeman of New York City, told the story of his life in the big tent of the 156th Battalion last night. The tent was crowded, and all listened intently to the thrilling story of this man's remarkable career. Mr. Brown knows how to drive home the truth with sledge-hammer blows.

All of the officers and men of the 154th were on parade Friday morning, as usual, and none seemed any the worse for the trip to Cornwall and the strenuous time they had for two days at the presentation of their colors. Just a few of the men of the 154th complain of sore feet.

SIR GEORGE PERLEY SAYS ROUMANIA'S ACT IS VERY SIGNIFICANT

Canadian Press Special.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—Sir George Perley, Acting Canadian High Commissioner in London, who was here today to open the Exhibition, stated in an interview that he attached great importance to the Roumanian declaration of war. "It is not only the additional of her military strength to the Allies' cause, but the significance of the move at the present time is of far reaching importance."

PRIEST'S AUTO OVERTURNED

SANDWICH, Aug., 28—Special—Rev. Father F. Cody pastor of L'Assomption Church here, was badly bruised about the body and had his shoulders slightly dislocated yesterday afternoon when an automobile he was driving on his retrun from a sick call turned turtle and pinioned him beneath it. The accident occurred at the intersection of Detroit and Bedford streets about five o'clock.

Past sweeping fields of yellowing wheat, orchards that glistened with the swelling fruitage, fields of dimpling cabbage and divers garden stuff—with houses every little way—the traveler's buggy hums along the Old Mill road through the village to the hotel—verandah in front and driving shed to one side, grass-plotted, gay with carefully tended beds of flowers. Facing the picturesque tavern opens the top of the steep-winding road that slants down to the old brick mill and its bridge near the dam, where the boys have their swimimng hole. Fields, houses, gardens, orchards—they stretch along the road for a mile, pleasantly alternated.

The above is not a description of some hamlet in rural Ontario where busses still tie the inhabitants to civilization once or twice daily. It is Todmorden, the quaint district over the Don, east from the new Government House and the brick yards. "Mill Road" was the old name for Broadview avenue.

Probably only one in every thousand citizens has ever been there, although one has only to keep on up Broadview avenue from Danforth, or arrive at the same intersection by following the road which ascends the eastern hill from Winchester street bridge. Todmorden is entirely isolated from the city otherwise, except by a roundabout access from Yonge street at Deer Park, crossing Moore Park bridge and turning down Bayview avenue to where it meets the C.P.R. tracks; a winding hillside road can be descended thence which brings the wayfarer to the bridge at Todmorden's mill.

The village is a little bit of Old England set down in York County; it was founded principally by folk from Yorkshire and Devon. Todmorden's inaccessibility is probably responsible for the fact that—unlike every other adjacent suburb—none of the farms have yet tempted the real estate men to exploit their dinky lots.

Co-operative Wool Selling.

The co-operative system has been successfully applied to the marketing of wool in Quebec, the work being under the direction of Mr. A. A. MacMillan of Macdonald Agricultural College.

The amount of wool handled this season was 169,839 pounds, with a total value of $71,092.70. Medium combing, fine medium combing, and medium combing grades sold at 43c a pound. Low medium combing at 42c, coarse combing at 41c, black and grey and rejections at 38c. Fifty-one per cent. of the wool sold for 43c a pound, while the average price for all grades, including rejections, was 41.8c a pound. The associations had no difficulty in selling their wool to Canadian mills immediately after grading at the above prices, which were f. o. b. at shipping points. The wool throughout was put up in excellent shape for market, and was considered one of the choicest lots of Canadian wool offered for sale this year. Local prices for ungraded wool throughout the Province ranged between 31c and 35c a pound, so that grading and co-operative sale netted members a gain of seven to twelve cents a pound, or twenty to forty per cent. advance.

SPORTING NEWS

BASEBALL.

TOBACCO BALL IS THE LATEST

Coast Pitcher Uncorks New Fangled Delivery.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 26.—Jack Ryan of Los Angeles, has a new one. The Angel flinger is always uncorking some newfangled kind of a delivery. Jack's latest could best be called the "tobacco ball."

That, however, would be nothing new, as pitchers have been known to squirt tobacco juice on the ball ever since the art of chewing tobacco was first invented. Others say that Jack's new delivery is nothing more or less than a new way of delivering a "spitter," so as to control the direction of its break.

Whatever it is, Ryan figured it out during one of the rainy days when the Angels were here last.

Early one morning Jack announced to Frank LeRoy Chance and the rest of the gang that he had evolved a curve that would set them all down. The day before he had spent experimenting with the spitter.

After leaving Portland he tried it out in Salt Lake. His ability to make the ball break four different ways aroused the suspicions of Umpires Phyle and Doyle and they scrutinized the ball, but could find nothing wrong. The same thing happened last Thursday when Ryan beat the Tigers.

Once the entire Vernon team clustered about the ball and submitted it to a searching investigation. Umpire Ed Finney, after the game, declared that he could find nothing wrong with the sphere, except in the cases when he threw two out which had been cut by the wire netting.

It will be remembered that Ryan originated the "mud ball" here last season. It is the height of his glory to get hold of a ball that has been roughed by hitting the sand or in some other manner and toss it to a batter, for the veteran can make it curve thirty-six different ways.

HE'S JUST ONE OF THE BOYS

Christy Mathewson is just one of the boys with his Cincinnati Reds, in spite of being manager.

That's one big difference between him and Buck Herzog, whom he succeeded. This Matty made plain right at the start when Trainer Doc Hoskins was piloting Matty around the Reds' club house.

"There's the manager's private dressing room and office," he said, opening the door of the quarters which had been sacred to Herzog.

"Never mind that room, Doc," Matty quickly replied, "I won't need it. Just give me a locker in the main room with the rest of the boys. I'm a player and I want to be with the other players."

TRAP SHOOTING.

WONDERFUL TRAP-SHOOTING

Some remarkable trap-shooting records have been made in recent tournaments, several of which appear likely to withstand the shooting assaults of trap experts for a considerable period. Charles A. Young, a professional, broke 100 straight targets from the 23-yard mark on July 15, and just previous to Young's feat A. B. Richardson broke 99 out of 100 from the 22-yard mark. As a result the present world's records stand as follows:—16 yards, Charles G. Spencer, 565 straight; 21 yards, Harry S. Welles, 136 straight; 22 yards, A. B. Richardson, 99 straight; 23 yards, C. A. Young, 100 straight.

EIGHTH TRACK AT MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Aug. 26.— Gossip is going the rounds locally of an eighth race track to be built here-abouts. The location for the proposed new plant is said to be within a hundred yards of the entrance of the Mount Royal course. Local men of standing are said to be behind this newest venture, who claim to have a charter which permits them to hold running races. No meeting at the new track for this season is contemplated, however.

A REMARKABLE SADDLE RECORD

(Ottawa Free Press)

We have with us today Frankie Robinson, the eighteen-year-old jockey, who has been the sensation of the Canadian turf this season. Frank is a smart looking little fellow, clear of eye, and clean of limb. He sports as beautiful a set of ivories as you would care to see. This boy comes from Cleveland, Ohio, and is a younger brother of Ted Robinson, a famous rider ten years ago. He got in yesterday and spent a quiet day in his room at the Chateau. This is his first appearance in Ottawa, though he has ridden in Montreal.

Robinson comes in the wake of a remarkable riding record. He piloted ten winners home at the first Windsor meeting, sixteen at Hamilton, fifteen at Fort Erie, and at the fall Windsor meeting completed on Wednesday, guided fourteen horses home in front.

Frank broke into the game when fourteen years of age, accompanying his brother to Latonia, where he galloped horses over the Kentucky tracks. The winter 1915 he rode in Cuba, where he was astride thirty-three winners. Robinson is under contract to Ed Trotter, of Indiana, who owns Black Broom, A. N. Akin, Aristocrat, and other good horses, but is riding at the three eastern meetings for A. C. Parretto. His mounts will find popular favor among the talent in Ottawa, who have followed his work closely in the west. The youngster is very modest about his achievements, and doesn't care to chin any more about himself than he has to.

War Tax As Assessed In New Zealand

A Radical Scheme Which Covers Large Incomes and Excess Profits

OTTAWA, Aug. 28—A radical scheme of war taxation is outlined in the second war budget, which has been presented to the New Zealand House of Representatives, according to a report presented to the Trade and Commerce Department by Commissioner Beddoe, of Auckland. An income tax and a 45 per cent. tax on all profits realized from war conditions are among the measures proposed. The complete summary of the new proposals is as follows: The reduction of public works expenditure, the imposition of an income tax on sums invested on mortgage by owners, the provision for annual bonus out of profits of public trust office to beneficiaries of estates; the provision for war bonus during the war to employees of all branches of the public service whose pay does not exceed $1,575 per annum, the provision of $10,000,000 for internal expenditure and $25,000,000 for the purchase of land for soldiers; the adjustment of legislation of changed banking conditions caused by the war, the acquirement of 45 per cent. of profits realized on war conditions, the issue of war bonds in New Zealand to provide a proportion of the cost of the war, a 5 per cent. income tax exclusive of those obtained from war profits, the regulation of the transfer from New Zealand of moneys except for legitimate trade purposes, the regulation of the rate of interest chargeable on deposits, the provision of financial assistance to friendly societies, borrowing an additional $80,000,000 for war purposes. An increase of over $1,000,000 in revenue is shown by the figures for the 1916 fiscal year.

Bug Invaded A Motorist's Ear

KINGSTON, Aug. 28. — A well-known citizen had an unusual experience yesterday afternoon while motoring with some companions above Bath on the way to Belleville. As the auto was speeding merrily along the young man felt a sharp pain in one side of his head, which rapidly became worse, and grew so alarming that the car was turned about and headed for Bath, where medical aid was summoned. An examination showed that an insect had lodged in the ear of the unfortunate young man, and the best efforts of the Bath physician failed to dislodge it. He succeeded, however, in killing the insect, which proved a great relief to the sufferer, who came back to the city to-day on the Bay boat and sought aid at a local hospital.

Escaped Huns Reach Clayton

And Tell How They Escaped From Fort Henry Internment Camp They Hid In A Hole

KINGSTON, Aug. 28.—The two ex-German officers who escaped from the Fort Henry internment camp on Wednesday after having given their word of "honor" not to do so in return for privileges accorded them, made a safe getaway as indicated by the following account of their adventures given at Clayton, N.Y., on Saturday.

One of the most thrilling escapes from a military prison ever recorded was that made by Willy Brubacher, 37, and Erwin John, 25, both officers of the German army, on Wednesday evening, August 23rd, from Fort Henry at Kingston, Ont. The two men made their way to Clayton and are now here.

The men found enthusiastic friends in Kurt Eisfeldt and May Irwin. Eisfeldt happened to be in Clayton this morning. He met the two Germans and conversed with them in their own tongue, much to their delight. He invited them to go to Irwin Isle as the luncheon guests of himself and his wife, Mrs. Irwin. They accepted and started off towards the actress's summer home in the motor boat. "The Widow Jones," returning to Clayton early this afternoon.

"We always admire courage," said May Irwin in discussing the exploits of the two young men. "And then, besides, haven't I got two boys of my own, and wouldn't I like to have some one take them in for a luncheon if they should be situated like this pair?"

HOW THEY ESCAPED

In conversation they told the story of their escape:

For some time the two had been digging a hole in the yard of the prison, large enough for both to enter. They had been allowed to plant a flower garden early in the summer, and when the plants were large enough had started digging in the centre of their garden.

Each day they carried boards, concealed under their prison suits, to the hole. When over the boards they placed a box filled with celery. This box also had holes for light and air At about three in the afternoon of Wednesday some fires were started for the purpose of burning up some rubbish at the opposite end of the prison yard. The guards' attention thus being taken, the two Germans immediately jumped into the hole, the box being replaced by a couple of their friends.

They were not missed until six that same evening, a search being started at that time. The two men could hear the confusion caused by the search, but went calmly on changing their prison suits for Canadian uniforms which they had purchased some time before of some Canadian soldiers.

At 10.30 that evening they stole out of the hole, jumped the high wall which surrounds the prison, crept on their hands and knees past the military camp and continued on their way toward Gananoque.

At daylight they hid in some bushes and remained concealed until dark. Thursday night they arrived at Gananoque and at 5.30 Friday morning they took an old skiff and started for Clayton. They landed near the home of John Johnson, a farmer residing about two miles and a half above Clayton, and were given their dinner there. After dinner they came to Clayton, made their report to the customs and immigrant officers and asked one of these officers to find out to whom the borrowed boat belonged and to notify John Johnson, who would repay the owner for the use of it.

While crossing from Gananoque one of the men was forced to bail water from the boat constantly to keep it from filling. After securing a new outfit and rooms at the Harold House they telephoned to the officer of the day at Kingston, telling him where they were and thanking him for the good times they had had during their stay there.

TRIED TO ESCAPE BEFORE

Why Bruchacher has been a prisoner at Kingston for the past 18 months. About 12 months ago he made his first trial for an escape by jumping from the second storey of the military hospital, a distance of about 50 feet. He was recognized by one of the officers and was then sent to Fort Henry.

Mr. Brubacher, before his arrest of 18 months ago, was the manager of a large paper mill near Quebec. He was arrested at Montreal.

Erwin John was a mechanic working in Chicago. He took the Michigan Central from Chicago to go to New York. It seems that this line runs for a short distance through Canada, and it was when he was going through this section that he was arrested by a Canadian officer as a German spy. Mr. John has been a prisoner for the past 20 months, this being his first attempt to escape.

COMPLAIN OF PRISON CONDITION

They say that the condition of the prison at Fort Henry might be improved. The roof is partly off and in the morning the beds would be wet with dew or rain. If tables or chairs were wanted the prisoners had to pay for them. The food was very scanty —hardly enough to sustain life. Many of the prisoners have lost their minds from the conditions of things in the prison, about fifteen having been removed when they became violent.

For many months the escaped prisoners have been saving money by hiding it in their shoes or belts.

The morning of the escape they had taken only such food as could be concealed in their clothing. By night this was all gone, and they had no more to eat until they arrived at John Johnson's.

Friday evening the young men telegraphed to New York for money which they received Saturday morning.

The British Government will be unable to make representations for the return of the men, it was said here today, inasmuch as they complied with every requirement in entering the country. The two escaped prisoners went at once to the immigration office here as soon as they landed and told their story. This formal report was made to Immigration Officer Howe and met with the requirements there.

Erwin John, one of the men, said to-day that he had made a formal offer to the Canadian Government of $2,500 if they would release him from the prison. He said he told them at that time that he would sign a stipulation not to enter the German service and not to engage in any work in behalf of the Canadian Government. He agreed to return at once to Chicago and to live there. They would not accept his offer, however. He was arrested January 4, 1915.

The above complaints by the two Germans do not tally with the reports of American Consul Johnson, which state that the prisoners have excellent quarters and splendid food.

DESPATCH ALL WITH BAYONET

Such Was an Order as Quoted by German Prisoner Taken by Allies

Canadian Press Special.

LONDON, Aug. 29—The Times correspondent on the Somme front, says a letter written by a German soldier of the Thirteenth army corps, taken prisoner, quotes an order issued to that corps which says: "Take no prisoners, but despatch them all with the bayonet." That would not be so bad, says the soldier's letter, but they always get prisoners from us too, and then what would they do with them.

Canadian Press Special.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—On the Somme at Verdun we are leading in the offensive and dominating the adversary, says an official note reviewing last week's operations on the French front. There is not a point in the general theatre of operations where the enemy is not actually reduced to the defensive. Actions which we have undertaken continue, despite resistance or counter-attacks of the enemy.

Knows Nothing Of Appointment

Toronto Star in Reorganizing The Cabinet Has Kingston's Member Slated as Minister of Labor

KINGSTON, Aug. 28.—W. F. Nickle, M.P., when asked when he would assume the role of Hon. W. F. Nickle, Minister of Labor, which the Toronto Star has thrust on him, said that he had heard nothing of this new honor and did not know where the Toronto Star gots its information.

Whether there would be any Cabinet changes he could not say, but he knew of none. The Star in its "appointments" stated that Mr Nickle would be popular to both parties, while his reputation as a broad minded man on labor matters would no doubt be acceptable to the labor man. The Star said a lot of nice things about Mr Nickle, all of which were true, but Mr Nickle says that he knows nothing regarding his elevation to a more important post.

MANY WOULD CONDUCT STANDARDIZED HOTELS

Applications Outnumber Present Hotel Licenses—License Board Busy Considering

TORONTO, Aug. 28—Shoals of applications have been made to the Ontario License Board to carry on business as Standardized hotels, and next week the Commissioners will be busy looking over the list. The applicants outnumber the present hotel licenses, this being accounted for by the additional places of accommodation in local option localities It is understood there will be a disposition on the part of the board not to shut out too many applications to begin with. the idea being to give a fair trial to make good.

The view has previously been advanced by those interested in making hotelkeeping a paying proposition that it would be advisable to discourage over-competition, but it is thought that the happy medium will in due course be reached by the weeding out of those who may be unable to get along successfully. In any event the Ontario License Board will do all that lies within its power to see that a good standard of hotelkeeping is maintained.

In a city like Ottawa, where the people voted at the begining of the year in favor of a reduction of licenses, the board, it is understood, will interpret this as directed at the bars and consequently applications for standard hotels will not be limited on this account.

HUSBAND MADE COMPLAINT

And His Young Wife is Now Unable to Cross the American Border

KINGSTON, Aug. 28.—Because her husband, Herbert J. Hasley, a former New York Central brakeman, of Watertown, N.Y., who has been residing in Kingston, made complaint against her to the Canadian immigrant authorities while she was visiting a sister, Mrs Helen Hasley, an attractive brunette, who was employed in a restaurant at Watertown, has been prevented from going back from Brockville.

The young woman is twenty-four years of age. Her husband came to Kingston, presumably to join an overseas battalion, but it is stated that he changed his mind and did not don the khaki. He is thirty-two years old.

Mrs Hasley has taken up the matter with the immigrant authorities at Montreal, who have insisted that she secure proper recommendations as to her character from reliable people in Watertown. She has a large number of friends, who are now interceding in her behalf, believing that she has been unjustly dealt with, through a spirit of vengeance on the part of her husband.

Mrs Hasley, who is a Canadian, was married to Hasley six years ago in Prescott.

In response to the wish of a teacher in one of the Public schools in Belleville, Master Jim Day, a young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Day, of this city, sent a game of authors to the front, and Master Jim yesterday received the following letter:—

Somewhere in Belgium,
Aug. 12th, 1916.

Dear Jim:—I wish to thank you for gift, the game "Authors," its some game Jim, we have lots of fun with it.

Will you please convey to your teacher our thanks for the interest taken, and say that all the boys are grateful for what is being done for them.

What do you think of the war Jim? I suppose your teacher tells you all about it.

We are having a great time over here fighting Fritz, he doesn't like Canadians at all—why sometimes he even shoots at us, and we shoot right back.

Did you ever see a real aeroplane, Jim? They are as thick as flies over here. It is a wonderful sight to see them flying together thousands of feet up, and to see the shells bursting about them makes your nerves tingle.

We will tell you all about it when we get back to the land of the "Maple Leaf." Best wishes to you and your pals.

I am your chum,
Corpl. Harry V. Doudy.

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

Y.M.C.A. WORK IN CAMP

The work of the military Y. M. C. A. under Mr. Wilson, has been a success since the day the camp opened. The best of entertainment has been furnished to the soldiers in the form of concerts, lectures, moving pictures, illustrated lectures, without one cent of cost to the men in khaki. A reading and writing tent has been maintained in which free reading matter, and free writing material has been furnished. At night the reading and writing tent has been well lighted with electric light, and made as comfortable as possible for the boys. Games, sporting material, in fact everything needed for the entertainment of men in camp has been kept by the "Y" staff, every member of which has been at the service of the soldier at all times. The religious work of the "Y" has been of the most helpful character to the men, and services have been held in the big tent, in the lines, in the large tents in the detention compound, and the men in hospital have been visited regularly. The staff have placed themselves at the disposal of every unit in camp to serve the soldier in any and every capacity, and there is not phase of camp life that has not been helped by the Y. M. C. A. workers in Barriefield camp.

LONGBOAT'S PHILOSOPHY

Famous Indian Runner Does Some Thinking, If Little Work.

Khaki Life: Tom Longboat sizes up the military situation at Camp Borden thusly: "The easiest time ever had in my life—nothing to do and a dollar ten a day for doing it."

Tom Longboat was resting the other morning discussing things generally with Father Kelly, while the others were cleaning up the lines. Asked why he was loafing, Tom replied: "The sergeant told me I was too good a soldier to be a guard and dismissed me." The Indian is not as green as he looks to some.

"I think I'll be a shot-putter," quoth Longboat, and then Father Kelly trimmed him by a few feet. Tom took it quietly, but he rooted hard for the clergy when he beat the other would-be heavers.

" Why shouldn't I rest," philosophizes the Redskin, "didn't my forefathers win all this country?" And it was up around this section that the Six Nations handed the Canadian Indians their death blow.

THE DRAFT OF OFFICERS

Twenty-six More are Leaving in the Near Future

Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, General Staff Officer, is preparing the list of officers for the next draft of subalterns to go from Military District No. 3 overseas.

There is a large surplus of junior officers waiting for appointments and the method of sending small groups in drafts should do much to relieve the trying situation. When consideration is made of the fact that the great majority made sacrifices to join the service and now having made those sacrifices have little chance of being appointed to an existing unit here, the pleasure that the announcement of a draft causes may be realized. Every officer is anxious that his name should go on the list and urgent means are used to bring this about. The draft is made up from a standpoint of efficiency.

WINTER IS COMING

The Militia Department is already looking out for wintertime with a request that has been received at headquarters asking what accommodation for soldiers can be made in Military District No. 3 during the winter months. The request is in the nature of an inquiry for data as to the location of supply stores and where goods that are to be contracted for are to be delivered.

SAME BASEBALL

The game played on Saturday with 161 men engaged is on the line of the latest method followed by the leading American colleges, which gets rid of particular teams, and gets "Everybody in it." The intention is to get every man in every battalion playing ball or whatever game is being played instead of leaving it to a chosen or expert few. Everybody entered into the fun of the game on Saturday and it is expected that other units will follow the 155th in this line and method of getting sport.

NOTES

Lieut. Cameron, professor of Albert College, Belleville, has been appointed an officer of the 155th Battalion.

Lieut Young of the 155th Battalion, has been taken on the strength of the instructional cadre of Military District No. 3, and on the H. Q. staff of Barriefield camp.

Lieut. Wylie, of the 154th, has been made Machine Gun officer of the Battalion, and will at once commence to organize a good Machine Gun Section in the 154th.

Jewish Rabbi Performs Rites

Ancient Ceremony of Interest to Many in This City

Ever since the command was given by Jehovah that the rite of circumcision should be administered to every male child born to a Hebrew, the ceremony has been of great interest, not only to the Hebrews, but to many others. By the divine command Abraham circumcised himself. A man cannot become a member of the Jewish nation without being circumcised, as I am informed. During all the centuries, from Abraham to the present time, the Hebrew people in all lands have religiously kept and observed the ceremonies of their faith. Other sects have in many cases made wonderful changes in their rituals and ceremonies, but the Hebrews have never changed. The fast days and the feast days of olden times are faithfully and religiously performed. It is a melancholy fact that during the centuries the Jews have been persecuted and massacred in almost every country in the world, simply because of their religion. One has only to read "The Merchant of Venice" and the deep pathos of the words of Shylock to understand something of what the Jews had to endure. Christ was a Jew. If the Jews of that day could have understood what Christ's mission really was, the crucifixion would not have taken place.

Rabbi L. L. Mittel, of Kingston, came here yesterday to perform the rite of circumcision upon the infant son of Mr Moses Tobe. A large company of both sexes attended the festival. The little infant, spotlessly clothed in white, the emblem of purity and innocence, was carried in on a pillow and placed in the arms of the Belleville Rabbi, who with a silken scarf around his shoulders and wearing his hat, held the child in a position to be operated upon. The Rabbi had a large array of vials filled with various fluids, a sponge and a large surgical instrument of keen edge. One of the party dipped a little cloth in a stimulant and applied it to the mouth of the child, frequently moistening his lips. The Rabbi repeating Hebrew phrases applied the instrument, performing the operation, staunching the wound with various liquids and applying a bandage.

The entire company sat down to one of the finest banquets I have ever attended. Every delicacy of the season was provided in quantities. The health of the young child, his father and mother, were drank with much enthusiasm. A speech in Hebrew was made by the Belleville Rabbi. A blessing was pronounced in Hebrew also by the Rabbi upon each of the guests. Many speeches were made and toasts drank. A collection was made for the Red Cross Fund. The toast of the King, drank with all the honors, and the proceedings closed with the National Anthem.—John J. B. Flint.

The Delight of Children

The self-developed, inner-flavor of New Post Toasties has a unique attraction for the kiddies—they even like them dry from the package for their lunches. A box of Toasties provides "eats" that will delight the children.

New Post Toasties are usually served with cream or good milk, in which form the flavor is more pronounced and the flakes more delicious. These New Post Toasties do not " chaff " or crumble in the package and they don't mush down when the milk or cream is added—both common defects of old-fashioned " corn flakes."

Then, too, notice the tiny " bubbles " on the flakes, produced by the quick, intense heat of a new patented process of making which imparts delightful crispness and a substantial body to the flakes.

New Post Toasties are a vast improvement over any old-style " corn flakes."

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE

BY

NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XXIV—continued

His disappointment was not of long duration however. Less than an hour had passed when Todd emerged from the house and walked rapidly away.

Chick did not recognize him at first. His hard, white features were hidden under a dark beard. He was clad in a rough woollen suit, instead of his customary stylish attire. A soft felt hat was drawn over his brow and he walked with a slough entirely foreign to him.

Chick quickly recognized his figure, however, and the significance of the changes mentioned.

"By Jove, this looks more like business—rascally business!" he said to himself. "There's something on for fair, and Nick hit the nail on the head Todd's the man to watch all right and I'll come pretty near doing it. I'll be hanged if I can guess what his game is, for all I'm wise to the most points of this affair."

Todd returned to New York riding on the front platform of a car instead of taking a seat on the inside.

At half-past eight that evening he was heading down Nassau Street with Chick trailing him on the opposite side of the street.

At the corner of Cedar Street he was joined by three men, with whom he talked for a moment. Then they separated in pairs and walked more rapidly down the street.

Five minutes later, as they were approaching the closed doors of the Ironclad National Bank, a policeman, suddenly appeared from a near building walked quickly in front of them and in a moment knocked sharply at the bank door. It was opened instantly and all three men vanished from the street.

"Holy smoke!" Chick mentally exclaimed." What's coming off in there? That was the same police captain I saw this afternoon. Is there some rascally game, or what was the racket? Why has Todd disguised himself in that fashion, only to meet those fellows and a policeman, and then duck into the bank that way? They were expected or the door wouldn't have been opened so quickly. There ought to be nobody there but a watchman or a janitor, unless——By Jove it's up to me to have a look, I reckon, If it's possible to get one."

Viewed from the front, the bank appeared to be in darkness, closed for the night. Upon entering a narrow alley adjoining the south side of the building, however, Chick saw that a light was burning in one of the side rooms, nearly at the rear of the building. The shade of the broad window was drawn down, the window itself ten feet above the pavements of the alley, both precluding any view of the interior from this point.

At the rear of the building, an area back of which he was able to reach by climbing over the high stone wall, He met with no better success. With one exception, the windows were beyond his reach, yet he could detect on them a faint light that came from some inner part of the bank. The one window that he could reach by reaching up and grasping the stone work was entirely dark, however, and he rightly inferred that it was the window of the corridor adjoining the several rooms of the bank.

Balked again Chick stopped to con- the matter.

"Todd had a perfect right to be in the bank," he grimly resolved. "If engaged in any crooked work, he surely wouldn't have taken the police captain in there with him. The only alternate is that the policeman is a crook, or not an officer at all. But that is only a conjecture. If I kick up a distusbance, or try to get in there I may throw a shoe and queer Nick's designs. I'll wait a bit and see what takes place."

Though he listened intentively for some time, remaining in the back of the building he could hear no sounds from within. All of half an hour had passed before he had made a move. Then a single toot from a honk horn in the front street reached his ears, quickly followed by the noise of a door closed in the bank.

"By Jove the horn was a signal!" Chick muttered, darting to the wall mentioned. "Those fellows are going to leave in an auto. They'll give me the slip in that case as sure as thunder."

Climbing over the wall as quickly as possible, Chick darted quietly through the alley and reached the front corner of the building, around which he carefully peered.

A huge touring car stood at the curbstone opposite the bank door. The police captain was seated beside the chauffeur. The three men whom Todd had first met were already seated in the tonneau and Todd himself carrying a large leather bag, was just entering the car.

"Let her go," he cried sharply, quickly closing the door. "Away with you."

The car was away before the last command was uttered and in a moment was speeding swiftly down the street.

Though Chick's first impulse was to rush out and attempt to arrest the entire party, he quickly restrained himself. Ignorant of their mission in the bank, knowing that it might possibly be a legitamate one, and the police captain really a member of the force he realized that he might make a serious mistake, and ruin Nick's plans by acting too hastily. He allowed them to depart therefore, despite that he could not possibly follow the auto, and now must lose sight of Todd.

Chick was not without designs in doing so however.

"They're bound for Harlem as sure as fate, to the address given that Bolton girl, he said to himself. "Lucky I remember it. I'll locate the rascals again, and before they can accomplish anything very serious. But I'll find out what they have been doing here. No half-way work about it either."

Trying the bank door, Chick found it securley locked. Knocking loudly on one of the panels of the door, he waited briefly, but he could get no response.

Determined to enter however he next returned to the rear of the building. There, drawing himself up to the window mentioned, he broke one of the panes with the butt of his revolver, enabling him to raise the lower section, and get into the corridor.

A faint light through the glass in one of the bank doors showed him the way. He found the door unlocked and hurriedly entered. One glance into the main inclosure, at the open doors of the huge vault, at the books and papers covering the floor, at the two gagged men bound hand and foot in the cage of one of the telleres—a single glance told Chick the story.

"Burglary, by Jove! and done by a clever trick!" he muttered, hastening into the enclosure to release the two men. "Driven to the wall, as Nick designed, the rascals have taken desperate chances to save themselves. This will be their finish and in short order."

It took Chick only a few minutes to release the men, one of whom proved to be the cashier of the bank Mr Vinal and the other the night watchman. The story told by Vinal, who was very much excited, at once confirmed Chick's earlier suspicions.

It appeared, according to Vinal that a police officer claiming to be captain of the precient had called on him that afternoon stating that he had discovered that an attempt was to be made to rob the bank that night. In order to thwart the robbers and to insure their arrest, he ordered Vinal, to say absolutely nothing about the matter, and to have the bank closed as usual and to admit him and three plain-clothes men in the evening, after that they would lie in wait for the burglars and catch them red-handed.

Vinal stated that he had obeyed ap proving of the plan, and that the men had been admitted as instructed. They no sooner were inside, however, than they seized and bound him and the watchman, then robbed the safe of all of the money and securities, a number of books in which loan accounts were kept, together with all the notes and papers pretaining to them, and then hurriedly departed.

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points, throughout Western Canada, Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Belgium's Queen Noble Example

Self-sacrificing Devotion To The Victims of the War

"I am not a Queen at present, I am a fellow sufferer and helper."

No words ever uttered could express more forcefully the attitude of the entire Belgian populace than this pronouncement of Elizabeth, Queen of the Belgians. This noble woman—noble in lineage and in character—has left home and children behind and like her husband is doing her share towards the success of her country.

When King Albert said to his Prime Minister. "If necessary, you my dear minister, and I will take our rifles and go into the battle," Queen Elizabeth who was present, added. "And I, and with me all the Belgian women."

Queen Elizabeth did not literally shoulder a rifle but she has made her way among Belgium's suffering populace ever since the outbreak of the war and has rendered invaluable assistance in the work of relieving those suffering the pangs of hunger and privation inflicted on them by the Germans. While Queen Elizabeth has not entered that part of Belgium where suffering is most acute, that district being under German Government, her work elsewhere has been an example to the millions of women in the countries of the Allies.

Canadian women are urged to look upon her and ask themselves if they have helped as they should. Belgium is still suffering and will continue in want until her rehabilitation after the war and Canada and the other allied nations must give the support to her people that will keep up their moral strength—that great asset that held back the German hordes while Britain prepared.

Hardly a Canadian woman but could save $2.50 out of the money she spends carelessly during a month.

That $2.50 would keep a Belgian mother and her helpless babes from starving for a whole month, providing the money is sent to your local committee or Central Belgian Relief Committee, 59 St. Peter Street, Montreal. Isn't it worth while?

THIS IS THE 685TH DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

SIR ALLEN AYLESWORTH ON PROHIBITION.

Sir Allen, who boasts of being a "Liberal of the Liberals, dyed in "the wool," told the people of Toronto at the late election that prohibition "is opposed to the "principles of Liberalism," notwithstanding the fact that the Globe says it is the principal plank in the Liberal platform.

The Toronto Globe reports his utterances as follows:—

"Sir Allen argued at some "length that complete prohibition "of what a man drank was no "more justified than it would be of "what he ate or wore on his back. "It was an intolerance equivalent "to interference with religious "opinions. Then he did not think "it would be efficacious any more "than the Scott Act was. 'I take "the ground, too, that this is not "a proper matter for legislative "action and is opposed to the principles of Liberalism, for it is the "first mark of the free man that "these things be left to his individual conscience. No man can be "dragooned into Heaven.' It was "an even greater menace to Liberalism that such things in legislative course might lead to a man "being sent to prison for what he "and others could not regard as "wrong. 'There is already too "much making of things illegal "which in themselves are not. This "tends to weaken and not to "strengthen our respect for law.' "He instanced laws about horse "racing."

ROUMANIA'S DECISION.

The entrance of Roumania into the great war and the declaration by Italy of war against Germany, may be said to seal the doom of the Bulgarian campaign, and may well prove the last straw to the Austrians. There are at least half-a-million well trained Roumanian soldiers ready to take the field. They will automatically clear the left wing of the Russian army, and render the invasion of Hungary a much simpler problem. In fact, Roumania's action may be taken not only as the decisive factor in the conflict with Austria, but as the beginning of the final and decisive phase of the whole war. It has been said that once over the Carpathians —and there are several ways open to them—the Roumanians would not require more than two weeks to seize Budapest. Startling military developments may now be expected. The simultaneous declarations of Italy and Roumania are not accidental. They are pre-arranged, and they mean that the decisive moment in the military contest is at hand.

Woodstock Sentinel-Review: To vote for Norris was to vote for the Government, and to vote for the Government was to vote for prohibition. Such logic was sound enough for election purposes. If the object of the electors was to make the result a warning to the Government, then, clearly, the way was to vote for Dewart. By voting for Dewart it was possible to vote, not only against prohibition, but against the Government that had enacted prohibition. But if the election of Dewart is a rebuke to the Government it may prove nothing less than an embarrassment to the Opposition. As has been said, he was not the candidate of the Liberal party of the Province. He was nominated against the wishes of the duly appointed leaders of that party. His attitude during the campaign was not the attitude of the Liberal leaders. Mr Rowell would not, and could not countenance any attempt to either sidetrack or minimize the prohibition issue. The question, therefore, naturally arises, what will be the relationship of Mr Dewart to the Liberal party in the Legislature? There can be no question that he owes his election largely to the liquor vote. Can the Liberal party in the Legislature accept support so obtained?

Ottawa Citizen: The Motherland can no longer continue to pile up the burden of debt by paying monstrous prices for the millions of artillery shells it is using almost daily. At the same time the shell supply is more vitally urgent than ever. Delaying delivery means additional waste of men's lives. There are men in Canada, and have been from the first, who would gladly manufacture shells or place their services and plant at the disposal of a properly organized Dominion department to manufacture munitions at cost. Some business directors like Mr Lionel Hitchens in the United Kingdom have been thus serving the State, and the cause of the Allies, since the earliest enlistment of the munition forces. The need is still so urgent it dare hardly be hinted at in a public way. But the responsible authorities in this Dominion must surely know without being told through the columns of a newspaper—as they had to be told about the Ross rifle before they could be forced to act—what the need is.

Montreal Star: Our new ally is a military power of no mean importance, even in these days of colossal armies and elaborate machine equipment. She can bring to our aid a thoroughly trained army of nearly six hundred thousand men—an army two and a half times as large as the total of combatants engaged at Waterloo—and one which, according to unanimous reports, is thoroughly equipped in every particular. There is no doubt, moreover, that Roumanian forces will be able to take the field almost at a moment's notice. King Ferdinand and his advisers are too shrewd to have lived in the midst of a universal conflagration for two years without having their own fire-fighting apparatus to the traditional "last button on the last gaiter."

Montreal Herald: How long can Germany last? Those who base their hopes of the crushing of Germany upon an overwhelming victory in the field think that Germany will not last through the winter. Those who base calculations on the wastage of life and material predict that Germany will go to pieces in 1917. Of the latter is General Malleterre, a recognized authority on military subjects, who was on General Joffre's staff at the battle of the Marne, but who, having lost a leg, is incapacitated from further military service. In an exhaustive analysis, he shows that Germany has an average of 9,000,000 males of military age. By the end of 1915, however, the German "effectives" had been diminished by nearly 4,000,000 men, these losses being sustained by the first line troops.

The Globe and other Liberal papers have of late been industriously impressing upon the minds of their readers that a conspiracy exists in the Ontario Cabinet for the purpose of deposing the Premier and compelling a reconstruction of the Cabinet. The Toronto News in referring to these charges against the Premier's colleagues, says: "There may be differences of opinion in the Hearst Cabinet. The "Ministers would be a poor lot if "they were unanimous on all public questions. To suggest, however, that there is an intrigue "within the Cabinet against Mr "Hearst is merely ignorant, vulgar "lying."

Hamilton Herald: British workers have been demonstrating in favor of having the Government commandeer food supplies in order to regulate prices. The proposal is not impractical. At the outset of the war Britain was faced with the prospect of a sugar famine; but the Government promptly bought in all the sugar that was on sale in the world, and ever since the price of sugar in Britain has been reasonable—lower indeed than it is in Canada.

Current Comment

The corner-stone of the new Parliament Buildings, says Hon. Robert Rogers, will be laid by the Governor-General on September 1, and the committee has adjourned until that date.

What's the matter? The Toronto Globe in its Monday's issue had not a word in its editorial column in condemnation of Sam Hughes nor Bob. Rogers.

Prohibition conditions in Alberta are rapidly emptying the provincial jail of prisoners. Those already in are gradually leaving as their terms expire, and no more are coming in.

Up to yesterday, 36,100 harvest hands had been sent through to Western points, according to figures received by the Interior Department. Half of these were soldiers.

The Toronto Globe says "Canadian soldiers are sick of Sam Hughes." Its authority is "Joe Martin." That's enough!

Canadian trade has increased by one hundred and forty-one per cent. during July and doubled during the first four months of the fiscal, and this during the third year of the war. Where are the croakers of yesterday?

The total value of the foreign trade of France, exclusive of gold and silver for the six months of 1916 was $1,192,104,451, against $963,315,496 for the corresponding period in 1915. The imports were valued at $860,598,194, compared with $690,079,799, and the exports amounted to $331,506,257, against $273,235,697.

The Minister of Militia has done things. He has done some wonderful things, some unbelievable things. In the doing of them he has stepped on many tender toes. He has not always been considerate of individual feelings. It has apparently been impossible for him to attend to minor details. He has been obliged to trust others. He has not always wisely placed his trust. But he has done in the main what Canada and the Empire wanted him to do, expected him to do, and he has done it well.—Christian Science Monitor.

800 CARS TO MOVE GRAIN AT MIDLAND

Eight hundred freight cars are wanted immediately at Midland for grain carrying. Yesterday there were three hundred empties at Belleville to be moved north as part of the required number, and their movement began last night. The movement in both directions will be through Peterborough and will largely increase the local traffic while this work is under way. Peterborough Examiner.

The Poets' Corner

HOMESICK.

We've met nothing else but kindness here,
On England's Isle so green,
For Jack Canuck's a favorite now,
With serving-maid or Queen.

But I'd give it all for just one day
On Quinte's wind-toss'd bay,
The sheet and tiller in my hand,
On my face the cool, wet spray.

We'd gather the same old crowd, you know,
And steer for the farther shore,
To play in the cool, green, sunlit waves
For a couple of hours or more.

Then slowly sailing home again,
With the sun low in the west,
A happy, tired party,
Glad of the chance to rest.

London may be wonderful,
Though I like their green lanes best,
But give me one day on Quinte's shores,
And you may have the rest.

Fishery Dispute As Is Usual

American Fishermen Violating the Regulations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Sir Joseph Pope, Under Secretary for External Affairs of the Canadian Government, has arrived in Washington to discuss with Secretary Lansing the refusal of the Canadian authorities to permit American fishing vessels on the Pacific coast to get supplies at Dominion points.

It is understood that before the end of the week W. A. Found, Canadian Superintendent of Fisheries, will also come here to help to settle the dispute.

Reports so far are that the Canadian Fisheries Department has refused bait, ship stores and supplies to American fishing vessels which take their catch to any port where it cannot be shipped over Canadian railroad lines. The object of the Canadian Government is apparently to divert the whole fishing trade of the North Pacific into the hands of agents of the British Government.

At the British Embassy it is stated that Sir Joseph Pope's mission is to take up several questions with the American Government, but what these are other than the fishing dispute is not yet disclosed.

OTTAWA, Aug. 27.—At the Marine and Fisheries Department to-day denial was made of the Washington story that the British and Canadian Governments had blacklisted United States fishing vessels on the Pacific coast because of nationality or enemy trading. In explanation of the situation it was pointed out that Canada, some years ago, gave American vessels the right to secure bait and other supplies in Canadian ports if they shipped the catch over Canadian lines. Great developments followed in the halibut industry on the British Columbia coast, the Grand Trunk Pacific alone carrying a tremendous amount of it from Prince Rupert to the American markets. This business being lost to Seattle strong agitation against it arose there and recently certain American vessels after taking bait and supplies in Canadian ports, took their catch to Seattle. As a result of this the bait and supply privilege has been refused, and refusal will be enforced until they undertake to observe the regulations.

W. A. Found, Superintendent of Fisheries, has gone to Washington in connection with the matter.

Hope is Given Up

PRESCOTT, Aug. 28.—The finding of a lady's hat in the river near Ogdensburg on Saturday, which was later identified by Capt. Whitely as one belonging to his wife, confirms the belief held by Prescott friends that both Mrs Whitely and Michael Powell were drowned when the motor boat took fire on Wednesday night. Search for the bodies was kept up yesterday and again to-day, but no further trace of them was found. Capt. Whitely will remain at Prescott to continue the search for some further trace of his wife.

Vendors Are Liable For Impure Products

The Department of Inland Reenue has informed dealers in food products that in all cases where any article is found to be adulterated, the vendor will in the public interest be prosecuted. The vendor is advised, however, that under Section 33 of the Adulteration Act, he may protect himself from being unjustly dealt with by requiring a warranty of genuineness and purity from the manufacturer or furnisher when procuring his stock. The act does not forbid the sale of mixtures or compounds, if these are properly designated on the label of the package containing the article. It is not necessary, however, to advise the customer when offering such articles for sale that they are compounds or mixtures, and if then accepted by him the transaction is legal.

It is not necessary that the customer should ask for pure lard or pure pepper, etc., in order that she should be offered the pure article named, as the request for such an article, under it's general name, viz.: Lard pepper, etc., requires that pure goods only should be offered. If a compound or mixed article is sold to the customer without stating its character as such the vendor is liable to prosecution under the Act.

OUR WEEKLY SERMON

THE LOVE OF GOD

THE LOVE OF GOD

(By Hannah More)

Our love to God arises out of want. God's love to us out of fulness. Our indigence draws us to that power which can relieve, and to that goodness which can bless us. His overflowing love delights to make us partakers of the bounties he graciously imparts, not only in the gifts of his providence, but in the richer communications of his grace. We can only be said to love God when we endeavor to glorify him, when we desire a participation of his nature, when we study to imitate his perfections.

We are sometimes inclined to suspect the love of God to us. We are too little suspicious of our want of love to him? What imaginable incase by evidence, as we should examine any common question, what real instances can we produce of our love to ihm? What imaginable instance can we not produce of his love to us? If neglect, forgetfulness, ingratitude, disobedience, coldness in our affections, deadness in our duty, be evidences of our love to him, such evidences, but such only, we can abundantly allege. If life and al lthe countless catalogue of mercies that makes life pleasant, be proofs of his love to us, these he has given us in hand;—if life eternal, if blessedness that knows no measure and no end, be proofs of love, these he has given us in promise—to the Christian we had almost said, he has given them in possession.

It must be an irksome thing to serve a master whom we do not love; a master whom we are compelled to obey, though we think his requisitions hard, and his commands unreasonable; under whose eye we know that we continually live, though his presence is not only undelightful but formidable.

Now every Christian must obey God whether he love him or not; he must act always in his sight, whether he delight in him or not; and to a heart of any feeling, to a spirit of any liberality, nothing is so grating as constrained obedience. To love God, to serve him because we love him, is therefore no less our highest happiness, than our most bounden duty. Love makes all labour light. We serve with alacrity, where we love with cordiality.

Where the heart is devoted to an object, we require not to be perpetually reminded of our obligations to obey him; they present themselves spontaneously, we fulfill them readily. I had almost said, involuntarily; we think not so much of the service as of the object. The principle which suggests the work inspires the pleasure; to neglect it would be an injuiry to our feelings. The performance is the gratification. The omission is not more a pain to the conscience, than a wound to the affections. The implantation of this vital root perpetuates virtuous practice, and secures internal peace.

Though we cannot be always thinking of God, we may be always employed in his service. There must be intervals of our communion with him, but there must be no intermission of our attachment to him. The tender father who labours for his children, does not always employ his thoughts about them; he cannot be always conversing with them, or concerning them, yet he is always engaged in promoting their interests. His affection for them is an inwoven principle, of which he gives the most unequivocal evidence, by the assiduousness of his application in their service.

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart," is the primary law of our religion. Yet how apt are we to complain that we cannot love God, that we cannot maintain a devout intercourse with him. But would God, who is all justice, have commanded that of which he knew we were incapable? Would he who is all mercy have made our eternal happiness to depend on something which he knew was out of our power to perform, capriciously disqualifying us for the duty he had prescribed? Would he have given the exhortation, and withheld the capacity? This would be to charge omniscience with folly, and infinite goodness with injustice;—no, when he made duty and happiness inseparable, he neither made our duty impracticable, nor our happiness unattainable. But we are continually flying to false refuges, clinging to false holds, resting on false supports: as they are uncertain they disappoint us, as they are weak they fail us; but as they are numerous, when one fails another presents itself. Till they slip from under us, we never suspect how much we rested upon them. Life glides away in a perpetual succession of these false dependencies and successive privations.

There is, as we have elsewhere observed, a striking analogy between the natural and spiritual life; the weakness and helplessness of the Christian resemble those of the infant; neither of them becomes strong, vigorous, and full grown at once, but through a long and often painful course. This keeps up a sense of dependence, and accustoms us to lean on the hand which fosters us. There is in both conditions, an imperceptible chain of depending events, by which we are carried on insensibly to the vigour of maturity. The operation which is not always obvious, is always progressive. By attempting to walk alone we discover our weakness, the experience of that weakness humbles us, and every fall drives us back to the sustaining hand, whose assistance we vainly flattered ourselves we no longer needed.

In some halcyon moments we are willing to persuade ourselves that religion has made an entire conquest over our heart; that we have renounced the dominion of the world, have conquered our attachment to earthly things. We flatter ourselves that nothing can now again obstruct our entire submission. But we know not what spirit we are of. We say this in the calm of repose and in the stillness of the passions; when our path is smooth, our prospect smiling, danger distant, temptation absent, when we have many comforts and no trials. Suddenly, some loss, some disappointment, some privation tears off the mask, reveals us to ourselves. We at once discover that though the smaller fibres and lesser roots which fasten us down to earth may have been loosened by preceding storms, yet our substantial hold on earth is not shaken, the tap-root is not cut, we are yet fast rooted to the soil, and still stronger tempests must be sent to make us let go our hold.

It might be useful to cultivate the habit of stating our own case as strongly to ourselves as if it were the case of another; to express in so many words, thoughts which are not apt to assume any specific or palpable form; thoughts which, we avoid shapform, thoughts which we avoid shaping into language, but slur over, generalize, soften, and do away. How indignant, for instance, should we feel, though we ourselves make the complaint, to be told by others, that we do not love our Maker and Preserver. But let us put the question fairly to ourselves. Do we really love him? Do we love him with a supreme, nay, even with an equal affection? Is there no friend, no child, no reputation, no pleasure, no society, no possession which we do not prefer to him? It is easy to affirm in a general way that there is not. But let us particularize, individualize the question—bring it home to our own hearts in some actual instance, in some tangible shape. Let us commune with our own consciences, with our own feelings, with our own experience; let us question pointedly, and answer honestly. Let us not be more ashamed to detect the fault, than to have been guilty of it.

This then will commonly be the result. Let the friend, child, reputation, possession, pleasure be endangered, but especially let it be taken away by some stroke of Providence. The scales fall from our eyes; we see, we feel, we acknowledge, with brokenness of heart, not only for our loss but for our sin, that though we did love God, yet we loved him not superlatively, and that we loved the blessing, threatened or resumed, still more. But this is one of the cases in which the goodness of God bringeth us to repentance. By the operation of his grace the resumption of the gift brings back the heart to the giver. The Almighty by his spirit takes possession of the temple from which the idol is given out: God is reinstated in his rights, and becomes the supreme and undisputed Lord of our reverential affection.

There are three requisities to our proper enjoyment of every earthly blessing which God bestows on us;—a thankful reflection on the goodness of the giver, a deep sense of the unworthiness of the receiver, and a sober recollection of the precarious tenure by which we hold it. The first would make us grateful, the second humble, the last moderate.

But how seldom do we receive his favours in this spirit! As if religious gratitude were to be confined to the appointed days of public thanksgiving, how rarely in common society do we hear any recognition of Omnipotence even on those striking and heart rejoicing occasions, when, "with his own right hand, and with his glorious arm he has gotten himself the victory." Let us never detract from the merit of our valiant leaders, but rather honour them the more for this manifestation of diving power in their hands to war, and their fingers to fight." Let us never forget that "He is the Rock, that his work is perfect, and all his ways are judgment."

How many seem to show not only their want of affiance in God, but that "he is not in all their thoughts," by their appearing to leave him entirely out of their concerns, by projecting their affairs without any reference to him, by setting out on the stock of their own unassisted wisdom, contriving and acting independently of God; expecting prosperity in the event, without seeking his direction in the outset, and taking to themselves the whole honour of the success without any recognition of his hand! do they not thus virtually imitate what Sophocles makes his blustering Atheist boast. "Let other men expect to conquer with the assistance of the gods, I intend to gain honour without them."

The Christian will rather rejoice to ascribe the glory of his prosperity to the same hand to which our own manly queen gladly ascribed her signal victory. When after the defeat of the Armada, impiously termed invincible, her enemies, in order to lower the value of her agency, alleged that the victory was not owing to her, but to God who had raised the storm, she heroically declared that the visible interference of God, in her favour, was that part of the success from which she derived the trust honour.'

Incidents and occasions every day arise, which not only call on us to trust in God, but which furnish us with suitable occasions of vindicating, if I may presume to use the expression, the character and conduct of the Almighty in the government of human affairs; yet there is no duty which we perform with less alacrity. Strange, that we should treat the Lord of Heaven and earth with less confidence than we exercise towards each other! That we should vindicate the honour of a common acquaintance with more zeal than that of our insulted Maker and Preserver!

If we bear a friend accused of any act of injustice, though we cannot bring any positive proof why he should be acquitted of this specific charge, yet we resent the injury offered to his character; we clear him of the individual allegation on the ground of his general conduct, inferring that from the numerous instances we can produce of his rectitude on other occasions, he cannot be guilty of the alleged injustice. We reason from analogy, and in general we reason fairly. But when we presume to judge of the Most High, instead of vindicating his rectitude on the same grounds, under a providence seemingly severe; instead of reverting, as in the case of our friend, to the thousand instances we have formerly tasted of his kindness; instead of giving God the same credit we give to his erring creature, and inferring from his past goodness, that the present inexplicable dispensation must be consistent, though we cannot explain how, with his general character, we mutinously accuse him of inconsistency, nay of injustice. We admit virtually the most monstrous anomaly in the character of the perfect God.

But what a clue has revelation furnished to the intricate labyrinth which seems to involve the conduct which we impiously question! It unrolls the volume of divine Providence, lays open the mysterious map of infinite wisdom, throws a bright light on the darkest dispensations, vindicates the inequality of appearances, and points to that blessed region, where to all who have truly loved and served God, every apparent wrong shall be proved to have been unimpeachably right, every affliction a mercy, and the severest trials the choicest blessings.

So blind has sin made us, that the glory of God is concealed from us, by the very means which, could we discern aright, would display it. That train of second causes, which he has so marvelously disposed, obstructs our view of himself. We are so filled with wonder at the immediate effect, that our short sight penetrates not to the first cause. To see him as he is, reserved to be the happiness of a better world. We shall then indeed "admire him in his Saints, and in all them that believe," we shall see how necessary it was for those whose bliss is now so perfect, to have been poor, and dispised, and oppressed. We shall see why the "ungodly were in such prosperity." Let us give God credit here for what we shall then fully know; let us adore now, what we shall understand hereafter.

They who take up religion on a false ground will never adhere to it. If they adopt it merely for the peace and pleasantness it brings, they will desert it, as soon as they find their adherence to it will bring them into difficulty, distress, or discredit. It seldom answers therefore to attempt making proselytes byhanging out false colors. The Christian "endures as seeing him how is invisible." He who adopts religion, for the sake of immediate enjoyment, will not do a virtuous action that is disagreeable to himself; nor resist a temptation that is alluring, present pleasure being his motive. There is no sure basis for virtue but the love of God in Christ Jesus, and the bright reversion for which that love is pledged. Without this, as soon as the paths of piety become rough and thorny, we shall stray into pleasanter pastures.

Religion, however, has her own peculiar advantages. In the transaction of all worldly affairs, there are many and great difficulties. There may be several ways out of which to choose. Men of the first understanding are not always certain which of these ways is the best. Persons of the deepest penetration are full of doubt and perplexity; their minds are undecided how to act, lest while they pursue one way, they may be neglecting another, which might better have conducted them to their proposed end.

In religion the case is different, and, in this respect, easy. As a Christian can have but one object in view, he is also certain there is but one way of attaining it. Where there is but one end, it prevents all possibility of choosing wrong;—where there is but one road, it takes away all perplexity as to the course of pursuit. That we so often wander wide of the mark, is not from any want of plainness in the path, but from the perverseness of our will in not choosing it, from the indolence of our minds in not following it up.

In our attachments to earthly things even the most innocent, there is always a danger of excess; but from this danger we are here perfectly exempt, for there is no possibility of excess in our love to that Being who has demanded the whole heart. This peremptory requisition cuts off all debate. Had God required only a portion, even were it a large portion, we might be puzzled in settling the quantum. We might be plotting how large a part we might venture to keep back without absolutely forfeiting our safety; we might be haggling for deductions, bargaining for abatements, and be perpetually compromising with our Maker. But the injunction is entire, the command is definite, the portion is unequivocal. Though it is so compressed in the expression, yet it is so expansive and ample in the measure; it is so distinct a claim, so imperative a requisition of all the fuculties of the mind and strength; all the affections of the heart and soul; that there is not the least opening left for litigation; no place for any thing but absolute unreserved compliance.

Every thing which relates to God is infinite. We must therefore, while we keep our hearts humble, keep our aims high. Our highest services indeed are but finite, imperfect. But as God is unlimited in goodness, he should have our unlimited love. The best we can offer is poor, but let us not withhold that best. He deserves incomparably more than we have to give. Let us not give him less than all. If he has ennobled our corrupt nature with spiritual affections, let us not refuse their noblest aspirations, to their noblest object. Let him not behold us so prodigally lavishing our affections on the meanest of his bounties, as to have nothing left for himself. As the standard of every thing in religion is high, let us endeavor to act in it with the highest intention of mind, with the largest use of our faculties. Let us obey him with the most intense love, adore him with the most fervent gratitude. Let us "praise him according to his excellent greatness." Let us serve him with all the strength of our capacity, with all the devotion of our will.

Grace being a new principle added to our natural powers, as it determines the desires to a higher object, so it adds vigour to their activity. We shall best prove its dominion over us by desiring to exert ourselves in the cause of Heaven with the same energy with which we once exerted ourselves in the cause of the world. The world was too little to fill our whole capacity. Scaliger lamented how much was lost because so fine a poet as Claudian, in his choice of a subject, wanted matter worthy of his talents; but it is the felicity of the Christian to have chosen a theme to which all the powers of his heart and of his understanding will be found inadequate. It is the glory of religion to supply an object worthy of the entire consecration of every power, faculty and affection of an immaterial, immortal being.

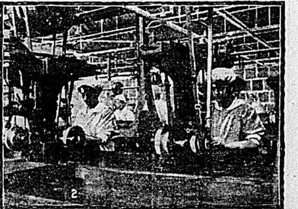
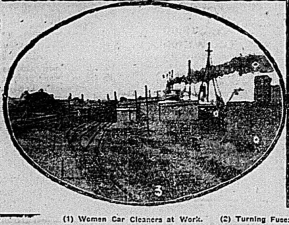
INVASION OF WOMEN





(1) Women Car Cleaners at Work. (2) Turning Fuses. (3) Port McNicoll. (4) Women Workers at Galt.

BEFORE the war there were five million, five hundred women wage earners in Great Britain; to-day there are said to be over ten million. Five million men have enlisted for active service, and a woman has taken the place of every able-bodied man who might have been engaged in peaceful occupations. England has never been so busy a manufacturing and industrial country as she is in 1916, but this would never have been possible if women had not stepped into the breach.

In Canada there is not the same supply of surplus available women, so that in this respect Canada has not experienced so great a revolution in industrial life, but many new occupations are being opened to Canadian women, and the demand for women workers in factories and in the great industrial life of the railways is steadily on the increase. If Sir Robert Borden is to secure his 500,000 Canadian soldiers, 100,000 women must temporarily step into the shoes of men so that the latter may be released for service, as the limit of available men seems almost to be reached. Women are already working alongside of men in sacking and hauling of grain at the Great Lakes elevators, in the Canadian Pacific yards and shops where they are cleaning cars, in the telegraph services and in many clerical positions hitherto held by men. They are acting in some places as Station Agents with satisfaction to their employers. But Canadians who visit England are surprised to find women ticket inspectors and guards, women as elevator attendants, women as chauffeurs, and train conductors, women as red caps, porters and ticket clerks, women as locomotive cleaners and track greasers.

He was by occupation a linotype operator and worked for some time in the Intelligencer office. Deceased enlisted at Kingston and went overseas some months ago. Sergeant Smith's father, Capt. MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE GOLDEN CHANCE WAS A PLEASING SUCCESS

Another splendid programme was thrown upon the screen at Griffin's last night, before a capacity audience, all of whom were delighted with the superb acting of the famous film stars, Cleo Ridgely and Wallace Reid. The scenes of the play, laid in a large city, depicted the impoverished state of a judge's daughter, who had married a rake of a fellow, who went from bad to worse until a hovel was their residence, with scarcely food to keep them alive. The wife, Mary Dentley, impersonated by winsome Cleo Ridgely, finally answered the advertisement of a society lady, securing a temporary position as seamstress, her beauty so attracting the attention of her employers that, disappointed at the failure of a special guest to be present at a function in honor of the wealthy young Mr Manning, impersonated by Mr Wallace Reid, the poor seamstress is persuaded to fill the place, and attired in a rich gown and jewellery, provided by the hostess, carried her part with such success that the young millionaire is captivated, supposing her to be a single lady. The delayed journey to a distant city called for a second function, at which the seamstress was present, a three day's service in this regard completely smashing the young man's heart. But the breaking into the residence by a burglar in the person of Mrs Dentley's husband, brought out the true conditions, creating no end of trouble. How the affair was cleared up, the husband being killed by a tumble from a window, and the abused wife brought back to her legitimate place in society, brought out much fine acting and many thrilling situations. The supporting staff is excellent, the scenes alternating between poverty and luxury, and throughout the closest attention is called for. The seventeenth episode of the Iron Claw and a comique filled out an extended and pleasing programme, which will be repeated in full this evening.

CONSTANCE COLLIER TO APPEAR AT GRIFFIN'S TOMORROW NIGHT

There are many forms of moral honor, and every woman has her own individual code of ethics to govern various situations. The code of Marcia Gray, the basis for the Oliver Morosco photoplay of that name which will be exhibited at Griffin's Opera House Tomorrow and Thursday evening, will win ready sympathy. Suddenly deprived of her life of refinement and luxury by the cowardice of her husband at a crucial moment, she finds but one solace—Orlando Castle—her former sweetheart and a friend of her husband. Marcia's code met a great and unexpected test—not from the usual triangle of two men and a woman—but in what makes one of the strong human movements in a charming production.

The wonderful personality of Constance Collier as Marcia Gray makes her part one of universal appeal. Every woman will find in the great crisis of Marcia Gray's life a marvelously exact duplication of what she would have to do, and experience, should she meet the same problem.

Miss Collier is supported by a cast of unusual excellence and includes Herbert Standing, Helen Jerome, Eddy Forrest Stanley, Henry de Vere and Frank Bonn. Besides the above five part offering Frank Daniels the superlative screen comedian appears in another whirl of The Escapes of Mr. Jack comedy series, the title of this episode being 'Mr. Jack's Artistic Sense' The Pathe weekly offers a review all the latest important events is also announced for exhibition.

HOW WOOD PULP WAS ORIGINALLY DISCOVERED

Hornet's Nest Gave First Clue to Great Process

A writer in the "Newcastle Chronicle" says that an old hornet's nest caused Dr. Hill, of Auguta, Maine to make a discovery. A friend and a neighbor told him there was not enough cotton and rags in the world to supply the newspapers and other publications with their raw material. That was about forty years ago, and Dr. Hill took hte hornets nest to the superintendent of a nearby paper factory and asked him. "Why can't you make paper like that?" They sat down together took the nest apart, analysed it carefully, and then decided that if a hornet could make paper out of wood man ought to be able to do as much. The doctor discovered that the hornet first chewed the wood into fine pulp They decided to make machinery and water to do what the hornet's mouth did. Such was the begining of the wood pulp industry.

Pavement to Be Laid on East Bridge Street

Petition For the Work Unanimously Adopted by Public Works Committee

A special meeting of the Public Works' Committee of the City Council was held last evening at which the following members were in attendance: Mayor Kitcheson, Ald Whalen, chairman; Aldermen Woodley, Deacon, Parks, Duckworth, St Charles and Smith.

The object of the meeting was to consider a petition presented for the paving of Bridge street east.

After the matter had been considered at some length, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

St. Charles, that the prayer of the petition asking for a Trinidad Lake asphalt concrete pavement on Bridge street, east, from Pinnacle street to Bleecker avenue, be granted, and that a By-Law be prepared by the city solicitor authorizing the construction of same pursuant to section 30 of the Local Improvement Act, and also that plans, specifications and estimates be prepared by the City Engineer, and tenders called for construction of the pavement.

Barley Field Crop Competition

A standing barley field crop competition for Sidney Township held under the auspices of the Frankford Agricultural, was held recently, with the result that Mr. Charies Vanderwaters received 1st prize. Mr. Milton Young was the judge, and as a result of his judging, the following yeomen were awarded prizes:—

A Happy Thought

Proceeds of Police vs, Barbers an Clothiers vs. Shoe Clerks Go to Red Cross

Through the generosity of the Baseball players last week, the proceeds the game were devoted to the Red Cross. The total amount $16.00, less $3.75 for Ice Cream, was spent on 48 cans soup, and 24 cans Cadbury's prepared Cocoa, and shipped next day to the trenches. These things are urgently asked for, being 60 per cent higher in price than formally in England. It was a very kind thought of the baseball players and very much appreciated.

Two Plate Glass Windows Smashed

Team of Horses Back Waggon Into Window of Front Street Business Place

A team of horses, the property of Mr. D. Clapp, of Thurlow Township, this morning by backing a waggon over the curb o fthe pavement on Front street, was responsible for the smashing of two plate glass windows. It appears that Mr. Clapp tied the lines to a rack which was upon the waggon and allowed the horses to stand in front of Mr. C. W. Bell's place of business on the west side of Front street, whilst he was across the street transacting some business. From some cause the lines became taut, with the result that the horses commenced to back the waggon up on the sidewalk. Although Mr. Clapp and others ran towards the animals, they were unable to reach them in time to avert the smash up. The waggon struck the front plate glass window, also the plate glass side, breaking both. No damage in particular was done to the frame work of the window, neither were the goods in the window of such a nature as to be damaged. The affair caused considerable commotion for a few minutes. At the time no pedestrains were passing the place.

The accused asserts that she is only an employee of a boarding house where the liquor was found, and that she knew nothing of its purchase or presence. Mr. Carnew represents the Crown and Mr. W. C. Mikel, K. C. for the defence.

Germany Has Laid A Blight On Belgium

Violation of Laws of the Hague Responbible For Pitiful Condition of Country

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—Many enquiries have been made of the Belgian Relief Committee as to the actual reason for the destitution now existing in that part of Belgium under German occupation. The Belgians are a thrifty, industrious people and many have wondered why industry should not continue even where people are under subjection.

The answer as learned from those having possession of documentary proofs from Belgium is clear. Since her occupation of Belgium and Northern France Germany has violated every international law governing war as laid down by the Hague Tribunal. Under the laws of the Hague the invader is privileged to levy upon the occupied country to the extent necessary for the invading army.

Instead, Germany has laid a blight over the whole of occupied Belgium, denuding the country of everything—manufacturing, crops, stock, food, raw materials—and has ravaged her women and children as well. A tax of half a million francs has twice been levied on the already poverty-stricken people, and fines for some petty offence against the German Government has added daily misery to the people. The result is an invading army living in luxury from stolen goods and a populace consisting of half-clothed, haggard women, weeping starving children and babes, and the aged and infirm—all of whom are obliged to look to Canada and the more fortunate nations of the earth for the food to keep them alive.

All each family asks is $2.50 to keep them alive a month. This amount will do it if sent to the Belgian Relief Committee, 59 St Peter Street, Montreal, to be spent by them in purchasing supplies here to send over to the general committee.

Interned German Was Given Trial

Six Passports Found on Him—Escaped Prisoner's Statement Denied

KINGSTON, Aug. 30.—Special—Denial is given here to the statement of the two escaped German prisoners, Burbacker and John, that George Ripton enlisted in the 8th Canadian Mounted Rifles at Barriefield Camp last summer with Lieut.-Col. Six passports of different countries dated 1915 were found on him, and it was deemed in the interests of Canada that he be interned.

HARDEN WARNS GERMANY THAT DEFEAT IS AT HAND

AMTERDAM, Aug. 30— Special—The Germans have been told over and over again that Roumania would not, could not, come into the war until she was fully convinced that Austro-German loss and the end were in sight. For weeks Maximilian Harden has preached on this text. The current number of his Zukunft is entirely devoted to a long history of Roumania in which he reminded his readers how in the days of Plevna Prince Karl of Hohenzollern led the Russians and Roumanian troops, and how Bismark's cynical indifference robbed Roumania of the reward of her efforts. For the second time Harden recalls Bismark's warning that Roumania should wait until the moment when, amid ruins of other countries, the ripe fruit should drop into her lap, and he concludes with a sentence which his readers may well be pondering today. "If Roumania moves it is because she thinks the end is near."

RUSSO-ROUMANIAN COMBINATION TO INVADE

Effect Junction on Frontier of Bukowina Under Letchitsky—Pontoon Bridges to Cross Danube—Vienna Admits Troops Driven Back by Roumanian Forces

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Special.—Military developments have been rapid following the announcement of Rouman's entrance into the war.

Roumanian troops are striking against Hungary at three points, according to news reaching here to-day

King Ferdinand has gone to the front to join the General Staff at main headquarters, having, before his departure from Bucharest, issued an order mobilizing all arms of the service.

On the frontier of Bukowina Roumanian and Russian troops already have effected a junction, and are attacking the Austrians in the Carpathian foothills under the direction of the Russian General Letchitsky.

The following official statement from Vienna was received today:

At all the passes of the 375-mile Roumanian mountain frontier our frontier guards engaged the enemy with success. Only an extensive encircling movement of strong Roumanian forces forced our advance guards to withdraw, as had been planned, to prepared positions in the rear.

The only reference to the Roumanians in the German War Office report is contained in the following sentence:

"In the Carpathians there was fighting with Russo-Roumanian vanguards."

No Aviation Corps Formed In Canada

But it is Proposed to Put Aviation on Better Basis in The Dominion

OTTAWA, Aug. 29.—Aviation matters in Canada and the placing of them on a better basis were discussed at a conference in the office of Hon. J. D. Hazen, to-day. Those present were Lord Innes-Kerr, representing the British Government and who is in Canada to secure recruits for the Royal Naval service; Hon. J. D. Hazen, Sir Thomas White, Mr F. B. McCurdy, Under Secretary of the Militia Department; General Gwatkin, Chief of the General Staff; Geo. H. Desbarats, Deputy Minister of Naval Affairs, and C. W. Gordon, representing the Imperial Munitions Board.

There is no intention to form a Canadian Aviation Corps as intimated in some London despatches. Owing to the nature of the service and the rapid shifting of officers, this is considered impractical by authorities in both Canada and England. However, it is proposed to put aviation on a better basis, and important proposals of great benefit to Canada are under consideration.

Inquiry Begun At Kingston

Into Alleged Irregularities in Rations and Fodder For Canal Guard

KINGSTON, Aug. 30.—(Special.) —Major-General Smith, Judge-Advocate-General, Ottawa; Lieut.-Col. Smith of the 5th Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, Ottawa, and Lieut.-Col. Wigle are in the city conducting a most searching inquiry into certain alleged irregularities in connection with the rations and fodder of the St. Lawrence Canal guard. Major-General Smith is President of the Board of Inquiry, and the importance of the inquiry is evidenced by the fact that the Judge-Advocate-General is presiding.

For some time past there were rumors of irregularities in matters connected with the canal and river guard in the neighborhood of Morrisburg and Prescott, and the rumors became so persistent that the military authorities were compelled to take notice.

There are a number of witnesses present at the investigation, among whom are Col. Langton, Inspector of Supplies and Transport, and Captain McPherson of the Auditor-General's Department. The amount involved in the alleged irregularities is said to be in the vicinity of $15,000.

RESENT CHANGE OF NAME

Berliner Journal Criticizes Cabinet Also For Doing Away With Beer

BERLIN, Ont., Aug. 30.—(Special.) —The Ontario Government has alienated the German vote of the Province, according to this week's issue of the Berliner Journal, as the result of issuing the order in Council to change name of this city from Berlin to Kitchener, following closely upon the enactment of the Ontario temperance act, which comes into force on September 16th. The Journal severely criticizes the Cabinet for being influenced by a "handful of agitators" in abolishing beer and wiping Berlin from the map. The paper predicts that there will be a reckoning day coming for the Government, when the German vote of the Province will show its disapproval of its recent legislation.

The Journal urges its readers to endure the name Kitchener for a period of four months, after which steps will be taken to have it changed back to Berlin.

DIED IN HOTEL FIRE

New Windsor at Santa Clara Destroyed—Two Injured

CORNWALL, Ont., Aug. 29.—Mrs Gokey, wife of the proprietor of the New Windsor Hotel at Santa Clara, N.Y., was burned to death when the hotel and all its contents were destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning. The charred remains of her body were found after the fire had spent itself.

Her husband was terribly burned about the head, face and back. His limbs are also badly injured. A woman employee of the hotel, named Mary Duchesne, had her left arm broken by jumping from the verandah to the ground. Miss Duchesne and Mr Gokey were brought to Cornwall by Charles Clary, of Santa Clara, and are in the hospital. Mr Gokey is in a serious condition.

The hotel was a two story frame building, and when the fire was discovered it was raging severely in the vicinity of the bathroom, where a lamp was usually left burning at night. The damage amounts to about $3,000, with no insurance. Mr Gokey lost nearly $1,500 in cash as well, which was in his wife's handbag. There were eight people in the house, but all escaped safely in their night clothes with the exception of Mr and Mrs Gokey and Miss Duchesne.

DISHEARTENED BY ROUMANIA'S ACTION

Latter's Entry Into War Came As Thunderbolt to Berlin

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 30—Special—The Berlin correspondent of the Politiken sends the following.

"In contrast with the calm with which Italy's declaration of war against Germany was received, Roumania's came as a thunder bolt, for even though Berlin had long reckoned with the possibility of Roumania's intervention the effect of the large black type on the hand bills stating that it was an accomplished fact was terribly disheartening everywhere. On the streets, in the tram cars and on the buses the news produced consternation."

Their object in coming to our city is to perfect arrangements for the establishment of a plant, for which a tract of 22½ acres of land has been purchased in the northwest corner of the city, adjacent to the Grand Trunk railway, where an extensive building is to be erected with a capacity for employing five hundred workmen, and the turning out of auto tires, hose, belting, rubber heels, packing, water bottles, and every variety of rubber goods called for by the trade.

The factory will be up-to-date in every respect, due regard being given to speed of output and perfection of product. R. main line, and modern methods of serving the public without loss of time.

The initial number of employees will depend upon the orders on hand, to be increased with the more urgent demand for goods.

Our city is to be congratulated upon its latest acquisition.

LEGAL ROBBERY IS TERM APPLIED TO A. O. U. W. LAW

Members Notified That Their Insurance Policies are Valueless May Engage Counsel — Will Put Up Fight to Test Validity of Legislation

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—(Special.)—Hundreds of old men who have been paying premiums into the Ancient Order of United Workmen for 10, 20 and 30 years, are up in arms. They have received notice from F. G. Inwood, grand recorder of the A.O.U.W. that their policies are valueless. Many of them have paid in from $500 to $600. Because their policies are now valueless, they lose all the money they have been paying in.

Some of the members who have received notices have got together and will engage counsel to see if they cannot overcome this "legalized robbery" as one member put it yesterday to The Press.

As soon as they received their notices, 20 or 30 members went to the Parliament buildings yesterday to interview Will J. Vale, deputy registrar of insurance and registrar of fraternal societies. Mr. Vale, however, had little hope to offer them.

As far as he could see, said Mr. Vale, the action of the association came within the four corners of the "Ancient Order of United Workmen Act, 1916." He did go so far, however, as to apply the term "drastic' 'to the legislation.

There is one class of cancellation, however, on which there appears to be ground for legal action. It is regarding those paid up policies granted by the association a few years ago. Then the society, endeavoring even then to reach firm ground, offered the policy holders several alternatives. Among these was paid up premiums for a policy of $2,000. That, said the society, was the actual amount paid in. This week notices have been sent out to the holders of these policies that their policies were valueless. "Legalized robbery." W. C. Oughtred of Clarkson called it. He had been a charter member in Clarkson in 1884. Two years ago he had changed his $2,000 policy for a paid up policy of $500. On Tuesday he received a notice that this had no value. The society repudiated its promise. Robert Spech of the same place was in exactly the same position.

Mr. Vale told of a widow in Saskatchewan, who, depending on the $700 of her husband's benefit, had been told that his policy was valueless.

Legal Remedy.

It is pointed out that there may be legal redress for the holders of these paid-up policies. The case of Drain vs. Catholic Mutual Benefit Association is very similar to it. The lower court judge here decded that the association had not the right to give such paid-up policies. This decison had rendered the association liable for the fulfilment of their contract.

As for those who, after they had consented to a reduction of their policy to meet their premium, had been told that the actuary appointed under the act of 1916 had valued their policies as worthless, there did not appear to be any redress save in further legislation.

The act provides that the actuary appointed, M. A. Mackenzie, should decide the proportion of the assets due to each policyholder, and the value of the policy. The actuary has decided that the policy o fthe older members are valueless. They had the protection of the policy during their lives. They might have died and got their $2000. They did not.

Hon. I. B. Lucas said yesterday that he was not surprised at the complaints made. They had expected that there would be complaints when the findings of the actuary were published.

Presented With A Club Bag

Miss Lulu Dyer Made Recipient of Handsome Gift by Tabernacle Sunday School

At the residence of Mr James H. Dyer, Commercial Street, a presentation took place last evening to Miss Lulu Dyer, who is about leaving the city to go as a nurse in training at Grace Hospital, Toronto. Miss Dyer has been a most valued teacher in connection with the Tabernacle Methodist Church in this city and has also taken an active part in church work generally. Members of the church choir, officers and teachers of the Sunday School gathered in large numbers at the home of Miss Dyer's parents and shortly after their arrival the object of their gathering was made known. Miss Dyer was called forward and Miss H. L. Moore read an address, and Mr J. E. Walmsley, Superintendent of the Sunday School made the presentation of a club bag. The recipient, although taken by surprise, made an appropriate reply. A number of those present were called upon and spoke eulogistically of Miss Dyer and her work in the church and Sunday School. Her departure from the city is deeply regretted, and she will be especially missed from the Tabernacle Church. A pleasant evening was spent by all present and refreshments were bountifully supplied.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir,—The Bay of Quinte has a world-wide reputation for the sport of fishing. Every kind of game fish is to be found therein. The three gamiest fish in fresh water are the maskinonge, black bass and speckled trout. There is a little fish also that deserves to be included in the list namely, the fish to which nature has given all the colors of the rainbow, the sun fish. The little fellow fights for his life and his struggles when hooked will often make the angler believe he has hooked a black bass. The bass is distributed all over the Bay, rocky bars and stoney shores form generally his habitat. During hot weather he seeks the coolness of the deeps. The Maskinonge lurks near reed beds and marshes, where he can catch small fish. He is a brother of the pike. Pike roam all waters and make small fish their prey. The ubiquitous worm (found everywhere) is the bait generally used, both from the ease with which it is obtained and its excellence. All fish eat worms. In my experience the worm is just as good as the minnow, crab or frog. Opinions widely differ. Game fish have their fancies, like human beings. At times they are most fastidious, and being well fed on carp and small fish will ignore the hook and its tempting morsel. Of course, the maskinonge affords the greatest enjoyment. When hooked a royal battle is on. A fight to the finish. His strength is as great that it is very dangerous to lift him into the boat without gaffing or stunning him. His home is in bays chiefly where small fish abound. To the man who is fond of the sport, the great pleasure is in the fight. A friend of mine said he did not play his fish, he pulled them right in, and thus captured more than he otherwise would have done. I do not think that is the right idea of the sport. What is the essence of the whole thing is the fight, and you must, if you wish to enjoy it, give the fish a chance. If you hook a bass with a worm you can be reasonably confident that he has swallowed the bait, and that you have him fast. If you hook a minnow through his lips, the bass makes a spring and very likely places his teeth in the body of the minnow. If you pull on him, you withdraw the minnow from his mouth and lose your fish. You must give him line to enablel him to swallow the minnow, then strike. Of course, with a crab or frog you are more likely to fairly hook your fish, from the difference in size of the bait and the ease with which it can be swallowed. Some insert the hook through the gills of the minnow and run the hook through the tail. Comparatively few troll, nearly all still fish. Trolling generally yields good sport. Mr C. Bamhart, in a very short time, going over a short course, captured eight fine bass and six large pike. I saw the fish. I captured only two pike, over the same course. Our party landed two bass, one of three pounds, one two and a half pounds. Generally, fish are found about buoys. I know of large catches near the buoys at Telegraph Island. Where you catch to-day, to-morrow at the same place you draw a blank. One party caught seventeen bass near Baker's Island without moving their boat. The same party upon another day at the same place did not catch any. Of course, the back lakes abound with fish. Not having ice to keep them, it seemed a terrible thing to catch fine fish and throw them away. In our bay you can use all of the fish you catch. The motor boat enables you to reach any good fishing ground in a short time. I am, sir, etc.

A FATAL BARGAIN
OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE
BY
NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

Vinal also stated that the safe was open only at that late hour because the day had been an exceedingly busy one, owing to the panic in the stock market, and he had taken the time until the detectives arrived to look over the books and straighten out some of the loan accounts.

Chick heard this story with some misgivings, knowing that Todd was a director of the bank, and that the institution was seriously involved in his (Todd's) affairs. He did not delay to ask questions, however. Instructing the cashier to leave things untouched until he could send detectives to the bank, Chick hurriedly departed.

Ten minutes three detectives from the Central Office, acting under the instructions of Chick, placed Vinal under arrest and took charge of things in the bank until further investigations could be made.

About the same time, accompanied by four detectives—men from the same office—Chick Carter was speeding toward Harlem in an automoblie, bound for the address found on Janet Bolton.

Chick located the narrow street with no great difficulty, and after consulting the numbers on several of the inferior houses, he left the car and his assistants about a block from the dwelling he was seeking, and approached it to reconnoitre.

He easily found the house, and almost immediately noticed the dark outlines of the brewery.

"That's Pat Selkirk's place, without a doubt," he muttered, quietly climbing over the picket fence and cautiously approaching the house. "This is the place, all right, and there's somebody in there. Blinds closed and the curtains drawn eh? If Todd and his gang are inside, their car should be near by. I reckon I had better locate that, or find out whether one of them is on the watch out here. There's a bare possibility, too, that they've gone into some part of the brewery."

Stealing to the back of the house, yet seeing no one, Chick then crept across the rear grounds and was approaching the fence when he heard a subdued cough from the other side of it. Peering cautiously over it, he discovered in the stable yard the same touring car he had seen leave the bank building an hour before.

"H'm! Just what I thought," he said to himself, quietly retracing his steps. "Todd and the others have gone somewhere, leaving the chauffeur to watch the car. I'll nail him to start with, and see what I can get out of him."

Returning to his own car Chick directed three of the Central Office men to steal into the grounds back of the suspected house and quietly wait there and the chauffeur nodding in his seat.

"Slip around to the opposite side, Tom, and prevent him sounding the horn, in case he's expected to signal," Chick whispered to his companion. I'll do the holding up."

The Central Office man nodded then both quietly approached the car from behind. They were still about six feet away when the chauffeur, starting suddenly saw them. In an instant Chick was on the seat beside him, with a revolver thrust in his face.

"You be quiet," he said softly. "If you speak above a whisper, you will never speak again!"

'Good God!' the fellow gasped. "Who are you?"

"I am Chick Carter, a detective!"

"Chick Carter! Holy smoke the jig is up."

"Up is right!" Chick said emphatically. "Now who are you? I see you are in disguise. Take it off and answer my questions."

The man, who sat muffled in a huge driving coat, with gloves and goggles in his lap, removed his cap and a heavy false beard.

"Hello!" Chick exclaimed, instantly recognizing the man. "Are you in this affair, Damon?"

The man was Andrew Todd's chief floor broker in the Stock Exchange Mr. Karl Damon.

"Don't ask me any foolish questions, Chick," he replied. "I shall discuss my own affairs only with an attorney. As maters now stand I might be persuaded to speak of others."

"H'm!" Chick grunted. "You may be wise, Damon. Where's the gang you brought out here, including Andrew Todd?"

"Over in yonder house."

"Do you know what they are doing?"

"No."

"Or who is there with them?"

"No. You'll find Chick that I know very little."

"You'd better make it nothing, Damon," said Chick, half smiling. "But get out of that coat and I'll soon learn for myself. Iron him hand and foot Tom, that we may be sure to find him here when we return."

"There's no occasion for that," Damon protested, flushing. "I'll remain here Chick on my word."

"Sorry, but this is too serious a case Damon, to permit taking a man's word."

CHAPTER XXV
The Game and the Gang

The genius of the great detective, his art and resources, the instinct that at times directs him, enabled him to accomplish certain ends almost mysteriously, and the foresight with which he avoids obstacles and averts disaster—these are hardly appreciated by a layman. The latter would find it hard to say by what method, means and subterfuge Nick Carter could have escaped unaided from the situation in which he was involved and the fate that threatened him.

Nick knew there was no occasion for anxiety, however, nor need of any desperate move on his part. A single statement made by Nora Selkirk had put him at ease—that Andrew Todd had telephoned that he should visit the Harlem house that night. Nick had not forgoten that Chick was on Todd's track, and he felt sure that no more was required.

Though he said nothing aloud to Patsy, lest the truth might be suspected and a warning sent to Todd, Nick soon informed him by tapping a few telegraphic words on the leg of his chair, explaining the indifference to the situation, and the grim austerity with which he ignored the exultant taunts and ugly threats of their captors, with whom he would not deign to talk.

They soon tired of these malicious diversions, therefore, and Nora Selkirk spent the latter part of the afternoon in one of the front rooms, discussing matters with Cullen.

All the while, however, either Mauley or Tony Greer remained in the dining room, constantly watching the two detectives, and always with a revolver lying near on the table.

Dusk came and quickly deepened into darkness. Lamps were lighted, the lower blinds closed and the windows secured, and the shades closely drawn. A clock in one of the upper rooms struck the passing hours—six, seven, eight, and nine.

It had not struck ten however, when the tiresome wait terminated. A sharp whistle back of the house, quickly followed by a knock on the rear door, brought Nora Selkirk into the dining room.

"That's Pat's whistle," she cried. Todd must be with him. Open the door for them Mauley."

The later hastened to obey, and a moment later the several men whom Chick had seen leaving the bank trailed into the room. None then was in disguise, and Nick viewed with grim satisfaction the very rascals whom he suspected of being the chief men of the gang—Todd, Selkirk, Martin, McNulty and his two partners, Cassidy and Coyle.

The later somewhat to Nick's surprise wore the uniform of a precient captain, plainly indicating that some crafty game had been played. The moment Nick saw his imposing figure, however, he knew that he beheld not only the chief of the tool-shed gang but also the knave who built almost like Fenno that, when disguised, the hotel servant had positively identified him as the later— the knave who had murdered Judge Ormsby Packard.

Nick knew McNulty and Cassidy by sight, moreover, and he readily inferred that this man was the junior member of the firm, Peter Coyle.

The latter was carrying the large leather bag brought from the bank, which he placed on the table, on which several others tossed parcels wrapped in brown paper also the fruits of the night raid. That all were well satisfied with what had been accomplished, with again having got Nick and Patsy into their hands, and with the situation now presented, their determined faces plainly evinced.

PROHIBITION. RECORD OF LIBERALS.

Readers who have not kept in touch with the record of political prohibitionists upon the subject of prohibtion will probably be surprised when their memory is jogged. For over a generation the political prohibitionists have been harping and deceiving the electors upon this subject. Let us for a moment remind those who are honest in their advocacy of the principle, that profession and agitation has that profession and agitation has been the stock in trade of the willy politicians who have played the game.

In 1874, when the late Dr Schultz, then a representative in the House of Commons for a Manitoba constituency, moved a reesolution affirming the principle of prohibition in all intoxicating liquors, the first to rise and oppose it was the leading Liberal temperance lecturer, George W. Ross, who rushed to the aid of the Mackenzie Government and moved a resolution declaring the country was not yet ready to adopt the principle, and the motion was carried, the Government and its Liberal supporters voting for it. So ended the prohibition question for a time.

Following this, some years after, the country was treated to the Crooks Act. This Act abolished many licenses, which enormously increased the patronage of the Mowat Government, thereby establishing a substantial political control over the liquor traffic, so that at election after election hotelkeepers, brewers and distillers were persuaded or compelled to contribute largely to Liberal campaign funds.

The Scott Act, which once covered two-thirds of the Province, was discredited because a Liberal Government would make no serious effort to enforce the measure.

At a party caucas held in Ottawa, at which the then Hon. Wilfrid Laurier presided, a plebicite upon the question of prohibition was promised if the party were returned to power. At the then ensuing elections the Liberals were successful, and the question of prohibition submitted to the electors of the Dominion, which resulted in a majority of over 15,000 being recorded in favor of the principle. Every province voted in the affirm- that he knew could not be secured the question, and no action was taken by the Liberal Government to give effect to the will and desire of the people, as expressed by their votes at the polls.

Sir Oliver Mowat and his colleagues pledged themselves to go as far towards prohibition as the Constitution would permit. When the time for action came, the then Hon. George Ross was in office, and although he had been a lifelong professional prohibitionist, he substituted a loaded referendum and demanded a majority for prohibition that he knew could not be secured. and was not.

Time rolled on and Mr Rowell succeeded to the Liberal leadership and made the abolition of the bar the chief feature of his policy, imploring the Conservative Government to close hotels and stores for the period of the war. The Government did what was demanded, and immediately Liberal politicians coalesced with the anti-prohibitionists and secured the defeat of Conservative candidates in North Perth and South-west Toronto. This, as they say in the nursery book, is a true story, the moral of which may well be left to the public.

The only real practical temperance legislation that has been placed upon the statute book has been enacted by the Conservative party, principally by the Whitney and now by the Hearst Government, which the Liberals are lending themselves to render useless.

Such is Liberalism upon the principle of prohibition.

NOTHING LIKE UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE.

An example of giving a vote to every man, whether he has a penny at stake in the country or not, or whether he can even read the language of the country, gives to the party politician, whether municipal or otherwise, the power of manipulating affairs in such a manner as to secure for himself votes, and the country as a whole, or the municipality, suffer in proportion to the improper yielding to demands which, if the interests of the people were for a moment considered, would be rejected.

Montreal is a fair example of what appeals to race, creed and graft will bring a city. That metroplitan city is mortgaged to nearly its full assessable value, driving the more thoughtful of its people to demand the abolition of the Board of Control and Aldermen.

On the 28th August, one of the Controllers, Mr E. W. Villeneuve, declared that " In view of the present position of the city and the " many important questions urgently demanding settlement, he " would suggest to the citizens of " Montreal that they petition the " Lieutenant- Governor- in-Council " to suspend the Montreal city " charter, recall the Mayor, controllers and aldermen, and appoint a commission of seven members. This commission to administer the city for a period of " at least two years, with full " power to settle all these outstanding questions and place the " city once more on a sound fiinancial basis."

Is Montreal alone in this particular? Doubtful!

President Wilson personally favors the eight-hour day, either as a temporary measure, or under the supervision of a commission to supervise its practical workings. The railroad managers declare it impossible. They say it would cost them $100,000,000 annually. The trainmen declare the railroads are well able to afford the concession, and their estimate is that it would not cost the railroads more than $20,000,000 annually. Everyone will watch the outcome of the struggle with interest. That the railroads will be allowed to stop running, and the industries of the whole nation brought practically to a standstill, is difficult to believe. But heroic measures apparently will be necessary to avert such a catastrophe.

New York Sun: Whatever the idea, the Teutons are setting a precedent full of danger for the side likely to be defeated. In case the Entente troops should eventually reach Berlin and parade in the Siege-sallee it might become a question of expatriating, by way of making stronger allied frontiers, a few million Germans and Austrians. The German immigrant element in Alsace, which has thriven since the last war at the expense of the inhabitants, lends itself to this treatment. So does the German-speaking element which practices economic parasitism on the unfortunate Slavs of Bohemia, Galicia and Prussian Poland. What objection could the Teutons make if a finally victorious enemy should not disdain to apply the Teuton's own approved and sanctioned practices upon them? Eviction was a bad game for them to start.

BACKACHE, LUMBAGO AND RHEUMATIC TROUBLES.

Dear Mr. Editor—I wish to state that I suffered greatly from backache, lumbago and rheumatic troubles. I used "Anuric," the latest discovery of Doctor Pierce for backache and kidney troubles, and I can cheerfully recommend the "Anuric Tablets" to anyone suffering from any of these maladies.

Yours truly,
J. F. GARNER.

NOTE: It is now asserted with confidence that those painful effects due to uric acid in the system are entirely eradicated. A new remedy, called "Anuric," has been discovered by Dr. Pierce, and is the cause of the drainage outward of the uric acid with which it comes in contact within the body. It will ward off backache, headache, and the darting pains and aches of articular or muscular rheumatism—of those diseases which are caused by too much uric acid, such as gout, asthma, sciatica, renal calculi. "Anuric" prolongs life because old people usually suffer from hardening and thickening of the walls of the arteries, due to the excess of uric acid in the blood and tissues.

Dr. Pierce, who is director and chief physician at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has been testing this wonderful medicine for the relief of over-worked and weakened kidneys. The relief obtained by sufferers has been so satisfactory that he determined to place "Anuric" with the principal druggists in town where people could get this ready-to-use medicine. "Anuric" is not harmful or poisonous, but aids nature in throwing off those poisons within the body which cause so much suffering, pain and misery. Scientists assert this remedy is 37 times more potent than lithia. Send 10 cents for large trial package.

"Anuric" is building up a reputation as good as Dr. Pierce's other well-known medicines which have been proved reliable during nearly fifty years, such as Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the ills of women, Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the liver regulator, and Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for red blood.

Current Comment

It is about time for another special correspondent with the German forces to describe how bright and happy the Kaiser looks, now that he knows Roumania's mind.—Montreal Herald.

Germany announces that the entry of Roumania into the war will make very little difference to the result. Beginning to see that defeat is inevitable.

The London Official Gazette announces that Captain H. R. Gunning, of the Princess Patricias, has been dismissed from the service. No reason for the dismissal is given.

There are more than 100,000 acres of nipa palms in the Philippines, and the insular government is endeavoring to produce cheap sugar and alcohol from their sap.

Those Montreal blackguards, so industriously engaged in breaking up recruiting meetings, should be transported to Toronto or Hamilton, or any other Canadian city outside of Quebec province. They would quickly learn what was "coming to them."—Hamilton Spectator.

We are apt to forget, since the war began, that not a Canadian soldier has been lost in transport across the Atlantic. Is it not a wonderful tribute to the potency of the British Navy that we have yet to mourn the terriblo tragedy of thousands immolated before reaching the firing-line?

The London Daily Chronicle publishes an appeal from the parliamentary secretary of the United Kingdom Alliance for prohibition during the period of the war. He lays stress upon the example of several Canadian provinces and states that many Canadian soldiers have signed the petitions now being circulated urging prohibitory legislation.

The Poets' Corner

THE 155TH BATTALION.

Of that Bay of Quinte city
For a camping ground called Barriefield,
Just some 60 miles away,
All those cheery shouts and laughter loud
Expressed the feelings of those lads so proud,
For in every heart was the safe feeling
Either to conquer or to die.

Now we have been camping here for close upon three months,
And have won the praises of all around
For the work which we have done.
But now the time is coming close
When to England we must sail,
To help our comrades at the front
Put an end to all the Huns.

Now, when this great strife is o'er,
May God bring us all back safe
To our mothers, wives and families
Whom we all are leaving behind.
But if God wills that we must die,
Then it is with the greatest pride,
For gladly will we do it for our dear old Union Jack.

Belgians are Starving While Canadians Have Plenty

Our Heroic Allies Deserve More Help than We are Giving

An accident of geography, and the fortunes of war, have subjected Belgium to the cold-blooded, calculated cruelty and attempted starvation of the German conquerors—while we in Canada, secure from danger, are making money out of the War.

Legitimate though our profits are, we surely owe a substantial share of them to our Allies, who are destitute because they dared stand up for their rights and defy the enemy.

We have given much—but barely enough to help keep the Belgians alive. More of them every week are calling for help, as their own resources are exhausted, and every one of the millions should have something more than the three slices of bread and the pint of soup which is all the Relief Commission can supply out of present contributions.

If you have been helping, do more if you can till the war is over and Belgium is free. If you have not given yet, will you make up for lost time with a substantial contribution? Better still, will you give, every month, enough to feed one or more Belgian families, at the rate of $2.50 each per month?

Whatever you can afford to give, send your subscription weekly, monthly, or in one lump sum to Local or Provincial Committees, or

MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

SPENT NIGHT IN WOODS

Monday night the infantry units of Barriefield camp spent the entire night in the woods and fields, working out a night tactical scheme which had been prepared by Lieut.-Col. Brown, G. S. O. There were few soldiers in the city, as all commanding officers were ordered to keep their men in camp. There was no hint given the men as to the undertaking of the night, and no officer knew the hour when the 'assembly" would be sounded. At 9.42 last night the bugle gave the alarm, and in a matter of minutes the 154th 155th and 156th Battalions were on parade, and ready for any order that might be given. The scheme laid out was a good one, and blank ammunition was served to the men to relieve the monotony of a "shotless" attack and defence scheme. The attack was made on the trenches south of the main road, and some excellent trench work was done by both the attacking and defending parties. The men enjoy these tactical schemes because they possess a touch of real war, and constitute an excellent training for the serious work awaiting them at the front.

INIFANTRY SCHOOL CHANCE

Men to Enter Every Two Weeks From Now on.

The Infantry School of Instruction at Barriefield Camp though situated in rather an out-of-the-way place, is doing excellent work and is well in the line of progress consistent with the policy of Barriefield Camp.

To increase its efficiency. Lieut.-Col. D. Barragar, commandant, has decided that a slight change will take place. Formerly probationers have been entering the school every week in numbers that would keep the total attendance below 100. To lessen the resulting office work and allow better instruction to be given with less strain on the staff, it has been decided that probationers will enter every two weeks. This will also have the effect of bringing the examinations only twice a month instead of every week and it should be a general improvement.

The original scheme of having a progressive course will still be adhered to as it has been found to be a great improvement over the old system. The change from entering every week to entering semi-monthly will be still better for all concerned.

NOTES

Dr. Dolan of Belleville, spent a few hours in camp yesterday.

Lt.-Col. Lighthall, formerly commanding officer of the 16th regiment, Picton, was in camp yesterday, and spent a few hours with the 155th Battalion.

The colors of the 156th Battalion have been placed in the officers' mess

The colors of the 154th and 155th are resting in the mess of each battalion.

Mrs. Dodds, wife of Captain Dodd, chaplain of the 155th Battalion, was a guest of the 155th Battalion to lunch on Sunday.

The football and baseball match of the 155th which should have been played last night was postponed owing to the night attack which was scheduled by the G.S.O.

It is reported that the three infantry units on their searching expedition for the escaped German prisoners behaved themselves well, and were careful of property, as they passed through orchards.

Captain O'Flynn of Belleville, who recently returned from the front, was a visitor to camp yesterday. He is a son of Lawyer O'Flynn who has visited the camp several times, and has been heard in the Y.M.C.A. and city churches.

"D" Company, 155th Battalion, was on the ranges on Monday. This is the last company of the battalion, with the exception of casualties, to take the musketry course.

There is a camp order forbidding cows to roam over the camp grounds, and authorizing soldiers to milk any cows caught around the camp. Soldiers have been doing this to some extent, but from now on, there will be a lot of milking done if the cows are not kept away.

Sergt. Charles Gibson, of Belleville, who recently returned from the front, was in camp yesterday. He will take over the duties of sergeant in charge of the camp detention compound. "Charlie" has had all kinds of military experience, and saw service in South Africa, the Phillipines, in Mexico, and in the present war.

KING OF GREECE SEEKS REFUGE UNDER GERMAN ESCORT

GREEK PREMIER RESIGNS—REMOBILIZATION OF THE ARMY

RUSS. DEFEAT GERMAN TROOPS

Turkish Attacks on The Caucasian Front Also Repulsed Russian Advance Continues

Canadian Press Special

PETROGRAD, Aug. 31.—An official announcement today says Turkish attacks on the Caucasian front in the region of Glumichkhan were repulsed the Turks leaving many dead in front of our poistions. The Russian advance continues in the direction of Diabekr.

HAD FOOT CUT OFF BY MOWING MACHINE

Andrew Armstrong of Denbigh is in The Kingston General Hospital

KINGSTON, Aug. 30. — Andrew Armstrong, who was brought into the General Hospital in a serious condition several days ago, is now much improved. While engaged in harvesting at his farm near Denbigh he stepped in front of his mower to hand a switch to his son, who was driving the team of horses which were pulling the mower.

While he was standing in front of the mower the horses started to move, and before he had a chance to get out of the way of the knives of the machine his right foot was severed from the leg above the ankle.

His son immediately rushed to his aid, and he was taken to his home. Dr Adams dressed and bandaged the leg, and the man was removed to the General Hospital, where he was further attended by Dr D. E. Mundell. His condition is now very much improved, and he will soon be able to leave the hospital.

Germans Blame The Blockade

Tell Belgians That Britain is Responsible For the Starvation Which Faces Them

An effort is now being made on the part of the German invaders of Belgium to make the Belgian people believe that their hunger—their starvation—is due to the tight blockade put on the ports of the continent by the British fleet. The Belgian relief work, to which Canada is contributing through the Belgian Relief Committee, 59 St. Peter Street, Montreal, has convinced the Belgians of the untruth of this announcement. The Belgian Relief Committee is now redoubling its efforts to send more food to meet the increasing demand. Canadians are being asked to send the committee, either direct to 59 St. Peter Street, Montreal, or to the local committee, two dollars fifty cents—the cost of keeping one Belgian family from starvation for a month.

KING OF GREECE NOW A REFUGEE WITH HUNS

It is Reported That The Allies Have Made an Attack Upon the Greek Army, and Several Princes are Among the [illegible]—Country in State of Upheaval

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(Special.)—The British Press representative at Salonika, Ward Price, sends a report which is [illegible] there that King Constantine of Greece has fled to Larissa, in Thessaly, to take refuge with a guard of 300 Uhlans. The text of the official message, which is dated Tuesday, reads:

"This evening's sensation is that King Constantine has fled from Athens to take refuge with a German escort of 300 Uhlans, who have been waiting for him for several days at Larissa.

"Another report is that the allies have already landed a strong force at Piraeus, which has been heavily engaged with the Greek army in battle around the King's country house at Tatoi, where several Greek princes have already fallen. Perhaps to-morrow will bring more light upon the situation, which is extraordinarily involved- even for the Balkans."

Many Convicts At Penitentiary

Would Like to Have A Chance to Go to The Front

KINGSTON, Aug. 30.—That they would like to be given their release and sent to the front to get a shot at the Germans, is the wish expressed by a large number of the convicts at the Portsmouth Penitentiary. But of course this cannot be. Some time ago several of the prisoners applied to the Department of Justice at Ottawa to be given their release on condition that they enlist for overseas service, but there was nothing doing.

As soon as war broke out many of the unfortunate men behind prison bars immediately signified their willingness to go to the front, and it is safe to say that had they been free they would have been among the first to take up arms.

There are, of course, quite a number who would go to the front simply as a means of getting free from the penitentiary, but there are also a goodly number of men who are anxious to serve at the front from a spirit of patriotism.

There are many in the "pen" serving a sentence simply because they were tempted, and could not resist, but when it comes to a question of loyalty to King and country they are just as loyal as any person outside the prison walls. And it is these men who are suffering more to-day, as they feel their position very keenly.

From what the press has been able to learn, an army of two hundred and fifty able-bodied men could be lined up at the penitentiary for service at the front. There are a number of Italians who have on more than one occasion expressed a desire to get on the firing line.

According to a press despatch sent out from Quebec recently, a man who was sentenced to fourteen years in the penitentiary on a charge of murder obtained leave to enlist and left the penitentiary for the front.

There is one thing sure, and that is that recruiting officers would have no trouble whatever in signing up recruits at Portsmouth's big prison.

Bi-Lingual Schools

Ottawa Separate School Trustees Threatening

The Mail-Empire of the [illegible] Aug. contains the following Ottawa telegram:—"That the doors and furniture of the Ottawa Bilingual schools would be used as fuel this winter on account of the anticipated refusal of the Ontario School Commission to supply coal is the statement made to-day by Chairman Genest, of the Separate School Board.

"The little commission is simply trying to do all it can to exasperate French-Canadians," stated Mr Genest, "and I am afraid that they are succeeding to such an extent that serious trouble will occur one of these days.

"There is one thing sure, that if the commission does not supply coal to the bilingual schools in preparation for the coming winter we shall have to use the doors and the other furniture to heat the classrooms. The hangman of the Board of Education, for that is what the school commission is, has failed to keep faith with us."

Mr Genest stated that there are about five hundred children who are unable to attend school owing to lack of accommodation. Arrangements are being made whereby parochial classes will be established in the parishes in the basements of churches, halls, etc."

This man Genest must be an idiot or lunatic. The threat to utilize the doors of a schoolhouse for fuel, to keep the children warm on a Canadian winter day, is a novel one, worthy only of an idiot or lunaticc.

WINDSOR, Ont. The physician at once notified the prosecuting attorney's office and the coroner, and it is expected an autopsy will be ordered.

According to the statement of the physician, Miss Chesterfield had come to his office Saturday evening saying she was suffering from the effects of an operation she had attempted to Sunday for treatment and she did so, and died a few minutes after the chloroform had been administered.

GREEK PREMIER STEPS DOWN GEN. REMOBILIZATION OF ARMY

LONDON, Aug. 31—Special—Premier Zaimis, neutralist head of King Constantine's Ministry, has announced his decision to resign, according to a despatch from Athens to the Daily Telegraph. The intervention of Roumania in the war and the grave consequences of that intervention to Greece, are attributed as the reasons for his decision by the Athens newspaper, Nea Hellas, which the Telegraph's correspondent quotes.

This report comes on the heels of a Reuter despatch from Athens which asserts that general remobilization is under consideration. The mobilization of the Greek armies at this time could have only one meaning—intervention by Greece on the side of the Entente. Rumors of a Ministerial shake-up also are reported by the Reuter agency, which hints that former Premier Venivelos, the pro-Entente leader, probably will be included in the reorganized cabinet.

Following the shake-up by which Gen. Moschopaulos, commander at Saloniki, and a friend of the Entente, became chief of staff of the Greek army, a Central News despatch from Athens announces that the entire general staff has resigned.

The King has named a date to receive the deputation of Venizelos' adherents.

Close Call For Tourists

The Auto Plunged Over A Bridge The Occupants Saved

SMITH'S FALLS, Aug. 30.—Five persons had a terrible experience and miraculous escape when they went over the Bay Bridge, on the sand road a mile from town, travelling at the rate of 45 miles an hour. The car fell into five feet of water, but beyond a shaking up, a bad fright and a good soaking, none of the occupants were hurt. The car, a new Overland, was badly wrecked. W. J. Shields, a farmer living at Kilmarnock, who purchased the car about two weeks ago, was driver and with him were his two cousins, Misses Bertie and Corley Shields, Miss Phillips of Kilmarnock, and Wes. Wilson of Merrickville. Mr Shields approached the bridge on a curve at a high rate of speed and, instead of reducing his power, put his foot on the accelerator and the big car leaped like a live thing from the road and crashed through the railing into the water. Fortunately the top was up and the car fell on its side, which saved the driver and passengers from being killed or drowned. Mr Wilson was first out and succeeded in rescuing the others still in the car and under water.

The case of Algashova Julka, a Hungarian woman of Point Anne, charged with keeping liquor for sale, was yesterday tried before Police Magistrate Masson, and was not completed until a late hour last night. A large quantity of beer and whiskey was seized by the Inspector, having been found in a house at Point Anne conducted by the defendant. The accused in her evidence, swore that she was only an employee upon the premises, and did not know where the liquor came from, and also denied she sold same. The result of the investigation was that the woman was found guilty, and a fine of $300 and costs was imposed, which was paid. The liquor found upon the premises was confiscated. Mr. Carnew, County Attorney, appeared for Mr. Stokes, License Inspector for East Hastings, and Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., was present on behalf of the accused. MUSIC AND DRAMA

EXCELLENT ATTENDANCE AT GRIFFIN'S OPERA HOUSE

With the swiftness that news does fly, the report of Henry Gray's failure in business was soon conveyed to his house where his wife, Marcia Gray, was holding a dinner party, calling for a hurried leave of the guests, who as one of them declared, "We don't want to be mixed up in their affairs, lets excuse ourselves," left the wife of the embezzler, friendless and an outcast of society, humiliated by the acts of her husband, who was a coward in the face of the law. Henry Gray, the husband, whose part was ably acted by Henry De Vere, is taken to prison, his wife, Marcia, ably portrayed by Constance Collier, finds solace in the comforting presence of Orlando Castle (Forrest Stanley) her sweetheart of bygone days, whom she still loves. Henry Gray's bail is so high that none of his former friends will stand by him, even after an earnest appeal by his wife, who as a last resource sells her jewels for $5,000. She then goes to her husband in prison to tell him of her sales, who immediately declares, "Your a fool, they're worth ten times as much." Bail is finally obtained from Orlando Castle, who also purchases Marcia Gray's jewels, and restores them to her. As soon as Gray gets out on bail he buys two tickets for South America, information of which was given to Castle by his clerk who happened along at the time Gray came out of the steamship office. Castle hastens to Gray's residence, where the men come to an altercation through the jealousy aroused in Gray by the attention paid to his wife by Castle. Gray asks his wife to accompany him to South America, but she refuses, Gray going off alone. While waiting for the boat Gray is attacked by a maddened laborer who lost his savings in the Gray enterprise, and when morning comes both men are found drowned, which was perhaps the best thing that could have happened, Marcia Gray and Orlando Castle being thus free to pursue their old courtship, which culminates in the usual pleasing manner.

In addition to the above, a comedy, entitled "Mr. Jack's Artistic Sense," and the Pathe News Gazette, were also shown, both of which were well received by the large audience that was present. The programme deserves an equally large audience at its second production this evening.

ALBERT CHEVALIER APPEARS AT GRIFFIN'S TO-MORROW

The Middleman, Henry Arthur Jones, Albert Chevalier and Jane Gail, is a really great triumvirate of names, and each in itself has won distinction and fame "The Middleman," of course, is the name of a famous play, Henry Arthur Jones, that of a world renowned author, and Albert Chevalier and Jane Gail, an English actor and actress, known throughout the world. The play is one of the strongest ever written by Henry Arthur Jones, and was seen in this country for the first time during the earlier engagements of the late E. S. Willard, was always retained in his repertoire, and no play ever made a more lasting impression. Albert Chevalier is best known to American audiences as an impersonator of "Coster" characters. "The Middleman" will be a decided acquisition of film features now showing at Griffin's Opera House, and the date when this five-part screen play will be shown is to-morrow night and Saturday matinee and night. Besides the above offering a very amusing Lonesome Luke comedy, and Pathe's Gazette, which includes a review of all the latest and important English and European events, are also announced for exhibition.

(By Irl R. Hicks)

A regular storm period is central on the 4th, embracing the 2nd to the 7th. Disturbing causes and things to expect.

The Moon is at first quarter on the 4th, and greatest declination south on the 5th. The autumnal equinox of the Earth is drawing nearer to a crisis, the planet Mercury in conjunction. By the 2nd and 3rd, western extremes of the country will have change of winds to southerly, the temperature will begin to rise, the barometer will fall, and increasing cloudiness will show that falling weather is impending. These conditions will continue to grow in strength, spreading over wider regions north and south as they advance eastward. By the 3rd rains will begin in western parts, and on Monday the 4th, to Thursday the 7th, these rain areas will make their way across the country, winding up in the Atlantic coast regions on the 6th and 7th. This storm center, or area of low barometer, will be about midway the continent, or in the central Mississippi valley, on and touching the 4th and 5th. Remember, the large capital letters, used to denote the days of the week, are intended to show, in all the storm charts, the days on which storms are likely to be at their most active development. Careful observers will soon find that storms will as a rule reach their crisis on the days thus indicated. There are no special reasons to apprehend unusual disturbance at this first September period, but regular storm manifestations will make their transit eastwardly across the country, attended by more or less wind and rain, and followed by rise in atmospheric pressure and change to westerly winds and much cooler. Cool nights will visit most parts of the country, reaching far southward in the wake of this storm period—say about the 6th, 7th and 8th. This cool wave will begin behind the storms in the west about the 5th, and follow eastward and southward progressively on the 6th, 7th and 8th.

A Reactionary Storm Period is central on Saturday, Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th. The Moon is in perigee on the 9th, being at full Moon, or in opposition with Earth and Sun and on the celestial equator on the 11th. It must also be remembered that the 11th day of September, like the 11th of March, is the center of an annual crisis of magnetic unrest and violence. The electric and magnetic nerves of nature, as a rule, are on a strain of high tension for a period of five or six days, central on September 11th. There is no special danger attending these periods, except that they intensify all electrical and magnetic phenomena, thereby adding to the danger of equinoctial storms, and tending greatly to aggravate volcanic and earthquake unrest. Peculiar disturbances in telegraphy and in the atmosphere, such as free electricity, auroral manifestations and the like, are characteristic of these periods. A very low and fluctuating barometer, on and within two days before and after the 11th will betoken storms and other phenomena that will approximate danger. Regions bordering on the Gulf, and along the Atlantic coasts to the southward, should not suffer themselves to be of equatorial storms and tidal waves in those regions. These storms will travel inland, and counter storms out of the west and north will conspire to make it a time of turmoil and possible danger. Watch your barometer and other things that go before great elemental changes and storms. Such things never come on any live person without abundant and timely warning. There will be a drop in temperature after these storms, almost or quite to the frost line, throughout the northern and central regions of the country—say on and about Tuesday the 12th, to Thursday the 14th. This cool spell, like the storms, will not hit the whole country at the same time—it will ravel! It will be heard from in the northwest, days before it arrives in the southeast. Watch and see.

The storm diagram shows that the Mars equinoctial period begins to make itself felt about September the 10th, so that it must be considered among the astronomic causes at work, during the reactionary period, 9th to 12th. For over twenty-five years we have contended that, as Mars period begins, so will it continue, for the most part, to its close. By this we mean that the kind of weather, and any peculiarity of storms that may exist as we enter the Mars period, as a rule, will be characteristic of storms and weather throughout that period. The exact date of the beginning of the present Mars period may not be understood, but it is safe to calculate that we enter this period between the 10th and 20th of September. If rough autumnal storms and weather exist about the 9th to 12th, it will be safe to figure on an early fall. We calculate that such will be the case, and that many frosts, with paroxysms of early, autumnal storms and weather will prevail during the last half of September, and growing in intensity as we pass further into the autumn.

A Regular Storm Period is central on the 16th, extending from the 14th to the 19th. Disturbing causes and things to expect.

This period brings us to near the center of Earth's September equinox. The Mars influence will be increasing perceptibly, and the Moon will be at last quarter and greatest north declination on the 19th. Sporadic storms are liable at any time, under the stress of Mars and Earth perturbations, during the remainder of September; but the marked disturbances will fall within the periods. Great West Indian, or equinoctial storms and hurricanes may continue in their long, wide sweep from one period into another, but even they will reach their maximum force and distinctiveness within the limitation of the perodic storm cycles. We have specified Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, the 15th, 16th, 17th, and 18th, as the central days on which storms will come to their culminating violence. If we enter this period with weather becoming sultry and warm—as we will most likely find it—and the barometer is low, fluctuating and falling, especially in extreme southern sections, there will be danger of cyclonic movements from the Gulf regions, with tornadic off-shoots in many localities through interior parts of the country. The 16th, 17th and 18th will be days of greatest probable danger, all of which will be foreshadowed plainly by the barometer, and many other unmistakable indications on the face of creation. As soon as the Moon begins to move back from north declination on the 18th, rain in the north will turn rapidly into violent squalls of snow, driven southward by high, boreal gales, rising barometer and unseasonable revulsions to cold. The Earth is now at the center of its autumnal equinox, with the Mars disturbance united in the general terrestrial unrest, so that storms and threatening conditions will break over the limits of the storm period, causing a prolonged spell of storminess, mingled with rain and squalls of early snow and sleet northward.

A Reactionary Storm Period is central on the 21st, 22nd, and 23rd. The Moon is in apogee on the 21st, and on Friday the 22nd, the plane of the Earth's equator cuts the center of the Sun—that is, "the Sun crosses the line" and autumn is said to begin. Springtime will now begin to invade the regions south of the equator, while shortened hours of sunlight, and lengthening nights of growing chill will proclaim the thickening autumn, and the on-coming winter on our end of "this terrestrial ball." There are those who believe that if great equinoctial storms do not come on September the 21st and 22nd, they will not come at all, and there are those who know the fallacy of such belief, but try to hoodwink those who entertain it. The truth is, equinoctial storms are natural and certain results for several weeks before and after the date on which the Sun passes southward across the equator. There are times, of course, when great and fatal storms occur at the very center of the equinox, but they are just as liable any time within several weeks before or after that time. Watch your barometer, and all storms that may arise on the 21st, 22nd and 23rd, but do not neglect to do the same at all the September storm periods.

A Regular Storm Period is central on the 27th, covering the 25th to the 30th. Disturbing causes and things to expect.

The Mars period is now reaching a firmer grip, the Earth is at the culmination of its period, a Mercury period is in full force, being central on the 29th, with the Moon on the equator on the 26th, and in conjunction with Sun and Earth on the 27th. This promises to be one of the most pronounced storm periods of the month, or for the whole autumn. At the beginning of the period signs of weather changes and growing storm conditions, will be apparent throughout western and southern regions. Southerly winds, rising temperature, falling barometer and growing cloudiness will be forerunners of storms that are approaching. By the 24th, storms of wind, rain and thunder will ensue, and during Wednesday the 27th, Thursday the 28th, and Friday the 29th, storms will increase in extent and violence, as they pass eastwardly over the country toward the Atlantic seaboard. They will be preceded to the eastward by falling barometer, fair and warmer. On the west they will be closely followed by rising barometer, westerly gales, with early dashes of snow and sleet and change to very much cooler. There are good reasons to expect unseasonable cold over most parts of the west and north especially, during the closing days of September and the opening days of October. These conditions promise to be so general as to threaten killing frost even over central, eastern, and approximately into southern regions. Any part of the country in which a very low barometer and warm, muggy conditions prevail, during the first stages of this period, will be in danger of violent to tornadic storms; and the danger will be doubly imminent should an equatorial, cyclonic disturbance be moving up from the gulf regions. Don't let such results "strike you on the blind side."

DELIGHTED WITH TRIP TO MIDDLE-WEST CITY

Col. and Mrs. Lazier Found Much of Interest—Speak of Successful Belleville Boys

Colonel and Mrs. Lazier have returned home from a visit to Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Elliott at their summer residence on Lake Michigan near South Haven.

The Colonel is greatly delighted at the success of his nephews in Chicago, where they went about twenty years ago. Robert Elliott is the solicitor for the Great Edison Commonwealth Electric Co., and Dr. Arthur is one of the leading consulting physicians in the West, one of the most prominent members of the staff of St. Luke's Hospital and the head of the Post Graduate College for medical students.

The Colonel was also interested to find much work being done for the Red Cross and Patriotic Associations of the Allies, not only by the native born Canadians but by every class almost in the community except the hyphenated Americans.

WEDDING BELLS.

KINNEE—MURPHY

On Tuesday evening, August 29th, at 46 Bloomfield avenue, Toronto, the home of the bride's brother-in-law, Mr. Alex Fee, a quiet wedding was solemnized, when Bessie Jean, youngest daughter of Mrs. Harriet E. Murphy was united in marriage to Herbert Clarence Kinee, B.A., son of Mr. Wm. Kinnee, of Maple, Ont. The officiating minister was Rev. J. Wellington Arnott, B.A., of Sutton, West Ont., brother-in-law or the bride. The bride was given away by her mother and the wedding marches were played by the bride's sister, Mrs. Arnott. After a dainty repast, the bride changed her gown for a travelling suit of burgandy broad cloth and black velvet hat, and the young couple left for a short trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo. They will afterwards make their home in Vankluee Hill, Ont., where Mr. Kinnear has been appointed a member of the Collegiate staff.

The bride was formerly a resident of Belleville, also a native.

OR
THE MAN WHO DARED FATE

BY

NICHOLAS CARTER

Author of the celebrated stories of Nick Carter's adventures, which are published exclusively in the New Magnet Library, conceded to be the best detective tales ever written

CHAPTER XXV Continued

Todd replied somewhat curtly to Nora Selkirk's greeting. He appeared nerved to the utmost tension by his his work and excitement of that eventful day. Bestowing only one malevolent glance at the two detectives, he quickly drew the woman into the front room, followed by McNulty and Coyle, where he hurriedly questioned her concerning the arrest of Janet, the disclosures made by the later, and the method by which Nick and Patsy had been secured.

Their talk lasted nearly a quarter of an hour, and Todd's stony features had taken on a look of vicious satisfaction when Nora concluded.

"You've done well—finely!" he approvingly declared. "You've helped us save the day. We've got them dead t rights, McNulty."

"To rights Andy, but stone dead will be better," McNulty significantly replied.

"There's nothing else to it." Todd darkly assented. "Both must be done up for keeps, this very night, and tomorrow we will get after Fenno on new charges. He must be downed, even if it's done with the knife! I see my way clear—I see it, McNulty. Wait till I have had a word with that infernal hound who has caused us so much trouble."

He strode back to the dining room with the last remark, taking a chair near the table and gazing at the two detectives, both bound to chairs scarcely six feel from him. Back of him were grouped his several confederates, the woman among them, they appeared all intent on what should follow. In the presence of Andrew Todd obviously the master mind mong them they appeared almost insignificant, or like grim figures grouped in the somber background of a picture setting forth its evil genius.

"You've given me a hard game, Carter, the hardest game I ever played and won," he said with ominous deliberation, after glaring at Nick for several moments. "I'm glad it is nearly ended, that it has reached a stage when the result is assured and duplicity no longer necessary. I can now give it to you straight from the shoulder, you infernal, double-dealing meddler, for death shall prevent you making any use of what I say to you tonight."

"For me, Todd, that's a very cheerful prospect," Nick answered with caustic dryness, looking the malevolent knave squarley in the eyes "Bear one fact in mind, however: No game is won till the last trick is played."

"You have played your last trick on us," Todd retorted. "It was done at two o'clock to-day. What was that for Carter? Why did you arrest that girl, Janet Bolton?"

"Because she forms one link in the chain I am welding for you rascals" Nick bluntly rejoined. "Her arrest will be followed by your own."

"Bah!" Todd scornfully ejaculated "You talk like a fool a novice in your business."

"Is that so."

"Do you think you are fighting a gang of common criminals, men who have neither means, influence, nor experience? If you do, you mistake the game and the gang, you have been up against."

"No I guess not," said Nick with provoking complacency.

"Your part is played, Carter, and your finish is assured."

"You appear very confident of it."

"Confident! Why not?" Todd sneered. "When men get in our way we sweep them out of it, and you are no exception. You may fool us once, but once only. You escaped death in the Harlem River last night, but to-night we will make sure that the East River gets you and keeps you. Confident bah! What we must do is nothing to what we have done. Do you know of what that consists? I'll give you an idea of it, that you may see what a fool you have been, in undertaking to down men who fight for millions, and——"

"Faugh!" Todd scornfully snorted, Nulty pointedly cautioned, with a frown on his red face. There's never any knowing what he has up his sleeve."

"Faugh!" Tod scornfully snorted. "He shall not live to repeat what I am saying to him. If I disclose——"

"Oh, you needn't trouble yourself to disclose anything." Nick curtly interrupted. "I know all about your rascally game, from begining to end. I lack nothing essential to your conviction, and that of the knaves in league with you."

"Bah! That is the assertion of a charlatan or a boaster."

"Yet I am neither."

'You cannot possibly have learned "Think not?" enquired Nick in taunting fashion."

"You measure my ability and discernment by your own Todd, and blunder egregiously. Give me the floor for a few minutes, and then I'll tell you what your game was, how you played it, and precisely where you now stand. Take my word, too that will be the only safe move for you to make. If you let me live, I'll down you, one and all, as sure as there's milk in the cocoanut."

"We'll guard against that," Todd retorted. Don't hope to escape death by making statements designed to blind us to your true suspicions. That will cut no ice with us."

"Oh, you'll get it straight enough, as you'll plainly see."

"Well I'm listening,"

Nick had a reason to prolong this interview. He knew that back of the grim and quiet solitude of the eight men darkly regarding him there existed a vengeful hatred that might any moment break forth with volcanic violence, quickly resulting of their threat to take his life. Therefore, feeling sure that Chick must have tracked Tod to this house, Nick was aiming to give him time to size up the situation and prepare for such a move as might appear expedient.

Quick to see that Todd's interest was stirred, probably because he hoped to learn just how and by whom he might be threatened, Nick at once began his diclosures, that he fully realized that , in plainly showing his hand, in order to hold their interest and prolong the interview, he would only augment the vengeful hatred of hearers.

"Your game, Todd," he said sternly, began with a plot to remove Perepposition to your United Transit scheme by so involving him in the circumstances surrounding the murder of Judge Packard that he should be arrested and convicted for the crime. Your design was, moreover, to kill two birds with one stone, as I will now show you."

"I'm listening," Todd grimly repeated with his intense gaze rivited on the detective's stern face.

"The real facts are these" Nick proceeded upon his own deductions and the points Patsy had secretely communicated as imparted to him by Cullen: "To begin with, Nora Selkirk, while vainly trying to force the payment of the legacy held in her trust by Judge Packard, discovered that he was financially ruined, an embezzeler of several of the estates of which he was trustee. You learned of this and took advantage of it to offer him a bribe for the decision he subsevquently rendered in favor of your company How you learned of Packard's ruin is not material."

"Oh, I'll suply that, since you know so much," Tod indifferently sneered. "Pat Selkirk was hard up as well as his wife, and holding a big block of our stock, and knowing what a favorable decision would have on the price of it, he told me how Packard was fixed, and—well, I saw the rest."

"That helps, but was not essential," Nick pointedly said. "I could have got along nicely without it. To continue you bribed Packard, and he agreed to accept half a million dollars for the decision. Certain records and documents then in his possession, had to be destroyed in some crafty way, and be invented an excuse for placing them in the hands of Allen, an assistant of the district attorney, the last man who would be suspected of any complicity in your affairs. He was waylaid and robbed of them the same night by Dan Cullen, acting under your instructions, while Allen was abducted by two of your gang in a hack and is now confined in the building back of this house."

"Go on," said Todd, with ominous quietude. I am still listening.

To be continued.

THIS IS THE 757TH DAY THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAS BEEN AT WAR WITH GERMANY.

ONTARIO GERMANS RESENT THE CHANGE OF NAME.

A telegram from Berlin, Ontario, of the 29th August says:

> The Ontario Government has alienated the German vote of the Province, according to this week's issue of the Berliner Journal, as the result of issuing the Order-in-Council to change the name of this city from Berlin to Kitchener, following closely upon the enactment of the Ontario temperance act, which comes into force on September 16th. The Journal severely criticizes the Cabinet for being influenced by a "handful of agitators" in abolishing beer and wiping Berlin from the map. The paper predicts that there will be a reckoning day coming for the Government, when the German vote of the Province will show its disapproval of its recent legislation. The Journal urges it readers to endure the name Kitchener for a period of four months, after which steps will be taken to have it changed back to Berlin.

This threatened revenge of the Berlin Germans will without doubt be utilized by the Liberal leaders to secure the defeat of the Hearst candidates in Waterloo at the next election, though the Government only obeyed the demand of the electors expressed by their votes at the polls.

Such action on the part of the Germans of Berlin will without doubt he seized by the Liberal press of Ontario to enter into a union of Germans and Liberals in the Waterloo Riding to secure a victory whenever they have the opportunity.

Such a combination would be no more unnatural than the union of Liberal prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists, as was the case in North Perth and South-west Toronto to secure Liberal victories. Attain power, no matter how, is the Liberal motto.

A LIBERAL EDITOR DISSENTS

The Forest Free Press, one of the leading Liberal papers in Ontario, published and edited by a Liberal member of the Ohtario Legislature, adds its voice to the growing discontent in the rank and file of the party at the character of the policy of its leaders. In a recent issue it publishes a scathing editorial arraignment of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's attitude since the beginning of the war. It declares that the Liberal leader has departed altogether from Liberal principles. The "stalwart, 'clear Grit' Liberalism of Brown and Blake and Mackenzie is to-day only a memory," says the Free Press. Sir Wilfrid's railway gambles, resulting in the country being loaded with transportation problems, are referred to as "a transportation system that has encumbered us with transcontinental lines that will be a burden upon the taxpayer for the next 40 or 50 years." The Free Press concludes with the declaration that "the lamentable fact is that Liberalism has slept while the autocrats have mismanaged the affairs of the country for their own pecuniary gain." Liberal leaders in Parliament and the Liberal Press, it declares, cannot escape responsibility for these conditions, and it cautions them that—

> Something more useful to the people, and something more dignified than continual criticism of the war policy of the Government (which at times is even unpatriotic) must be done if Liberalism is ever again to command the respect of the people as it did in the years gone by."

"This searching analysis and arraignment comes from one who is a student of politics, and it doubtless voices the sentiments of independent Liberals everywhere. For there never was a time in the chequered history of Canadian Liberalism when the rank and file of the party were so woefully misrepresented by their so-called leaders as they are to-day. Throughout this war the rank and file of Liberals everywhere have displayed loyalty to the country and a striking readiness to bury the political hatchet in the shadow of common national peril. The leaders, however, miserably failed to measure up to the standard of patriotism that the country had a right to expect of them.

History will correctly place this charge upon the shoulders of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. When the war clouds loomed darkly upon the horizon and Europe prepared feverishly for the shock of battle, Sir Wilfrid not only scoffed at the German menace, but as a deliberate gamble in partisan politics ordered his creatures in the Senate to kill the Borden Naval Aid Bill providing three Dreadnoughts for the Imperial Navy—Dreadnoughts which the Imperial Government approved, and which were vital for the Empire's defence. The fact is that the historian will not fail to record the time Sir Wilfrid actually extolled the Kaiser as a "moral force," and a power for good to all mankind.

MANUAL TRAINING IN SCHOOLS.

Instructors in manual training have been sent to various parts of Manitoba to hold two weeks' sessions in farm carpentry work. They teach the boys to use correctly ordinary carpenters' tools and to build such things as chicken coops, beehives, etc. The teaching should be appreciated, for it is likely to help the youngsters to become practical and more useful as farmers.

The London Times publishes a letter which Lord Tennyson received from an English staff officer in France. "The Canadians have done wonderfully well, and we are proud to be fighting with them. The way they fought to get back their lost trenches was a lesson to everyone, and we all shall never forget it. They are a most hospitable, self-denying lot, and will share their last crust of bread and drop of water with any one of us if they think we need it. I have the greatest admiration of them after the recent fighting."

Montreal Gazette: The report of the directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company mentions that the profits resulting from the manufacture in the company's shops of munitions of war, a work undertaken at the request of the Government, have not been included in the operating revenue, but have been applied as contributions to patriotic and relief funds and other expenditures directly due to the war and not properly chargeable to working expenses. Corporations lack souls, but at times they have public spirit, patriotism, and disregard of opportunities for making dollars for themselves.

Current Comment

Canada needs your savings to pay the war bill. Have them ready to invest in the war loan next month.

The Canadian Liberal Monthly still persists in acclaiming Sir Wilfrid Laurier a great recruiter. It actually declares he has already "stumped Quebec." No wonder the Ottawa Free Press calls for an immediate reorganization of the party organ.

How these poor Grit editors do get things twisted. Here was the Toronto Star wondering if the people of England would even let Sam Hughes land at all, and next day the cables declare he is acclaimed in London as the "Canadian Kitchener."

We await with impatience the explanation which the Liberal press will offer when the fact becomes known that Bourassa and Lavergne will support Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Liberal party next election.

Calgary has gone back to the one-time system. Other cities in Canada which have found "daylight saving" to be a delusion and a snare include Nelson, Hamilton, London and Brantford. The scheme is excellent in theory but works out badly in practise.—Nelson (B.C.) News.

Toronto had a dust storm the other day that, according to the Toronto News, "half blinded and half choked" the people and "caked them with dust." If this had happened in Camp Borden the d——d Tory Government would of course have been held responsible. But, being as it was in Toronto, it was merely a dispensation of Providence.—Kingston Standard.

The Poets' Corner

TOMMY, YOU AND I.
(After Kipling.)

When you've finished making bandages, and through with knitting sox,
When you've done your bit for China and Japan;
Will you kindly drop a dollar in my missionary box,
For another, who's a "brother and a man."
He ain't no "bally Heathen," and he ain't no "Plaster Saint,"
But he likes his pipe, the same as you and I;
Perhaps it's wrong to want it, and then perhaps it ain't,
That's a matter we can settle bye-and-bye.'

Tommy is not at a picnic, and he is not at a dance,
But where'er he is he likes his little joke;
And the other day he wrote me from a place "somewhere in France"
That "the only thing he wanted was a smoke."
"And he said the shots were humming just like a swarm of bees,
And the shrapnel shells were singing overhead;
And the gasses they were floating along upon the breeze,
And the stench was just delightful," so he said.

"For it reached right up to Heaven; he could cut it with a knife;
That's the time," he says, "that eating was a joke,'
But the ONE fly in the ointment of his 'sweet, pastoral life'
Was, he'd like to have the makings of a smoke."
So I put it to you plainly, just as a pal to pal,
And I'm going to give it to you good and strong;
Tommy sends—TO YOU—a message out of that infernal hell,
Are you going to keep him waiting very long?

BILLION DOLLAR CROP EXPECTED

After a thorough canvas of various points throughout Western Canada Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie Provinces would be little if any behind that of last year.

"The country as a whole never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the Lines of the C. N. R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and Lunch Counter being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

ALGONQUIN PARK.

The Algonquin Provincial Park of Ontario is a region of expansive lakes abounding with the sportiest of fish, of hurrying streams, primeval forests of pine, spruce and fir, where almost every species of Canadian fauna roams in freedom; cool sward and wild upland bush, swept by pine-scented winds; ideal camping spots and sylvan retreats—everything, in fact, that is dear to the heart of the lover of outdoor life. Situated in the Highlands of Ontario 2,000 feet above the level of the sea, 205 miles north of Toronto, 285 miles west of Montreal and 170 miles west of Ottawa, this unspoiled tract of 1,754,473 acres will forever remain a playground heritage for the people of Canada and the United States. In this immense reserve every possible taste has been cared for. For those who want to enjoy the pleasures of the pathless woods, and yet secure all the comforts of good service and social companionship, there are first-class hotels. For those who care little for life in hotels, yet cannot adopt altogether the idea of the "simple life" under canvas, there are log-cabin camps, which can be used as headquarters while exploring the park. At these camps there is a large central lodge or meeting-place, and in close proximity to it there are a series of individual log cabins comfortably furnished, and with modern conveniences, including bathrooms with hot and cold water. The large lodge is used for a general rendezvous and the log cabins furnish privacy for families or parties. The log cabin camps will close this year on September 15th, but the Highland Inn will remain open until September 30th. September is the ideal month of the year in this charming territory. A WORTH WHILE HOLIDAY

(1) View Near Lake Louise.
(2) An Interesting Bit of Rock-Work.
(3) Panoramic View of Lake Louise and its Chateaus.
(4) Lake Oeasa and Mt. Hungabee.

"ALL aboard!" and we disengaged our hands to swing on to the moving steps and waved hats and handkerchiefs to our friends as our west-bound train slowly pulled out of the station at Calgary, that wide-awake, progressive, western city, which pulsates with the life of representatives from almost all nations of the globe.

We were a happy party of holidayers with two glorious care-free months ahead of us, which we had decided to spend at the most interesting points along that section of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which lies between Calgary and Victoria.

As the train sped along following the river-valley of the Bow, one could see the undulating prairie well occupied with prosperous ranchers until the town of Cochrane was reached, which is the beginning of the real foot-hills and pressed on to the eastern gateway of the Rockies—Banff.

Even since the Canadian Pacific Railway rails were laid in the early eighties, Banff has been the rendezvous for people from almost every corner of the civilized globe. Here a tourist may meet an Australian politician, an English lord, an American magnate or a Prussian Prince. The National Park, of which Banff is the hub, is the largest in the world and no part of the Canadian Rockies exhibits a greater variety of wonderful and sublime scenery and, because of the many good roads and bridle paths, nowhere are features of special interest so accessible. The magnificent Banff Springs Hotel belonging to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is situated about a mile south of the Station on an eminence between the Spray river and the beautiful Bow river falls. This hotel has every luxury and convenience and is most favorably placed for health, picturesque views and as a centre for the many sports indulged in—canoeing, boating, mountain-climbing, driving, riding, and golfing. Some of the most courageous of our party started from the town one night at midnight, and by "The light of the Silvery Moon" climbed to the observatory at the top of Sulphur mountain, a height of 8,030 feet. From here they saw the sun peep out from behind the innumerable dark peaks to the East and touch summit after summit with gold and leave for a time the valleys "bathed in gloom." Far below, Lake Minnewanka could be seen for a short time dark and cold, then suddenly shining like silver; and the morning express like a tiny serpent crept slowly into the station.

For the lover of nature in her primaeval fastnesses and for the mountaineer, the Canadian Rockies, Selkirk and Cascade ranges are realms of untold delight in which may take place most wonderful and unique experiences. To climb the last ledge and come out upon the very peak of things ten thousand feet in the air; to see a wilderness of snow-clad peaks around you; myriads of lakes ranging in color from the deepest blue to palest green beneath you; to scramble down rocks again; to glissade down glaciers; to be cheered into camp as the first party returning; and, last, to be welcomed as an active member of the Canadian Alpine Club is surely an experience worth having!

Upon reaching the Lake Louise Chateau, a distance of two and a half miles from the C.P.R. station, one almost thinks that some good fairy has transported him to fairyland. Through the windows can be seen as in a framed picture, an immense crescent-shaped river of ice, called Victoria Glacier, in front of which is the shining blue water of Lake Louise and, immediately in the foreground, the beautiful grounds of the Chateau. From here there is a bridle-path to Mirror Lake and a still further ascent to Lake Agnes. Both these lakes are above the clouds, nestlin in the mountains like children in their mothers' arms. Between Lake Louise and Field, one sees a wonderful bit of mountain engineering. The track forms the figure eight in a tunnel and reduces the grade from 4.5 to 2.2, with an approximate cost of work of $1,500,000.

There were innumerable interesting spots as we went along, but we could not tarry at all of them. At Yale we had the privilege of seeing Ned Stroudt, the only one living of the first twenty white men other than Hudson's Bay factors, who crossed the mountains fifty-five years ago—the rest having been killed shortly afterwards by Indians.

For many miles after passing the great divide, the Canadian Pacific Railway follows the river valley of the Columbia, which at first reminds one of the small rollicking boy happy with his hoop, as he dashes down the village street; then of the stalwart man whose strength conquers all difficulties, and as the river widens and flows along in all its majesty, of the stately, old man, satisfied that he has worked out life's problems well. This river and its immediate environment abound in scenic splendor. The snow-crowned eminences of the Rockies and Cascade ranges with their rivulets and glaciers, lakes as clear as crystal and swift-flowing mountain streams abounding in gamey trout and other fish, the dense forests and fastnesses wherein roam the larger game, all fascinates and invites the sportsman and mountain lover and are within easy reach of a metropolitan city. Along its banks can be seen magnificent cataracts; cliffs, which tower from dizzy heights and are clad with verdure from base to summit; deep and shady canyons and gorges. Here it is smooth and unruffled with no perceptible motion. A little further along and it is still waging conflict to the barriers to its uninterrupted flow. It rushes to the partly submerged rocks to be dashed away in foam. It is ceaseless in its attack, unrelenting in its endeavors and irresistible to the last.

Seventy miles east from Vancouver, on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and picturesquely situated at the foot of the beautiful Harrison Lake, a delightful drive of four or five miles from the station of Agassiz, are the famous Harrison Hot Springs. Since the "early days" of British Columbia, this resort has been the mecca for both health and pleasure seekers—the efficacy of the waters proving a boon to many who are troubled with rheumatism. There are many beautiful walks overhung with giant cedar and fir trees and bordered with ferns and flowers; mountains whose rugged paths invite the amateur mountain climber, good fishing and hunting in season, and boating unsurpassed anywhere. Death of John King

An Old Belleville Boy — Succumbed to Brief Illness at Toronto

Mr. John King, K. C., one of Toronto's most able members of the legal fraternity, died on the 30th of August at his residence, 23[illegible] Avenue Road, Toronto, following an illness with which he was stricken late on Monday night. At eleven o'clock Monday morning he was making plans to take his two grandchildren for an outing on Tuesday afternoon. At night he was taken ill with acute gastritis. Just a week ago Mr. King returned from Ottawa, where he had been on a visit to his son, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and had a most enjoyable trip.

The deceased was born in Toronto on September 15, 1843, and in two weeks would have celebrated his 73rd birthday. He was educated in Belleville Grammar School, under the tuition of the late Alexander Burden and Toronto Uniersity securing the degree of B. A. in 1864 and M. A. a year later. He was called to the Bar in 1869.

Reported Suicide Of a Deserter

Private Mains of The 155th Batt. Said to Have Cut Throat— Affair Under Investigation

We are informed that a man named Mains, who was a private in the 155th Battalion and who some time ago deserted had committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. The affair is said to have taken place at Main's home near Actinolite in the Township of Elzivir and that the unfortunate man died soon after committing the act.

The Intelligencer hearing of the unfortunate case interviewed a member of the recruiting staff of the 155th Battalion who is in the city and stated he heard that Mains had killed himself some weeks ago. Mains with a comrade named Green, who also resides in Elzivir Township deserted from Barriefield. Green was a few days apprehended and taken back to camp. Although an effort was made to locate Mains he could not be found and today the news of his death was ascertained from friends residing in the city.

Use of Pious Language.

The almost total abstinence from using "pious" language in ordinary business and social intercourse in America may be considered commendable in some ways, but I consider it a surrender of the soul to the body, a subordination of the spirit of the things which are eternal to the spirit of the things which are temporal. In my judgment the superior culture of the west, instead of limiting the vocabulary of religion to the one hour of formal worship on Sunday and scrupulously shunning it during the remainder of the week, should make its use on a much higher plane than the orient has yet discovered, coextensive with all the activities of life.—Abraham Mitrie Rihbany in Atlantic Monthly.

Our Button [illegible]

For the year ended March last buttons imported into Canada were valued at $597,645, or about $31,000 more than for the previous fiscal year. In 1913-14 the imports reached a value of about $880,000 each year, of which the larger proportion came from the United States. Before the war the Central Empires of Europe supplied to Canada buttons to the value of about $150,000 annually, and this trade during 1914-16 has apparently been divided between Japan and the United States. From the latter country the increase of the 1915-16 imports over those of the previous year was $102,000, or over 30 per cent., and the button trade with Japan increased 32 per cent. The whole of the United States export trade in buttons increased during last year by 79 per cent. Further expansion is expected because of the demand for the buttons of the United States from foreign countries, and efforts are being put forward to get the trade. A report from Washington to The Boston Transcript says the United States produces enough buttons to supply nine-tenths of her own requirements and more than half the supply of Canada. In the same despatch it says that all the world except the United States and Canada buys buttons from the central European countries, Japan and the United Kingdom. This is apparently an error. Canada hitherto has bought largely from Europe as well as the United States, as already indicated. In 1913 58 per cent. of our imports came from the United States, and today about 80 per cent. It is quite evident, however, that Canadian factories have before them a considerable home market to conquer.—Toronto Globe.

Escaped From Germany.

Privates Lovell and V. Adick of the 3rd Battalion, Toronto, arrived in London after an exciting escape from a German prison, says a despatch to The Toronto Telegram from its special correspondent in London. They were captured on the 24th of April, 1915, at Langemarck, and taken, with other Canadians, into Germany. At first the treatment was harsh, but later it grew better, and there were not many complaints.

These Toronto men had been working some time to escape. At the farm where they worked they were paid 30 pfennings daily, equal to about six and a half cents in Canadian money. Eventually they were able to make a dash by night across the frontier, slipping past the sentries.

They were treated with the greatest kindness and sympathy by the Dutch people. The British Consul sent them at once to England.

Local Barbers Defeat Policemen

Tonsorial Artists Accused of Hiring Ringers, But are Outclassed Just The Same

The barbers baseball team of this city yesterday afternoon trimmed the Police team to their liking, in the presence of a large number of interested spectators. The game took place at the Agricultural Park, and the proceeds of the small price of admission charged all went to the Red Cross Society. The ladies who had charge of this part of the afternoon's fun were gratified with results. Owing to the fact that the Clothiers and the Shoe Clerks were to play a return game, it was understood that the barbers and Police game would be called at 4 o'clock. When that hour arrived the score was 10 to 5 in favor of the face scrapers. It was a great game in many respects and the barbers claim that they have a kick coming despite the fact that they were victorious. They claim, whether rightly or wrongly, that the police imported two ringers to assist them, one of whom was the pitcher, whom it is alleged, is in the professional rank or was some years ago. Mr. Lafferty certainly pitched ball, and it was no fault of his that the police did not win. Bennett, who pitched for the barbers is also some twirler. All members of both teams played good ball, but it was apparent to an unbiased onlooker that the police were weak at the bat, although they are accustomed to wielding a baton. Naturally the barbers are elated over their victory, and they have reason to be so. In the first innings the police scored 4 runs, and in the four succeeding innings they were only able to force 1 more player over the home plate. The fourth innings of the barbers settled matters, when they secured 7 runs. Mr. H. Cohen, of Montreal, a traveller, umpired the game, and he certainly was the right man in the right place. The line up of the teams were as follows:—

Score by innings:—

CLOTHIERS vs. SHOEMEN

Yesterday afternoon a return baseball match was played, teams representing the Clothiers and Shoe Clerks of the city, resulting in a win for the Clothiers. Many spectators witnessed the game, and much interest was manifested. In the first innings the Shoe Clerks had a decided lead scoring 7 runs by a good batting streak; but in the second innings the Clothiers not to be outdone, also scored 7 runs. It was intended to play 7 innings, but when both teams had had their innings the score was a tie namely 18 each. Both teams agreed to play off and the Shoemen went to bat, and scored a run. The Clothiers then went to bat and scored two runs with two men out. They thus won the game. There were some good plays made by members of both teams. Mr. C. Bawden as umpire, was all right, his decisions being most impartial

The line up of the teams were as follows:—

Shoe Clerks.—Walton, c.f.; Shane, 3rd b.; Fredenberg, s.s.; Pimlott, p.; Canning, 2nd b.; Reid, c.; Snell, l.f.; Barrett 1st b.; Bowie, r.f.

Clothiers.—O'Neil, c.; O'Brien, l.f.; Sprague, 2nd b.; Patterson, s.s.; Fahey, 1st b.; Stacey, r.f.; Lee, c.f.; Wafe, p.; Sills, 3rd b.

WITH THE BIG LEAGUERS

Winning his twenty-fifth game of the season Monday, Alexander held Cubs to five hits and two runs, while Phillies pounded Hendrix.

Walter Johnson let Cleveland Indians down with three hits Monday, and blanked them. Boehling was hit in timely fashion by Senators.

Benz of the White Sox, shut out Athletics with three hits Monday, though White Sox got only five hits off Myers, and tallied but a single run. Singles by Weaver, Benz and Eddie Collins turned in he run.

All the leading clubs in the International League won Tuesday—some more than others. Buffalo and Toronto, for instance, got only one game apiece, while Providence and Montreal added two victories to their credit.

Newark had a three-run lead at Buffalo in the fourth and held on until the seventh, when the Bisons scored 4 runs off Healy, and won the game by 6 to 3. Gaw pitched for the winners.

Providence's double victory was over Rochester, 2 to 0 and 12 to 6. In the first game Schultz held the Hustlers to one hit, while in the second, though both teams had the same number of hits, the Greys got twice as many runs. Tincup and Ricco pitched for the winners.

The Royals beat Baltimore by 4 to 3 and 17 to 8. The Royals won the first game through Cadore's good pitching, although errors behind him hearly cost him the game. The second game was a farce, Crowell and Morrissette being pounded all over the lot, the Royals scoring ten runs in the third inning. Twelve errors also featured the contest, seven by Baltimore and five by Montreal.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

Buffalo gained on Providence yesterday when they defeated Newark by a score of 3 to 1, getting thirteen hits off Wilkinson, while the Indians only secured seven off Bader.

Providence and Rochester broke even in a double bill. In the first game the Grays won by a score of 4 to 1 Baumgartner having a slight advantage over Way in the pitching line, while Rochester made three costly errors. In the second game Davis, the latest Providence recruit secured from the Boston Braves, was easy, and the Hustlers won by a score of 9 to 5.

Baltimore banged out an 11 to 2 victory in the first game at Montreal, but lost the second by a score of 11 to 7. During the two sessions forty hit were made and seventeen errors, the Royals making six hits in the first game.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Grover Alexander, star pitcher for the Philadelphia National League team, is $1,000 better off to-day for having won his game against the Cubs here yesterday. It was the 25th victory for Alexander this season, which gave him the bonus of one thousand dollars offered by the Philadelphia club should be score 25 wins during 1916.

Roger Hornsby injured his leg trying to score on an attempted squeeze play in the sixth inning Monday and was carried from the field. St. Louis won the game from Brooklyn as a result of Meadows' brilliant pitching.

Giants ran right to form Monday. They couldn't do much with Toney's offerings, and Reds beat them 5 to 2. Kanuff had two singles and a stolen base.

Braves split a double-header with Pirates Monday. Mammaux beat Stallings' crew, but they pumped Carpenter and Kantlehner in the second game.

THE RING

OLD CHARLEY MITCHELL TO BRING JIMMY WILDE OVER

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Charley Mitchell, the English heavyweight pugilist, who fought John L. Sullivan more than a quarter of a century ago, arrived here from London yesterday. He said that he was prepared to bring the British champion flyweight, Jimmy Wilde, to this country ror a match with an American bantamweight up to 112 pounds. If Johnny Ertle, of St. Paul will make 114 pounds ringside, he said, Wilde would meet him.

LITTLE BOB MOHA GIVES BIG JOE COX A WHIPPING

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Bob Moha battered Joe Cox around at will last night in their ten round bout at the Manhattan Athletic Club. Moha weighed 41 pounds less than his opponent, but this made no noticeable difference—except to make Moha's victory that much more telling. It was one more vision dissipated, for Cox failed to live up to what everyone has heard about—his prowess in stopping Jess Willard once upon a time in a few rounds or so.

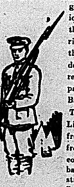
MILITARY MATTERS AT BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS

TAKE PLEASING DRILL

155Th Battalion Go Through Manoeuvres to One-Step Music—Band Plays "Sailors Hornpipe.

It is certainly a pleasing sight to see a battalion of probably 900 men keeping perfect time to a band and going through various evolutions. All the units at Barriefield are doing this work, as was done when a press representative was passing the 155th Battalion lines on Tuesday morning. Lieut. Allen was in front giving orders from an advantageous place. The band suddenly struck up "The Sailors' Horn Pipe" and that music, which would make any person dance, instilled into the boys the necessary rhythm to do what looked like difficult work. The battalion doing "one step" time ran around a circle with every man's foot hitting the ground at the same time. In coming into another formation there was not a break and nothing could have looked better.



This training is proving a splendid idea, as it makes perfect time and also puts a novelty into the work which makes it better and more interesting to the soldiers.

HELD NIGHT ALARM

Performance and Conduct of Men Very Creditable—Active Service Conditions Prevailed.

A very successful and instructive night alarm took place one evening this week, which proved most beneficial to those who participated

At 9.42 o'clock the assembly was blown by the buglers, and the call was taken up in all parts of the large camp. Within a very short time every soldier was on the parade ground ready to take part in the manoeuvres. The time between the alarm and the parade of the men was very short, and everything was carried out in an expeditious manner.

The 155th Battalion was marched as far as the trenches on the heights of Barriefield. The duties of all had been explained, and the men took delight in the novelty of their task. These night manoeuvres, although sometimes they are rather long, are enjoyed, and are essential in the training of men for work at the front.

The trenches were manned and conditions as nearly similar as possible to those at the front were maintained. Outposts and piquets were placed, and men were put in the listening posts. The reconnoitering parties were out, and special use was made of the telephone communication in the trenches. The men realized that they were supposed to be on active service and on the lookout for an enemy, and everyone was zealous in the performance of duties.

At midnight another company took the place of those in the trenches, and the relieved men were allowed to go behind. The new company retained the positions until reveille was sounded—that is, they stayed at the posts all night.

During the night Brig.-Gen. T. D. R. Hemming and Col. G. Hunter Ogilvie inspected the lines, and they were very pleased at the excellence of the manoeuvres. Lieut-Col. W. J. Browne, G.S.O., was in charge of the night's performance, and the success of the alarm is due to his painstaking care and thought in the arrangement of the many details.

NOTES

The 155th Battalion gave another big concert last evening.

The big steam roller from the city is at Barriefield and is being used on the camp roads.

Captain Dodds, chaplain of the 155th Battalion, will preach at Sonya on Sunday next. He has been given leave of absence from Friday until Thursday of next week.

Captain S. Harper, medical officer of the 155th Battalion, is detailed as a member of the ration board to report to the field officer of the day at the C.A.S.C., Supply Depot, at 5.45 a.m., to-morrow the 30th inst. This officer will also visit the garrison detention camp at 8 a.m., for the purpose of attending to the prisoners reporting sick.
